So far as known, regular readers of THE CHRISTIAN SUN take interest in the Church, all Church enterprises, and have a real interest in what is being done. They all contribute to the financial support of the local Church and the work it is doing beyond its own local life. The absence of THE SUN in a Christian home spells neglect of Church knowledge and Church support. Church membership implies contact with the whole Convention, and this cannot be maintained except through the Church paper.

No one thing would make the pastor's work easier and better than to put THE CHRISTIAN SUN in every home in his congregation. They attend better, pay better, take more interest in all the work of the Church if they read THE SUN. Indifference in this subject is not all the fault of lay members. They have not thought seriously of the subject, and pastors and leaders have not presented the matter personally to the membership of the Church. If every family in the Southern Christian Convention took THE CHRISTIAN SUN and read it, all departments would be supported more liberally and the people would feel better, do better, and would be more prosperous.

So much is said in these days about the "every-member canvass" as a means of securing more liberal financial support for the Church that it might be wise to suggest the "every-family canvass" for subscriptions to THE CHRISTIAN SUN. THE SUN needs the money; but the people need THE SUN just as bad as it needs the money. It is a serious matter on both sides. THE SUN cannot live without the Church, and the Church cannot live without THE SUN. Put THE SUN in every family of the Convention, with paid-up subscription, and THE SUN would prosper and increase its usefulness for the kingdom of God.

I was speaking to our Missionary Society on this subject, and a lady recited this incident. A man subscribed for THE SUN, became interested in giving to the extent of giving all the eggs the hens laid on Sunday; at the end of the year the sum was so large that he discontinued the paper—more than he wanted to give.

W. W. STALEY.

PROBLEMS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS.

Present problems confronting the religious press were the subject of a two-day conference in Washington, D. C., June 22-23. Nearly fifty representatives of leading Church publications were in attendance. The gathering was arranged by the Federal Council of the Churches, through the Editorial Council of the Religious Press, of which Rev. Paul S. Leinbach, editor of the Reformed Church Messenger, is chairman.

The purpose of the conference was, first, to afford an opportunity for the editors and managers to learn from one another's experience; and, second, to help arouse the Churches to a sense of responsibility for a larger support of the Church press. There was a unanimous feeling among those present that such important contributions were made to both ends that the conference should be made an annual affair.

In addition to editors, several Church leaders were present, including Rev. W. S. Abernethy, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Washington, D. C.; Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the Federal Council; and Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. All emphasized the incalculable value of the religious press to the Church. Dr. Abernethy called the Church paper "an indispensable assistant pastor." Dr. Cadman pointed out the immense contribution the religious press can make to Christian co-operation and unity. Bishop Cannon declared it to be as much of a vital necessity for the Church to give adequate financial support to its weekly publications as to its Sunday School literature.

One of the most interesting suggestions of a practical character was made by Don C. Seitz, formerly managing editor of the New York World, who told the editors that their papers could become an attractive advertising medium for great firms such as now use the Saturday Evening Post if they would combine in a united approach to the advertisers. He called attention to the fact that 125 religious publications have a total circulation of over 2,000,000. "The religious press," he said, "is a giant not yet conscious of its power."

A RARE PRIVILEGE.

By R. C. HELFENSTEIN.

The Pastors' Study Conference, held each summer by the Union Theological Seminary, New York City, offers a rare privilege to ministers, professors and secretaries of all denominations. For ten days each summer the workers from all denominations and from many States of the Union gather here to study the great questions that challenge the Christian thought of our day and generation.

It is a great pity that more of the ministers of the Christian Church do not take advantage of this rare privilege to sit at the feet of the masters in the fields of thought. The men of our denomination who spend most of their time in giving out information and inspiration to our people ought to come to such places as this in order to drink from deeper springs.

Pastors of the most prominent Churches of the various denominations, and teachers of religion in some of the leading colleges feel it necessary to take advantage of this great opportunity from year to year. The ministers of the Christian Church who are attending the Conference this year, as in the years past, are enthusiastic in their appreciation of the splendid courses given. Dr.

L. E. Smith, Rev. A. McKenzie, Dr. D. M. Helfenstein and the writer are the only representatives of the Christian Church attending the Conference this year.

When I think what it would mean to my fellow-ministers in the Christian Church and what it would mean to their Churches and to the work of the kingdom if they would take advantage of this rare privilege, I can only wish that next year at least fifty of our pastors and denomination's secretaries may attend the study Conference at Union Theological Seminary.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Do you think the Metropolitan Convention will ever come to be the leader of all of our regional Conventions?

I know one man who thinks it will. There are two reasons which he is willing to risk.

His first reason is because it occupies a territory which furnishes the greatest field of opportunity. It contains approximately 29,000,000 people. Our Central Convention approaches nearer this vast total in the States touched by its actual work than any of the others. The Central will reveal close to 24,000,000. More than 62 per cent of the population of the Metropolitan Convention is urban, while less than 51 per cent of the Central Convention may be found in our cities. In New England the proportion is much larger—78 per cent; but the total population is only somewhat less than 7,500,000. In the Southern Convention the population of the States where we are actually operating is slightly more than 12,000,000. But here the urban population only represents about 23 per cent. In the Western, counting again the States actually touched by our work, we have about 14,750,000, and 37 per cent living in urban centers. This leaves out of the account more than 20,000,000, because there are that many in continental United States, where we have not even touched the States represented by this great number of our people. Ontario is included in the Metropolitan Convention, accounting for about 3,000,000 of her quota. Though there are vast areas in that province unreached by us, we have given it the same status in our reckonings as one of our States.

The second reason is the way the Conferences composing this Convention are changing their attitude. It is only a very few years ago that they were preparing for burial. But within two years five Churches have been added. Plans are now being carefully laid for the organization of some seven or eight more. Lots have actually been purchased in the N. Y. E. Conference for a Church at Selkirk, a new railroad town near Albany. A preliminary survey has recently been made in the city of Syracuse, in the hope that a second Church may soon be organized there to give encouragement to the faithful band of heroes now laboring under the inspiring leadership of Prof. Dales, in the young Church which recently voted to join the N. Y. Central Conference. Then, too, we are looking to Ontario for a new work in the city of Toronto. The two Churches we now have need the fellowship which a third Church will offer. This third Church must be located so as to form a link between the two existing organizations which are too widely separated to secure the best results.

The city of Rochester will probably be our point of approach for inspiring the Western N. Y. Conference with new work begun in an urban center. On what seems like good authority, we are told there are at least four strategic points where a work might be profitably begun. While it would be an eminently wise thing to do, to start four Churches simultaneously in one city, we have neither the money nor the men with which to launch out on such a wholesale plan. But what do you think would happen to the work begun in a great city like Rochester if our people should rise to the occasion and actually do what the teeming harvest field there suggests we might do? How we would have the attention of the Christian forces of that city at once! But N. Y. Western is beginning to think now of actually entering Rochester.

In the Tioga River Conference, Binghamton suggests a second Church. The splendid work being done by Rev. A. A. Wright and his people indicates possibilities at this point of a most challenging character.

In the Rays Hill and Southern Pennsylvania Conference, Cumberland, Md., seems to be the place where the people of that enterprising Conference have their eyes turned. This is a growing city, and sufficiently near existing Churches in that Conference to furnish fellowship for the new work.

Fields are so abundant in the New Jersey Conference that it is not a matter of finding a promising field so much as it is that of finding some way of entering those where the need seems most pressing. Two more Churches in this Conference during the next year seems about the minimum expectation.

The Southern and Western Conventions have been the challenging leaders who have inspired all the rest of us with hope when we would otherwise have felt tempted to give up in despair. But will they continue to stand out in the forefront?

Not for one minute has this scribe entertained the opinion that either of these great organizations is going to do any less than it has been doing in the past. Indeed it will not be surprising if each does a finer piece of work now that such a splendid start has been secured. But my contention is, that once the Metropolitan gets fairly under way, a different pace will be set than that to which we have accustomed ourselves to think as a good one. "The King's business requires haste." Is it too much to expect the membership in this Metropolitan Convention to double within ten years?

Come on—let's go!

P. S. SAILER.

THE "FOURTH" WELL SPENT.

In the mountains of Southwest Virginia, Wythe County is a little valley surrounded by beautiful mountain scenery and blessed with the mountain breezes common to lands thus located, and some of the purest and best water in the world, and consequently plenty of good cold milk and butter. So far, so good, as a part of God's "handiwork" (Psa. 19:1).

But since I first knew of this section of country, forty years ago, "man has sought out many inventions" for evil, some of which I may refer to later. But "they that are whole need not a physician," said the Master, who ate with publicans and sinners when it was to their advantage for Him to do so and when He could be helpful to them.

So, on the Fourth of July, 1926, the first Sunday of the month, 10 o'clock A. M., it was my privilege and pleasure to meet just one dozen people—mostly children of the "Cove"—at a little school-house on Cove Branch.

I talked to them just a bit about the "Fourth," its origin and significance. Then, after reading Genesis 1:1 and John 1:1, I talked to these little mountain children awhile about "the beginning" of some things, and how to begin "with God," putting first things first (1 Kings 17:13; Matt. 6:33), and the results of such beginnings as illustrated in these Scriptures and others. I made the application as simple as I could to the twelve little mountain boys and girls by telling a timely story or two. They all seemed to be interested and listened very attentively.

After closing with a short prayer, all went quietly out and to their humble mountain homes. I went to the home nearby from which were four children out at service—two boys and two girls. I took dinner with them and their widowed mother, whose husband was shot and killed just a few days ago. I saw the place where he fell and breathed his last—right at his own doorstep. I was well acquainted with him and his family; had talked to and with him many a time about his present and eternal welfare—had felt impressed to do so, and had written to him several times to the same effect when far away from him. I had prayed for him as often as twice a day for the last four or five years for his conversion. He knew I was doing so, for I told him I was; also told him more than once, even when last we talked, in December, 1925, that I felt impressed that he would either be converted or removed, and that before long. He was removed. I gave him a nice Schofield Bible—sent it to him from Elon last January; but he sent it back without any explanation to any one. Now I shall give it to the little mission on the "Cove."

Tell me, reader, if you please, has my interest in the man, my desire and effort to help him, my prayers for him, the giving of the returned Book, all been in vain or not? Perhaps at the next writing I shall tell the readers of THE SUN something about our new organ given by my good friend Mr. Ellis, of Burlington, N. C., for our little mission. It is on the way now. And, by the way, if any one who may read these lines should feel disposed to contribute in any way to help out, be assured it will be much appreciated by the writer and by the people of the "Cove." And, even if in no other way, reader, you can pray. Please pray for the writer and especially for the children and young people, about which I shall talk more later, for I have many things to tell.
Ivanhoe, Va., R. R. 1.
T. B. DAWSON.

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7 1/4 x 5 x 1 1/2 inches.

Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35
(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.
(Weight 18 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 x 1 1/2 inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jê-hôy'-â-kim gave th silver and the gold to Phâr'-aôh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50
(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1 1/2 inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

Pastors' Institute.

The Southern Wabash Conference, in Illinois, held an institute at its Bethlehem Church, near Sumner, June 30th to July 2nd, for its pastors and those working in its bounds. It covered various phases of Church work, pastoral problems, with special emphasis on stewardship, Church finance, and the every-member canvass. It was a most helpful meeting. The secretary of this department had a rare privilege to do constructive work. It is our idea that it is the kind of institutes needed, where pastors come together and study their problems. They were there for business three and one-half hours in the forenoon, three hours in the afternoon, and public addresses and sermons in the evening. It was an institute, with round-table discussions, and thoroughly prepared presentations. It did not seem to matter that the thermometer reached 104. Any pastor who was not present missed more than he realizes. This conference expects to put on the every-member canvass simultaneously.

An Overlooked Point.

Some Churches are likely to overlook one of the important matters in connection with the every-member canvass: that of the proper methods of getting the box of envelopes delivered to the subscriber. They should not be carried along by the canvassers when they make the canvass. The Church year is not yet closed; confusion is likely to result. They cannot be properly recorded, for no one at that time knows who or how many will subscribe. Chaos results rather than plan, system, and satisfaction.

They should not be stacked upon a table or seat in the Church, or put in a window and everybody be asked to come and hunt out theirs. There are a half-dozen reasons why this should not be allowed. There is a proper time and way to deliver them. They should be delivered by the Church in the homes of the subscribers between the closing Sunday of the year and the opening Sunday of the new year. Then no confusion results. They are on time then. It is the dignified way. The team that canvassed certain homes might deliver the envelopes to those homes, but not when they make the canvass. There is a better way, however—use your young people to do that. Place the responsibility on them. Organize them definitely and systematically for the task. It will train them and help fit them in making the canvass themselves in later years. They need that training in the technique of the canvass. Scarcely a Church that the writer knows is using, training, developing, its youth anywhere near as much or as well as it should. This offers a splendid chance for real service.

Entirely Different.

Tithing is an entirely different matter than that of being generous in giving. One may be a generous giver and not be a tither. Tithing has to do with acknowledgment of our stewardship. Tithing is the actual setting aside first for God and His direct cause a definite part (a tenth) of our income as it comes in. This may be done by having a separate place for keeping it or, if the amount is fairly good size, it may be kept in a book or bank account. When one receives, say $100, he can transfer $10 at once to his tithe account and draw from that account for distinctively Christian work and from the $90 for personal and family uses. Tithing puts God's claim first, definite, and separate. When this is done as a real act of worship and with deliberation, it brings a satisfaction and joy so that it is nearly always "once a tither, always a tither."

THE CHURCH AND THE COUNTRY.

Many people today are inclined to confuse greatness with greatness, to think that stentorian tones indicate an important utterance, to conclude that the larger and more flaring the electrical sign, the more valuable is the merchandise it advertises. In the same way, some believe that the power of a Church is indicated by the size of its membership, that the importance of a community is proportionate to its population, and that effectiveness depends on organization. Size is a factor in greatness—other things being equal—and numbers do count in the Church and in the kingdom of God as truly as in earthly warfare and in politics. But the most intensively powerful factors in God's universe are not necessarily the most extensive or the most easily recognized. A microbe that cannot be perceived by the senses may defy and bring to naught the strength of a giant; a small electric wire may carry light and power to operate a huge factory.

The importance of a parish is not dependent on its size; a preacher is not powerful in proportion to the length of his life, the amount of his salary or the advertising space devoted to him in the press; the vitality of a Church cannot be judged chiefly by the number of its members, the cost of its structure or the completeness of its organization.

The small Church in the rural community, the topic for this year's home mission study course, is of tremendous importance, not only to the individuals in the community, but to the nation at large. The country is a feeder of the city and the vigor of city life depends largely on the quality of blood flowing into it from the country. Some of the greatest forces for good (like Abraham Lincoln), and for evil (like Joseph Smith, the Mormon) have come from rural districts. While the results of rural Church work are frequently inconspicuous or discouraging, the importance of such work is increasingly recognized. There is all the more reason, therefore, for avoiding any course that saps the life of these small Churches—through rivalry, through stressing non-essentials, or through failure to keep in contact with the Source of all Power. After all, the real secret of life and of effective service is the same for country and for city.

Today the country parish is being restudied and reappraised as to its real needs, its resources, its importance and its program of life and service. While streams of country youth flow into the cities and supply fresh blood to colleges, a counter-stream of business and professional men and women of mature age is flowing back into rural districts—occupying farms, estates and suburban homes. This transfer makes a complicated problem of financing, supplying leaders and maintaining a constructive program.

The articles by specialists in this and in subsequent issues of the Review deal with many phases of this problem; the changes that have taken place in the last quarter of a century, the characteristics of a successful rural pastor, the type of country Church that has proved most efficient; the neglected rural populations of today, the religious educational problem in the country, and the real job of the rural Church. The books and articles on this subject are worthy of study, and the way this problem is dealt with today will largely determine the character of the individual, the Church and the nation tomorrow.—Missionary Review of the World.

MISSIONARY REPORT.

As superintendent of missions of Liberty, Vance, Sunday School, I wish to make the following report:

During the past year our Sunday School has taken an offering every first Sunday for missions. I do not know the amount received for the year, but I wish it could have been more. And we have had a missionary talk one Sunday in each month, usually the Sunday preceding the day the offering was taken. These talks were made by the superintendent of missions, the Sunday School superintendent and by other people. We had the pleasure of having Miss Bessie Blacknall, a returned missionary from Alaska, speak to us one Sunday. She is sent out by the Episcopal Church. She spoke to us on her work of teaching the Indians and about the country of Alaska. Her talk was very interesting and inspiring. I would just like to say that our Woman's Missionary Society had her to come and speak to our Sunday School. I would also like to say that the different missionary societies of our Church has been a help to our Sunday School in teaching missions and putting on missionary programs.

During mission month we had a talk or something special about missions each Sunday. I think every Church and Sunday School that observed mission month was greatly benefitted by it.

I am glad that our Sunday School is beginning to take more interest in missions. I am sorry to say, though, that all are not interested in missions as they should be. But I hope the time will soon come when our entire Sunday School and Church will be interested in missions and catch the missionary spirit and see that Christ included each of us when He said: "Go, ye, into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Of course we all cannot go in person, but we can go in prayer and in purse.

I hope and pray that the interest in missions in our Sunday School will continue to grow, and that during the coming year we, as a Sunday School, will be able to do more for the mission work than we have ever done before.

Respectfully submitted,

MARGARET ALSTON,
Superintendent.

CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP SENTIMENTS.

To have is to owe—not to own.

When a man acquires riches, God gets a partner or the man loses his soul.

"I will place no value on anything I have except in its relation to the kingdom of Christ."

A wise man will not hesitate to give away what he cannot keep, obtaining thereby riches that he will never lose.

Systematic earning makes an industrious man; wise spending a well-furnished man; thoughtful saving a prepared man; conscientious giving a blessed man.

Unconsecrated wealth in the hands of Christians is one of the greatest hindrances to the progress of the Church.

The kingdom of God can never be established merely by the raising and expending of money, but money is greatly needed for its world-wide extension.

Stewardship puts the Golden Rule into business in place of the rule of gold.

Jesus Christ teaches that a man's attitude toward God and His kingdom is revealed by his attitude to the property committed to his trust.

THE HOME AS AN AGENCY OF CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

BY SIMON A. BENNETT.

The helplessness of infants and the long period of infancy make it necessary that provision be made for the care and training of children. Among the institutions that have been developed for this purpose, the family is the most vital and basic of all—the family operating as a group in the home—seems to be the earliest center for the training of children. An institution so ancient and so persistent is worthy of our most careful consideration.

Not only is the home the oldest institution for the training of children, but it is the one in which most children receive their first training. The child comes into the world comparatively helpless. The family group is the one that nourishes, protects and gives the first instruction. It is here that the basic attitudes for life are formed. The child grows into the general attitudes of its family group before it comes in contact with the other agencies for education. These ideals and attitudes of the home circle are formed under conditions that tend to make them permanent. It is an unfortunate circumstance when other agencies of education set forth ideals and attitudes in life which run counter to the basic ones that have been established in the home. Any attempt to break down this loyalty to the family group is a serious crisis for the child. Here we are finding some of our difficult problems in Christian education.

The changes in social life, due to the industrial revolution in America, are causing profound changes in the education of our children. Most parents are quite willing to trust the education of their children to the public schools and the religious training to the Church. Never was the public school trying as hard to educate our children as it is today, and never were they so well equipped to do it. Never before has the Church worked so hard to give religious training, and never have we been so well equipped to do it as we are today. Granting all of this, we must still face the fact that the great mass of children in America are quite illiterate spiritually, and large numbers of them are grossly unsocial in their attitudes and very far from the ideals of helpful brotherhood as taught by the Christian faith.

Reasons for this I shall not try to enumerate, but one I shall suggest as important for the consideration of Christian parents. Large numbers of good Christian parents have been too willing to allow the organized agencies of the Church to carry on the program of religious education. The Church and we, its pastors and teachers, are eager to do the job. We study, we work, we pray; but often, with much anguish of heart, we are forced to admit that we have failed. We are ready to bear our part of responsibility for failure, but there are elements of it over which we have no direct control.

God entrusts to parents the first opportunity and responsibility for the training of children. Do we, as parents, seek to give to our children consistently the basic attitudes of our great Christian faith? Are we really, by teaching and example, giving our children to know as they live with us in the home, that the great realities of our religion are vital? Or are we busy with other matters, expecting that the Church shall attend to these things? As parents, God has made us teachers, teachers of religion, and there is no way to escape this responsibility. We may say, yes, that sounds all right, but I cannot teach religion. Regardless of what we say or think on the subject, the cold logic of fact is that every parent is a teacher and a teacher of religion. More than any other group, we, the parents of America, determine the basic religious attitudes of our children. We are their first teachers. In a positive way or in a negative way we are molding the early ideals and attitudes of our children. Our refusal to teach religion becomes in itself an influence that determines the child's religious attitude.

The family is the earliest institution for the training of children. The innocent baby comes into the home circle. Here its parents are its first teachers. The ideals we hold, the attitudes we possess, the qualities of life and religion that we teach by example and precept become the basic heritage of our children. Here teaching should be at its best, and the results are most permanent.

WHAT A NEW ENGLAND WOMAN FOUND IN THE SOUTH.

BY RICHARD H. EDMONDS,
In Manufacturers' Record.

The Boston Transcript of May 13th, published an interesting letter from Elizabeth Tilton, of Cambridge, Mass., giving her experience and the experience of other women who had recently attended an important gathering in Georgia as to the impression made upon her and others by the prohibition sentiment of that section. The letter will interest readers, as showing what a New England woman found in the South:

"I wonder if you would allow one of your readers, who has just taken a journey in the South, where she met representatives of over a million women coming from all parts of the country, to give a picture of how the other two-thirds of the country thinks, the one-third being the East?"

"When I arrived in Atlanta, Ga., there had just passed through the streets 5,000 boys carrying banners. It was a prohibition parade. The banners said, for example, 'Beer Means Bums.' Also there was a group of boys about 8 years old whose banners read, 'We shall carry on when you have gone.' Every man in the street bared his head when that group of small boys went by.

"The next morning the judge, opening the court, charged the jury that they were there to enforce the prohibition law.

"The ministers met that day and asked that every town in Georgia have a parade similar to that carried on Sunday in the streets of Atlanta.

"The reporters from the Associated Press, etc., who besieged us women for news, wanted prohibition news, and it was most amusing to us women from the North to see that they wanted dry news—that they thought that that was the kind the press would take.

"There was no conception of the feeling toward prohibition that you get from Maryland up to Massachusetts.

"I traveled up to Washington with a commercial traveler. He came from Philadelphia. He was for wine and beer. His district was eight States, beginning with Georgia and reaching through to Los Angeles. He said to me, 'My States want prohibition. That country is dry as a bone.' He also told me that in the last year the prohibition law had tightened up tremendously in the South. He said he wanted to get two flasks of whiskey, and he had to work all day in Georgia to get them, whereas last year he would only have had to step across the street.

"Women that I saw from the South and the West were tremendously spurred on by the wet hearings in Washington. Instead of discouraging them, they were spurred to work all the harder for prohibition enforcement. They would say to me, 'The war is on for enforcement. It may take years, but we have enlisted for the duration of the war.'

"As I came North and saw letters in the New York Times, it was as if the mind had turned a somersault. The fact is, two-thirds of this country is dry; the wetness is here in the East, and the East isn't all wet by any manner of means.

It is good to know the truth occasionally, to see what two-thirds of the country thinks; two-thirds of this country is ready to send its boys into the streets, precisely as Georgia is doing, on prohibition parades. All the women from the South and West were enthusiastic over that parade, and the very best people were in it."

ELON CHAUTAUQUA NOTES.

Mrs. T. W. Bickett, wife of Ex-Governor Bickett, will speak in the Whitley Memorial Auditorium at Elon College, on Thursday evening, July 29th.

We are very fortunate in having Rev. Wm. G. McKnight, one of our missionaries on furlough from Japan, to attend the Chautauqua this year. He will deliver a series of addresses on "Rural Japan; Conditions, People, and Opportunities for Christianity." Mr. McKnight spent the past winter in study at Boston University, School of Religious Education, where he received his M. A. degree.

Mr. D. W. Simms, general secretary for the North Carolina Sunday School Association, Raleigh, N. C., will speak on Tuesday night, August 3rd. This will be "Young People's Night."

The following international credit courses will be offered at Elon this summer: "The Program of Christianity," by H. S. Hardcastle; "The Pupil," by Rev. F. C. Lester; "Organizations and Administration of the Church School," by Dr. W. A. Harper; "Bible: The Life of Christ," by Rev. J. G. Truitt; "Story Telling," by Mrs. H. S. Hardcastle; "Young People Organized for Religious Education," by Miss Lucy M. Eldredge; "The Adult Worker and His Work," by Mr. F. F. Myrick; "Training the Devotional Life," by Rev. S. C. Harrell.

From present indications, it seems that the Elon Chautauqua will have a larger attendance this year than at any time in the past. Those desiring room reservations should write as soon as possible, as those applying first will be given choice.

A recent letter from one of our pastors says: "What will we have to bring with us to the Chautauqua? We are planning to bring two automobiles from my Church." This is a Church which has never been represented before.

Miss Carmen Collier, from Arlington, Va. (just outside of Washington), has sent her dollar for registration. People are coming from far and near.

Those attending the Chautauqua last year will remember with pleasure our organist, Mrs. W. D. Parry, of Raleigh. Mrs. Parry will be with us again this year and will have charge of the organ recital on Friday night.

Rev. J. F. Morgan, who has had charge of singing at so many of our Church gatherings, will direct the singing each afternoon during the Chautauqua at the regular "community sings." Mr. Morgan is eager for all who sing or play to bring their music and instruments.

Dr. W. W. Staley and Dr. C. H. Rowland have never missed a session of the Chautauqua since it was started at Virginia Beach in 1923. Both of them gave $100 toward maintaining it when it was begun, and later $25 each year until it was on a sound financial basis.

Recreation, from 3 to 5:30 each afternoon, will be in charge of the following committee: Rev. B. J. Earp (chairman), H. S. Hardcastle, and Galen Elliott. They will have as their helpers one person from each group of ten young people attending the Chautauqua.

Especially plans have been made for young people attending the session. They will be divided into groups of ten with a counselor.

For room reservation, program, or other information, write Miss Pattie Coghill, Henderson, N. C.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

August 1, 1926.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Jehovah is my strength and Son, and He is become my salvation."—Ex. 15:3.

LESSON: Exodus 13:17-22, 14:10-16.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psa. 37:1-7.

REFERENCE MATERIAL: Psa. 78:12-14; Hebrews 11:29.

God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb. He knoweth our frame; He remembereth that we are dust. He is tender and gracious in all His dealings with those who follow Him. When he led the children of Israel out of Egypt He did not lead them by the most direct route to the promised land. "He led them not by the way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near at hand, for God said, Lest peradventure the people repent when they see war, and they return to Egypt." The Philistines were a rugged, rough, war-like people inhabiting the plains along the coast of the Mediterranean Sea. The Hebrews, be it remembered, were an unorganized and unarmed—the word armed in verse 18 means "in ranks"—group of slaves. They were not able to cope with the war-like Philistines. To have plunged them into the midst of such a people would have been disastrous, and the Lord, in His infinite wisdom and mercy, led them around by another way. It is always thus in life. God does not break the bruised reed nor quench the smoking flax. He may require much of us, but He does not require too much. He knows that the making of a nation or the making of a character is a long process, and He goes the surest way, even if He goes the longest way.

There was a touch of sentiment in all the grim business of getting away from Egypt. Moses took the bones of Joseph with him. It seemed like a foolish thing to do, but it had a tremendous psychological effect upon the Hebrews. Here was the mummy, signifying the presence of the man who had made possible this day. By faith and through vision he had foreseen this day, and it would help tremendously in the days to come to have his remains with them as they faced the unknown perils of the days to come. Only recently the writer stood on the historic ground of Jamestown Island and saw the graves of the first settlers on American soil. As he stood there he had a new appreciation of these adventurous men of faith and he felt inspired to renewed loyalty to the great country which they unknowingly had founded.

"And Jehovah went before them by day in a pillar of cloud to lead them the way, and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light." There was a great danger of going astray when traveling in the desert or the wilderness, and it was customary for caravans or groups to have a brazier in which there were live coals carried aloft so that the glare at night and the smoke at day would guide all these who came behind. By this symbolism the Hebrews expressed the conviction that Jehovah was leading His people by day and by night. He was their Guide, their Protector. They were going out not knowing whither they went, but they felt that Jehovah went before them. It is reported that when Jesus took His disciples up to Jerusalem the last time "He went before them." The Master of men does not drive His men; He leads them. Whenever a man feels that he is blazing a new trail in high moral endeavor or spiritual purpose, let him be assured that the Master goeth before him.

The humility and expressions of repentance incident upon hard experiences of life are not always permanent. Billy Sunday tells of the terrible storm at sea when he and his fellow ball players were returning from a tour abroad, and of how big Ed. Williamson and others promised God that if He spared them they would give their lives to Him, and how when they finally reached America in safety they went on in the way of riotous living. Pharaoh was quite humble when the first-born was stricken, but he soon forgot that mood when he realized that his supply of free slave labor was about to slip from his grasp. He, therefore, dispatches an army with chariots to overtake the fleeing mob and to bring them back into bondage. There are many men today who have broken their vows to God, made in a time of adversity or fear, and forgotten in the time of prosperity and ease.

The Israelites were indeed in a desperate situation. On either side was the desert hemming them in and making escape impossible in that direction. In front of them was the sea, seemingly cutting them off there. To the rear was the host of Pharaoh, armed to the teeth, and hungry for the one-sided battle. It is small wonder that the Israelites lost heart and began to chide their leader and to wish that they were back in Egypt. As one thinks of this particular situation he is reminded of what is almost a typical experience of every man who becomes a Christian. Sin is indeed a heavy taskmaster, and as one accepts Christ he becomes conscious that he has come into a new liberty. He might well rejoice as did the Israelites when they realized that they had been set free from bondage. But, like the Israelites, freedom does not mean ease. In fact, Christ does not give power to do as one pleases, but to do as one ought. Conversion is but the beginning of the process of character building. Like the Israelites, we must wander through the wilderness; but, like them, we have a Guide and Helper and Defender.

The trouble with people is that they do not count on the divine resources. We are all too prone to count only the visible things, the things that can be touched and handled. It was so with the Israelites. They had embarked on a high moral enterprise, but when they faced a difficulty they forgot that the one who had the moral government of the world upon His shoulders was at their command. They had not reckoned on the help of Jehovah. But when they committed themselves to Him and obeyed His command they found that He was able to do exceedingly abundantly above all that they asked or thought. He caused the water to go back by a strong east wind and the Israelites passed over to the other side of the Red Sea, but when the Egyptians attempted to follow them the waters of the sea returned and engulfed them.

"Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward." It is reported that Napoleon's drummer boy said he did not know how to sound retreat. His master was so accustomed to advance and to victory that he had no occasion to sound retreat. Whether this story be true, it is true that God's command is "Forward!" Our Commander-in-Chief has commanded us to go and to go forward. There is no call to retreat in His service. In an age in which men are making progress in all other lines of human endeavor and activity, he is summoning His Church to go forward. And no matter how much growth the individual Christian has made, the summons still comes to go forward in all the virtues of the Christian life.

Teaching Points.

1. The goals set by God are reached only by long journeys.
2. God's emphasis is not upon time, but upon the finished product.
3. God does not use hothouse methods in securing His ends.
4. God expects only so much of us.
5. A dead man has power over the living.
6. The school of hard knocks is one of life's best schools.
7. Man's extremity is God's opportunity.
8. Faith in God accomplishes what seems like the impossible.
9. Men often begin to murmur when the way of progress demands its price.
10. One man of God can save a whole nation.
11. There are times to pray and times to work.
12. Jehovah fights on the side of those who are trying to do His will.
13. God commands His people to go forward.
14. The Lord delivers all those who put their trust in Him.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

By REV. F. C. LESTER.

August 1, 1926.

TOPIC: "Wise and Unwise Decisions."

SCRIPTURE: 1 Kings 3:5-15; Gen. 13:5-13.

PURPOSE: To learn the difference between wise and unwise decisions, and to create, or strengthen, the desire for the wise.

Hints to the Leader.—Here is your chance for a wise decision. Make this the best meeting of the summer. Plan early, and then carry out the plans, even if the weather is hot. The whole Christian message lies back of this topic. Make it sparkle.

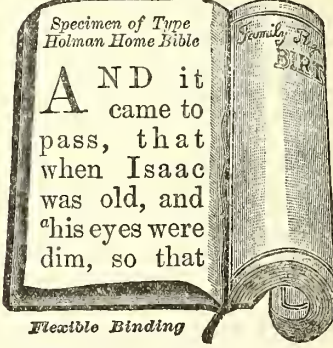

Songs that are Suitable.—"Now in the Days of Youth," "Who Is on the Lord's Side?" "Yield Not to Temptation," "O Happy Day," and "O Jesus, I Have Promised."

(Continued on page 14.)

HOLMAN BIBLES

For Old Folks and the Home

EXTRA LARGE PRINT WITH REFERENCES

Specimen of Type
Holman Home Bible

AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that

Flexible Binding

Size when closed, 6½ x 9¼ inches

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book.

No. 2014. Durably Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles.

Price—Post Paid 4.85

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

Dears:

Three cheers for three winners! May these three have many, many happy days, full of sunny skies, and may they never, never forget our "Kiddies' Korner!" The gifts will be sent to these three at once, so watch out. Am sorry the picture of the third best prize-winner was too small to print; but, gee! that's all right. Dear, it was a good picture after all, and the story is here, and your present will be sent just the same.

Now, if any of you Kiddies wish to paint other pictures, and see them in our Korner, get busy and fix them up; and listen, do it all in black and white. Our editor says that the "picture man" can take it best from black and white cuts. So how about painting something else at once, and see your work in the Korner? Wouldn't you love that? Send it to me, and I will send it in, and you will keep that special Kiddies' Korner all the rest of your life, 'cause it has your drawing in it.

Oh, oh! come running, dears! It's time for the doll festival—and, wait a minute, here comes a precious wee baby girl, all in a pink dress, with a dolly as large as she is, 'cept the dolly has golden hair and the wee girl has black hair.

Jumping Jacks and dollies! Here we are, all ready to play and play and sing, for it's our mite-box opening, and the pennies are restless in their boxes. They want to run over the sea and play with some little Japanese girls, of course!

O-o-o-h-ee! where did that breeze come from? Let's get in the window. Why, wait a minute, dears; do you know where it came from? Yes, indeed, of course it came from God—a good gift from Him to us this beautiful morning. How thankful we all are for God's good gifts!

Love to each one.

YOUR EDITOR.

THE MAGIC MARBLE.

By GLADYS CLEONE CARPENTER.

Everything in the castle yard seemed to be smiling, for spring had come; but little Prince Roland looked very, very cross.

"What is the trouble?" his sister Hope asked as soon as she saw how unhappy he looked.

"It will soon be time for the marble contest, to see who can roll marbles the best," the Prince answered. "I want to win, but how can I when everything goes wrong? I lose my marbles or something stops them from rolling far. I believe somebody has cast a spell of enchantment over them."

"Then," Hope declared, "we must find in the Book of Magic what will break the spell."

As they pondered over the pages of a great book they came to a place that read:

"The Magic Marble.

"Some place in the kingdom there is a great blue marble. To the one who wins it, all things will come right."

"There! You must have that; then you can win," Hope decided.

"But how am I to get it?" Prince Roland asked. "It doesn't tell where to find the marble."

"No, but if you look in every corner of the kingdom you are sure to find it," the Princess answered.

"I believe that you are right," her brother agreed. "I will start at once."

So Prince Roland sent for his pony and for brave knights to ride with him. He stopped at every house to ask if any one had seen the marble. But no one knew where it could be found. Throughout the whole kingdom he searched, but at last turned sadly homeward without the magic marble.

Hope met him at the door. "Did you find it?" she asked eagerly.

The poor prince shook his head. Hope did not know what to say; she went to the study room, and for a long time tried to think of some way in which she could help her brother.

Suddenly a call rang through the castle. "O, I've found it! I've found it!" the voice cried out.

"That's Prince Roland," Hope said to herself. "It sounds as though he were in the treasure chamber." She rushed down the long stairs, and there, sitting amidst great piles of precious gems, was the Prince.

He was looking at a huge, blue, crystal marble. "See, it is the magic marble. How queer it is. There seems to be an eye in the center of it. I never thought it could be in the castle," the Prince continued. "I came to the treasure chamber to try to find some more marbles. When I opened this bag, the magic marble rolled out."

"You know, sometimes the nicest things are found at home," Hope answered.

The Prince rushed outdoors to try out the magic marble with the royal boys, who were playing. He put it beside the other marbles, and, somehow, that marble eye seemed to watch that Prince Roland didn't lose any of his marbles nor put anybody else's in his bag.

When the day of the contest arrived, all the royal personages went to the tournament yard. Prince Roland carried his velvet marble bag. Then everybody noticed that, although Princess Hope wasn't going to roll marbles, she carried a marble bag, too. Only it was very old and shabby.

So the contest started, and the marble eye seemed to watch to see that everything was done right. Never before had Prince Roland played so well. And when the contest ended, the trumpeters called out that he had won.

Then Princess Hope opened her queer ragged bag, and taking out a paper, said to Prince Roland: "When you found the magic marble in this bag in the treasure chamber, you did not find this paper in the bottom of the bag. Listen, this is what it says: 'The magic marble has been called magical because it looks like an eye. But it is not really magical. The secret of it is that when people think somebody or something is watching, they try to do their best.'"

When Hope had finished reading, the king rose and said: "Only Prince Roland can own the blue crystal magic eye. But each one can listen to and obey that something within him, his conscience, that watches and tells what is right."

NOTICE.

All those who expect to attend the seventy-eighth session of the Virginia Valley Central Christian Conference, which will be held at Linville, Va., August 18-20, are requested to notify, as early as possible, either Miss Sallie Payne, Harrisonburg, Va., Route 3, or Rev. R. P. Crumpler, Linville, Va. Not only notify us that you are coming, but also please state whether you will come by train or automobile, and whether you wish entertainment and for how long. Let everybody try to be here for the opening session, and remain until Conference adjourns on Friday afternoon. Those coming by bus or auto can come either via Harrisonburg or leave the Valley Turnpike at Long's Pump, near Lacey Spring, Va.

R. P. CRUMPLER.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. LADIES' PENS $2.00 MEN'S PENS $2.00 aid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address RICHMOND, VIRGINIA. 1536 EAST BROAD STREET.

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry. Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shephe not want. 2 He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid..... 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco. Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and helps as above.

Price—Post Paid..... 9.35

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

MONDAY.

THE SYMBOL OF THE HIGH PLACE.

"He setteth me upon my high places."—Psa. 18:38.

"I will set him on high because he hath known my name."—Psa. 91:14.

The Bible has a lot to say about "high places." As far as possible, all altars and places of worship were built on a mountain or on a high place, and all worshiping was done in a high place, even if the altar consisted of no more than a pile of stones. In level countries they built hills and towers for these high places. In the cities they built towers for worship. This was for the purpose of getting as close to heaven as possible and storm the Almighty in the starry mansions in the skies. Even in the times of Jesus they followed this custom. Jesus Himself chose mountain tops for His talks with God.

We have passed on these days from altars on high places, and we know now that God is just as near in the levels as He is on the high places, for He dwells in us. But, nevertheless, it is a high place of the soul that touches the infinite. Salvation is from above, and His lifting is from above, and we are climbing higher and higher toward His standard. Thus the high places symbolize our touch with God: "When thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut the door pray"—and there the gates of heaven open. His light floods our souls, and we are lifted up into a high place.

Prayer.—Dear Father, we lift up our eyes unto Thee from whom cometh our help, and in the pasture of Thy fields help us feed upon Thy eternal food and drink of Thy eternal waters. This we ask for today and forever. Amen.

TUESDAY.

OUR REWARD.

"Who can alter the mighty acts of the Lord? Who can show forth all his praise? . . . He that doeth righteousness at all times."—Psa. 106:2-3.

"The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life."—Rom. 6:23.

We are not promised riches, neither freedom from disease and suffering; but for each loss we are promised compensation and fruit of our labors in riches of heart-life, in a happy conscience, in knowing the Lord and His ways, and the ability to so live that others will be compelled to know that we walk with Him and they too may walk with Him.

There is "glory and honor and peace in every man that worketh good" (Rom. 2:10), and "If ye do these things ye shall never stumble" (2 Peter 1:10).

Prayer.—O Lord, as Thou dost know our every thought, and that we are as weak as dust, fill our pathway with good, strengthen us against temptation, and lead us to do good. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

BIBLE CONTRADICTIONS.

"Grow in grace and in the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."—2 Pet. 3:18.

Speaking of his enemies, David said, "I hate them with perfect hatred"; Christ said, "Love your enemies and do good to them that despitefully use you." This seems to be a contradiction, and many such contradictions are found in the Scriptures. Many honest inquirers cannot reconcile them and are puzzled.

Of course, these are contradictions, but it is in words only. There are no contradictions in truth. The latter ways are the new ways, and are the result of the development of Christian ideals. The people of David's time thought it was correct to hate enemies. That was the only revelation they seemed to have. But the more humanity has come along in the thought of God and the Son, the greater has been the revelation. The longer we walk with Christ, the more we know of Him and the nearer we become like Him. History tells us that certain facts of science used to be true, but recent discoveries have so far transcended them that we now laugh at the foolishness of them. Can it not also be true in religion?

Prayer.—Our Father, we pray Thee for a studious mind and heart, that we may walk with Thee a little farther each day and grow more deeply in Thy spirit and nature. Amen.

THURSDAY.

A HARD LESSON.

"Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord."—Rom. 12:19; Heb. 10:30.

Speaking of the farther we go with the Lord the more we know of Him and His way, though it has been many centuries since humanity has known the Lord, on lesson in Christian experience but very few have learned, and that is that revenge, requital, or retaliation for evil done unto us by another is not of the spirit of Christ; is un-Christian, is sinful and of the devil; that, as Christians, we must learn not to retaliate or pay back the evil done in its kind. It is devilish and brings on more devilry. We must learn that all sin carries in it the seed of its own punishment, and in due time God will take the vengeance, who alone can do it well, and He will recompense us for our good behaviour.

To yield to the temptation to "get even" with one may do a great deal of harm to the common good. We hear it in words or see it in spirit almost every day. A member of our legislature the other day said to an enemy of his bill: "I will get even with you; I will not vote for yours," or words to that effect. This particular bill was an important one and very desirable for the district for which it was intended, so much so that the people marvel and exclaim, "What a pity!"

What right has any one, because of a personal grudge, to take vengeance by standing in the way of progress and the common good? What right has one to do another an unkindness as a return for evil "Recompense no man evil for evil." Christ's way is "turn the other cheek," which does not mean that we shall submit to abuse, but that we shall love our enemies to an extent of trying to win them, and at least offer no retaliation and take a lot for the sake of not only his but the good of all. This is a hard lesson—who knows it?

Prayer.—Our Father, help us to present ourselves to Thee daily for cleansing, and for right thinking in all our doing, that Christ's way may be manifest in us all the way long. Amen.

FRIDAY.

THE BEAUTY THAT WILL NOT FADE.

"How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!" Lives there a man or woman who does not admire beauty in others, and covet it for him or herself? The possessor of beauty too often yields to vanity and spends hours in self-admiration. Such beauty, however rare it may be, the tooth of time will not spare. All flesh is as grass, and the rarest beauties are merely flowers in the field; even before the grass has withered, the flower has begun to fade.

But there is a beauty that time cannot wither. Let your imagination play for a little while on the names of famous beauties. Then call to mind such names as Florence Nightingale, Mary Moffat (the wife of David Livingstone), or Mary Slessor. The portraits of their faces we have forgotten, but the portraits of their characters are burned into our souls. The world can never forget what they did! Their beauty was not localized in their features; their very feet were beautiful. I think God gave Abraham Lincoln to the world as a demonstration that the unfading soul beauty within can transfigure any face. Covet earnestly the beauty that comes of service, for whosoever will may attain it.

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

SATURDAY.

THE PERIL OF INSINCERITY.

"Lying lips are abomination to the Lord."—Prov. 12:22-28.

Disregard for the truth is not only a blow aimed at the foundations upon which society rests. It is utterly demoralizing and destructive, so far as the character of the individual is concerned. Every act that a man performs has what we may call a reflex influence. We imbibe by degrees the character of the actions we perform. A man may not be insincere and deceitful by nature, but if he allows himself, under stress of circumstances, to handle the truth recklessly, he may live to see the day when he will become as hypocritical as the Pharisees, and as malicious as well.

We tend to become like what we do. And it is just here that even our "white" and polite lies stand convicted and condemned. If we practice insincerity, even in small measure, we become insincere. If we deal hypocritically, we turn to hypocrites. If we live and act a lie, before we realize we become a living, walking lie, despised of good men, and unworthy of aught but punishment in the sight of God.

Perhaps Solomon's words concerning lying lips sound harsh and cruel—for who has not at one time or another yielded to the sin of misrepresentation? At the same time, Solomon's words, viewed dispassionately and in the light of human experience, are but God's mercy given us as a gracious warning. The pathway of truth leads safely to the height of honor and of righteousness; but insincerity and deceitfulness are chasms the depth and the danger of which are beyond human comprehension.

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

SUNDAY.

THE LIGHT THAT GOD GIVES.

"Let us walk in the light of the Lord."—Isa. 2:1-5.

Progress of men and nations is the logic of God's creative power. The whole world of nature, human and otherwise, moves. Nothing remains static. Trees grow higher. Rivers change their courses. Mountains crumble. Plains are populated. Knowledge increases and nations become neighbors. It is so with everything; all suffers change.

Frontiers, too, are going. We are no longer pioneers, but tourists, on the path of life. The only frontiers that remain are the frontiers of (Continued on Page 13.)

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

We receive a great many contributions and we are always grateful whether they be great or small. But of all the contributions we have received for some time, we received one of the sweetest a few weeks ago.

Our good friend, Mr. C. L. Ballentine, of Fuquay Springs, N. C., sent us a box of honey for the children fresh from the hive, and it was fine. The children enjoyed it so well they have all been sweet ever since. "What is sweeter than the honey or the honey comb"? We are very grateful to Mr. Ballentine, and thank him very much.

Our good friends, B. A. Sellars and sons, Burlington, N. C., make it a custom to clean stock occasionally, and in doing this they have many articles slightly soiled or shop-worn, or perhaps not quite in style, and they throw this in a box and donate it to the Orphanage. Last week they asked me to stop, as they had a box for me. It was a sure-enough box, containing many useful articles of clothing and undergarments which will fit in our work here nicely. I packed my Ford sedan full to the top and came home happy. Donations of this kind are quite a help to us, and we are grateful.

Mrs J. P. Barrett paid us a visit last week and brought us several pretty hats and dresses, also a beautiful spread. Mrs Barrett is very kind to us in our work here, and on a number of occasions has remembered us in this way. Articles of this kind come in mighty nice. We had a little girl ready to go on her vacation but just lacked her hat. One of the hats Mrs. Barrett gave us was a nice fit and as good as new, and the little girl was happy to get it and we were happy because it saved us from buying one. So many of our friends could help us in this way and help us to do a larger work if they would just take time to stop and think. Many little dresses and little suits are doubtless thrown away because they are outgrown and become useless on that account, when if they were sent to us they would be of so much help to us.

Our new building is almost ready to put the furniture in. The furniture for the entire upper floor has been ordered and is on the way from the factory, and part for the lower floor. We now have all the furniture for all the rooms arranged for except the kitchen range which will cost us $160.00. Who will mail me a check for this. Some Ladies' Aid Society would do a great and good deed to furnish this for us. Some church or some friend to the fatherless children. It would cook their food for years to come and would do its part in making the children happy by having well cooked food. Who will be the happy one?

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR JULY 22, 1926.

Brought forward $14,290.86
Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

N. C. and Va. Conference:
Durham, First Church S. S.$13.19
Shallow Ford, N. C.91
Palm St., Greensboro, N. C. 6.58
New Lebanon Sunday School 2.00
New Lebanon Baraca Class 2.00
Pleasant Grove, Va. 4.64
Lawrence M'l Cl., Elon Col., N. C.. 2.88
Concord Sunday School 2.50
Durham, Main St. Church..... 5.00

39.74

Western N. C. Conference:
Hank's Chapel	$ 4.50
Providence Mem'l S. S.	4.08
Randleman	7.00
	15.58
Eastern N. C. Conference:
Shallow Well	$ 2.50
Mt. Auburn	9.43
Wentworth	13.15
Bethel (Wake)	2.55
Piney Plains	10.25
New Elam	5.35
	43.23
Valley Virginia Conference:
Winchester	$ 4.67
Timber Ridge	1.54
	6.21
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Sarem Christian Church	$ 5.40
Franklin Sunday School	5.00
Berea, Norfolk	5.00
First S. S., Norfolk	4.41
Suffolk, Va.	25.00
Oak Grove	2.51
Oakland	10.00
Berea (Nansemond)	10.00
	67.92
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
North Highland S. S.	$ 1.64
Richland	1.00
	2.64
Alabama Conference:
Roanoke	1.08
Northern Sunday School:
Pleasant Hill, Ohio	6.20
Special Offerings.
R. B. Wicker, support of child....	$ 15.00
Lawrence Holt End. Fund	150.00
W. A. Hilliard	1.00
Walter Hilliard	1.00
	167.00
New Building Fund.
Miss Penny	$15.00
M. W. Hollowell, Portsmouth, Va....	20.00
Miss Sarah E. Boyd, Richmond, Va.	20.00
	55.00
Grand total	$14,694.86

For the first quarter year since the war, the government has found it unnecessary to make a public offering of short-term securities for the purpose of refunding a portion of the war debt. Income taxes and other sources so far exceeded estimates as to make it possible to meet all current expenditures for the June quarter and to retire about $333,000,000 of the short-term debt which matured June 15th. This meant that the Treasury expected the surplus of receipts over expenditures at the close of fiscal year June 30th to approximate $400,000,000. Public debt retirement for the year 1926 aggregated about $850,000,000.

FAMILY ALTAR.

(Continued from Page 12.)

mind. In the realm of thought we are never caught up with progress. But there is still adventure ahead. Great sermons to preach, great books to write, great enterprises to dream, great music to compose! We may study history, but it is greater to make history. We may sing the epics of yesterday, but it is more thrilling to write the epic of tomorrow.

Columbus sailed the uncharted sea—so are we to set sail on "Life's unresting sea." The sea of life is restless. We have made it so with our inventive processes. Our progress, swift in its flight, has disturbed the calm of the waves. Let us face the future with the hero's resolve. Let us take the highway of mind with God, and with earnest purpose labor to establish His kingdom. To bring in the reign of righteousness—this is true progress and that, too, is inevitable! God does not change, but He changes things, and always for the better.

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
No. 2—Broad rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
Filler—Silver lined 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St. Richmond Va.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

(Continued from Page 10.)

The Message of the Scripture.

The first passage of Scripture suggested for this meeting tells of Israel's wisest man and greatest fool. He was the son of the good King David, the sweet singer of Israel. At an early age—some say fourteen, and others say twenty—this lad became King over Israel. With native ability and a goodly heritage, Solomon offered sacrifice to their gods. But he had all in his favor.

Although trained to worship Jehovah, the king went to Gideon to sacrifice there; for that was the great high place: a thousand burnt-offerings did Solomon offer upon that altar." It was a heart might desire. There was no fate great show. A thousand cows and sheep going up in smoke while the young king worshiped and the people made holiday. The high place was where the heathen offered sacrifice to their gods. But he had all in his favor.

Solomon realized his responsibility. His father's labors must be preserved, and "the great people" must be guided. "I am but a little child," he said. "Give, therefore, thy servant an understanding heart to judge Thy people, that I may discern between good and bad." This was his prayer; the understanding heart was his choice. "And the speech pleased the Lord." Fortunate youth! He had made a wise prayer; his choice was good; and God was pleased. Again all was in his favor.

The second Scripture reference tells of Lot, the nephew of Abraham. The servants of these two men fought over wells of water and pasture land. But Abraham knew a better way. There was plenty of room for all. He gave Lot his choice of the valley or the hills. Lot saw the difference in the land and chose the best for himself. The fertile valley for him. The hills were too high and rugged. It was ease and luxury that he desired. "So Lot pitched his tent toward Sodom." Selfishness, greediness, luxury, ease, bad company, these things got the best of Lot.

A Message for Today.

The glory of youth is its vision (day dream) and its chance to choose. This is God's best gift. From the art gallery of God, one may take a penny picture or a master painting. They are all free for the taking.

Solomon chose wisdom, and Lot chose wealth. They got what they wanted, and more. And so do we. The "wise guy" risks too much, and the miser crushes his soul with his silver. Solomon made alliances with many nations, brought to his harem hundreds of wives, and finally bowed his head in shameful worship of heathen gods. His excessive knowledge of the ways of the world led to his downfall and the division of his kingdom. Lot saw his wealth go up in smoke while he barely escaped with his life. The "understanding heart" did not mean "a pure heart," without which no man shall see the Lord.

Another Jewish youth stood in the wilderness of youthful ideals and was tempted to make his one aim—that of getting bread for his hungry body. But he didn't. From the pinnacle of the temple he saw immediate fame, but he refused to seek it. On a mountain of high thinking, the world with its wealth stretched out to him its golden and beckoning hands, but this noble youth sternly replied, "Get thee hence, Satan. It is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve." Another day he stood in the midst of the accusing multitude and said: "I must work the works of Him that sent me." This was His aim, and it was worthy. Again he stood with outstretched hands and said to a weary world, "Come unto me, all ye that are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest—rest for your souls." Jesus made the wise choice, and found the secret of joyous living. "The pure in heart shall see God" and be satisfied.

One of the great choices that our Christian Endeavorers should make now is concerning going to college. The choice of college will have much to do with future ideals. Some colleges are very expensive, both in money and ideals; others seek for knowledge alone; but a third group is concerned with the discovery of God in a world of truth, and seek to lead students to follow the Master of men. Our own Elon and Bethlehem are among this third group. Every aspiring youth should be sure that his choice of college pleases God. "And the speech of our Christian young people pleased the Lord."

GREEN.

One of the best men and one of the most beloved of Pleasant Union's members passed away in the early morning of July 13th, in the person of Bro. Tom Green. His brother, Billy, preceded him five weeks lacking one day. Bro Tom Green was not only one of the loyal and faithful of the Church, but was one of the first citizens of Harnett County.

There was a large concourse of people who gathered at the old homestead, where the funeral was conducted, to show their devotion to this good man.

The services were conducted by the writer, assisted by the former pastor, Rev. J. D. Wicker, and by Rev. J. A. Crumpler, of Bowe's Creek. The body was laid to rest by the side of his wife in Pleasant Union Cemetery.

May the richest blessing of God rest upon and comfort the bereaved.

J. LEE JOHNSON.

GUYNN.

Thomas Gynn was born September 6, 1936, and departed this life July 5, 1926. Bro. Gynn had been a member of our Church about one year. Since his profession of faith, he had been faithful to his Church and an example of the faith. He leaves to mourn their loss a wife, son, one sister and several grandchildren. The funeral service was conducted by the writer, with the assistance of Judge Boleu. The large crowd that attended the burial was an expression of the high esteem in which he was held by those that knew him. The remains were laid to rest in the Elk Spur Cemetery.

M. T. SORRELL.

McINTURFF.

Minnie Lucile McInturff was born August 11, 1911, and died April 10, 1926, aged 14 years and 8 months. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McInturff, of near Dayton, Va.

Surviving, besides the parents, are three brothers and three sisters. Funeral services were held at the Otterbein U. B. Church, near the home, April 11, 1926, and the remains laid to rest at Bridge-water, Va.

A. W. ANDES.

REYNARD.

Little George B. Reynard, son of Breut Reynard, was struck by an automobile at the home of his parents near Leesburg, Va., June 12, 1926, and died a few hours later. He was 7 years, 10 months, and 12 days old. The body was accompanied by the grief-stricken parents to Edinburg, Va. There the funeral services were held

The southern home and the Southern Railway

IT is for the creation and preservation of the home that the world's work goes on. And when it is well done and prosperous times come, it is the home that benefits most. Besides being the foundation of the State, the home is the ALL of our civilization.

A myriad of life's necessities—food, clothing and household goods—passes over the rails of the Southern Railway System and into homes every day. And every day thousands of freight cars loaded with products from the South are carried along the rails of the Southern, bound for distant markets. Thus the South grows and develops.

Carrying the world's goods to the South, and the South's goods to the world, day in and day out, is the service of the Southern Railway System to the Southern home. This regular, dependable and economical transportation is the aim and the test of good railroad service.

In the last three years more than $700,000,000 has been spent in the construction of new homes in the states of the South served by the Southern.

S O U T H E R N
RAILWAY SYSTEM
The Southern serves the South

June 15, 1926, from the home of the little fellow's grandparents, Bro. and sister Mahlon Clem. Much sympathy was felt for the sorrowing ones in this time of sudden and unexpected bereavement.

A. W. ANDES.

BAKER.

Wesley Baker was born September 10, 1847, and died July 10, 1926, aged 78 years and 10 months. Bro. Baker was a great sufferer for some time before the end came, and death was a relief to him as it always is to the children of God who suffer. He is survived by two sons and one daughter. Funeral services were held July 11th at Palmyra Christian Church, of which Church the deceased was a member for many years.

A. W. ANDES.

The praying life, followed to its conclusion, is the rejoicing happy life. A good man once said, "The true spirit of prayer is that wherein the Lord is prevailed with, and which draws from Him whatever the condition needs, the soul always looking up to Him in the will, time and way acceptable to Him." That sentiment holds good today. Let us pray.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BOARD OF EDITORS.

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates.

- One Year $2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Please renew at least two weeks in advance.

Change of Address: Give both old and new post-office when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage Notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, published at 1 cent a word. Remittances should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display Rates quoted upon request.

SHARP.

Myrtle Viola, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sharp, departed this life on May 9th, at the very early age of 9 months and 4 days. Her life was short, but long enough to outwine herself about the hearts of the home, and may those hearts take comfort in the words of Christ relative to little children.

Burial services were at Hines Chapel, where the family hold their membership.

T. J. GREEN.

HUFFMAN.

John W. Huffman was born March 20, 1862, and died April 11, 1926, making his age 64 years and 21 days. Bro. Huffman was a member of the Linville Christian Church and lived at Linville until a few years ago, when he found it necessary to break up housekeeping and go to the home of a daughter in Harrisonburg. Funeral services were held at Linville April 13, 1926.

A. W. ANDES.

VINCIE.

Steve Vincie, a native of Austria, died at the Harrisonburg hospital April 14, 1926, aged about 36 years. He was a member of a Church in his native land and was a respectable and highly esteemed citizen.

He leaves a brother, near Tenth Legion, Va., with whom he made his home. Funeral services were held April 15, 1926, at Mountain Valley U. B. Church.

A. W. ANDES.

CLINEDINST.

Bertha L. Clinedinst, wife of Arthur L. Clinedinst, was born September 19, 1881, and died at the home, near Hawkstovna, Va., May 12, 1926. Her age was 44 years, 5 months and 23 days. It was my privilege to receive her into the Church at Palmyra a few years ago. She is survived by her husband and a son and a daughter. Funeral services were held at Hawkstovna U. B. Church May 14th.

A. W. ANDES.

PENLEY.

James Elbert Penley, son of W. J. Peuley, died April 11, 1926, aged 28 years, 1 month and 13 days. Besides the father, he leaves two brothers and two sisters and other relatives who mourn his passing. He was a member of the Baptist Church, but was buried at Shallow Ford Christian Church, having recently moved into that section. May the Heaveuly Father comfort the bereaved.

T. J. GREEN.

W. FRED RICHARDSON
Security Storage Company
 INCORPORATED
 SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS FOR SILVER
 RICHMOND, VA.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 1/4 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM
 "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
 1536 East Broad
 Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
 At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
 Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

A Co-Educational School
 LOCATED AT
 WADLEY, ALABAMA

This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.

The following Courses are offered in the—

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.

Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.

The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.

This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.

Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHER, President
 Wadley, - - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
 PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 1000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid, 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearer Print in Smallest Size
 4 1/4 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was 2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Sable Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $8.50

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $8.50

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Water

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to
 THE CHRISTIAN SUN
 1536 E. Broad Street
 RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, JULY 29, 1926.

NUMBER 30.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Dr. Coffin Honored.—

Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, the new president of Union Theological Seminary, New York City, received the D. D. degree from Glasgow University at its recent commencement. It will be recalled by many that Dr. Coffin delivered the lectures on preaching in Scotland this last spring.

President Catches First Fish.—

President Coolidge, all unannounced to photographers and reporters, went fishing soon after his arrival at White Pine Camp and caught the first fish he has caught since he has been President of the United States. This fish is said to have been a pike, but nothing definite is known of it, since it went the way of other fish—to the kitchen of White Pine Camp. Rumors that it would go to the Smithsonian Museum were officially denied by Mr. Everett Sanders, the President's secretary.

John D. Rockefeller 87.—

John D. Rockefeller celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday recently with his usual round of work and golf. There were only the family and a few friends about him, but thousands of letters and telegrams of congratulation poured in to him. He declared himself grateful for the content which he enjoyed, and for the remembrances of his friends, and through the press he thanked them. Rockefeller's wealth has been and is a source of physical enjoyment to him, but the contentment that has come to his life, is that of a work well done.

Paper Sold for Sake of Art.—

The Kansas City Star, with its morning edition, The Times, was sold recently to its present editor and his associates by the trustees of the William Rockhill Nelson estate. The paper remains in the hands of Irwin Kirkwood, the son-in-law of Col. Nelson. Mr. Kirkwood and his associates paid eleven million dollars for the papers. This sum, together with the remainder of the Nelson estate, amounting to about twenty million dollars, will go into a trust fund for the purchase and reproduction of fine arts for the people of Kansas City. There were eight unsuccessful bidders for the paper. Mr. Kirkwood's wife died some months ago. He is the owner of White Pine Camp, where President Coolidge is spending his vacation this summer.

Building for Friendship.—

A committee on world friendship among children has been formed by the Commission on International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches. This committee is now seeking to collect thousands of dolls to send to Japan as tokens of friendship from the children of America to the children of Japan. Each doll will bear the name and address of the sender, and must be accompanied by ninety-nine cents to defray the doll's railroad and steamship ticket charges, and one cent for the securing of a passport for the doll. The dolls are to reach Japan for the third of next March, where they will be used in the Japanese Hina Matsuri, or festival of dolls. Full information as to the plans of the committee can be secured from the offices at 289 Fourth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

John W. Weeks Dies.—

At his summer home, Mount Prospect, John W. Weeks, the former Secretary of War, died on July 12th. He died not far from the place of his birth, near Lancaster, N. H. Death was caused by angina pectoris—a heart and chest disease. Early Sunday he lapsed into a coma, from which he never recovered. By his bedside when death came were his wife, Sinclair Weeks, his son, and Mrs. John Washington Davidge, his daughter. Mr. Weeks is thought to have become ill because of the march to Arlington Cemetery at the time of the burial of the unknown soldier. Because of illness, he relinquished active control of the War Department early in 1925, and on October 12th of the same year handed President Coolidge his resignation, who, on the day following, named Dwight F. Davis as his successor.

During the political campaign of 1920, it was generally believed that if Warren G. Harding were elected President that John W. Weeks would be a member of his Cabinet. It was believed that because of his naval experience and graduation from Annapolis or because of his outstanding financial ability, he would be chosen to head the Navy or Treasury Department, but all were surprised when President Harding announced him as Secretary of War. He slid easily into place, however, and soon grasped the conglomerate details of his department in such a way as to inspire confidence all along the line in the army.

John W. Weeks was born on April 11, 1860, on a farm near Lancaster, N. H. Until he was seventeen, he did chores on that small farm; then, having been graduated from the local high school, he began to teach at a country cross roads in his native State. When only eighteen, he secured an appointment to Annapolis, and was graduated four years later as a midshipman. Two years of the navy was enough for young Weeks, however, and for two reasons he resigned—first, because he did not like the service; and, second, because there were more officers than ships in the navy. He sought a livelihood elsewhere.

In 1885 he married Miss Martha Sinclair, and in the same year went South as a land surveyor, commissioner of the Florida Southern Railroad. Three years later he returned to Boston and entered the banking institution which became Horn-blower & Weeks, one of the largest banking firms of the country. He served as a volunteer in the navy in the Spanish-American War, and was made a rear admiral in the reserves. His life was one of many interests and great activity.

Naval Arsenal Blows Up.—

On July 10th a bolt of lightning struck a magazine of the Lake Denmark Naval Arsenal, near Dover, N. J., and resulted in a loss of some seventy-five million dollars' worth of property and at least twenty-one lives, while many suffered more or less severe injuries. The explosion was one of the most terrific ever known in peace times, and lasted until late on Monday following the first crash. Four towns near the arsenal were comparatively demolished, and the arsenal itself damaged so much that it seemed a total loss. The Lake Denmark naval base covered five hundred acres of land, on which had been built five hundred buildings, including homes for the officers and their families and quarters for the few marines stationed there.

Adjoining the naval arsenal was the Picatinny army base, which was saved only by the fact that the wind blew so that the sparks and flying missiles were carried from the base instead of toward it. It is roughly estimated that the damage to the naval arsenal will reach sixty-five million dollars, and that the army base was damaged some five millions. The civilian population was damaged about five million dollars, it is believed.

The New Jersey senators are protesting against the rebuilding of the arsenal where it was, because it is near to centers of population. The efforts of Senators Edge and Edwards are not meeting the approval of the local population, however, who are voting confidence in the government. The senators believe that great storage bases as the two near Lake Denmark should be in uninhabited territory. This territory was practically uninhabited when the bases were established there several years ago, but the centers of population have grown up about them and because of the scenic beauty which has attracted many to the vicinity. It is said that great jagged craters thirty feet deep and a hundred feet across mark where the magazines stood. The whole ground has the appearance of a hard-fought battlefield at the western front during the late war. Hundreds of refugees have been cared for by the Red Cross relief forces and the residences of the surrounding country thrown open to receive them. This is the crowning disaster to a long series of disasters which the United States Navy has suffered for the last three years. Even at the time of the explosion, just forty miles away, people were looking into the newly salvaged hulk of the submarine S-51 where thirty-three men were entombed last September.

NOTES-PERSONALS

We trust all readers will like and carefully read all the fine articles in this our Educational Number.

The Chautauqua and School of Methods at Elon College, N. C., opened on July 26th, to continue for ten days.

If any CHRISTIAN SUN parents are in doubt as to where to send their sons and daughters to college, let them read carefully this our Educational Number before making up their minds.

President W. A. Harper is a busy man, but he takes time once in a great while to "drop in" at the publishing office of THE SUN. He was with us for a few minutes Wednesday morning, and we were glad to have him.

The delegation from First Christian Church of Richmond—Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Ryan, Mr. F. M. Webb, and Miss Janie Pierce—desire to thank their hostesses for their pleasant stay at the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention at Waverly, Va., last week.

As is customary during the summer months, First Christian Church of Richmond is holding union services on Sunday evenings with other churches of the neighborhood. Dr. C. C. Ryan will speak next Sunday evening in St. Mark's Episcopal Church, using as his subject, "The Price of Power."

It is said that Bibles in thirty-five different languages are needed to supply Scriptural needs in the Hawaiian Islands. The American Bible Society is responsible for the statement that there is no more strategic point on the Pacific than these islands where despite Kipling's famous poem, Orient and Occident do meet and intermingle.

Rev. P. T. Klapp has just returned from a delightful visit to Richmond, Va. He had a birthday anniversary last Monday, but he is too vigorous and youthful in body and spirit to talk much yet of old age and is still holding with tenacity to the theory, "Let no man despise thy youth." We congratulate Bro. Klapp on having attained another round of that same ladder on which Jacob saw the angels ascending and descending.

How large a part of our forward life is traveled not by clear landmarks seen far off in the promised land, but as travelers climb a mountain peak, by putting footstep after footstep slowly and patiently into the prints which someone going before us, with keener sight, with stronger nerves, tied to us by the cord of saintly sympathy, has planted deep into the pathless snow of the bleak distance that stretches up between humanity and God.—Phillips Brooks.

If Dr. W. W. Staley does not give to SUN readers his paper before the Eastern Virginia Sunday School Convention on "Teaching Our History and Principles in the Sunday School"—and that right early—then the Church should put him on trial for modest or non-performance of duty. It was a splendid and thought-provoking presentation of a very vital theme. We cannot understand when and how that man does so much downright hard, straight, sound, sensible thinking!

A good friend of Bethlehem College, Wadley, Ala., writes: "Every workman on Bethlehem College is giving 5 per cent or 10 per cent of his weekly wages back to the college. This is the spirit of the men who are doing the manual labor." Out of the spirit of real sacrifice Bethlehem College is building and faces the future.

Our good friend, Miss Mabel Farmer, one of Elon's successful and loyal alumna, remembers us graciously with the following: "Lucerne, Switzerland, July 10th. Sister Nannie and I are touring Europe. It is wonderful beyond all description. We have visited England, Holland and Germany, and are now in Switzerland. We had a wonderful trip over the Alps today. I was never so thrilled in my life. We go to Italy tomorrow, then to Florence. I send you on this card a picture of William Tell's Church"

Rev. E. Carl Brady, pastor, writing July 8th, of Franklinton, N. C., says: "The Caviness-Yelton evangelist campaign here closed on the 11th. Judging by additions to our Church, the meeting was a failure; but this was not a safe criterion. We had two additions and many rededications. The Baptist and Methodist Churches had their ranks strengthened. We cannot begin to estimate the value of the meeting conducted by these God-fearing men. The Holy Spirit worked, and every one felt that it was good to be at the service. Their influence in this town will live on and on." Bro. Caviness has been, the past week, with Rev. C. E. Newman in a meeting at Virgilia, Va., the results of which we have not learned.

Rev. G. C. Crutchfield, Wakefield, Va., brother of Rev. H. E. Crutchfield, pastor of Liberty (Vance), assisted his brother in conducting a revival at Liberty (Vance) last week. Sister R. J. Newton, writing July the 20th, says: "Never in our history has the interest been manifested that is now in evidence here. Monday night we had a packed house; the afternoon looked like the heart of the meeting. Bro. Crutchfield is the type of Billy Sunday evangelist, the one to reach some whom no one else can. It seems now our Church building will not nearly hold the people who are flocking here to hear Bro. Crutchfield." Bro. H. E. Crutchfield is much loved at Liberty, Vance, and we rejoice that the two brothers are having such a glorious meeting in such a fine community.

One of the busy men of our ministers is Dr. W. W. Staley, of Suffolk. He declares he is about to become a city preacher, though his inclinations and predilections are toward the country, owing, no doubt, to his early training. He has preached in half-dozen large cities the last six Sundays, and does not see the end of this program unless he deliberately says "No," takes his fishing tackle and seeks a place of refuge. This last he declares he is going to do, on which account this editor is trembling right now when he thinks of the rapid decline in the number of fish within the next few days in his friend Beale Johnson's mill-pond. The older Dr. Staley gets—and that's not very old—the greater his admiration for the apostle Peter who, in the midst of great confusion and bewilderment, said, "I go a-fishing."

Will all serious and sober-minded readers of THE CHRISTIAN SUN put it down to the grace of gratitude that THE SUN's editor had one grand and glorious half-day last week. The thing was irresistible. Dr. I. W. Johnson, of Suffolk, was the founder and father of the whole delightful situation. There were Bros. Sam Peele and Jesse Turner, of Liberty Spring community; Deacon T. A. Jones, of Berea (Nansemond), and Master Worthington Williams, of Fort Leavenworth, Kansas City; Dr. W. W. Staley, pastor-emeritus of the Suffolk Christian Church; Dr. I. W. Johnson, secretary of the Southern Christian Convention, and your humble scribe, with a plenty of good bait and unlimited supply of fishing tackle, ice water and such-like, with three good boats on Lake Prince. Now, there was life worth while! And when we crawled up on the shore under the friendly shade of a great spreading oak and cooked some of our catch at 11:30 A. M., there was a meal worth telling about. Well, these things are too good to write about in a Church paper, and this is written for purposes of meditation, and because of our gratitude for the day and the fine friends who made it possible. Dr. Staley declares that he does not recall having a serious thought of any trials, troubles and tribulations while fishing. The difference between him and this writer in this particular is that the writer had not ever thought that much.

BURLINGTON.

For three years in succession the Burlington Church has held a Daily Vacation Bible School, under the capable leadership of Miss Madge Moffitt, the director of Religious Education for the local church. Of the three sessions held, the last was an advance over the two previous years in the spirit of the school and in the type of work achieved. There was a total enrollment of 182 and an average attendance of 124. The commencement exercises occurred on Sunday night, June 20th, with a very large and appreciative audience present.

The annual Sunday School picnic is planned for this week following the third Sunday in July, and will be held at the Orphanage at Elon College. These occasions are always greatly enjoyed by the large number who attend, and especially by the children of the school.

A number of our Boy Scouts went to the Scout Camp near Reidsville on the 26th, where they will spend a week or two enjoying out-of-door life under the capable, earnest, Christian leadership of Scout Executive O. B. ("Country") Gorman. Mr. E. N. Pearce is Scout Master for the Burlington Church, and his troupe is doing some very fine work. Mr. Pearce and the writer expect to spend a few days in camp with the boys.

Our work in general goes forward in an encouraging way. Just now we are beginning to feel the effects of the vacation season upon the attendance upon all services, but this is only temporary, and about the first of September the attendance will again increase, and, we trust, the work will again be resumed with larger interest and enthusiasm. G. O. LANKFORD.

NOTICE.

All those who expect to attend the seventy-eighth session of the Virginia Valley Central Christian Conference, which will be held at Linville, Va., August 18-20, are requested to notify, as early as possible, either Miss Sallie Payne, Harrisonburg, Va., Route 3, or Rev. R. P. Crumpler, Linville, Va. Not only notify us that you are coming, but also please state whether you will come by train or automobile, and whether you wish entertainment and for how long. Let everybody try to be here for the opening session, and remain until Conference adjourns on Friday afternoon. Those coming by bus or auto can come either via Harrisonburg or leave the Valley Turnpike at Long's Pump, near Lacey Spring, Va.

R. P. CRUMPLER.

NOTICE.

At the recent session of the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention which met at Wake Chapel Church, I was appointed recording secretary. I take this opportunity of asking for the co-operation of every pastor and Sunday School superintendent in the Eastern North Carolina Conference.

Listen, my friends. We have forty-eight Churches in our Conference that should have a good, live Sunday School. I have received a report from only nineteen, while some of these do not contain the information needed to place them in class No. 1. Therefore, I am asking that each pastor act as a committee, with the Sunday School superintendent, and send a full report from each school.

We want our Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Handbook to be an honor to our Church, but it will be a failure without your assistance. It is impossible to prepare the minutes without the reports. Our hearts are made sad when we see the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Handbook of 1925 and realize how incomplete it appears. One is at once inclined to blame the secretary for the deplorable situation. I wonder if one thinks that the secretary should bear all the criticism, or have we been careless in sending in a report!

Again, may I repeat that I earnestly desire your loyal co-operation in this great big task. The 1926 handbook will be just what you make it. So please send up your best report. If there is any Church without a Sunday School or Christian Endeavor Society, and desires one, if you will write the undersigned we will endeavor to help you in the organization of same.

Please give this notice your most careful consideration, grant the request, and thereby help make the work a success.

Your friend in Him,

MRS. R. J. NEWTON,
Henderson, N. C., Rt. 1. Secretary.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Virginia Valley Central Conference will meet at Linville, Va., on Wednesday, August 18, 1926. W. T. Walters, President; A. W. Andes, Secretary.

Alabama Conference will meet with the Church at Bethany on Tuesday, October 11, 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M. G. D. Hunt, President; E. M. Carter, Secretary.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 1, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 15, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church Tuesday, November 22, 1926. G. O. Lankford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 7, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x 7 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 1-1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1-1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools 95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x 8-1-2 Inches and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

C. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE CHRISTIAN COLLEGE AND THE CHURCH.

The Church college is absolutely essential to Church life and growth. If the Church college functions adequately, the Church which it serves will do likewise. Unless the Church college functions adequately, the whole Church which it serves will suffer. Jesus realized this, even if we Christians are slow in doing so. He was the great Teacher, and for three years gave His pupils such a religious college training as none have had since His day. Through His contact with His pupils and the great teaching which He did, the whole world has been reshaped and is being redeemed. It is marvelous to think of what three years of intensive teaching in a purely religious school has accomplished. Socrates, Plato and Aristotle, three master scholars and teachers of their day and of all time, taught through a combined period of one hundred and thirty years. They have had a marvelous and boundless influence on all teaching and all thought since their day, but their united efforts, so far as results are concerned, are not to be compared with the three years' teaching of Jesus the Christ. The work of the Greek scholars was purely intellectual, the work of the Rabbi of Galilee was purely religious. The latter conducted a Church college.

While the teachers in the Church colleges of our day may not hope to attain to the high heights reached by the Master teacher, they are working along the right line when they dedicate their time and talent to the supreme task of religious instruction. It is in a religious atmosphere that the greatest freedom of thought and the greatest liberty of life and mind are attained. This writer was recently in conversation with the two United States senators now representing the State of North Carolina at Washington. Both of these champions of democracy and defenders of liberty and justice were trained in a Church college, in which there were at the time not over one hundred pupils. The Church college has always been the breeding place of civil, political and religious liberty and also the broadest scholarship.

We are presenting in this issue of THE SUN some facts and considerations about our own Elon and Bethlehem Colleges which our people should consider. The future of our Church today—that part of it served by THE CHRISTIAN SUN—has its progress, or the opposite, locked up in and with these institutions. The future leaders of our Churches are now getting their training in these colleges.

One does not like to think, even try to think, of what our Church here in the South would be today, but for the training that Elon College through a period of thirty-six years has done and is doing for the Church. Both in the pulpit and in the pew for the most part, the policies and the prestige of the Church are shaped by and are in the hands of those who received their training at Elon. We easily discern the leadership of the ministers who had their training at Elon; we do not as easily discern the leadership of the laymen who have been trained at Elon, but it is as much in evidence and as unquestioned if we look far enough for it.

Our own Church colleges may not, in the estimation of some, measure up to some standards achieved already by other colleges, but of this one thing we are certain, namely: that our Church college is certainly the best college in all this earth for us Christians. Our prayers, our sacrifices, our united influence have made these colleges. They belong to us and are seeking to serve us. If they are not what they should be, that is our fault, our failure, our neglect, our unwillingness, our inability to make them better; and the same may be said of every Church enterprise. It is not the size of equipment, or the greatness of faculty, or endowment, or curriculum that makes a Church college the best; it is the fact that it is ours that makes it the best for us. From the beginning of days until now, loyalty and life are the streams that have flowed down through the current of time, and these united streams bear men and women on to renown and usefulness and conquest. We overlook the worth and benefit and value of loyalty, of devotion, and of consecration to a cause, an enterprise or an institution. And these are the elements that count in the make up of character. If we seek with proper loyalty and devotion to do our best for our own, we have all to gain and nothing to lose thereby.

If the Church college suffers, every enterprise of the Church will suffer with it, or will do so in the future. If the Church college flourishes and does with soul and merit that which it is created to do, all Church enterprises share in its glory and achievement. The destiny of the Church for growth or decline, let us repeat, is inseparably wrapped up with the life of the Church college.

Here is hoping that every member of THE CHRISTIAN SUN family who has a son or daughter to send to college this fall will consider prayerfully these things and will see to it that their sons and daughters are registered in the fall in our own Church colleges. This is not sectarian, it is not narrow; it is liberality, it is loyalty, it is life, and those who follow this course will discover one day, if they do not realize it, that their loyalty and devotion to their own are elements of the most vital kind, both in their own life and in the lives of their sons and daughters.

J. O. A.

CHOOSING A COLLEGE.

There are seven considerations which should enter into the choice of a college, every one of which is of special importance in the preparation and the outlook which life is to receive.

I. Physical Education.

Does the college have an adequate system of physical education? Of course, it will have athletic features, but athletics must not be confused with physical education. Does the college afford proper attention to the physical development of each pupil? What is its record as to health, and do its graduates and students live the normal number of years?

II. Scholarship.

Is the atmosphere of the institution such as to conduce to scholarship? Do its students devote themselves whole-heartedly or half-heartedly to the primary purpose of a college, the pursuit of useful and uplifting knowledge?

III. Culture.

Are the students cultured and refined, or are they coarse and rowdy? Do they give evidence that they are acquainted with the amenities of life? Are they able to move without embarrassment in association with their fellows, whether of high or low degree?

IV. Expense.

Is the college an institution for the sons and daughters of the rich, or does it make possible for those of limited means the opportunities which it offers its students? A comment may be made here to this effect: Habits of high living developed in college have wrecked the careers of numberless promising youth.

V. Activities.

Does the college provide activities of a social, recreational, literary, and religious nature, giving its students a well-rounded and balanced development for their life?

VI. Plant.

Is the college plant modern and adapted to the development of the growing personality? Is it an architectural whole, expressive of beauty and character? Will those who are its students look back with pride to their college days when they think of the physical equipment which served them in their youth as college students?

VII. Religious Environment.

Does the college provide a wholesome moral, spiritual and religious atmosphere? What is its aim? Does it recognize that Christian character is the basic consideration for every institution of higher learning, and that it must not be sacrificed for any other aim or goal?

In choosing a college, these elements should certainly enter into the ultimate decision, and, when they have been answered affirmatively, there need be no hesitation in regard to enrollment in the institution. If any of these elements is lacking there should be careful consideration before arriving at an ultimate decision. W. A. H.

STARVING COLLEGES.

Figures just made public by the Department of the Interior indicate that the benefactions to American colleges and universities during the fiscal year 1923-24 amounted to very nearly eighty-two million dollars. Harvard University headed the list with nearly eight millions, and Yale and Northwestern University each received upward of five millions. Eight other institutions of learning were enriched by gifts in excess of two millions. Women's colleges did not fare so handsomely; but Vassar, nevertheless, received nearly a million, and Wellesley, Smith, Radcliffe, Agnes Scott in Georgia, and Salem College in North Carolina, were each benefited by gifts in excess of one hundred thousand dollars.

No one can fairly grudge any one of these institutions its good fortune; and yet one may not improperly express regret that scores of smaller and obscurer colleges did not receive the financial encouragement which they so richly deserve. These are hard times for the small colleges. The cost of education has been steadily mounting, and endowment funds have not kept pace with the demands upon them. The trustees and friends of these struggling institutions are at their wits' ends to keep them going. More than a few are in such a plight that they have to keep their presidents on the road soliciting funds from strangers who are unaware of the very existence of the colleges they represent.

Institutions of learning should not be held amenable to the law to survival of the financial fit. If the chief end and aim of the fresh-water college were to turn out as many millionaires as possible, and if the score of its usefulness were to be cast up in the columns of the commercial rating books, the financially weak institution might be open to hostile criticism; but this is not the measure of merit commonly applied to centers of learning whose business is to lay the educational foundations of future parsons and lawyers, doctors and scientists, philosophers and thinkers. And yet all experience goes to show that the small college whose roll of alumni does not include a fair proportion of rich and influential graduates, firmly bound to their alma mater by ties of gratitude and sentiment, is likely to suffer for the lack of them. The sentiment and gratitude are rarely wanting. Indeed, the smaller and more obscure a man's college, the more ardent and pronounced is his loyalty to it likely to be. Loyalty is one of the finest things in the world, but it cannot always be transmuted into bricks and mortar, faculty salaries, laboratory equipment and the wherewithal of higher institution.

The financial limitations of the graduate bodies of these small but sturdy colleges should be more widely recognized and new avenues of income should be opened up for them. In this richest of nations there may be a few States which lack sufficient local private wealth to maintain local institutions, but most of our commonwealths could privately finance their own colleges without crossing State lines.

Neither wealth nor liberality is lacking. The deterring element is the fact that in many parts of the country higher education is still on trial, as it were. It is still passing through the same transition period as that through which the motor car passed twenty years ago, when the American public was making up its mind whether to regard it as an amusing toy for the rich or as an indispensable factor in modern civilization. In our older centers of population, higher learning came into its own in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries; in certain other localities its slow spread is regarded with tolerance rather than with interest or enthusiasm. The rich men of these regions are scarcely to be blamed if they do not make sacrifices to support a cause in which their belief is lukewarm and half-hearted. As they begin to understand the reality of college needs and to perceive their linkage with the destinies of their own sons and daughters, the battle will be won.

Local pride will one day exercise a mighty influence in the financing of small colleges which have not yet become its beneficiaries. New and thriving centers of population want their neighbors and the world at large to think well of them. Gradually they are realizing that those whose good opinion they most desire grade the civilization of a community down or up according to whether it regards higher education as a luxury or as an essential.—Editorial, Saturday Evening Post.

IRRESISTIBLE FORCES IN CHRISTIANITY.

The silent forces of papers, magazines, books, and pictures are at work in human society as water percolating among the rootlets of garden, field, and forest. No eye sees the tiny streamlets, nor the increasing roots, but the landscape is covered with beauty, harvests, and giant trees. Human genius had forty centuries without Christianity and never crossed the ocean or built a railroad, never erected an asylum or printed a book. The aim of Christianity is no less than the education of mankind. It is the only religion whose ministry educates the masses of mankind. It not only carries to the heathen this benevolent gospel, but it seeks to draw out and train their faculties and powers for higher and nobler life. There are lulls, pauses in the movement of the Church toward the enlightenment of the world; but rests in music are as essential as the sweetest notes. Punctuation points and pauses in writing and speaking are as important as the strongest sentences. Let the selahs remain in the psalms. God is educating the nations. He is making history for the eternities, composing oratorios to be sung by angelic choirs with the music on golden harps: it may be that in such grand strains some long pauses, some deep silences, may be necessary to complete the song. Nature takes her long rest under winter snow and then blooms out again in the daisy and summer rose. Christianity teaches through flowers and stars. "Consider the lilies," and "the heavens declare the glory of God"; and Jesus says, "Learn of me."

Christianity is missionary. This is born of love for God, for man, for purity, for home. It is philanthropic, aggressive, divine. The spell of the ages, the key of the universe, the music of heaven, the pulse of deity, the hope of the world. It sounds no tocsin of war, takes no spoils in its conquests, enslaves no people, begs no bread; it dispenses truth, lives for others, provides for their needs, asks no pay, offers freely its money, its life and its love. It exhibits its benefits in science, in art, in government and in character, and then appeals to these visible results for the confidence of man. No other era or institution has ventured upon such a benevolence as to carry life and good to all mankind. The missionary spirit is irresistible. All kingdoms of error must finally yield to truth. Like electricity in matter, Christianity proclaims its own gospel, makes no apology, admits no competitor, offers no compromises, but puts new light and energy into man. So subtle as to elude definition, so brilliant as to dispel darkness, so mighty as to be irresistible, yet speaking under seas and over continents, and shining round the world. Divine in origin, universal in scope, missionary in operation, man-saving in its love and power. The first missionary work among the Hottentots and Bushmen was in 1734 by George Schmidt, sent out by the Moravians. He began to tell and live the story of the cross to a little company of that dark-skinned, dark-minded people at Vale of Grace, one hundred and thirty miles out of Cape Town. His work was violently opposed by colonists a few years after, and the work was suspended for half a century. But it was renewed again, and there are now sixteen stations, sixty missionaries, and twelve thousand converts. The missionary spirit is too Christ-like to fail; it is divinely irresistible.

THE FAITH THAT HEALS.

Our good brother Dr. J. B. Lehman has written an article on the above topic in The Gospel Plea, taking this for his text: "Behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed; and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy, Son be of good cheer, thy sins are forgiven." Now, the strange thing about Dr. Lehman's treatment of this text is that he begins with this sentence: "Christ healed the man because he had faith." Now, what we would like to know is where did Dr. Lehman get his authority for saying that this man sick of the palsy had any faith. So far as Scripture goes, the man himself had no more faith than did the bed he was lying on. The text and the context are absolutely silent on the question of this man's faith. He may have had faith, but there is no statement indicating such, and to infer it seems to us to be far-fetched and to miss the very point that this Scripture is teaching. "Jesus seeing their faith" forgave the sins of the sick man and cheered him. He healed and forgave that poor fellow because there were friends about who had faith in Jesus and exercised that faith in behalf of a sick man who, so far as the records show, had no faith and may have been up to this time incapable of having any. There are other illustrious examples of this great principle in Scripture. In fact, that greatest and most outstanding example of faith which our Lord discovered in Israel (Luke 7-9), "I have not found so great faith; no, not in Israel," was given of the man who exercised this faith not in his own behalf, but in behalf of another who, so far as Scripture shows, either had no faith, or certainly gave no evidence of having any. This faith was that of the centurion who had a servant who was dear to him and who was sick and ready to die. So far as Scripture shows, that servant was so close to death that he did not have left consciousness or strength sufficient to enable him to exercise faith in Jesus or in any one else. It was the centurion's faith, in behalf of his servant, that furnished the challenge through which we have the virtue of Jesus going out to and healing a man "sick and ready to die."

How very often we make fatal blunders in this regard? We think that an individual must have and display, on his own behalf, a faith in Christ before he can get help or be healed. Scripture shows many times over, and with multiplied examples, that the hand of Jesus was often extended to, reach and heal and redeem those who, having no faith, had friends or loved ones who did have faith. Lazarus may have had faith, but he had been dead and wrapped in the silence of the tomb four days. It was the faith of Mary and Martha, beloved sisters, that released the power of Jesus to the raising of Lazarus. Surely Scripture teaches nothing more plainly than that there can be, and often is, vicarious faith as well as vicarious suffering or joy.

VALLEY LETTER.

My last letter to THE SUN was written while I was holding a meeting with our Timber Mountain Church, in Hampshire County, W. Va. I am glad to say we had a good meeting there—the best since I have been their pastor. The congregations were the largest we have ever had. There were twelve conversions and ten additions to the Church. I am through with revival meetings now until I start in again after Conference.

Our Conference will meet at Linville this year, five miles north of Harrisonburg, and will be in session Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday before the fourth Sunday in August, i. e., August 18-20. We are hoping for a good Conference in every way. As outside speakers, we are expecting Rev. W. Q. McKnight, one of our Japan missionaries; Dr. W. A. Harper, president of Elon College; Mr. A. F. Chase, representing the Christian Publishing Association, Dayton, Ohio; Prof. P. J. Kernodle, managing editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, Richmond, Va.; Chas. D. Johnston, superintendent Orphanage; and perhaps Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary. With this splendid array of fine talent, many of our people should plan to attend the Conference all the way through from the beginning to the end; and not just one day, as so often happens since the automobile has come and offers us such convenient opportunity to go and come at our pleasure. Our people should appreciate the opportunities such a gathering offers, and make the most use of them possible, and here is hoping many will do so.
Harrisonburg, Va. A. W. ANDES.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Can't and won't are common in human speech. Can't and won't are common in human speech, always friends. Can't is the individual talking for himself; won't is the individual talking about can't. These two fellows are in all business, all churches, and in all organizations. They live close enough to be neighbors, but they do not agree. They are both often misunderstood, and then hard feelings grow up without any foundation. They sometimes become bitter enemies. They are not confined to age, station, race or education. They disturb friendly relations, check progress, and reduce the value of Christian influence. They build two fences along the same line, set up barriers in business and religion, and create differences that can never be corrected.

Mr. Can't will not attend prayer meeting, Sunday School and Church when there is nothing to hinder. He will not pay Church obligations when he has the money. He will not help institutions when they are in need and he is able to help them. True to his nature, he says: "I can't do it." He is a member of the Church. He is pious in talking with people who don't know him. The can'ts are not all masculine. Both sexes are in this family. When they owe little bills and called upon to pay them, they say: "I can't pay them." They never refuse to buy on credit. They are good customers as long as they can get credit. Sometimes they are liberal in making subscriptions; but when the pledge comes due, they say again, "I just can't pay it now." The collector is better acquainted with "I can't" than any other person. The ledger knows many of them. The storekeeper is slightly acquainted with them. The real can't is to be pitied. He is honest. He deserves release from an obligation.

Won't does not talk himself. The other fellow talks for him. He is so timid that he never confesses his real condition; but the creditor says of him, he "won't" pay, he "won't" do his part, he "won't" come across. He owes me a bill, but he "won't" pay it; he is a member of our Church, but he "won't" pay anything for the support of the Church. He never goes to Sunday School. The man that thinks he is honest, that he is truthful, that he does his part in all relations, is reckless enough to say of another that he could, but he "won't." That is true sometimes; but often it is not. But when a person reaches the stage when he says I "won't" to an assumed or implied obligation, whether it is financial, legal, moral, or spiritual, he has reached the acme of turpitude. Can and will are better terms than can't and won't. Can and will run the world; can't and won't are rocks on which many ships founder. The world would go forward better if fewer would say I can't and he won't. What the world and the Church both need most is for men and women to be what they are, and the unjust critic to smother his own thoughts and never let them take the form of words.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

I have had the rare pleasure during the months of June and July to form some very satisfactory personal contacts with our leaders in Christian work in the Central, Metropolitan, and New England Conventions, and at the same time come to know in a more intimate way four of our denominational institutions in these Conventions.

I had the pleasure in June of attending the commencement at Defiance College. I had visited Defiance before and had known the splendid work it is doing in the way of training leadership for the Christian Church, but my visit at commencement confirmed me all the more in my judgment of the stability of this great institution and the educational statesmanship of President Caris. It certainly seemed like home as President Caris and I discussed the educational problems that face Defiance. There is no doubt that Defiance has a wonderful future before it. The most significant advanced project contemplated for the immediate future is the addition of a professor of religious education to the teaching staff.

My next visit was to the Metropolitan summer school held at Starkey Seminary, Lakemont, N. Y. Here the great and cultured savant, Dr. Martyn Summerbell, presides and here a foundational work in Christian character and thorough scholarship is steadily maintained. Dr. J. N. Dales was dean of the summer school and had gathered about him a strong faculty. The summer school at Lakemont bids fair to be a rallying point for leadership training in the Metropolitan Convention.

Immediately following the Lakemont summer school I had the pleasure of serving as a faculty member at the Craigville summer school, Craigville, Mass. For more than fifty years New England Christians have maintained religious services during the summer at this beautiful resort. A splendid property is owned by the Christian Camp Meeting Association, which appropriates a liberal sum of money for the maintenance of this summer school. New England has a wonderful opportunity to do a constructive work in leadership training at Craigville, and I was extremely gratified to know that the leaders there fully appreciate their opportunities, and that they are taking steps progressively each year to realize their ideals and capitalize their possibilities.

The fourth institution which I visited was the Carversville Orphanage, at Carversville, Pa. At this delightful rural village we have maintained a Christian Church for nearly a hundred years, but only three and a half years ago did this community assume for our denomination a general interest. It was three years and a half ago that Dr. L. F. Johnson, with a rare faith, undertook to found for the Christians at this place an orphanage. He began the work with less than $300.00 in hand, and now we have properties belonging to the Church at this place valued, conservatively I think, at from $20,000 to $25,000, and, in addition to this, the institution has an option on a farm which it is now privileged to use for interest and taxes which is necessary to the future of the orphanage and which is more valuable by far than the price named in the option. It was a genuine pleasure to meet Dr. and Mrs. Johnson in their orphanage home, and with them the thirty orphanage children whom they are rearing to be Christian men and women in the name of the Christian Church. The orphanage gives the Christians in this section of our Church a rallying point and general interest which will prove of incalculable value in the perpetuation and stabilizing of our work there.

I am very sincere in saying that I have a brighter vision of the future of our Church and of its contribution to the kingdom of Christ after these days of association with our leaders and these intimate personal contacts with our denominational institutions and their executives.

W. A. HARPER.

COLLEGE ATMOSPHERE.

BY DR. W. T. WALTERS.

The decision as to where we shall send our boys and girls to college is a most momentous one. There are many angles from which it should be considered. It is a question of scholarship, of future standing, of expense, but should be, most of all, a question of environment; and if we can think of a college education not simply as so much knowledge, nor a perversion whereby we can make so many dollars and cents, but as a character builder, we shall see the necessity for the above consideration.

The day our boys and girls leave home for college is one of the most critical periods in their lives. For years we have held up before them certain standards and endeavored to bring certain influences to bear upon their lives, and to instill within them certain fixed principles of conduct which should control their personal habits and govern their relationships with others. When the gardener transfers the plant from its seed-bed to the garden, he wisely puts it in soil and under conditions where it will mature in the purpose for which it was planted. Shall we fail our child at this critical time by putting him under an influence that will either smother or upset these salient principles which we have so carefully guarded through his childhood? Among the things which are essential to him in his development are the following:

First—A religious influence. Religion thrives best in a religious atmosphere. There must be religious services and religious companionships, and there should be religious organizations with the opportunity for religious activities; and where your boy or girl fails to find this, room is given for the weakening of spiritual development or being weaned away from it entirely.

Second—There should be positive Christian teaching. An educational system that ignores or disputes the existence of God in its teaching is a dangerous influence in the molding of young life and a menace to the future citizenship of the nation. In the formative years, through literature, science and philosophy, the positive teachings of God and religion should be developed in the college student.

Third—a high ideal. The highest ideal in life is not to be the best athlete or to have a knowledge of the largest number of subjects—worthy as these may be in their place; but to render the greatest service. "He that would be great among you, let him be your minister; and whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant."

The school or college to which we intrust our children should foster these things in order that education may develop Christian manhood and womanhood.

Elon College seeks to throw this atmosphere around its students. Its buildings, its faculty, its curriculum, and its organizations were designed and employed to this end. The institution has been built and maintained through these years by the sacrifices of our people, that we might have such an institution for the training of our youth. As to how well the college has met this ideal may be judged from the facts that in thirty-six years of history and hundreds of graduates, but one has gone out who was not affiliated with the Church.

If you want your child to develop a Christian character, give him a chance by keeping him in a Christian atmosphere during the formative years of his life.

Burlington, N. C.

Send in your renewal to THE SUN before conference meets, then go to conference and get your friends to subscribe.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

A Stewardship Study Class.

The Piqua, Ohio, Church conducted a stewardship study class this summer, using Dr. Lilly's book, "A Partnership in Living." The pastor, Dr. J. E. Kauffman, writes: "The official board was enthusiastic over the course in stewardship. They liked the textbook, 'A Partnership in Living,' very much. Twelve of the official members entered the class. It was conducted by the pastor. The time of meeting was at 6:30 on Sunday evening, the hour preceding the Church service. The official board most heartily recommends this book to any other official boards of any Church or to any group of individuals who might want a Christian view of the world and of their relationship to the Heavenly Father. The four chapters of the book are brief, but vital and significant. I trust that many others may be led to make a study of this excellent book on man's relation to God, stewardship."

There is no more important matter for Church officials than to make a careful study of stewardship. Dr. Lilly's book, with its four chapters—partnership in service, partnership in character-building, partnership in joy, partnership in administration—is admirably adapted for such a study. It costs but twenty-five cents. Better try it.

Conference and Convention Delegates.

It is not sufficient for the Conferences to have full delegations at the General Convention. Nor is it sufficient that they be your most representative persons, outstanding in their vision, consecration and effort to advance the kingdom through the Christian Church. It is not enough that they do not make the Convention primarily a matter of visiting, sight-seeing, or a vacation trip. It is important that delegates stay through. The first and last days are as important as any. The Convention comes but once in four years. Its deliberations and actions are vital to the delay or progress of the kingdom. The coming late and going early are largely habits. What pastor does not know that certain persons in his congregation are habitually late or early. He knows that certain ones will come in during the singing of the second hymn! What Conference officer does not know that certain "regulars" will not be there the first or last day, and that others just as "busy" will be there throughout! It is a well-recognized fact that certain members will be late at the General Board meetings and others are "just compelled to go" before it adjourns. It is not the length of the Conference or board meetings either. The same thing occurs, as a rule, whether the session be six days or three. All recognize that there are necessitous cases of course, but generally speaking, it is a matter of habit. Many denominations hold their national sessions longer than we do. We are no busier than others. Our work is as important as theirs. Plan to stay through if you are honored by being a delegate from your Conference to our General Convention.

Superintendents Encourage Tithing.

Superintendent M. W. Connell, Keswick, Ont., writes: "We have been tithers for several years. Wife just spoke last Sunday how there always seemed to be money for our offerings, and we have always had enough for our needs. It makes one feel better, too, to tithe."

PROGRAM FOR A RURAL CHURCH.

BY PROF. RALPH A. FELTON,

In Our Templed Hills.

1. Help to strengthen family ties in the midst of all the present-day forces that tend to tear them apart. Stress the sacredness of family life.
2. Keep the children as the center to the home and community life, thus using the stones to build parish houses, in place of reformatories; using the rope to construct playground swings, instead of for hanging people; giving at least as much space to parks as to cemeteries; having schoolhouses as fine as barns; providing as much furniture for the children as for guests; giving as much time for the bedtime story-hour as for the radio and the newspaper.
3. Emphasize both bodily health and spiritual holiness, both sanitation and saintliness, before Him who tells us that we are the temples of the living God!
4. Put more emphasis upon true worship, but also recognize the fact that religious obligation is not exhausted by going to Church; neither is the Church's task completed by simply persuading people to come to meetings.
5. Develop a Christian atmosphere in which a clean and wholesome social life can be lived in this day when commercial agencies are bidding for the control of all recreation.
6. Christianize all relationships in such a way that, as we are drawn closer together by improved methods of communication and by co-operative economic agencies, we may build that world-wide brotherhood that has been talked about for so long.
7. Help make this earth beautiful which God has made holy, and conserve its fertility as well as its beauty for future generations.
8. Teach respect for law. Look upon government and laws as the best judgment of the best people, and develop the individual conscience to obey and to enforce the law.
9. Put the spirit of Christ into every-day life, so large a portion of which consists in earning a living; placing service above profits, ideals above dividends, and human relationships above material wealth.

(One wonders how many pastors of our rural Churches are honestly trying to put on this or any other spiritual program as equally effectual and constructive!—ED. SUN.)

WHAT I THINK OF BETHLEHEM COLLEGE.

BY PROF. R. M. SATTERFIELD.

While other sections of the State of Alabama were discussing the possibility of the location of Bethlehem College in their midst, east central Alabama, with the habit of always keeping in advance of the development of education in Alabama, came forward with her claim for the location of Bethlehem in her realms, and what she had done and the possibility of what she could do, induced the Christian Church to locate at Wadley, Alabama. So far the citizens of this section have proved worthy of their opportunity; they have made it possible for the erection of the present building and for the erection of the main administration building which is now under construction.

To the people of the Christian faith of South Georgia much credit is due for the help they have given in the raising of money to carry these projects out. People of the entire section of east Alabama and west Georgia are beginning to see and to realize the need of such an institution in their midst, and in the course of only a short while they are going to give freely, willingly and cheerfully for the maintenance and carrying on of this institution.

Bethlehem is handicapped, due to the fact that east central Alabama is a part of the hilly, rolling section of the piedmont region, in which the farms are small and the land is poor, and economic returns depend entirely upon this.

For such sections the Junior College offers opportunities to students of limited means that the large institutions cannot afford. A student here can do two years of college work for less than half the cost of the same work at the larger institutions. A student doing the first two years of college work at a Junior College is an upper-class man. He has opportunity for leadership and is not swallowed up in the crowded conditions of the large freshman class at college. More individual attention can be given him, and he has a better opportunity to associate with his teachers and to profit by such association. Only a small per cent who enter our larger institutions ever graduate. In the Junior College, with its reasonable rates, the student is not only encouraged with the prospect of graduation but also enjoys the inspiration and dignity of a place among the upper-classes throughout his entire college career.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.

MEN'S PENS	$2.00
LADIES' PENS	$2.00
aid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
 1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
 RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

ELON COLLEGE

ELON'S DEPARTURE IN ATHLETICS.

There has just been issued a bulletin of Elon College entitled "1926 Athletic Number," in which it is set forth that Elon College is undertaking a departure new and untried among the North Carolina colleges in the field of athletics. The bulletin gives the baccalaureate address to the graduating class of '26 by President W. A. Harper, who used as his subject "Spiritual Athletics." The bulletin sets forth the fact that the departure which the college is making under the name of "faculty coaching" is to be a practical nasium for men, and with Miss Helen R. Brett in charge of physical education for the ladies.

"Dr. W. M. Jay was for six years head coach at Defiance College. He is a man of the highest Christian character, is a graduate of Defiance and Ohio State, and graduate student of the University of Chicago. He knows young men and loves them. They have loved him, too, whether he has served as coach, professor, or pastor. He will teach English literature and coach basket-ball and baseball. Dr. Jay is to study in Columbia this summer.

"Prof. A. R. VanCleave was for four years and needs no introduction. His record speaks for itself.

"It is felt that the combination of teaching with coaching will have a salutary effect on athletics as well as on scholarship in the college life. While faculty coaching is new in North Carolina, it is recommended by educational experts the country over, and it is well known that the head coach at Notre Dame, an institution that has achieved high distinction in athletics, is also head of the chemistry department there. This is a notable instance of a custom that is growing in popularity in colleges and universities throughout the country. It has long been the method, where student coaching was not practiced, in England and European countries."

J. O. A.

ELON KEEPING ABREAST OF THE TIMES.

By C. M. CANNON,
Secretary of the College.

The rapid forward strides of Elon College in the educational world for the past three years have been all out of proportion to the advancement made in previous years. The recent physical growth of the college plant dates back to a fire three years ago which destroyed the administration building and caused the necessity for a rebuilding program. In the rebuilding work, the college plant was increased many times over the former facilities, and now ranks well to the front in college buildings and equipment.

One million dollars was spent on rebuilding, which included five administration buildings and their equipment, along with the beautifying of the college campus. This group of five buildings makes provision for the future growth and development of the college, not in numbers of students but in efficiency in studies and college activities. The Elon College enrollment is limited to four hundred students. The board of trustees of the college are convinced that this is the right number of students for the most efficient work and development of the individual life. For this reason, it is not expected that the enrollment will be increased any in many years, or until new standards in education are set. For this limited enrollment the five administrative buildings, which include an administrative building for class-room instruction, library, auditorium and chapel, science hall, and student activities building, are entirely ample for the best work, and Elon College will never be bothered with the crowded conditions existing in other colleges. For this limited enrollment, Elon College has one of the best equipped plants of any college in the South. Taking into consideration the enrollment, this increased physical plant has been one of the phenomenal developments in the educational institutions of North Carolina.

But Elon College has stepped into the lead in other phases of educational work besides that of the physical plant, and particularly in two items, namely, the adoption of the faculty coaching system for athletics, and the training of Christian workers.

Grave criticisms have arisen, and many of them justly so, against the over emphasis of athletics in the college life. "The most important part of our leisure time is concerned with athletics," stated President W. A. Harper in a recent address. He further added that, "No group of college executives or teachers of any importance has met in the past several months without issuing some sort of pronouncement in regard to the athletic situation. The indication is that we face a time of reconstruction in college athletic policies and the adoption of a method of control of athletics in the interest of the colleges as institutions of learning."

Whitley Memorial Auditorium.

working out of the high aims and ideals set forth in the baccalaureate address referred to. President Harper's contention is that athletics can be spiritualized and be no less efficient, but even more so than under the old system of heedlessness as to morality and spirituality. The bulletin carries the names and brief records of those who are to undertake this great task in a North Carolina college. This indeed is a matter worthy of consideration, and the departure will be watched with great anxiety and hopefulness. We quote from the bulletin which will explain the idea that Elon is trying to work out on the athletic field:

"Dr. W. M. Jay and Prof. A. R. VanCleave constitute the coaching staff for the major sports—football, basket-ball and baseball—with Mr. A. K. Moore caring for tennis, track and gymhead coach at Union Christian College, and put out the best football team the college ever had. He is a graduate of Union Christian and of the State University of Indiana, a graduate student of the University of Chicago, and plans to study at the University of Illinois this summer. Prof. VanCleave is a man of the strictest integrity and has enjoyed high popularity as professor and as coach. He will teach philosophy and social science, and be head coach in football.

"Miss Helen R. Brett is a graduate of Chowan College and of King's School of Oratory, where she specialized in expression and physical education for young women. She comes with the best of credentials.

"Mr. A. K. Moore has served as 'gym' director and as coach of track and tennis during 1925-26

Shortly after this address was made, the Board of Trustees took action along this line and adopted the faculty coaching system. Elon is the first institution in North Carolina to do this, and this step will eliminate the criticisms formerly hurled at athletics, and will have a salutary effect on athletics as well as on the scholarship in the college life. It is felt that time will justify the combination of teaching with coaching.

In keeping with the reputation of the Christian denomination as pioneers in the field of Christian Education, Elon College has taken the lead of all institutions of higher learning in America, in this respect. The erection of a special building for the training of Christian leaders at a cost of and Dramatics, play an important part in the lives of the college students.

The work in Household Economics is also being stressed for young women, majors being offered both in Domestic Science and Domestic Art. Many of the students are preparing to teach this work. And the young men are taking courses in high school coaching and directors of physical training. Whatever there is need for in the small college, Elon has been quick to supply it. Her students have always had the very best advantages.

President W. A. Harper for many years has been giving untiring service and effort to the college with the following ideas in view: first, to will draw young people from far and near to receive training that will enable them to live useful and pleasant lives. Thus the work of Elon College in the Christian denomination is being felt through the land as well as in our own denomination.

GREAT WORK.

Everywhere I go I find people—our people—rejoicing over the wonderful advances being made in Dayton, Ohio.

Twenty-five years ago two young men went down from Piqua, Ohio, to Dayton. It was their first visit to that section of our great work. Their hearts beat high with hope at seeing what our headquarters might reveal. But what a disappointment! Both our publishing interests and our lone Church in the city of Dayton sent those boys back to their fields of labor with a sickening sense of humiliation to think that the one denomination among so many which had the courage to do so many wonderful things could be satisfied with a little old dingy Church, and only one, in the city which they had chosen as their denominational headquarters. The three rented rooms constituting the publishing house were more dismal in appearance, if possible, than was the poor little old Church.

Some six or seven years later one of those young men visited Dayton again. Dr. F. G. Coffin had become pastor of the little old dilapidated Church. The young man was invited to accompany Dr. Coffin to a little old building in another part of the city, which was a mere shack. But there were gathered there that afternoon, a band of real Christians. We had Communion together. That was where the second Church in Dayton was organized, known as Crown Point. Soon after, Walnut Hills was started. Then the city extend-about $150,000 bears testimony to this feature. The Mooney Christian Education Building is a laboratory of religious education, and is the only building of its kind on any college campus in the United States. Other colleges are now considering buildings of this type, many representatives of other institutions having come here for the purpose of examining this building and observing the work that is being carried on in it. But at the present Elon has the distinction of being the only college equipped to give laboratory work of this nature in the religious education courses. The college students conduct in this building Week-Day Schools of Religion for the graded school students, Daily Vacation Bible Schools, and fully graded Sunday School work, under supervision of experts in these fields, as laboratory experimentation in their religious education and Bible courses. So thorough and comprehensive is this work carried on here that a good number of the outstanding theological seminaries of the country admit the Elon students who have successfully completed this course to second year standing in their graduate divinity work.

Central Group of Buildings at Elon College.

Elon College is keeping abreast of the times also in the other courses offered. Teacher-training work with observation and practice teaching is being conducted along the same lines as at the large normal schools. Content courses in elementary and high school work are being offered this year.

The new science hall and its complete equipment, given to the college by the Messrs. Duke, have aided materially in putting the scientific courses and the research work in the science departments on a plane equal with that of the large universities are able to offer.

Great stress is being laid on the work in Commerce and Business Administration, and Elon's course, a four year course being offered, is based on the most approved type of work.

Nor is the æsthetic life of the students being neglected. The courses in music are being strengthened, and full conservatory work is now being given at the college. Fine Arts, Expression, build up a strong faculty; second, to develop the college along material lines and to add to its endowment; third, to build up a strong and loyal student body; and fourth, to gain recognition for the college by all the standardizing agencies. This has been done.

Group of Elon Fine Arts Students.

In the last three years Elon College has doubled the size of its plant, greatly raised the standards of preparation of the students enrolled, gathered together a select faculty of men and women, built modern and thorough courses of study, acquired property an endowment running to nearly two millions of dollars in value, and has sent out men and women thoroughly equipped for useful service and citizenship. We know not what another period of equal length will bring forth, but, judging the future by the past, we have a right to expect that the college will grow and develop and exert her influence for good over a wide era, and ed its borders, and we had a fourth Church in the Shiloh Church. Then came Murlin Heights Church, and still later Riverdale. And now, the faithful are gathering together our seventh Church in that growing city where we have a publishing house which no one need be ashamed of. Instead of renting a few dingy rooms from other people, we have splendidly equipped offices for our own workers, a great printing plant, and rooms to let out to others.

Thank God for the great change which has taken place in a few years!

P. S. SAILER.

THE AIMS AND OBJECTIVES OF BETHLEHEM COLLEGE.

BY PRESIDENT S. L. BEOUGHER.

The principal aim of Bethlehem College is to train for leadership, from such an angle as to dispel fanaticism and radicalism. Radicals are almost invariably persons who are untrained for leadership. They have revolted, but they have not reconstructed their thinking. They are vigorous in criticism and denunciation, but do not know how to achieve efficiency. The real leader of the church must be taught how to study the actual conditions which he confronts. He should be familiar with the facts and laws of social change. Without being an expert scientist, he should at least have a knowledge of what science is doing for human welfare. He must lead men and women who are doing things. He is no champion of outgrown causes. He cannot persuade the members of the rising generation to live the lives of their grandfathers, and they could not if they would.

Bethlehem College has no interest in producing dilettantes—it seeks to train its students for spiritual leadership. It has no desire to dominate their beliefs or to force them into predetermined piety, but it seeks to show them the way to the development of a strong, individual, religious experience. The work of the class room, while as rigorously intellectual as possible, is intended to minister to the religious life. The religious leader whom the college seeks to produce is one trained in a sense of reality, in efficiency and contagious faith.

Due emphasis is put on courses in Religious Education, which lead practically to a new profession. The most important task facing the Christian Church in America is the religious education of her youth. If you want to place your finger on the weak spot in the Protestant Church, place it on the twenty-seven millions of American youth who are growing up in spiritual illiteracy at this present hour. Our great need is trained teachers. Religious education is a vital and permanent human need. Theology, philosophy, metaphysics, psychology, history of religion, ethics, sociology and the biological sciences have already contributed bodies of knowledge essential to religious education. A very definite technique is being formulated: scales, score-cards and standards of measurement have been created and standardized for the purpose of measuring the factors involved in religious education and the processes of religious growth. Already literally thousands of persons are employed as experts in the application of this specialized knowledge to the spiritual needs of human beings. The one aim of this institution is to contribute to this great movement something worth while.

The perpetuity of our democratic institutions depends upon the intelligence of the democratic citizenship and its moral integrity. Through the public school system the American people have determined to create a citizenship capable of directing a great socialized industrial democracy, for in the interest of both religious liberty and political freedom, they removed the formal teaching of religion from the free common schools. The teaching of religion as a groundwork of the moral integrity of our citizens has been accepted by the churches as a responsibility of the church rather than the state, and the outgrowth of this action is seen in the denominational colleges.

There are but two enemies which democracy need fear: ignorance and godlessness. The state will build a system of free schools which can be depended upon to hand on from generation to generation the social, industrial and intellectual achievements of the race. Democracy must now build a companion system of schools which will parallel the public schools and be equally efficient. This system of church schools will hand on from generation to generation the moral and spiritual achievements of the race. The supreme task of the church is to spiritualize the ideals of a democratic people. Education is the most effective method of performing this task. If the church is to build up a great system of religious education she must raise up a vast army of religious teachers, administrators and editors; which can only be done through her church schools. The ment, so as to realize an income of $20,000 annually for the support and expansion of the school; are some of the pressing needs.

Bethlehem College is in the general benevolent budget of the Southern Christian Convention for $10,000 annually, and she will need every cent of it. May the churches and individual friends of the various institutions of the Convention do their best to raise the $150,000 of the general budget so that none of the departments suffer for lack of funds. The full amount can be raised if we all do our best.

Girls' Dormitory, Bethlehem College.

period of reconstruction is calling for foreign leadership such as no previous age has witnessed. The newly democratized nations of the world are demanding Christian teachers, preachers and social workers more rapidly than they can be adequately trained. This school will use its resources to supply this world need.

We encourage athletics, for they tend toward discipline and to strengthen the body. All the great civilizations of the past were destroyed because the people broke down their bodies by dissipation. Men and women who excel in sports, as a rule, do not dissipate. The growing popularity of sports is the great bulwark to our civilization in its menaced moral condition.

Our Board and Faculty consist of the best type of people, and our fees are absolutely the lowest for which honest work can be provided. Our standards rank high and we feel certain that no institution will lower its reputation or standards by accepting our credits. This is the school of opportunity for the poor boys and girls of this hill section of Alabama, and we hope to continue the work on a larger scale until we have reached all who, through no fault of theirs, have missed their chance for an education, if they so desire it.

This is a Christian school with an interdenominational spirit and program; training leaders for a national system of moral and religious education and for all lay-positions in the local church, at home or in the mission fields, together with the regular college courses leading to the full preparation for other vocations in life service.

THE NEEDS OF BETHLEHEM COLLEGE.

BY H. W. ELDER, Financial Agent.

The college has an indebtedness which should be liquidated; the library should be increased by adding not less than 2,000 volumes this fall; another dormitory large enough to accommodate not less than one hundred boys; a home for the president; a better laboratory equipment; the beautification of the campus; $250,000 endow-

The Administration building, which is now commanding our attention and deepest interest, is our one great need at present, or at least a part of it. I do not know what we will do for room to house our student body, as the building we have been using for all purposes will be required to house the high school students. We should have not less than $20,000 now in order to push the building along as should be in order to get any of the building ready by the time it is needed. This building is 117 by 106 feet and two stories high, costing approximately $50,000. We are hoping and praying that the Lord Whom we serve and whose we are and for whose cause this building is being erected, will open the hearts of some of our large consecrated givers and direct them to put some of their money down here in this institution of learning, where God knows it is as much needed as anywhere on His green earth, and will yield as much increase and be appreciated even more.

President S. L. Beougher, Bethlehem College

Men of wealth are more and more devoting a part of that wealth to the general good, and as

(Continued on page 15.)

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

BY REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

August 8, 1926.

THE GIVING OF THE MANNA.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life."—John 6:35.

LESSON: Exodus 16:1-36.

DEVOTIONAL READING: John 6:33-40.

REFERENCE MATERIAL: John 6:22-68; Rev. 2:17.

The people were hungry, and hungry people are seldom in a mood of contentment. This is especially true if men think that they are hungry because of the injustice or greed of others. Just before the French Revolution was precipitated the peasant and lower class of people marched through the towns of France demanding of the nobles that they be given bread. The reply of the haughty nobles was, "Let the people eat grass." A short time later these people marched through the streets again, carrying on poles the heads of those very nobles, and into the mouth of each head there was stuffed grass. Hungry men are not to be trifled with, especially under certain circumstances. The food supply of an army is almost as vital as are the weapons of war. People will put up with second-class sleeping conditions at a hotel if the table board is good. Boys on a hike will endure hardship if their leader will provide ample food at the end of the day's hike. Men are different after they have been fed. It is significant that the first thing Jesus did when He appeared to the disciples by the Sea of Galilee after His resurrection was to feed them. He knew that men who had been fishing all night without food and without luck were in no mood to receive His teachings.

It is small wonder, then, that the children of Israel were in an ugly mood and had begun to murmur against Moses and Aaron. By that strange twist of human nature which is so characteristic of all of us, they had remembered the flesh-pots of Egypt, but they had forgotten the hardships and the oppression that were a part of that flesh-pot business. As some one has said, "Murmurs still have short memories. The spectacles of regret magnify past blessings and bedwarf past sufferings." The people not only told Moses that they would rather be back in Egypt; they accused him of bringing them out into the wilderness to starve. We must not sit in judgment upon these people, for they were still as it were children in their understanding of and outlook upon life. They had not learned even the elementary lessons in the school of experience which God their Schoolmaster had prepared for them.

Things were not as bad as they seemed, however, for Jehovah was in charge of the commissary department. He that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep. He had called His children out into a larger life, and inasmuch as they had heeded His call, it was up to Him to provide for their material wants. These people had not learned it yet, but the same principle was operative in that distant day as was announced twelve centuries later, "Seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." Nor have we learned the lesson, for there are many of us who still give the major portion of our time and our thought and our energy to the question of what we shall eat or what we shall drink—there are many who are concerned here—or what we shall put on. The word of God standeth steadfast and sure, but we do not really believe it.

The outstanding difference between the Hebrew writer and the ordinary writer is the fact that the Hebrew writer saw God in everything. The man who was all intellect would have said that by a strange coincidence flocks of quails came up, and being wearied by their long flight, they fell an easy prey to the Hebrews. He would have said, too, that the dew would have fallen whether the Hebrews were there or not. The Hebrew writer had a heart as well as a head, and he saw in it all a gracious manifestation of the goodness and the glory of God, and the experience of the race has confirmed the wisdom of his interpretation. There is at work in the world today that strange and awe-inspiring process by which the Father feeds His children with enough and to spare. The reason why there is hunger abroad in the world is not because God has not provided enough—it is because man has been unjust and greedy. If the Master were here in the flesh today, He would say to us in regard to the starving multitudes of the earth the same that He said to His disciples, "Give ye them to eat."

There are several interesting and suggestive sidelights in regard to the giving of the manna. In the first place, it was the gift of God. Every good and perfect gift comes from Him. The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof. God giveth the increase. All that comes to man in the way of food from the earth is a gift from God.

In the second place, the people had to gather the quails and the manna. God does His part, but He expects man to do his part. One has only to look at the type of manhood produced by the tropics where nature provides everything to see that it is not best for man to have the gifts of God poured ready-made into his lap. We are workers together with God. As the old negro told the young negro: "It ain't any use to pray, 'Lord, send me a chicken'; the thing to do is to pray, 'Lord, send me after a chicken.'"

In the third place, the people were to gather such as they needed, enough for all the members of their families, but not more. In such an organization there was no place for greed and hogishness. There is a principle here that might well be applied to our present economic situation. Perhaps Socialism is not the thing, but there is something wrong with the social order in which many men and women waste more than enough on foolish and sinful luxuries to feed the hungry multitudes both in their own land and in other lands.

In the fourth place, "So the people rested on the seventh day." When the people obeyed the command of the Lord, there was enough for the seventh day. There was no need for them to go out on that day if they did as they should on the six days of the week. We modern people do everything but rest on the seventh day. There is a touch of comedy, and a great deal of tragedy in the mad haste and the ceaseless activity of the modern man on the Sabbath. One wonders what will be the ultimate outcome of the wholesale way in which America is disregarding and desecrating the Sabbath.

Finally, the manna continued until the children of Israel came unto the borders of the land of Canaan. God helps men who cannot help themselves, but He helps them to help themselves, and He helps them only as they help themselves.

Teaching Points.

1. Human nature is thick-skinned and short-memoried.
2. Man must have bread.
3. Man must have more than bread.
4. God is able to make good His promises.
5. When men do what God tells them to do, the burden of proof then rests upon God.
6. The man who undertakes the will of God has the resources of God at his command.
7. A real leader is the interpreter of God to his people.
8. Murmurings are not only an evidence of the lack of faith; it is a sin against God.
9. God provides, but man must gather.
10. Nature is God's minister to feed His children.
11. The miracle of feeding the world is repeated every day.
12. There will be enough for all if all take only what belongs to him.
13. Hoarding means losing.
14. Careful preparation through the week will keep inviolate the Sabbath.
15. Man plants and waters, but God gives the increase.
16. God helps men to help themselves.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

BY REV. F. C. LESTER.

August 8, 1926.

TOPIC: "Books Worth While."

SCRIPTURE: Joshua 1:1-9.

PURPOSE: To develop appreciation for the best books.

Hints to the Leader.

Books help to make us what we are. Some books are good for youth, while others are very harmful. You should help those of your society to see the difference between the value of books and inspire them to make friends with the best. It would be fine to have some one report with a brief review on some good book of fiction, biography, or poetry. An older person in the community who has lived with the Bible as a com-

(Continued on page 14.)

HOLMAN BIBLES

THE BEST OF THE WORLD'S BEST BOOKS

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type

THE LORD is my shep^her^e
not want.
2 He maketh me to lie
green pastures: he leadeth
the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and helps as above.

Price—Post Paid 9.35

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

MONDAY.

A BEAUTIFUL CHARACTER.

"My heart is fixed, O God."—Psa. 5:7.

"Let us have grace whereby we may offer service well-pleasing to God."—Her. 12:28.

St. Paul. He purposely avoided trying to please by means of human artifice or tricks of oratory or speech, for he did not wish the glory to be his, but God's. He was unwilling that any one should ascribe his success to his own exertions. He was always concerned and anxious lest he should fail in his task, and at last he rejected himself. He undertook to do his duty as revealed to him by God, though it incurred more trouble and suffering. He was wholly unselfish, for in spite of the pressure of the apostolic Church, he refused remuneration working with his own hands to earn his living; all this because he loved the love of the Master. It is said that his zeal amidst his manifold occupations, the vigor and fullness of his thoughts, the ardor of his heroic faith are so great that sometimes his writings are vague and we are not able to follow him. Peter (2 Pet. 3:16) regrets this. His burning message always is: the reconciliation of mankind through the blood of Jesus Christ. Full salvation at the day of judgment and the blessedness of the new life compared with the old.

Prayer.—Our Father, grace is only from Thee, and we need it. Grant all we need, we pray Thee. May we study not only to be approved of Thee, but to love Thee with all our hearts, soul and mind. In Christ's name. Amen.

TUESDAY.

CHRISTIAN LOVE.

"The greatest of these is love."—1 Cor. 13:9-13.

It is said that Henry Ward Beecher once said in an address to a class of young doctors: "Young doctors, you are called upon to visit a desperately sick patient. It is a case of life or death. As you approach that bedside and gaze into those feverish, anxious eyes, I beg of you to remember the words of Jesus, who said, 'Do unto others as you would that they should do unto you.'"

Christian love has been defined as putting yourself in the others' place and doing for him what you would like for him to do for you under similar circumstances. But it is more than that. Christ died for us, and when He was teaching this love He said, "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friend. We can never know that love until we have stood at the foot of His cross, taken up a cross of sacrifice ourselves, and gone forth to serve.

Prayer.—Our Father, lift us up into the clear air of Thy purposes and give us a passion for Jesus in the human heart. Help us to live so that many may believe and turn from sin and be saved. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

THE FOLLY OF IDLE TALK.

"I say unto you, that for every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment."—Matt. 12:35-37.

Our words, whether we like it or not, are missionaries for good or ill. They open up vistas of ugliness or beauty, help or hurt, within the heart.

What power is locked up in the words we speak! Jesus says in another place, "By thy words thou shalt be approved, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned." How do we stand a test like that?

One aspect of the importance of our words may be seen in the way that words reveal character. Our speech springs up from inner fountains. It has had its source in deep wells of spiritual deposit. It is the overflowing of the stuff of the heart. "Out of the abundance of the heart, the mouth speaketh."

If we have got into the way of gossiping about others, we ought to pray God for Christ's sake to pardon us. Let us remember what Paul says, "Love rejoiceth not in iniquity." Christian men and women, we need the grace of God in this matter!

Prayer.—O Lord of Love, who hath endured all things for our sakes, fill us with deeper and purer and more thankful love to Thee. We ask every blessing, for ourselves and those dear to us, with the forgiveness of every sin, for His name's sake. Amen.

THURSDAY.

THE HEART AND THE MOUTH.

"But the things which proceed out of the mouth come forth out of the heart."—Matt. 15:16-20.

Christianity is an inward religion, whereas the religion of the Pharisees was largely outward. The Pharisee considered it very important to wash his hands before meat, but he neglected the heart. Jesus taught that the heart controlled everything, even the mouth. Man talks with his heart before he speaks with his tongue. The tongue is only an instrument of the soul; far away in the depths of feeling and thought sits a silent and unseen spectator—the inner man.

"Thou must be true thyself, if thou the truth wouldst teach;
Thy soul must overflow, if thou another soul wouldst reach—
It takes the overflow of heart to give the lips full speech."

Ruskin once followed a river up the mountain-side, hoping to find its source, but he found none. There was no gushing spring. He remained all night, and early in the morning he noticed that the dew was very heavy and as it distilled, it caused a tiny trickle of water. This was the source of the stream, and as it flowed down it gathered more water to itself. Wider and wider it became, until at its mouth it emptied with gush and flow and noise into the great sea.

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

FRIDAY.

THE PRAYER THAT CHANGES A LIFE.

"We are ambassadors therefore on behalf of Christ."—2 Cor. 5:17-20.

There is a family burying plot on a Southern plantation that has been in use by one family since pioneer days. One monument attracts the eye, for it is more costly than any of the others. This is the story of that memorial. "She was not my mother; my mother died when I was a mite of a boy. She was my stepmother. This little woman, whose memory I shall ever revere, had five children of her own, but she always called me 'her boy' and taught me to call her 'mother.' Many believed that I was indeed her son. I was the one black sheep in the family. Once my father threatened to disown me; but she intervened. One day I went to the attic to sleep off the effects of alcohol, where my father would not find me. Lo! I found her there kneeling and heard her praying—for me. Her supplication melted my heart.

We prayed together. That was the beginning of my Christian life. Her favorite verse was, 'We are ambassadors, therefore, on behalf of Christ.' She was indeed God's ambassador to me."

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

SATURDAY.

SHUN UNGODLY ASSOCIATIONS.

"Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly."—Psa. 1:1-6.

The counsel of the ungodly has never yet done anything good or great for anybody. It would discourage every good movement; its constant note is one of pessimism. It is never progressive, but always reactionary. It never built a Church building, never founded a hospital, never sent a gospel missionary across the sea.

The counsel of the ungodly is a shallow philosophy of this world only; eternity does not enter into its calculations. It is a philosophy of expediency; it does not risk anything upon the enterprise of a high adventure. There is nothing sacrificial about it, nothing noble; great character is never to be built by following its precepts. Blessed is the man who will have nothing to do with it!

Prayer.—Our Heavenly Father, make duty clear to us, and give us the heart to do it. Lead us in pleasant paths, if it be Thy gracious will; or if Thou givest us some daily round of irksome labor to be done in the shadow, may we do it bravely for Thy sake and sing of our toil. In Jesus' name. Amen.

SUNDAY.

THE PEACE OF A GODLY MIND.

"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is staid on Thee."—Isa. 26:3.

When in health and doing well, it is astonishing how coolly we take God's mercies. How little infirmities make us realize our blessings! A week of blindness gives us the value of eyes. Rheumatism gives us lessons on acheless bones. A chronic bad stomach teaches us the value of health. The rich ought to live in poverty and squallor awhile to learn some lessons of human life and the use of their wealth.

Well, how about religion? Close the Church doors six months and we will realize our spiritual need. A Churchless community will soon teach us the need of heavenly inspiration, soul food, life's only certain guide. Lose God and you lose life's only sure anchor.

"Afflictions, though they seem severe,

Are oft in mercy sent.

They stopped the prodigal's career

And caused him to repent."

All of us see that. Then, why not live as we believe it? Be prayerful, give Him thanks, render practical service, support the Church, participate in stewardship. Every Sunday is a mobilization day for the soldiers of Christ. The Church is the camp. "Present!"—are you?

Prayer.—Father, Fix our hearts and minds on Thee. Flood our souls with Thy praise. Give us delights in worship and service. Amen.

Out of fourteen pages of tabular work in the last annual statistical tables, except possibly two, all are different in layout. The tables for Church statistics should constitute one layout, and those for Sunday Schools another. As they have been presented, the cost will vary from $6.00 to $15.00 per table. Do secretaries of Conferences not think it advisable to try to conform to what the Convention has mapped out? The Convention report blanks will help save time to somebody.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

We are very happy this week to reach and pass the fifteenth rung in our ladder for this year. It has been pretty hot to climb, but we have just kept at it and got half way to our goal for the year. Fifteen rungs reached and passed in the first seven months. We have had some mighty good pushes and it has been a delight and joy to us to move on up the ladder. Climbing up the next half will be more difficult, and you must push a little harder and not let us get out of breath. We are counting on you to see to it that we reach the $30,000 mark this year.

Dr. Atkinson makes this proposition to all Sunday Schools not making offerings to the Orphanage and Missions: If you will give one Sunday's offering to missions and one Sunday's offering to the orphanage, and at the end of the year if you have not been able to get enough money to pay for your literature with the other two Sunday's offering and will send him the bill, he is to mail you a check for the balance and I am to pay half of it. Let each Sunday School not now on the list get on for the balance of this year. See if Dr. Atkinson will not do what he said and see if I don't back him up. Let "One Sunday for Missions and one Sunday for the Orphanage" be your slogan for the balance of the year, and see how richly the Lord will bless your school.

The following articles have been sent in:
 Wake Chapel Willing Workers Society, 22 dresses for little girls.
 Burlington Church Daily Vacation Bible School, 33 under garments, large cake, candy and toys.

Mrs. G. W. Parker, 3137 Park Ave., Richmond, Va., 9 little suits, 1 pair bed-room slippers.
 CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR JULY 29, 1926.

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

Balance Brought forward	$ 14,694.86
N. C. and Va. Conference:
Mt. Zion	$ 1.39
Ingram Sunday School	3.00
Shallow Ford	1.48
Mt. Bethel70	6.57
Western North Carolina Conference:
Mt. Pleasant	$ 1.50
Liberty	1.66
Brown's Chapel50
Burlington Sunday School	51.40	55.06
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Christian Chapel	$ 3.70
Liberty (Vance)	6.30
Shiloh	1.00
Eure Christian Church	14.80
Wake Chapel	5.00
Christian Light	6.50
Youngsville Sunday School	4.97	42.27
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Ocean View	$ 1.50
Bethlehem Sunday School	2.75
		4.25
Valley Virginia Conference:
Bethlehem	$ 3.06
Antioch	9.79
Palmyra	2.53	15.38
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Richland	$ 1.00

Ambrose	2.50
		3.50
Alabama Conference:
Wadley Sunday School	$ 1.42
Pisgah	1.60
		3.02
Special Offerings.
Mrs. H. D. Lambeth, Elon College	$ 1.00
R. W. Malone, Burlington, N. C. ..	300.00
		301.00
Total for week	$ 431.05
Grand total	$15,125.86

VA. VALLEY CONFERENCE PROGRAM. . .

Program of the seventy-eighth session of the Virginia Valley Central Christian Conference, to be held with the Linville Christian Church, August 18 to 20, 1926, Rev. R. P. Crumpler, pastor, Linville, Va.

FIRST DAY.

Morning Session.

- 10:00 Call to Order.
- Devotional Service—Dr. W. T. Walters.
- 10:35 Enrollment.
- 10:45 Welcome Address—Rev. R. P. Crumpler.
- 10:55 Response—R. O. Rothgeb.
- 11:05 Report of Program Committee.
- 11:10 Report of Executive Committee.
- 11:15 "What My Church is Doing," by the Delegates.
- 11:50 Miscellaneous Business.
- 12:00 Adjournment for Dinner.

Afternoon Session.

- 1:45 Devotional Service—A. F. Chase.
- 2:05 Annual Address—J. E. Foster.
- 2:40 Report of Committee on Religious Literature.
- 2:50 Addresses on "Our Publications"—A. F. Chase, Circulation Manager of "The Herald of Gospel Liberty," Dayton, Ohio; Prof. P. J. Kernodle, Managing Editor of "The Christian Sun, Richmond, Va.
- 4:00 Miscellaneous Business and Adjournment.

Evening Session.

- 8:00 Address—"Missionary to Japan," Rev. W. Q. McKnight.
- Address—Dr. W. A. Harper.

THURSDAY.

Morning Session.

- 9:30 Devotional Service—R. A. Larrick.
- 10:00 Roll Call and Reading of Minutes.
- 10:10 Report of Committee on Education.
- 10:25 Address—Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College.
- 11:10 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions.
- 11:25 Address—Rev. W. Q. McKnight.
- 12:00 Adjournment for Dinner.

Afternoon Session.

- 1:45 Devotional Service—D. H. Welch.
- 1:45 Woman's Mission Board Meeting in the Methodist Church.
- 2:00 Report of Committee on Apportionments.
- 2:10 Discussion of Financial Plan of the Southern Christian Convention.
- 3:00 Report of Committee on Moral Reform.
- 3:30 Conference Missionary Association.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

Evening Session.

- Woman's Home and Foreign Mission Board in Charge.
- 8:00 Addresses will be made by Rev. and Mrs. W. Q. McKnight; an object lesson on how to teach missions to children will be given by Mrs. W. T. Walters; Mrs. W. A. Harper, of Elon College, will sing a solo.

FRIDAY.

Morning Session.

- 9:30 Devotional Service—W. W. Fogle.
- 10:00 Roll Call and Reading of Minutes.
- 10:10 Report of Committee on Christian Endeavor.
- 10:25 Report of Committee on Sunday Schools.
- 10:40 Address—Mrs. W. Q. McKnight.
- 11:10 Address—"The Christian Orphanage," C. D. Johnston, Superintendent.
- 11:40 Report of Treasurer.
- 11:45 Miscellaneous Business.
- 12:00 Adjournment for Dinner.

FRIDAY.

Afternoon Session.

- 1:45 Devotional Service—E. S. Morris.
- 2:05 Report of Committee on Home Missions.
- 2:20 Address—(To be supplied.)
- 3:00 Miscellaneous Business.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00
- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St. - - - Richmond Va.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.
(Continued from page 11.)

Suitable Songs—

Any song related to the Bible should be good for this program. Among these are, "Jesus Loves Me," "Holy Bible, Book Divine," and "My Mother's Bible."

Questions for Answer—

What makes a book worth while? Why do some books sell, others die? What books have sold the most copies?

What are the most popular books of today? What principles should guide one in selecting books to read? Why should people read books?

The Message of the Scripture.

The Scripture selected for this lesson should be committed to memory by every Christian Endeavorer. It is a simple narrative of some things God did and said for Joshua, the one who led the Israelites into the promised land. With these verses should be read Deut. 17: 18-20; Psalms 1: 1-3; Psalms 19: 7-11; and II Kings 22: 8.

When Moses was dead, Joshua took up the work and went on. When others cannot or will not, it is our opportunity to continue the Lord's work.

God's promises to those who lived before us are made good to us. We may go even farther than they because they have led us part way. The Promised Land lies round about us now. We may claim it if we will. It is a broad place, and full of opportunities. Many simply climb the mountain and look at the glories of the land of promise, but never enter. Some are afraid, as were the ten spies; others sin, as did Moses, and are not worthy to enter.

God urged Joshua to "be strong and of a good courage." There were battles to fight. It takes great courage to stick to Christian work when others are "sore at the world" and quit. Even Christian Endeavorers sometimes fail to have the needed courage to stick to the work. At such times it is good to read this passage again.

A Message for Endeavorers.

By reading one can live with great people of all times. They have put into print their best thoughts and have given to us for our help things that took them a lifetime to learn. It is silly to spend time and money for the modern fiction that is printed by the train load while the great masters stay on the shelf unread. Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" may seem a little stilted and hard to read in comparison with recent publications, but it has some real ideas in it, and, next to the Bible, is the "best seller" on the market. Shakespeare is worth a cart-load of books that are more familiar to many boys and girls. Get acquainted with the best of the poets, historians, and biographers. They will be your best friends.

A young patron of art stood gazing at a famous painting. After a brief moment he passed on with remarks to the effect that the picture was not worth while. The care-taker said simply, "That picture, Sir, has stood the test of centuries." It was the critic who was on test, not the picture. So with books. We can be judged by the books we read.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN, The Herald of Gospel Liberty, The Christian Missionary, and The Journal of Christian Education, all bring things worth reading, and often review the best books of today. All Endeavorers should make friends of these publications. Either publishing house will gladly furnish any book desired. If you should desire suggestions concerning the kind of books to buy, Miss Pattie Coghill, Henderson, N. C., or Mr. Hermon Eldredge, C. P. A. Building, Dayton, Ohio, will be glad to assist you in the selection

Books are worth while. Read the best.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings. (Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

A SPRING-TIME LEGEND.

BY DOROTHY ARNO BALDWIN.

"I need the help of some of you trees," declared Mother Nature, hurrying into the forest one winter day of long ago. "I must have some one to watch for Lady Spring and let me know when she is coming, so that I can be at hand to greet her. I'm so busy that I can't spend time to watch for her myself. I'll leave it to you to decide which tree shall keep the lookout."

Mother Nature started away, then called back over her shoulder: "Remember, I can't be bothered with false alarms. Don't call me until you're certain that Lady Spring is really about to arrive." Without waiting for a word in answer, Mother Nature bustled away.

"You all know what that means, I suppose?" remarked the Maple as soon as Mother Nature had disappeared. "Lady Spring is the most uncertain person in the world. She's as likely as not to go south again after making us think she is coming right away, or she may decide to come extra early and almost without warning. If we watch for her we shall be kept awake half the winter."

"Yes, and think of our poor buds," added the Elms. "They couldn't creep back under the covers again, once they'd peeped out to see if Lady Spring was on her way. They might have to stay out in the cold and storms for a month waiting for her to make up her mind to come."

"I, for one, don't intend to lose my sleep that way," declared one of the Oaks. "I need my full winter's rest if I'm to do my work well next summer."

"So do we," agreed the Maples. "It isn't fair to ask us to work all winter as well as all summer. You Pines are strong enough to stand the strain. Suppose you watch for Lady Spring?"

The Pines tossed their branches indignantly. "We are the kings of the forest," they answered proudly. "It is our place to rule, not to work for others."

One after another the trees made excuses for not doing as Mother Nature had asked, but while the others talked, the Willows said not a word.

"Surely Mother Nature wouldn't have asked us to watch for Lady Spring if the watching would be too great a hardship for us," they thought. "And even if we do find it tiresome, that won't matter if we can be of use to Mother Nature."

So while the other trees fell once more into a deep sleep, the Willows lightly dozed so as to waken at the slightest hint of Lady Spring's approach.

One day the sun shone the least bit more warmly than before, and out peeped the Willow buds to see if Lady Spring were near. No, not yet, for after the sun had set a biting wind swept down from the north. The poor little Willow buds shivered with the cold, for they couldn't crawl under their covers again. Then they felt a gentle touch as something warm was wrapped around them.

"You're Pussy Willows now," laughed Mother Nature, for it was she, fitting to each little bud a coat of silky fur to keep it snug.

Through days and days of cold weather after that the Pussy Willows watched for Lady Spring, but they didn't mind the cold at all. When at last they saw her coming, with a cloud of birds above her head and her arms full of flowers, quickly they called Mother Nature to welcome

These were busy days for Mother Nature, but she found one precious moment in which to thank the Pussy Willows. "Your reward is love; the love of every boy and girl who lives where Willows grow."

THE NEEDS OF BETHLEHEM COLLEGE.

(Continued from page 10.)

the government permits deductions from income tax not to exceed fifteen per cent of the taxable basis, we are hoping that our friends will, when they desire to take advantage of that ruling, turn that amount, or part of it, over to Bethlehem College, and also persuade their affluent friends to do likewise. You may know some philanthropist who would be glad to help a cause so worthy. If you can interest any such, rest assured it will be appreciated. The average man, after all, desires to do the most good he can to and for his fellow-man. The only account upon which we can hope to draw when we have pierced the veil is the good we have done our fellow-man.

The southern home and the Southern Railway

IT is for the creation and preservation of the home that the world's work goes on. And when it is well done and prosperous times come, it is the home that benefits most. Besides being the foundation of the State, the home is the ALL of our civilization.

A myriad of life's necessities—food, clothing and household goods—passes over the rails of the Southern Railway System and into homes every day. And every day thousands of freight cars loaded with products from the South are carried along the rails of the Southern, bound for distant markets. Thus the South grows and develops.

Carrying the world's goods to the South, and the South's goods to the world, day in and day out, is the service of the Southern Railway System to the Southern home. This regular, dependable and economical transportation is the aim and the test of good railroad service.

In the last three years more than $700,000,000 has been spent in the construction of new homes in the states of the South served by the Southern.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun
Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL Associate
R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
REV. S. M. LYNAM News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

One Year $ 2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for mouey paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

OBITUARIES.

SUMNER.

In the death of Brother R. Hurley Sumner, who died June 14th, our community has suffered a severe loss. Our work with him in the cause of Christ was always very pleasant, as he was a man that could always be depended upon.

God in His wisdom saw fit to call him home. And while his family and many friends have been sorely bereaved in his passing, heaven has been enriched in receiving his spirit. May God, who in His wisdom doeth all things well, comfort and console his family and friends in their bereavement.

Brother Sumner was a charter member of Hopedale Christian Church, and was a deacon and superintendent of the Sunday School.

Be it resolved that God being our helper, we, the undersigned deacons and officials aim to do our best to try to carry on the work that our beloved brother was so much interested in, the cause of Jesus Christ and suffering humanity. And our prayer is that God will comfort the hearts of the family in their sorrow, and may His hand ever guide them.

We are sometimes called to sow in tears, but the promise is that we shall reap in joy, if we faint not. For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, and house not made with hands eternal in the heavens.

No words can quite express our sympathy in this time of deep sorrow. As long as we shall remember anything, we shall remember his virtues and his kindness

- I. L. CLAYTON,
R. F. COUNCILMAN,
ELI TAYLOR,
P. R. LONG,
E. D. STALEY,
R. H. COBLE.

W. FRED RICHARDSON
Security Storage Company
SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS FOR SILVER
RICHMOND, VA.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES
An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.
04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 3/4 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00
0693x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00
04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35
0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75
05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25
05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75
04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50
0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick... $0.75
ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE
A Co-Educational School
LOCATED AT
WADLEY, ALABAMA
This School offers the last two years of Academic work and the first two years of College work.
The following Courses are offered in the—
COLLEGE DEPARTMENT: English, Bible, Religious Education, Latin, French, History, Education, Mathematics and Science.
SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Music—Piano, Voice; Commercial Department—Bookkeeping, Typewriting, and Shorthand.
Due attention will be given Athletics, such as Tennis, Basket-Ball, Baseball, Football.
The government of the School is mild, but firm, endeavoring to create a home atmosphere as much as possible, not merely to maintain discipline, but to cultivate Christian character.
This is our own School, located within reach of all in this section, and the cost is less than any other College within reasonable distance of those who would attend School from this section.
Fall Term Begins September 1, 1926.
Send for a Catalogue giving full description of Courses and entrance conditions.
S. L. BEOUGHNER, President
Wadley, - - - Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type
27 And the boys grew: and Esau was a cunning hunter.
5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.
Our Price—Post Paid. 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid. 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 1000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.
22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.
Our Price—Post Paid. 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid. 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearcut Print in Smallest Size
4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.
AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

- 2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles .60
2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. .70
2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes
2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges .85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
With all the words of our Lord printed in red.
13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85
15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
Thin as a Wafer
2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1926.

NUMBER 31.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By Rev. S. M. LYNAM.

Southern Corn Farmer Has Advantage.—

Figures recently published by the United States Department of Agriculture showed the average price of corn in ten Southern States to be slightly over $1.00 per bushel. The average on the same date for ten Western States was only 56.1 cents per bushel, giving the Southern farmer an average advantage of 44 cents a bushel.

Where Friendship Counted.—

"Tiger" Clemenceau, as is well known, suffers from diabetes. His physician told him the other day that he must prescribe a remedy made in the United States and which was markedly expensive. "The expense is of no consequence," quoth Clemenceau, "these Americans have an ambassador here who is an old friend of mine. Put me through to Monsieur Herrick." Able, kindly United States Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, the American representative at Paris, promptly secured the medicine. Dispatches, perhaps too hasty, reported the former French Premier cured.

A World Record.—

Thirty seconds after his birth, John Elmer Burkhart, III, had been enrolled as a member of the South Main Baptist Church School, Houston, Texas. Until someone else improves upon this, we believe that it will stand as a world record of its kind. Robert Jolly, the superintendent of the hospital, is also superintendent of the Baptist Church School of which John Elmer Burkhart, III, became a member. English fathers frequently race to place the names of their newly born sons on the list of candidates for Eton and Harrow, but few are so anxious as this youngster to become a member of the Sunday School. He has certainly achieved distinction.

Unavailing Friendship.—

Two years ago Warren T. McCray, the Governor of Indiana and brother-in-law of George Ade, the humorist, was convicted of using the mails to defraud and sent to the Atlanta Penitentiary for ten years. He is now ill, and sometime ago Senator Watson, the powerful Senator from Indiana, appeared before President Coolidge seeking a pardon or abbreviation of the former governor's sentence. More recently he tried again, backed by the other Indiana Senator, but President Coolidge left the sentence as it was. The powerful friends of the former governor convicted of defrauding through the mails, was unavailing, and he must still serve his ten years at Atlanta like any other felon.

Sunday and the Sesqui.—

Bishop Joseph F. Berry, of the Methodist Church, has withdrawn from the program committee of the Sesquicentennial now in progress at Philadelphia. His action was taken because of a decision by the directors to open the exposition on Sunday. The bishop disapproved of this step which was taken because of a deficit incurred during the first fifteen days of the exposition. Among the other troubles which the Sesqui seems to be having is the cancelling of a permission to hold a national convention in Philadelphia during September. The Mayor of the city cancelled the permission to the accompaniment of loud applause from one side and equally loud denunciation on the other. The withdrawal of Bishop Berry from the program committee, however, because of the decision to run the exposition on Sunday has brought about something of an issue which may prove detrimental to the best interests of the exposition. Many persons are definitely taking sides on the matter.

A Negro Honored.—

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People closed its annual deliberations recently. Among the important things which it did was the proposing of a million-dollar fund for the promotion of a more perfect race equality. At this meeting the Spingarn Medal, a token of Negro distinction, was awarded to Carter Godwin Woodson. Just ten years after Appomattox, unto two exslaves a ninth child was born. It was Carter Godwin Woodson who was born. Doubly handicapped by color and poverty, he had by 1912 secured a University of Chicago M. A. and a Harvard Ph. D. Outstanding among the achievements of Carter Godwin Woodson is the organization of the Association for the study of Negro Life and History, and in this connection he has given ten years of his life to the collection and publication of historical and sociological facts about Negroes.

The Urgent Need in Poland.—

Many will be interested to know that Rev. Joseph S. Flacks, the well-known Hebrew Christian and gifted evangelist and Bible teacher, has responded to the invitation of the Council of the Christian Testimony to Jews to go to Poland and other parts of Eastern Europe for an indefinite time of ministry among both Jews and Gentiles. Rev. H. L. Hellyer, director of that mission, is also burdened in spirit to be set free to give his time mainly to the European end of the work, and so these two brethren aim to leave for Poland as soon as the Lord provides the funds and opens their way.

This will be especially cheering news to the little group of workers already there, who are pressed out of measure by reason of the overwhelming needs and opportunities that face them. The strength of Moses Gitlin, leading worker of this mission in Poland, has long been taxed almost to the breaking point by the rapid development of his Bible school at Radost, near Warsaw, as well as the unusual evangelistic situation in Warsaw itself. He urgently needs relief and rest, but cannot get such until more workers come.

In the great city of Warsaw, with a million and a half of people, the mission hall has been so crowded that large numbers have had to be turned away. There is a heart-hunger for the gospel as never before. The harvest has come, and the laborers are far too few to gather it in. In addition to carrying on the services in the hall, students from the Radost school are being sent to the city day after day for personal work in hospitals, stations, etc. This entire city work sorely needs the superintendence of an able man who can give himself wholly to it. Prayer is earnestly requested for the present workers and that reinforcements may be sent speedily.—Ex.

Lynching Decreasing.—

According to figures issued from Tuskegee Institute, lynching is decreasing. During the first six months of this year nine persons were lynched. This number is three higher than in one other year, but considerably lower than in all previous years for the same period with that exception. Six of the persons lynched were Negroes and two were white, while one Indian paid the death penalty at the hands of the mob. The Tuskegee report has excited considerable comment as it usually does. All are agreed that every effort should be made to reduce this crime in the whole when the question as to what constitutes a lynching is raised. What Southern editors cannot understand is why the killing by a mob South of the Mason-Dixon line is called a lynching, while in the Northern States it bears another name. One editor pointed out that Herrin, Illinois might kill its victims in blocks of fives and tens, and Chicago, in the same State, might have a race riot which would cost several hundred Negroes their lives and yet come out with a clean record so far as lynching statistics are concerned. This editor, the editor of the Raleigh Times, wonders if the reports of Tuskegee Institute do not tend to create a prejudice against the South. A killing by a mob is a killing by a mob, regardless of whether or not charges are preferred against the victim. There is something to what the Times has to say, but nevertheless we need a thermometer whereby to measure our progress up from barbarism, and the Tuskegee reports serve this purpose to some extent. Enlightened public opinion should set itself squarely against mob violence, because wherever and whenever it is used, it tends to break down government and social protection of the whole body politic.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Prof. S. M. Smith of Norfolk, Va., was in Richmond the first of this week on a business trip.

Will our pastors please report the results of their revivals in THE CHRISTIAN SUN. Readers love to know what the harvest is—and how the work goes in soul winning.

The Eastern North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention held a great meeting, we understand. We will give a full account of it in our next issue.

Dr. W. A. Harper, president of Elon College, spoke twice last Sunday—11 A. M. and 8 P. M.—before the Summer School at the University of North Carolina. President Harper is much in demand as a speaker by college and university audiences.

Bethlehem College Summer School begins on August 8th. Classes will begin work on Monday. A strong faculty has been placed in charge with a good program for pastors, superintendents of Sunday Schools, and all church workers. Young people's courses will be held by Miss Lucy Eldredge. The expenses for board will be $5.00, and for registration, 50 cents.

The Chautauqua is in full swing at Elon and is well attended, and the work being done seems to be of the most satisfactory and constructive type. Up to this writing, the attendance is not as large as last year, but those attending are almost without exception real students doing faithful work in Church Methods and in seeking to learn the best methods of doing all phases of Christian service.

The Church at Winchester held its annual "Church Honor Day" on July 18th. On that day every member and friend of the church was urged to attend the morning worship service, at which time the pastor preached on "The Christian Doctrine of Giving." At the close of the morning service subscriptions for Kingdom support were called for. This plan for receiving the subscriptions for the work during the coming year seems to work well with this church, and might be tried with profit by some of our other churches.

Mrs. H. E. Rountree, who has been in the hospital sixteen weeks, first at Kellam, Richmond, and then at Lakeview, Suffolk, has recovered sufficiently from her last operation to be taken home on July 26th. She is temporarily invalid, but we hope for her complete recovery in due course of time. After six months of sickness, Chaplain Rountree has been returned to duty, and is now giving full time to the navy yard. He says that his health is not completely restored, as his digestive organs refuse to do their duty, but he is much better. He is expecting to be ordered to Parris Island, S. C. in September.

In speaking of the North Carolina and Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention, Brother M. F. Allen, pastor of the Lynchburg Church, says: "We were disappointed that more churches were not represented, but we had a very inspiring program just the same. We hope that the convention may be held in a more centrally located church next year, and that every Sunday School and C. E. Society will be represented." The place of meeting for 1927 has not been deided upon and those churches desiring to entertain the convention should communicate with Rev. M. F. Allen, President, R. 1, Lynchburg, Va.

Miss Margaret H. Morey reports that she has received the following items for her work during April and June: A box containing towels, washcloths, and dolls for the Young People's Society of Lafayette, Ohio. This box was sent in by Mrs. Ura Watts. Miss Rosalind Daniels has sent a box of hats from the Young People's Society of Morganville, N. Y. Mrs. J. M. Fix has sent in seven boxes of clothing from Circle No. 4, Burlington, N. C. While Literature has been supplied by Mrs. Geo. H. Knapp, Danbury, Conn. These people are lending to the Lord, and we trust that they will be richly repaid.

Dr. M. J. W. White, Jr., who is doing a most benevolent work in Carroll County, Va., under a recent date says, "So far this month I have easily averaged seven or eight patients a day, including Sundays. Some of these were critically ill. I have had two deaths and one birth in the range of my work so far. The deaths were unpreventable, one a patient of ninety years of age and the other a woman of about sixty with advanced tuberculosis. I have walked the mountains till my feet gave way, and then I began to ride everywhere I went." Brother White is enjoying his work, though he is finding it fraught with many trials and hardships, as all who undertake a work to advance the Kingdom of our Lord.

VA. VALLEY CONFERENCE PROGRAM.

Program of the seventy-eighth session of the Virginia Valley Central Christian Conference, to be held with the Linville Christian Church, August 18 to 20, 1926, Rev. R. P. Crumpler, pastor, Linville, Va.

WEDNESDAY.

Morning Session.

- 10:00 Call to Order. Devotional Service—Dr. W. T. Walters. 10:35 Enrollment. 10:45 Welcome Address—Rev. R. P. Crumpler. 10:55 Response—R. O. Rothgeb. 11:05 Report of Program Committee. 11:10 Report of Executive Committee. 11:15 "What My Church is Doing," by the Delegates. 11:50 Miscellaneous Business. 12:00 Adjournment for Dinner.

Afternoon Session.

- 1:45 Devotional Service—A. F. Chase. 2:05 Annual Address—J. E. Foster. 2:40 Report of Committee on Religious Literature. 2:50 Addresses on "Our Publications"—A. F. Chase, Circulation Manager of "The Herald of Gospel Liberty," Dayton, Ohio; Prof. P. J. Kernodle, Managing Editor of "The Christian Sun, Richmond, Va. 4:00 Miscellaneous Business and Adjournment.

Evening Session.

- 8:00 Address—"Missionary to Japan," Rev. W. Q. McKnight. Address—Dr. W. A. Harper.

THURSDAY.

Morning Session.

- 9:30 Devotional Service—R. A. Larrick. 10:00 Roll Call and Reading of Minutes. 10:10 Report of Committee on Education. 10:25 Address—Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College. 11:10 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions.

Advertisement for fountain pens. Includes images of a fountain pen and a combination pen. Text: "SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN. These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from MR. MEN'S PENS... $2.00. LADIES' PENS... $2.00. aid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer. LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA."

Advertisement for Holman Bibles. Includes an image of a Bible. Text: "HOLMAN BIBLES. NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE. The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry. Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all. Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches. Specimen of Type THE LORD is my shephee not want. 2 He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters. No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker. Price—Post Paid..... 4.20 No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above. Price—Post Paid..... 9.35"

11:25 Address—Rev. W. Q. McKnight.
12:00 Adjournment for Dinner.

Afternoon Session.

- 1:45 Devotional Service—D. H. Welch.
- 1:45 Woman's Mission Board Meeting in the Methodist Church.
- 2:00 Report of Committee on Apportionments.
- 2:10 Discussion of Financial Plan of the Southern Christian Convention.
- 3:00 Report of Committee on Moral Reform.
- 3:30 Conference Missionary Association.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

Evening Session.

Woman's Home and Foreign Mission Board in Charge.
8:00 Addresses will be made by Rev. and Mrs. W. Q. McKnight; an object lesson on how to teach missions to children will be given by Mrs. W. T. Walters; Mrs. W. A. Harper, of Elon College, will sing a solo.

FRIDAY.

Morning Session.

- 9:30 Devotional Service—W. W. Fogle.
- 10:00 Roll Call and Reading of Minutes.
- 10:10 Report of Committee on Christian Endeavor.
- 10:25 Report of Committee on Sunday Schools.
- 10:40 Address—Mrs. W. Q. McKnight.
- 11:10 Address—"The Christian Orphanage," C. D. Johnston, Superintendent.
- 11:40 Report of Treasurer.
- 11:45 Miscellaneous Business.
- 12:00 Adjournment for Dinner.

Afternoon Session.

- 1:45 Devotional Service—E. S. Morris.
- 2:05 Report of Committee on Home Missions.
- 2:20 Address—(To be supplied.)
- 3:00 Miscellaneous Business.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Virginia Valley Central Conference will meet at Linville, Va., on Wednesday, August 18, 1926. W. T. Walters, President; A. W. Andes, Secretary.

Alabama Conference will meet with the Church at Bethany on Tuesday, October 11, 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M. G. D. Hunt, President; E. M. Carter, Secretary.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 1, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 15, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church Tuesday, November 22, 1926. G. O. Lankford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 7, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter06
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$2.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x3 3/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x3 3/8 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools 95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN C. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

EASTERN VIRGINIA SUNDAY SCHOOL AND CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION.

The fifty-seventh session of this great body met at Waverly, July 20th and 21st. The very capable and progressive secretary, Dr. J. H. Lightbourne, had a worth while program, and the people came in great numbers to participate in the offerings of the sessions. Hon. E. E. Holland, Suffolk, Va., is the president of the convention and called the same to order on Tuesday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Col. Holland presides with great grace and dignity and is considerate of his program and the work pertaining to the welfare of the body. The song service was in charge of Rev. J. F. Morgan of Rosemont, Va., and the singing throughout the convention was a real feature. In the absence of Judge J. F. West, Mayor B. E. White of Waverly delivered a most cordial address of welcome, the beauty of which was that his people of Waverly in all communions lived up to the high promises in the words of greeting. Rev. H. S. Hardcastle of Suffolk responded most graciously and happily.

There were five devotional periods during the five sessions of the convention, three of which were conducted by Dr. C. C. Ryan of Richmond, and two by Rev. H. B. Hall, Elm Avenue, Portsmouth. These devotional periods were real features of the convention and were conducted with the spirit of reverence and spiritual presentation that made a lasting impression upon the delegates and visitors.

Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, D. D., conducted a Conference of Religious Secretaries which was spoken of in highest praise, and Miss Pattie Coghill conducted a Conference on "Daily Vacation Bible Schools," which was largely attended and was pronounced quite helpful. THE SUN'S Editor had the privilege of conducting two Conferences, one each day, on the theme of Missions; the one conference having to do with the practical side of missions in the working out of world friendship; the other having to do with the challenge to missions as revealed especially in the Old Testament and in God's dealings with Israel.

One of the great features of this convention was the great promptness with which all who were on the program responded to the call of duty. The writer does not recall the absence of more than one or two on the very lengthy program, and in each case the absentee had someone to respond for him.

Rev. J. G. Truitt of Norfolk made the report as secretary of Literature and gave a most timely address on "Young People and Religious Literature." Mrs. E. L. Beale, Franklin, Va., is secretary of the Cradle Roll Department, and gave a report that was exceedingly gratifying. Mrs. R. B. Woods, Norfolk, Va., reported as secretary of the Home Department, emphasizing not only the work done in this department, but the great field for service that such a department presents. Rev. F. C. Lester, Franklin, Va., used as a topic of his thoughtful and timely address a program of "Evangelism for the Sunday School." This address of Brother Lester's should be in printed form and available to all our Sunday School teachers, since it dealt with the most practical problems that the teachers themselves are confronted with. Dr. W. W. Staley read a paper and delivered an address on "Teaching the History and Principles of the Christian Church in the Sunday School." Dr. Staley showed conclusively that we not only should teach our principles and history in the Sunday School, but that we can easily do so if the teachers will do their duty and make proper effort in this direction. Mrs. C. C. Rawles, secretary for the Juniors, made a plea for a definite work for the Juniors in our Sunday Schools, in order that they may not be lost to the Sunday School before they arrive at the more advanced departments.

At the evening session on the 20th, the Waverly male quartette delighted and thrilled, with several selections, the great audience gathered for the evening service. It is worth going to Waverly to hear this quartette, and the writer should have counted his trip to Waverly greatly and painfully lacking if he had not heard, as he always longs to do, this quartette render some of their devotional numbers. A timely and worth while question: Why is it that all Churches do not make a desperate effort to have a male quartette? Rev. H. S. Hardcastle made the report on "Leadership Training" which opened the way for Dr. W. T. Walters, who was in charge of the Elon College service for the evening. In this particular service, alumni and students from the college spoke in high praise of their college and of the blessings and benefits received from attending the same. It was such a service as should be rendered in all our conventions where young people are gathered.

On Wednesday, in the absence of Col. Holland, the vice-president, Brother J. F. West, Jr., presided efficiently and with great consideration for his program and all that pertained to the day's proceedings. Mr. W. H. Baker, Newport News, Va., presented the report of the secretary of Christian Endeavor. Under the discussion of this report, it was made known that a Christian Endeavor society desiring to make a real contribution to a good cause and a piece of constructive work, could have its opportunity in supplying $60.00 to repair the roof of our Church and School building at Elk Spur, Fancy Gap, Va. Later in the day, the presiding officer who is also deeply interested in Christian Endeavor work and a member of the Waverly society, announced that after consulting with several members of the society it had been decided that their society would undertake this piece of work and would forward a check to cover the cost of same in a few days. This was indeed a great surprise and a cause for gratitude. Dr. W. T. Walters, chairman, presented the cause and work of the Board of Christian Education. Miss Pattie Coghill, field worker, gave an interesting talk on the work she was doing and especially on the Elon Chautauqua.

Miss Lillye Holland of Holland, Va., made a report as secretary for Young People. Mrs. M. L. Bryant made the report as secretary of Missions, showing which Sunday Schools had, and which had not, made the monthly offering to missions the past year, and recommended that all schools not taking these offerings do so, and that all schools put on a missionary program at least once a month.

One of the fine features of the Convention was a most admirable display of mission literature, mission programs, mission charts, etc., prepared by Mrs. W. V. Leathers, Holland, Va.

Mrs. E. T. Holland, of Holland, Va., made an interesting report as secretary of Adults, and Mrs. J. E. Harris, Suffolk, Va., gave an encouraging report as Intermediate secretary.

The weather was warm, but the Waverly people spared no pains or efforts to make everybody comfortable. Electric fans in the Church helped to cool the atmosphere within the building, and an inexhaustible supply of ice water and tea and ice cream on the outside of the building helped to bring comfort to the thirsty ones. The hospitality of Waverly homes, hands and hearts cannot be described. It was simply great.

It was great indeed to be in this assembly of good people. Two days were spent in active, aggressive service for the Church and the Lord.

THE BIBLE AND UNITY.

In our day, psychology, science and religion have met. Psychology has to do with the mental man, science with the physical man, religion with the spiritual man. But these are not three men—they are one. Our age is seeking a basis of unity, inclusive unity, a synthesis of these three major concerns of life. The controversy that rages around this quest for unity is comparable to the Arian controversy of the fourth Christian century. Tremendous consequences hang on the issue. We cannot ignore it, we cannot sidestep it, we must reverently face it, and out of this trinity of vital interests we must weave a modern unity for the ordering of life.

Modern man instinctively and intuitively feels that harmony must underlie all the ultimate values of experience. If there is conflict, it is because finalities have not been achieved. We know for example, that there is unity in the field of psychology. Once upon a time psychologists taught that feeling, thought and will were separate faculties of the mind, warring so to speak with each other for the ascendancy in every situation. Now it is experimentally demonstrated that in every experience, feeling, thought and will are present and that the mental life cannot be compartmentalized in accordance with the compartment arrangement of the old psychology.

A similar unity prevails in the realm of the material world. Our scientists have pushed their way from the molecule to the atom, to the electron and the proton. The alchemist felt that the baser metals could be transmuted into gold. Modern chemistry proves he was right, because what we formerly considered separate and distinct chemical elements, we know now to be various manifestations of a primordial entity to which we give the name electrons as signifying negative charges and protons to indicate positive charges, whether in the animate or inanimate world. We do not know the laws of the electrons and protons sufficiently well yet to dogmatize, but we may safely accept it as scientifically demonstrated that the material universe is a unity.

And the consistent mind will not hesitate to affirm its conviction that truth is a unity. All truth necessarily proceeded from the same source. There can be no truth in one realm of life, nature or experience in conflict with other truth. Truth is relational and ultimate and final. Truth must therefore be harmonious. Does there appear to be a conflict between psychology and religion, between science and religion, between experience and revelation? Then we have not yet arrived at the truth, because in the truth every realm of knowledge and experience finds harmonious relationship, discovers a final and ultimate unity.

This ultimate and final harmony is to be found by diligent research and investigation, a research that includes in its scope the past, the present and the future. All the evidence to be had in the prerogative of the truth-seeker in his efforts to think God's thoughts after Him. The formulation of hypotheses when the tangible facts fail to bridge a chasm so to speak is a legitimate method of procedure. Reason and faith both enter properly into this experience of hypothesis-making, and one is a corrective for the other. No human faculty is to be disregarded or depreciated in the effort to discover truth.

It is manifest that these conceptions of unity in all the realms of experience and of progress in the attainment of truth conflict with certain views of the Church and with the authority of the Bible as interpreted by those holding these views of the Church. The faith once and for all delivered to the saints, the authoritarians in religion say, is found finally described in the Bible, which is the perfect book because plenarily inspired by God.

The Protestant Reformation changed the seat of authority from the Pope to the Bible. Our age is endeavoring to locate it in the leadership of the Holy Spirit, interpreting the Bible to the individual and to the Church. This view will not undermine the Bible's authority. It will magnify it. This view does not belittle God nor does it oust Him from His world. It welcomes His leadership and companionship in every experience of the human heart and aspiration, recognizing Him as a present Personality in the universe of which He is the author. This makes possible the unity of life, knowledge and experience and leads the way to the comprehension and discovery of that ultimate reality to which we give the name of truth.

This view makes it obligatory on the earnest seeker for the truth to search the scriptures diligently. Such a search will reveal a stately and progressive and majestic advancement in the understanding of God, His nature, His purpose, His aspirations for man. When such a truth seeker finds God revealed respectively as a God of vengeance, of justice, of mercy, and of love, his soul rejoices in the wisdom of the process. When he finds the conception of God as partial to a single group enlarging into the Christian view of the Father of all mankind, again his heart gives thanks and a resolution possesses him to help propagate this idea to the ends of the earth. Such good news ought not to be other than the inspiring possession of the race.

Again, suppose Biblical scholarship should reveal to this same reverent truth-seeker that there are errors in the Scriptures, statements that conflict with the known facts of the physical universe, with the habits and natures of animals, and with other statements in the record itself, would he reject the Bible? Not at all. He would rather recognize that these statements were made in good faith by the men who wrote them, and that they were accepted as stating the truth according to the knowledge and standards of the time, but that God had led us into a better understanding of these matters. He will have no quarrel with the man however who accepts the record as it is written in the Bible, and who in his notion of loyalty to it rejects the record as it is written in God's handiwork, the physical world, and in man's experience, the human world. He will not quarrel with him. All he asks is that he be allowed to understand God and His ways and plans and purposes as the Holy Spirit gives him the light.

W. A. H.

OUR OBLIGATION TO THE UNFORTUNATE, No. I.

There is no lesson in the Bible that more truly portrays the different types of men than does the story of the Good Samaritan, found in the tenth chapter of Luke; no lesson is more applicable to our own experiences; no lesson more clearly teaches our obligations to ward the unfortunate, and our obligations one toward another. For we all have passed or will pass some time in our experiences, on the way from Jerusalem down to Jericho.

Traveling upon the great highway of life, we not only see those who have fallen among thieves, but we ourselves are also in danger of falling. We are in danger of falling among those who rob one of life's joy, of its peace and happiness, of the love one should have for others and of the hope one should have in God.

The modern thief not only rob men of those things so sacred—of love, faith, purity, respect, honor, and all that goes to make up character, but they leave their victims wounded with terrible gashes of sin and shame, leave them in remorse and disgrace, prospects blighted, confidence shattered, reputation dying, if not dead.

And not only are we, even in this enlightened age, in danger of falling among thieves who rob their victims of these spiritual assets, but we are also surrounded by thieves, lurking in the secrecy of "get-rich-quick schemes"—men who actually rob their fellows by graft and dishonesty. These thieves of modern type are lurking here and there, waiting to take advantage of some unwary traveler on the throughfare of commerce. With glittering prospects of large returns from money invested, they lead the uninformed speculator along the dark way of comparative statistical reports, and by getting his signature on the dotted line, the victim realizes later on that he has fallen among thieves, who have robbed him by their shrewd lies, and left him financially beaten, wounded and half dead—financially ruined. These modern thieves of speculation have left many a man penniless, many a widow homeless, many a child helpless. They have taken the hard earned money of men and women, and have given them in return oftentimes no more than a colored piece of paper receipting them for so much stock in an oil well that never has been or never will be bored, or in a gold or silver mine, into which no shaft ever has been or ever will be sunk; or it may be a deed to a piece of real estate, that is as unreal in value as a bed of stones or sand in the bottom of a pond or lake.

These thieves are lurking in ambush all about us. Many are hiding behind their profession or their good name, only waiting to pounce upon some unwary traveler on the highway of life, and by their subtle scheming to number him among their unfortunate victims. Their "inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

Returning to the consideration of the unfortunate man spoken of in the story of the Good Samaritan, we can easily infer that he was at the time of his misfortune tending to his own business, harming no one, little thinking of the danger surrounding him. For the sake of illustration, let us suppose that he was a young man. If such were the case, no doubt his mother, were she living and present, tried to persuade him not to go over that road. We all know how interested a loving mother is in her son's welfare.

The Road from Jerusalem to Jericho was a dangerous road. It is to this very day. The young man likely had never been over it before, and he thought it wasn't so bad as people made it out to be. He concluded that his old mother was just a little prejudiced, and so he went in spite of her entreaties. It is so easy for boys not to appreciate mother's point of view. Perhaps he promised her that he would walk just as near the center of the road as possible and keep from the edge from whence naturally the evil might be expected. Perhaps some of the men down town told him to be careful—that many a man had been ruined along that way. But in such a case, he paid no attention to their advice, possibly thinking they were old fogies in their ideas. He replied likely, "I'll stay just as near the middle and just as far from the edge as possible." So down the old road he went, with a mother's warning and a friend's advice still ringing in his ears. And when well on the way, perchance whistling to drive fear away, suddenly out rushed the fiendish spirited thieves and seized him with intense roughness, throwing him upon the stony ground and, not satisfied to strip him of his raiment, they beat him, wounded him, and left him half dead.

There as he lay in this deplorable condition, perhaps with the hot sun beating down upon his wounded body, and the flies adding their portion of torment, every moment expecting some hungry beast of the field would come and devour his pain reaking body—there as he lay alone in the horrible silence of a deserted road, it is then that he thinks of his mother's warning, of friend's advice. It all comes back to him then, but it was too late.

So with the experiences of life. Think of the young man who start down some dangerous road of temptation in direct opposition to a loving mother's warning or a friend's advice. They don't realize the danger. The mother warns her son against the use of strong drink. He promises to be temperate. He says he will stay away from the edge of the road where the drunkard staggers along, and he will keep just as near the middle, along with the moderate drinkers, as possible. But alas, that fiendish thief of appetite seizes him unaware and he falls a victim to the terrible habit. He is stripped of all future prospects of happiness and honor. No young man when he takes his first glass of liquor ever expects to become a drunkard, and yet every year, we are told that in the United States alone there is an army of sixty thousand men and women shuffling along to fill drunkard's graves. The young man today as he starts down the way of the indulgence in strong drink has the loving appeal of his mother not to go, the advice of interested friends to leave it alone, the testimony of the wretched drunkard who once was as strong and conceited as he. But in spite of all this, he boasts of his own will power, boasts that he is able to take care of himself, that he will drink in moderation. But alas, the folly of such conceit. Such a young man falls beneath the power of habit before he knows it.

Many young men and young women are warned by parents and friends to shun evil associates. But unheeding the kind entreaties, they rush down this treacherous way and in an unguarded moment are robbed of the better, richer, nobler things

(Continued on page 7.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The Sunday School Convention of the North Carolina and Virginia Conference held its annual session in the Christian Church in Lynchburg, Virginia, on July 24th and 25th. This is a young church, having originated in a union community church in a new section of the city. Various denominations were represented by residents of this new community, and they wanted a place to worship. After starting the work they decided to identify themselves with the Christian Church, and finally united with the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference. The church is a concrete building with basement for Sunday School and social purposes. The seating capacity is about two hundred. The pastor is Rev. M. F. Allen, and the membership is increasing as the new community increases in population and residences. The church is located on the main concrete way leading out from the city towards Danville, Virginia. Senator Glass' home is in sight on the side of the mountain.

The Convention was called to order on Saturday afternoon by Rev. J. E. McCauley, the president. After a short business session, the convention adjourned till Sunday forenoon.

Pastor Allen carried a few of us, and other cars went, too, out to the State Colony, two miles from the city, beyond the James river, where nearly six hundred epileptics are cared for in a way that reflects great credit upon the State, Superintendent Dr. Bell, and his loyal helpers. Then a tour of the Hill City was a revelation of business, educational and benevolent institutions, churches, and grand mountain scenery surrounding the whole. I was the guest that night in the fine new home of Mrs. E. W. Harvey, her son, E. W., Jr., and her daughter Ettie.

I attended the Sunday forenoon session and preached at noon.

Addresses were made by President McCauley, Miss Pattie Coghill, Dr. W. T. Walters; reports from Mr. C. M. Cannon and Rev. Wm. T. Scott were read during the morning session.

The afternoon session opened, as all sessions did, with a devotional period by the pastor. Then an address by F. F. Myrick, a duet by Misses Nellie and Helen Wood. An address by Dr. W. A. Harper, president of Elon College, on "Interpreting Youth," was the outstanding feature of Sunday afternoon. A Fellowship meeting conducted by Dr. Harper, report of Resolutions Committee, "Blest be the Tie that Binds" was sung, and the session closed with the benediction.

A recitation by little Miss Vivian Rowse at the opening session on "Never Say Die," was a suggestive lesson for the convention, which was not as well represented by the Sunday Schools composing it as it should have been; but, considered from every angle except representation, it was an interesting and profitable convention.

The entertainment was ample, cordial, and the fellowship was Christian throughout. The Sunday School as an institution is in a position to keep alive the idea of the Christian Sabbath as no other institution is. The word Sunday should never give place to church in naming the school. Its great value is in being the Sunday School.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

"By their fruits ye shall know them" is a test we may safely apply to any institution or realm of life or of experience. Not what it professes to aim to do, but what does man as with respect to an organization or an institution.

It is sometimes charged that our Sunday Schools are failures because there is such a widespread ignorance of the Bible. But are we sure that an expert knowledge of the Bible even will guarantee that the person possessing it will live like a Christian? It is one thing to know the Bible and quite another thing to be a Christian.

If our Sunday School teachers are able to produce out of their boys and girls men and women who live the Christian life, can we not excuse them for failing to make Biblical scholars of them? Is not the essential thing we aim at Christian character?

There are certain tests of Christian character, certain fruits that evidence its presence. If we find these fruits, these dispositions, these tendencies to act, these attitudes toward life, in the persons who have come up through our Sunday Schools, we may be sure our Sunday School teachers have not failed.

If we find, for example, that our Sunday School pupils exhibit forbearance rather than a spirit of revenge when they are criticized or attacked, shall we not say that their religious education has become for them a control for conduct which is the ultimate goal of all Christian teaching?

And the same is true if we find them concerned for knowing what duty requires in any crisis or course of conduct rather than for insisting on their rights. The Christian has a right to see to it that his brother gets his rights. Unregenerate humanity however is always looking out for its rights, leaving the rights of others to be secured by whatever method opportunity may offer to them.

Here is another test: Is the pupil selfish or unselfish? Does he put the emphasis of his aspiration on getting for himself or giving to others? Is he a tither? And does he in addition make offerings to the Lord's work? Or is he a robber of God?

Is his life organized with the thought of service to and sacrifice for others, or is it his purpose to exercise power over others as a means of achieving distinction and leadership? Is success in life, in his judgment, service or authority over others?

Does he believe in competition as the law of life or does he believe the opposite doctrine of brotherhood and co-operation and self-forgetting love? Is he a Darwinian or a Christian in his philosophy of life?

There are other tests, too, but these are enough to catalogue your pupils by. Test your success as a Sunday School teacher by applying these categories of conduct to those whom you have taught. You will certainly have something to think about after such an experience. W. A. HARPER.

WHAT BETHLEHEM COLLEGE HAS DONE FOR ME.

BY G. H. VEAZEY.

The establishing of Bethlehem College at Wadley, Alabama, opened up to me an opportunity for an education, such as I had not the privilege to enjoy before, and with some persuasion on the part of friends, I entered the school and graduated last spring. I hope to enter Elon College this fall. I was doing ministerial work at the time I entered college, but all the while I felt my great need of a better preparation for this all-important work, and this institution has enabled me to take two years of just the type of work I so much needed.

I have had my vision broadened, my lack of knowledge exposed, and my consecration deepened, through the work of Bethlehem College. My profound conviction is, that I have received as much assistance as I could have received in any other school of instruction. I do not speak disparagingly concerning any system of instruction, when I speak in eulogistic terms of the quality of the work and the results attained in this school. The work demands a perfect mastery of the material of the text, while it leaves an opportunity for free thinking. I feel that I am not exaggerating in the least when I say that it is impossible for a student who is willing and earnest, to be disappointed.

One may expatiate on the merits of this or that school, praise it to the highest because traditionally reverent of the heirlooms of past ages, but none but a student of Bethlehem may point to so genuine a champion of education, blazing the trail for what will be the glory of the coming years for this section of Alabama.

Conscious of the immense good the college has done me and profoundly grateful for it, I do not hesitate to recommend it to all students desirous of continuing their education beyond the high school, confident that new horizons will open to them under the guidance of this school. It is the school for those of very limited means. I greatly rejoice that it has been my good fortune to attend this school. It has been for me a golden opportunity, which has yielded abundant fruits of educational salvation.

For the encouragement of any who might think that it is impossible for them to get an education, I would say that any person who wants an education bad enough can get it.

ELON ALUMNI FOR MEMORIAL TO LAWRENCE.

Elon College students from various sections of Eastern Virginia met last night (July 19) around the banquet table in the Chamber of Commerce dining-room in this city (Norfolk). Delegations were present from Suffolk, Holland, Franklin, Newport News and other nearby points, with a few visitors from North Carolina. The meeting was in the nature of a get-together, get-acquainted affair and for the purpose of effecting a permanent local organization. The true college spirit prevailed throughout the evening, and there was a lively interest in every part of the program.

Among those present last night were representatives of the various classes of the school from the first year of the college's history through the class of '26, and a goodly number of undergraduates. Dr. N. G. Newman of Holland, represented the first class to enter the college at its foundation 35 years ago, while S. M. Smith of this city, was a member of the second year's class.

The interest of the evening centered around resolutions of respect to the memory of Dr. Walter P. Lawrence, whose sudden death following the past commencement, brought sorrow to his thousands of friends and fellow-students. Dr. Lawrence, during the greater part of the time since his graduation in 1894, was at the head of the English department at Elon. He was a scholar of note, having studied at the leading universities in this country and in Europe. During his long years of service he was probably more closely identified with the student body than any other member of the faculty. The high regard in which he was held was clearly evidenced in the spirit of the meeting last night.

(Continued on page 11.)

ATHLETICS AT ELON.

The coaching staff and athletic policies of Elon College have just been set forth in detail by a summer bulletin now in the press as put into effect by the board of trustees at their recent annual meeting, to-wit: the installation of the faculty coaching system, showing Prof. A. R. VanCleave, Merion, Ind., head coach of football for next year, and professor of philosophy and social science, and Dr. W. M. Jay, Everett, Pa., head coach of basket-ball and baseball and professor of English literature.

This coaching staff and athletic policy which has been provided for the 1926-27 session, in the judgment of the trustees, faculty, and many alumni, offers the finest opportunity for athletics in co-operation with education which Elon College has so far presented to her student body. Other members of the staff other than the two head coaches mentioned above, are A. K. Moore, Boone, she specialized in expression and physical education for women. She comes to Elon with the highest recommendations for this work.

Mr. A. K. Moore has served as "gym" director and as coach of track and tennis last year, and will return next year in the same capacity.

C. M. Cannon will succeed Prof. J. W. Barney as graduate manager of athletics. The faculty committee on athletics for next year is as follows: Dean A. L. Hook, chairman; Dr. N. F. Brannock, and Prof. J. W. Barney.

Faculty coaching is new in North Carolina, but has become an established policy at some of the outstanding institutions of the country, and this system is being given a try at Elon. It is believed by the authorities, and is recommended by educational experts the country over, that this combination of teaching with coaching will have a salutary effect on athletics as well as on scholarship in the college life and will remove the cause

The unfortunate man who fell among thieves on his way from Jerusalem down to Jericho was only one of many who passed that way, but he was one of the few who were unfortunate.

The priest came down that way as did also the Levite and Samaritan. All four men went down the same way, but only one fell among thieves. This teaches us that we who are able to pass down some road of experience without provoking our ruin, should not censure and condemn our weaker brother who falls by the way.

Some men can pass down along the road of business and be honest men, but some fall into the hands of selfishness or dishonesty. Many people can pass down the road of some particular pleasure and retain their love for and devotion to God, but others passing down the same road may fall. Some men can pass safely down the road of affliction and keep their sweet spirit and submissiveness to the will of their Maker; others fall into the hands of cursing and despondency.

Some men pass safely down the road of Biblical research and retain their faith in God and appreciation of the religious consciousness recorded in our scriptures, but others fall into the hands of skepticism and sacrilege.

This man fell among thieves, so might have the priest, so might the Levite and the Samaritan have fallen under the same conditions. If the priest had been where the young man was, and the young man where the priest was at that particular moment of the offense, the priest would have been the unfortunate one. Upon him would the thieves have rushed even more gladly, for doubtless his raiment was of more worth than this young man's. Likewise would the Levite have been treated. And if the Samaritan had been there in place of the young man, the thieves would have had the donkey as an addition to their gains. Yes, any of the other three would have been found in the same plight the young man was in, had they been in his place when the affair was executed.

Men and women around us are falling every day. So might we if we had the same temptations, coupled with the same environment and circumstances to press upon us. I do not believe that Christ looks with favor upon the bigoted Christian who condemns the sinner. It is not the sinner but the sin that is to be condemned. I do not believe that Christ looks with favor upon that kind of person, who, when he sees some poor unfortunate man or woman, boy or girl, who has fallen beneath the great weight of some temptation, will turn his head and scoff, showering criticism and abuse upon the poor unfortunate one. That is not Christianity. It is inhumanity. The social vultures who feed upon the mistakes and misfortunes of others should remember that they too might have been among the unfortunates but for the overruling of destiny.

A Christian should realize as did Dr. Burton of Yale regarding the poor unfortunate men who had fallen in crime. As he stood one day in the corridor of a State penitentiary looking through the bars into the prison cell where a man was waiting for trial on an offense committed while under the influence of liquor; said Dr. Burton to a friend standing by, both looking in at the poor abject prisoner in his wretched condition, said he with tears in his eyes, friend, "that is perfectly terrible, and yet but for the grace of Christ I myself might be in his place."

Our hearts should go out in tenderest sympathy to the unfortunates. The picture of a degraded man or woman should cause every Christian to say as did Dr. Burton, "but for the grace of Christ, I might be in that person's place." And this can be said with no element of Pharasaical pride. It is an honest confession of what we owe to Christ. R. C. H.

BASKET BALL SQUAD AT ELON COLLEGE.

N. C., gymnasium director and coach of track and tennis; Miss Helen R. Brett, Murfreesboro, N. C., director of physical education for women, and C. M. Cannon, graduate manager of athletics.

Prof. A. R. VanCleave was for four years head coach at Union Christian College, in Indiana, and during that time put out the best football team the college ever had. He is a graduate of Union Christian College and also of the State University of Indiana, and has done considerable graduate work at University of Illinois and the University of Chicago. Prof. VanCleave is a man of the strictest integrity and has enjoyed high popularity as professor and coach.

Dr. W. M. Jay has had a wide experience as professor, coach, and minister of the gospel. He is a graduate of Defiance College and of Ohio State, and a graduate student of the University of Chicago and of Columbia. For six years Dr. Jay was head coach at Defiance College in Ohio. He is an expert with young men, knows them and loves them, and they love him too wherever he has served, and whether it was as coach, professor or pastor.

Miss Helen R. Brett is a graduate of Chowan College, and of King's School of Oratory, where of some of the grave criticisms that have been brought against college athletics in this and in other States. Notre Dame is an institution which has achieved high distinction in athletics under this system of coaching, their coach being also head of the chemistry department there, and this system of faculty coaches is growing in popularity in colleges and universities. It has long been the method in England where student coaching was not practiced.

C. M. CANNON.

OUR OBLIGATION TO UNFORTUNATE.
(Continued from page 5.)

of life. Robbed of their ambition, robbed of their holy aspirations, robbed of their virtue and honor. But when the sadness of the whole thing flashes upon them—as they lie beneath the burning sun of criticism, with the uncharitable gossipers adding to the sadness of their plight, they feel the awful humiliation thrust upon them, the disgrace brought upon the family name. Then is when they think of mother's pleading and friend's warning.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

THE INFLUENCE OF THE CHRISTIAN COLLEGE UPON MISSIONS.

BY REV. WM. T. SCOTT, Oktaha, Oklahoma.

The value of Christian atmosphere and environment thrown around a developing life is inestimable. It can always be measured in terms of good, the fruits of which increase with time. The home, the business, the school that concerns itself with more than things and with more than merely developing a body and a mind will verily best serve humanity. A character developing institution will always contribute to its own strength through its work, through its products. The fact that good is a leaven is the encouraging impulse to those upon whom the burden falls to lead. Ideals that are ingrained in character are expressed in the fruits they bear. The Christian College in its atmosphere charged with the influence of its consecrated leaders, has in days gone by been able to bring to bear a powerful influence upon those who have come in contact with it. The Christian College student has been a creator of ways and means of propagation of the Gospel. For a proof of that fact one needs only to look at the movements so clearly marked in the annals of Church History. That the products of the Christian College will be a powerful factor in the solution of world problems in the days to come is the brightest hope of humanity. Only when nations, like the individual, learn to come and sit at the feet of the Master and in His spirit settle their problems, can the world hope for peace. The search for truth has made a great many people free, and the college concerned with character building in its continued search for truth will in the future make its indelible impress upon humanity.

The Protestant missionary spirit has grown with such definite and steadily increasing results that today it is perhaps the greatest single enterprise of the Church. In this single undertaking there are approximately 29,188 missionaries on the various fields, representing 380 different societies, and supported by a budget of approximately $70,000,000 annually. For this heritage and impulse we have received we cannot fail to give due credit to those consecrated Catholic pioneers who contributed so much in self-sacrifice in the evangelization of Europe, our Anglo-Saxon fathers, the beginning of America's greatness. To see some of the effects of these leaders, and to see the source from which they come will in part enable us to see the part of the Christian College in the missionary endeavor of the Church.

For one to name the most outstanding factor in the progress of Christian missions, he must undoubtedly name the Christian educational institutions, the birthplaces of many movements. Wherever the Church has gone it has carried the school, though crude and imperfect as that school may have been. The earliest missionaries of the evangelization of Europe were from the Catholic Monastic schools. Patrick went to Ireland, Fin-dian to Western Europe, Columba to the Scots, Willibrord to Frisia, Ansgar to Denmark and Sweden, as products of and who contributed to the continuity of these schools. Attention might well be called to the fact that two outstanding Catholic orders of missionary endeavor are products of the minds of college students under the influence of devout teachers. At the University of Paris, a Catholic school, in 1534 Ignatius Loyola, with a group of other students, took the priesthood vows of chastity, poverty, obedience, and organized the Society of Jesus or the Jesuits. Also at this same seat of learning, Pallu, another student, started an order for secular priests, the Paris Society.

To mention Halle University and the Pietist Group, Oxford and the Holy Club, or Williams College and the Haystack Meeting, is to call attention to facts of Protestant Missions which stand out as great memorials to Christendom. To trace the effect and work of the Christian College upon Protestant missions one would first think of Halle University and the Pietist Movement among the German Christians, about a century after the Reformation. The spiritual life of the Lutheran Church began to drift off into formalism and deadening orthodoxy. A protest led by Spener, a court preacher of Dresden, resulted in the founding of the University of Halle in 1694. Here arose the zeal of Lutheran missions, a movement which no doubt saved the leaders of the Reformation, under the leadership of a student Bartholomaeus Ziegenbalg, who with another student went to India as missionaries in 1705. This movement at Halle eventuated through its products in the work of Count Zinzendorf and the Moravians who greatly influenced the life of John Wesley and ultimately the great Methodist Episcopal Church.

At Oxford University, England, 1729-1735, a small group of young men under the leadership of John Wesley formed a club known as the Holy Club, which carefully observed method in Bible study, fasting and prayer. These young men were called Methodists because of their strict religious discipline. The group grew in numbers, influence and power, resulting in the founding of societies of religion among the laboring and neglected classes of England. This consecration at Oxford University influenced all of England, and the work of these Methodists extended across the Atlantic to America, where fruit is being borne bountifully for the coming Kingdom.

Williams College in America seems to have been destined to have a great part in Christian missions. It was chartered in 1793, the same year that William Carey and his associates were ordained to the work of foreign missions. In 1806, from a secluded country parish in Connecticut, a young man, Samuel J. Mills, went to this college. Here this young man with a group of his fellow students, planted a seed that was destined to grow into one of the chief glories of our American Church, the Foreign Missionary Movement of America—a movement which has grown until today America furnishes one-third of all the monies and missionaries of the program of world evangelism of the Protestant Church. On an afternoon in August, five young men, three of whom were freshmen, including Samuel J. Mills, were out in the maple grove near Williams College praying for Divine guidance in choosing their life's work. As they were praying a severe thunder storm came up and they took refuge in a nearby haystack to resume their meditation. Here it was that impulse came to them that the Gospel should be preached to the heathen, and here it was that they, like young Isaiah's said, "Here am I, send me." From that Haystack Meeting of these young men, from that Christian College went a mighty force as a leaven, the effects of which are being felt in the remotest parts of the earth.

In 1886, at Mount Hermon, Mass., at the first International Conference of Christian College Students, the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions was founded. Through one of its leaders and charter members, who was a descendant of one of the original Haystack group, this missionary movement traces its succession back to the memorable day at Williams College. This group of college students is the most powerful missionary recruiting agency in the world. In 1918, just thirty-two years after its founding, over 8,500 volunteers had reached various mission fields from 55 different societies through this recruiting agency.

The World Student Christian Federation uniting all Christian student movements in the world, was founded in Wadstena, Sweden, in 1895, by Christian students from Scandinavian countries, Germany, Great Britain, the United States and Canada. This federation of students is doing much to promote world friendship and is thus an evangelizing force of Christianity. "In 1897 this federation met at Williams College and at the historic spot of the Haystack Meeting. There the Germans forgot Germany, the Hollanders forgot Holland, the Chinese forgot China, and so with each nation represented. Thinking of one brotherhood, they sang 'We can have it if we will,' and marching away from the spot which marked the birthplace of modern missions, the united group sang clear and loud, 'Onward Christian Soldiers!'"

Such movements have characterized the spirit of college students and they have made the Christian College a creative force in the world of the Christian Faith. May the Christian College continue to have its rightful place in the hearts of our young men and women, so that search for truth in a Christ-like atmosphere may cause impulses anew to be felt that will make all men free indeed.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY OFFERINGS JULY, 1926.

Fuller's Chapel, Henderson, N. C.	$ 1.36
Elon Community Church, Elon College . . .	10.00
Timber Ridge, Va.	4.27
Wakefield, Va.	3.93
Ocean View, Va.	1.50
Lawrence Mem. Class, Elon College, N. C. .	80
Wadley, Ala.	1.32
Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C.	1.07
Shady Grove, Martin's Mill, N. C.	1.37
Dendron, Va.	15.83
Ramseur, N. C.	2.41
Rose Hill, Columbus, Ga.	1.01
Holy Neek, Holland, Va.	16.00
New Hope, Roanoke, Ala.	1.50
Suffolk, Va.	12.50
Bethlehem, Broadway, Va.	3.97
Linville, Harrisonburg, Va.	3.93
Pleasant Grove, News Ferry, Va.	5.47
Winchester, Va.	6.39
Oakland, Chuckatuck, Va.	2.00
Leaksville, Luray, Va.	2.13
Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C.	1.43
First Church, Greensboro, N. C.	17.14
First Church, Norfolk, Va.	5.05
Webster Ch., Havre de Grace, Md.	5.00
New Elam, New Hill, N. C.	3.87
Richland, Ga.	1.00
Antioch, Harrisonburg, Va.	14.31
Beulah, Wadley, Ala.	1.11
Pleasant Hill (A), Liberty, N. C.	1.76
Liberty (Vance), Henderson, N. C.	5.14
Providence Memorial, Graham, N. C.	4.16
Morrisville, N. C.	2.31
Wake Chapel, Fuquay Springs, N. C.	5.00
Randleman, N. C.	4.93
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.	3.06
Berea (Nansemond), Driver, Va.	5.25
Bethlehem, Suffolk, Va.	2.42
Ether, N. C.	2.82

Liberty, N. C.	2.23
Berea (Norfolk), Norfolk, Va.	13.00
Dry Run, Seven Fountains, Va.	2.71
Mt. Pleasant, Overhills, N. C.	1.50
Zion, Moncure, N. C.	1.95
Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C.	1.32
First Church, Portsmouth, Va.	16.84
Palm Street, Greensboro, N. C.	4.22
Ramscur, N. C.	6.73
Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C.	1.25
Holland, Va.	10.00
Rose Hill, Columbus, Ga.67
Wakefield, Va.	2.96
Mt. Zion, Mebane, N. C.	1.00
North Highlands, Columbus, Ga.94
Parks' Cross Roads, Ramseur, N. C.	3.09
Bethlehem, Broadway, Va.	3.02
Raleigh, N. C.	2.00
Burlington, N. C.	80.07
Rosemont, Class 3, Berkley, Va.	10.00
Greensboro, First, Daily Va. Bible School.	3.55

Total collections for July$ 261.92

EMERGENCY MISSION FUND.
Collections, July 1 to 31, 1926.

Providence Memorial, Graham, N. C. (ad) ..$	1.00
Miss Mettie Sutton, Burlington, N. C.	5.00
Lowell Church, Roanoke, Ala.	4.70
Raleigh, N. C. (ad) ..	30.00
Mrs. B. E. White, Waverly, Va.	2.00
Cash on note ..	25.00

Total July collections$ 67.70

Amount previously acknowledged 11,691.48

Grand total to July 31st$ 11,734.18

Regular Sunday School offerings$	261.92
Emergency fund ..	67.70
Specials ..	93.62
Ind. collections ..	20.00

Total collections for July$ 443.24

Amount Check to R. W. Malone, Treas. ..$ 443.24

Respectfully submitted,
J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

MEN AND MILLIONS COLLECTIONS FOR JULY, 1926.

Mr. C. D. Johnston, Exec. Secretary,
Elon College, N. C.

Dear Brother:

I enclose check of $406.25 to cover Men and Millions collections from the following churches:

Eastern Virginia Conference.
Newport News	$ 17.00
Holy Neck	25.00
Dendron	25.00
Bethlehem	5.00
Berea (Norfolk)	60.00
Berea (Nausemond)	20.00
Rosemont	225.00
Mt. Zion	5.70
Alabama Conference.
Noonday	3.00
Georgia and Alabama Conference.
Enigma	5.00
Western North Carolina Conference.
Burlington	5.55
Valley of Virginia Conference.
Bethlehem	10.00

Total collections for July$ 406.25

Respectfully submitted,
J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

REPORT OF THE WOMAN'S BOARD OF THE EASTERN VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

Below will be found the receipts of Women's Missionary Societies of the Eastern Virginia Conference for the quarter ending June 30, 1926:

Women's Societies.

Antioch	$ 21.92
Berea (Nausemond)	61.38
Bethlehem	11.10
Christian Temple	65.25
Cypress Chapel	30.80
Damascus	10.35
Dendron	39.95
Dover	22.40
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth	5.35
First, Norfolk	5.00
Franklin	19.60
Holy Neck	7.40
Holland	24.05
Isle of Wight	4.50
Liberty Spring	8.30
Mt. Carmel	8.85
Newport News	64.35
Oakland	5.70
Portsmouth	16.40
Richmond	3.00
Rosemont	41.43
Suffolk	59.20
Wakefield	6.20
Waverly	23.86
Windsor	4.90
Total	$ 571.24

Young People's Societies.

Berea (Nausemond)	$ 9.05
Bethlehem	25.00
Burton's Grove	4.05
Christian Temple	6.20
Cypress Chapel	10.00
Damascus	10.00
Dendron	5.30
First, Norfolk	2.50
Franklin	12.00
Holy Neck	5.50
Holland	36.20
Liberty Spring	7.70
New Lebanon	7.55
Suffolk	85.15
Union Surry	4.80
Waverly	23.30
Total	$ 254.30

Willing Workers' Societies.

Berea (Nausemond)	$ 5.86
Bethlehem	2.50
Christiau Temple	7.89
First, Norfolk	2.50
Franklin	5.40
Holly Neck	9.84
Holland	15.00
Mt. Carmel	4.65
Rosemont	18.00
Windsor	7.00
Total	$ 78.64

Cradle Rolls.

Bethlehem	$ 2.91
Franklin	10.00
Newport News	13.50
Rosemont	14.25
Sunbury	7.71
Total	$ 48.37

Grand total$ 952.55

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. W. V. LEATHERS,
Treasurer.

REPORT OF THE WOMAN'S BOARD OF THE NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

Below is given the report of the Woman's Board of the North Carolina Conferences for the quarter ending June 30, 1926:

Women's Societies.

Burlington	$ 71.22
Chapel Hill	15.10
Durham	41.05
Elon College	61.50
Ether	4.50
Graham	15.00
Greensboro	62.50
Ingram (Va.)	3.00
Liberty (Vance)	15.00
Lynchburg (Va.)	1.00
Mt. Auburn	21.05
Mt. Gilead	4.85
Oak Level	2.30
Piney Plains	4.74
Pleasant Hill	5.00
Sanford	25.00
Shallow Well	12.50
Union (N. C.)	15.20
Virgilina (Va.)	7.80
Wake Chapel	11.60
Total	$ 399.91

Young People's Societies.

Elon College	$ 16.10
Greensboro	20.00
Liberty (Vance)	7.50
Raleigh	5.00
Total	$ 48.60

Junior Young People's Societies.

Burlington	$ 36.30
Elon College	3.95
Greensboro	5.00
Total	$ 45.25

Willing Workers' Societies.

Burlington	$ 50.20
Durham	7.08
Elon College	2.98
Greensboro	6.25
Virgilina (Va.)	12.00
Total	$ 78.51

District Meetings.

Randolph	$ 15.55
Wake	12.45
Halifax	8.60
Total	$ 36.60

Grand total$ 608.87

Recapitulation.

Dues, Women's Societies	$ 204.74
Dues, Young People and W. Workers	57.11
For Bible Woman in Japan	25.00
Ellen Gusten Fund	1.00
Life Membership fee	10.00
Home and Foreign Missions, W. S.	159.17
Home and Foreign Missions, Y. P., W. W.	115.25
District Meeting offerings	36.60
Total	$ 608.87

Check for $608.87 forwarded to Mrs. H. S. Hardcastle, Treasurer, General Board.

Respectfully submitted,
Treasurer.
MRS. W. R. SELLARS,

For forty cents the Laymon Company, 730 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill., offers to send to any address postpaid, 37 pamphlets on Tithing, aggregating over 350 pages, by various authors.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

LESSON VII.—AUGUST 15, 1926.

"JETHRO'S WISE COUNSEL.

GOLDEN TEXT: To each one his work."—Mark 13: 34.

LESSON: Exodus 18: 1-27.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 106: 1-5.

REFERENCE MATERIAL: Numbers 10: 29-32; Acts 6: 1-6.

A Family Reunion.

Moses had been away from his family. His wife and two sons had been sent to Jethro, the father and grandfather. But when Jethro—he is called Ruel in another place—heard that God had delivered the people of Israel out of Egypt, he took his daughter, Zipporah, and his grandsons, Gershom and Eliezer, and went out to meet Moses. When Moses heard that they were coming he went out to meet them. It must have been a great occasion. To be separated from loved ones is hard. Parents are loath to allow children to go away from home, even though they go for education or service. Only last week the writer visited in a home that had been transplanted from New York State to "Ole Virginny," so that the parents might be near the only daughter, who had married and come South to live. One of the greatest hardships which the soldiers in the Great War suffered was the long separation both in time and miles from their home and loved ones. It is hard to be away from home and loved ones.

In the light of this fact, how much it means to be united with loved ones again. The writer well remembers the emotions that swept over him as he stood at the station in Greensboro, N. C., and saw the big train roll in that was to carry him back to his home after his first long stay away from home in college. The parents who read this also know how they look forward to the return home of boys and girls who have been away. Husbands and wives know the thrill that comes when they are re-united after separation from each other.

In connection with this fact we are reminded that separations come in this life. We cannot always be with our loved ones. And even though we can be with our loved ones through life, death eventually comes to break the ties with earthly loved ones and friends. But the separation need not be final. There is another land in which there is no parting and where we shall be re-united with those whom we have loved and lost for a while. This thought has helped to inspire many men and women, boys and girls to holy living here, and has kept them true to high ideals by the powerful motive it offers.

An Experience Meeting.

"And Moses told his father-in-law all that the Lord had done unto Pharaoh and the the Egyptians for Israel's sake, and all the travail that had come upon them by the way, and how the Lord delivered them."

It is not good for a man to talk about himself too much. But there is a place for personal experience or testimony when it concerns the Lord's dealings with a man. And while it is true that a certain kind of testimony is the cheapest and most formal thing, it is equally as true that an humble and sincere testimony is often one of the most vital things in the religious life, both of the man himself, and of those who hear him. "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so," says the Psalmist. "They drove him (Satan) out by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony," says the writer of Revelation. Paul was always glad to bear testimony, even before governors and kings, as to what Jesus Christ had done for him.

Perhaps one reason why we testify so little is because we have so little to testify about. If God has done great and good things for us, let us tell others. Jethro was convinced of the greatness and superiority of Jehovah because of Moses' testimony of what Jehovah had done for Israel.

Jethro's Advice.

Someone has said that advice is the most useless thing in the world, "for wise men do not need it, and fools will not take it." But wise men do need advice, and often those who are humble and even untutored, can give sound and helpful advice to wise men. Jethro gave some splendid advice to Moses, and Moses showed that he was a wise man by heeding the advice. It was on this wise.

Moses was in the habit of having the people to come to him for everything. They came to him to enquire of God, they came to him to be taught, they came to him to have him judge between them, and in addition to all this he had to look out to see that they kept the laws. His willingness was commendable, but his judgment was questionable. Jethro suggested that it would be better for Moses to confine his activities primarily to things moral and spiritual, that is that he be the interpreter or mediator between God and the people, and that he delegate the other important but lesser things to others. It was a wise suggestion, for it not only would relieve Moses of a great deal of detail work and exacting duties, and thus increase his efficiency in spiritual matters, but it would also train and develop other workers. Moses saw the wisdom of the thing at once and established the plan. The average minister would do well to follow his example. It is better to train ten men to work than it is to do the work of ten men. Many ministers have not learned to entrust duties to others, and in doing this they are defeating one of the purposes of their ministry. The average church might also take a lesson here, for in so many cases the minister is not much more than an errand boy. He is so absorbed in so many things that could and should be done by others that he has little if any time for study and meditation and prayer that are so necessary to make his messages and his ministry vital and life-giving.

Wanted—Real Men.

This was the cry then. They wanted men who were "able men, such as fear God, men of truth, hating covetousness." The work was too important to be entrusted to any or every office seeker; it was a task for real men. This is the cry now. We need men in public office who are able men, men who fear God, men of truth, and men who hate covetousness, men who regard public office as a public trust. God give us men, real men for such a time as this.

Some Practical Applications of the Lesson to Modern Conditions.

1. The servant of God should be an interpreter of God.
2. To train others to do is better than to do single-handed.

3. Every man ought to do his part in the Kingdom work.

4. Any scheme or system depends in the final analysis upon the kind of men in that system.

5. Organization has its place, but it must never displace spiritual forces.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

By REV. F. C. LESTER.

AUGUST 15, 1926.

TOPIC: "Preventing Waste"

SCRIPTURE: Luke 15: 11-32; John 6: 1-13.

Hints to the Leader.

This is a very practical topic and should be very helpful to the members of your Society. Have some prepare on topics as applied to your own community. Get the members to think of how they waste time in frivolous things, and how some waste even the best of life by failing to be Christian in character.

Waste Then and Now.

John tells us in the reference above that when Jesus had fed the multitude, he told the disciples to take up the fragments, in order that nothing should be wasted. Jesus felt that the bread and fish were gifts from God, and should be used as food for the hungry. It should not rot on the ground like barrels of good food do during picnic time. Think of that when you go on a picnic.

During the war we learned a little about saving food. A hundred thousand children live in the Near East Relief orphanages because boys in America saved the bread, sugar, etc., that was necessary to give them life. If we would save what we have, there would be plenty of food for all the hungry people of the earth—and there are millions who have never had a real meal.

There are many kinds of waste in the world. And it is far better to prevent the waste than to cry about it after the thing had happened. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

The most important waste of all is that of human life. The finest short story in the world is the one told by Jesus, of the man who had two sons, one of whom went away and was lost. It is a true story that magazines and newspapers are telling of many boys and girls of today, who have just as little sense and just as hard luck as did the fine fellow of whom Jesus spoke. They all think they can find the end of the rainbow. They are sure that wild oats will bring a harvest of golden grain.

Others may get caught, but they expect to escape the wages of sin.

But alas! they write from prison asking for help from those whose advice they had spurned. They spend sleepless nights wondering what will be the result of that escapade through which they have passed. Months and years are filled with regrets for the hasty act and wasted opportunities. But tears of grief can ne'er repay. Time once gone can never be regained. Neither can many of the best things of life.

It is a fine thing to pull people out of a wreck, even though they are badly bruised and broken, but it is a much better thing to prevent the wreck. It is the business of the Church with all its affiliated organizations, to try to prevent the wreckage of character. They deserve the very best any of us can give to them in time, thought, energy, and money. At this writing there are nearly a hundred people at the Elon Chautauqua who are trying to learn how to save themselves and prevent the loss of other boys and girls. They are to be congratulated on their fine choice, and next year there should be many more here with them for the same purpose.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

All my Kiddies, Listen!

Who was it that allowed us to put those pictures in the Korner? You would never guess. And listen, the one who put them in the Korner for us says, "I love the Kiddies, and I want to help them, but just don't tell my name."

We are all so delighted with our pictures that we want to write this wonderwul person—I will tell you that it is a man—and now what shall we call him when we write him a letter? Let's see, dears. Oh, of course, we can say, "Dear Daddy-Man,"—that will get to him as quickly as if you would say on the letter, "Mr. _____" and what do you know about that—I almost wrote that nice name. Now listen, dears. I want every one who liked the pictures to write to our "Daddy Man" and send the letters to me. Send them to me, and as I am going home next week, address them to Miss Madge Fleming Moffitt, Ramseur, N. C. Don't forget to write the letter, for Daddy Man will be looking for about a wagon load.

One of our best Kiddies has gone 'way off—to Alabama. And here comes a wee letter this morning saying he rode 250 miles and all at once—Whoa, the cop said Stop. Our little friend didn't tell any more 'cept the cop handed them a tag, then of course they could park anywhere they wanted to—for they were away down in Atlanta. Think of that!

Where did that hot weather come from? The sun is so shiney and the air so still—it's time to go in a swimmin'—boys and girls. Come on and let's try it right now.

YOUR EDITOR.

JIMMIE'S COLLECTOR.

It was very warm and Jimmie was tired. Presently, as he leaned back with his eyes half shut, he heard steps and saw a queer little man approaching, carrying a large knapsack. "Good evening," he said. Then he sat down as if he felt quite at home.

"Are you a peddler?" asked Jimmie.

"No, I'm a collector."

"What do you collect?" inquired Jimmie, "postage stamps, or coins, or autographs?"

"No, I am a collector of waste."

Of waste! Where do you find it?"

"That is just what I'm going to tell you. The world is full of waste—time, opportunities, money, happiness. All these things we gather up from day to day, and sometimes our loads are frightfully heavy. I have collected all of this today."

"Dear me!" said Jimmie, "I wish you would show me some of the things you have there."

"If I show you anything, I will show you your own waste, for you've given me a lot of work to-day collecting it," replied the old man.

"I'd like to know what I've wasted today! That's nonsense!" retorted Jimmie.

"It is, hey? Well, then, I'll prove that it's true, and I'll make you own it too, before I go. I have not time to open my knapsack now, but I will read from my memorandum book the list of all you've wasted today." And he took out a small book and turned the leaves:

"Jimmie—here is your account: now listen: In the first place, you wasted thirteen minutes this morning lying in bed after you were called and told to get up.

"Then when you were only half dressed you wasted eight minutes looking out of the window at two dogs that were fighting.

"In school you lost ten minutes of the study hour drawing pictures in your copy book, and you wasted eleven more over that newspaper.

"When you came home, instead of going directly to your room to wash your face and hands and brush your hair as your mother requested, you spent nine minutes grumbling before obeying her.

"You saw a bird's nest robbed today and never said a word, when you might have saved it.

"You flew into a passion, when your shoe-string knotted, wasting an opportunity for self control.

"You forgot to rise and offer your mother a seat when she entered the room, and wasted an opportunity to be polite.

"These are not all, but I have read enough to prove what I said. Take pains my boy. It is in your power to lighten my daily load very much. But hark! your mother is calling you; don't waste another minute, I beg. Good night!"

Jimmie wakened. The old man had vanished.—Selected.

MEMORIAL TO DR. LAWRENCE.

(Continued from page 6.)

by unanimous vote reviewed briefly his career as a teacher and as a churchman, lamented his death, and recommended that a suitable memorial be established to his memory. The nature and character of the memorial was not determined, although several things were suggested. The matter is to be referred to the Alumni Association, of which Rev. F. C. Lester of Franklin, Va., is president. Mr. Lester, who was present, promised his personal support to the proposition and stated that he felt sure that every old student of the college would back the movement.

In the election of officers of the local organization, Rev. John G. Truitt of Berkley, was made president; S. M. Smith of Norfolk, vice-president, and Mrs. Annie Staley Calhoun of Suffolk, secretary and treasurer. Another meeting of the body will probably be called during the summer.—Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.
Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35

(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.

(Weight 13 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25

Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jē-hōi'-ā-kim gave th silver and the gold to Phār'-aōb

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50

(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.

(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR
 CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

GLAMOR AND THRILL, OR QUIET AND REST?

"Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."—Phil. 4: 8.

It appears that the world is being served pretty well in the matter of pictures and entertainment, the glamour and the thrill; and the more like the Nick Carter dime novel stuff these things are, the more thoroughly the masses support them. It is said that the picture-house patrons are not really seeking pictures, but stories, and what they want is dime novel stuff without the fatigue of reading it and taxing their imaginations to draw the pictures and generate the thrill. When they do read, it is for the stories and not for the more substantial truths which make life greater.

How often are we told of the movies—the action, the cowboy with the three-gallon hat, the galloping, the shooting, saving the girl, and the romance. How the boys clap. In the audience there sits an elderly woman who no doubt has left her home to seek a little change from her life of drudgery—how she claps! And when the hero leaps into the saddle, her emotions overcome her.

What does all this mean? It means that the theatre is giving to this woman, and to such as she, a window "locking out upon the golden country of romance," and it offers her in a form which she is able to comprehend, an escape from the deadening effects of her monotonous everyday life of drudgery.

Religion to a great many of these may be a reality and worthy of respect, but it is very fine and in the back-ground; for they do not seem to know what it is all about. When they want to forget their troubles, they do not want to go to church, or to the library for reading, but they go to the movies for a good "Western," where glamour and the thrill that delights for a moment but soon passes away.

We are amusing ourselves with radio, motoring, golf, bridge, phonographs, vaudeville, newspapers, and movies, and have no time for the church, religion, "closet" prayer, quiet and rest. It all inevitably reacts against our super manhood and we soon become like that which we have chosen to follow. This inevitably takes us away from God. No one has ever yet found God in such pursuits. He says, "Be still and know that I am God." Jesus said shut yourself up away from the world a while and pray. It is then you find God. And if it is true that we become like that which we follow, it also follows that we must choose the noble and the good in order to become noble and good. And this is primary in its importance. We may have something of the entertaining, but we must "take time to be holy" also, that having obtained "first the kingdom of God," all the rest is added in its place.

TUESDAY.

WALKED WITH GOD.

"And Enoch walked with God."—Gen. 5: 24.

How worthy Enoch's conduct must have been! What harmony there must have been between him and his neighbors that he could be considered the repository of such confidence! What serenity of soul he must have possessed! He must have been truly happy and able to transfer that happiness to others. Such a life can result only from conscious harmony with God.

The most wonderful thing about this is that God has endowed us with the same means of attaining that state of being; and, talking about the unrest everywhere, we shall never be deeply satisfied and at rest until we do so.

Prayer.—Our Father, Grant that we shall live so near to Thee, and grow continually nearer, that we may never feel disappointment in the needs of our spiritual natures. Forgive us of our sins and bless us with Thy companionship all the days of our lives. In Jesus' name we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

REFLECTED LIGHT.

"Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace."

A current anecdote quoted by Mr. Allen of the Christian Work, says, "A mother asked her little daughter, just returned from Sunday School, what the lesson was about. 'Well, mother,' was the answer, 'it was about a man who used to go to walk with God. His name was Enoch. One afternoon he went on and on until it got late, and God told Enoch to come on and go home with Him, and he did.'"

How charming it is to live in such close companionship with God that one day we step over the line with Him and live with Him forever.

Prayer.—Dear Father of Life and Eternity, We would like to live with Thee both now and hereafter. Give us vision to see something of Thy purpose in every day experiences; to feel the sustaining strength of Thy conscious fellowship over every hill and through every rough place; to know daily that everything is right between us and Thee. May our every need be met, temporal and spiritual, and as we travel onward and upward, one day when the night falls upon our earthly existence, may we find that we have reached the gates of Thy eternal abode, where we can hear Thee say, "Enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

Grant this in the name of Christ our Lord. Amen.

THURSDAY.

LIVING ON GOD'S SIDE.

"Ye ask and receive not, because ye ask amiss."—Jas. 4: 3.

"Now the confidence we have in him is this, that he listens to us whenever we ask anything in accordance with his will."—I Jno. 5: 14.

"If ye abide in me and my works abide in you, then ask whatsoever you like and you shall have it."—Jno. 15: 7.

Why are not more of our prayers answered? Why are not more of us conscious of walking with God? Because we have not complied with the conditions of the asking, and perhaps are not even prepared to receive. Why can't we hear the music of the air without the radio machine? We are not in tune (harmony) with those conditions, and Mr. Allen says, we cannot walk with God because "we want God to walk with us." How true this is. We beg the Father to go with us, to grant us success, to give us the victory.

During the Civil War, one said to President Lincoln, "We trust that God is on our side." Lincoln said, "I am not interested in that." The speaker was amazed and wondered why. Mr. Lincoln said, "I am concerned only that we shall be on God's side." God did not walk with Enoch. Enoch walked with God. God's ways are not our ways, nor His thoughts our thoughts, therefore we must put away our ways and adopt His. Pray, "Thy will be done." Jesus himself is the example: "Not my will but thine be done." and this we must seek.

Prayer.—Our Father, O may we look for Thee in the first thoughts of the day, in our daily duties, in all our experiences. At Thy cross we humbly bow, where we give up all that is displeasing to Thee and we pray for will and strength to go forever in Thy way, onward and upward in the accomplishment of Thy noble purpose. In Christ's name. Amen.

FRIDAY.

LOVING AND HATING.

"Thou hatest the deeds - - - which I also hate."—Rev. 2: 6.

"Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; therefore God hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness."—Heb. 1: 9.

Hating what He hates, loving what He loves; that is the way in our problems. A dedication of the life to Him and a studious search for a true knowledge of His loves and His hates will open to us His way—the way we should go.

If Enoch succeeded, surely we may. His was a time when the wickedness of the world was great. Enoch had not the helps that we have. He did not have Jesus, nor the Gospel, not even the Church as we have it. Shame on us if we do not succeed.

Prayer.—Dear Father, Open Thou before us the road we are to travel, in thought, word and deed. Amidst the shadows, the allurements, the heartaches, failures, bereavements, surrounding us and awaiting us on our way, may we know that we need not go alone. Turn our souls to hear Thee say, "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee." We thank Thee for such companionship. In it we count on the victory. May we go with Thee, keep Thy step, love what Thou dost love and fear that which separates us from Thee. Amen.

SATURDAY.

OUR FATHER.

"Thou shalt call me, My Father."

Read Jeremiah 3: 17-19 and Luke 11: 2.

This verse is taken from the Old Testament, yet it is not the usual form of addressing God, as is found in the Scriptures of the old dispensation. In the Old Testament God is conceived of as Creator, King, Lord of Lords, Almighty, but not often as Father. Perhaps there are only five clear instances in all the old records.

God is spoken of in the New Testament under the title of Fatherhood, two hundred and sixty-five times. Our earthly father provides for us and shows his love by manifold blessings. But all good gifts come from God. The love which an earthly father has for his children can not be compared with that love which the Lord has for those who trust and obey Him. If we are in deed and in truth His children, we feel near to Him, as we do to our earthly parents, and our

(Continued on page 13.)

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

People continue to do good deeds and show by their work that the fatherless children have a warm place in their hearts. Our good friend, Mr. J. L. Hatch of Salisbury, N. C., certainly knows how to touch the hearts of our children and to do them a good deed of kindness that every one of them appreciates and will love him for for years to come. He conceived the idea of starting a library for the Orphanage, and this week we received a box containing 81 books, all new and right from the publishers. Books that will be interesting to all of our children. I don't know of a contribution Mr. Hatch could have given that would come as near reaching all of our little folks. This splendid contribution is given in memory of his father, Mr. O. T. Hatch, who loved the Christian Church and all its interests, and this library will be known as the O. T. Hatch library. Who will join in this good work and send us some books for our library.

Mrs. Hattie Davis sends us this week 3 sheets and 5 pillow cases. This is something we can always use in our work. Mr. Z. B. Lynch of Mt. Zion Church of N. C., brought to us last week a barrel of the best grade of flour. Brother Lynch is a young married man just starting out in life. Isn't he starting off in a beautiful way. He said he wanted to divide with the homeless and fatherless children. The Lord will surely bless a man with such a spirit as his.

With the wheat we made on our farm, if thirty more friends would send us a barrel of flour we would not have to buy any for the next year. Who will follow Brother Lynch's good example and send us a barrel? The wheat crop is good this year and the Lord has blessed many of our good people with plenty of bread and to spare. How about sending a barrel to feed our little children?

"Thou shalt bring forth the tithe of thine increase the same year, and shalt lay it up within thy gates; and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow which are within thy gates, shall come and shall eat and be satisfied; that the Lord thy God may bless thee in all the work of thy hand which thou doest."—Deut. 14: 28-29. When you send a barrel of flour to help feed our children you are feeding the fatherless. Will you help?

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR AUGUST 5, 1926 Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

Brought forward	$ 15,125.86
North Carolina and Virginia Conference.
Reidsville Sunday School	$ 8.33
Bethlehem Sunday School	3.55
Pleasant Ridge	2.10
Greensboro First	14.36
Liberty	1.10	29.44
Eastern North Carolina Conference.
Oak Level	$ 2.32
Henderson	5.34
Morrisville	2.00
Pleasant Hill "J"	3.69
Mebane	2.50	15.85
Eastern Virginia Conference.
First, Portsmouth	$ 21.88
Holland Sunday School	10.00
Mt. Carmel	4.59
Mt. Carmel S. S. Class No. 650	36.97

Valley Virginia Conference.
Linville Sunday School		5.53
Georgia and Alabama Conference.
Richland, Ga.	$ 1.00
Rose Hill	1.18	2.18
New Building Fund.
Annie Staley Calhoun	$ 10.00
Mr. Ernest B. Roscoe	15.00
Mrs. Ernest B. Roscoe	5.00
Rose Rogers	5.00	35.00
Special Offerings.
Western N. C. S. S. and C. E. Convention	$ 5.50
Eastern N. C. S. S. and C. E. Convention	14.79	20.29
Total for week	$ 152.83
Grand total	$ 15,278.69

FAMILY ALTAR. (Continued from page 12.)

faith leads us confidently to seek His compassionate love, to go to Him often for guidance, to confess fully our faults, troubles, weaknesses, and to seek His comfort, the Everlasting Arms of mercy about us, in earnest prayer.

Prayer.—O Thou who art the Light-Bearer of the world, may our torch, kindled by Thee, never grow dim. But grant that by day and night, it may gleam not only for our own illumination, but to direct others into the safe path. Amen.

SUNDAY.

FELLOWSHIP THROUGH RIGHTEOUSNESS.

"If ye know that He is righteous, ye know that every one that doeth righteousness is born of Him."—1 John 2: 29. Read also 3: 18-24.

The test of doing righteousness is love. The standard of love set for us is the self-sacrificing love of Christ. We are obligated, therefore, to a self-sacrificing life. Failure in this argues for the absence of love—having means and refusing to meet another's need. The expression of love is seen in deeds performed in the true spirit.

The rewards of doing righteousness are first, the blessed and unmistakable assurance of our sonship whose origin is in the truth attested by His immediate presence. The approving heart is the echo of the voice of God, who knoweth all things. Second, the assurance of prevalence with God in prayer, always as extensive as our asking. Third, mutual abiding between us and our Lord evidenced by His Spirit.

Prayer.—Help us through this day, with the knowledge of our value in the Divine sight. Keep within us, alive and pulsing, the truth that the smallest child is of greater worth than all the riches of earth. In His name we ask it. Amen.

CHAUTAUQUA AND LOCAL CHURCH.

The leaders from every department of the Church School receive excellent training at the Elon Chautauqua. New methods and ideas are presented by some of the most outstanding people of our Church. Problems peculiar to the local Churches are discussed and ideas and suggestions are exchanged.

The inspiration that one receives challenges one to attack the seemingly impossible tasks. The social life of the institution is enjoyed by every one.

Each evening's program is planned not only for the entertainment of both young and old, but that the social life of the local Church may be enriched. If we who attend the Chautauqua would impart to our local Church only a small part of the spiritual uplift, the inspiration for a greater work and the enthusiasm that permeates the whole atmosphere, I am sure our Church would experience one of the most fruitful years in its history.

MISS MARGARET N. LAWRENCE.

Lynchburg, Va.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 56-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses	$7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses	6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses	6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim.....	1.60
No. 2—Broad rim	1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses	$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85	11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... ..	16.00

(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling).	$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 90..	16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	14.00
Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....	9.00
No. 4—Broad rim	9.00
Filler—Silver lined	6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St.

Richmond Va.

OBITUARIES.

HUNT.

On Monday, July 5th, at 8 P. M. the spirit of my mother took its flight into a better world. She was paralyzed eleven days before the end came. She died so peacefully, without a struggle. Mother was just a little over 81 years of age. She possessed a very strong constitution and was a hard worker—never had a vacation in all of her long life. She gave herself unstintedly and without reserve for the ones she loved. She was rich in faith and good works and left to us a legacy far more valuable than gold.

She united with the church at Daviston, Alabama, about forty-two years ago, under the pastorate of Rev. J. D. Elder.

She, my father, and older sister and myself were all baptized at the same time. It was always a pleasure to her to have the preacher call at her home, and it was her delight to make them comfortable. She always loved her church and was faithful upon its attendance as long as she was able to go. The last thing she did for her church was to give Rev. H. W. Elder one dollar for Bethlehem College.

I feel lonely without her, and yet I know she is in a better land. I am submissive to my heavenly Father's will. I have done many things that grieved her, but I don't remember ever to have deceived her. I shall be a better man and shall meet her again in the bye and bye.

"Dearest mother, thou hast left us,
Here, thy loss we deeply feel,
But 'tis God who has bereft us;
He can all our sorrows heal."
G. D. HUNT.

ROWE.

Derwood Philip Rowe, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Rowe of Franklinton, N. C., was born on Sept. 18, 1925, and died June 21, 1926. He was worshipped in the home, but God saw and sent for him after he had suffered intensely from infantile paralysis, whooping cough, pneumonia and colitis. The death of this first born seemed to make an unamendable rent, but the family bowed submissively to Him who doeth all things well.

The funeral was conducted at May's Chapel by Rev. Mr. Davis of the Methodist Church, assisted by the writer.
E. C. BRADY.

FOWLER.

Little Virginia Page Fowler, infant daughter of Paul J. and Ruby Howell Fowler, Holland, Va., passed away, July 13, 1926, aged one year, eleven months and nineteen days.

The funeral services were conducted by the writer at the South Quay Baptist Church, and the body laid to rest in the family plot at Mrs. Fowler's maiden home.

This flower, frail and beautiful, bloomed in the home for only a brief time, but leaves its permanent fragrance to enrich the lives of the fond and sorrowing parents. May a loving heavenly Father comfort and keep the bereaved father and mother.
N. G. NEWMAN.

MRS. W. Q. PEELE.

Whereas it has pleased our heavenly Father to summon beyond our dear friend and co-worker, Mrs. W. Q. Peele, a charter member of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Holland Christian Church.

Therefore, Be it resolved:

First, That such a life taken from our midst leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all the members of the society. The church has sustained the loss of a most useful member and the community a valuable citizen.

Second, That we are deeply grieved over the death of our sister, yet we bow in resignation to our Father's will and try to emulate the many virtues exemplified in her Christian life.

Third, That these resolutions be recorded in the minutes of the missionary society, a copy be sent to the family and a copy to The Christian Sun for publication.

Mrs. CHARLIE DAUGHTRY,
Mrs. H. B. EVERETT,
Mrs. W. J. HOLLAND,
Committee.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E
CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings. (Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

HARWARD.

Mrs. Margaret Meeks Harward fell on sleep on Thursday, June 24, 1926. She was born on December 10, 1847, and was therefore in her 79th year at the time of her death. On March 1, 1870, she was married to George W. Harward, who died on May 6, 1889.

For a number of years she had made her home in Durham, but she continued her church membership at O'Kelly's Chapel, of which church she had been a member for considerably more than half a century. She was a patient, meek, devoted and sincere Christian. She was beloved of all who knew her for her sweet Christian spirit. She is survived by two sons, J. L. Harward of Durham, N. C., and Rev. W. D. Harward of Windsor, Va. A daughter, Mrs. J. W. Atkins, had preceded her in death about two and a half years. Seven grand children and six great-grand children also survive her. The funeral was conducted at O'Kelly's Chapel, by the writer, and was attended by a host of sorrowing relatives and friends. The remains were laid to rest in the O'Kelly's Chapel Cemetery. May God bless and hallow the memory of this sainted Christian woman.

STANLEY C. HARRELL.

CARDEN.

The people of Durham were greatly shocked on July 5th to learn that Samuel S. Carden had been drowned while bathing in Crystal Lake, near Durham. The deceased was a son of Rev. J. S. and Mrs. Mary Carden of Durham, N. C. He was born on Sept. 19, 1900, and for thirteen of his 26 years of life had been a member of the Durham Christian Church. He was married in 1920 to Miss Elma Lea, a daughter of Deacon S. B. Lea. Two sons were born of this union, S. S., Jr., and Harry, who with their widowed mother, mourn the untimely going of Brother Carden. Besides his mother and father, Brother Carden is survived by five sisters, Mrs. L. D. Franklin of Stem, N. C., Mrs. F. D. Scalf of West Durham, Mrs. J. E. Harward, of Henderson, N. C., and Misses Mamie and Naomi Carden of Durham, and a large group of relatives and friends, who packed the church in attestation of their love and esteem.

The funeral services were conducted from the Durham Christian Church, by the pastor, assisted by Rev. Floyd Ballard of Henderson, N. C. The interment was in Maplewood Cemetery. May God bless and comfort the sorrowing ones.

STANLEY C. HARRELL.

HOLLAND.

Miss Dina Holland died at her home, near Holland, Va., July 19, 1926, aged sixty-seven years. The funeral services were conducted by the writer at the home and the burial was in the family cemetery near by.

Miss Holland was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Eley Holland. She leaves one brother, James K. Holland, Holland, Va., and two sisters, Mrs. Joseph F. Holland, Holland, Va., and Mrs. Morning Hedgepeth of Southampton County., and a large number of nephews, nieces, and other relatives.

Miss Holland had been a member of Holy Neck Christian Church since her childhood, and lived and died trusting in Christ. She gave herself in loving service to her relatives and friends. May our kind Father bless and comfort them as they mourn their loss.

N. G. NEWMAN.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, on June 30th, 1926, God in His infinite love took from our Sunday School Class our vice-president, Mrs. W. Q. Peele, we wish to express our appreciation of her.

First, That we remember her as a most faithful member in all her duties, and commend her life to all our members, and may the influence of it draw us nearer to heaven.

Second, While we realize that we have lost a faithful and long-lived member, and mourn our loss, we are submissive to Him who doeth all things well.

Third, It is our desire to express through these resolutions our sympathy to the members of her family, and our appreciation of her life.

Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to The Christian Sun for publication.

Miss HUNTAS RAWLES,
Mrs. L. J. DAUGHTREY,
Committee.

Good railroad transportation is cheap

POOOR railroad transportation, with its attendant delays and uncertainties, is expensive and wasteful, irrespective of the charges for it. All shippers know that.

On the other hand, regular and dependable service greatly assists the economical operation of industry. All shippers know this, too.

Thus the cost to the purchaser of railroad service must be measured as much by the quality of the service as by the actual charge in dollars and cents.

But even the actual dollar and cent calculation of railroad charges shows how cheap service on the Southern Railway System is in relation to other things. The cost of almost everything has increased about 70 per cent in the last decade, but the average freight charges on the Southern have increased only 35 per cent.

In relation to the cost of other things, transportation on the Southern is cheap. And when measured by the quality of service rendered, it is one of the cheapest things that can be bought today.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

"There are three things which make a nation great and powerful—a fertile soil, busy workshops and easy conveyance for man and goods from place to place."—LORD BACON

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year $ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

PAINTER—HUFFMAN.

On June 19, 1926, I united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. Noah Painter and Miss Pearl Huffman. The ceremony was performed in the Christian Church at Winchester, Va., in the presence of a few friends. At that time I was holding a meeting at Timber Mountain, twenty-five miles west of Winchester, and, by arrangement, met the contracting parties in Winchester. After the ceremony, the happy couple proceeded on their way to Washington, D. C., thence to Niagara Falls and other points of interest. They are from the Leaksville section of Page County and are well known and very popular there. The bride has been a Sunday School teacher at Leaksville, and otherwise an active member there. They will reside for the present in Washington, the groom being a R. R. mail clerk with headquarters in that city.

Best wishes to these splendid young people from their pastor and a host of friends.

A. W. ANDES.

BRAY—GUNTER.

On the evening of June 30th, the Sanford Christian Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding, when Miss Jennie D. Gunter became the bride of Rev. Loyd J. Bray.

The bride, a daughter of Deacon J. D. Gunter, is a graduate of Elon College, and since graduation has taught in the Sanford High School.

The groom, also an Elon alumnus, taught last year in the Virginia Polytechnic Institute. He has recently become pastor of the M. E. Church of Taboro.

The ceremony was performed by Revs. L. B. Jones, uncle of the groom, and R. L. Williamson, the bride's pastor. The high ideals and Christian character of these young people, together with their pleasing personalities have gained for them many friends, whom the writer joins in wishing them much happiness and success in their new field and through life.

R. L. WILLIAMSON.

BROWN—HOSAFLOOK.

On June 29, 1926, in response to my door bell, I found at my door Mr. Geo. L. Brown and Miss Ruth I. Hosaflook, who requested that I marry them. It was my pleasure to comply with this request, and thus start two lives as one upon the sea of life. The bride is a daughter of Wm. H. Hosaflook of Linville, Va., and is a very popular member of the Christian Church and of the community there. The groom is formerly from Dayton, Va., but for some time has had employment in Pennsylvania.

After a few days visiting among friends in their respective communities, they left for Pennsylvania where they will reside.

The best wishes of their many friends will follow this splendid couple to their new abode.

A. W. ANDES.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 1/2 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00

0523x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05153 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05153x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. . . $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. . . $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address
THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN

PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

Size, 5 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches.

With beautiful photo. views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid. 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid. 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid. 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLaid PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid. 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearest Print in Smallest Size 4 1/8 x 2 1/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $1.60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $1.70

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $1.85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $1.85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 12, 1926.

NUMBER 32.

•• THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ••

By Rev. S. M. LYNAM.

First Over Night Guest.—

Dwight F. Davis, Secretary of War, was the first over-night guest of President Coolidge at White Pine Camp. Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio was the second. The President entertained Mr. Davis with an inspection of his fishing tackle, and Mrs. Coolidge motored back to Loon Lake with Senator Fess.

Labor Sells Building.—

After owning it for one year, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has sold, at a profit, control of the Equitable Office building at 120 Broadway, New York, to William H. Vanderbilt, Harry C. Cushing, III, and Leroy W. Baldwin. The building has an estimated value of $40,000,000, and is the largest office structure in the world.

Robert Lincoln Todd Dead.—

At his home at Manchester, Vermont, Robert Todd Lincoln died recently at the age of eighty-three. He was the eldest son of Abraham Lincoln, and the only surviving child. He witnessed the assassination of three presidents, his father, Garfield, and McKinley. He served his country as Secretary of War and ambassador to the Court of St. James. He was also president of the Pullman company.

Leading Families.—

Howard F. Barker has just recently compiled a list of those families who rank first in numbers in this country. It is the purpose to show which names are owned by more people in the United States. The names follow in order: Smith, 1,304,320; Johnson, 1,024,200; Brown, 730,500; Williams, 684,700; Jones, 658,300; Miller, 625,800; Davis, 537,900; Anderson, 477,300; Wilson, 422,300; Moore, 363,400; the figures show how many own the name.

Light Maker Dead.—

Franklin S. Terry, aged 74, who was in 1889 a maker of incandescent electric light bulbs, died recently at Black Mountain, near Asheville, N. C. Twenty-five years ago he brought together a number of struggling lamp makers and worked at a sales system which has been a most remarkable success. He has made Nela Park, Cleveland, Ohio, the "University of Light" whose diplomas are prized the world over. It was because of him that Mazda has become a household word.

Indian to Teach at Dartmouth.—

According to President Hopkins of Dartmouth, there will be started a course in comparative religions at the college this year. It will be taught by Dr. S. L. Joshi, a native of India. He has been with the University of Colorado. Dr. Joshi is a graduate of a Mohammedan university and Union Theological Seminary, New York. His course will include comparative studies of Mohammedanism, Zoroastrianism, Buddhism, Jainism, Judaism and Christianity. Such a comparative study ought to prove most helpful in bringing into better understanding the many religions of the world.

A Christian Praises Buddha.—

At the celebration of the 2550th anniversary of the birth of Gautama Buddha held recently at Bombay, India, Mr. C. F. Andrews, a Christian and member of the Anglican Church, was chosen to preside. On assuming the gavel he spoke in praise of Buddha. He pointed out that in three great essentials Buddha and Jesus were at one. They are one in their doctrine of non-retaliation, in their emphasis on universal compassion, and in their insistence upon tolerance. At each return of the anniversary the moral beauty of Buddha shines forth with a new radiance, Mr. Andrews said.

Fundamentalist's Son Passed.—

Not long ago a score of stern Baptists gathered in the study of John Roach Straton at the Calvary Baptist Church, New York, where time and again Roach Straton has denounced and fought Modernism. The purpose of the gathering was to examine the son of John Roach Straton for the Baptist ministry, Hillyer Hawthorne Straton. The questioning was a long process and the questions were many and difficult on the tedious issues between fundamentalism and modernism. This son of his father's had been well trained, and answered satisfactorily the questions of the inquisitors. He passed, but there is a feeling that his father coached him well. He believes, he told the reporters, that the Baptist God will reveal the seminary which he will attend, and some have suggested that this Baptist God may choose to speak through his servant, Roach Straton, the young man's father.

Cotton Manufacturers Organize.—

At the Biltmore Hotel in New York recently, eighty cotton manufacturing interests' representatives gathered. They met to organize an institute similar for cotton to Judge Gary's institute for steel. The cotton manufacturers have long been using tactics not to be approved, and the institute, it is hoped, will bring in an era of closer co-operation, as well as investigate methods and conditions. The gathering ignored the cotton growers who cultivate forty million acres to produce fifteen million bales and ignored also that the price of cotton was on the average 24.8 cents a pound, and at present only 18 cents at the American cotton markets. Henry Frederick Lippitt was chosen president of the directors and Stuart Warren Cramer of Cramerton and Charlotte, N. C., as vice-president. Mr. Lippitt is from Rhode Island. The officers elected at the New York meeting will serve until October 20th, when the directors will meet again and choose officers for the ensuing year. This organization of the cotton manufacturers is another step in the progress of highly organized industrialism.

In Stillwater.—

Twenty-four years ago, on the anniversary of the battle of Bull Run, Adam Marty called a meeting of thirty-four veterans of that battle. On the 21st of July of this year, forty-one years after the founding of the club, three men gathered. At the first meeting of the club in 1885, a bottle of wine was consecrated from which the last man should drink a toast to his departed comrades. At this last meeting there were thirty-four places set with shining silver and glass. Thirty of the chairs were draped with black, among them Adam Marty's, one was vacant because the survivor was too feeble to come from his Florida home. The others were there, and they changed the idea from the last man to the last two. Feebleness and many years have made meeting each year an arduous task. If one of the three should die before the next 21st of July, the other two will hold a meeting and draw the cork of the consecrated wine and drink a toast to their departed comrades and to their own approaching deaths. The ranks of the veterans of the Civil War are thinning fast, and soon the last survivor will be passing. So time moves and new faces and new things come.

Hostile to America.—

Despite efforts of the French Government to check them, demonstrations against American tourists have become more frequent in Paris. These hostile exhibitions have usually been staged in front of sight-seeing busses and on at least one occasion recently it was necessary for the police to intervene to save the Americans from possible injury. The demonstrations are believed to be a part of the French propaganda in favor of cancellation by the United States of France's war debt to this country. There is an old adage, that "If you want to lose a friend, lend him money." This seems to be proving true with nations as well as individuals. There are many in this country who would willingly cancel the French debt if they saw real grounds for doing so. But even since the World War ended, France has been engaged in two wars, that in north Africa and the one in Asia Minor. And regardless of denials, both were undertaken with the aim in view of adding to France's territorial possessions. To do this France is spending money like water.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Mr. J. C. Felton of Suffolk was a visitor at THE SUN's office in Richmond, on Monday.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN is not only a religious paper, but it is also a church paper. Why are not more of your members subscribers, Mr. Preacher?

President Harper reports the prospect for a fine opening at Elon College, September 1st, with increased attendance, the applications so far being quite in advance of previous years.

Rev. W. C. Hook has resigned as pastor of our Albany, New York, Church, greatly to the regret of his congregation, to take up work in another field. We do not know where Brother Hook's work is to be, but trust he is returning South.

It was a high privilege to meet and mingle with many of our ministerial brethren at the Elon Chautauqua the past ten days. Everybody of course missed Dr. Staley, who for the first time in all the sessions of Chautauqua thus far could not be present.

Dr. W. S. Alexander, beloved pastor of Elon Community Church, has had six weeks of study at the University of Chicago, and returned last week to take up his pastoral labors at the College. During his absence his pulpit was supplied by local talent or visiting ministers.

Dr. W. D. Harward of Windsor, Dr. Jas. H. Lightbourne of Holland, and Rev. Milton Sutcliffe of Havre de Grace, Maryland, were in Richmond on Monday, the 9th. The cause of their meeting there was to make arrangements for the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference.

Institutions used to be builded on the strength of individuals, but the time has come when units composed of parts must be united into other select units. Members compose the church, churches compose the conferences, and conferences must compose the district or regional conventions which terminate in the highest body.

Mr. W. S. Bray of Nathalie, Va., and Miss Elsie Bray at present in Carroll County, Va., were married July 30th. They will reside in Carroll County, where Mrs. Bray has worked most successfully the past year in our School and Church at Rocky Ford. Our congratulations and best wishes are extended the happy pair.

"I have had a most delightful summer here at Columbia University," writes Rev. W. M. Jay, D. D., in a letter to THE SUN. He continues, "I shall return from here to Everett, Pa., and after attending the Rays Hill and Southern Pa. Conference of which I am secretary, I will then make haste for the 'Sunny South,' arriving at Elon about August 30th."

Dr. W. A. Harper, in a recent letter to the managing editor says: "I have just returned from Greensboro, where I was summoned to see Uncle Wellons. He had a fall last Saturday and is suffering from his kidneys at the same time. The excessive heat is taking his vitality generally, but, for one of his advanced years, he seems to be in very excellent condition. He is able to be up in his room with the help of his nurse, but spends the most of his time in bed." We are sure that

Dr. Wellons' many friends will appreciate this information, and he will have their sympathy.

Prof. J. W. Barney, writes to the editor, suggesting the following "as a campaign song for those who are seeking the nullification or repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment":

"Ruin forever! Hurrah, boys, hurrah!
Close up the churches; open the bars,
While we rally round the keg, boys,
We rally once again,
Shouting the 'bottle' cry of freedom."

It is learned that Rev. M. F. Allen, pastor of United Christian Church, Lynchburg, has offered his resignation to take effect November 1st, provided the church is able to secure a successor by that date. Brother Allen seems to have done a constructive work at Lynchburg and will leave a congregation whom he has served well and faithfully. It is greatly to be hoped that the congregation will be fortunate enough to secure a worthy and competent successor and that Brother Allen will find work to his liking. Some church wishing a live, wide-awake, progressive pastor should correspond with him at once.

"I am thoroughly convinced of one thing," writes a wide awake country pastor. "When the rural Church catches a vision of its responsibilities we will see a new day in the religious experience of the world. I am fully convinced of the fact that the country church is the most fruitful source for future spiritual leadership." This rural pastor is working on a program that is constructive and that is changing the entire attitude of the community to the church and church activities. He has made a careful survey of the entire field of his labors and knows not only where every member of his rural churches lives, but where those live in the communities served by his churches and who may be reached through the church for Christ.

THE SUN's Editor has recently received four pictures of the newly built Church-Kindergarten-Night-School in Tokyo, Japan. Judging from these pictures, a very substantial and adequate plant has been established for the work. We of the South furnished a very large per cent of the funds for this building, and if CHRISTIAN SUN readers could see the pictures they would certainly appreciate the money they have spent in erecting this splendid and much needed house of worship and place of Christian service and activity. But for the expense of making the cuts and the dimness of the pictures, which would to a degree mar the same, we would certainly give our readers the benefit of them.

A Christian Endeavor Society is one that endeavors to do things in a Christian way. Evidently the Christian Endeavor Society of our Waverly Church is living up to its name and profession. During the recent session of the Eastern Virginia Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention at Waverly, it was announced that $60.00 was very much needed with which to repair the roof on our Elk Spur Church and school building at Fancy Gap, Va., and that if some Endeavor Society would undertake to do this timely piece of work it would be greatly appreciated. Imagine the joy and gratitude of the Mission Secretary on August 4th, when he received a letter from J. F. West, Jr., on behalf of his society, enclosing a check for $60.00 representing the gift of the Christian Endeavor Society for the purpose mentioned. The fine spirit of this society is most commendable and one that may be emulated as we undertake to do things in the name of Christian Endeavor.

THE EASTERN N. C. SUNDAY SCHOOL AND CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION.

The Eastern North Carolina Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention met in annual session at Wake Chapel, on Wednesday morning, July 13, 1926. The meeting was called to order by the president, Rev. J. Fuller Johnson.

After a delightful song service led by Mr. George McCullers, devotionals were conducted by Dr. W. C. Wicker.

The president's address was deferred to some later time.

The Junior Christian Endeavorers of Henderson and the Intermediate Society of Oak Level gave delightful demonstrations of what Christian Endeavor can do and will do, when given an opportunity.

For various reasons many were absent who were expected to take part in the program, thus causing disappointment on the part of all. The following pastors were present: Rev. R. L. Williamson, Rev. J. E. Franks, Rev. J. Lee Johnson, Rev. J. Fuller Johnson, Rev. J. A. Denton, Rev. J. D. Wicker and Dr. W. C. Wicker. There were four Sunday School superintendents present, four Christian Endeavor presidents, and seventy-five delegates. Dr. W. T. Walters was seated as a deliberative member of the convention.

(Continued on page 14.)

FROM LANETTE, ALABAMA.

Dear Editor and SUN readers:

I spent the second day of July with Rev. S. D. Lankford, at Ambrose, Georgia. We had a nice time. He and his good wife were so good and kind to me. We had a fine service at the church on Friday night, and I was glad to meet with the Ambrose people again. They all were quite busy with their tobacco and tomatoes and melons. The crops are fine around Ambrose this year.

Saturday at noon we were in the home of Brother and Sister Holland. We had a good time. We went over to Enigma in the afternoon and spent the night with Brother and Sister Williams, and they are just as fine folks as you find anywhere. We held a week's meeting at Enigma, and we had a fine meeting and met a lot of fine people while there. There were the Smiths, the Martins, the Dennards, Parkers, Doemings, Williams, Hammonds, Stewarts, Abells, Busseys, Littles, Mrs. Fannie Patric, and many others that I would like to mention, but lack of space forbids. This is just as fine a bunch of people as you will find anywhere on earth. Enigma is a fine little town. They are planning to build a new school building soon on a ten acre lot. This is a very fine section of country and the land is good and the crops are fine. It is a veritable Land of Canaan flowing with milk and honey.

On Sunday, July 11th, we began a meeting at Vanceville. It was a very successful meeting. While there we stayed at the home of Brother and Sister Payne, and two finer people you never saw. Vanceville is a fine community. It has a lot of Hands in it. Brother Ed. Hand and his generation furnish the community with a lot of help. Not only they, but all the Vanceville people are excellent folk. May God bless every one of them.

Rev. S. D. Lankford is pastor at Ambrose, Enigma and Vanceville, and he is doing good work. He is a fine young fellow and is a good preacher. The people love him and are standing by him in his work.

I certainly enjoyed being with him and shall expect to hear good reports from him and his churches at conference.

I wish all you pastors would write to THE SUN. We want to know what you are doing.

H. M. GRAY.

FOR WHAT?

THE CHRISTIAN SUN has been pleading in behalf of all the enterprises of the Christian Church and their various auxiliaries. It has been the burden bearer, if such it might be called, but the burdens have been joyfully borne.

It has stood by education and educational progress without wincing or flinching. It has seen the work grow with great rejoicing. It, for a long time, carried a corner and collected pennies and dimes for the now fully developed and substantially equipped home that cares for the unfortunate—those without means and without the protection of father or mother. It has helped in the movement to send the Gospel to those that have it not. It gives notices of Chautauquas, of Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Conventions, and reports the finances of the Church. It is ever ready to lend itself to the public good. The pastor, the superintendent, the chairman, the church worker, will find that THE SUN is his right hand supporter.

With some degree of self-pride and congratulations THE SUN takes its place in the line of progress. It appropriates to itself the satisfaction of the thought that "without me" you would be much handicapped. Now, it feels that those who have shared its good will should speak to their friends and solicit them to become readers and supporters of its weekly visits.

Should THE SUN declare its value to the Church, if value can be measured in material worth, some would doubt. But if need be this would be an easy proposition to prove. Look and behold the evidence before you. Do you need the proof? It is before you. Send your subscription today. $2.00 per year.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Virginia Valley Central Conference will meet at Linville, Va., on Wednesday, August 18, 1926. W. T. Walters, President; A. W. Andes, Secretary.

Alabama Conference will meet with the Church at Bethany on Tuesday, October 11, 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M. G. D. Hunt, President; E. M. Carter, Secretary.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 1, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 15, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church Tuesday, November 22, 1926. G. O. Lankford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 7, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 1-1-6 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1-1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools$36

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 1-5-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 3/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x8 1-2 Inches and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN C. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

GIVING IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

We get so accustomed to just "taking up the collection" in the Sunday School that the object of the same and the lesson it should teach, are both overlooked. We wonder if it occurs to many Sunday School superintendents and teachers that the money collected in the School for the local expense of the School is not an offering at all. It is money gotten together with which to buy something for those who help to get it together. It is not giving at all other than collecting in a co-operative way to buy something collectively, more cheaply than it could be bought individually or independently. We certainly ought not to deceive the pupils in the Sunday School by making them think that they are "giving to the Lord" in their Sunday School classes when in most instances their money is being used to buy something for themselves. True, it is a very good something that is bought, but even the goodness of the purchase made in no wise excuses the deceit practiced in collecting the same. Should we not be perfectly frank with all pupils in Sunday School and tell them on Sundays when the offering is to go for current expenses and that "we hope they will put in as much as possible when the plate is passed around to the classes since all the money thus collected will come back to you for your own use and improvement." Then on Sundays when the offering is taken for missions be frank enough to say to the School that "the offering today is to be used to help carry the Gospel to those who have never had it and to plant Sunday Schools where they haven't any and to assist in establishing the Kingdom of our Lord on earth."

By the way, how has it happened that parents are willing to buy text books for their children in the day school of the week, but on Sunday compel the little folks to carry their pennies and dimes under the pretext of "giving to the Lord," when in truth, those parents know that those pennies and dimes will be used to buy the books that the children use at Sunday School? By what Biblical standard or logical reasoning have we come to the conclusion that to buy books for our children in the day school is a parental duty, but to make our children buy books for themselves on Sunday is the "Lord's will" and that any offering made by them in this direction is an offering for the Lord's cause? At any rate this attitude needs a little thinking on the part of Sunday School workers. The editor recently enjoyed reading a small volume on "How to Run a Little Sunday School," from which he picked up this paragraph.

"The giving of the school is no small part of its educational system. Every offering received should be the expression by the givers of some feeling or purpose, the outcome of a lesson which has impressed their minds and touched their hearts. In most cases the little school will ordinarily devote its collections to local maintenance, contributing to benevolent and missionary objects only on stated occasions. No self-respecting Sunday School, however poor, will give to missions and benevolence less than once a quarter. Once a month, on the first or some other fixed Sunday, is much the better rule."

The writer of that volume is exceedingly modest and, of course, is dealing only with the problem of the very small, struggling, school that has difficulties in maintaining its existence.

IRRESISTIBLE FORCES IN CHRISTIANITY.

Christianity is Spirit and Life. The teachings of Jesus were simpler, profounder, and more universal than any other teacher: "Never man spake like this man." His works the wonder of centuries, the study of all schools, the miracle of the ages. Nature, disease, death, and devils obeyed His will. Music thrilled the deaf, landscapes burst upon the vision of the blind, the lame leaped for joy, and the dead came out of the tomb at His word. The sea was calm and the fig-tree withered away at His command. All history seems to revolve around His personality, and all stars seem to point to this divine-man.

But grander than all these was His life breathing a new spirit upon the world. He breathed into mankind a new breath of life. Living in poverty, yet raising up the city and the people among whom He moved. Despised and rejected of men; yet He opened not His mouth. Obedient unto parents, civil law and religious rites; He endured the "contradiction of sinners against Himself." Tempted in all points as other men, yet without sin; and bearing all manner of insults without resentment. His life was an irresistible force in humanity. Strip Him of all else and the irresistible influence of His great life remains to inspire the poor, to warn the rich, to encourage the weak, to rebuke the proud, to teach the ignorant, and to comfort the bereaved.

Life is the irresistible force in nature. It overcomes gravity, chemistry and mechanical props. It breaks down all other forces to feed itself. The fern and the flower feed upon the rocks, which the hammer of man cannot break, and rootlets of the hyssop may tear down the masonry of kings. The flora of the Coliseum in Rome once embraced several hundred species of flowers, and was the attraction of all tourists in the imperial city. That greatest of earth's buildings had withstood conquering armies and nearly twenty centuries of time, while many great churches had been erected out of stone from its walls, and yet it stood as the grandest remains of Roman architecture. But life was too much for bricks and stone. The tiny rootlets of the flowers began their work, and atom by atom, the walls began to yield; and so they ordered the removal of the flowers, and the roots to be scraped from the walls to save the building. The life of the flowers was greater than the forces of nature and art combined. The power of Christianity is mightiest in Christian life. Compare the life of Jesus with the life of Mohammed, and Mohammedanism forfeits its claim to human faith. The "living epistle" is the mightiest of all. No infidel or sceptic can change a pure life. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." There is great power in beauty, in a sweet flower, in spotless snow, in a clear stream, in a sunset scene, but all forces merge into a pure life. "Because I live, ye shall also live," is a promise that deserves to be written in letters of stars on the dome of night. "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly," adds power to human society and makes possible the redemption of mankind. But traffic in opium and rum for filthy lucre, and lust for power, must be eliminated from missionary enterprise to give it irresistible force in the rescue of the perishing and the salvation of all nations and races of men. Creeds and systems may be resisted, but pure Christian life is an irresistible force backed by the power of God and all His beneficent laws. As the Bible must be translated into heathen tongues for them to read, so the spirit of Jesus Christ must be translated into Christian lives for them to see and feel. Jesus translated God into human life. Silent Christianity at home will produce active Christianity abroad. The Niagara falls in a flood of incalculable power beyond the control of man; but the silent forces of crystallization invade in winter the floating particles of mist and begin to form invisible ice-crystals. Silently by day and by night this army marches on, winning victory at every step, till the roaring, thundering cataract is one cold, solid block of ice. Silent nature has hushed the roar of the mighty flood. Nothing but the silent sunbeams can release nature's giant again, start the music of song again, and fashion rainbows in her mist. So the world's great sin can be changed only by the silent pulse-beats and the irresistible forces of Christian life. The speech of heaven is silent: "their voice is not heard."

W. W. S.

EVANGELISM.

A recent writer on Evangelization defines that term as meaning "The whole process of presenting the Gospel of Jesus for acceptance, and of winning the individual to assume its privileges and responsibilities as a member of the Church of Christ." This seems to be a sufficiently comprehensive term and includes more than is frequently understood in the mind and method of many Evangelists. Too frequently Evangelism is interpreted to mean persuasion or inducing an individual to accept Jesus the Christ as a personal Saviour and Redeemer. To measure up to the definition given this is an essential step, but is certainly not the whole process.

When the individual is persuaded to accept Jesus Christ, only a beginning has been made. That which follows or should follow is of equal importance to the first step. The Evangelization in its true meaning implies an educational process or a growth and development in attitude and conduct. The saving power of Jesus was never intended to be lodged in an individual life and stop there, however important that individual life may be.

One has not been truly evangelized till one has become willing not only to acknowledge Jesus as personal Saviour and Redeemer, but also to enthroned Him as Lord of life and conduct. Too often in presenting the message of Evangelism we fail to present the responsibilities that accepting such a message involves. Jesus Himself taught this to His disciples by founding the Church. He wished His disciples to know, and still wishes them to know, that to accept Him means to accept like-wise the responsibilities of helping to build His Church in the world and carry on the activities that the Church involves.

Among the first of these responsibilities that Jesus imposed, was that of carrying His message to others, and of making Him known to the uttermost parts. One reason why there are non-missionary Christians in the world today is because the full meaning of Evangelism was not carried home to the individual when he accepted Jesus Christ as personal Saviour.

Another one of these responsibilities is that of making definite and specific contributions to the Church to enable it to carry on the work of charity and benevolence and support of the Gospel. There is at present one denomination that asks every convert that applies for Church membership if he or she accepts the law of the tithe and is willing to live by that law. That Church is doing a vast amount of work in the world and is having a rapid growth and development. This is done in the belief that here is a responsibility that every convert in accepting Jesus Christ should assume and seek in all after life to carry out.

Another responsibility is that of supporting the local Church in all of its interests and activities, in building up and carrying on those auxiliary organizations which mean the very life and program of the Church, such for instance as Sunday School, Christian Endeavor, missionary and benevolent activities.

In brief, to evangelize means to change the whole attitude of the individual and cause the individual to assume responsibilities and objectives which till now have been looked upon as belonging to others. Christ saves us not for our sakes merely, but that through us, He may reach and save others. Those who are won to Him are the channels through which He releases His saving power to others in the world.

OUR OBLIGATION TO THE UNFORTUNATE, No. II.

In the story of the man who fell among thieves on his way to Jericho, the tragedy of this experience is what appeals to many. It touches their hearts as they think of the misery in which he was placed, and of the horrible accident which had befallen him. For a strong man to be beaten and wounded in such a barbarous manner, and to be left there to die alone seems terrible. So it is that the tragedy of life appeals more to many than does the comedy.

But the interesting part of this episode is not the young man's misfortune. The interesting part is the service rendered by the good Samaritan. It was for that which the lesson was given. The Samaritan did something worth while. He proved his love for his neighbor, not because the man lived near him or because he had rendered some service to him in the past, but because he was a brother man in need.

The Samaritan put into practice the principles of Christianity as we know them today.

He may have been even more busy than either the priest or the Levite. We would not have to strain our imaginations a great deal to think of the Samaritan as having been on his way to one of the villages on business, hurrying on possibly to consummate a deal which meant considerable profit to him. But if so the sight of a human being, a brother, in pain and misery, a brother in need, made him forego his minor interests to tend to the larger—that of lending a helping hand, that of rendering the service of a brother. He did with the human touch, the highest instrument of healing, all that he could, and then placed the man in the hands of the Inn-Keeper.

Thank God, we have business men today who not only contribute to the support of charitable institutions, but who in addition to the money they give, also give the human touch, and direct men to the places where help is systematically given. Thank God, we have business men today who are not so engrossed in their business as to forget their obligation to the unfortunate. Would that we had more such men, who in their effort to make a living do not forget to live a life—men who would seek to make it easier for others to live. Our obligation to the unfortunate, to the fallen, is more than merely to pity them. It is to help them up. We should be brothers in service as well as in sympathy.

The Christian, who seeing some one fettered with sin, living an ungodly life, goes to that person and tells him of Christ and His power to save, is acting the part of a good Samaritan.

It is not the condition of the man living a wicked, dissolute, godless life that should appeal to us most. What should appeal to us most is what that man can become by accepting Jesus Christ as his Saviour. It is not the horrible conditions that sin makes that should appeal to us, but what the spirit of Christ can do in changing those conditions. It is one thing to deplore the evil in the world. It is quite another thing to help to eradicate that evil. It is well to realize the meanness of sin, but a good Samaritan sees farther than the sin. He sees a remedy for it.

What appealed to the Good Samaritan was not the young man's plight nor his wounds, nor his misfortune. What appealed to him was the opportunity of helping the unfortunate man, of dressing those wounds, of taking him to a place where he could be properly cared for.

The priest and the Levite saw only the young man groping in the heated dust of the road. They saw only the unfortunate situation. No doubt they felt sorry for the poor fellow, but they were blinded to the opportunity of helping. The priest came along and saw the man, but passed by on the other side. The Levite did worse, he looked on him, and then passed by on the other side. They both bore sacred names and filled sacred positions. Hence the blacker was their sin of omission.

They were typical representatives of the negative and do nothing kind, who hold themselves aloof from the delinquents of society, using their profession as a passport into certain select social circles; using their religious profession also as a cloak to cover up their sinful and useless, and we might say, unsocial lives. There is only room for two classes of people in society—those who need help, and those who are able and willing to give help.

This is equally true as regards man's moral and religious interests. No true Christian can take a negative attitude on great moral issues. He cannot take a negative attitude toward his un-Christian neighbors. To help win the world to Christ, and that should be the business of every Christian, we must have two visions and one baptism. We must have the vision of peril—men and women floundering in sin; and then we must have a vision of inspiration—the vision of God's power through Christ to save these unfortunates and be inspired to show them the way to Christ. And we must have one baptism—the baptism of the spirit of the Good Samaritan in making the sacrifice in time and money to render the moral, the religious or the material assistance needed by those we ought to serve.

It is ours to help men who are fighting a losing battle in life. It is for us to play the part of a good Samaritan to those who have fallen in sin. It is ours to take them to the Inn of Salvation, the Church of Christ. It is for us to play the part of a good Samaritan when we find men and women distressed and oppressed in body, mind or spirit; ours to help the unfortunate in every relationship of life; ours to be a friend, a neighbor to all men. That is the distinguishing characteristic of the followers of Christ. "One touch of Nature makes the whole world kin." The central lesson of the parable of the good Samaritan is that whoever needs our help is our neighbor.

The person who, upon hearing another, whether friend or foe, unjustly condemned and wrongly abused, offers his protest against the uncharitable act of condemning one not present to defend himself, thereby plays the part of the good Samaritan.

When a slanderous report is being circulated through a community, or a false statement that takes on growing proportions each time it is repeated, every person who hears it has an opportunity of playing the part of a good Samaritan by defending the one whose character is being abused. When we hear an unkind or an untrue word spoken against another in his absence, it is our Christian obligation to offer protest. To say nothing is to play the part of the priest and Levite in the story—to pass by on the other side.

To join in the abusive conversation is to play the part of the robbers in the story. Yes, and perchance be the cause of more pain than were they. What is the loss of raiment and a wounded body compared with the loss of self respect and a wounded reputation? As Shakespeare puts it in Othello

"Who steals my purse, steals trash,
'Tis something, nothing, 'twas mine, 'tis his,
And has been slave to thousands,
But he who filches from me my good name,
Robs me of that which enriches him not,
But makes me poor indeed."

As Christians, as those who would ever be good Samaritans in society, we have no right to say of another to his back what we would not say to his face. The most cowardly thing one can do is to use a poisonous tongue of criticism against one not present to apply the antidote of free speech in self defense. But it is equally sinful not to offer defense for another when we hear him thus wrongfully abused.

And yet how often when we hear a friend abused, we will pass by on the other side, saying nothing in his defense! The person who has the courage to speak in defense of those absent, the person who says nothing about another unless it is something good, is indeed a good Samaritan. And every Christian ought to be such. But thrice shame on the tale bearer. When you find a person who is always speaking ill of someone else to you, beware! Such will do the same with you in your absence. Pick for your friends those who either speak well of others or else speak not at all.

True neighbors play the part of the good Samaritan in all our relationships. That is our obligation, but it is even more, it is our privilege. Nor do you have to go outside of your own community for an opportunity to play the part of a good Samaritan—for an opportunity to do for men what Christ would have you do. Right in your community there are unfortunates who need your aid. Right in your community are haggard men, wretched women, starving children, crying aloud for the oil and wine of brotherly assistance. Right in your community are boys and girls who have fallen by the hand of some temptation, their self-respect is wounded, their hope for something better in life is half dead. They are needing the touch of a brother's hand, the oil and wine of Christian council and encouragement. How about your nearest neighbor? Have you ever given him a word of Christian encouragement? God forbid that any Christian should fail to accept his obligation to the unfortunate—the obligation of service.

R. C. H.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

One of the most abused activities is charity. Charity is one of the most difficult things to administer. It is one of the most universal demands upon the people of God. "Ye have the poor always with you."—Matt. 26: 11. The necessity and the opportunity for acts of charity increase with advancing civilization, just as the necessity for education increases as the world grows wiser. Poverty increases as wealth increases; it is the contrast that reveals this. There is no escape from the increasing demands upon charity. It is the price of progress. The electric cleaner discovers the dust, and the concrete road makes the old dirt road seem worse than it did in the past. Progress in morals and intelligence makes crimes out of what was once unnoticed. Change in law makes old laws illegal. It was once no crime to make, use and sell distilled liquors; but now it is a crime. Christian intelligence has revealed the wrong in the saloon business and all that went with it. Hog pens were common in towns fifty years ago; but that day has gone forever.

But now, back to the question of charity. The necessity for charity remains. Christianity teaches that men should help one another; and men do. But charity, as a rule, is poorly administered. The majority of charity is bestowed at the suggestion of others without personal knowledge of the necessity. "Whoso hath this world's goods, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?"—I John 3: 17. In other words, whoso sees, after investigation, his brother have need, and then does not help, how dwelleth the love of God in him. But most people take no pains to find out the real necessity, but give because some person, or some organization asks for help. No wise business man would invest his money in any enterprise without looking into it and satisfying himself that it was at least worthy. Yet those same Christian men take no time or trouble to see for themselves, to investigate to find out whether there is real necessity before they give. True charity is an investment, the best investment the Christian can make, of time, means, and personal help. It is by this careless way of bestowing charity that so much is wasted. Charity organizations are themselves careless in administering what is placed in their hands for distribution. In fact we are all guilty. We give a nickel, a dime, a dollar, some food, old garments, simply to respond to some call for help. It takes a wise person to bestow charity wisely and religiously. The waste and the unscriptural bestowment of charity suggest a more careful study of what should be done in the field of human necessity.

This suggestion might be made with safety: If all the people in any community, large or small, city or country, would identify themselves with some church, and be regular in attendance at Sunday School, Prayer Meeting, and church services, the church would relieve all real necessity. But, as a rule, it is those who neglect the church, that ask alms. The beggar is not always in need. The most needy are sometimes the last to make their wants known. It requires diligent observation to discover real necessity. The imposter and the careless methods of administering charity, make failure of much of the good that should be done in the name of Jesus Christ.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

The Elon Summer School of Christian Methods closed its fifth session here on Wednesday night with a program by the demonstration Daily Vacation Bible School held in connection with the Summer School, and with the commencement exercises of the school itself.

For several years this Summer School met at Virginia Beach or at Ocean View, Va., and was then known as the Seaside Chautauqua and School of Methods. In the popular mind it is thought of as a Chautauqua, though the idea of the Board of Christian Education has been more and more to make it into a real Summer School.

Dr. W. T. Walters retired as president with the close of this session. He spoke of the enrollment of 43 the first year here and of the present year's enrollment of 166 exclusive of the Daily Vacation Bible School. Dr. Walters has labored untiringly for the Summer School. Miss Lucy M. Eldredge led in a Chautauqua salute to him as an expression of the appreciation in which his services are held.

Dr. J. H. Lightbourne, Holland, Va., succeeds Dr. Walters. He is a capable organizer and leader, and in his hands the work will grow. Miss Pattie Coghill will continue her relationship to the work as field secretary. Dr. Walters continues as a member of the governing board and of the program committee.

This year seventy credits were given on Standard Leadership Training courses. This speaks volumes for the success in the real purpose of the Summer School. It is better to have a relatively small enrollment and a large number of credits than to have a large enrollment with few credits.

The Faculty of the Summer School this year were all of our church and did great teaching. Their pupils were greatly pleased with their efforts. This, too, is better for the church than to have outsiders, who must be paid salaries.

Next year we understand the program committee will offer three kinds of credit courses: (a) High School; (b) Standard or College; and (c) Graduate, especially for ministers and college graduates. This will be an ideal arrangement.

W. A. HARPER.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

Bethlehem College will open on August 30th, with a revised and enlarged program of training and education. We have increased the Board of Trustees from twelve to twenty-one and have added a new member to the faculty. We have now a full faculty of competent men and women, who are ready to take hold of the work when the time arrives, with a will and purpose which will put the job over in a worth-while way.

Our educational program is largely religious. Never before has the call to duty and devotion been quite so strong to Protestant America as today. To maintain the Christian civilization as we know it in America, is going to be a tremendous strain upon the moral stamina of the next generation. American youth needs more specific training than general education, more good example than dogmatic precept, more Christ-like moral stability than mere intellectual sharpness, and greater power for work and service than ability to avoid them.

Education must be reduced to practice through training for work and service. Training must be surcharged with the ideals of Christian practice, to the end that the individual and his service shall aid and not hinder society. There must be a more practical education for the needs of the present and future generations and that both education and training must be predicated upon an applied Christianity by the trained individual himself.

The first emphasis in the education of young people should be in the development of character, to the end of attaining stability, dependability, and habits of right living. They should also receive training, which will fit them to earn a living through production and service, giving them the possibility of maintaining their independence in modern society. Culture should produce refinement in speech and action, thus fitting farmers, doctors, merchants, mechanics, lawyers, home makers, judges, nurses, bankers, stenographers, ministers, teachers, journalists, engineers, and the like, to be peers in their associations with one another.

Every Christian Church should stand back of her educational institutions, for the church as a whole is an educational institution and should be fundamentally recognized as such, and the church will not function rightly, nor will human society be right until she does. The church and the schools are more closely related than are recognized to be in American society at the present day. We need not go to the extreme of making the church absorb the school or the school the church, as that is opposed to the principle of the division of labor in social evolution, which holds for institutions as well as individuals. There can be and should be the closest co-operation between the school and the church. The church has, in a sense, the most important education of all to carry out for our youth—the education in the higher social values, in moral and religious ideals.

If the church is to create a Christian world, it must control in larger measure public opinion, which is the ruling force of our time and the real sovereign of democracy. But to do this, the whole church must make a larger use of scientific, sociological and psychological knowledge of every sort through her colleges. The church must be profoundly interested in promoting and diffusing social and religious knowledge. The world is perishing for lack of knowledge of the way in which human beings should live together. The Christian movement will develop its full power only when it allies itself with social science and when it sees and diffuses the fullest scientific knowledge of social conditions.

S. L. BEOUGHER.

SOUTH GEORGIA.

Since my last letter, our revival meetings have been held at Enigma and Vanceville. We began at Enigma the first Sunday in July and closed Saturday night before the second Sunday. I am glad to report that we had a real spiritual meeting. I have never seen better interest, co-operation, nor response. Rev. H. M. Gray, one of our most consecrated pastors, did the preaching, delivering each message in his usual way with force and simplicity.

It was our privilege to visit a goodly number of the homes of the little town and surrounding community, and by so doing we became better acquainted with the people. In almost every home we held a brief service and in nearly every instance each individual present took part either in prayer or testimony. These services were the means of much strength and help and added greatly to the meeting.

We are very grateful to the people of Enigma for their unstinted hospitality toward us while in their midst. It was a great pleasure to go into their homes and enjoy their association and many kindnesses. We were made to feel at home wherever we went.

We shall never forget the interest manifested and the quick response and hearty co-operation of the people of the other churches of the town. Denominational lines, seemingly, have ceased to exist in Enigma. We, as Christians, appreciate very much our Methodist and Baptist brethren, for they have never failed to prove their loyalty in every respect.

At the suggestion of Bro. Gray, the writer was given a good pounding on Friday night. My Ford was loaded with a good supply of provisions for the table, watermelons and cantaloupes for the children, dress goods, etc., for the wife. Many thanks to these good people for these things; also for a neat sum in cash which came by way of free will offerings. May the blessings of Him who is the Giver of every good and perfect gift be upon every one of them is the prayer of your unworthy servant and family.

There were fifteen conversions as a result of the meeting. Four of them united with the Christian Church, the others going to the Methodists and Baptists. All of them were children, and we feel that not only have these souls been saved but the lives as well. We bid them God-speed. Many hearts were revived and drawn to a closer walk with God. The writer feels that no one received greater blessings than he.

The second Sunday morning found us entering into the meeting at Vanceville. Attendance and interest were good at the morning and evening services of the first day, but due to the fact that so many people were busy with their tobacco and watermelon crops, attendance was not so good at the morning services, but fairly good at the evening services. Interest was good throughout the meeting and some of the richest experiences were at the morning services. We had a good meeting, numbers of church members were strengthened and uplifted. There were three additions to the church, one by letter, the others by profession of faith. Thank God for these two converts and the one by letter. I feel confident that others will unite with the church at no distant date. The meeting was far from being a failure.

The pastor was again showered with good things to eat. The Vanceville church has stood faithfully and loyally by me as their pastor. I feel very unworthy of the many good things they have said about me, and their loyal financial support. May God richly reward them.

Brother Gray met many friends while in South Georgia. It was his first time to be in a meeting at Enigma and Vanceville, and everybody learned to love and appreciate him. We assure him that he will always find a hearty welcome in the churches and homes of South Georgia. He says that "surely South Georgia is the Canaan of America because of its good lands and varied crops."

Everything bids fair to the work at Enigma and Vanceville. We are planning to hold another meeting at Ambrose before conference, and we have asked Bro. Gray to assist us. Pray for the Work in South Georgia.

Yours in His service,
S. D. LANKFORD.

VA. VALLEY CONFERENCE PROGRAM.

Program of the seventy-eighth session of the Virginia Valley Central Christian Conference, to be held with the Linville Christian Church, August 18 to 20, 1926, Rev. R. P. Crumpler, pastor, Linville, Va.

WEDNESDAY.

Morning Session.

- 10:00 Call to Order.
Devotional Service—Dr. W. T. Walters.
- 10:35 Enrollment.
- 10:45 Welcome Address—Rev. R. P. Crumpler.
- 10:55 Response—R. O. Rothgeb.
- 11:05 Report of Program Committee.
- 11:10 Report of Executive Committee.
- 11:15 "What My Church is Doing," by the Delegates.
- 11:50 Miscellaneous Business.
- 12:00 Adjournment for Dinner.

Afternoon Session.

- 1:45 Devotional Service—A. F. Chase.
- 2:05 Annual Address—J. E. Foster.
- 2:40 Report of Committee on Religious Literature.
- 2:50 Addresses on "Our Publications"—A. F. Chase, Circulation Manager of "The Herald of Gospel Liberty," Dayton, Ohio; Prof. P. J. Kernalle, Managing Editor of "The Christian Sun, Richmond, Va.
- 4:00 Miscellaneous Business and Adjournment.

Evening Session.

- 8:00 Address—"Missionary to Japan," Rev. W. Q. McKnight.
Address—Dr. W. A. Harper.

THURSDAY.

Morning Session.

- 9:30 Devotional Service—R. A. Larrick.
- 10:00 Roll Call and Reading of Minutes.
- 10:10 Report of Committee on Education.
- 10:25 Address—Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College.
- 11:10 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions.
- 11:25 Address—Rev. W. Q. McKnight.
- 12:00 Adjournment for Dinner.

Afternoon Session.

- 1:45 Devotional Service—D. H. Welch.
- 1:45 Woman's Mission Board Meeting in the Methodist Church.
- 2:00 Report of Committee on Appointments.
- 2:10 Discussion of Financial Plan of the Southern Christian Convention.
- 3:00 Report of Committee on Moral Reform.
- 3:30 Conference Missionary Association.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

Evening Session.

- Woman's Home and Foreign Mission Board in Charge.
- 8:00 Addresses will be made by Rev. and Mrs. W. Q. McKnight; an object lesson on how to teach missions to children will be given by Mrs. W. T. Walters; Mrs. W. A. Harper, of Elon College, will sing a solo.

FRIDAY.

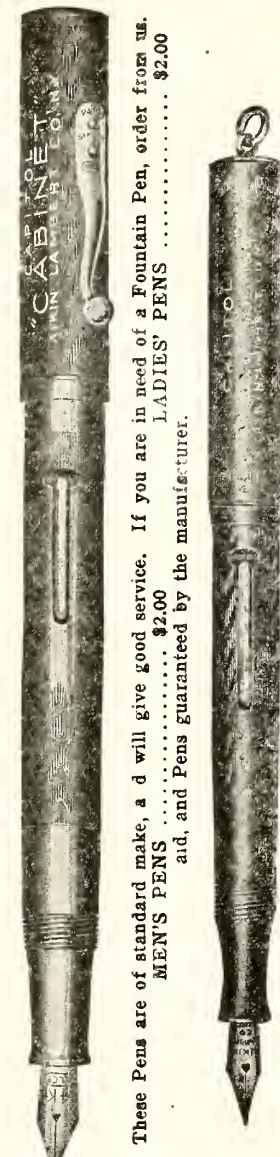

Morning Session.

- 9:30 Devotional Service—W. W. Fogle.
- 10:00 Roll Call and Reading of Minutes.
- 10:10 Report of Committee on Christian Endeavor.
- 10:25 Report of Committee on Sunday Schools.
- 10:40 Address—Mrs. W. Q. McKnight.
- 11:10 Address—"The Christian Orphanage," C. D. Johnston, Superintendent.
- 11:40 Report of Treasurer.
- 11:45 Miscellaneous Business.
- 12:00 Adjournment for Dinner.

Afternoon Session.

- 1:45 Devotional Service—E. S. Morris.
- 2:05 Report of Committee on Home Missions.
- 2:20 Address—(To be supplied.)
- 3:00 Miscellaneous Business.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. MEN'S PENS $2.00
LADIES' PENS $2.00
aid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25; either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5¼ x 7¾ inches.

Specimen of Type

THE LORD is my shephe
not want.
2 He maketh me to lie
green pastures: he leadeth
the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid..... 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Price—Post Paid..... 9.35

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

IN ONTARIO.

It was the privilege of your secretary to teach the course in Christian Stewardship to a class of forty at our Canadian Summer School at Oshawa. "The Way to the Best" was the book used. It has five chapters: Stewardship, Stewardship of Life, Ability, Time, Substance. This is the book that we would like to have all our young people of the 'teen age read and possess. We hope that hundreds of our churches will form study classes this fall using this twenty-five cent book. We urge parents and pastors now to place this book in the hands of their young people. Daily, also, we conducted a class on Church Administration for adults. It covered church organization, pastoral and church problems.

Following the close of the Summer School, we conducted Stewardship institutes in the Keswick, New Market, Stouffville and Toronto churches. It was a great privilege to meet our Ontario workers for those two weeks and share sympathetically their church problems, enjoy their fellowship, meet their splendid young people and confer with their pastors.

CONSTRUCTIVE FINANCIAL MEASURES.

I.—The Every-member canvass conducted annually in all our churches with proper preparation.

This plan fully carried out will double both the current expenses and benevolences funds of the average church. It is the Bible plan. It is scientific. It is practical. It works when it is worked. Christ used the two and two plan in doing the work he had in hand. He sent both the twelve and the seventy out that way. It will also double the man-power of the church, greatly increase its spirituality, and will help to enlist the inactive members. Still greater results will accrue when all the churches of a conference conduct it simultaneously.

II.—The Practice of Tithing.

All should tithe. It is the place to start in our matter of support for the Kingdom work. It is not the place for many to stop. Down in our hearts we know tithing is right. We need the will to do it and the instruction as to how to do it. It would multiply the Kingdom finances for your church work four times if all would tithe. It would deepen the spiritual life greatly. It will bring joy and larger prosperity to the tither himself. We need to lay great emphasis upon an effort to develop tithing churches, to enlist tithers by annual enrollment, and by thorough preparation for enrollment day in December.

III.—Better Financial Plans in the Local Church.

The finances in the churches should be better correlated. In many churches, organizations, groups, classes, departments, funds, all have separate treasuries and raise funds independently of each other. Frequently a church attendant is asked to contribute through a half dozen treasuries for these groups on a given Sunday. Is it any wonder that a cry goes up, "So many calls"? Note that it is not the denominational calls. There are more separate calls for local affairs than for all the work of the Kingdom at large. It is not the number of denominational calls, but the method, or, rather the lack of method in the local church. It is not fair to blame the church at large for a lack of correlation of wise financial methods in the local church. Some churches are making a real study of their financial plans.

IV.—The Conferences should Plan for Better Financial Methods.

They should arrange for instruction in church financial methods at their annual session and in institutes throughout the year. These presentations should be made by those who know and understand the denominational plans as represented by the bureau that has the work of stewardship, church finances, and the promotion of better methods in the churches in charge, so that the plans in the conferences have a proper correlation also.

V.—A Denominational Minimum Budget.

Such should be equitably distributed among the conferences and churches as the minimum needs, with opportunity for voluntary increase on definite dates in connection with the educational program. The distribution to conferences and churches should be one-fourth each on number of members, value of church property, rate of pastor's salary, previous records of giving.

WHY MEMBERS OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH SHOULD TITHE.

Rev. H. H. Short of Hagerstown, Indiana, president of the Central Christian Convention, joins with President Smith of the Southern Convention in his recent appeal to our people to become tithers. President Short says:

"Christian is our only name. I would that it were our faith and practice at all times and under all conditions.

"God created man and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul. At one and the same time he became a free moral agent with opportunity to choose his own course of action. He must of necessity live in the results of his own actions.

"Our heavenly father was not so unkind as to leave man helpless in a maze of circumstances that he could not understand, but led him by spirit and word to see a way that a wayfaring man though a fool should not err therein. Sin then is not a mistake because of a lack of knowledge, but is of the will.

"Are we of the Christian Church led of our heavenly Father in the support we give our own religious enterprises?

"God knows that man must be interested in a program that saves him, that he must work toward such a program, that he must live the way that leads to peace and freedom from the results of sin, that he must invest time, energy, means, for his own sake, for the love of God and for others.

"We are not establishing a precedent in such an interest and return to God of His portion. Men, when the race was young, understood these conditions. Abraham paid a tithe to the priest of the most high God at Salem; Jacob, in response to his dream and heavenly vision, vowed to give to the Lord a tenth of his increase. Not only did inspired individuals feel the necessity of returning to God His portion, but they instilled this lesson in the hearts of the people of a nation by showing the failure or success that depended upon a right attitude toward God. Malachi asked this question, 'Will a man rob God?' The answer is 'Yes.'—in tithes and in offerings. 'Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of Hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven and pour you out a blessing that there shall not be room enough to receive it.'

"Jesus, too, said that the tithe ought to be paid. If we are his followers we ought then to feel some responsibility resting upon us regarding the matter.

"Tithing is practical. What do we recognize as being a greater investment than that which would bring peace, foster love, and more intimately associate us with our Father in heaven.

"Recognition of this duty, and the actual paying of the tithe, by our church people, would solve our financial problems and deepen our spiritual experiences. It would build churches where our children go to make their homes. It would put on a program of religious education that would insure trained leadership, wipe out all deficits and be the means of carrying the message of Christ and our church to the uttermost parts of the earth.

A COUNTRY CHURCH THAT HAS FORMED THE HABIT OF GIVING.

Antioch Christian Church, located near Harrisonburg, Va., is only a very small church in active membership; but her few active members have certainly learned, of late, the grace and joy of giving.

While the entire list of members, active and inactive, is larger, there are at present not more than forty or fifty active members who live near enough to the church to attend the services regularly. The enrolled membership of the Sunday School is seventy-three, with an average attendance of less than fifty. This small Sunday School, a few years ago, adopted the custom of giving one Sunday's offering in each month to missions and one Sunday's offering monthly to the Orphanage. During the past year, this wide-awake Sunday School has contributed $82.39 to the cause of missions and $124.66 to the Orphanage. The amount of $85.05 which this Sunday School spent on itself for literature and other supplies during the last twelve months, is much larger than the total amount raised during any year before the school adopted the rule of contributing monthly to missions and to the Orphanage.

Furthermore, the Young People's Missionary Society of the same church has, during the present conference year, contributed $102.59 to the cause of missions, with more to be raised before the conference meets on August 18th. It should be remembered, too, that the personnel of the Sunday School is also the personnel of the Young People's Missionary Society.

This consecrated little band of Christian workers has learned the secret of helping themselves by first helping others. They are no longer afraid to send a little of their money away from home. These people are not wealthy; yet they have contributed, not only to the causes mentioned above, but they have contributed liberally to some worthy members who were in needy circumstances, and to the various other causes—as the State, county, and district Sunday School Associations, etc.

In addition to these things, this church pays, at present, its pastor a salary of $350.00, and pays promptly, besides the other current expenses. Antioch, furthermore, has long ago finished paying her part on the parsonage that is owned by the Rockingham pastorate.

The present pastor is almost inclined to envy the fortunate minister who may serve these good and congenial people next year. May the richest blessings of our heavenly Father be with both the future pastor and the people.

R. P. CRUMPLER.

THE WHY AND WHAT OF CHRISTIAN NURTURE.

BY DR. W. D. PARRY,

Pastor Raleigh Christian Church.

That our age is one of transition is generally conceded. But every age is marked by change. New trails are blazed, old gives place to new, and the race moves on, sometimes to higher ground, sometimes to lower. While we believe that human development is, as a whole, in the direction of a better understanding of God and truth, we are convinced that the spiritual does not always keep pace with the material.

There are moments when we contemplate with misgiving the tendency of our day to ignore what we believe to be the great essentials. "This freedom" seems so utterly lacking in reverence, so contemptuous of spiritual values. The right of self-expression appears to receive greater emphasis than it should. Liberty degenerates into license, and all restraint is regarded as an infringement upon personal liberty.

But we would not pass hasty judgment nor condemn the present because of a worship of the past. We are aware, as we have already stated, that every age is marked by change and that the interpretations of yesterday may not fit the needs of today. In our appraisal of this day we would neither discount nor overestimate the past. We are convinced that ours is in many respects the most remarkable age in the history of the race. Science and invention have greatly enriched us and life upon our planet is a luxurious existence compared to what it was a hundred years ago. The condition of labor has improved and living conditions for the average man are vastly superior.

It is not, however, the purpose of this article to deal with material and physical conditions, but rather with the need for Christian nurture. We believe that the Christian view of God and the world must dominate the thought of men if our civilization is to be purged of its error and, purified, to develop into a true brotherhood of man.

Whether we accept some of the findings of science or not, it would be folly to deny that they have vitally affected the thinking of our day. The informed man knows that many of the cherished doctrines of yesterday are no longer tenable. The man who insists in stating the truths of Christianity in the thought-forms of past centuries will meet only ridicule or at best a tolerance extended to those believed honest but recognized as utterly unfit to interpret the sublime truths of God and His supreme revelation in Christ Jesus.

We face a state of mind in our day, the natural result of unnecessary and unwarranted antagonism to science on the part of the Church, an antagonism that has frequently disparaged education and assumed that God was more pleased with ignorance than culture. Our young people are scientifically trained and have learned that they must either deny scientific fact or deny certain dogmas they have been taught were essential to their salvation. And all too frequently they have lost all faith, not so much because they have become familiar with scientific facts as because they were never properly trained in the facts of true religion. They knew something of Christianity as dogma, but all too little of Christianity as life. They had been taught to believe or be damned, but had not been taught to "work out their own salvation with fear and trembling before God." And it is not strange that, when they learned that their teachers had been blind to the necessity of knowing God as the Lord of all life rather than the god of a narrow creed, they should cast aside the false conception that had been given them, and lacking any vital experience of Christ, should conclude that all religion was a passing phase of thought.

I am convinced that we will never be in a position to cope with present conditions until we recognize that they have been produced as much and perhaps more through the disposition of the Church to antagonize scientific fact, and to assume that spiritual illumination was more likely to be given to him who discounted education than to the man of trained mind.

I am not blind to the fact that certain scientists have arrogated to themselves the right to solve all problems and to affirm that nothing could be accepted that did not square with their hypotheses. But the dogmatism of such men is only another phase of the dogmatic spirit, and when young people have been trained in dogmatism they frequently find it quite natural to cast aside one form of dogmatism for another.

The Church has a real problem to face and can only hope to solve it by such training and nurture in Christian truth as will make men and women strong in faith and works.

It is far easier to state the necessity of proper nurture in matters religious than to formulate a program that will meet the need of all. Yet I am confident that there are general or fundamental principles, which if followed, will produce the desired result.

If I correctly interpret Christianity, it is first of all a way of life. In Jesus this way of life was perfectly exemplified and in His teaching a clear statement is given of how men were to realize the same. It becomes necessary, therefore, that those undertaking the training of others in this way of life should themselves strive for its attainment. Unless one knows, one cannot teach. As well attempt to instruct in Latin or Greek without a knowledge of these languages as to teach men the Christian way of living without having learned the way one self. Knowledge is power, and when a man can say as Paul said, "Be ye therefore imitators of me," he speaks with an authority not to be questioned. He is not then offering a theory that has not been proven, but a theory that has been demonstrated by himself as well as by others.

It is also necessary that the one instructing be well grounded in the faith, not merely as a system of belief, but as a reasonable and possible rule of conduct. "Study to show thyself approved," must be taken to mean a familiarizing of oneself with the teachings of the Master. As far as possible original sources of information must be studied and an effort made to arrive at as perfect knowledge of the meaning of Jesus' teaching as can be had.

I do not believe that the indifference to religion, so frequently met in our day, would exist had those that taught always given a demonstration of the value of their teachings in their lives and interpreted the same in the light of reason and fact. "Seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness" has had an other-worldly interpretation. Christ has been accepted as the promised One, it is true, but not as the ideal man whose life was to be an example. We might hope to become like Him after death, but never in this life could we hope to attain to His way of life. And yet He said: "If any man be my disciple, let him take up his cross and follow me," and, "Be ye perfect as your Father in heaven is perfect." If this standard is too high, then we cannot accept Him as other than a visionary who commanded the impossible.

Christian nurture, then, is the building up in the faith of Christ. It is training men and women to believe in the possibility of Divine love in the human soul, transforming and renewing the life and producing such examples of Christ-like living as will prove without the shadow of a doubt that God is and that He lives in the hearts of men. It is not by futile attempts to stay the progress of science, not by legislative interference with education, but by the unanswerable argument of God in the life of man, that we are to redeem the world from sin and error.

We were pleased to present in THE SUN last week an article from the pen of Rev. Wm. T. Scott, on the "Influences of the Christian College upon Missions." Brother Scott has had two very interesting courses in Missions at Yale University and is coming in vital contact with the missionary situation. If any SUN reader failed to read his article, we advise looking up the paper and giving it a careful reading. It is worth while. Brother Scott is this summer with the Church Extension Board of the Home Missionary Society of the American Board. He is in a small village and is finding his work interesting. He is to remain until the middle of September, when he expects to return to Yale. The village in which he is working and his address is Oktaha, Oklahoma.

Three of our Sunday Schools recently have joined the ever increasing list of those giving a monthly offering to Missions: Vanceville, in the Georgia and Alabama Conference; Mt. Zion, in the North Carolina and Virginia Conference, and New Hope, in the Valley Virginia Conference. Checks for first offerings in these schools were received the past week. This would seem to be the wisest course that any school today pursues, if the School really appreciates and has an abiding friendship for Him who gave us the Gospel, out of which the Sunday School has come. How many Sunday Schools can decline to give an offering at least once a month to help advance the Kingdom of our Lord in the world, and to share with others blessings that they themselves enjoy, is more than we can understand.

AN APPRECIATION.

July 25, 1926, Rev. Walter C. Hook read his resignation as pastor of the First Christian Church of Albany, N. Y., to take up work in another field. It was accepted with regret.

Rev. Mr. Hook has served the Albany Church for the past three years, during which time many new members have been received. He is an eloquent and forceful preacher, emphasizing the fundamentals of Christianity and the spiritual life of the church. He has been a kind and faithful pastor, whose influence will long be felt by the members of the church.

In addition to the duties of the local church, Mr. Hook served as secretary of the Albany Ministerial Association; as a member of the Executive Board and Director of the Department of Life Work Recruits for the local Albany Christian Endeavor Union; as secretary of the Metropolitan Christian Convention; as Director of Christian Education for the New York Eastern Conference; as president of the New York Eastern Semiannual Conference; as a member of the Board of Polity of the Metropolitan Christian Convention, and as a member of a committee of three to represent the Christian Church in America on the General Council of the Y. M. C. A.

The entire membership and friends of the Albany Church wish him Godspeed in his new field of endeavor.

WILLIAM L. BLAUM,
MRS. F. M. HOSLER,
MRS. MAY BEST TAYLOR,
Special Committee.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

BY REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

LESSON VIII.—AUGUST 22, 1926.

"THE TEN COMMANDMENTS—DUTIES TO GOD."

GOLDEN TEXT: "Thou shalt love Jehovah, thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might."—Deut. 6: 5.

LESSON: Exodus 19: 1-20:11.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 19: 7-14.

REFERENCE MATERIAL: Deut. 5: 1-15; 6: 3-9.

A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. A nation is only as strong as its moral foundation. No matter how large or how rich, or how powerful or even how intelligent, a nation may be, unless it is builded upon a foundation of sound morals and spiritual ideals, it cannot endure.

This is no half-baked idea of a moralizing preacher; it is the verdict of history. "The wicked shall be turned into hell and all the nations that forget God."

Now God was building a nation. As a wise Master Builder, He laid the foundations. The Ten Commandments are the embodiment of fundamental principles of personal and social righteousness which alone can make a nation great and enduring. They apply not only to the Hebrew nation, but to every nation, and they are as sound today and as necessary as ever.

It is interesting to note that the commandments may be divided into groups: one dealing with a man's duty to God, and one dealing with man's duty to his fellow-man. Here are all the relationships of life. And as Jesus so clearly brought out later, these relationships are closely inter-related. A man's perpendicular relationships can never be right unless his horizontal relationships are right, and a man's horizontal relationships can never be right in the finest sense of the word unless his perpendicular relationships are right.

The Divine Origin of the Commandments.

"And God spake all these words." The commandments are not man-made. Such august moral and spiritual principles do not come of the spirit of man. Regardless of the way in which the commandments were given, they came from God. They carry with them all the authority and power of God himself. A man may break any or all of them, but there is something about them that makes him know that they have divine sanction and authority.

The Real Basis of Obedience.

"I am Jehovah thy God, who brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage." Here was an appeal to history and to personal experience. The commandments were not designed by an impersonal force or even by a personal despot who wanted blind obedience to gratify a false pride; they were the expression of that fatherly spirit which had in mind and heart the highest wellbeing of His children. Obedience was not to be born of fear; it was to be born of a spirit of gratitude for past favors and the pledge of blessings to come.

The First Commandment.—God is to be worshipped first and exclusively. It was only as Israel kept Him central in their worship that they could find the real meaning of life. Seek first the Kingdom of God, was the law then as in Jesus' day and in our day. We must keep in mind what a great step forward it was when this people living in the world which recognized many gods, dared assert the supremacy of one God.

The Second Commandment.—God was to be worshipped first and exclusively, and He was to be worshipped spiritually. He is a Spirit, and He cannot be represented by a material thing. Here again we find a foregleam of the words of Jesus that God is a Spirit and that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth.

Man has always been prone to fashion things to represent his gods. We moderns may think it strange that men should make images of their gods, but we must remember that we have come a long way in time and spiritual enlightenment. Then, too, who will say that even yet we do not bow down and worship our idols of gold and silver and fashion and pleasure.

The Third Commandment.—God's name is to be revered. We usually think of this commandment as applying to profanity. As a matter of fact, it is designed against a flippant, careless use of God's name. There are many good people who hold up their hands in holy horror at profanity, who are guilty of breaking this commandment by using God's name in vain, flippant, light-headed, and light-hearted ways. The pious Jew would not even pronounce the name Jehovah, but used Adoni instead. We do not need to go to this extreme, but we do need more reverence for God's name.

The Fourth Commandment.—One day is holy unto God. It was made for man—for the physical man, that he might renew his strength after the week's work; for the mental man that he might steep his mind in high thoughts and good reading; for the social man that he might form friendships and develop those already formed; for the domestic man that he might enjoy his home and family; for the spiritual man that he might worship and meditate and come to a fresh experience of God.

It would seem that there is a real danger that we moderns are breaking down the Sabbath as an institution. We need to get back to the fundamentals of the day. If we lose the Sabbath, we threaten the whole superstructure of civilization.

It is not enough to commit the Ten Commandments to memory; we must write them on our hearts and in the light of the larger interpretation which Jesus gave them, to make them the dynamic spirit of all our living.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

For August 22, 1926.

"PRAYER."

TOPIC: "Bible Teachings about Prayer."—Phil. 4: 6-7; Heb. 4: 14-16.

REFERENCE MATERIAL: Matt. 6: 5-8; 18: 19-20; Mark 11: 20-26; Luke 11: 1-13; 18: 9-14.

What is prayer anyway? Prayer is communion with God. It is to the spiritual nature what social intercourse is to the mental nature. It is talking to our greatest Friend. When Jesus prayed, He was not talking to himself or space. He met God in this experience.

James tells us that prayer is asking God for the things we need. It is consulting God about the things we do, both the easy and the perplexing. It presupposes God's care for us, and if He cares, we can pray confidently and trust Him afterwards. We presuppose the care of our earthly parents, but nevertheless we go to them and ask for the things we desire, and consult them when trials and perplexities cross our paths.

Thus we see that prayer is the result of desire. It was Solomon's desire for wisdom that caused him to pray. When we desire, we pray, but how often are these desires unworthy of us. Often we pray for things that would actually harm us if the prayer were granted. God knows best.

God denies some of our prayers. Not all things that a child desires are good for it. And at times he answers our prayers in ways that we do not expect.

The person who practices prayer, takes the same stand in spiritual life as the good business man who consults his lawyer on any doubtful point in his business transactions. And he has small room for regret.

We should pray in public as well as in private. Jesus' words about praying together are quite as positive as His words about praying alone. Dr. Fosdick says, "Prayer for another, especially an unfriendly man, is a searching test of our relationship to him. But praying with another—how much more intimate and penetrating is this."

Let us not fail to pray for the means of Christian Education in our church. Christian Education never ceases. It begins in the home and continues to the end of life. The soul that is saved will, we believe, continue its work of Christian Education throughout eternity. So let us pray for our homes, for our local church and all its organizations and officers, for the leaders of our denomination in missions, in Sunday School, in Christian Endeavor, in Orphanage work, in publications, in our colleges, and for all the others that God may use them to build our church and His Kingdom.

To Think About.

Why should we form the habit of prayer?

Why do people find it hard to pray?

How does our forgiving wrengs show sincerity in prayer?

ELON CHAUTAUQUA.

Holy Neck Christian Church, Holland, Va., had the largest delegation at the Elon Chatauqua this year. There were 15 from this church.

The Program Committee for the 1927 session of the Chatauqua is composed of Dr. J. H. Lightbourne, Dr. W. T. Walters, Miss Pattie Coghill, Dr. W. A. Harper and Mr. Hermon Eldredge, the last two being advisory members.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Christian Education held in the Mooney building, on August 2nd, Dr. Walters resigned as president, and Dr. J. H. Lightbourne, was elected Chairman of the Board and automatically became president of the Chatauqua. Dr. Lightbourne is one of the most progressive men in the Southern Christian Convention and a great program builder.

Mr. J. N. Dales, Dean of the Metropolitan Summer School, sent a message of felicitation to the Chatauqua at Elon. He said in part: "We hope for you an increased attendance, a fellowship not only wonderfully fine but forward looking and a multiplied sense of responsibility, not only on the part of pastors and workers, but also

(Continued on page 11.)

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

ONE SNOWY DAY.

'Twas snowing hard. Florence Hart looked out of the window with a very, very sober look.

"I think it's queer," she said to her mother, "for it to be snowing today. I am very much surprised about it."

"Why?" asked her mother.

"Because yesterday at Sabbath School Miss Katherine taught us such a lovely lesson about helping people that are sick or poor or worse off than we are, and today she's going to take all her class to the hospital to see little sick children, and cheer them up some. I suppose the others can go, all but me, because they haven't colds and don't have to mind the weather."

"Poor little Flossie, poor little girl!" said her mother, taking her up in her arms.

"But, mother," said Florence, creeping close to her mother's ear, and whispering in it, "I asked, in my prayers, for it to be a nice day. I mean I said I'd like to help somebody that was poor today, and, of course, it had to be clear, or I couldn't."

Mrs. Hart talked to her a long time, but Florence was not very sure that she understood. At last she said with a sigh: "Well, I guess God must have had a reason not to let me. I guess the right way is just to be as contented as I can to stay at home all day."

In the course of the morning, Mrs. Hobson, who did some sewing for Mrs. Hart, came in for a bundle of work. While Mrs. Hart was getting it ready, she sat and watched Florence.

"What is it you're doing, Miss Florence?" she asked.

"Making paper flowers. I can make all kinds, almost. I've just learned how."

"Well, aren't they pretty?" said Mrs. Hobson, admiringly. "That's a violet you're doing now, and those are roses. Well, I declare."

She was so much interested that Florence began to show her how they were done, and before Mrs. Hart's bundle was ready, they had gone over all the varieties of flowers.

It was almost a month before Florence saw Mrs. Hobson again. Then the broad English face smiled very brightly upon her.

"I must tell you about those paper roses and violets, Miss Florence," she said. "I have a girl at home about like you, maybe a bit bigger. Kitty's her name, and she's a good, handy, helpful girl, if I do say it myself. Poor child! she hasn't ever been strong, on account of her back being so weak; she can't go to school with the rest of the young ones, and the days are very long for her, sometimes. The doctor says she mustn't hold any work that's heavy."

"Is the doctor going to cure her someday?" put in Florence eagerly.

"Yes, please God, he is," said Mrs. Hobson cheerily. She's getting lots better now. He says her being so patient helps the case a good deal. Well, along about a month ago, it seemed as if she was getting discouraged, for all she tried so hard to keep up. She was tired of all she was used to doing. I felt real bad over her that day I saw you making the flowers. But after you showed me how those were done, I bought some paper on the way home and taught it all to Kitty."

"Did she like it?"

"I guess so! She took right to it, and can make them a hundred times better than ever I could. She's taught all the neighbors' children, and they come and sit with her for hours. It's wonderful how it keeps 'em quiet and out of mischief."

"I'm so glad," said Florence. "Isn't it just lovely!"

"There's a lady," Mrs. Hobson went on, "that's getting up some kind of an entertainment with paper flowers in it, and she's going to pay the children for making them for her. Kitty's proud over that. Then there's another lady that's going to bring her car and drive Kitty to the hospital, so that she can teach the poor little suffering things there how to make them, too. Kitty says that is the best part of all."

When Florence had told all that beautiful news to her mother, she added triumphantly:

"So I did help somebody that was poor that very day, even if it did snow. I guess God must have a lot of different ways of answering people's prayers. I guess maybe, sometimes," she went on slowly, "people don't ever know what their answer is till they get to heaven; so they just ought to wait."—Southern Presbyterian.

CHAUTAUQUA NOTES.

(Continued from page 10.)

our young people, to the end that the Christian Church may speedily come into her own as a great leader of religious thought and enterprise in the world."

One of the most interesting features of the Elon Chautauqua was the Young People's Organization. This group met each day from 12 to 12:45 o'clock, with Miss Lucy Eldredge, teacher, for their regular business sessions, discussions and class work. The officers of this organization are: Miss Sarah Norfleet Daughtry, president, Holland, Va.; Lucile Mulholland, secretary, Durham, N. C. The committee chairmen are: Sunday School, Margaret Lawrence, Lynchburg, Va.; Christian Endeavor, Galen Elliott, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Social, Eunice Gourley, Danville, Va.; Missionary, Lillie Horne, Burlington, N. C.

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

15 And call upon me in th
of trouble: I will deliver the
thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges 4.35
(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)

Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.
(Weight 18 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jē-hōi'-ā-kim gave th
silver and the gold to Phār'-aōh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50
(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style
at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

LESSON: John 3: 16-21.

"For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved.

Light is the great revealer. Our attitude toward it betrays our character. If our lives have been stained by some evil thought or deed, we eagerly seek to throw the mantle of darkness about us. The criminal, stealthily escaping from some dastardly deed, flees from the light as his worst enemy.

How differently does the man of sterling character face the light! He fears not for men to know his every deed. He welcomes the light, for he knows that it can but reveal more clearly the integrity of his heart.

We come into a darkened room. Upon a table lie two diamonds, apparently the same in quality and size. Then the room is flooded with light. What a difference we see then! The light reveals glaring imperfections in the one, while the other, faultless in quality, dazzles us with its brilliance. So upon short acquaintance two lives may seem identical. Yet the light of knowledge, which intimacy brings, discloses one character as false; while the other seems more noble for the wearing.

How do you face the light? Do you fear its penetrating rays because of the hidden evils they may disclose, or is your life so founded on truth that you welcome the approval that shall surely come with the light? Rev. Earl Daniels.

Prayer.—That all, from the youngest to the oldest, may be light-bearers, spreading abroad in word and deed the truth of the Gospel.

TUESDAY.

DANGERS OF RELAPSE.

LESSON: Luke 11: 23-36.

"The last state of that man is worse than the first."

This is the story of a man who cleaned house but allowed it to get filthy again—cleaned his thoughts, but turned to wicked thinking again—drove the devil out, but let him in again—soul relapse.

Relapse of sickness is always dangerous, more dangerous than the first sickness. And in no case is this more true than in the field of moral character, where one must fight every inch of the way.

Turning from evil to good the first time is hard, but it is harder to keep good day after day, year after year, and grow steadily in grace and in knowledge of the Lord with increasing ability to stifle bidden yearnings that would lead back to sin, and with courage to press forward in a better light that never grows dim.

Our doctors tell us to take care. You may feel that you are perfectly well, but it will be easy for you to relapse. "Do what I tell you, for the simple reason that a relapse will be worse than the first." This is good advice for our souls. Think of those words as from God.

Prayer.—Our Father, Thou art our good Physician. Give us power to heed Thy warnings, to resist temptations, and to depend upon Thy promises. Keep ever before us that if we are not with Thee, we are against Thee. In His name we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

DANGERS OF SUCCESS.

LESSON: Psalm 106: 13-15.

"He gave them their request; but sent leanness into their soul."

It seems often too true that success is accompanied with a tragedy that is worse than failure. As we strive and seem to win, things get into the saddle and drive us to the devil. A king once showed a guest his beautiful city, and when through the visitor asked, "You have shown me your beautiful city, but where are your men?" A man was showing his friends his new mansion, into which he had moved and was living. When through, his friend asked, "This is beautiful, but where is your altar?"

Jesus says, "Ye tithe annis and cummin, but omit" more important matters. We all are working for comfort and pleasure, but are we working hard at the same time to keep in our lives the groundwork of character? It appears that where we seek luxuries, the loyalties of spirit suffer leanness. Think of the words of the poet:

"Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget."

Prayer.—Our father, keep us this day in the care of Thy spirit. With success give unto us an "eye of singleness to Thy glory." This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

THURSDAY.

THE SECRET OF CHARACTER IN SUCCESS.

LESSON: Psa. 91: 1-4.

"He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High."

Many examples, all of us can recall, of those who have become princes of success and never lost soul, but throughout all temptations kept unspotted from the world. The secret is with the Most High God. One said, "What others think, is no concern of mine. What I think does not matter. What God wills is the whole matter."

To know the source of one's strength, trace his life beyond his business and the places where he thinks and does, and everything he hopes and suffers. Like a fountain with its rainbow colors of blessings, in some secret place the life has a connection with the great supply.

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, teach us day by day and hour by hour to realize the preciousness of Christian graces and the success of Christian living though spent in poverty and misfortune. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY.

OUR GOOD INTENTIONS.

LESSON: Deut. 15: 7, 8, 10, 11.

"Thou shalt not harden thine heart, nor shut thine hand from thy poor brother."

We must not trifle with good intentions. When the time is ripe for putting them into execution, we must not delay. Like molten metal which, when cooled, refuses to flow, so they must at the proper time be translated into terms of good deeds, or they will speedily change into a hardened sort of empty sentimentality that is really good for nothing. There is a season when the seed corn should be planted if it is to grow advantageously. Passing the season by is to hurt the final harvest, and no amount of nurture can really compensate for a failure to choose aright that first planting time

Our good intentions will only continue good when we allow them to express themselves in worthy actions. We can harness electricity and store it up, and use it little by little as we please. We cannot, however, deal with our emotional goodness in the same way. Somehow or other, like food that refuses to be kept, or like an elusive vapor that cannot be bottled up in a container, it either sours or evaporates, or becomes vapid and insipid if held too long. To harden the heart is to shut the hand, and to shut it, not for once, but in all probability for always. A modern poet has stated this matter most aptly and beautifully in these words:

"It is the things we always hold
That we will lose some day;
The only thing we ever keep
Is what we give away."

—Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski.

Closing Prayer (by one of the parents) that we all may strive to faithfully follow the teachings of Jesus, and thus become living testimonies and witness bearers.

SATURDAY.

THAT STILL, SMALL VOICE.

LESSON: I Cor. 14: 9-10.

"There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the world, and none of them is without significance."

Listen to a multitude of people all talking together, and you get a cadence of voices which the Apostle John accurately described "as the sound of many waters." Tune your ear more minutely for the subjects of conversation, and you find how various are the thoughts and opinions of mankind.

Listen to the roar of public opinion and sift out the voices. When times are prosperous, there is a jubilation in the sound, and you catch such words as "dollars," "cents," "hundred," "thousand," "million." That is the voice of Materialism speaking. His voice is not without significance. When times become hard, unemployment universal, and children cry for bread, while luxury is flaunted in the face of the poor, then we hear of "revolution." That, too, is a very significant voice.

These are just a few of the voices of suffering humanity, to which we do well to take heed. Injury breeds disease, and wounds slightly healed are more dangerous than open sores. Shall God speak to us through wind and fire and earthquake, or shall we heed His still, small voice, saying, "Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden, and ye shall find rest unto your souls." He has provided a rest for His people, and when our political, and commercial and social institutions will take His yoke upon them, and learn of Him, we shall find His yoke easy and His burden light. That "still, small voice" is the most significant of all.

—Rev. D. R. Taggart.

Lord's Prayer.—All the Circle joining.

SUNDAY.

A DAY OF SERVICE.

LESSON: I Chron. 28: 9-10.

"Serve him with a perfect heart and a willing mind."

Bishop Vincent in using the illustration of an artist, says:

"The artist's ideal of a noble statue is worth while only as the smitten marble answers to the skilful strokes of his mallet. What he says is nothing. He may have seasons of discouragement, heartache, almost to the point of heartbreak, but he works on." The man with the ideal could not turn aside from his labor of love, "so he keeps

(Continued on page 13.)

EASTERN N. C. S. S. AND C. E. CONVENTION.

(Continued from page 2.)

An open discussion was led by Dr. W. C. Wicker, who suggested that cards be provided for enrollment of all delegates hereafter, in order to obtain a more accurate enrollment and to save time during the convention hour. Dr. W. T. Walters suggested that the various churches pledge themselves to organize at least one new C. E. Society during the coming year, being ever mindful of the fact that our aim should be "A Sunday School and a Christian Endeavor Society in every church in the bounds of our conference. These subjects were freely discussed, with the aim of solving the problem of working out a practical way for the extension of Christian Endeavor organization.

At this time Dr. J. O. Atkinson and Mr. Chas. D. Johnston were introduced and on motion made deliberative members. Both expressed their appreciation of the opportunity of being present.

The convention then adjourned for lunch.

Rev. J. E. Franks led the afternoon devotional service, in keeping with the convention text, "Let us rise up and build." His theme was, "The Life of Paul." Brother Franks spoke of the man with a purpose, Paul, born of the tribe of Benjamin, Hebrew of the Hebrews. He was one who trained and equipped himself with the best education possible. He learned a trade to provide for himself and be a blessing to others, with a rounded purpose in view. While Paul persecuted the Church, he thought it was God's will. After his conversion, he was a changed man, but still had a strong purpose, therefore having proved that he had had a born again experience which fitted him for life's mission. The only foundation upon which a Christian life can be erected is Jesus.

It was voted that Rev. Chas. Howard be seated as a member of the convention. He delighted the convention with an address: "The Vision of Jesus." Look up and see the fields white unto harvest. The challenge of our Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor Societies, to train workers for real service, that will be acceptable unto Jesus, our Lord. This address was an outstanding feature of the convention.

The aims of the North Carolina Christian Endeavor Union were presented by Mr. Galen Elliott, and it was moved and carried that the convention ratify the Union as applied to the Christian Church.

Miss Pattie Coghill presented in a very practical way the purpose and plans of the Chautauqua and School of Methods. The convention then had a great treat in the form of thirty minutes of old time, spirit-filled Gospel singing, under the direction of Mr. McCullers. Rev. J. E. Franks for devotional service continued a brief sketch of Paul's life. We were shown in his discussion the growth of Paul in service, his ardent persevering spirit, and the rounding out of all his missionary journeys. This with the writing of the thirteen epistles was all the result of a full surrender of his life to God.

Mr. Chas. D. Johnston presented the work of the Orphanage in a very pathetic way and an offering was taken for the same.

Dr. J. O. Atkinson spoke briefly on "The Expanding Power of Christ." In his great and marvelous way, he gave us a mental picture, showing why we have not grown as a church. May we remember that the mission of our Lord's Christ was to reach out and help others. That is the work left here for us to carry on. How can we sit at ease in Zion while millions are needing our help, our Christ, yet we see them perish. May we catch a vision of Jesus and see the fields white but the laborers few.

On Thursday A. M., Wake Chapel gave a delightful and instructive demonstration program of what the Junior Sunday School boys and girls are doing. So many boys taking part caused much praise. Mr. Franks was so much impressed with these boys that he offers $5.00 for each Junior

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

class that will have as many boys as girls, that will take active part as these did. This money is to be donated to Dr. Atkinson for missions. Boys, get busy and let's swell the mission fund. I assure you that in so doing you will make at least three happy, Dr. Atkinson, Rev. J. E. Franks, and Jesus.

Next came the president's address. Rev. J. Fuller Johnson spoke in a very enthusiastic way, yet said that he was humiliated that so many who were supposed to be on the program should be absent. Mr. Johnson spoke in behalf of the incoming president and of the secretary, and asked the support of the churches in helping to make the coming year a success.

After refreshments were served, the convention assembled in final session.

Devotionals were led by Rev. J. E. Franks, who read Romans 8:1-17, showing that Paul had the spirit of God bearing witness with him. Mr. Franks told of the impossibility to train or teach one Christianity, for all must have the experience of being "born again," if they would gain eternal life and become builders for God.

The people at Wake Chapel entertained the convention in a very hospitable way. This is the home church of Rev. J. Lee Johnson, and many there have caught his spirit of kindness and love towards all.

THE PHILADELPHIA SESQUICENTENNIAL.

BY REV. WM. S. CAMPBELL, D. D.
Southern Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of the U. S.

For some weeks there has been held in Philadelphia, Pa., an exposition commemorating the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the United States Constitution. People generally all over this country commended the Philadelphia people for taking the lead and making possible such a celebration. In order to gain the good will of the best class of people and to gain financial support, the Board of Directors made a very clear and positive promise as to what they proposed to do: one of these promises was that the exposition would not be opened on Sunday. After getting all the support they could, and getting as many people and organizations interested in the exposition as possible, the Board of Directors went squarely back on its promise in regard to opening the exhibition on Sunday.

The United States Government appropriated $2,000,000 and the State of Pennsylvania appropriated $750,000 to aid in making this exposition possible. The act of the Pennsylvania legislature in appropriating this money included this clause, "The Sesqui-Centennial shall be conducted in strict conformity with the existing law governing Sunday Observance." The legislature supposed that that action sufficiently safeguarded the proper observance of Sunday, for the law of Pennsylvania is very clear and strong on the subject, and has been on the Statute Books of that State since 1794. A number of religious organizations agreed to make exhibitions of their work at the exposition, based on the promise that it would be closed on Sunday. A number of these have withdrawn their exhibits.

Appeals have been made to the Board of Directors, the president of which is W. Freeland Kendrick, who is Mayor of Philadelphia. Appeals have also been made to Governor Clifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, asking him to use his authority as Governor to see that the law is enforced. He has taken the position that he has no jurisdiction in the case, but some of the ablest lawyers of the State say there is no question of his having the authority if he will use it. He has ordered that the State building and its exhibit shall be closed on that day.

One fact that ought to be kept in mind is that the opening of the exposition compels the working of 4,300 employees on that day.

Christian people all over the land should enter their protests against this desecration of the Lord's day. Every citizen in the United States is concerned in this matter because the Exposition claims to represent the whole country.

Good railroad transportation is cheap

POOOR railroad transportation, with its attendant delays and uncertainties, is expensive and wasteful, irrespective of the charges for it. All shippers know that.

On the other hand, regular and dependable service greatly assists the economical operation of industry. All shippers know this, too.

Thus the cost to the purchaser of railroad service must be measured as much by the quality of the service as by the actual charge in dollars and cents.

But even the actual dollar and cent calculation of railroad charges shows how cheap service on the Southern Railway System is in relation to other things. The cost of almost everything has increased about 70 per cent in the last decade, but the average freight charges on the Southern have increased only 35 per cent.

In relation to the cost of other things, transportation on the Southern is cheap. And when measured by the quality of service rendered, it is one of the cheapest things that can be bought today.

"There are three things which make a nation great and powerful—a fertile soil, busy workshops and easy conveyance for man and goods from place to place."—LORD BACON

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year $ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

LITTLE BROTHER.

Little Brother, little Brother,
Let me hold a light,
That you may see the safest path
To follow through the night.

The mire of sin, O Brother mine,
Is close beside the trail.
Come, take my hand that I may guide
You through this treacherous vale.

Dear God, I pray, as I walk on
Adown Life's dim lit way,
The footprints left for him to see
Will ne'er lead him astray.

But on and on toward Thy Throne
In one unbroken line,
A challenge to the good in him,
A monument to mine.

JOSEPH HOSKINS, Jr.

People's Christian Church,
Dover, Del.

OBITUARIES.

STOUT.

Mrs Emily Bray Stout was born on March 28, 1844, in Randolph County, and die July 5, 1926, aged 82 years, 4 months and 23 days. She was married April 14, 1861 to C. N. Stout, who preceded her in death several years. She is survived by three sons: J. C., W. C. and J. W. Stout, all of Runseur, N. C. Two of her children preceded her some years in death. These were Mrs. A. E. Fardin and her youngest son, Everett. She has one brother living, Mr. T. B. Bray of Chatham County. She has 13 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren. She was buried at Parks' Cross Roads, beside her husband, where she had belonged to church for more than fifty years.

Another good woman has gone to her reward, and may her loved ones strive to emulate her example that they may meet in the sweet after-while, where partings are unknown.

Burial services by the writer.

T. J. GREEN.

SANDERS.

Dora Alice Sheffield, wife of Elzevan Sanders, was born June 24, 1924, and died June 28, 1926, aged 22 years and 3 days. She leaves a husband and small daughter, also a father and mother and one brother to mourn their loss.

She was a true and faithful member of Brown's Chapel Christian Church, from which place the funeral was conducted by the writer. May the Lord bless the bereaved.

W. C. MARTIN.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 6 1/4 inches. ... $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/4 inches thick... $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

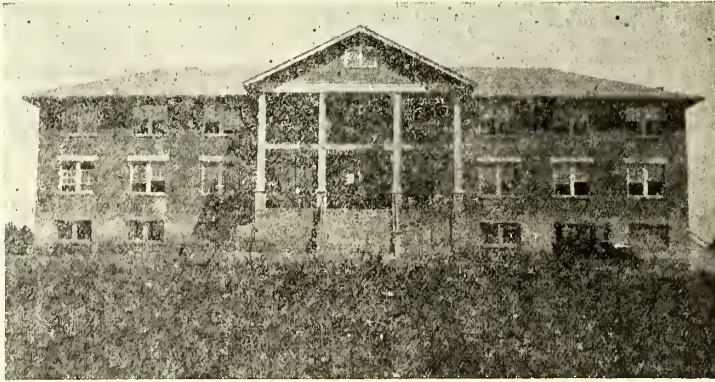

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address
THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN

PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.
Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto himself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearest Print in Smallest Size
4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles .60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges..... .70

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms $1.10 included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes
2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title, round corners, red under gold edges .85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1926.

NUMBER 33.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Ford to Build Airplanes.—

Henry Ford, it is believed, has perfected a plane which can be made successful commercially. His son, Edsel, has visited President Coolidge at White Pine Camp and discussed the matter with him. It has been demonstrated that this plane can carry a ton of freight at a cost of approximately 14 cents a mile.

More Letters from Dickens.—

Eighty letters from Charles Dickens to Mark Lemon, the first editor of "Punch," have just passed out of the possession of the Lemon family into the hands of Gabriel Wells, a well known book seller, and have been brought to New York. The letters reveal interesting traits in Dickens's character, and throw light on the friendship between the great novelist and the editor of "Punch." It is a most interesting collection, and highly prized.

A Convict Thinks Right.—

Not long ago William V. Dwyer, sportsman, race track owner, and head of a forty million dollar liquor concern, was convicted along with his pay-off man, E. C. Cohron, of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. He was given a sentence of a ten thousand dollar fine and two years in prison. After the trial, he was asked by United States Attorney, Emory R. Buckner, if he thought he had received a square deal. "Positively," he told the attorney. The next morning he distributed oranges among his fellow prisoners in the Tombs, who referred to him as a square, generous fellow. We can say one thing for him, he certainly thought right about his sentence.

Southern Buys More Rail.—

Bringing its total purchases of new rail for 1926 to 107,400 tons, the Southern railway System has just purchased 16,000 tons of 100-pound rail to be rolled at the Ensley, Alabama, plant of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, and delivered before the close of the year, which will enable it to advance its program for laying 100-pound rails by 100 miles. The rail just purchased will be laid between Atlanta and Charlotte, in the double-track Washington-Atlanta line. The 1926 program calls for the completion of the lines between Washington and Charlotte and the laying of sixty miles of 100-pound rail on the northbound line between Charlotte and Atlanta. The entire line is to be relaid with 100-pound rail before the expiration of 1927. The 85-pound rail released will be used on other lines which are now equipped with rail of lighter section.

Automobile Accidents.—

According to figures issued in New York State, there were 47,128 accidents in that State last year. In these automobile crashes, 1981 persons were killed and 54,398 injured. 58,444 vehicles were involved in these accidents and 30,811 pedestrians figured in them also. Commenting on the causes of accidents, the Scientific American declared that if people would stop "jay-walking," if children would not play in the street, if young men would get out of the parlors, and if the eighteenth amendment were obeyed, there would be far fewer accidents involving automobiles. Pleasure cars were twice as destructive as business vehicles. Saturday was death day, Sunday a close second, Friday stood third in the number of accidents, and Tuesday was the safest day to go abroad in New York State during 1925.

Korea Punishes Missionary.—

The courts of Korea have sentenced C. A. Haysmeir, a Seventh Day Adventist missionary, to three years' imprisonment for painting the word "thief" across the cheek of a little boy who had sinned. The painting was done with silver nitrate, and is permanent. This act of their missionary was deeply deplored by the Seventh Day Adventists, and has caused a furor of resentment throughout Asia. The Seventh Day Adventists are a sect who believe that from Friday at Sunset to Saturday at Sunset is the Sabbath, and ought to be sacredly kept. While they have no creed, they preach new doctrines, and are most fundamental among fundamentalists. They accept in full the historic doctrines of the church. Among the evangelical denominations, the Seventh Day Adventists are most strong doctrinally. It is safe to say that the church promptly dismissed Mr. Haysmeir from its service.

Religious Foundations Surprised.—

Not long ago a courtly document written out in long hand on glazed paper was filed in a New York court. It was the will of Cleveland H. Dodge. Mr. Dodge gave liberally to religious causes, and many foundations awaited anxiously the reading of his will, believing that so liberal a man living would be even more liberal dead. He was not. His will declared that he believed in giving to religious and charitable causes while he lived, and then proceeded to bestow the estate of twenty million dollars on his family and friends and servants. To Cleveland Earl Dodge he passed on five thousand dollars left by his grandfather for the purpose of spreading the gospel, as a sacred trust to be used for that purpose. Mr. Dodge was a friend of Woodrow Wilson and backed him in his two campaigns for the presidency. His son is president of Beirut University, which began as a missionary enterprise and to which Mr. Dodge has given liberally until now it is one of the well known universities of the world. It is estimated that during his life time Mr. Dodge gave away approximately forty million dollars.

George Inness Dies.—

George Innes, Jr., died recently at Cragmoor, N. Y. He was one of the minor painters of his time, but his death has received considerable notice because of his father's memory having been recalled by it. Inness senior was the greatest landscape painter who has painted on this side of the Atlantic. Inness, Jr., as the recently deceased artist signed himself, was a good painter, but was not so able as his father. The father had many peculiarities, and worked feverishly at quiet landscapes. It was said of him that if he had been capable of instruction he might have been the greatest landscape painter of any time or any people. The picture, "The Only Hope," by Inness, Jr., received more public notice than any other perhaps, because it set the New York Chamber of Commerce to simmering. One of the chambermen wished to send the picture on a tour as a tract, but others insisted that the picture of a pale Christ above a shrapnel spattered court would be an insult to the Jews. Business men and preachers discussed the picture. The critics were silent regarding it. The Metropolitan galleries bought one of Inness, Jr.'s pictures, and he received one medal.

Woman Swims English Channel.—

Gertrude Ederle swam the English Channel recently, being the first woman to swim the channel and breaking every record made by male swimmers. Miss Ederle swam across from France to England in fourteen hours and thirty-one minutes. The previous record was that of the Italian swimmer, Sebastian Tiraboschi, who swam the channel in 1923 in sixteen hours and twenty-five minutes. Miss Ederle is only nineteen years old. Her successful conquest of the channel came just fifty-one years after the first swimmer made it across. T. W. Burgess first swam the channel, and it was he who has coached Miss Ederle for her remarkable swim. The effort did not seem to have exhausted the young swimmer and she left the water fourteen hours and thirty-one minutes after entering it, comparatively fresh. Great throngs welcomed her to the English shore, and she walked up the beach in the red glare of great bonfires. "I am a proud woman," was Miss Ederle's only comment on the remarkable swim she had just enjoyed. Her mother remarked, "I am a proud mother," almost the words of her daughter. Miss Ederle made an unsuccessful attempt to swim the channel last year.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Dr. W. A. Harper of Elon College, was the speaker at the 11 o'clock service of our Raleigh church last Sunday.

The first of our Southern Conferences for 1926, the Virginia Valley, is in session this week at Linville, Va. The superintendent of the Orphanage, Brother C. D. Johnston, and the Mission secretary, J. O. Atkinson, are in attendance.

The Raleigh News and Observer, August 14th, carries a cut of Dr. W. C. Wicker of Elon College, N. C., and a report of what it terms a "great educational address" before a large audience of Masons and their friends on Friday, 13th, in Lee County, N. C.

The Men's Bible Class of Florence, S. C., is featuring Dr. D. A. Long as teacher and lecturer, he having been invited to give eight lectures before the class in the First Baptist Church of that city. The Florence Daily News of August 13th carries a display advertisement of the lecturer and his lectures.

Rev. G. H. Veazey, Wadley, Ala., who enters Elon College on September 1st, writes interestingly of a recent visit to Louisiana, where he and many others feel that we should be planting and building churches. There seems to be an inviting and promising field for our Christian message and principles.

A recent study and survey revealed the fact that 27 per cent of the white prisoners and 43 per cent of the negro prisoners in North Carolina are members of some church—or were at the time of their incarceration. Forty-five per cent of the State's population, as a whole, above the age of ten years, are church members.

Rev. H. C. Caviness, Evangelist, Cary, N. C., was a pleasant visitor at Elon a few hours recently. He is busy these weeks in revival meetings, being this week at Clayton, N. C., with Pastor J. E. Franks. Brother Caviness reports very successful revivals among the churches, being especially happy over the one just closed with Mt. Zion Church, near Sanford, N. C., in which the whole community became greatly interested and were greatly edified.

Rev. M. T. Sorrell is giving up his present work at Fancy Gap, Va., to re-enter Elon College, September 1st, as a student, where he hopes to remain till his college course is finished. Bro. Sorrell has labored faithfully and efficiently in Carroll County as a leader in our work there, and as beloved pastor at Elk Spur and Rocky Ford churches. And his good wife has been a very valuable helper and much of the time an efficient teacher in the Elk Spur school.

Rev. W. D. Howsare, executive secretary of the department of Evangelism and Life Service, Dayton, Ohio, has sent out a call to prayer for our General Convention which meets at Urbana, Ill., October 20, 1926. "A great program has been prepared and difficult problems confront the convention. Will you not join with your brethren in earnest daily prayer that the convention may be a veritable pentecostal season—a time of confession, deeper consecration, spiritual uplift, and great vision concerning the Kingdom of God." This is a timely call and one that should be heard and heeded in all quarters.

A minister in a certain town in Alabama took permanent leave of his congregation in the following manner: Brothers and sisters, I come to say good-bye. I don't think God loves this church, because none of you ever die. I don't think you love each other, because I never marry any of you. I don't think you love me, because you have not paid my salary. Your donations are mchdy fruits and wormy apples, and 'by their fruits ye shall know them.' Brethren, I am going away to a better place. I have been called to be chaplain of a penitentiary, 'Where I go ye cannot come, but I go to prepare a place for you,' and may the Lord have mercy on your souls. Good-bye."—Exchange.

Editor Johnson of The Biblical Recorder, Raleigh, N. C., notes the fact that the Baptists are losing an alarming number of rural churches in that State, and The Christian Index of Atlanta, Ga., speaking for the Baptists of Georgia, says the same is true in that State. The cause assigned is the increasing number of people leaving the country for the city, and the shifting of population. In many instances, as surveys made by the Baptists reveal, there have been mergers of weaker churches into one stronger church, in order to maintain regular preaching, and a working program. The "rural church problem" is a problem all right in many localities, especially to those pastors and people whose eyes are open to the real situation.

In a Western journal the following appeared, half in jest it may be, but sound in sense. Need THE SUN apologize for using the clipping in its columns?

"If you have frequent fainting spells, accompanied by chills, cramps, corns, bunions, chilblains, epilepsy and jaundice, it is a sure sign that you are not well, but liable to die at any moment. Pay your subscription in advance and thus make yourself solid for a good obituary notice."

In response to an editorial in THE SUN recently about the O'Kelly Memorial on the campus at Elon College, and a cut of the proposed memorial, Mrs. J. H. McNeill, Nederland, Texas, sent $5.00. The Editor of THE SUN is treasurer of the committee on the Old Lebanon and the O'Kelly Memorials, and will gladly receive and acknowledge in THE SUN any amounts sent in. So far we have received and now have in bank, $110.75. The committee consists of Judge J. F. West, Waverly, Va., chairman; Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, Durham, N. C., secretary; W. E. MacClenny, Suffolk, Va., historian; and J. O. Atkinson, treasurer, Elon College, N. C. This committee has decided upon plans, specifications, and contracts for both memorials, and the same have been approved by the Southern Christian Convention. It now only needs that funds be sent in so that this long delayed work may be done properly and promptly.

It is simply joyful to be editor of a church paper especially if that church paper be THE CHRISTIAN SUN. We want our pastors to remember this and to know that they are not the "only pebbles on the beach" even if they do shine most after and most brilliantly in royal "poundings." Comes a letter from good friend R. G. Ferrall, Aberdeen, N. C., "By this express am sending you a crate of peaches." Well now that sounds. But those peaches! This scribe was not aware that such fruit grew this side of the equator—or on the other side either as for that—the largest, most luscious, the most colorful, the most wonderful, his eyes had ever beheld or his tongue had touched. Only editors of church papers receive peaches like those, and only friends like Brother Farrell can give such peaches like those, and only the sand-hills of North Carolina can grow such fruit. Moral! It is wonderful to be editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, and no candidate need apply for the job as long as the memory of those peaches abides with this grateful scribe.

EASTERN VIRGINIA CONVENTION.

It is now two months and "teen" days before the Eastern Virginia Conference will meet in annual session with the Webster Community Church near Havre de Grace, Maryland. But it is none too soon for churches to be thinking about delegates and delegates about attending.

On Monday, August 9th, the Program Committee met at Murphy's Hotel, Richmond, and drafted a tentative program for the 1926 session. The Committee also talked over and agreed upon a promotional program to arouse interest in and accomplish attendance on the Webster session. This is the first of a series of news articles in regard to the Conference.

The first thing that appealed to the Committee was this, namely, it is not any farther from Tidewater Virginia to Webster than it is from Webster to Tidewater Virginia. It follows that it is not any more expensive and that it is just as reasonable for Webster to expect delegates from Tidewater as it is for Tidewater to expect delegates from Webster. And we would call attention to the fact that Webster has always been represented at the Conference sessions since joining the Conference.

Webster is 208 miles from Richmond. At the time of our Conference session, it is very likely there will be concrete from Richmond to Fredericksburg, but on Monday, August 9th, Rev. M. W. Sutcliffe and family left Webster at 5:20 A. M. and arrived at Richmond at 2 P. M. Mr. Sutcliffe stated that unless it was while coasting down hills they did not drive faster than twenty-five miles an hour, and made five brief stops.

Webster can also be reached by going to Baltimore from Norfolk by boat and taking the Pennsylvania Railroad from Baltimore to Havre de Grace, where automobiles will meet the delegates. Delegates going by this route will reach Webster by 9 A. M.

The Norfolk & Western train leaving Norfolk at 9 A. M., Suffolk at 9:31 A. M., connecting at Petersburg with the local from Windsor, Wakefield, Ivor and Waverly at 10:53 A. M., and leaving Richmond at 12:01 noon, will place delegates at Havre de Grace at 5:44 P. M.

Since Webster is only a three or four hour drive from Philadelphia, it is suggested by Rev. M. W. Sutcliffe that delegates driving through the country can well plan to visit the Sesqui-centennial Exposition.

The Program Committee has planned for a Welcome Service of Fellowship on Monday night, November 1st, and for a Missionary Pageant by the Webster Young People for Thursday night, November 4th.

These instructions and more in detail will be published again in THE SUN.

J. H. LIGHTBOURNE,
Member of Committee.

HOLLAND—THIRD QUARTER.

First.—The weather at the first of this quarter was little if any better than during the quarter preceding it. April was unseasonably cool, notwithstanding official reports to the contrary.

Second.—On Monday night, April 26th, the Ladies' Aid Society had as their visitors for their business and social meeting, Mrs. M. L. Bryant and Rev. J. G. Truitt, of the First Church, Norfolk. Brother Truitt conducted the devotional period and made a short talk on "Long Arms."

Third.—The Easter offering from the Sunday School for the Elon Christian Orphanage amounted to $65, an increase over last year.

Fourth.—The Ladies' Aid Society has taken over the decorating of the church and has adopted a plan of memorial flowers, which not only results in securing decorations for the church, but also provides an opportunity for the families of the church to honor their dead.

Fifth.—During the quarter the pastor was in attendance at the Durham session of the Southern Christian Convention.

Sixth.—The pastor was called on during the quarter for twelve special addresses; three of these being upon the subject of Church Finance.

Seventh.—During the quarter one thousand and seventy-three attended six night services, but one of these services was the bacalaureate service of the Holland Consolidated High School. Two hundred fifty-five attended twelve prayer services.

Eighth.—Benevolent giving during the quarter amounted to $154.80, and for the year to date, $1,864.50. Since this is only $135.50 short of our goal of $2,000 for the year, it is quite apparent we will attain the goal.

Ninth.—During the quarter death has twice visited our membership, the deceased being Mr. J. M. Holland and Mrs. W. Q. Peele.

Tenth.—Among activities planned for the fourth quarter are attendance at the Elon Summer School by delegation and co-operation with Holy Neck Sunday School in a Daily Vacation Bible School. J. H. L.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Alabama Conference will meet with the Church at Bethany on Tuesday, October 11, 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M. G. D. Hunt, President; E. M. Carter, Secretary.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 1, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 15, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church Tuesday, November 22, 1926. G. O. Lanford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 7, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter06
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.
Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 11-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 11-8 Inches Thick.
2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $6.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 1/2 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.
red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps $2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools $2.50

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold $1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold $3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold $2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.
112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.
Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 13-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold $3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1936 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

C. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

FINANCING THE CHURCH.

The Southern Christian Convention in session at Durham, N. C., in April, found itself face to face with a most momentous problem. The period for collecting Men and Millions was practically over, and little further income could be expected of that source. Standardization pledges to the College, special individual pledges to Missions, and other pledges on a five year basis, had run the limit and had served their purposes. All of these gave impetus to the work and enabled the Church to go forward in its benevolent and missionary activities.

Here is the question the convention faced: What can now be done to take the place of all these pledges, and the income from these various sources, which income can no longer be expected? All in the convention, and the whole Church as for that, realized that we Christians never have hurt ourselves with too liberal offerings to the Church, and are not likely to do so. What method can be adopted to cause our people to be more liberal in the support of the enterprises of the Church, and what steps must be taken to take the place of the five-year program, with its increased income, which was now complete?

This was not only a question for the convention, but it is a question that must confront every conference this fall, and every local church the coming year. Shall we retrench from work already undertaken and a program already inadequate? Or shall we go forward? Shall our people be confronted with the fact that our liberality should increase and not decrease, and that our loyalty to the Church and its enterprises must be maintained if the Church which we love is to go forward with its great work.

The plan adopted at the convention as now interpreted is, that we undertake in the immediate future and for the next few years to raise for all our conventional institutions and enterprises a total of $150,000. The conferences, we believe, have voted already to raise by "apportionment" a total of $25,000. This "apportionment" is already agreed upon by the conferences and the churches. The further question, however, of deep concern was the raising of the other $125,000. It was found that much of this is provided for and in the way of collection through Missionary Societies, through offerings of Sunday Schools to the Orphanage and to Missions, and through the Thanksgiving offering to the Orphanage, and by individual gifts to Colleges. These items, with organizations already operating, will reach a total of $50,000, estimated. This would leave a balance of $75,000 to be provided for. It is well known that some of the churches in the conferences prefer a budget of all amounts to be raised, while other churches prefer special offerings for specific purposes. On this account, it was deemed wise, through the budget commission, to put the matter up to the conferences through which the method is to be carried to and left with the local church. The local church is the key to, and has the last word in, any financial situation, or problem, in the Christian Church. There is no doubt but that many churches, when they have opportunity of voting, will decide to adopt and employ the absolute budget system, thus knowing at the beginning of the Church year just how much their local church is expected to contribute. Then they will proceed in their own way to the effort of raising this amount. There is no doubt, on the other hand, but that many local churches will prefer giving free will offerings during the year to the support of the enterprises and institutions of the Church, knowing exactly where their money will go and for what purpose. For the convenience both of education and of the local churches that will prefer special offerings, a Church Calendar Year has been provided, namely:

January, February—Colleges;
March, April, May, June—Missions;
July, Aug., Sept., Oct.—Christian Education;

November, December—Christian Orphanage. During the period thus designated, the educational work is to be carried on by a committee elected by the convention, and this committee is to assist in every way possible in making whatever plans the Church may adopt effectual and workable.

This at any rate will carry the matter to and leave it with the local church, and the convention made an honest and, we think, a sincere effort to provide a plan that will work in all the churches and a plan which it is believed will mean larger resources for the enterprises of the Church. This all of us know. If such a plan was not adopted, it should have been and the convention felt that it had adopted some such plan. Let us hope and believe the same will work out, since it is absolutely essential that the spirit of liberality be cultivated in our churches and that we as a people be taught to give more willingly and abundantly to the support of the Kingdom as represented through our Church.

THE HEART OF A BOY.

I have never seen the heart of a boy, but I know what it contains, from intimate and inspiring association with boys. Here is what I have learned about the ingredients of the boy heart:

The boy is open-minded. There is more hope of a fool than of a man with a closed mind.

The boy is broad-minded. No sensible man locks the door of his mental life against truth and enlightenment from any source.

The boy is courageous. The battles of the world have been won by boys. They are afraid of nothing, and all that is needed to secure whole-hearted devotion for any cause from them is the conviction that the cause is right.

The boy is confident. The world's pioneers and explorers in every realm of experience have been young men. "He can who thinks he can" is the motto of confident youth.

The boy is energetic. Energy is his middle name. During the world war, he said to his comrades: "Come on and let's go." And now that the war is over, his exhortation to his associates is to "Carry on."

The boy is loyal. Boys all like Mr. Jiggs because he is loyal to his old friends. The loyalty of a boy to his friends and to the things he presumes to be right has never been successfully impeached.

The boy is enthusiastic. He is one hundred per cent solid for the thing he believes in. He despises half-way measures and pussy-footing.

The boy is altruistic. It is true that he is self-centered, but this is far from selfishness. His chief thought is for others.

The boy is faced toward the future. He is not interested in history, nor how things have come to be, but he is tremendously interested in what is going to take place. He is the prophet always of the new time.

The boy is optimistic. He always believes the best and hopes for steady improvement. The pessimistic spirit is anathema to his mind and heart.

The boy is determined to be prepared. He knows that preparation is necessary in order to make his life count and that is his chief aspiration.

The boy is frank, open and above-board. He has no concealments. He lets you know exactly how he feels. Boys are much criticized for their frankness by those who do not understand them, but properly understood, this quality of their life is one of their most engaging charms.

The boy is restive. He is inclined to resent authority and is an avowed opponent of rules and regulations. It is necessary to interpret to him the necessity of law and order, and, when this interpretation has been given him, his open-mindedness and broad-mindedness and other engaging qualities will make of him a most loyal and devoted citizen.

The boy is co-operative. The gang spirit appeals to him. He doesn't wish things done for him, but he loves to do things with people. He has in him a genuine spirit of brotherhood and fellowship which are the basic qualities of the Christian life.

The boy is reverent—reverent in his own way. His reverence is not based on fear, but on love of the right, and he thinks of God not as a policeman but as a friend and companion. His reverence issues in action, in conduct, in life.

These fifteen points of youth which I have just enumerated constitute the heart life of the modern boy. I agree with Paul when he admonished Timothy that no man should despise the days of his youth, and I also agree with that other fine sentiment from the scriptures that out of the heart are the issues of life. I think we need to have no fear for the future of our country, nor of the world and its institutions, so long as the world's young life is enriched and bejeweled with these fifteen engaging charms of which I have spoken.

However, these constituent elements of the boy's heart need to be organized and integrated one with another, just as the chemical elements that constitute the human body, fifteen in number, have been integrated into what we call the "human body." We know for instance that a boy weighing one hundred and fifty pounds will contain

9,000 gallons of oxygen,
21,000 gallons of hydrogen,
450 gallons of nitrogen,
9 gallons of chlorine.

In addition to these gasses, he will contain the following minerals or solids:

Carbon, 27 pounds,
Calcium, 3 pounds,
Phosphorus, 1½ pounds,
Potassium, 8½ ounces,
Sulphur, 6 ounces,
Sodium, 3.7 ounces,
Magnesium, 1.3 ounces,
Iron, 1 ounce, and
Iodine, silicon, and flourine, a trace.

It would appear from this list of our material contents that we are not frightfully and wonderfully made, but simply in the extreme. What makes these simple elements the powerful influence they are in the world is their organization into the human body, and the spirit, a spark of the Divine, that dwells in that body.

Those engaging charms of youth, likewise fifteen in number, must be organized according to certain principles and related to active life in order for the boy to become the man he ought to be. I will speak briefly of six of the great basic principles which must enter into the life creed of a boy in order for his life to count materially in the service of human life.

The basis of living, the foundation upon which the boy must erect the superstructure of his life, is faith. In the business world, we call faith "credit." In personal relations we call it "confidence in our fellowmen." In the religious life we call it "faith." Life is dead so far as achievement is concerned without faith.

The motive of life is service. This appeals to the boy heart. It is easy for him to think of himself as the servant of others. The daily good turn of the boy scout is but the perpetuation in an organization of the innate spirit and desire of youth.

The life's method is co-operation. There are those who would have us think that competition is the life of trade and that we rise to higher things by crushing out our competitors in the race. The very opposite is true. The boy who acts upon the principle of co-operation and team play will achieve a notable distinction through his life's endeavor.

The law of life is the Golden Rule, not mechanically applied, but lived in terms of sacrifice. Not only should this rule be understood to mean "doing unto others what you would that they should do to you," but doing unto others what duty tinged with love would indicate as the proper course of action.

The life spirit should be hopeful and optimistic. The world's pessimists have never achieved any notable contribution in the service of humanity. "Smile and the world smiles with you." That is the spirit in which life should be lived.

And the goal of life is character. Character is life. It is habit expressing itself in conduct, but Christian character is the kind of life that the noblest man who has ever lived would have His followers exhibit in their relations with one another. In business in our day, character is the goal striven for, character is the product, character in those who are served by it. We should rejoice that we have come to a day like this when Christian character is dominating the basis of business life as well as of personal living.

Let us give thanks for the heart of the boy, with its fifteen engaging charms. Let us give thanks for the body of the boy compounded of fifteen natural elements and materials, but let us most of all give thanks for the life of the boy organized around the principle that shall issue in success and blessing for the world; with faith as the basis; with service as the motive; with co-operation as the method; with the golden rule as the law; with optimism as the spirit; and with Christian character as the ultimate goal of achievement.

W. A. H.

THE SAFEST INVESTMENT.

When a person becomes sorry for the sins of his past, and aspires to live a better life, he that moment stands upon the threshold of a new world. No person can be a Christian until he passes through that very definite experience of sorrow for the sins of the past, and aspiration for a better life in the future.

But in order to realize his aspirations, he must of necessity invest his ideals, his purposes, his thoughts, his emotions, his will power, his personality, his very life—what he is and what he has—he must invest it all in the faith of the Son of God, Jesus Christ, the world's Saviour and Lord.

Some men prefer to invest their thoughts, their power, their personality, their lives in the interest of self. And to all such, life spells failure; it spells disappointment; it spells remorse. There is absolutely nothing secure but the promises of God.

A man may plan and build for himself and family a beautiful home—the which is a perfectly worthy and noble ambition for any man to have—"a home of his own." But if a man thinks only about himself and his home down here, and nothing about God and his home over there, he is cheating himself. He is speculating with the immortal capacities of the soul for mere material uncertainties. The home may take red wings and fly away in a single night, leaving nothing but a heap of ashes as a testimony to the folly of men who build for time only, and not for eternity. Wise is the man who makes the most out of his opportunities for the material comforts of life, but who allows the comforts of his home life to make him think of the God who made those blessings possible, and of "the house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." Wise is the man who invests his life in the cause of Christ down here in order to secure title to the mansion in the skies. Such a man, instead of dealing only in the uncertainties of earth, is dealing also in the certainties of heaven.

Christian Faith demands an investment of one's time. A person cannot expect to receive the dividends of benefit Christianity offers or the rewards for Christian living unless he is willing to invest a reasonable amount of time in attending divine worship, and in engaging himself in tasks of definite Christian service. It demands an investment of thought—to think about God so as to have right ideas about God. One of the greatest hindrances to Christian progress is the fact that so many people do not have the right idea about God—His character, His word, His will—what God desires His children to do. It demands an investment of a portion of one's material possessions, a recognition of the obligation of stewardship. It demands an investment of prayer—petitioning the throne of grace. It demands an investment of love—love for God and love for mankind. And any person who makes such an investment as this in Christian Faith is sure to receive the divine dividends of joy and peace in the present, and eternal life in the world to come. His reward will be given him both now and hereafter.

Christianity is for the present, just as well as for the future. It promises its rewards in the present as truly as it does for the future. The common criticism of the church has been that "it lays too much emphasis on the future life, and is not concerned enough about the present." That may have been true in the remote past, but it is no longer true of the church in general. Jesus himself laid the major emphasis on the present. His religion was for men to live by. There may be individual Christians today who lay more emphasis on the rewards awaiting the faithful in the life beyond, than on the rewards for Christian living in the present, but the message of the modern pulpit is concerned primarily with the present life. It seeks to make plain what Christian faith means here in this life, and shows the rewards it offers in the here and now.

It may be that the note of reward for Christian living has been dropped from many of our pulpits, and that fact partially explains the indifference of the world to the message. We have sought to meet the world on a higher plain of appeal, and have spoken about the great opportunities of service for Christ and humanity, all of which is well and good and perfectly proper, when we are talking to the people who have already responded to the call of Christ. But such an appeal has little meaning to that great army of men and women, boys and girls, who are outside the circle of the church, but occasionally attend its services. We need to sound again the note of the rewards God gives to men in response to their loyalty to His Son and His church. Jesus made much of the rewards for Christian living, and likewise should we ministers today.

It not only pays a man in spiritual blessings to be a Christian, but it pays him in material blessings, and in intellectual and social satisfactions also. In the long run, the Christian business man of equal intelligence will prosper more than the non-Christian business man. Christianity helps a man in his business life. It helps a man in his daily work. It will make the laborer enjoy his work more, and will improve his grade of workmanship. God rewards a man daily for his faith.

There are people who think that business and religion have nothing in common, but they have. It may be that men should put more religion into their business, and if they did they would prosper more. But it is also true that many ministers, and many churches need to put more business into their religion. Nearly every chapter of the Bible has some glistening promise of reward from God to men and women who put their trust in Him. He has declared that the children of the righteous shall never need to beg for bread. Who else ever made such a promise to anyone? He has promised to supply every need of the faithful according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus. All through the Word we read of God's promises to bless with material blessings those who put their trust in Him. The idea of reward is written large on the pages of scripture. Why should any minister fail to speak of it or apologize when he mentions it? The pulpit should emphasize the benefits, material, social and intellectual, as well as spiritual rewards in the present for Christian living.

But we should not be unmindful of the fact that there is a perfectly logical explanation of the emphasis placed by some Christian people on the future life. The older a person becomes, the more he thinks about the life beyond, because he is getting nearer to it. Just as when one is going to a new country, the nearer one gets to his destination, the more he thinks about what he may expect to find there. What will the climate be—the scenery—what beauties—the experiences, the delights, etc.? And as some of us grow older, we too, will begin to think more and more about the future life as we come nearer the end of our journey here below.

Moreover, the better a person has lived, the

(Continued on page 9.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Humor, fun, jokes, jest, all run in the same channel. Humor is rather the sense of seeing the ridiculous in speech, persons or occasions. Most human beings have a sense of humor, though like all gifts, some have a keener sense of humor than others. Fun grows out of mistakes in language, actions, attitudes. If everything were perfect there would be no fun, and nothing to make one laugh. If everybody behaved in a perfect manner, there would be no cartoons and no funny sheet. Mistakes are serious to those who make them, and funny to other people; intended error is serious.

Innocence will take a joke; but guilt takes offense. That does not mean that all who take a joke good naturedly are innocent, and all who do not are guilty. It means innocence or guilt in the particular matter of the joke. The joke is only a test in the matter of the joke. Pride sometimes takes offense at a joke; but pride is a kind of guilt, as no man should "think of himself more highly than he ought to think." After all, sensitiveness is a species of pride or guilt. There may be exceptions to what is here written, as they say, "there are exceptions to all rules"; but exceptions do not change the rule. A blunder by a literate provokes laughter more than a mistake of an illiterate.

It used to embarrass me to make a mistake before those who knew better, but now I congratulate myself that I have touched the funny vein in others without any cost. People pay for tickets to theatres to see and hear the humorist on the stage. Why should you or I be embarrassed when, through our mistakes, we furnish them with occasion for laughter. Therefore, why should others be offended if we laugh at their mistakes. The field of mistakes is mutual. We all make them, for we are all ignorant in new fields of thought and action. We frown at one another, smile at one another, why not laugh at one another. Laugh is between frown and smile. It is the common ground where all men meet, whether they intend to meet or not.

Children love fun. Grown people love fun. The ignorant enjoy it. The great scholars indulge in it. The tired man finds rest in a joke. The troubled soul smiles at the funny incident. The world will never grow so wise as to make no mistakes; and the world will never grow so serious as not to laugh. The gracious smile is nothing but the refined laugh. Wit has its place in human society and laughter is the soul's utterance of pleasing emotions. Fun is incongruous seriousness. The more serious the occasion the more humorous the mistake. The best humor is involuntary, unconscious words or actions. And laughter is just as natural as crying.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

Our modern colleges need to devise some method or generate some spirit by which the work necessary to carry on the college activities should be more generally distributed and also more generally appreciated.

The activities of a college are the agencies of leadership training. They are the intellectual and social, not to say also the spiritual, gymnasium of college life. The class-room instruction and the laboratories of research are the seminary of ideas, but the college activities are the opportunities for testing manhood and womanhood in terms of leadership. It is therefore obligatory on colleges to provide that the responsibilities necessitated by the conduct of these agencies should be very generally distributed throughout the student body. Unless a college does this, it will fail in many cases to give its Alumni that training in leadership which it is their right to expect from the college curriculum.

There is equal reason for saying that colleges should generate a spirit of interest and responsibility for the campus activities on the part of all students. The price of democracy is eternal vigilance on the part of its citizens. Students are citizens of the college community and should exercise a genuine interest in every enterprise of their community's life, an interest so genuine that it will lead each student to feel personally responsible for the success of these enterprises. Our liberties shall become but scraps of paper unless each citizen, by his lively interest in the government his suffrage helps to create, makes that government truly responsive to the people's will. Colleges should generate a spirit of personal responsibility for the general welfare on the part of their students. This spirit carried over into active life will insure the perpetuity of our democratic state.

Theodore Roosevelt felt keenly the need for such universal interest in and feeling of personal responsibility for our government. Only in such a situation he repeatedly said, to borrow Wilson's phrase, is democracy safe. He coined a fine phrase himself, the strenuous life. But what did he conceive the strenuous life to be? The life of the man who gives himself honestly and consecratedly to his work, whatever it be, and provides in his leisure hours for an intelligent interest in the conduct of his government. Politics should be every man's avocation, he insisted, and not merely the profession of a few. Such intelligent general interest in the public welfare would end bossism and render political corruption and graft impossible.

Is there not a responsibility laid on these college students who are born leaders to see to it that their less endowed fellow-students should be strategically forced into positions of responsibility and leadership training? I think there is. And the finest thing about this situation is that those who are able to pass responsibility on to others and so train them for leadership are getting at the same time for themselves a splendid skill in a higher form of leadership, leadership of the executive type. It may require more work on a leader's part to get ten others to work than to do the work himself, but the executive who sets others to work, blesses them and even more blesses himself.

It is good for us therefore in college too to practice the principles of being our brother's keeper. Wisdom lies in the direction of the practical out-working of human brotherhood.

W. A. HARPER.

PASTORS ARE AIDED.

Last night after I went to my room, I thought of the day. It was Sunday. A Sunday School class had been taught; some extra duties about the church had been attended to; and two sermons had been preached. I was tired. I suppose that was because I had not worked hard during the week, or perhaps I should have been tired anyhow. But the thing I am wanting to say is: I counted the people who had helped me be a preacher that day—helped me to do my job—helped me pastor a great flock.

It is just a bit wonderful to realize how many people help one in a day. Counting them is an old trick. That food-we-have-on-our-breakfast-table stunt you know, but too often we have failed to thank God and all the folks who have helped us at the end of the day for their help. Now there was the janitress who came early in the morning, opened up all the doors and windows, changed my study into a neat class-room, placed blackboard, chalk, and eraser handy, and saw that everything throughout the whole building was in ship-shape. She is a Negro, but her's was good help.

Twenty-five teachers and officers were in their places promptly, gladly, enthusiastically, to attend to my teaching program in my church. They are themselves doing all this voluntarily. Without them I would be lost, my church doomed. They are as good as the city has on its teaching force, for many of them are they. A regular volunteer army of helpers they are, and efficient enough to share responsibility, and to leave me to more immediate tasks. I thanked God for them at the close of the day!

When my particular class was over, one member, without being told, folded all the chairs and placed them out of the way, and presto! I was again in my study. It was a little thing, but it was a big help. I was free to speak parting words to outgoing members of the class, and when the last one was gone, I could close my door and have it all nice and quiet for a few minutes before preaching.

While I was enjoying those last precious moments, four people were seating my audience, handing them the Bulletin and a song book, others were gathering in the choir room, in order that they might be my lieutenants in service. After entering the church, I noticed a competent and thoughtful usher adjusting the fans to a noiseless service, and still others were at my command to receive the morning offering. At the close of the service, someone was waiting to carry me out into the country to dinner. A couch was furnished me after dinner to rest a bit, and later in the afternoon I was brought back to my study, for meditation and prayer.

At supper-time I was informed that the organist could not be present on account of sickness, but she had secured another volunteer to take her place! A fine audience was present in the morning, but a still better audience greeted me at night, because there had been some personal work in inviting others to attend a special sermon in church history. The night was hot, but just as usual the choir was in place, ushers in place, and many of the members of the church in place.

So last night I counted those who had rendered special effort, besides the regular presence in the services, and it amounted to forty persons. I was not one, but forty-one! Yea, and we all felt so thankful, as Uncle Wellons would say, that God was with us. Without cajoling, begging, or teasing, all this tremendous amount of help was rendered just as it is rendered in even greater portions every week. Aren't folks good? and isn't it wonderful how much help one gets gratuitously every day?

Even little Frances, my little motherless daughter, was all so neatly dressed and carried to Sunday School for her first time, because tomorrow she will be one year old! Yes, indeed, pastors are aided, and furthermore than that, they appreciate it. Sometimes it may seem that they overlook what is so regularly rendered, but they do not. For you see that it did not take some sort of "pounding" to bring this article forth. It is simply the written expression of what is so often felt in one's heart.

JOHN G. TRUITT.

THE QUEST FOR TRUTH AND CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

By Miss Helen R. Stearns.

Persons are supremely important in the universe. It is only persons—not animals, nor things—who have the ability to think, to give values, to create and carry out ideas; it is only persons who can search for the truth, who can have both faith and hope that the truth will be revealed after the search, and, at the last, can believe in that truth. The importance of persons is so obvious a fact that even the unreflective thinker recognizes it; on the other hand, the supremacy of personality is a principle so deep and abiding that a group of philosophers called personalistic idealists support the entire structure of their thinking on this foundation. Not only do the man on the street and the philosopher agree, but those who call themselves Christians are forced to admit that their Leader was willing to make any sacrifice to save persons. In speaking of Jesus an outstanding thinker of our own day says: "Always the supreme value for which he lived and taught and sacrificed was personality, marred and estranged, yet even so the child of God, loved by the Father and possessing everlasting issues of weal and woe . . . He died for men because He believed that men are worth dying for."

This entity—persons—that is of such eternal worth, which can reason and judge, weigh values and test results, has always been in quest of the truth. From the outspoken yearnings of the Old Testament writers—"Where art thou, O my God?"—up to the most scholarly research in a modern science laboratory, men have been searching for the truth. In this search progress has been ever upward and outward "from soil to soul" man is going—from slavish submission to a glorious freedom as man learns more and more control over environment. The conservation of these values, the creation of new ideas that have contributed to this progress, have been thought out by persons.

It takes a long while in the life of an individual to perfect this thinking personality. If, like things, we were merely will-o-the-wisps, or like animals, we could only feel and submit, then the youth of the human being need be no longer than the babyhood of the colt, or the dog, or even the fly, who is born full-grown! Personality is slow in ripening for the process of thinking is very intricate, and must be grounded in multitudinous experiences. Hence it takes twenty-four years for the human being to "grow up" and during those years parents and teachers are not only allowing the individual to have experiences whereby he learns new things for himself, but are presenting him with the experience of the race so that he truly may "begin where they have ended." This is education. A most significant relationship appears when one reads again the first statement that "persons are supremely important in the universe." It is persons we are training, not mere machines. They are not only supreme, but eternal, so that every minute of our work with these persons has eternal significance. By thus endowing the education of personality with such unique value, we are following closely in the steps of the Master, who said, "I came that they may have life, and may have it abundantly."

On this basis, all education is Christian, yet in general practice the term is especially applied to those branches which study closely the principles of Jesus himself, present the experiences of the race in carrying out those principles, and allow practice in present day application to personal and social problems. This is our program of Christian education—training immortal souls in the business of living—a task so big and worth while that no one who calls himself a Christian can evade his responsibility. Omit Christian education? To do so would be to deny the central principle of Christianity—the supreme importance of personality—to admit that truth cannot be found, for it must be found by persons who can think clearly and accurately; yes, to do so would even break down self-respect, for what we cannot give to others we cannot have for ourselves. Shall we lessen our present program of Christian education or maintain the same standards? Life demands growth and progress. Disuse eventuates in atrophy. In a world that is changing, everything must move together. If Christian education stands still it will be quickly decadent—a stagnant backwash, when it should beat the center of the clear running stream. Shall we enlarge our program, raise our standards, improve our equipment? Yes. It is the only way. All that is best in the world, all the possibilities of development into an even better world are carried by persons. God's kingdom will come only when these persons are trained to think in terms of that kingdom. That is our task as Christian educators.

ENDEAVOR BOUND FOR LONDON.

"Ah! what pleasant visions haunt me
As I gaze upon the sea!
All the old romantic legends,
All my dreams come back to me;
Sails of silk, and ropes of sendal,
Such as gleam in ancient lore,
And the singing of the sailors,
And the answers from the shore!"

"'Wouldst thou,' so the helmsman answered,
'Learn the secret of the sea?
Only those who brave the dangers
Comprehend its mystery.'"

If ships could talk, what a story they would tell.

The ship on which the seven hundred Christian Endeavor delegates from the States are sailing to the world convention in London, is a British ship, R. M. S. Carmania. It is one of the prettiest ships afloat, and has battled wind and gale for twenty-one years.

The tonnage of the ship is 20,000 and the number of the crew 370. In winter they use a hundred extra men.

She was one of the ships to aid in the rescue of passengers at the sinking of the famous Titanic. During the world war, she was manned as a battle ship and engaged in some fierce battles at sea.

It is known to the sailors as the ship that always comes through unscarred.

Some passengers entered into a discussion as to the gender of such a ship. Those who insisted in referring to it as "she" called attention to its beauty, its grace, and the patient, persistent throbbing of its keel in overcoming many a storm.

Those who maintained the reference of "he" spoke of "his" records in battle and rescues. The dispute could not be settled, so a member of the crew was called upon to decide. He replied, "Ah, it's a Royal Mail Ship!"

It is rather difficult to keep track of time. Our watches must be turned up fifty minutes each day, so we are now five hours earlier than Eastern time in the States.

The days are very long. It is light by three o'clock, and the sun rises at four. In the evening about nine-thirty, darkness begins to fall.

As a speaker at Morning Worship suggested, we are all "Christopher Columbusing"—going

(Continued on page 15.)

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. MEN'S PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00 aid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry. Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type

THE LORD is my shephe not want.
2 He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid..... 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and helps as above.

Price—Post Paid..... 9.35

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

THE BETTER WAY.

Question.—"What do you think of the so-called 'Volunteer' plans in raising the church budget? Shall we encourage its use here?"—L. K.

Answer.—We do not encourage its use and we do not know of any Stewardship Secretary that regards it as the best plan. It has some commendable features, just enough to attract attention. It is like Christian Science and other expressions or terms in religion; they have some grains of truth or they would not have followers, but we do not commend them as the best. The "Volunteer" finance plans sound well. The name is attractive. They are better than some other methods in use. They have some good points, but as standard plans to recommend to any of our churches they fall far too short of the New Testament plan represented by the Every-member canvass.

With these plans the pledges are usually taken at the morning church service. Practically it works out to be a side issue and a short cut. Really the purpose of it primarily, in most cases, is to make a short cut for the canvassers.

Any plan should be avoided that does not allow a church officer or a trained canvasser to talk in person and in confidence with the person about to make his pledge.

The heart of the Every-member canvass is just here—the personal solicitation in private. These plans do not provide for that at all. With it few children make a subscription, and we plead for each child to have his own subscription. There is no chance or place to talk it through with the parents at a church service.

Again, it is not fair to the canvassers to have to visit only the delinquents, the inactive and the indifferent. They should have the privilege, joy and inspiration that come from visiting the cream of the homes too. Under the "Volunteer" plans the canvassers seldom complete the canvass fully. We do not believe in the limited canvass.

The Every-member canvass has so many other values than that of securing funds, nearly all of which are missed in the limited canvass, for in these "Volunteer" plans practically the only object is to get the money subscribed. You are helpless to reason with the person who is present to volunteer, but who volunteers only with half that he should subscribe. We believe in the Every-member canvass rather than in a canvass of delinquents. It has also far greater spiritual results, raises more money, enlists more subscribers, wears better through the year, brings more satisfaction to the canvassers themselves, and really develops them better, for the Every-member canvass requires thorough training, which training is often neglected if canvassers merely go to talk to delinquents. We are sorry that we cannot give it our hearty approval.

BIG DIVIDENDS.

Big dividends from well established enterprises never fail to interest the business man. convince him that the business is thoroughly stabilized, raw material abundant, and a ready market for the product, together with a co-operative spirit on the part of the labor group involved, and he's eager to obtain stock in that enterprise.

So eager is he that he will pay a large premium on the par value of the stock in order to secure it.

We Have Such an Enterprise.

In our enterprise there is an insistent demand for the product which grows stronger with the years. The business is thoroughly stabilized. There is no lack of raw material, nor is there likely to be for centuries. And what is calculated to crown this enterprise with a distinction all its own, the labor group involved is constantly developing the finest spirit of co-operation.

Quite a Contrast.

In the commercial world since the Great War, markets have been shot to pieces in many important enterprises, taking a world view of the situation. Conditions are so unsettled that great governments, long established have seemed several times on the verge of collapse. Certain raw materials required to keep gigantic industries going have become so difficult to secure that rumbling threats of war are heard in consequence. Labor in the main has shown anything but a disposition to gladly co-operate in constructive fashion. Here and there are to be found notable exceptions, 'tis true; but they are so rare that their very scarcity contributes greatly to their being "notable." Yet, in spite of this contrast, men go on investing in these doubtful enterprises.

The writer was in Fall River, Massachusetts, not long since, and found many of those great manufacturing plants lying idle. Millions of dollars are invested in them. These investments are deteriorating in value. No demand for the class of goods they have been manufacturing. Silk and rayon have largely taken the place once occupied by cotton of the type which gave Fall River a name and a place in the manufacturing world occupied by no other city.

Changes.

Great changes have taken place, and are now going on. There was a time when our own denominational enterprises represented a falling market. We invested, and invested heavily in proportion to our resources, in a type of activity where changes were impending. At the time of making these investments, there was a ready market for our wares, though it was not the best that could be had. The investors failed to look ahead to try to discover the trend of events.

Forty years ago, we had 1664 churches. We had ninety-one conferences. These ninety-one conferences were for the most part poorly organized, and miserably supported. Nearly 600 of the 1664 churches apparently had no conference connection whatever. Nowhere in all the immense field of opportunity had a comprehensive plan been adopted for establishing our work in a great urban center. We had one lone church with a membership of as many 614. The next in size reported 480. But six churches in our entire brotherhood showed a membership of as many as 400.

Deer Creek, Ind., reported a Sunday School with an average attendance of 300. This was evidently a mistake, however, since the church property was reported as being worth but $400. In our current Annual, moreover, this same school, after forty years of opportunity for further growth, reports an average attendance of 60. Aside from this obviously erroneous report, Covington, Ohio, showed the largest attendance of any school in our brotherhood—175. The offerings for the year amounted to $225. The next in rank was the school of the Church of the Evangel, of Brooklyn, N. Y., with 164. This school surpassed Covington in its givings, raising the magnificent sum of $250 for the year. Only three other schools in our entire denomination reported as much as $200 contributed for a whole year's work.

There was reported spent for our colleges the pitiable sum of $13,515 in that 1886 report.

In spite of the meager showing in many respects as revealed in the above resume, we were disposed to feel at that time that we were getting along pretty well, because we had so many churches—1,664. In 1926, we only reported 1,052. Here is a loss of 612 churches, but with our 116,000 odd members, these churches are seen to be much stronger than those of forty years ago. Then our church membership averaged about 51 per church, now they average 110 per church. Our total then reached only about 85,000 members.

What Caused the Change.

We have been developing city work. We have at last undertaken in a somewhat comprehensive way to deal with three urban centers. In two of these, we have been at the task long enough to begin to see some very gratifying results. In Norfolk, where the work began some thirty-six years ago, we have just witnessed a glorious sight. On March 17, 1890, Dr. C. J. Jones organized what afterwards became known as the Memorial Christian Temple with 42 charter members. The Berkley Church, since become the First Christian Church of Norfolk, had been organized some years before, but Berkley was not then a part of the city. Today we have eight churches in what is now known as Greater Norfolk. These churches have a combined membership of 3,215. Their combined property values will show between $500,000 and $600,000. They raised for all purposes during the past year, $75,622.63. Of this, $8,013.59 went for benevolent purposes.

In Dayton the expansive movement began some fourteen years later, Dr. F. G. Coffin leading off with the organization at Crown Point. Splendid progress has been made however, for they now have six churches, with a seventh about coming to birth. Their combined membership is reported in the current Annual as 1,579. Their property values, conservatively estimated, are about $150,000. Total contributions for the year were $27,646.34; benevolences being $2,657.95.

We should bear in mind that several of these churches are comparatively young. Six of the fourteen in these two cities are less than twenty years old. Two are just about twenty years old. Four of them are less than ten years old. In spite of all their handicaps, these fourteen churches, closely affiliated in two cities, had a joint membership of 4,794, according to the report in the current Annual. Doubtless they have now passed the 5,000 mark.

Our incomplete records make it very difficult to trace the strength of any particular group of churches accurately. But I have been able to discover that 46 city churches last year gave a total for benevolences of $45,349.12. This is nearly 25 per cent of the total given by over a thousand of our churches, most of which are in the country. This is by no means intended to be, nor should it be so considered, a reflection on the country church. The country church possesses such values as we cannot afford to get along without. It is in a very vital sense our recruiting station for the ministry. But productive soil is not usually cultivated to its full capacity, where there is an indifferent market for the product.

There is no longer any considerable field for organizing country churches. Those already occupied are many of them less fertile than they once were. That which will inevitably create an insistent demand for preachers, is the organization and equipment of more city churches.

Strange as it may seem, the reports of only thirty-five churches in our urban centers are easily accessible as to totals of receipts. These thirty-five, however, show $335,291.76 out of total receipts of less than $1,100,000. I do not have the compiled figures for 1926 at hand just now, but am sure the published report is well within the figure quoted. Last year's Annual shows $1,089,167.22. This would seem to indicate that thirty-five of our churches supplied more than 31 per cent of our entire budget.

Face It Calmly but Courageously.

What were the other 1,017 churches doing while these thirty-five gave so generously? Well, for the most part, they were bemoaning their inability to do things. A much larger proportion of our churches found their members giving less than two cents a week for the entire Christian program than I would care to make public. Just by way of indicating what awaits one who undertakes an investigation of the hard facts respecting our denominational weaknesses, I will cite a few cases: Here is a church reporting 79 members, whose total contributions amounted to $68.20. Another of 75 members, with a total of $32 contributed for all purposes—less than a cent a week per member. Another of 75 members with $55. Another with 76 members and $60. Another with 38 members and $27. Another with 40 members and $32. Still another of 50 members with $35. At this rate how long will it take to evangelize the world?

Conditions Appalling.

Lest someone get the impression that these are churches which are about to go out of existence, let me cite one or two more, adding a fact or two. A church with 158 members contributes $20.11 to pastoral service. This is a church receiving 18 members during the conference year. And doubtless some old deacon prayed for "these precious souls." Precious, at less than $1.12 a head!! They are of course precious in the sight of Almighty God, but not very precious to "skinflint" people who give of their substance at that rate. But $20.11 was not the limit of generosity for this church of 158 members. They put on a Foreign Mission campaign apparently, and by the combined efforts of 158 people raised $2.33 for converting the heathen. Then they staged another campaign, and raised as much more for Christian Education. It must have been a carefully planned campaign, for the results to tally so exactly with those of the Foreign Mission drive. Lest we weary you with figures, suffice it to say that this overworked church gave in all $33.49. Now to raise this huge sum meant, of course, that each member on the average would have to give as much as one and three-quarters cents per month. Think of the self-denial involved!

But this is not a true picture of the average country church. Some of them have done nobly. Indeed, without the stimulating effect of seeing others located near them doing larger things for the Kingdom, as the average city church has opportunity of seeing such inspiring examples; their gifts, many of them are truly such as should cause some of our city churches to feel very keenly how remiss they have been. The per capita giving of some of our rural churches has been really fine; but because the membership is limited, the aggregate from the church as such is not usually large.

Now the city church has the opportunity for growth, and does grow. Our own records prove this conclusively. Our trouble has been that we do not inform ourselves regarding these matters. Here are some pertinent facts. We have 115 city churches. Their joint membership is 27,521. We have 307 village churches, with 33,207 members. We have 617 country churches, with 49,088 members. This leaves 113 churches unaccounted for. That is, we have no means of knowing their exact status in this respect. But these that are classified, show an average membership of 239 for the city church; 108 for the village church, and 95 for the country church.

The Investment—Which?

The farmer will invest in land which has a proven productiveness. Take your choice, Brother Farmer, between the farm which produces 239 bushels to the acre, and that which produces 95. Or, Brother Business Man, take your choice between stocks selling at $239 and $95 respectively. Let us keep this in mind, too: in the large city, no denomination produces large churches with but one church. In the smaller cities this is possible.

Our Chance.

For the first time in the history of our movement, we have undertaken to establish our work in a comprehensive way in a great city. Here investment can be made paying large dividends. In Greater New York, from the standpoint of increased membership, we have declared a dividend of 136 per cent for April 1, 1925, to April 1, 1926. In addition to our Sunday School force, 74 per cent. In the matter of finance, 119 per cent. Moreover, these big dividends are in the nature of heavenly treasure. Character-building is the most stupendous task ever undertaken by man under the leadership of Christ.

THE SAFEST INVESTMENT.

(Continued from page 5.)

better the character one has developed, the more anxious he becomes about keeping it. If a person has a seventeen jeweled, solid gold watch he naturally is more concerned about keeping it than if he has a dollar Ingersoll time-piece. So the person who has a character worth keeping for a future life, he naturally thinks more about the future. Whereas the man who has dissipated his talents, wasted his God given powers, and like Bruce in Connor's Sky Pilot, has "made a mess out of life," naturally such a person would rather not think about the future. The present has regret enough for them. But for the Christian, the present has its rewards of joy and satisfaction sufficiently abundant to compensate him for all the time and effort he has given, yet in addition, he has the promise of a life beyond the grave. He is not overly anxious about what heaven is or where it may be. But he rejoices in the prospect of going there.

It may seem difficult for some to understand what the Apostle Paul meant when he declared that "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable." During my seminary days at Yale, the late Dr. Newton W. Clark, perhaps the greatest American theologian of the past generation, came to deliver a lecture before the students on the subject, "The Significance of the Doctrine of Immortality." During his lecture, he emphasized the idea that the satisfactions the Christian experienced in this life should be enough to cause every rational person to want to be a Christian—that if there were no future life, the Christian would be supremely happy in the present. At the close of his lecture, Dr. Clark gave opportunity for any one who wished to ask questions. Among the questions asked was this one as a reaction to the declaration of Dr. Clark that the Christian's satisfactions in the present life should be enough even if there were no future life, to cause every rational person to want to be a Christian. "If," said the questioner, "that is true, how do you explain Paul's statement: 'If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable?'" Dr. Clark's reply was, "I don't know what Paul meant."

I related that experience one time in addressing a group of laymen. After the address, a man who had been living the Christian life for only a few months, came to me and said, "I don't see why Dr. Clark gave that answer to the question." And then this clear-minded layman ventured to answer the question that the distinguished theologian would not attempt to answer. And this is what the layman said: "The desire for a future life becomes stronger by reason of fellowship with Christ. And if after years of such fellowship with Christ, it certainly would crush a person's heart to learn that the grave would terminate that fellowship so divine, so inspiring. And then besides," said this layman, "Paul was talking to the early Christians who, because of their faith in Christ, were threatened with every kind of persecution, driven from their homes, chained and imprisoned, beaten with stripes, burned at the stake or thrown to the wild beasts in the arena to entertain the godless mobs. They were threatened with all of this simply because of their faith in Christ. And," continued this layman, "Paul knew that if that was all their faith in Christ meant to them, if they had nothing but persecution in this life and no hopes of a future life with Christ, they were of all men most miserable." And the layman was right.

But nineteen centuries of Christian influence has changed everything relating to the Christian life. And today the Christian faces a different world from what the early Christians faced. He faces no such persecutions as did the early Christian. In fact the present day grants the Christian special favors because of his faith. And even if there were no future life, the Christian of today believes that the reward for Christian living in the here and now is an abundantly worthwhile investment. To be conscious that I am trying sincerely to do the will of God, and that I hate what is wrong, and that I love what is right—that consciousness in itself is a reward worth more than anything the world has to offer.

To live in such a way that one's life is a blessing to others, a credit to the church, and an honor to God—a life that makes a person able to look into a clear looking glass squarely, without blinking an eye, and say "there is an honest person"; "there is a person who loves God"; "there is a person who loves all mankind"; "there is a person who in his heart is what he professes to be to the world"; for one to be able to do that conscientiously is worth more than all the rewards the world can give.

If I knew for a certainty that death ended all; that when I shall cease to look out of these windows through which God lets me see the beauties of His world; and when my voice shall be forever stilled, and when this body shall be cold in death; if I knew that the grave would forever keep me its prisoner of dust, and that there was no immortality of the soul; if I knew for a certainty all this, still, still, I would want to live the Christian life. The reward of a clear conscience before God and man is a thousand times worth the investment of faith. In fact a person cannot afford to refuse to live the Christian life. The rewards of the present claim the faith of every rational being.

Right living is its own reward. To be what God wants us to be; to try conscientiously to apply our religion to every relationship of life; to do what God wants us to do; to go where God wants us to go; to say what God wants us to say, and thus to keep fellowship with Christ—that is indeed the life triumphant—the life victorious, and the life that shall be eternal—the supreme reward for Christian living.

R. C. H.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

BY REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

The program committee of the Elon Summer School hopes to have in its possession by November 1st sufficient suggestions from the constituency of the school to assemble by January 1st the program for the 1927 session. So suggestions are invited. If you have an idea, a plan, a hope, pass it along. We do not promise to use it, but we do promise to give it consideration. Address your suggestions to either Miss Pattie Coghill, Henderson, N. C., or Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, Holland, Va.

The Board of Religious Education, at its last session, voted to increase the registration fee at the Elon Summer School to $2.00. This increase will not work a hardship on any one individual, but it will result in quite a helpful fund for the school. Perhaps you would like to attend the Summer School but cannot. But you can register and thus help in a small way the development of a stronger program.

We would especially like to hear from the ministers and churches of the territory within seventy-five miles' radius of Elon College as to what we can do to make the Elon Summer School program worthwhile for them. The attendance from this section at Elon has never been what it should be, nor what we have a right to expect it to be. Let us hear from you.

Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe, pastor of the Webster Community Church near Havre de Grace, Md., has been secured to conduct the devotional periods at the 1927 session of the Convention of Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor Societies of the Eastern Virginia Conference.

Prof. L. L. Vaughn, newly elected president of the Eastern North Carolina Convention, has advised the Board of Religious Education that he will co-operate with the board and endeavor to lead his convention to such co-operation too. This is the right spirit and if it becomes contagious and the convention officials of the other Conventions so pledge themselves, the field-work and financial problems of the board will be solved.

Why should the Board of Religious Education have financial problems? Its needs are few and it has a constituency of over twenty-two thousand Sunday School scholars and Endeavor members. If this constituency would once interest itself in the work and financial needs of the board, the board would be free of embarrassment and equal to a great educational work in the Southern Christian Convention.

The Convention of the Eastern Virginia Conference has organized to meet these needs of the board and at its last session received through dues from Sunday Schools and Endeavor Societies almost one thousand dollars. Six hundred dollars of this fund has already been ordered transferred to the board, and two hundred dollars was presented to the Mission Board.

Columbia University, New York, offered one thousand different courses of study this summer and enrolled in these courses 13,000 students. The growth in summer schools the past few years has been one of the spectacular features of the educational world.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

LESSON IX.—AUGUST 29, 1926.

"THE TEN COMMANDMENTS—DUTIES TO MAN."

GOLDEN TEXT: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."—Lev. 19: 18.

LESSON: Exodus 20: 12-21.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Prov. 3: 1-7.

REFERENCE MATERIAL: Dt. 5: 16-21; Eph. 6: 1-9; Col. 3: 18-25.

Duties to God.—We had them as embodied in the first four commandments in last Sunday's lesson. We now come to a man's duties to his fellow-man. It is as it should be. One of the tests of a man's love for God whom he has not seen, is his attitude toward his fellowman whom he has seen and with whom he lives. Let it be repeated that a man's perpendicular and horizontal relationships are very vitally affected by each other. It is impossible to be right with God while wrong with man, and being right with man is a big factor in being right with God, although not the whole or main thing. There are many people who treat their fellowmen all right who are not even courteous, to say nothing of obedient or grateful to God. The Christian religion is more than a human thing; it has a divine element in it, and a man must reckon first with God.

The Fifth Commandment.—"Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which Jehovah thy God giveth thee." National security, as well as domestic happiness, depends upon sound home relationships. A nation can rise no higher than the level of its home-life. Only those homes in which there is a sense of reverence and respect for parents, in which there is a devotion to parental ideals, and in which there is obedience to divine authority as embodied in parents—parents, by the way, should try to be worthy of this honor—only such homes offer an abiding foundation for national security and domestic happiness.

It is perhaps unwise to enter into the argument as to whether young people are as good as they used to be. Suffice it to say that if the present generation loses that respect for parents and that desire to honor them in all they do, our civilization is doomed to go the way of all nations that forget God. The first commandment that deals with man's duties to his fellowman deals with home relationships. God puts the home first. Here is God's command to young people to honor parents and here is God's challenge to parents to be worthy of the respect of young people.

The Sixth Commandment.—"Thou shalt not kill." Human life is sacred. The commandment covers all of those processes whereby men take life. Every reckless driver of a machine, every corporation that permits the pollution of a water system, every milk dealer who conceals the tubercular condition of cows, every owner of a building which would be a death-trap in case of fire—the list could be made a long one—is warned by this injunction, Thou shalt not kill. But Jesus interpreted the commandment in such a way that the desire to kill, the burning malice and sullen hatred was a transgression of this law.

The Seventh Commandment.—"Thou shalt not commit adultery." Womanhood, and manhood, too, for that matter, is sacred. The God-given instinct of sex is not to be abused. One man and one woman, and they in lawful wedlock, is to be the foundation of domestic happiness and national welfare. But Jesus moved the commandment from the matter of an external act to an inner impulse or spirit. He who gives rein to evil imaginations, he who reads salacious stories for the "kick" in them, he who looketh upon a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery already in his heart.

The Eighth Commandment.—"Thou shalt not steal." Property is sacred. No nation or civilization could long endure if men took what they wanted whether it belonged to them or not. But stealing has a wide interpretation. If a man gives light weight, if he charges too much, if he does not do an honest day's work, if he gives anything less than his best—in a hundred ways a man can steal, not only money, but time and honor and reputation.

The Ninth Commandment.—"Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor." Truth is sacred. A man should be very careful how he handles it, for if God cannot lie, man ought not to lie. A man should be especially careful how he handles the truth when it affects his fellowmen. There are a great many supposedly good people who are breaking this commandment by idle or malicious gossip or by unjustifiable and ungrounded statements about others.

The Tenth Commandment.—"Thou shalt not covet." Here is perhaps the commandment concerning man and man which is most often broken. Covetousness is classed by Paul and others with such sins as murder, immorality and other forms of outlawry. And yet we go on day after day, coveting, coveting, coveting. "Thou shalt not excessively or wrongfully, unlawfully desire anything which thou canst not innocently and uprightly possess"—this is what it means. Jesus said, "Take heed and keep yourselves from all covetousness."

Here they are—ten words or commandments. Small wonder that the people feared and trembled. They stood in the presence of august moral demands that were not to be found within them. But God is faithful, and he who in newness of spirit sets out to walk in the way of the Lord, will find that He who commands also helps. And more and more that man will grow unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

For August 29, 1926.

"MAKING BUSINESS CHRISTIAN."

TOPIC: "How Can We Make Business Thoroughly Christian."—I Tim. 6: 17-19.

REFERENCE MATERIAL: Prov. 11: 1-6; Isa. 33: 13-17; Matt. 7: 12; Luke 19: 12-19; I Cor. 4: 1-2; 10: 31-33.

There is only one way of making business thoroughly Christian. That is to conduct business by the Golden Rule—not the rule of gold. The question naturally arises as to the practicability of this. Is it possible to conduct your business by the Golden Rule, while the fellow next door is cutting corners where he can? Let's see: John Wanamaker said before he died that he made the Golden Rule his standard in business. Would you call him a business success? The father of the "57 Varieties" was a Christian first and a business man afterwards. Would you be willing to swap your earthly possessions of material kind, for the fortune that he amassed? Examples might be given indefinitely, to prove that it is possible.

It is not only possible to practice business by (Continued on page 14.)

Kiddies' Korner
MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

Hello Pretty Butterflies! Where did you get all those beautiful colors? All my Kiddies want dresses and umbrellas like the pretty colors on your wings. All butterflies are such lovely little creatures. They flit about all day and at night they get all wet with dew, and yet their pretty dresses do not even get the least bit faded. Try to catch the prettiest, big butterfly you can, Kiddies. Look at him and see his pretty colored wings. But, yes indeed, turn him loose, for he loves to live and enjoy the sunlight same as you and me.

What do you know about a whole camp full of boys—boy scouts—eating up all the good things their good Scout Master fixed for them—a whole camp full! and not hungry at all? My but it must have taken a lot of good eats to fill 175 real live boy scouts. And their good Scout executive—let's call him "Country"—the scouts call him that, and they love him a lot, too—helped the scouts initiate one of our great big ministers, oh, my, and now the minister is a real Tenderfoot. His three big sons? why of course they are scouts. Mother went out to see her four scouts, but she did not want to be the only "skirt" in camp, so she went along home. They must have a great camp. They had a moon to shine for them and a wee Victrola to play good music, and the best swimming and target practice—and all those good things to eat! Three cheers for "Country"! What do you say? And three cheers for our good scouts all over this great land of ours—and to the girls, too!

Watch out! Look who's coming! Run, Kiddies to meet the Ice-cream wagon. Ting-a-ling-a-ling—what a wee little bell, and what a great big crowd it can get.

YOUR EDITOR.

FOR JESUS' SAKE.

"Mother," said a little boy, "I wish Jesus lived on earth now."

"Why, my darling?"

"Because I should like so much to do something for him."

"But what could such a little bit of a fellow as you are do for him?"

The child said, "Why I could run all his errands for him."

"So you could, my child, and so you shall. Here is a glass of jelly and some oranges for poor, old, Margaret; I will let you take them, and do an errand for the Saviour, for when upon earth, he said, 'Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me.' Whenever you do a kind act for anybody because you love Jesus, it is just the same as if the Saviour were now living on the earth and you were doing it for him."—The Illustrator.

A FELLOW'S MOTHER.

By M. E. SANGSTER.

"A fellow's mother," said Fred the wise, With his rosy cheeks and his merry eyes, "Knows what to do if a fellow gets hurt By a thump, or a bruise, or a fall in the dirt.

"A fellow's mother has bags and strings, Rags and buttons, and lots of things, No matter how busy she is she'll stop To see how well you can spin your top.

"She does not care, not much, I mean, If a fellow's face is not always clean, And if your trousers are torn at the knee She can put in a patch that you'd never see.

"A fellow's mother is never mad, But only sorry if you are bad. And I tell you this, if you're only true, She'll always forgive whate'er you do.

"I'm sure of this," said Fred the wise, With a manly look in his laughing eyes; "I'll mind my mother quick, every day— A fellow's a baby that don't obey."
—Youth's Companion.

WHY BIRDS DON'T FALL OFF.

You may have wondered, sometimes, how a bird can go to sleep and still stay perched on a limb. The claws of the bird are so made that when the legs are bent just right, the tendon or ligament of the claw tightens as the bird's weight is thrown on it. The heavier the weight, the tighter gets the claw. So, when the bird goes to sleep and its full weight is thrown on the legs, the claws tighten around the twig, and the bird is held tight as if clamped there.—Exchange.

THE JOLLY LITTLE STAR.

By FRANCES MARSHALL MORGAN.

When mamma tucks me in my bed, And then turns out the light, I'm not one tiny bit afraid, Although it's in the night.

For very soon the stars peep out— And then my star I see, A jolly little baby star That laughs and winks at me!

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION
Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.

Specimen of type
15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver the: thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges.....$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges.....4.35
(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)

Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick (Weight 18 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red.....8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type
.35 And Jē-hōi'-ā-kim gave th silver and the gold to Phār'-aōh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges.....$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....5.50
(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick. (Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

HEARING GOD'S SILENCE.

LESSON: I Kings 19: 12.

"It is not by might nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord."

"After the fire a still small voice."

There are many problems we have to solve and many questions that claim an answer, about which the Word of God has nothing to say; true Christians, those who bear His spirit, are to be so imbued with it that in the things about which He is silent, all will do the right thing—do His will by the very promptings within us. This "Spirit" is manifested in the expression of Christ's personality, as portrayed, not in His word alone, but in the lives of His loyal children. It is manifested in majesty of soul. It is heard in the power of His being just what He is. It is heard in our convictions of truth, in the divine significance of things, in our impressions of His personality, in our understanding of revealed truth and character; in the amazing results of His life in the lives of men and women.

There is great and powerful speech in His great silences, which becomes an infalible director to us in wisdom and knowledge and the disposing of our lives. The question of universal importance is: Have we got His word in our hearts and lives truly enough to bear His silences in our every-day problems.

Prayer.—Our dear Father, So sweeten our tempers that we may hear Thee even when Thou dost not speak. This greatest of gifts we pray for daily. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

SELF OUR BIGGEST ENEMY.

"Now we . . . ought . . . not to please ourselves."—Rom. 15: 1-2.

"He that giveth unto the poor shall not lack; but he that hideth his eyes shall bare many a curse."—Prov. 28: 27.

Self-interest is the greatest difficulty we have, in fact it is the only real difficulty. The Spirit of Jesus Christ—the Holy Spirit in us—will make sure that we do not approach our problems with self-interest, but He will keep the common good of all to the forefront, and doing that, we will use our wisdom and knowledge and cleverness to serve that common good.

We often see whole communities standing in the way and blocking their own progress by reason of the fact that those most vitally concerned are afraid they will lose something, or that they will not gain anything personally by it. This applies to our religious life and in our relations to our neighbors. If it is true that God is light and God is love, there is no uncertainty that needs to be feared.

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, We come to Thee for our daily blessing. We pray Thee to help us, with Christ as our example, to see the common good, and to live for that, for Christ's sake. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

A GOOD DAILY VOW.

"I will set no wicked thing before my eyes." Psa. 101: 3.

What we set before our eyes makes all the difference in our conduct, and upon our determination and will about this rests our ultimate character.

Paul exhorts us to be imitators of God." The Moffatt translation of Paul's words puts it, "Copy God." When we were children, our thoughts, our play and our work was patterned after that of our parents and others whom we knew well. The artist acquires his skill through placing before his eyes the beautiful and copying until he is able by the growth of designs in his own brain produce on canvass conceptions classed in the realm of art and fit for others to copy. Copying is the first lesson.

Paul said that achievement of the realities of Christian character is quite the same way. I "look unto Jesus the author and finisher of faith," said he, "pressing toward the mark of the prize of the high calling." Whatsoever things are true, honest, just, lovely, of good report, virtuous, and praise-worthy; set these things before you and think on these things. Let us each day try to think to pause long enough early in the morning to say, "Lord, I will set no evil thing before my eyes. Help me in this, my fixed and steadfast purpose." Amen.

THURSDAY.

GIFTS OF THE HOLY SPIRIT.

"The Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, He shall teach you all things."—Jno. 14: 26.

The Holy Spirit of God is the power of God in the world. Like steam to the locomotive; like the electric current to the motor, like the life-giving power of the air we breathe, like the action of combustion to the flame, like the force of anything; so it is the power of our life that influences for good, that vitalizes our souls into right action, that withstands evil and temptation, that purifies untoward influences, and transforms environments as well as the individual life, from which it is unto what it ought to be, and lifts all up to God.

This Holy Spirit is called, "Comforter," "Guide," "Purifier," "My Spirit," "Spirit of Truth," "Holy Spirit of God," "Holy Spirit," "Holy Ghost," "Spirit of Promise."

The function of the Holy Spirit is: to bear witness to what is truth and falsehood, to convict the world of sin, to reveal and establish righteousness, to regenerate believers, to free us from sin and death, to strengthen us to a holy and godlike life, to comfort us in trials and sorrows and lift us through. Like the wind cleansing the atmosphere, it is to purify and cleanse our souls and the soul of humanity. Like the wind that drives the vessel on, it drives us to our desired haven. It brings us to submission to God and thus to continuous victory in Him.

This benign influence in our lives is dependent on nothing more or less than obeying the voice of conscience, keeping the commands of God, and following Christ's example in one's living, all of which is embodied in two commandments: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul and with all thy mind"; and "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Prayer.—Dear Father, We plead for this Spirit in our living. Make our lives full of comfort, joy and peace. Illumine our pathway with truth, human and divine, and may our each step be less of darkness and more of light. Amen.

FRIDAY.

LESSON: I Cor. 1: 27-31.

"Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us wisdom."

How different this is from the world's thought! Christ our Wisdom! To the average man and woman about us, the last thing that seems wise action is to take up the Christ life. The worldly wise man seeks first the things of this life. He may or may not give God the uttermost remnant. In this the professing Christian has to watch against succumbing to the same temptation to set the standards of today in contrast to the values of Jesus Christ.

There can be no question that to be a Christian means to have a different set of values from the people around us, who do not so profess. We dishonor the Christian life by lowering its tone in an easy spirit of compromise with the world. A minister recently asked a man to join the church, and, on the man replying that he felt himself unfitted, replied, "Oh, well, we don't expect you to be a saint." We may know what the minister meant, but his words were ill-advised. He did not win his man. The honest man feels that the Church must expect much, and that it should not be quite so ready to conform to poor standards.

These cultured Greeks of Corinth thought Paul and his Gospel a subject of scorn. How foolish it was from their viewpoint! That spirit is not extinct today. The worldly wise man often ends as the cynic and the wastrel. Remember the warning of Wolsey: "If I had served my God as I served my king, I should have had a better end," and embrace the life that is in Jesus. You will find it the highest wisdom, leading to the very altar-steps of God. —Rev. H. D. Ranns.

Prayer (by one of the parents).—That the humblest Christian may realize that his or her simple, earnest prayers find acceptance, and that where two or three are gathered together, He, who is our Redeemer and Guide, is "in the midst of them."

SATURDAY.

FOOD FOR THE SOUL.

LESSON: John 4: 31-34.

"I have meat to eat that ye know not of."

The world is tempting us with appeals to the appetite, to the senses; dishes that we can see, foods that we can taste. But there are foods, not seen with the eyes, that are worthy of our high calling. The faintness and hunger of the body soon return; but feeding on the things of God is the source of continued strength and of enduring youth. The pleasure we derive from the things of time is shallow and for the instant. But the meat the world knows not of is perfect. The more we eat, the greater our enjoyment and the more there is left. Eternal food! Food that makes us grow, that fills with joy, that gives triumph. It is doing God's will. It is being workers together with Him in helping men.

If we sell the seen and obtain the unseen, we gain a fullness of pleasure, of hope, and of service, that becomes greater with the years. And when time ends for us, there will be no break, no defeated ambitions, no darkening from disappointed hopes. The life will have increasing strength and beauty and joy. The good we can do will be to ten, instead of to one. It is doing God's will and feasting on spiritual things that will enable us to measure up to the coming opportunities and be worthy of the future ages. By the side of its promise and sureness, the allurements of the world are as naught. —Rev. J. H. Mills.

Prayer (by one of the parents).—That He who made us and loved us from the beginning, knows

(Continued on page 13.)

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

It is certainly encouraging to have so many loyal friends who think of us, and not only think of us with our large family, but are willing to help us.

We find that the good women will not let the men get ahead of them in looking after the needs of our large family and in doing nice things to help us.

Last week we told you about a man giving us a truck load of nice peaches to can. A few days ago we received a very kind letter from Mrs. H. N. Steed, Cander, N. C., requesting us to send a truck for a load of peaches which she wished to donate to the Orphanage. We immediately sent the truck, and she sent us fifty-five bushels of the finest Elberta peaches we have seen this year. We put all our family to peeling and canning, and in less than a day we had 182 gallons canned. This is a contribution that will reach every child in the institution, and we are very grateful, indeed, to Mr. and Mrs. Steed for this thoughtfulness. We hope they will have another large crop of peaches next year.

The Durham Christian Sunday School held its annual picnic on our grounds last week, and we had a very happy day. The weather was ideal, and everybody was in a happy mood. The little children had a great time on the ocean wave, the giant stride and in the swimming pool. We had water enough in the pool to give the little folks a good time without the mothers being uneasy about them getting drowned. Our children always look forward with a great deal of pleasure to the coming of the Durham Sunday School picnic, as they know there is a good dinner with plenty of chicken in store for them with water-melons and ice cream to follow. Plenty of ice water to satisfy the thirst helped to add to the pleasure of the day.

The Craven Junior Sunday School Class of Parks Roads held its picnic here last week, too, and seemed to enjoy the day very much. Mr. Craven, their faithful teacher, wanted to let them see the institution and the children, so they would have a better idea for what their money was contributed. He brought a truck load of happy little boys and girls and gave them a real day off. It was a pleasure to have them. Mr. Craven said we might look for larger contributions from his class from now on.

We are always glad to have Sunday Schools to hold their picnics here. We have delightful shade, and a picnic table stands in the grove all summer for their convenience. We also have a swimming pool, ocean wave, and giant stride, for the children to play on, and in case of rain, plenty of shelter. We are always delighted to furnish ice-water from a well eight hundred feet deep and as pure as water can be.

We welcome you at any time.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR AUGUST 20, 1926.

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

Brought forward	$ 15,226.18
North Carolina and Virginia Conference.
Loug's Chapel	$ 5.38
Mt. Zion Sunday School	2.00
Greensboro, Palm Street Church ..	3.08
Howard's Chapel	2.00
Happy Home	2.18
Elon College Sunday School	3.51
Ingram	3.00
	21.15

Eastern North Carolina Conference.
Piney Plains	$ 10.75
Mt. Auburn	12.25
	23.00
Western North Carolina Conference.
Liberty Sunday School	$ 2.01
Parks Cross Road Craven Jr. Class.	4.05
Sanford Sunday School	3.97
Mt. Pleasant	2.00
	12.03
Valley Virginia Conference.
Leaksville	$ 2.00
Bethlehem	3.15
	5.15
Eastern Virginia Conference.
Berea (Nansemond)	$ 10.00
Suffolk Sunday School	25.00
Oak Grove	2.15
Wakefield	1.10
	38.25
Alabama Conference.
Roanoke	$ 10.00
Bethany	1.00
	11.00
New Building Fund.
M. W. McPherson	$ 5.00
Alamance Laundry, Burlington ...	20.00
W. W. Tuck	4.00
Mrs. J. H. McEwen	5.00
Mrs. W. J. Tucker	2.00
Mr. Charlie Poole	16.00
W. B. Rowland	5.00
C. R. Marlett	5.00
J. W. Winfree	6.00
J. A. Kimball	20.00
J. Alleu Kimball	5.00
Mr. and Mrs. M. Orbin, Jr.	200.00
Mr. Will Horne, Burlington	5.00
	298.00
Total for the week	$ 408.58
Grand total	$ 15,634.76

FAMILY ALTAR.

(Continued from page 12.)

what is best for us, and that even chastening and discipline, when they come, are to be accepted as the signs of His love.

SUNDAY.

WHEN GOD SPEAKS.

LESSON: Hebrews 4: 12.

"The Word of God is quick, and powerful."

The author here speaks with a certainty born of personal experience. He and his fellow-disciples had tested the Word of God in conflict with Greek philosophy and with Roman stoicism, and they had witnessed its divine power. Peter, preaching the Word, on the day of Pentecost, saw the assembly of prejudiced Jews "pricked in their heart," and with trembling hearts asking, "What shall we do?"

The Word of God has this characteristic. It is an awakener of the soul. It rouses the soul to its higher nature and destiny. It causes man to reflect upon his spiritual being and his relation to the Infinite.

The Word of God, again is an awakener of conscience. It convicts of sin. Here it is "sharper than any two-edged sword." It stings like a barbed arrow piercing the heart, as it shows us a loving Heavenly Father forgotten, earthly aims and idols enthroned and worshipped, and sins cherished like "sweet morsels under the tongue."

It awakens us to the need of a Saviour. It shows the guilt-smitten soul that it can not justify itself before God. It impels him to see that "Jesus Christ is the only name under heaven given among men, whereby they can be saved."

It rouses the nominal Christian from his Pharisaic security. It shows him the necessity of an entire spiritual change. It convinces him of the need of a new birth, that he must become the temple of the Holy Ghost, and that Christ lives in him; or all his boasted righteousness will be but "sounding brass and tinkling cymbal."

And this awakening spiritual power of God's Word further teaches us that we should revere the Scriptures, as did our fathers and mothers, and that we have a solemn responsibility when we read or hear this Word, to "inwardly apply" it to our hearts and consciences, as the voice of God, speaking to us from the Throne.

—Rev. Junius B. Remensnyder.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 56-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses	$7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses	6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses	6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim.....	1.60
No. 2—Broad rim	1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses	$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85	11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85...	16.00

(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses
(this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling).	$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....	9.00
No. 4—Broad rim	9.00
Filler—Silver lined	6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St.

Richmond Va.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

(Continued from page 10.)

the Golden Rule, but it is almost impossible to succeed, unless we at least make a semblance of following it. Most business failures are of men who aim at nothing but making money in business. Those that try to render the best service, usually succeed. This is a Christian principle. Fair dealing with one's customers is Christian. And it pays. People will go far to trade with us when they know that they will get full value and service of the kind that we ourselves would want.

The man who makes his prices fair, not only fulfills one of the conditions of the Golden Rule, but he attracts customers to his place; but the man who cuts his competitor's throat by unfairly low prices also violates the Golden Rule, and soon pays for it by going out of business.

Henry Ford says: "Service of the community: it is perfectly impossible, applying this principle, to avoid making a very large profit, a much larger profit than if profit were the first object."

Another writer thinks we can make business more nearly Christian by thinking more of the workers and less of their work. He also thinks it pays, materially: "Those manufacturers have prospered who thought more of their workers than of their profits, because this is the divine law, no matter what people say."

Dr. W. A. Harper of Elon College, has to say on the subject: "Business that succeeds is essentially Christian. Its basis is faith or credit, its method is co-operation or brotherhood in action, its motive is optimistic and expectant of the best, its goal is character in product and personality. But these are all Christian ideals. Our Bible says, 'The Kingdom of Heaven is like a merchant.' But to be sure that business men shall have these Christian attitudes, they must be trained in Christian homes, in Christian Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor Societies, and in Christian colleges. When this is done, ninety-five per cent of business men will not be found to be failures. We can make business men Christian through Christian colleges. That is why they now have departments of Business Administration."

To Think About.

What unchristian methods are employed in business?

Would you trade with a dishonest or unreliable business man? If not, why?

Can we be Christian in an unchristian business? Why.

A LESSON ON FORGIVENESS.

Once in the long ago, there lived a saintly man who because of his constant charities and kindness to those in need, was called John the Almsgiver. He was bishop of Alexandria and was continually sought for his wise counsel and his sympathy.

On one occasion a nobleman desired to see him, and when admitted to his presence poured out an angry tale of one who had grievously offended him. "That man," he cried "has so deeply injured me I can never forgive him—no, never!"

The bishop heard him through in silence, and after pause said it was his hour of prayer. Would he go with him into the chapel?

The nobleman complied, and they knelt together. The bishop began to repeat aloud the Lord's Prayer, his companion saying it after him.

When he got to the petition, "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us," he paused, and the nobleman, not heeding, went on with the words alone. Finding his voice was alone, he, too, stopped, and there was a solemn silence.

Then the message sent by God's grace flashed like lightning through his mind. He was calm; his anger was gone; and rising from his knees, he hurried out of the chapel and to the man who had so grievously offended him, and there, on the spot, forgave him freely.—Exchange.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 26, 1926.

NUMBER 34.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Do Leopards' Spots Change?—

They say a leopard cannot change its spots, but Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin, has disproved this—at least, as far as Senatorial leopards go. Mr. Lenroot has been a life-long dry. He has always said so, and his votes in the Senate have backed him up. Suddenly he has announced that he wants a referendum on "beer." Whether this is merely an effort to secure some stray damp votes in the coming Wisconsin primaries, or whether he has listened to the siren song of the Association Opposed to Prohibition, is not apparent at this writing. It will all come out in the wash—and the washing will be done in water, not alcohol.

Sunday Laws.—

It is said that Pennsylvania has good Sunday laws, and that the people are anxious that they be observed. The Sesquicentennial directors have attempted to break over, which has caused a stir. And while we are speaking of Pennsylvania, it can be observed that the Keystone State has long boasted that, with its minerals, its agriculture, its manufactures and its other resources, it could build a fence around its commonwealth and let the rest of the world go by. Surely it is time to do that now. And, doubtless, the rest of the world would be content to keep on going by as long as whiskey flows so freely and corrupt dollars are so plentiful as recently.

To Dry Up "Wettest Spot."—

The Detroit, Michigan, area is said by prohibition officials to be the "wettest spot" in the United States. Recently action has been taken to smash the machinery which the liquor runners and distributors have set up in this territory. The dry drive is under the direction of Colonel A. J. Hanlon, former West Point football star and one of the aces of the federal prohibition department. An elaborate plan has been prepared to patrol the Detroit River over which smugglers have been shipping liquor from Canada. Eight patrol boats and forty picked men have augmented the regular federal forces, and it is planned to have the boats on patrol continuously. Extra precautions are being observed to prevent information regarding the patrol boats reaching the rum runners.

The Bible and Apple Picking.—

Luther said that he studied the Bible as he gathered apples. First, he shook the whole tree, that the ripest might fall, then he climbed the tree and shook each limb, and when he had shaken each limb, he shook every branch, and after each branch every twig, and then looked under each leaf. Let us search the Bible as a whole; shake the whole tree; read it as rapidly as you would any other book, then shake every limb, studying book after book. Then shake every branch, giving attention to the chapters when they do not break the sense. Then shake each twig by careful study of the paragraphs and sentences, and you will be rewarded, if you will look under every leaf, by searching the meaning of words.

Makes Report.—

The Rockefeller Foundation for 1925 reports income of $8,237,303, which, added to the $7,611,793, on hand at the start of that year, made $15,849,096 available. Disbursements in 1925 totaled $9,113,730, of which $3,622,480 went to International Health Board, $1,131,411 to China Medical Board, $3,131,811 to Division of Medical Education, $624,261 to Division of Studies, and $141,767 to Central Administration. Unpaid appropriations and commitments effective in 1925 and prior years were $6,170,047, leaving a balance in income account available for appropriations in 1926 of $563,319. Security holdings are shown, at the Foundation's ledger values, at $165,291,624. The previous year's holdings were $162,423,343.

Loss from Crime.—

There are no figures available to show England's actual money losses from crime, but the direct property loss in this country amounts to approximately $4,000,000,000 a year, and statistics place the indirect cost of prevention, detection, prosecution, and punishment, and the cost of prisons, reformatories, and asylums, at $6,000,000,000 annually. A total of $10,000,000,000—enough to pay the cost of running the United States Government for three years! In fact, it is estimated that the cost of housing, feeding, and attending the criminal charges of the various States now amounts to one-fifth of the States total income. Penologists tell us that at all times, about 200,000 persons in the United States are under lock and key. But these 200,000 are said to represent less than one-fifth of the actual criminal population. Not only does this great army of criminal offenders steal $4,000,000,000 annually; not only does it require $6,000,000,000 for policing, imprisonment, feeding, and attention; but it is an unproductive force, a great economic waste. If the annual productiveness of the individual is estimated at the conservative sum of $1,500, it will be seen that $1,500,000,000 must be added as industrial wastage.

The Manner of Speech Aids.—

The importance of effective delivery is shown in the case of two ministers in a New England city. A minister noted as a great thinker and theologian, with the degree of doctor of divinity, became pastor of a prosperous church. While his sermons were ably written, his poor delivery ruined them, as he read from the manuscript in a dull monotone, with little action or gesture. The people rapidly lost interest, and in a few months, the congregation dwindled to a mere handful. His term expired, it became necessary to make a change to save the church.

Another minister was installed, a man of limited education, but with pleasing presence, a good voice, and ability to use it effectively in speaking and singing. His wife and daughter were also good singers, and they soon became leaders in all song services. The preacher spoke without notes, and held the close attention of his hearers. His sermons and the singing of gospel songs in all church services soon filled the church to capacity, while many visitors were attracted from other churches. Before his term expired, this minister was called to a large church in Boston, and in a few years he became pastor of a prosperous church in Chicago, and finally was honored by election as bishop.

Washington's Suburbs.—

"You know, Arlington County was formerly a part of the District of Columbia. L'Enfant and Washington had Arlington County in mind when they were selecting the nation's capital, and their idea was to beautify both sides of the Potomac River when the City of Washington should become the headquarters for a great empire. Now, we have become that great empire, and the farming land of the District of Columbia has been turned into homes for the thousands who make Washington their home. They are spreading out into nearby Maryland and Virginia. In the meantime, Congress ceded back to the State of Virginia what is now Arlington County. Arlington County is being built up into modern homes for capital workers. I am greatly in hopes that, before it is too late, we can interest the Fine Arts Commission to the point where they will go over into Arlington County, lay it off properly into streets and avenues, according to the plans for the City of Washington, designate the future parks and beauty spots, so that it may become the most beautiful suburb in all the nation. After it is cut up into the varied schemes of the real-estate operators, it will be too late for anything that will be a real credit to the nation." Appreciating the importance of beautifying the suburbs of Washington, Congress recently enlarged the powers of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. Among other things it authorized the commission to employ the services of landscape architects and city-planning experts in developing the Capital's metropolitan area.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Men may die without any opinions and yet be carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom; but if we be without love, what will knowledge avail? —John Wesley.

If any pastor who cannot afford postal cards, at least, to send in news of what his church is doing, will notify the managing editor, he will send him some, already addressed.

Rev. B. J. Earp, Newport News, Va., is open to correspondence with any church without a pastor and desiring one. Brother Earp is one of our deeply consecrated and very active pastors, and should be engaged at once by a pastorate requiring his full time, energy and endeavor.

It is learned that Rev. G. C. Crutchfield, Wakefield, Va., contemplates changing pastorates, and is giving up his work at Wakefield. Any church desiring his services should correspond with him at once. Brother Crutchfield is an Elon graduate and has had some years of successful pastoral work while in school and since graduating.

Brother R. L. Williamson reports that, "On the third Sunday in August revival services began at Turner's Chapel. The pastor was ably assisted by Rev. J. Lee Johnson, who came on Monday. Brother Johnson preaches the Word 'in the power and demonstration of the Spirit.' We feel that those who heard have a surer foundation for their faith, and that much good was accomplished.

THE SUN learns with sorrow that Rev. William F. Jordan, member of the New Jersey Christian Convention, died August 7th. The American Bible Society, for which Brother Jordan has done such faithful and efficient service as a Missionary adventurer, pays warm tribute to Brother Jordan and his work. Brother Jordan graduated with the A. B. degree from Elon College in the class of 1921. He was held in highest esteem while a student at Elon College by the many acquaintances and friends he made while there.

Just before the last form of THE SUN was put on the press the following invitation came to the managing editor: "Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Alfred Moffitt invite you to be present at the marriage of their daughter, Madge Fleming, to Mr. John Chester Whitesell, on Thursday afternoon, September sixteenth, nineteen hundred and twenty-six, at five o'clock. Christian Church, Ramseur, North Carolina." Needless to say that we wish for the young people all the happiness possible as they set sail on the seas of wedded life.

Rev. G. D. Hunt, writing from Roanoke, Ala., August 23d, says, "We are in a meeting at Roanoke and, so far, are having large congregations and the best meeting the town has had. We had five hundred people in the tent last night. We rented a tent and placed it on our lot, which had been leveled for the purpose, and we are having a great service. We mean to build a church here right away." Our church in Roanoke and our Sunday School have been holding services in the city hall until our lot was paid for. We have loyal souls in this city who should have a church. There is fine prospect and much need for a Christian Church in the growing town of Roanoke.

Brother J. W. Felton, Portsmouth, Va., writing about Elm Avenue Church, of which he is a devoted member and deacon, says, "The Church rejoices over having enrolled in its membership recently the girl-evangelist, Miss Elizabeth Gould of Craddock, Va. She conducted services in the church the past two Sundays while the pastor was away on vacation, and had one decision for Christ. Miss Gould has been preaching about one year and has had over one hundred converts in her ministry." The Ledger Dispatch carries this interesting statement: "Elizabeth Gould, seventeen year old girl preacher, will conduct a series of revival services at the Ocean View Christian Church, Chesapeake street, during the first week in November. Beginning Sunday evening, services will be held each evening the next week. Miss Gould has filled a number of local pulpits since her conversion under the ministry of Mrs. Cora Mason, and all who have heard her have been impressed with her unassuming manner and her sincerity."

Little Cora Ann had been told that he must always wait patiently until she was served at meals and not cry across the table or grab for her food. One day while dining at a neighbor's with her mother, the little girl was accidentally overlooked. She was very patient for a time, but at last she could bear the strain no longer, seeing everybody feeding but herself. So, leaning quietly across to her mother, she said in a loud whisper: "Mother, do little girls who starve to death go to heaven? How long must your church paper wait before you send in a new subscriber, or pay your own subscription?"

Rev. J. G. Truitt, pastor of First Church, Norfolk, and Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, Holland, certainly wrote news and items worth while from and about their churches and people in THE SUN of August 19th. Many of our pastors excuse themselves from helping to make their church paper readable and worth while by saying that they do not wish "to blow their own horn," just as if they could not write something interesting about their church without writing about themselves. We wish all these pastors who so snugly shirk this responsibility would refer to the articles named and think a moment about how much of real worth, weight and interest they could add to their church paper if they would write occasionally at least about things in their churches that are taking place. It is a never ending surprise and regret to THE SUN'S Editor that so few of our pastors really care enough seemingly for their church paper and what it is trying to do to be willing to lend occasionally a little of their time and thought to the paper, since this time and thought would mean so much both to the churches they serve, to the work they are doing, and to the paper which is their very own.

NOTICE.

There will be a called meeting of the Elon College Alumni Association at the College, August 31, 1926, at 4 p. m. and at 8 p. m.

This meeting is called in accordance with the wish of a goodly number of the association who met with the executive committee during the recent session of the Elon Chautauqua.

It is hoped that all members of the Association who can do so will be present for this meeting.

F. C. LESTER,

President Elon College Alumni Association.

Many CHRISTIAN SUN readers will recall the wonderful article on "Why and How I Tithed," appearing several months ago in THE SUN. The article was put in pamphlet form and distributed in the number of several thousand. This article was written by Mrs. Eugenia Hill Arnold, of Elkton, W. Va. She has kindly remembered us with another fine article, which we are glad to present in this issue under the title "Power for our Children." We are certainly grateful to Sister Arnold for this splendid and timely contribution. She is a faithful Presbyterian, but we have decided to adopt her into our Christian family. In fact we heard a distinguished man say once that while the disciples were called Christians first at Antioch, since then a great many had been called Presbyterians.

THE LIVES OF THE LIVING.

So closely are the lives of the living connected with the lives of the dead that one can hardly separate them in thinking of their characters or achievements. There arises early every morning in one of the larger cities of the South a citizen of seventy-two years of age, who goes forth diligently as an employee of the city to earn his living and keep a public trust. For more than two decades he has gone forth in and out the homes and streets of the city performing honorably and faithfully his duties as one of the most distinguished guardians of the city's health.

In the most of this service he has gone his way alone, and yet he has not gone alone. With him has gone the daily ministrations of a loving companion and wife; with him has gone the unflagging desire to procure happiness for her and his children; and with him has gone a goodly portion of Christian culture and kindness. For forty-seven years and more, all the while he had been attending the different public duties that had been his lot, he and his wife had failed not one whit in attending that still more sacred trust of establishing for their children a true home.

A week ago today, his companion died. Or at any rate that is the way we express it, but somehow he knows, and others know, that she lives greatly still. And lives she? In the lives of her bereft husband, and her children and grandchildren she lives. Go into the city's schools, and they will tell you that for more than twenty years, she has been molding character and building faith through her daughters, who are in turn teachers in the public schools. Go into the church and inquire what it is worth to have a family of seven highly cultured and beautifully trained daughters teaching in the Sunday School, and tithing all their weekly earnings. Turn to the homes and hearthstones far and near, in countryside and cityside, and listen to the stories they will tell of inspiration, love, faith which have been the direct result of the noble manner in which he of whom I speak and his wife have lived their lives and reared their children.

Good lives are always living lives. God is the God of the living. And just as my well beloved friend arises faithfully still, morning after morning, to attend his public trust, just so, only more so, arises the combined, united influence of himself and wife to attend that precious private trust of bringing strength, help, and comfort, to their own beloved ones as they face the duties and privileges of life. When, then, shall the living die? Never, for Christ came that they may have life, and have it more abundantly. The lives of the living still carry on, so that no duty shall be left undone, and no real task be left unperformed. May we be among those who learn the secret of everlasting life!

JOHN G. TRUITT.

FROM LOUISIANA.

I arrived here July 27th and attended a Baptist revival that was in progress at that time and which I greatly enjoyed.

On August 2nd, I began a singing school that is to continue ten days. During this time I have been investigating the prospects for a Christian Church. Linville is a small village three miles out from the railroad, in a fine farming section, thickly settled with white people. They have a modern high school and no church at all. There is a very weak church one and a-half miles away, and another one two and a-half miles away on the other side. Neither church is much appreciated.

We are having services this week at night only at an old dance hall which my brother-in-law has purchased. I have never preached to more attentive or more interested audiences.

We have our family here who are members of the Christian Church in Alabama, and many others have expressed themselves as favorable to the principles of the Christian Church. If we only had the right man located here, it would be an easy matter to organize and maintain a Christian Church.

I go from here to Holmesville, about twenty miles away, Friday, 13th, and will preach there some. This is another little village in a good farming section several miles from the railroad, and with no church but a good school. There is a church building about one and a-half miles away, built for any and all denominations. There is one very weak organization there.

We have members there also who belong to the Christian Church in Alabama. It is another fine opening for our dear old Church, and there are many such places in this part of the State.

Before this reaches the public, I will be back in Alabama arranging to go to Elon College for two more years of schooling.

May God bless His cause everywhere.

G. H. VEASEY.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Alabama Conference will meet with the Church at Bethany on Tuesday; October 11, 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M. G. D. Hunt, President; E. M. Carter, Secretary.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 1, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 15, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church Tuesday, November 22, 1926. G. O. Lankford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 7, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
- 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
- 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
- Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
- 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
- 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
- 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x3 3/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x3 3/8 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools$2.50

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brevier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1336 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN C. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

LOVE GIFTS.

There has been a concerted effort, in recent years, among all the denominational organizations, to place their financial affairs on a more business-like basis. This is a most desirable undertaking. For certainly the business affairs of the church should be conducted according to the very best and soundest business principles. Too many times it could be said in all truth that no other enterprise could be successfully conducted with the careless and slipshod methods that have been used in conducting the business of the church. And that the church has suffered in consequence of the lack of proper business principles, is beyond question.

At the present time the prevailing sentiment is in favor of what is called the "Budget Plan." The effort to adapt the budget plan has resulted in the working out of two systems: the "Unmodified Budget," and the "Modified Budget." The unmodified budget takes into consideration the financial needs of all the enterprises of the church, figures out the amounts needed by each, adds the amounts needed by the respective enterprises, and sets the sum total as the financial goal of the church. All money raised goes into one general fund, and is apportioned to the respective enterprises according to the per centages allotted in the budget. In the unmodified budget all enterprises of the church share alike in either the prosperity or poverty of the church, according as the case may be. The modified budget also takes into consideration the needs of the various enterprises of the church, and fixes the amount of money necessary to carry on, but instead of all money raised going into a general fund and being allotted to each enterprise in certain fixed proportions, the money given for each enterprise goes to that enterprise, and to no other. Sometimes, however, under the modified budget general funds are allotted to the enterprises that have not been successful in securing their necessary funds.

It is not our purpose in this article to speak for or against the budget idea. It is rather our purpose to call attention to what seems to be a fundamental trait in human nature. And that is, that we all delight in making love gifts. No matter how much is done regularly and systematically for a person or a cause, that lies very close to one's heart, love is never satisfied until it has gone beyond that and has made what we are calling in this article, "Love Gifts." Just why this is so, we are not able to explain. We presume that it is a good thing that the human heart is made that way. But no matter what we think about it, we are unable to alter the fact that people are going to liberally support the enterprises they love. And the enterprises in which there is not a vital and living interest on the part of the people, are going to always have a hard time existing.

It is not then so vital an issue what plan or what form of budget may be adopted. It is reasonable to suppose that one plan may be better than another, and the best plan certainly ought to be used. But regardless of the plan adopted, the task that will always confront us will be that of laying it upon the hearts of our people, that the enterprises we are calling upon them to support are in harmony with the will and purpose and spirit of Christ. The people must be made to feel that the doing of the things they are called upon to do is necessary for the establishment of the kingdom, and that in no other way can they do the full and manifest will of Christ.

It is a most difficult task that this sets before us. It would seem that every Christian ought to do all in his power to support the church and its enterprises. But we need to remember that the Gospel of Jesus Christ is so full and far-reaching in its content, that even the greatest souls have not been able to comprehend it. We must remember that the things of the kingdom are so interdependent, and so intimately related that even the greatest seers have not been able to fathom them. And if the man in the pew, whose opportunities for the study of these things have been meagre, and whose time is so completely filled up with the affairs of making a living for himself and family, is unable to see how the things that we are calling upon him to do are related to the Gospel of Christ and His kingdom, let us be patient with him. Let us realize that it is our duty to make plain to him how he is serving his Christ in the doing of these things. For it is our profound conviction that the man in the pew has a deep and abiding love for the Christ. And if it can be, and is shown to him, that the money he is being called upon to give is in reality a Love Gift for the Christ, there is no occasion to fear his response. It will be instant, whole-hearted, and liberal.

WHICH?

There are three theories of the origin of the universe.

First theory. "God created the heavens and the earth." That is the Bible declaration. That assumes that God pre-existed and created the universe out of nothing: that is, that no matter existed until God created it. God Himself was self-existent and eternal; but matter is not self-existent and eternal; it was created by God. The Bible offers no proof of creation except the universe itself. The universe exists, is controlled by fixed laws; operates perpetually under those laws, and is a marvelous expression of wisdom, power and love. "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth His handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge. There is no speech nor language, their voice is not heard."—Ps. 19: 1-3. "All things were made by Him; and without Him was not anything made that was made."—John 1: 3. By the Bible we understand that the universe came into existence by the creative act of a self-existent, supreme personal being we call God.

A second theory is, that the universe has always existed and is eternal. It had no origin. It already existed. Matter is eternal. To assume the eternal existence of matter and of the universe is to assume the eternal existence of man and all animal life. Matter is a mystery in its composition and in its relations. The relation of man to matter, his dependence upon it, his control over it, and his return to it, all open up fields for investigation and conclusions. If the universe existed from all eternity, and man did not exist from all eternity, then man had a separate and subsequent origin. If so, when and how did man originate? We have to account for existence or believe in some theory of existence. We cannot deny the existence of the universe nor the existence of man. They are both here. They represent intelligence, design, use and love. The universe is not dead matter. It is full of life, and life that ministers to life. The relation of different forms of life to one another raises so many questions that make us return to the Bible in our thought and in our faith. "There is no speech nor language, their voice is not heard."

The Third Theory is, that of self-creation or evolution. Starting with atoms, electrons, and ether, invisible entities, a process begins that culminates in mountain or world. By this process of evolution all things came into existence, even the universe itself. All animal life even up to man comes by this same course of evolution. The electron is one thousandth the size of an atom, and between them is ether. These tiny worlds are in constant motion, never touch, and are bound together by laws as binding as the forces that hold the suns, stars, and planets in their places. Evolution leaves out one important element in the origin of the universe. It does not tell us the origin of atoms and electrons. There is a principle in mathematics that there can be no evolute without involute. Evolution fails to account for involution as a basis of its operations. It assumes the atom or electron, whose origins remain unknown.

The study of origins is a fascinating if not a profitable study. No matter what theory of the origin of man, the universe and all it contains, is accepted, investigation does not go far till it rests on faith. Proof of the origin of mind and matter is not available. No matter what course men pursue, they reach the point where nothing will count but faith. Faith, after all, is the greatest asset in human life and human knowledge. Man comes to the place where he must choose between self-production, eternal existence, or creation by God. The simplest, most reasonable, and most universal belief of mankind is that God created all, upholds all, and deserves the confidence and obedience of all.

VIRGINIA VALLEY CONFERENCE.

This body met in its seventy-eighth annual session at Linville, Va., August 18, 1926. The program as printed in THE CHRISTIAN SUN was carried out except that, to the regret of all, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Harper and Prof. P. J. Kernodle were unable to be present and take their places on the program, and others had to be substituted.

Dr. W. T. Walters is president, Rev. A. W. Andes is secretary, and Bro. Samuel Earman is treasurer, all officers of several years' standing and experience in the Conference.

It was a season of constant rain, but closed automobiles and good roads have practically eliminated the discomforts of travel, and the attendance at conference was about up to the standard.

Bro. J. E. Foster, an active layman of the conference, delivered the annual address, and we heard much favorable comment on his message. Bro. A. F. Chase of our Dayton Publishing House was a valuable asset to the sessions, and not only manifested an intelligent interest in the "House" he represented but in all that pertained to the constructive work of the conference.

THE SUN'S Editor was privileged to represent THE SUN, and secured an encouraging list of renewals and new subscriptions.

Supt. Chas. D. Johnston of our Orphanage, delivered a most timely and helpful address about the Orphanage and the children's place and keep and work in orphanages.

The Mission Secretary spoke on "Sacrificial Service" as a chief factor in missionary work.

On the second day of the sessions, Rev. and Mrs. W. Q. McKnight, our missionaries at home on furlough from Japan, arrived and in several addresses and informal talks, delighted and greatly enlightened the conference as to the work and workers in our Japan mission field. They were the outstanding features of the conference, and the delegates and visitors heard and greeted them with pleasure and profit.

The women of the conference met on the afternoon of the second day and had a house full and a very enthusiastic session at the Methodist Church.

The financial plan as accepted at the Southern Christian Convention at Durham, N. C., with the church calendar year, was explained to the conference by the chairman of the Education Committee of the Budget, and the same was approved and adopted by the conference.

THE SUN'S Editor was called away the last day of the conference and failed to learn who are the officers for the coming year, or where the next meeting place will be.

The Linville people were royal and lavish in their entertainment and did all that a generous people could do to make all delegates and visitors comfortable and happy while attending the conference.

Rev. R. P. Crumpler, the beloved pastor at Linville, locked after all the needs of delegates and the conference. It was with deep and genuine regret that it was learned that he would not return to his work in the churches of the conference the coming year. Rev. H. E. Truitt, of Waverly, Va., was a welcome visitor the second day of the session.

PRAYER FOR OUR COLLEGES.

Only a few days now and our Christian Colleges will be opening for another year's work. This means an epoch and an event in the life of many a youth, and in the history of the church. Into our colleges will soon be flowing those currents which in a few years will broaden and deepen into mighty streams of church life and influence.

Are we praying for our colleges now as the occasion and the need demand?

First. Are we praying that there will be diverted into our colleges now just these young people of prospect, promise and power, who should go to our Christian colleges and have their lives touched, enriched and inspired by the wholesome atmosphere and influence to be found there as nowhere else?

Second. Are we praying that our Christian colleges shall be indeed and in truth Christian, as their name and profession indicate? That their administrative officers, their teachers, their instructors, may all be divinely sustained and guided in the great task before them of properly governing and instructing the young life entrusted, for the most crucial period of history, to them? That the influence of our Christian Colleges may be good, wholesome, helpful, character-building, of the right and true type, for all who come under their tutelage, and for the church and kingdom under whose auspices they have been builded and by whom they are supported? That an ever increasing number of friends and patrons for our colleges may be found who will not only lend their influence, but will give of their means to the support of these vital veins and arteries of the church?

One wonders if we Christians are devoutly praying in these crucial days for our colleges as the opportunity affords and the need demands?

A NEW EXPERIENCE.

No sort of environment alone can save either the individual or society. One could wish no better or more wholesome environment than that of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden. And yet there is where our first parents fell.

Since then others, in the most inviting environment, have been falling, giving in to awful sin, shame and crime. Moreover, from most unwholesome environments have come some of the world's greatest and best. Jesus knew this, and so he did not begin a reform movement. He taught and preached to individuals to give them a new experience. That is what He meant, and still means, by the "new birth." He called on persons to repent, change their minds so that He might change their hearts and give them a new experience. He was no politician or social reformer. He let politics alone and instituted no social reforms, as dirty as politics were and as sinful and wicked as the social order was. He had a task mightier than this, with implications broader than these. His was no economic message; His was a spiritual message.

President Faunce of Brown University declares, "His great work was a revealing, unveiling of the spiritual world. He revealed the character of God and portrayed a character to be attained by men. Repentance, faith, love, forgiveness, prayer, growth into the divine image—these things lay at the heart of His message. An inward and spiritual change in human hearts and lives—this was the immediate aim of every word Jesus spoke and every deed He did. He refused to be side-tracked into petty reforms; He declined to dissolve religion into what we now call sociology."

Jesus knew where the seat of all human ills and social sins and wrongs was, namely, in the perverted human heart, and so He aimed to redeem, regenerate, save from sin and ruin, the individual, that through the saved individual all social, political and economic wrongs might be righted, and all human injustices might be blotted out.

"TOLERANCE."

One of the greatest needs of today is Tolerance among people who think differently, live differently and act differently. But though tolerance is the crying need of our day and generation, this need is not peculiar to our times. From the day dawn of humanity's existence, the need of tolerance among men has been the same.

The story of man's struggle for the right to think for himself has been written in a most interesting manner by Hendrick Willem VanLoon in a book bearing the title "Tolerance." The author weaves philosophy and history together in a manner that is absolutely unique. Church historians may not accept all VanLoon's deductions, but sometimes church historians differ among themselves. One will not read the book for a catalog of dates, but for a presentation of facts that differs from the accustomed presentations in historical books.

From beginning to end the book reads like a romance. It marshalls facts and suggestions on every page that not only tell the story of man's struggle for the right to think, but also challenge the reader to think. It is a book that will interest anyone who is not afraid to think and who wants to know the price mankind has paid both for thinking and for refusing to think.

This book, "Tolerance," by Hendrick VanLoon, is published by Boni and Liveright, and sells at $3.00 a copy at any book store. It is more than a book. It is a small library bound into a single volume. R. C. H.

SOME PERSONAL TRAITS OF PATRICK HENRY.

Patrick Henry's eloquence has so overshadowed every thing else about his personality that his character is not so well known as it should be. That his character does not suffer in comparison with his far-famed eloquence should be a matter of pride to all Americans. Indeed, his eloquence was due, in a large measure, to his lofty character, and this fact has been mentioned by many of his contemporaries. George Morgan, in his "The True Patrick Henry," quotes David S. G. Cabell's tribute, as follows: "History does not record any example of a greater natural orator. He was not an orator as a result of a long and elaborate course of preparation. The loftiness of his nature, his strong emotions, his possession in himself of everything noble and true, more than supplied the rhetorician's art."

George Mason, writing of Henry, in 1774, spoke to the same effect: "He is by far the most powerful speaker I have ever heard. Every word he says not only engages but commands the attention; and your passions are no longer your own when he addresses them. But his eloquence is the smallest part of his merit. He is in my opinion the first man on this continent, as well in abilities as in public virtues," etc.

John Adams paid him this tribute: "From personal acquaintance, perhaps I might say a friendship, with Mr. Henry of more than thirty years, and from all that I have heard or read of him, I have always considered him a gentleman of deep reflection, keen sagacity, clear foresight, daring enterprise, inflexible intrepidity, and untainted integrity, with an ardent zeal for the liberties, the honor, and the felicity of his country and his species."

His kind and benevolent disposition is shown in a letter to his daughter: "Unite liberality with a just frugality; always reserve something for the hand of charity; and never let your door be closed to the voice of suffering humanity. Your servants especially will have the strongest claim upon your charity; let them be well fed, well clothed, nursed in sickness, and let them never be unjustly treated." "It is a tradition among the Henry negroes," says his biographer, "that their grandparents were treated just as Patrick Henry here admonishes his daughter to treat them."

Morgan says: "Henry himself sometimes played school-master. This we learn from William Wirt Henry, who had from his Aunt Sarah an interesting detail respecting Patrick Henry's family customs. It was his habit, said she, to seat himself in his dining room every morning, directly after rising, and read his Bible, and as his children would pass him for the first time, he would raise his eyes from his book and greet them with a 'good mornin'.' And this he would (Continued on page 13.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Land can be made too rich to produce good crops. Lawn grass will not thrive in very rich soil. The same is true of fruit trees. Poor land, properly fertilized will produce the best crops. In very rich soil cotton produces weed rather than lint. Some rich people make their front yards too rich for good lawns. The richest places back of the barn grow only weeds. The best farms are lands that have been improved out of poor land by manure, fertilizing crops and proper plowing.

The best farmers cultivate medium land. Rich land tends to make farmers indolent; poor land stimulates energy of mind and body in the tiller of the soil. The best place for a young farmer to begin is on a poor farm. Never begin on a highly improved farm. The good farmer is the one who makes a good farm out of a poor farm.

The same is true in education. It is unfortunate for the young to be brought up at the top. Great cities do not produce great scholars and great men. The wealth of knowledge smother's aspiration, checks energy, and leaves the mind satisfied. There is nothing so much against progress in communities as satisfaction. The satisfied person is the static person. "Necessity is the mother of invention," and it is the soul of enterprise. Environment has much to do with activity. The satisfied mind is the dormant mind. Literates are made out of illiterates, as the rich are made out of the poor. All saints are made out of sinners; and all great men are made out of small men.

Most people long to be prosperous; yet there is such a thing as being too prosperous. More people can stand poverty than can stand riches. The wise man said, "Give me neither poverty nor riches." Solomon knew that riches had spoiled him; and his wisdom had done the same thing. He was the wisest man and the biggest fool. With all his wisdom and wealth, he went to the bad in his personal, social and official life. There is such a thing as too much prosperity. Vanity creeps in and high regard for others slips out. Pride is often the fruit of prosperity. When pride comes in honor goes out. Prosperity is a dangerous thing. It blinds the eye, it poisons the heart, it smother's faith, and corrupts the life. That is the reason Jesus said, "a rich man shall hardly enter into the Kingdom of heaven." Poor men become Christian, then become rich, and become great Christian workers and benefactors; but the rich are rarely led to enter the Kingdom. It is dangerous to be too rich.

Goodness is as dangerous as learning and wealth. There is nothing so sweet and so useful as humble piety. It is Christ-like and human in its contacts, claims, and influences. Those who are too good to enter into the common life of the world; to sympathize with the spiritually weak; to feel their own weakness in the religious life of the world; are usually puffed up with spiritual pride and lose the influence for good they might exert over men. It is unfortunate to be too good, as it is to be too wise, or too rich.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

Money is a determining factor in shaping and moulding the character of the individual. The one man in the group of the disciples of our Lord who made shipwreck of his opportunity, came to his grief through the love of money. It is noteworthy in this connection that Jesus has more to say about money, material substance, and the deceitfulness of riches than any other one subject. Undoubtedly He yearned to win Judas to loyal allegiance and to inspire him with a spirit of unselfish service and devotion to others, but even the personal inspiration and the magnetic teaching ability of the Master Himself were unable to redeem the man who was obsessed with the love of money.

There are three attitudes which we may take with reference to material substance and they are equally determinative in their influence on character. We find all three of these attitudes expressed in that wonderful parable of the Good Samaritan.

The story is familiar to every Biblical student, but the lessons it yields are endlessly profitable in understanding the Christian way and life. The poor fellow who was lying on the roadside wounded and bleeding, met three typical classes, as follows: the robbers, priest and Levite, and the good Samaritan.

The robbers had an attitude toward wealth that made them the enemies of mankind. Their attitude was this: what is mine—I will take it. This attitude was in the heart of Cain when he slew his brother, Abel. It always leads to jealousy, hatred, oppression, and murder. In international relationships it leads to war. This attitude toward wealth will ruin any man who entertains it.

The priest and Levite, representatives though they were of organized religion, were far from spiritual in their attitude toward material substance. We may briefly summarize their view in these words: what is mine—I will keep it. These men noticed the poor man who had fallen among thieves and was lying on the roadside, but they offered him no assistance. So it is with a man whose life is cankered by a selfish attitude toward things he possesses. In private life this selfish attitude toward material substance leads to class cleavage and a deadening of the social graces of life, and in international affairs it keeps nations of great powers and influence from joining with the weaker nations in making the ideals of co-operation and brotherhood effective in the intercourse of nation with nation. This attitude will undermine character and work the ruin eventually of any man or nation that entertains it.

The third view is that of the good Samaritan. His philosophy of wealth and material possessions is appropriately summarized in this sentence: what is mine is yours—we will share it. There is a growing disposition on the part of men whose hearts have been touched by the spiritual influence, ideals, and teachings of Jesus, to exemplify the beautiful spirit of the good Samaritan in their relationship with others. The heart of the world is hard enough today to be sure, but it is not near so hard and indifferent as it was before the Master taught the proper use of advantage in whatever way we may possess it in the service and for the uplift of our brethren. Nations, too, as never before are being thrilled in their relationships with one another by the beautiful spirit of sacrifice displayed by this nameless representative of a hated and despised race. The good Samaritans—God increase their number! They are the salt of the earth. They are the light of the world.

W. A. HARPER.

HOW WE CAN BEST HELP THE CHURCH.

In order to get at the best method by which we can help the church of today, it is necessary to understand something about the church, its organization, its purpose, etc. We might well ask the question, "Why the church anyhow?" The church of today cannot be taken for granted as was the church of a generation or two ago. "Why the church?" is a question that many are asking formally, and which far more are answering either positively or negatively as the case may be, by simply ignoring it. An inquiry as to the Christian way of life, in industry, in race relations, and in international affairs, cannot escape asking what about the church as the organized agency for advancing this Christian way of life that we all wish to see prevail? Therefore, it is very plain that the church is the center of an attention among large numbers of people at this time. And an inquiry as to the church very appropriately begins by asking, "Why the church?"

First, let us take up a number of comments and statements by various people who answer this question favorably to the church.

James Freeman Clark says: "If anyone has fault to find with the church and thinks it of no use, let him consider how deeply rooted its needs are in the nature of man. It cannot be destroyed. If it comes to an end in one form, it springs up anew in another. Cut down the old trunk, new shoots spring up from the root. It cannot be destroyed, for some form of a church is needed by man for his moral growth, life, peace, and comfort."

Dean Graham of Oberlin University says: "If the church were destroyed tonight, tomorrow would see the beginning of a new church." He also says: "The church has fostered higher education throughout 1900 years, and is now supplying and giving inspiration to social service all over the world."

And T. R. Glover says: "Whatever we make of it, the Christian Church stands out as one of the most significant factors in human society for nineteen centuries."

We might say further, that the church is the center of civilization, the pillar and ground of truth, the fosterer of education, the mother of foreign missions, the hope of the world, and the very basis of our civilization.

But now comes a series of criticisms—comments that are not favorable to the church.

H. G. Wells says: "The history of Christianity, with its encrustation and suffocating dogmas and usages, its dire persecution of the faithful by the unfaithful, its decimation and its unlovely decay, its invasion by robes and rites, and all the tricks and vices of the Pharisees whom Christ detested and denounced, is full of warning against the dangers of the church."

Others say: "What's the use of attending church anyway? It's only traditional and customary to attend." "The church is too conservative, too coercive, it belongs to another world and is uninteresting. And there is too much inconsistency on the part of church members."

Well, there is a great deal to all these unfavorable comments. And they are far more valuable to us than the favorable ones, because they give us, as young people, a wonderful opportunity to do something, and it is right here that we can best help the church out of the situation that it finds itself in today.

In the first place, we're young and full of enthusiasm and ambition. We can lend part of this to the older people and the pastor, by attending church services regularly and helping out with the program—sometimes actually taking a part in it. In this way we can make the church attractive and interesting to the outsider. We are also naturally more radical in our thinking than the older people, and by being thus, we can kill off the conservatism and coerciveness that has smothered the higher aim of true religion within the church throughout the ages: for is it not true that tomorrow we will be the church, and as our aims and ideals are today, so will those of the church be tomorrow.

Then, secondly, we can help the church wonderfully through committees such as the Pastor's Aid Committee, the Friendship Committee, the Missionary Committee, the Sunday School and Prayer Meeting Committees, and many others too numerous to mention. Yes, Folks! we can help the church best through service! Nothing comes from nothing, and we can only expect from the church according to what we put into it. The church is the hope of the world; and we are the hope of the church. The purpose of the organization of the church was to create true fellowship, and in Matthew 28:18-20, Jesus declares His purpose to be a constant companion in a growing fellowship that will eventually envelope the whole world.

GALEN ELLIOTT,
President N. C. C. E. Union.

GOD'S CALL TO PRAYER.

Every child of God who has read the Bible through thoughtfully and prayerfully, knows that God has always done whatever He promised to do. "There has not failed one word of all his good promise." With Him there is "no variable-ness, neither shadow of turning." "God is not a man, that he should lie; neither the son of man, that he should repent; hath he said, and shall he not do it?" "I am the Lord, I change not." Since He is "the same yesterday, today and forever"; why is it we are so slow to take hold and prove the prayer promises, with which His Word abounds? Is it because we are afraid of the conditions?

It means believing. "He that cometh to God, must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." "All things whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive." "All things whatsoever ye pray and ask for, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them."

It means obedience. "If any man be a worshipper of God, and do his will, him he heareth." "Whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments and do the things that are pleasing in his sight."

It means abiding in Christ. "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask whatsoever ye will, and it shall be done unto you."

It means entire consecration, the solemn dedication of our all unto the Lord, using it afterward as a trust committed to us by Him. The richest people are those who commit all their way unto the Lord and trust Him to do what He has said, and bring to pass that which He has promised.

It has been said that we can use prayer as we use our telephones. It is far surer, for our un-failing God never disconnects when one of His obedient children is on the line. A need arises, a trouble comes, we go to the secret place and by faith send in our call, knowing that there is One who is ever listening for our call. Has He not said, "Call upon me in the day of trouble; I will deliver thee." "The prayer of the upright is his delight." "He shall call upon me, and I will answer him." "It shall come to pass, when he crieth unto me, that I will hear." "When he shall hear, he will answer thee." What more can we ask than He has promised?

After we have called and He has answered, the Lord requires of us that which we far too often forget. "Thou shalt glorify me." We remember to ask for help and then forget to acknowledge His excellence and make known His goodness to the children of men. We neglect the worship and adoration due Him for His mercy toward us. "Call upon me in the day of trouble," is God's invitation to His burdened ones. "I will deliver thee," is His un-failing promise. "Thou shalt glorify me," is His command.

There is no memory so sacred, as seeing the hand of God working in our behalf, in answer to our cry to Him. That hand opening the windows of heaven and pouring out the blessings which we are not worthy to receive; that strong right hand reaching down to hold us up and lead us through some hard place, is an experience we cannot easily forget. It fills us with solemn awe. It bows us down with sorrow for our sins. It fills us with joy, peace and security, with love, praise and adoration, as we behold His graciousness unto us at the voice of our cry.

Through His Word God invites us to pray. He promises to hear and answer. He does answer certainly, largely, satisfyingly. Then let us "in nothing be anxious; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God," knowing of a certainty that "whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son."

Mt. Vernon, Ohio. MINNIE LOHR.

BIBLE DISTRIBUTION NOT AFFECTED.

Circulation of the Bible in Mexico has in no way been affected by the present religious disturbances and the enforcement of the Articles of the Constitution relating to foreign clergy, reports the Rev. Arthur H. Mellen, agency secretary of the Mexico Agency of the American Bible Society, who came to New York for the purpose of consulting with the officers of the Bible Society regarding Bible work in Mexico.

Mr. Mellen, a minister of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in common with all foreign clergymen of the Protestant churches residing in Mexico has carefully observed all restrictions placed on foreigners by the Mexican law, one of which requires registration with the occupation of the registrant designated.

During Mr. Mellen's absence, the agency is in charge of his assistant, Mr. H. T. Marroquin, a young Mexican. Because of his nationality, Mr. Marroquin has been able to make extended trips through the country preaching and promoting the work of the American Bible Society.

Mr. Mellen has been a resident of Mexico since 1909, and states that his associations with the Mexican government officials have invariably been pleasant and he has received, at all times, most courteous and reasonable treatment. Under his regime the work of the agency has greatly progressed.

The Mexican Agency of the Bible Society was established in 1878, and during the half-century has circulated 1,553,311 volumes of Scripture.

Brother George T. Gunter, superintendent of Pleasant Ridge Sunday School, Route 1, Ramseur, N. C., joins the increasing list of Sunday School superintendents with the message, "Our Sunday School has decided to give an offering once a month to missions. This offering will be the regular Sunday School collection for the second Sunday in each month. The proposition made by you and Mr. C. D. Johnston seems so fair and square that we wanted to try it. I am enclosing check for our first offering." Several schools of late have come to this conclusion, and we are hoping and believing that this good work will go on until every school in the Southern Christian Convention will be registered in this increasing list.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us. MENS PENS $2.00 LADIES' PENS $2.00 and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1600 pages in all.

Size, 5¼ x 7¼ inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shepherd, he will not let me be wanting: he leadeth me to green pastures: he leadeth me to the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid..... 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco. Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and helps as above.

Price—Post Paid..... 9.35

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

PRESIDENT BURNELL SPEAKS.

Rev. Rue Burnell, President of the Western Convention, joins with Presidents Smith and Short of the Southern and Central Conventions, in urging their churches to become actual tithing churches. He shows the joy of entering the open door. "I have put before you an open door."—Rev. 3: 8.

Folks have sat just back of an open door in the evening and looked out at a section of the glorious sky, and have enjoyed, mildly, the scene. By stepping through the door, however, the whole grand expanse of the western heavens, with its glowing banks of gold and red would have been brought into view and they would have been thrilled with joy.

The experience of many is like that inside the door, while their possibility is like that outside the door. I am sure that there is before us an open door through which we could pass and wonderfully enlarge and enrich our Christian experience. I am fully persuaded that tithing of our material income is such an open door, and for the sake of that larger and richer experience I crave the time when we shall step through that door.

This step will take most of us far into the freedom from the depressing consciousness that we are withholding something from God. This itself would lift us to glorious new highlands and thrills us with sacred joys. God's plans for our lives are not arbitrary. They come out of a heart of infinite love, revealing the way into the most abundant life possible. Surely the tithe is one of God's plans.

Outside this open door we shall find a consciousness of partnership with God we have not known before. There are many who are depriving themselves of the richness possible because they are not placing their giving on a plane which enables them to enter into partnership with God in their handling of material things. For many, passing through this open door will mean that they are not giving their consent, merely, for the Kingdom's advancement, but are whole heartedly cooperating in advancing it.

This step will remove the reproach in the eyes of the world, and the embarrassment of many of the church because of the church's depleted treasury. The tithe will supply all the church's need for material things. Within our Western Convention we have reported nearly 6,000 members, which for our estimating we shall call 5,000. If there is an average of five of these members to the family, and the family income averages but $1,250 per year, the tithe would be $125,000 per year. Even if the average family income were but $1,000, the tithe would be $100,000 annually. In the Christian denomination there was given last year approximately $1,566,000. Using the same estimates as the lowest ones indicated above, our annual tithe would be $2,320,000 per year. What might we do if we would bring the tithes into the store house? We could easily double all that we are now doing. I cannot understand how we shall go up to meet our Father with joy and unshamed, unless there be a stepping through this open door.

Such a step will multiply our service. My money is an expression, in a very real way, of myself. It represents my brain and brawn. It can go where I cannot. Through it I have a wonderfully inspiring opportunity for multiplying my service. I believe that our stepping through the open door of tithing, as a church, would easily enable us to do double the work that we are now doing.

Will we dare to hasten the coming of the Kingdom of our Lord, which, with his very life, his parting breath, He asked us to do; by stepping through the open door of the tithe of our material things for the treasury of the Church of God.

A BY-PRODUCT OF TITHING.

Mr. C. M. Cannon, Secretary of Elon College and Superintendent of the College Sunday School, has the following to say about tithing:

"Systematic tithing is one of the most stabilizing influences at work in the church constituency today. Only by sacrifice and systematic giving can we keep our love and enthusiasm for the church and its work. Those who give most heavily in sacrifice love most. The conscientious tither is always a good Christian. His interest in lay-work in the church will match his giving. The result of tithing, therefore, is not pecuniary alone, but puts the layman to work in the Sunday School and church enterprises, in the giving of his time and thought along with his tithe."

CONFERENCE DELEGATES.

One of the weaker places in our church activities is in the election of delegates to conference. It is a most responsible thing to represent a church at conference. One is not merely himself. He is a representative of a church. He speaks for it. He votes for it. The work of the Kingdom is advanced or hindered by his attitude and acts. My! it is a responsible thing to be a delegate to conference. Every church should take great care in the selection of delegates. The busiest, most interested, the representative persons should be chosen. No one chosen should decline except on very sufficient reasons. Personal interests should not excuse one. It is the same way with convention delegates. The conferences should use great care to get the most representative delegates.

FAITHFULNESS AS CHRISTIANS.

A Sermon on Stewardship.

BY REV. S. L. BAUGHER.

TEXT: "Moreover, it is required of Stewards that a man be found faithful."—I Cor. 4: 2.

A proprietor is an owner; a partner is a sharer in ownership; a steward neither owns nor shares ownership, but does business with the capital of another. A Christian is neither a proprietor nor a partner. All we are belongs to God. "Ye are not your own for ye are bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body and in your spirit which are God's." (I Cor. 6: 19-20.) All we have also belongs to God. "What hast thou that thou didst not receive." (I Cor. 4: 7.) "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof; the world and they that dwell therein." (Ps. 24: 1.) "The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of Hosts." (Hag. 2: 8.)

God owns us and all that we have by the right of creation, and He has never surrendered that right. In all the ancient land records in the world we find this entry: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." The basal principle of Christian Stewardship is the fact that God is the proprietor, owning us and all that we have; while we are stewards doing business with His capital. God through Paul, in the text, says it is required of stewards that a man be found faithful. He must do business with the capital of the Master according to the Master's direction, and must make such returns to the Master as He may demand. The standard is to have no will and way except as permitted by the Master Teacher. This stewardship involves immensely more than money. We are stewards of the mysteries of God. This means all the secret things that God has revealed unto His people in Christ and the Bible. As every man hath received the gift, even so minister the same one to another as good stewards of the manifold grace of God.

All the resources of God's grace are the capital with which every Christian may do business for his Master. But in this sermon I shall deal with stewardship in money, and all that it represents. The capacity to get money is a gift of God, which should be cultivated and used for Him. "Thou shalt remember the Lord thy God, for it is he that giveth the power to get wealth." (Deut. 8: 18.) The wage earner's strength of body, skill of hand and alertness of mind, are gifts of God. The intelligence of the farmer, the merchant, the artist, the banker, the writer, or the speaker, is the gift of God. A godly business man prayed daily: "Lord, give me a hand to get and a heart to give." As a steward the getting hand was as needful as the giving heart; and he was under obligation to please God in getting as well as in giving. If he stole or cheated or by any dishonest methods got money, he had no right to make God a receiver of stolen goods by giving them to Him.

There are four legitimate ways of getting money: First, earning it; Second, by buying and selling; Third, making it work for you through wise investments; Fourth, by inducing others to give for the benefit of any good cause you may represent. These four methods of getting money, define the wage earner, the merchant, the capitalist, and the agent, all of whom, if Christians, are stewards using their capacity as capital for Christ and His cause. Spending money is also a part of stewardship. Someone has said: "Acquisition makes money; distribution makes the man." Distribution without acquisition dissipates money. Acquisition without distribution dissipates the man. Dr. Cuyler says: "What a young man earns in the day goes into his pocket; what he spends in the evening goes into his character." Tell me how a man spends his money, and I will tell you his character. A faithful steward of money entrusted to him by Christ will carefully consult the Master as to how he should spend it, and thus spending money becomes an act of worship, as holy and joyful as prayer and praise.

Saving money is an important part of stewardship. We need to learn this lesson, for Americans are great money spenders. Economy with a view to doing good with the money we can save is a grace to be coveted. Stinginess which saves money just for the sake of owning it, or spending it on one's self, is a vice to be despised. It is another word for covetousness, which is idolatry and drowns souls in destruction and perdition. For the love of money is the root of all kinds of evil, which some searching after have been led astray from the faith and have pierced themselves through with many sorrows. The stingy, covetous man magnifies the importance of laying up for a rainy day, and the result is often a withered drought in his own soul. Saving money for the sake of enriching one's children, is often a sin against the children, who are robbed of the experiences which made sturdy character in their parents. Many are ruined by the dissipation which goes with idle, luxurious living. Saving for the sake of position, fame and power which wealth gives may possibly be prompted by a desire to do good through such position, fame and power, but it usually fosters ugly selfishness rather than beautiful charity. You are commanded to lay by in store as God has prospered you, with a view of giving to the work of Christ as need may be or arise. And as we are commanded to lay up treasures in heaven, which is really one act, for laying by for Christ is laying up in heaven. The money we lay by for Christ and use wisely in His services continues to work on through time and eternity. If you would become rich for eternity, use your money in such a way as to transmute the temporal into the eternal. Invest it in winning souls to Christ. Hoard your money in this bank of heaven, and when you fail, those whom you have won to Christ and who have gone on before, will receive you into everlasting habitation.

Paying money is also a part of stewardship. "If ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will commit to your trust the true riches." This means that God himself does not enrich with His graces the man who is unfaithful in the use of money. No Christian can afford to have the reputation for owing without paying. Jesus teaches in the Sermon on the Mount that grace constrains us not only to keep the law, but to go beyond the law and do more than it requires. "If compelled to go one mile, go two."

Every Christian should be a light revealing to the ungodly people of the world that he is following the Christ by doing as Christ has commanded him to do in his word.

Giving is doubtless the most important part of stewardship. Jesus said give alms of such things as ye have, and behold all things are clean unto you. It is more blessed to give than to receive. The word blessed means happy. In giving there comes a joy which is not dependent upon chance. It is a law as regular in its workings as the law of gravitation, that giving makes the giver happy; and getting money with a view to doing good by giving it, fills the toiler with joy. "Let him labor, working with his hands that which is good, that he may have whereof to give to him that hath need. (Eph. 4: 28.) The daily toiler goes to his work with a song in his heart, if he has the high and holy motive of working that he may help others in need, of body, mind, or soul. The Christian ought to be delighted to have the privilege to give. "What are you doing this morning," said a neighbor to a sturdy blacksmith. "Preaching the gospel to the regions beyond," answered the Christian man as he swung his hammer and remembered the subscription he had made to missions the day before. Toiling at the anvil had been glorified in the joyful service for the King of kings. True giving will always find a blessing. We are told that the Hebrew word for riches means burden, and someone has said, "There is too often, a burden of care in getting them, a burden of anxiety in keeping them, a burden of temptation in using them, a burden of guilt in abusing them, a burden of sorrow in losing them, a burden of account at last to be given up for possessing without improving them." But in giving there is great joy, which, like the wings of the bird, lifts the soul upward toward God in the spirit of self-sacrificing love. The Dead Sea takes in the Jordan and holds it; hence the death and repulsion. The Sea of Galilee takes in the Jordan and gives it off; hence its life and beauty.

Tithes and offerings—one tenth is the law; as God hath prospered, is the gospel. The gospel

(Continued on page 14.)

POWER FOR OUR CHILDREN.

I had the privilege this past winter to sit under the ministry of not only an able preacher, but a deeply spiritual one. Probably the sermon that impressed me most was on the subject of "One More Chance." The minister showed us a number of instances where Moses had another chance, when in a moment of anger and righteous indignation, he threw down and broke the tables of stone. Paul had another chance when he so ruthlessly persecuted the church of Christ, and was arrested by a heavenly vision. Peter had another chance after his denial of his Master. And I thought as I was able to be there and receive the inspiring message that God had given me another chance when He raised me up from a bed of pain and suffering, after a serious accident, that it was not merely for my own benefit, but that I might use my chance even as the repentant Peter, and try more faithfully to "feed my lambs and feed my sheep."

Each morning as I lay on my weary bed, I tried to find the most comforting verse in my chapter for my personal application, the one that came the closest to me was this, "If ye, then, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask Him." It came over me like a wave of light that all of our imperfections come from our not properly wanting, and asking for, our Father's "good things." Jesus, with His omniscient power, saw and reminded us of the evil that is in us. He also saw that the best thing in us is the desire to give good gifts to our children, and how satisfied and complacent we feel when we can give them good food, good clothes, a good home, a good education, etc. These material things we consider so necessary, yet how trivial they seem when compared to the good things our Father offers.

Dorothy Dix says, "The cause of so much crime among our young people is the falling down of our parenthood. That parenthood can be made a success when it's taken as our main business in life, but it cannot be successfully taken as a side-line. For instance, the woman who raises her children with her left hand, and does society or business with her right hand, will make a failure of the side-line." This view of Dorothy Dix as to causes of youthful criminality is corroborative with the judges and juries who try these young criminals, who attribute it to parental neglect and lack of religious instruction.

But let us hope that this sad state of affairs doesn't refer to Christian parenthood, for surely they are as deeply concerned for the salvation of their children as of their own. As parents, we can teach them even in childhood that their dear little bodies are God's temples for His Spirit to dwell in, therefore they must keep them pure and sweet and clean. We can teach them that the Sabbath is the holiest thing that God has entrusted to us, therefore He has special rewards for those who keep it holy, "even to ride upon the high places of the earth."

We can teach them to tithe, and then if prosperity comes to them later, we need not fear its corroding evils, for if they are started by giving alms to the poor and afflicted, and advancing God's Kingdom in other ways, they are not apt to turn to wicked ways.

We will now see how Peter first used his chance and how he told us the meaning of the "good things" for our children. Peter remembered that Jesus told him first "to feed my lambs," so he begins his great ministry with that in view. The expected Pentecost had come to the praying disciples, and the Spirit gave them utterance in other tongues so that all might have a chance, but the mocking world accused them of being drunken. Peter arises to their defense and says, "These are not drunken, as ye suppose, for it is only the third hour of the day. This is that which hath been spoken through the prophet Joel: And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams; and on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my Spirit, and they shall prophesy."

We belong to the same dispensation of Grace that Peter did, so we have the right to claim Joel's prediction for our sons and daughters. The Scofield Bible shows us that the New-Testament prophet is not necessarily a fore-teller, but a forth-teller, who goes forth to tell the good news of Jesus and salvation. How blessed are we when our children go forth with the glad tidings to those in sin and ignorance and degradation, and how blessed are we when our children have a spiritual vision of the needs of the world and answer as did Paul, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?"

And why shouldn't it be so? Then we older ones can dream dreams that our sons and daughters may be Peters and Pauls, and Marys and Lydias and Priscillas; for our God is no respecter of persons and we are just as dear to Him as those early disciples, if we do as they did, and give Him our whole hearts and willing service. Peter expected this, for he closes with this significant verse, "For the promise (of the Spirit) is to you and your children." So our children have the same inalienable right to inherit our religion, as to inherit our homes and our lands. Therefore it rests with us to make it a worthwhile inheritance, for if "we love God and keep His commandments, the covenant will last to a thousand generations."

The greatest need in our churches today, and the greatest need in our individual lives, is the power of the Holy Spirit. Jesus taught us that the Spirit is our Comforter, that He shall teach us all things and give power to His disciples. Now how is this great, unused power acquired? There is another reading of my comforting verse which gives the answer: "If ye then being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask Him." This explains that the "good things" are from or through the Holy Spirit, and that they are without money and without price, simply for the asking.

Dear Christian parents, don't you know that every day that we live, God is giving us another chance?—to pray more earnestly and faithfully, not only for our own, but for all the youth of the land, that God will pour out His Spirit upon them and give to them the power to make for us a purified and law-abiding country?

So let us close with this little prayer—

"Come, Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove,
With all Thy quickening power,
Kindle a flame of sacred love
In these cold hearts of ours.

"Dear Lord! and shall we ever live
At this poor dying rate,
Our love so faint, so cold to Thee,
And Thine to us, so great?"

EUGENIA HILL ARNOLD.

Elkins, W. Va.

"Lay thou thy treasure in the dust, and the gold of Ophir among the stones of the brooks; and the Almighty will be thy treasure, and precious silver unto thee."

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

BY REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

LESSON X—SEPTEMBER 5, 1926.

"THE TENT OF MEETING"

GOLDEN TEXT: "Jehovah spake unto Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend."—

Exodus 33: 11.

LESSON: Exodus 33.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 5: 1-7.

Religion was no side issue with Moses; it was an abiding and central fact of his life. He knew that if he was to lead the people aright, he would have to have a wisdom not of his own and a power greater than his own. Accordingly he made provision for spiritual insight and power by pitching a tent to which he and others resorted regularly, a tent that was sacred because it symbolized Jehovah's presence in the midst of the people. When Moses went into the tent, the people waited until they saw the pillar of cloud which symbolized Jehovah's presence, and then they worshipped, every man at his own door.

There is a tendency, a marked and powerful tendency on the part of many people, to break away from regular worship and appointed means of religious exercises. Our busy lives, our mistaken sense of values, our selfishness, are keeping us back from church attendance, Bible reading, prayer, and meditation. Let it be said here, that the man who neglects regular worship, both personal and social, does so at his peril. Man cannot live by bread alone. There are certain qualities of mind and heart that cannot grow without those influences and those natal forces which come from worship.

"And Jehovah spake unto Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend." Here is the foregleam of that spirit of intimacy which characterizes real prayer and which found its fullest expression in the prayer spirit and life of Jesus. Prayer, real prayer, is not a formal, mechanical repetition of phrases, the mere saying of words. Prayer is an intimate conversation between the Father and His child. Conversation—yes conversation, for prayer is not a monologue; it is a dialogue. The child not only talks with the Father; the Father talks with the child. It is at this point that our prayer life so often fails. We talk so much to God that He does not have an opportunity to talk to us. And here is the tragedy of it all too, for He has so many things to tell us, so many secrets to impart, so many truths to unfold. Happy is the man who can be still and know that He is God.

"And Moses said unto Jehovah, show me thy ways." Here is a universal cry of the human heart that does not go unanswered. The meek will He guide in judgment and the meek will He teach His ways. He that willeth to do His will shall know of the doctrine. Only yesterday the writer was reading a book about religion in which a great deal of emphasis was laid upon the fact that religion affords illumination or guidance in life's practical problems. What a comforting thought to all to know that God is our wisdom, that not only in the weightier matter of choosing a life-work, but even in the practical affairs of our every-day life, if any man lack wisdom he may ask of God who giveth liberally to all men.

"My presence shall go with thee, and I will give thee rest." Man wants more than guidance; he wants companionship. And here is the pledge that to those who walk in the way of the Lord there is the companionship of God himself. My presence shall go with thee—it is the connection of this faith, informed by experience that accounts for the heroic exploits of Christian men and women through all the ages. What we need in our modern life is an overmastering sense of companionship with God. Perhaps we would have more of it if our lives were purer and more consecrated to God.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

For September 5, 1926.

By F. C. LESTER.

"CHRISTIAN IDEALS."

TOPIC: "Christian Ideals and How to Reach Them."—Phil. 3: 12-14; 4: 8-9.

(Consecration Meeting.)

Hints to the Leader.

Read the whole book of Philippians and jot down the ideals presented. Read Acts 16, which tells of the beginning of the church at Philippi. Think how Paul must have felt when he wrote back to this church ten years later while awaiting death at Rome. Re-read the notes you have made and the verses for the lesson. Try to imagine what your community and the world would be like if Jesus and Paul had never lived. Now prepare your program to show the value of Christian ideals.

The Message of the Scripture.

In Acts 16 we are told how the Christian ideals were introduced into the great city of Philippi. Two strange preachers attended a prayer meeting down by the river. Lydia, a rich merchant-woman, believed their message and became a Christian. Some days later these preachers, Paul and Silas, were put in prison for healing a silly girl of her silliness. At midnight they sang praises and God heard them. Most people will sing when the sun shines and all goes well, but only the Christian continues when clouds hang low and all goes dead wrong. Though bound in the cruel stock, Paul knew that underneath were the everlasting Arms, and those arms were stretched out to deliver.

About ten years later Paul wrote from prison in Rome to the church at Philippi the letter from which we study. His heart was glad. "I thank my God upon every remembrance of you," was the first sentence after the salutation. The church was striving for the Christian ideal, and the founder of the church commended them and urged them on.

The Christian ideal can never be attained. It is a thing of growth. For those who grow, yesterday's ideals are like yesterday's clothes, too small. The thing that seemed good yesterday, is poor today and may be wrong tomorrow. Our grandfathers owned slaves and made brandy, and they were good men. But we know that slavery is wrong and have outlawed strong drink. The glory of Christianity is its progressive revelation of truth, its new and challenging ideals, its eternal privilege of growth. We may learn all there is in a book, but we can never exhaust the Christian ideal.

Every Endeavorer should memorize the "whatsoever" verses (Phil. 4: 8-9). The last message of the old pastor is crowded into these words. He could not have said more.

"Whatsoever things are true," are the things to seek out and learn. There is much that is false. Religion has been cluttered up with untruth, and partial truth. Science and philosophy often go far from truth. Movies and magazines smother truth with fiction and leave one with a false notion of life. Text-books and colleges sometimes teach the beliefs of men rather than search for the unvarnished truth. Young people all too often fill their minds with make-believe, childish dreams and silly chatter rather than delve down deep for truth. But those who seek for truth find it, and they are enriched thereby. "Whatsoever things are true . . . think on these things."

"Whatsoever things are honest," these are the things worthy of thought. The true story of honesty in business, home and church, seldom reaches the front page of the daily newspaper or fills columns in magazines, but it is still worth our thought.

Then there are the things that are just, pure, lovely, and of good report, which challenge our best thought. They are more than the sands of the sea for multitude. And like the poor, they are with us always. We may think of them when we will, and "as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

"I would be true,
For there are those who trust me;
I would be pure,
For there are those who care."

"And the God of peace shall be with you," when you live according to this ideal.

A Message for Today.

The ideals of Jesus are the highest and best the world has known.

These ideals are practicable today.

The only way to reach real happiness is in striving for the goal as set by Jesus.

The mass of young people are not thinking half so much about these ideals as about the latest fads in clothes, sports, etc.

Some young people and a few adults are seriously concerned about practicing the ideals of Jesus.

And, finally, thousands of Christian Endeavorers can greatly enrich their own experiences and make others much better by an honest effort to live by the ideals as set forth by Paul in this lesson.

Questions to Think About.

1. What was Jesus' ideal of home?
2. What was Jesus' ideal of the Church?
3. How does the Christian ideal touch business?
4. What is the Christian ideal for a High School or College student?

THE VARIOUS AGENCIES OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION.

By PATTIE LEE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

The Christian home is the greatest of institutions. Its influence is the most far-reaching. We have been told repeatedly by psychologists that we learn more in the first few years of life than at any other similar length of time; that physical and mental growth are both great during these early years. There are two reasons why Catholics can truthfully say that the child when given their religious training for seven years will always be a Catholic: First, the thoroughness of the training; and second, the impressionable age of a child of seven and under.

During the first few years of life, the home is practically the only influence. It is true that the person reared in a Christian home, where time and thought are put on training in consideration of others, honesty, politeness, and the

(Continued on page 14.)

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

DORIS DISCOVERS A BEAUTIFUL BUSH.

By BLANCHE SILVER.

One day, as Doris walked through the woods, she discovered a dear little bush by the side of the road.

"When I saw you at a distance," she laughed merrily, "I thought you were on fire. What in the world is your name, pretty bush."

"Then I guess I'm living up to my name," laughed the lovely bush, gently waving her branches in the breeze, "for folks call me Burning Bush. So you thought I was on fire, did you?"

"I certainly did," replied Doris. "Burning Bush! Well, that name suits you, for you do look like a flame. My, what pretty berries, and they look just like a flaming cross the way they are placed in the pods, don't they?"

"That's what folks say," said Mrs. Burning Bush. "You see, after my green leaves and purplish colored flowers fell off, I grieved and grieved. Then one morning in October, I opened my eyes to find the funny looking pods that still hung on my branches had burst open and curled back, and there were the scarlet berries. My, but I was happy, for I do hate to see a tree lose all its leaves. It looks so bare against the gray Winter sky."

"But will your berries stay on long?" asked Doris. "Won't the birds take them off?"

"Well, yes, the birds do help themselves," laughed Mrs. Burning Bush. "And you should see the faces they make when they taste them. The berries are as bitter as can be, and I've heard some folks say they are poisonous, but I've never seen any of the birds die from eating them."

"Now, those berries will hang onto the pods far into the winter, and when anyone looks at my bush all they can see is the tiny Maltese Crosses formed by the four scarlet berries resting in the swing pods."

"Well, you have good reason to be proud of them," Doris agreed, "for you certainly are a beautiful bush and deserve the name folks have given you. I wish Daddy would come out and take you and plant you in our yard."

"If wishing would help you any," laughed Mrs. Burning Bush, "I would wish he would, too. I would make a lovely spot on your lawn in winter. Then my purple flowers are beautiful in summer, too. The Blue Bird told me the other day, that in Oklahoma and Arkansas and Texas, the Burning Bushes grow to be good-sized trees; but I'm perfectly happy the way I am."

"You have every reason to be, and I'm going to ask Daddy to dig you up and plant you in our yard," and bidding the beautiful bush goodbye, Doris ran home as fast as she could go.

That night the little bush was placed in Daddy's yard, and should you happen to pass Doris' house in your travels some day, just peek over the fence and you'll see it, waving its scarlet crosses over the old wall.

"Firmness, both in suffering and exertion, is a character I would wish to possess. I have always despised the whining yelp of complaint and the cowardly, feeble resolve." — Robert Burns.

A Great Background Book

LANDMARKS in the STRUGGLE BETWEEN SCIENCE and RELIGION

by Professor J. Y. Simpson, M.A.,
D.Sc., F.R.S.E.

This book sets the present day controversy in its right historical setting. It is a survey of an age-long contest between truth and superstition. It makes religion as well as science a living, dynamic thing.

$2.00

DORAN BOOKS

TWENTY years ago Professor David Smith wrote "In The Days of His Flesh." For twenty years it has headed the list of books on Christ.

Now he has written:

OUR LORD'S EARTHLY LIFE

ANOTHER rich tribute to the Lord he loves. Characterized by mature scholarship and a marked humanist strain, this book has instantly gripped the hearts of readers.

$3.00

DORAN BOOKS

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

No. 04453

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35

(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick. (Weight 18 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25

Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jē-hōi'-ā-kim gave th silver and the gold to Phār'-aōh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50

(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick. (Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on fly style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

THE GREATEST QUALITY.

LESSON: Matt. 20: 25-28.

He gave "his life a ransom for many."

A human illustration and a living one is as follows:

When Richmond was taken during the Civil War, the chief military men planned a triumphal procession into the captured city, with President Lincoln leading the march. But Lincoln said, "How will I look at the head of those troops? That is no place for me." "Why, you are the President; that is the very place for you." was the answer. "But will it not hurt the feelings of the Southern people to have such a procession?" They answered, "We must not think of that, we must think of the victory." Mr. Lincoln said, "I do think of that, and if I go to Richmond, I will go in a quiet way. I will go with no banners." The procession was indefinitely postponed, and a few days later the President went down to Richmond alone, and said to the people: "I am not here to see what you can do for me, but I am here to see what I can do for you."

Jesus left His twelve legions behind when He entered the enemy's country. All unarmed, He dared to walk alone, for He had not come to see what others could do for Him, but what He could do for us. Having seen the conditions, and what would be the necessary remedy, He gave His life "a ransom for many."

Prayer.—Father of our loves and ambitions, Keep us from worldly ambitions and self-seeking, looking to Jesus, the Author and Finisher of our faith and our Example of true service and true greatness. In Christ's name. Amen.

TUESDAY.

LESSON: Psa. 63: 3-7.

"Thy lovingkindness is better than life."

The singers of Israel put life in the balances with the lovingkindness of God, and unhesitatingly exclaimed, "Thy lovingkindness is better than life."

Life, as it is, is sometimes a sordid picture. The world is passing by, the old and the young, the feeble and the strong, the sick and the well, the tired and the rested, the laborer and the pleasure-seeker; with all its joy there is the aspect of misery everywhere. This is life. God's lovingkindness is the over-shadowing presence. If there were no thorns to pierce the belt, no burdens to press the shoulders, no sorrow to sweeten the hearts, lovingkindness would be forgotten. But as summit tower above valley, so the lovingkindness of the Lord towers above life—over-shadows our souls, and when this brief life flickers out, we believe the new life will be spread before us in stupendous glory, and God's lovingkindness will be better than life.

Prayer.—Our Father, Satisfy our souls in Thee. May we realize that Thy love for us is immeasurable and that we may show our gratitude by obedience to Thee. In Christ's name. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

OLD TIME RELIGION.

"Stand ye in the ways and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way; and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls."—Jer. 6: 16.

The other Sunday a neighbor was passing a church after the church hour. A woman with five children was there waiting. He offered her a ride and took them home. It is the custom of this good woman every Sunday, after preparing her meals and doing the chores of home to prepare her children for Sunday School and church and go two miles, sometimes walking, that she may worship God and bring up her children as nearly right as she can. She says she never feels right if she has to miss her church devotions. That is the old time style. We need it.

Prayer.—Our Father, Help us to set a watch over our souls that we may never depart from the old and the true ways. Make Thy people a fortress among the people for Thee, and may all know the joy of Thy way. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

THURSDAY.

SEEKING AND WINNING SOULS.

LESSON: Colossians 4: 1-6.

Walk in wisdom toward them that are without, redeeming the time."

There are those among us who are without Christ. Our best service with reference to them should be in our daily life. This embraces both actions and speech. We are to walk in wisdom toward "those that are without." This involves, first, doing what is right. For their sakes we are always fully to meet the demands of the gospel standard, being engaged in noble endeavor. It is required that we do that which is becoming as Christians.

What do you do with your influence over those who are watching you, to learn what manner of man you are? Concerning our language, we are to let our speech be ever with grace, seasoned with salt.

To unbelievers we should be as epistles of the faith. Our deeds and our words must synchronize with what we are at heart—temples of the Holy Spirit, called to be followers of Christ, vessels of divine fulness.

At his father's funeral, Dr. William Moody is quoted as having said: "It wasn't father's preaching that affected me most. It was just father!" The son knew his parent, and that he was a true and faithful follower of the Master.

—Rev. Chas C. McIntire.

Closing Prayer.—Asking that every member of the household may not only give his or her heart to Christ, but may win others to a like consecration.

FRIDAY.

THE FAITH THAT WINS VICTORY.

LESSON: I John 5: 1-4.

"This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."

"The early believers in the Lord Jesus won the victory in their hearts before they won it on the field. In Christ Jesus they anticipated triumph, and their anticipations made the triumph possible." Thus wrote Dr. J. H. Jowett, with penetrating insight. Faint-hearted soldiers win no victories. Easily are they defeated. But, on the other hand, armies firmly believing in their cause, their country, their leaders and themselves, go courageously to meet the foe.

The same is true of the individual Christian in his daily living. "He can who thinks he can." Not that he regards himself as sufficient, but he anticipates by asserting that his "sufficiency is of God." The ring of victory is in his slogan, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

John asks a very searching question in which he associates triumph with faith in Christ. "Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God?" (I John 5: 5.) Those who thus believe, both anticipate and win the victory. —Rev. Wm. J. Hart.

Prayer (by parent). That our hearts be filled with love and gratitude to Him who has so greatly blessed us, and that our lives may be consecrated to His service.

SATURDAY.

THE PATRIARCH WHOM GOD TOOK.

LESSON: Heb. 11: 5-8.

"By faith Enoch was translated that he should not see death . . . for before his translation he had this testimony, that he pleased God."

A testimony has value because of what it says, but its preciousness lies in who says it. Study to show thyself approved unto God, for no higher aspiration is possible. Enoch had a testimonial that re-pleased God.

It was his faith that pleased God, for without faith, it is impossible to please Him. So thoroughly did Enoch believe that he actually talked with God as he walked, that no friend was more real to him than this One who is invisible. No hours, however profitable, gave such tremendous returns as those spent in communion with God.

God testified to Enoch through the sage's conscience that he was pleasing to Him. Every command of God he had tried to obey. Loving-kindnesses were showered upon him. Yes, and occasional chastisements, too. Gratefully he received them all, for were they not the testimony that he pleased God?

Best of all, God had granted him extraordinary privileges. As Moses had talked with God, face to face, as John had leaned on the Master's breast at supper, as Paul had been caught up into the "third heaven," as Elijah had been taken home in the whirlwind, so Enoch had walked with God until he was not, for "God took him." —Rev. D. D. Taggart.

Prayer (by one of the parents).—Asking that our faith in God may be strengthened and that we, like Enoch, may seek Him as our Guide, Adviser and Friend.

SUNDAY.

THE BLESSEDNESS OF DRUDGERY.

"This one thing I do."—Phil. 3: 13.

"Drudgery is the doing of one thing, one thing, long after it ceases to be amusing and it is 'This one thing I do' that gathers me together from my chores, that concentrates me from my possibilities to powers, and turns powers into achievements. . . . A whole long string of habits, attention, method, patience, self-control, and the others—can be rolled up and labeled in the one word, "concentration."

"I give you the end of a golden string,

Only wind it into a ball—

It will lead you in at heaven's gate,

Built in Jerusalem's walls."

W. C. Gannet.

Prayer.—Our Father, We pray to Thee for will and strength and courage to go forth from day to day, realizing that God is our helper, and we are fellow-helpers with Him. In this make burdens light and drudgery a way to rise to that which is higher. Amen.

Christian Orphanage

REPORT FOR AUGUST 26, 1926.

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

Brought forward	$ 15,634.76
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Rocky Ford	$ 2.25
Berea Sunday School	5.25
New Lebanon	2.00
New Lebanon Baracca Class	1.00
Lawrence M. Class, Elon College ..	1.60
Happy Home Sunday School	2.56
Bethlehem	4.09
Pleasant Ridge	1.00	19.75
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Bethlehem	$ 2.62
Isle of Wight	3.30	5.92
Western North Carolina Conference:
Shiloh		1.00
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Pleasant Union	$ 7.00
Liberty (Vance)	6.14
Catawba Springs	5.00
Shallow Well	3.18
Wake Chapel	5.47
Wentworth	11.00
Bethel Wake	2.50
Christian Light	2.70	42.99
Valley Virginia Conference:
Antioch	$ 8.91
Winchester	5.46	14.37
Alabama Conference:
Wadley	$ 1.48
Pisgah	2.00	3.48
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Hill Side		12.00
Special Offerings:
Mrs. H. A. Culver	$ 30.00
Junior Philatheas, Suffolk	2.50
E. M. Davenport	37.50
Young Ladies Cl., Liberty, Vance..	5.00	75.00
New Building Fund:
Cyrus Shoffner	$ 5.00
T. H. Crocker	5.00
Live Wire Class, Mt. Auburn	7.50
D. J. Fitch	15.00
Mrs. Alfred Hayes	4.00
Mt. Auburn S. S. Class	7.50
L. E. Carlton, Richmond, Va.	400.00
A Friend, Raleigh, N. C.	70.00	514.00
Total for the week	$ 688.51
Grand total	$ 16,323.27

PATRICK HENRY.

(Continued from page 5.)

never neglect. Henry's fondness for the Bible grew with his years. 'This book,' said he to his neighbor, 'is worth all the books that ever were printed, and it has been my misfortune that I have never found time to read it with the proper attention and feeling till lately. I trust in the mercy of Heaven that it is not too late.'

Colonel Samuel Meredith, in his sketch of Patrick Henry, says: "One thing is remarkable in Mr. Henry, and this information comes from his sister, Mrs. Meredith, a very pious woman, that he was never known in his life to utter the name of God except on a necessary or proper occasion. He was through life a warm friend of the Christian religion. He was an Episcopalian, but very friendly to all other sects, particularly the Presbyterian. His father was an Episcopalian, his mother a Presbyterian. He was so well pleased with Soame Jenyns' 'Internal View of Religion' that, meeting with a copy of it when he was Governor, or shortly after, he had several hundred copies printed and distributed at his own expense. Doddridge's 'Rise and Progress of Religion' was his favorite author on the subject of religion."

The lofty moral tone of Henry's life is shown in a letter dated January, 1799, when referring to trouble with France, he wrote: "Her conduct has made it the interest of the great family of mankind to wish the downfall of her present government, because its existence is incompatible with that of all others within its reach. And whilst I see the dangers that threaten ours from her intrigues and her arms, I am not so much alarmed as at the apprehension of her destroying the great pillars of all government and of social life; I mean, virtue, morality, and religion. This is the armor, my friend, and this alone, that renders us invincible. These are the tactics we should study. If we lose these, we are conquered, fallen indeed. In vain may France show and vaunt her diplomatic skill and brave troops; so long as our manners and principles remain sound, there is no danger. . . . I am too old and infirm ever again to undertake public concerns. I live much retired, amidst a multiplicity of blessings from that Gracious Ruler of all things to whom I owe unceasing acknowledgements for His unmerited goodness to me; and if I was permitted to add to this catalogue one other blessing, it would be that my countrymen should learn wisdom and virtue, and in this their day know the things that pertain to their peace."

Morgan says: "Henry died well—and in the full faith. 'Oh, how wretched should I be at this moment,' he said, 'if I had not made my peace with God.'"

"All other remedies having failed, Dr. Cabell proceeded to administer a dose of liquid mercury. Taking the vial in his hand, and looking at it a moment, the dying man said:

"I suppose, doctor, this is your last resort?"
 "The doctor replied: 'I am sorry to say, Governor, that it is.'

"Then he said: 'Excuse me, doctor, for a few minutes'; and drawing over his eyes a silken cap which he usually wore, and still holding the vial in his hand, he prayed, in clear words, a simple, childlike prayer for his family, for his country, and for his own soul, then in the presence of death. Afterwards, in perfect calmness, he swallowed the medicine.

"Meanwhile, Dr. Cabell, who greatly loved him, went out upon the lawn, and in his grief threw himself down upon the earth under one of the trees, weeping bitterly. Soon, when he had sufficiently mastered himself, the doctor came watching the congealing of the blood under his finger-nails, and speaking words of love and peace to his family, who were weeping around his chair. Among other things, he told them he was thankful for that goodness of God which, having blessed him all his life, was then permitting him to die without any pain. Finally, fixing his eyes with much tenderness on his dear friend, Dr. Cabell, with whom he had formerly held many arguments respecting the Christian religion, he asked the doctor to observe how great a reality and benefit that religion was to a man about to die. And after Patrick Henry had spoken to his beloved physician those few words in praise of something which, having never failed him in all his life before, did not then fail him in his very last need of it, he continued to breathe very softly for some minutes; after which they who were looking upon him saw that his life had departed."

H. H. SMITH.

Blackstone, Va.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlockink, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined..... 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St. - - - Richmond Va.

FAITHFULNESS AS CHRISTIANS.

(Continued from page 9.)

always goes beyond the law. For Israel to withhold the tithe was to rob God. The law said: all the tithes is the Lord's. (Lev. 27:30.) The tithe was, therefore, a debt to God, which the Israelite must pay before he could give anything. After he had paid his tithe, he might give as many free will offerings as he pleased. There could be no giving until the tithe was paid. Abraham paid tithes to Melchisedek, the priest of the most high God. (Gen. 14:20.) When Jacob promised to pay tithes, he simply expressed his spirit of obedience to a law which he knew existed. The law of God demanded one seventh of the time, and one tenth of the income. The Christian may go beyond the law in giving all his time, but he does not therefore abrogate the law. One seventh of our time is the minimum requirement, while all the time is the maximum privilege. So the Christian may go beyond the law and give all he has, but in so doing he does not abrogate the law. One tenth of his income is the minimum requirement, while ten tenths is the maximum privilege. He is a steward both of the law's requirements and the gospel's privileges.

Jesus, in Matt. 23:23, refers to the law of tithing, and the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy and faith, which we now call the gospel. When He said, "These ought ye to have done, and not to have left the other undone," Jesus approves the principle of tithing and incorporates it into the moral law as expressed by the word ought. And He insists that we go beyond this requirement and also attend to the weightier matters of judgment, mercy, and faith.

The Christian, to be sure, will not insist that he ought to do less than the Jew. One-tenth of his income ought, therefore, to be laid by in store for the Lord's work, while he gladly gives free will offerings as prompted by considerations of judgment, mercy and faith. But this I say, he that soweth sparingly shall also reap sparingly, and he which soweth bountifully shall also reap bountifully. We have little to give because we give so little. Linked with Christ, money brings large returns. The widow's two-fifths of a cent given in love and faith has increased to millions of dollars. The alabaster box, broken and poured upon the head of Christ, has filled the ages with its perfumes; and as a result, millions of alabaster boxes have been poured upon His head.

THE VARIOUS AGENCIES.

(Continued from page 12.)

simple virtues, and where the parents are living examples of all they teach; can never wholly depart from such teaching. It may seem that they fall short of what we expect of them, but they can never get wholly away from it. If the virtues do not show normally they will come to the surface in a crisis when decisions have to be made.

The stories of days when fathers were priests in their own families, and family prayers opened and closed each day, are cherished by most of us even if they are not memories to us. Would that we had more family altars; especially since there are so many inspirational and devotional books which might be used with the Bible.

It is from the Christian home that the church must recruit its members; it is the foundation upon which all other agencies must build.

* * *

The Church as an institution has stood the test of time and severe persecutions. The church tower, pointing heavenward, is an appropriate symbol of what Christianity means to the world. It is an inspiration to look from a tall building across a city and see above all else the church spires. One is reminded of the picture of Christ weeping over the city—and the challenge to serve comes.

If the church as an institution is so important, and we wish it to serve more largely, it is our duty to inform others of its power. The

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

Sunday School with its various departments and organizations exists for this purpose. People interested in the church have a right to expect that they will be informed about it, that they will be given definite training in preparation for service, and finally that they will be given something to do in this church. They would expect this much of any organization. All of this instruction, inspiration and opportunity for service, should produce Christians; not people who merely know, but who live Christian lives in their daily living with their fellowmen.

Dr. Walter S. Athearn has said that the reason for Graded lessons is that "the child is God's graded child; that his development is that of growth when life is constantly unfolding." If this is true, different aged children have different capabilities, and different needs which must be met in a special way.

The beginner's conception of God as the heavenly Father much like his own loving earthly father, would be different from the adult's conception of Him as the personal God, and of Christ as the Saviour. The physical, mental, social and religious needs of the child must be studied carefully, and these needs met in the light of these facts. It is no easy job but it is a challenging one!

The Christian Endeavor Society may, and should, be a great agency for religious education. The Christian Endeavor Society which exists to perpetuate its own organization, or leaves out the Christian emphasis or the "endeavor" part, and works against, rather than in harmony with, the Sunday School, will fail—and should. A Christian Endeavor program as handed down from any overhead organization without revision, is not adequate, because when a Christian Endeavor Society is needed in the local church it is needed to meet the definite needs, not imaginary ones, of the young people of the local church. A program should be built to meet these needs and to produce the peculiar results needed in that local church.

A Christian Endeavor Society should never be satisfied until all of its members are actively enrolled in the Sunday School, and are doing something to help build up the school. This plea is for a definite tying up of the Christian Endeavor Society to the Sunday School and the church, carrying out its motto of "For Christ and the Church."

The Daily Vacation Bible School is one of the most effective agencies of religious education, because it meets a real need. Too many of our Sunday Schools can not give the proper religious instruction to its boys and girls because of the lack of time. The Daily Vacation Bible School provides time for consecutive and intensive religious instruction when children's thoughts are not divided between Sunday School and public school. College students, teachers, and high-school students are often glad to spend part of their vacation in helping in such a school. Pastors, parents, and children enjoy the work and feel that it is worth while.

The Christian Colleges all through this and other countries, are sending out each year a large number of persons prepared for Christian service, both in local churches and as a profession. Elon and Bethlehem Colleges are doing just this thing for the Southern Christian Convention. They offer definite courses in Religious Education, giving not only content courses but methods of instruction.

BOOTLEGGING IN SERMONS.

A few years ago we remember receiving a communication from a preacher in the West who proposed to furnish us weekly sermons at a very reasonable price. In fact, they were cheap—about a dollar and a half apiece. As we were at that time receiving about three dollars and a half for the ones we thrust on the people, it seemed a good proposition, as it furnished the goods and gave two dollars profit. We never ordered any of them, but he sent one along as a sample. When we read it, we felt sure the ones we were giving our sheep were better than his, and we kept on giving them the home cooking rather than canned goods.

We had not heard from this sermon bootlegger for several years until a few weeks ago we saw where he was serving a long term in prison for defrauding people through the mails. He went from sermon bootlegging to a bigger game of selling bogus stock in some oil company. It is best for preachers to avoid bootleggers, whether they bootleg in liquor, oil stock, or canned sermons.—Richmond Christian Advocate.

"He will be our guide, even unto death."

Good railroad transportation is cheap

"There are three things which make a nation great and powerful—a fertile soil, busy workshops and easy conveyance for man and goods from place to place."—LORD BACON

POOOR railroad transportation, with its attendant delays and uncertainties, is expensive and wasteful, irrespective of the charges for it. All shippers know that.

On the other hand, regular and dependable service greatly assists the economical operation of industry. All shippers know this, too.

Thus the cost to the purchaser of railroad service must be measured as much by the quality of the service as by the actual charge in dollars and cents.

But even the actual dollar and cent calculation of railroad charges shows how cheap service on the Southern Railway System is in relation to other things. The cost of almost everything has increased about 70 per cent in the last decade, but the average freight charges on the Southern have increased only 35 per cent.

In relation to the cost of other things, transportation on the Southern is cheap. And when measured by the quality of service rendered, it is one of the cheapest things that can be bought today.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. ... Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year$ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

OBITUARIES.

CARTER.

James Henry Carter, Suffolk, Va., son of the late John A. and Margaret Williams Carter of Gates County, N. C., died August 12, 1926, aged 66 years. The funeral services were conducted at Holy Neck Christian Church by the writer assisted by Rev. I. W. Johnson, D. D., and the burial was in the Holy Neck cemetery.

The deceased leaves a widow, who was Annie Rebecca Harrell, and four sons and three daughters: John J. and Turman F. Carter, Holland, Va., Riddick M. Carter, Philadelphia, Pa., Mrs. Archie T. Jernegan, Franklin, Va. and Mrs. Lemuel L. Jernegan, Drum Hill, N. C.; and Jeter M. and Miss Verne Carter of Suffolk, Va. Two brothers, Mike L. Carter, Holland, Va., and Andrew Carter, Whaleyville, Va.; two sisters, Miss Eva Susie Carter and Mrs. P. H. Lee, fourteen grandchildren, and a large number of nephews and nieces, also survive.

Mr. Carter was a native of Gates County, N. C., and came to Nansemond County, Va., twenty years ago. He was a member of the Suffolk Christian Church.

Our sincerest sympathy is extended to his sorrowing loved ones.

N. G. NEWMAN.

HOPPER.

Alexander Hamilton Hopper departed this life August 17th, aged 56 years, 8 months and 14 days. He passed away about three hours after an operation in St. Leo's Hospital. He was a member of Happy Home Christian Church.

Before his operation, he expressed his willingness and readiness to go. He leaves to mourn their loss, his wife, two sons and two daughters, three brothers and one sister.

The attendance at the funeral was very large. May God bless the bereaved ones. The funeral and burial service was by the writer.

P. T. KLAPP.

IMMORTALITY.

Who does not feel that it would change everything if he believed with his whole soul in his immortality? It would supply him with a totally new standard of values—many things which the world prizes and pursues he would utterly despise, and many things which the world neglects would be the objects of his most ardent pursuit.—James Stalker.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 3/8 x 4 1/2 inches$4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick.....$6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick)$7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red$6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red$8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick...$9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria

Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address

THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in color. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Isaiah, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearer Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 9/8 inches

Specimen of Type: AND the third day there came of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles$60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges.....$70

2115P. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included$1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes 2314. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges$85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included$1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer 2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, Divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included$2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1926.

NUMBER 35.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Minnows and Malaria.—

Two thousand minnows are being sent from this country to the Argentine Republic in an effort to combat malaria there. The minnow is said to thrive on malaria-carrying mosquitoes.

Where Power is Placed.—

The following is taken from "Mr. Ford's Page of the Dearborn Independent: Neither optimist nor pessimist will ever be trusted with the reins. People are interested in extremists, but do not place responsible power in their hands. Extremists measure the distance sidewise, they do not extend the road in front. They are like channel lights that mark the shoals on either side, something to steer by, but not to steer toward. Extermists are useful as limits—and there are two extremes to everything. But we are not journeying to limits, we are journeying between them. Progress comes that way. It will loose many minds from needless burdens if they can learn to look upon extremists, not as leaders, but as way-lights showing the width of the road on either side."

Loans, or Gifts?—

Just why European countries felt that the money borrowed from American taxpayers would not have to be repaid has puzzled quite a few, yet the answer will be found in the fact that the Treasury advanced billions of dollars carelessly, loosely, informally.

Secretary Mellon, on the eve of his departure, challenging Britain's contentions, said: "It is clear that when the advances were made to our allies they knew and we knew they were loans, not gifts." Is it clear? There were no contracts, no notes, no agreements to repay. The United States did not require any formal documentation, and of course the borrowing government did not see fit to suggest any. And in the United States no one was shocked when it was announced that nothing but a few memoranda, signed by the respective ambassadors or high commissioners, existed in the Treasury to account for the disbursements.

If the foreign borrowers have a loose idea about the debts, one must not be too severe, for the Treasury was very loose in its method of doing business. Even though it involved finance, the fact that it was a deal with foreign governments brought it within the purview of diplomacy. Thus American diplomacy really paved the way for the misapprehension which exists abroad.

Mexican Miracles.—

The warfare between the Church and the State of Mexico has been marked by miraculous intervention in behalf of the clerics. We are informed that in San Luis a group of the faithful which had assembled before the church door heard footsteps and the sound of a bell within the deserted sanctuary. Some of the women in the group had the audacity to peep through the keyhole, and immediately declared that they could see the image of the Holy Virgin walking up and down the nave of the church moaning and lamenting her captivity. The crowd became excited and tried to break down the doors in order to liberate their patron. The Nation, which tells the incident, says that at this point a police inspector arrived and courteously addressed himself to the distressed image. If the Virgin, he said, would be good enough to come out into the streets of the city, he would himself accompany her on her nocturnal walk. The image did not take advantage of the offer. In any event, after this time, the miracles ceased and the empty church remained silent. The same journal from which we extract this information tells of another miracle which happened in San Pedro. A family in that city had an image of the Heart of Jesus which they kept under a glass cage in their home. After President Calles began to treat the church so rudely, it was observed that the image began weeping. The community, says the Nation, "flocked to see the miracle, which they interpreted as a symbol of divine sorrow at the persecution of the church." Unfortunately for the hypothesis, the mayor, who had leanings toward agnosticism, looked into the situation more closely and found that bits of wax and a strong lamp behind the image co-operated to produce the tears. In spite of protests, the owners of the miraculous figure were arrested and put in prison.

Protestants in the United States should ponder upon the facts above mentioned when they are attempting to reach a conclusion as to the religious-political situation in Mexico.—Ex.

Points of Citizenship.—

"The Duties of Citizenship" formed the subject of a recent charge to the Grand Jury of Tift Co., Ga., by Judge R. Eve. At a time when there is such insistent clamor for "rights" and "personal liberty" it is well to consider a thoughtful tabulation of the responsibilities that inevitably go hand in hand with the assumption of rights and liberties.

In mechanics, for every action there is an equal and opposite reaction. Similarly in the social order, for every privilege, "right" or "personal liberty" assumed by the individual there is the corresponding obligation to permit to all fellow-citizens an equal privilege, right or personal liberty.

So much is self-evident and will be conceded by all right-minded men. But in the application of this axiom to our complex social order, with all its impersonal regulative agencies, men become confused, lose sight of the simple axiom concerning the rights of other men, and so demand more than their share. Yet the permanence of any organization, from a fishing club to a nation of 112,000,000 is dependent upon the willingness of those members to obey the rules adopted for its regulation.

In analyzing the responsibilities of citizenship in a "government by the consent of the governed," Judge Eve tabulates 17 points:

"I. To acquaint myself with the fundamental principles of the Constitution and laws of the United States and the State of which I am a citizen.

"II. To inform myself on public issues and the character of candidates; then to speak and act as a patriot.

"III. To vote in all elections according to the dictates of an enlightened conscience.

"IV. To become an active member of some political party pledged to the highest and best in public service; to hold my duty as a citizen high above all party ties.

"V. To hold the faith 'That right makes might' and in that faith dare to do my duty as I understand it.

"VI. To play no favorites; to stand for the vigorous and impartial enforcement of all laws.

"VII. To obey all laws myself and expect others to do it; to uphold officers in the enforcement thereof.

"VIII. To openly and vigorously work for the repeal of all useless or unjust statutes and Constitutional provisions.

"IX. To stand as a ready soldier, an honest tax-payer, a willing and impartial juror, a faithful though inconspicuous public servant.

"X. To know my Government; to impart that knowledge; to realize what that Government does for us all, and to understand what we should do for it.

"XI. To encourage good men to enter and remain in the public service. To serve myself when called.

"XII. To stimulate patriotism, good feeling and loyal co-operation among all classes of our citizens.

"XIII. To strive against all efforts to arouse race, religious, class or sectional prejudice.

"XIV. To let my knowledge and interest follow my country's affairs around the world.

"XV. To know that I am bound to my State, my nation and to humanity, and they to me.

"XVI. To openly oppose and publicly denounce the traducers of my country's institutions and the slanderers of her public servants.

"XVII. To carry to the foreign-born and the affiliated the message of true Americanism."—Manufacturers' Record.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Our colleges are opening this week, and we bespeak for them each a prosperous year.

The Executive Committee of the Southern Christian Convention was in session at Suffolk, Va., Saturday, August 28th.

Conferences that failed to select a place of meeting should do so soon, and give the people time to prepare for their entertainment.

Helium has been solidified into a transparent mass for the first time by Professor Keesom, of Leyden University. His predecessor, Professor Onnes, succeeded in liquifying helium, but was unable to solidify it.

Brother W. J. Edwards announces that he will be glad to hear from any church that wishes a pastor for the coming year. Those who are interested can reach him by addressing a letter to him at Ether, Montgomery County, N. C.

Historic Fort Henry, whose gallant defense inspired in Robert Scott Key the writing of "The Star Spangled Banner," is to be restored by the Government. Plans have been made for equipping the fort as it was at the time of the British attack during the War of 1812.

"Dr. W. T. Walters, writing as president of the Virginia Valley Central Conference, says: "This is to inform your commission that the Virginia Valley Central Conference, without a dissenting voice, assumed both the apportionment and the benevolence budget, and voted the apportionment on the churches."

The Mission Board of the Southern Christian Convention, Hon. J. E. West, Suffolk, Va., chairman, and J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C., secretary, is to meet in regular session at the Christian Church, Suffolk, Va., 9 A. M., September 15th. If there are communications to be laid before the Board, the same should be addressed to the Secretary, Elon College, N. C.

At a recent meeting of the Publication Board plans were made looking forward to a better system of financing the publishing interests of the Convention. It is hoped that the plans inaugurated will be not only of great benefit to the Church paper, but of economic value to the Convention. The co-operation of the whole brotherhood, ministers and laymen, is solicited in this effort.

The enlarged and greatly improved Liberty Spring Church, with its now ample Sunday School rooms, was rededicated last Sunday. Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, Durham, N. C., preached the sermon at the eleven o'clock hour. A great audience of happy worshippers was present. The Mission Secretary preached at night. Dr. Johnson, the pastor, and his co-workers, are certainly to be congratulated on their great, good work of progress and enlargement of this splendid rural church.

"Man differs from lower forms of animals largely in that he is able to reason and control his impulses to some extent. There is no doubt that one who allows himself to satisfy every desire, follow every impulse, weakens his power of resistance and he soon finds himself going swiftly down the road of degradation. It seems at times as if it would be wonderful to create a Utopia, or place where every wish is fulfilled, every desire satisfied. And yet it is doubtful if those things denied us, those things that seem so desirable because they are denied, would not lose their glamor if obtained. The pauper wishes for money to be able to satisfy his appetite, some millionaires would give their money for a healthy appetite. One often decries the fact that he is destined to struggle to overcome difficulties, such as lack of finance, diseases, etc., in order to exist, but still is forced to admit that if existence were too easily obtained, life would indeed become monotonous."

The two terms "Confidence" and "Faith" are closely allied. They are the foundation of civilization, the two stones upon which humanity builds. Without them man could hardly exist. Where they are found lacking, progress is not in evidence. In the individual, in the community, in the nation, they are the important factors. The individual must have confidence in himself before he can accomplish anything. The child does not learn to walk, the motorist learn to drive, the aviator to fly his ship, or men become efficient in the thousands of things of daily life until through experience they know themselves to be able to accomplish them. Without confidence and faith in others the credit system that is so essential to economic development would, be impossible. One man sells goods to another, a person thousands of miles away whom he has never seen, and accepts a check or draft in payment because he trusts the consignee. The evolution of business and the discoveries of science have tended to closely connect humanity and to make each person dependent on thousands of others for existence. Since it is obvious that everyone must depend to a certain extent on some one else for food and clothes, trust must be put in their fellowmen in order to obtain them with greater facility. If a man had confidence in no one, if he had no belief, if he would not accept the assertions of others, what a miserable life he would lead. All are acquainted with the chronic doubter, the man who has no confidence in even his own ability, and it is doubtful if one of this kind could be found who had contributed the least thing to civilization. Albert Pike, the philosopher and authority on Scottish Rite Masonry, said, "Faith is a necessity to man. Woe to him who believes in nothing!"

THE EASTERN VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

On Wednesday, November 1, 1792, there met in Baltimore, Maryland, that memorable conference of the Methodist Church in which James O'Kelly uttered those soul-stirring words, "Brethren, hearken unto me. Put away all other books and forms, and let this (holding up a copy of the New Testament) be the only criterion, and that will satisfy me."

And now 124 years, almost to the day, after James O'Kelly, the Father of our Church, made this speech, there will meet in Maryland, at the Webster Community Christian Church, the 106th Session of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference.

Have we neglected to see that our own local church be represented at this Conference which meets November 2nd to 4th? If so, why not arouse ourselves and attend to this at once.

Let us, the spiritual children of such a noble character as James O'Kelly, make this first meeting of our conference in Maryland, another memorable event, as James O'Kelly did here, just 39 miles away, one hundred and thirty-four years ago.

The Webster Church is standing today alone in this State, and it is having a stormy time indeed. By your presence you can show what the Christian Church is doing. If you can realize the conditions under which this church was brought into being, and under which it now labors, you will no longer hesitate at once to elect your delegates and send word to the Church, "We are coming, count on us."

Will this be your answer?

The Committee on Entertainment is very anxious to hear from all pastors and church clerks before October 15th.

I would advise all who can do so to make the trip north by automobile. The distance from Christian Temple, Norfolk, to the Webster Church via Williamsburg and Richmond, is about 311 miles, or about 343 miles via Suffolk, Franklin and Petersburg. The distance from Richmond is 200 miles, and by the time Conference meets the roads will be in excellent condition all the way.

The cost of the trip north should not exceed Three Dollars a person, provided you have four or five to the car. One can leave Norfolk in the early morning, and by easy driving arrive at Webster in the early evening. I have made the trip myself, and without hard driving made the entire trip in ten hours.

Come now, let us remember we voted strong to come to Webster. Let's make good!

M. W. SUTCLIFFE,
Member of Program Committee.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION.

Judge Alfred J. Talley, as the lay spokesman of the Catholic Hierarchy in his capacity of President of the Association for the Protection of Religious Rights in Mexico is reported in the public press as demanding again that the United States should break with the Mexican Government.

In the interest of a clear understanding of the Mexican Government I wish to call to the attention of the people of the United States that the statement of this official spokesman that the position of the Mexican Government toward the Church is "because the Church stands for individual and property rights" and that the Mexican Government's purpose "was to drive out religion" are at total variance with the historical facts. His reference to "Bolshevik aims" is also in direct variance with the same facts.

The spokesman for the Church Hierarchy in Mexico, Archbishop Mora y del Rio, is evidently better acquainted than Judge Talley with the history of Mexico for on the day before Judge Talley's statements were published the Archbishop addressed a letter to the President of Mexico which he said was written "to complain of the Reform Laws of the Constitution of 1857, effective since 1873 and subsequently incorporated in the Constitution of 1917."

It is a far cry of 69 years from the Constitution of 1857 and at the time such a word as "Bolshevik" was unknown. This Constitution was modeled largely on that of the United States and I must believe that Judge Talley has never read it or he would have known that it specifically protects "individual and property rights." Neither did intend "to drive out religion" to quote Judge Talley's words. If it had the first sentence in it would not have been "In the Name of God and by the authority of the Mexican people."

Certain provisions in the Constitution and the Reform Laws growing out of such provisions did take away certain special privileges from the Church Hierarchy such as their being only amenable to ecclesiastical courts erected by themselves. It also provided for absolute liberty for all religious cults thus abrogating the clause in the previous Constitution declaring the Roman Catholic religion to be alone recognized.

The Church Hierarchy in the days following the adoption of the Constitution made no attempt to evade the real issue. It was an attack upon the special privileges they had enjoyed for centuries. Rome spoke out clearly, so clearly that its sentiments could not be misunderstood. Pope Pius IX fulminated against the Constitution. "We raise Our Pontifical Voice with apostolic freedom before you to condemn, reprove, and declare null, void, and without any value the said decrees, and all other which have been enacted by the civil authorities in such contempt of the ecclesiastical authorities of this Holy See, and with such injury to the religion, to the sacred pastors and illustrious men."

A short time afterward, when the Church Hierarchy placed Zuloaga temporarily in the Presidential office, pledged to nullify and abolish the laws and decrees aimed at the special privileges of the Church, Pope Pius IX wrote him a letter praising him for his zeal and stating frankly his joy in noting "how earnestly you and your government desire to establish relations with this Holy See, and to work assiduously that our Holy Religion may flourish in its height of power in Mexico."

Judge Talley certainly has a right to champion the rights of the Catholic Church or any other church to special privileges. He may honestly believe that it is for the good of the people of Mexico and other countries that such special privileges should exist. Those who fought against the provisions in the Mexican Constitution dealing with the special privileges of the ecclesiastical establishment in the past believed so and said so. But neither Judge Talley nor any other spokesman for the Church Hierarchy has a right to becloud the issue. Let them emulate the frankness of Pope Pius IX. If their position is a just and proper one, they have nothing to lose from such frankness.

ARTURO M. ELIAS,
Consul General of Mexico.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Alabama Conference will meet with the Church at Bethany on Tuesday, October 12, 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M. G. D. Hunt, President; E. M. Carter, Secretary.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 2, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 16, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church, Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1926. G. O. Lankford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 8, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x 7 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 1-1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1-1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 3/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 3/8 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.
red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools $9c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x5 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 1-5-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/4 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN

133c East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN C. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

HOW TO MAKE BUSINESS CHRISTIAN.

The age-long struggle has been that of the material seeking to dominate the spiritual. This conflict was never more marked and more desperate than today. There has been almost suddenly an enormous impetus given to material progress and achievement. A recent thinker has expressed it, "The world of commerce and industry has expanded with bewildering rapidity, the secrets of nature have been penetrated and utilized, and what were formerly looked upon as geographical and racial barriers have been hurled down so that all material forces of life have been fused into a new unity." The great question arising is: Shall this unified force in the material world dominate the spiritual in men and society?

It has been declared that the recent world war resulted from an ever increasing material development which was practically untouched and uncontrolled by spiritual influences.

There had been expansion of Christianity, it is true, but there had been a line of cleavage and distinction between the spiritual and the material. The great revival started by John Wesley and carried on by ardent supporters of the Gospel, bore spiritual fruit that was and is abundant, but in many instances this fruit was spiritual only, and was a thing apart from the industrial and material. There were those who held that religion had little to do with business and less to do with statecraft and diplomacy. When the conflict came between a developing Christianity and a rapidly expanding industrialism, the explosion was tremendous, and its sound was heard throughout the whole earth.

The question is by no means settled. The religious world today faces this fact: Shall a rapidly expanding industrialism materialize the spirit of man, or shall an expanding and increasing spirituality dominate and control men and women in industry? In the next few generations that age-long question seems likely to find solution. This is as sure as that day follows night, namely; that we must Christianize our industry, or industry will materialize our Christianity. We are coming to learn that spirituality is not a thing apart. It is nothing more or less than a vital, living, working program. Who is the spiritually minded man other than the one that has in himself spiritual power through and by which all his business transactions and ideals are directed and controlled? The spiritually minded one is the one who can turn a mind, dominated by the spirit, to all business attitudes and undertakings. Paul tried in great wisdom and force to teach this in his day, "For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." Carrying a carnal mind into business, into affairs, into industry, means ultimately death to him who carries such a mind. But to carry a spiritual mind into the six days of the week means to find life and peace in that work and to conquer the hardships and difficulties, the trials and the obstacles of that work, and get out of it life and peace. Spiritual-mindedness does not mean aloofness from business, a withdrawing from affairs, the willingness and ability merely to talk often of spiritual things and to offer up long prayers. It means the power of the mind and heart to turn all one's strength and energy into whatever pursuits one is engaged in and dominate all the activities in the world of work and industry with spiritual zest and fervor.

The only hope of doing this is to make Jesus our leader and silent partner, not only at church on Sunday or in our periods of worship and devotion, but in all the activities and attitudes of the week. He it is who overcomes the rule of gold in business by putting the golden rule into business. This cannot be done by a simple resolution of mind or vow of intellect. It is done by making Jesus our friend, our constant counselor, our example and our guide in all the undertakings of the day and of the week. He alone has given a program by which business may be Christianized and the industrial world spiritualized. This was no dream of His. He lived it Himself and showed us how we might make our business Christian and our lives spiritual in all of their moods, activities and attitudes.

SHALL WE ADOPT THE LARGER PROGRAM?

It is always difficult to take a forward step in church life, especially when taking that step seems to entail added obligations and responsibilities. Those who support the church and its enterprises from year to year always feel that they are doing about all they can. And it also happens that in many churches all matters of financial nature are held off until about the last of the year. We fall into grooves in church life and giving, and it matters little as to what we make or lose during the year, many of us go on in about the same way from year to year. It is hardly fair to treat the church in this way. The church represents the Kingdom of our Lord on earth, and Jesus always represented this Kingdom as one of growth, constant development, and enlargement. All His parables touching the Kingdom illustrate this truth and teach this necessity. If we are in the Kingdom of God, we are in a going and a growing concern. Moreover, this Kingdom is to spread from the rivers to the end of the earth, and is to be without frontiers. Now it may be that our financial income individually may not increase from year to year, but if the church represents at all the matter of growth in the Kingdom of our Lord on earth, then the church is growing and from year to year should have a larger part in helping to build that Kingdom. If all have not increased financially in the local church, probably some have, and maybe during the year many who were out have been taken in, and there should have a part in helping to carry forward the work of the Kingdom in the church.

If the church itself increases in membership and in resources, her enterprises and institutions likewise increase in numbers and in cost. So the church as a whole should, from time to time, put on new and larger programs, unless the church is to become stagnant and paralyzed.

Our Christian Church is now faced with the necessity of a larger program. Every institution and enterprise of the church demands larger resources. Our Durham Convention sought to work out a plan and a program looking into enlarged income for all the enterprises and institutions of our Southern Convention. Many may decide that a better program could have been worked out, but, at any rate, the Convention did its best, and made a plan sufficiently elastic to give every local church its preference, and the opportunity of using its own initiative in undertaking a larger and more constructive work. This plan has been passed on to the conferences through their Executive Committees, and, when explained, will no doubt prove satisfactory to all who are concerned. We are confronted, at any rate, with the necessity of more revenue for our CHRISTIAN SUN, for our Christian Colleges, for our Christian Orphanage, for our Missionary work at home and abroad, for our superannuated ones. Surely this need will be seen and felt throughout our entire brotherhood, and the response will be an increase in the Lord's treasury for doing the Lord's work. It is gratifying to note that the first and only conference to meet since the convention, has adopted and approved unanimously the plan prepared and adopted by the Durham Convention.

EDUCATION AND LIFE.

John R. Mott has said that education represents the long look, the prepared life. Speaking particularly with reference to the colleges of the church, this same great Christian thinker has said that the church must not permit the colleges from which she has drawn her ministry to drift into inferiority; that the Christian aim and character of these colleges must be preserved at whatever cost; and that consequently the denominational colleges must be generously supported.

There is no question in the mind of any person who understands the modern world as to the high estimate which the leaders of our time place upon the educated man and woman. The modern world accepts the educated man and woman without argument and expects good results to flow from their preparation for life.

It is quite noticeable, too, that hard-headed business men are very much inclined to give a higher rating to those educated in small denominational college than to those educated in the larger institutions. They have the opinion so often expressed by Roger Babson, that religion cannot be divorced from life, and particularly it cannot be divorced from education. In other words, they regard education as one of the phases of religion, and they are convinced that the highest and most effective type of education is based on moral and religious considerations.

There can be no question that tomorrow, if it is thoroughly Christian, will guarantee to civilization an altruism, a psychology, a philanthropy, and a leadership that will be harmonious with the teaching and the program of Jesus. Largely, therefore, on the denominational college rests today's responsibility for tomorrow.

This is but another way of saying that life and the ideals and circumstances of life are inextricably involved in the program of education. It is also to say that the church has a primary and inescapable obligation in the field of education, an obligation which she dares not side-step and which she dares not neglect. In order to safeguard life and to guarantee its continuance under favorable auspices of growth and progress, the church must keep pace with education. It must do more. It must keep in the van of the educational army. It must be the leader in the whole program of education as it affects the life and character of individuals and of nations.

W. A. H.

THE PROOF OF FRIENDSHIP. PART I.

The book of Job is philosophy in the form of a religious drama. Its problem is the problem of evil—a problem as old as man and a problem that will live as long as man. In the beginning of the drama, Job stands with face upturned and pronounces a curse against the day he was born, but in the end, with palms outstretched, and head bowed, he declares that God is good. The book of Job does not give a solution of the problem of suffering, but indicates the right attitude to take, namely: to realize that no amount of suffering should rob one of his faith in and love for God.

But the book of Job, while primarily dealing with the problem of pain, throws a thousand sidelights upon the meaning and purpose of life. And it is one of these sidelights that I would have you look at for a little while: "And the Lord turned the captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends."

This literally means that Job received indemnity for his losses he incurred in the trial of his faith to which he had been put. A free rendering of the passage would be "when Job prayed for his friends, the tide of his experiences of life turned." Life took on a new meaning to him when his friends were the object of his prayers.

What value has this experience for us? What bearing may it have upon our lives, and especially upon our religious appreciations?

In the first place, the text shows that the highest and truest religious appreciations are for others rather than for self; that a man's religion is abnormal if its chief concern is self—his own happiness, his own soul's salvation. Our Master said that, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man will lay down his life for his friend."

No man is able to possess such love as that if his religion has not prompted him first to offer up a prayer for his friend. We may not need that men shall prove their love for us by laying down their lives in our behalf. But we all need that our friends show their love for us by praying for our welfare. There are many services that friend can render friend, but none that counts for more in the sight of God, or gives a better evidence of Christian faith, and shows the real sympathies of the soul in its affections, than for friend to pray for friend. Vital prayers of friend for friend is the best evidence of Christian faith. Truly, "He prayeth best who loves best." Love poureth out his life on the cross with a prayer on his lips for those who did the wrong.

Prayer for others goes deeper than charity service. Many men do the latter absolutely apart from recognized Christian faith. But true prayer is always the language of love; it is a confirmation of faith. Who can begin to estimate the power that the prayers of mothers, fathers, and friends, have had in reforming and strengthening lives! Tennyson was right when he said, "More things are wrought by prayer than this old world dreams of." Yes, and more men and women, boys and girls, have been won from the lives of sin to the Christ life through prayer, than the world will ever know.

"The Lord turned the captivity of Job when he prayed for his friends." And we have reason to believe that his prayer turned the captivity of his friends for whom he prayed. The power of prayer is objective as well as subjective. It blesses him who prays, and him for whom the prayer is offered.

But a man may be religious and pray only for his own interests, never presenting the interest of his friends to the divine love of God. A man may be a Christian and pray only for his own soul's welfare, and never speak to God about the welfare of his neighbor's soul, but such a man represents a very low type of Christianity.

The impulse of Christianity is social, its medium of generation and transmission is the individual. An electric battery, no matter how highly charged, is useless in itself. Its power cannot be realized until the proper connections have been made. Faith is useless in itself. For a man to be satisfied because he has made his peace with God is selfish. The power of Christianity cannot be realized until the Christian is properly related to his fellowmen, a relation which is effected and maintained by an interest deep enough in other people to cause one to pray for them. Prayer is the best sign of willingness to serve. If you know that a friend is truly praying for you, you feel reasonably certain that he will grant you any favor that is within the length of his cable tow. When a minister knows that there are people in his congregation who pray that God will bless him in his life and in his preaching, it cannot help giving him new courage and new power. And on the other hand, the Lord will quickly turn the captivity of the cynical critic who prays for his pastor. It is a shallow religious consciousness that does not prompt a man to pray for somebody else besides himself.

Job had heretofore thought of his own righteousness to the exclusion of the needs of his friends. It was a selfish type of religion, to say the least. A man can be just as selfish in his religion as in anything else. He can spend his time thinking about his personal relation to God, and forgetting that his friends are related to the same God, whether they realize it or not. He can forget that heaven was not made for him alone. Such a man will be released from his captivity of bigotry, narrowness and selfishness when he prays for his friends. And true prayer is the Christian's program of action. It is but the signalling of the service that is to be rendered. When a man truly prays for a friend in need, he will do all in his power to supply that need. The man who never prays for his friends is a miser of religion. Religion, like money, is a good thing when it is in circulation. It is useless for a man to keep it to himself.

R. C. H.

THE CHILD AND THE KINGDOM.

BY REV. D. M. HELFENSTEIN.

The church has been slow in grasping the meaning of the words of Jesus, when he said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God."

These words of Jesus were uttered when he saw his disciples rebuking the mothers who wanted Jesus to bless their children. He knew that the mother's heart desired the best for her child, when she craved his blessing for it.

No one could speak with authority about the relation of the child to the Kingdom of God as Jesus did, for he came to express to the world the Father's thought and love for children, as well as His thought and love for adults.

Jesus is intimately related to the child life, and he wants it to be told about his love. He knows that one of the earliest responses of the child nature is its response to love and to God, for "God is love."

The parents who teach their children about the love of Jesus will greatly increase the effectiveness of their teaching, if they live the life of love in the home with their children.

The teaching for the child is not, How to get into the Kingdom of God, but how to keep in the Kingdom of God, for every child is born into the Kingdom, "For of such is the Kingdom of God."

It is true there will come a time to the child who has been thus taught, when it will feel an urge, openly to confess its love for Jesus, and to identify itself with his church.

We, today, may profit by the attitude of the Jewish race toward children. Judaism has always been interested in child life. The true Jew appreciates and loves children. It is said that the Jews never neglect any child. Racial preservation does not account for this fully. It is a part of their religion, and connected with their faith in God.

The Catholic Church has manifested this attitude toward child training much more than Protestants.

It is true that the Catholics train their children with a view of always being able to count on them as loyal subjects of the church, but if child training will do this, what prophecy there is for the Kingdom of God in proper child training!

We, the Protestants, believe that the peace of our homes, the welfare of society, and the honor of our nation will depend upon the strength of the church of tomorrow. The church of tomorrow will be determined by the way we train the children of today. This being true, no parent can afford to neglect the religious training of the child.

Religious training in a Protestant church includes securing personal commitment of the child life to Christ and his church. This is in harmony with the thought of Jesus, for he carefully impressed upon the minds of his disciples the fact that God, his Father, was more interested in child life than any father could be. Nothing will please the Father more than the committing of the child life to his Son who came to express his interest in childhood.

When Jesus took the children in his arms and blessed them, he realized the potentiality for good or evil in each of their lives; for evil, if the religious instincts were neglected; for good, if they were taught God's way of life.

Jesus appreciated the innocence of children, but he realized that innocence could soon be turned to guilt if parents failed to train the child as they should, or failed to put it into conscious touch with the spirit of God. Hence, he gave the warning, "Take heed now how you despise one of these little ones; for I say unto you that in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father who is in heaven."

And because Jesus realized the two possibilities for every child: the possibility of sin and shame, and the possibility of right living and honor, he challenges the parents of this day, and the parents of every day, "Suffer the children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the Kingdom of God." Only in his love and in his fellowship is any child safe.

He believed that children belonged to God, and that such being true, parents should see to it that none should become lost property.

It was our Master's conviction that every child begins life close to God, close to his love. All who truly love God, share this conviction with the Master.

The biggest business of the church is to keep

(Continued on page 13.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The original occupation of man was the tilling of the soil. "The Lord God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden, to dress it and to keep it."—Gen. 2: 15. Man will till the soil to the end of time. It is the most universal occupation. Two obligations rest upon the tiller of the soil: to "dress it and to keep it." Many farms do not show any signs of dressing. Many of them are not kept. The care of the soil is a divine command. Nothing is more attractive than a well kept farm; and that means field, garden, orchard, yards and buildings. The business of farming requires more real sense, more wise judgment, and more faith and energy than any other occupation. Change of weather at night requires change of plans in the morning. Industrial plants, places of business, transportation lines, schools, and offices, may all continue their usual rounds of work in all weathers. The farmer plans to cultivate a growing crop on the morrow. It rains all night. The land is too wet to plow. He must change his plans for his hired help. The whistle blows, the men assemble in the mill, the work goes on. Change in weather does not require the superintendent to change his plans. A real farmer is the wisest man among men. An unsuccessful farmer is the most disgruntled man; and a successful farmer is the happiest of men.

Three things prevent farming from being what God intended it to be and what men could make it. The love of money, the lure of the city, and unwillingness to do out-door manual work. Farming was never intended to be the money business of the world. That belongs to trade, industry, and commerce. The poorest farming is the money-crop as the main thing on a farm. The most difficult thing to handle is money. When a farmer raises a money-crop, sells it and gets the money for a year's work in his hands, he cannot keep it for the use of the next year. Raise everything needed on the farm and then some for money. The only thing that saves salaried men and wage earners is the fact that they get their pay by the week or the month. The only thing that enables people who work for wages to pay house rent, purchase food and clothing, and give to the Lord, is the fact that they get their money a little at a time. A survey of money-farming districts will reveal poor farms and poor farmers. The lure of the city draws the young away from the farm. Consolidated schools educate the young away from the farm. History shows that nations went down through the corruption of great cities. The tendency in America is toward the city. Unwillingness to do manual labor in the sunshine turns many against farming. It is as much a sin not to work six days as it is to violate the Sabbath. "Six days shalt thou labor"; "remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." The question of education and wealth does not release man from these two commands.

The business of farming is to build a farm and not to make money, thorough farm-building will bring in money for all necessities and benevolences. It is a beautiful business when followed according to the laws of nature and the purpose of God. There is a wide open door for educated young people who are willing to work and live happy, contented lives on a farm in a country home.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

A certain rich farmer had an extraordinary yield on his farm. He thought the matter over and decided that he would tear down the barns which had been used in former years as store-houses for his bounty and build larger. Into these larger barns he declared he would store all his increase and that he would say to his soul: "Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry." But God looked down upon this man and pronounced judgment upon him, saying, "Thou fool."

This man was wise, exceedingly wise, and highly successful, according to the standards of the world. He was ready to retire from business and to live the life of a gentleman of leisure for the remainder of his days. Evidently there must be some differences between the estimate God places upon man and the worldly estimate.

Wherein was this man a fool?

It seems to me that he was a fool primarily in that he conceived of the wealth he produced as his own product. Our lives are so interwoven and intertwined with the lives of others that it is impossible for any man to make claim honestly that he has produced anything single-handed and alone. Least of all should a farmer make such a claim. If any man is dependent upon forces and resources outside himself for the production of his product, surely the farmer is this man. He is dependent upon the weather, the soil the seed, the labor of beasts, and tools of various kinds, to say nothing of God, for success in his agricultural enterprises. This man portrayed his folly in thinking that he had produced the wealth which had come to him and any man who assumes that he is the producer of anything alone is guilty of the same fatal folly.

The second evidence of fool-heartedness on the part of this farmer was the failure to recognize that his fellowmen had justifiable claims upon his wealth. Presumably he was a Jew, and this obligated him for a tithe for religious purposes. Presumably also he had poor neighbors and perhaps relatives whose claims he could not righteously deny. His decision to gather into his barns all his increase seems to me not only selfish, but silly. Any man is a fool who does not recognize the social responsibility of any prosperity which may have attended his efforts.

But this man was a supreme fool in thinking that material substance could minister to his spiritual life. Note carefully his words: "Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry." The man had come to the point in his experience where he identified his body with his soul. He was the original mechanical evolutionist. He was the original behavioristic psychologist. He was the original outspoken materialist. But in his case materialism in its crassest form had brought forth its perfect fruit. His spiritual life was dead of the dry rot.

It is pitiful that our material success destroys our sense of the eternal values of life. It is a good thing to prosper, but often times, when a man of the Kingdom gains a fortune, the Kingdom itself loses a soul.

W. A. HARPER.

I think the first virtue is to restrain the tongue. He approaches nearest to the gods who knows how to be silent, even though he is right.—Cato.

THE KIND OF EDUCATION GOD APPROVES.

BY DR. W. S. ALEXANDER.

Without attempting any technical definition of the term education, let us think of it as the development of the natural powers, by any available means.

We believe thoroughly that God approves education, because He created us not fully developed, but so constituted us that we are capable of development. We believe that God's intent is that we shall make the highest and best use of the capabilities with which we have been endowed.

By the statement of our subject we are warranted in inferring that there are various kinds of development that may be popularly included under the term education, but that there is a kind which is peculiar in its content which alone meets with the approval of God. The Christian's conception of life is such that the discovery of this peculiar kind of education is indeed of incomparable value. To undertake to point it out is a matter of no slight responsibility.

We believe the kind of education possessed by the lives which God has used most in the promotion of His kingdom interests is the kind which He most approves. The characteristics possessed by these greatest representatives of God and human interests are those which come nearest being what God desires all to possess.

God has furnished us a perfect example of what meets with his approval, the Unspeakable Gift which love bestowed upon us. That peculiar brand of education which is the subject of our discussion is the Luke 2: 52 kind.

It is a growing, not a static kind. The various opportunities of life which came in a constant, continuous flow to that life were so used as to make the largest constructive contribution to the largest interests of mankind and God. Jesus increased in the things which meant most to himself, to mankind and to God.

It is a normal, natural education. It is that which feeds and satisfies the capabilities implanted in the life by the Creator himself. It is not a development contrary to the plan of the great Designer of human life.

It is the construction kind, the building kind. It adds to and develops that which is intended to be permanent in our nature. It does not destroy what God has bestowed.

It is the usable kind; the kind which makes its possessor permanently in demand by the highest interests of mankind as was Jesus and as He ever shall be.

It is the kind that qualifies its possessor for the largest service to mankind. It constituted Jesus capable of being mankind's greatest minister. Those whose education approximates his most closely in kind, are ranked by it closest to him in service.

It is the symmetrical kind. All powers are developed and used, the mental, the physical, the spiritual and the social. He increased in wisdom and in stature and in favor with God and man. That education that builds in the largest and best way all that God has in embryonic form imparted to man in creation, is the kind which meets with His approval.

It is the kind that interests and engages its possessor in caring for the highest interests of self, man and God.

It is development. It is directed development. It is heavenly directed development—that which takes into account time and eternity, earth and heaven, man and God, self and others, personal experience and service rendered, temporary and permanent interests.

The kind of education God approves, produces three things: highest personal realization; the largest, the most practical, the most helpful service to mankind; the greatest glory to God. It is the kind of education which Paul possessed and which in II Timothy 2: 15, he recommended.

An education that is saturated through and through with truth. One which makes its possessor a knower of truth and a dispenser of truth.

One which compels its possessor to be a constructive worker, making impossible the spending of time in idleness or destructive work. One which requires earnest, constant, continuous effort to secure. Study; continue to study. Never cease studying.

That education which meets with God's approval will be an education of the heart, head, and hand. It will compel its possessor to spend his energies in trying to increase righteous momentum and not spend energy in friction.

It will cause its possessor to do his best, and then cry out, Lord undertake for me. It will give to its possessor a purpose that cannot suffer defeat. It will enthroned God in the heart. It will value character above all things else. It will propel the individual forward to secure for self, maximum development in order that maximum service to mankind may be rendered and maximum glory to God may thus be produced.

It will cause the individual to be most, to do most, to glorify most and will result in his reaping most.

BROTHER WHITTEN'S VACATION.

Much time was required to settle the matter as to where we would spend our vacation. I felt inclined to visit the beach and take a dip in the surf. My better half was not so disposed, but felt that I needed the mountain air. Well we went to the mountains, and I am not a bit sorry, for it was a trip worth while and one long to be remembered.

When we reached that beautiful little city of Mount Airy, and were told that it was only ten or twelve miles to our Rocky Ford Church, we thought surely there could be no need of missionary work near such a thriving and progressive town as this. Even after we had traveled several miles out with such lovely farms and nice homes and good roads, we could hardly believe we were so near conditions as we had heard of often regarding our work in Carroll County.

It was not long before we reached the narrow mountain road that began to lead us in its winding course upward among the hills. As we followed its crooked path along the side of the mountain, we could see the small farm houses in the valleys below. To one not accustomed to mountain climbing, it seemed a dangerous journey. A steady rain was falling, which added to the terrors of the way as we looked into the deep ravines below.

It was like meeting a friend when we came in sight of the beautiful new Rocky Ford Church. We were prepared for camping, but Mrs. Whitten is none too fond of such a rough life, and I could see from the cut of her eye that she did not intend to take chances on both the weather and the rattlesnakes for which the mountains are famous. It was then that we parked the old Ford by the church, and I left the family there while I got in touch with our missionary worker, Mrs. Bray. It was only a little more than half a mile over a rough road that I found her and her husband. They were busy getting a turnip patch sowed before the heavy rains set in. When I had explained the situation to Mrs. Bray, her heart was moved with compassion, and she consented to allow us to sleep in the Sunday School rooms of the church. She gave me the key and I returned, and soon we were comfortable in our new quarters. We have been connected with church work for some time, but this was our first experience of sleeping in a church. Since it was a new church there was no cemetery near, and this helped matters not a little. I don't know whether we would have slept much if there had been a grave yard near by, with white tombs. The owls, the bats, the whippoorwills and screech owls kept up plenty of excitement, without any additional thought of ghosts. We could look down into the "Paul's Valley" and see an occasional light from a farm house.

Mrs. Bray and her husband came over after dinner and we spent a very enjoyable evening together. She told us of the work and many interesting things about the mountain people. Next morning we visited some of the folks in the neighborhood. We visited the home where Mrs. Bray lives, and in the afternoon we also called on some of the mountain people and found that conditions were no better than we had heard many times from our workers there.

We wish that all of our church folks could visit the Rocky Ford Church and see the pretty new and well-equipped building, as well as to find the important need it supplies for the community in which it is located.

One very important thing that should be done right away if possible, is to paint the church with at least one coat of paint. This will preserve the material and prevent the outside from rotting, because unless this is done in good time, the continual dampness from the excessive rains will cause decay. Another thing that I would like to suggest is that I find we have a splendid basement to our church, above ground. At a nominal cost, from three to five rooms could be built that would supply our teachers a home. Here is a task that a few Sunday Schools or Bible classes could well afford—one that would be a monument to their generosity. If we could all see how disagreeable it is to live so far from the work and to climb these slick mountain roads in all kinds of weather, taking the exposure, we would readily do it. It is not like jumping into a Ford and in a few minutes riding to our work. To get their mail they have to go the same distance. I believe, as I have already said, that if we could all know and understand, we would be willing to help supply this home. I hope Dr. Atkinson will give this matter the consideration it deserves. The whole thing would not cost so much, and can be done. Our workers remain there at a great sacrifice.

The State of Virginia is at present building a highway through the mountains. This will pass right by the Rocky Ford Church when completed, but this will require several years' work. We passed up the mountain on our way to Elk Spur; through Fancy Gap. The road is partially graded for some distance down the mountain. Traffic is only allowed to pass, where they are at work, at noon and after the day's work is over. I thought my tin lizzie had gone back on me, had to go in low most of the way, but I later learned that most all of them did likewise. After this experience our old flivver rattled right along.

I have traveled in twenty-seven different States, but if I have ever seen a more beautiful sight, as we looked from the mountain top at Elk Spur down over the many hills, mountains and valleys for miles and miles, I do not now remember where it was. This is indeed a grand picture that words cannot describe. One is, in the words of the poet, "Lost in wonder, love and praise."

We have a lovely church and parsonage here at Elk Spur. We found Brother Sorrell and his wife such congenial folks that we thoroughly enjoyed our short stay with them. The people spoke of them in words of highest praise. I regret that Brother Sorrell is to leave this field, and trust that the right man may be chosen to succeed him there.

R. A. WHITTEN.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.

MEN'S PENS $2.00
 LADIES' PENS $2.00
 aid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
 THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
 1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
 RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible-making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 1/4 inches.

Specimen of Type

THE LORD is my shep
he not want.
2 He maketh me to lie
green pastures: he leadeth
the still waters.

No. 412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overtopping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Price—Post Paid 9.35

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

THE NECESSITY OF CHRISTIAN MISSIONS.

BY REV. W. T. SCOTT, Oklaha, Oklahoma.

The time has come when the world must think in terms of some force that will blot out social, economic, national, and international injustices. It is imperative that we think in terms of a spiritual force that will recognize the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man in all of life's relationships, and time and fruits of the Ideals of Christianity in comparison with other faiths, have proven Christianity the only competent world religion.

The whole need of the world is found in the whole Gospel of Christ in its concern with transforming the individual by an increased harmonious contact of man with God. Therefore, the business of missions, the evangelizing of the unevangelized, has ceased to be only a philanthropy, a beautiful deed, or an act of mercy. It has become a vital necessity, the act of Christian Statesmanship, and we cannot, like the ostrich, hide our head in the sands of delusionment while the world waxes into chaos. The solution of the problems of war, alcohol, the opium traffic, social, economic, and international injustices, are of deep concern to Christians only. Raising the status of womanhood to its rightful height, the beautiful place of childhood and the sacredness of home life, all owe their origin to the principles of the Christian faith started in that Nazareth home.

In this day of scientific advancement, when men are thinking of world-circumnavigation in terms of hours and days instead of months, no nation can live unto itself. The world has become a neighborhood, and what affects one part of it affects the other. Chaos in the East will mean, to a large extent, chaos in the West. The contact of the Occident with the Orient and more especially with the immediate Far East has tended to break down the culture of these peoples. With the breaking down of this culture, these peoples are at sea in the matter of religion. They are saying to those who lead the onslaught of Western civilization, "Ye have taken away my gods, and I, what have I left?" Mohammedanism, with its neglect of love and its emphasis upon night; Buddhism, with its supreme emphasis upon celibacy, asceticism, and world illusionment; Hinduism, bound in the octopus-like embrace of the caste system; Confucianism, with its dubious principles and agnostic maxims—all of these faiths have failed and are failing to satisfy the longing souls for the loftiest reaches of truth. There are so many millions of souls whose look and hope is for something better than these have been able to give. To whom shall they go, or rather will Christians not see the need and give those souls hungering and thirsting after righteousness the Living Water and Satisfying Bread?

The necessity of Christian Missions does not come to us without problems. The last few years have seen an almost complete revolution in missionary motives and ideals. In the face of so great a need, we, as other Protestant countries, are face to face with three great problems at home: A changing theological conception concerning the saving of the heathen and the changed conception as to the infallibility of the Bible and the exclusion of all sacred writings of other faiths. The dissatisfaction of the people at home with our so-called Christian nation. And a general slump in missionary finances. Nearly every Mission Board has suffered a financial crisis, due perhaps largely to the change in the purchasing value of the dollar and the excessive financial drives prior to 1920. These problems must be met by an increased spiritual life in our church-life and by a program of education that will point out the need, blessings, and accomplishments of missions. On every field of Missionary Endeavor the church is face to face with the problems of rising nationalistic tendencies, evidenced by the unpopularity of the foreigner, in the feeling that Japan is for the Japanese, China for the Chinese, India for the Hindu, and so on.

In the light of these problems can we still support missions? If we accept the changed theological conception that we must convert the heathen, not because he is damned in his darkness but, because Christianity will relieve suffering. If our motive be changed from the ideal of saving the heathen that he may gain a heaven or shun a hell, to the recognition of our glorious privilege of bringing him out of his dark wrong against himself. If we accept the changed conception as to the infallibility of the Bible, completely excluding all other sacred writings, to that of recognition of parts of the philosophy of Confucius, Buddha, Mohammed, and others, as fragments of the complete revelation given by Jesus Christ and His Gospel, can we still support Missions? Why?

Dr. K. S. Latourette, Professor of Missions at Yale, sums up the following as sufficient urge to Protestant Christianity to carry the Gospel to earth's remotest corners: It is the great and divine Commission. The superior spiritual and moral values of Christianity and its Founder, needed by the whole world, are not found in other faiths. The power of Christianity to recast aright the broken down culture of the world is superior to all other faiths. Christianity is the vehicle upon which Western culture may go to bless humanity rather than to hinder. The Missionary and the spirit of Missions can best interpret one people to another.

The immortal Woodrow Wilson paid a fine tribute to Christianity and Missions when he said, "Christianity is the only force in the world that I have ever seen that has actually transformed life—the proof of that transformation is to be found all over the world." For one to know that there are spiritual and moral values in Christianity superior to other faiths and which the world needs, he needs only to look at the nations where the Gospel of Christ has gone. Therein consists the genius of the Gospel—the power to transform—the power to make men and nations new. That Christianity offers a personal Saviour to guide. One that saves the individual from something and not merely to something is one marvelous aspect sufficient to challenge thinking men and women to evangelize the unchristian.

But the challenge does not stop here. It is imperative that Christian Missions offset the wrong ideals and cultures such as are found in militarism and political supremacy which characterized world affairs in 1914 and the world cataclysm that followed. The spirit created by the missionary enterprise is needed further to bring in the wholesome part of Western civilization. Just as Christian Missions made European expansion a blessing rather than a curse—just so that burden is upon the church to make the scientific advance of our age a blessing instead of a curse. Because the spirit of nationalism so characteristic of the Chinese, Japanese and Near East non-Christian groups threatens the existence of civilization, we are face to face with another dire necessity for the Christian Gospel. It is needed to recast this national selfishness and arrogance into world brotherhood.

The time has passed when any nation can live to itself. The industrial revolution of the 19th Century brought with it an increase of man's mastery over his physical environment, thus making the world a neighborhood. That neighborhood has become a quarrelsome one. The burden and necessity of 20th Century Christianity is to make for a brotherhood. For realizing that goal, missions is the best medium, and the missionary is the best personality through whom we can work.

WHAT ARE CHRISTIANS?

I.—Christians are Individuals, not Races or Nations.

"If any man has not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His."

II.—They are born of the Holy Spirit, not of their Ancestors.

"Who were born not of blood nor of the will of the flesh nor of the will of man, but born of God." "Call no man Father on earth; One is your Father, God." "Beloved, now are we the sons of God."

III.—They are not limited to any Special Races.

"Verily I say unto you, God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham."

"Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons, but that in every nation he that feareth Him and worketh righteousness is acceptable unto Him. God has showed me to call no man common or unclean."

IV.—They are a Worldwide Family of Children of God.

"Go disciple all the nations. Go ye into all the world and proclaim the good tidings to the whole creation." "Having put on the new man who is being made anew after the image of Him that created him; where there is not possible Greek or Jew, circumcized or uncircumcized, barbarian, Scythian, slave or free man, but all and in all is Christ." I go to my Father and to your Father, to my God and to your God."

V.—They "Love One another."

"Hereby shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another."

VI.—They "Love Everybody."

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor and hate thy enemy, but I say unto you, Love your enemies, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that spitefully use you and persecute you; that ye may be children of your Father that is in heaven. For He is kind unto the unthankful and the wicked. For if you love those that love you, what thank have you? For sinners also love those that love them. Be ye therefore merciful even as your Father in heaven is merciful."

"For God so loved the World . . . that whosoever . . ."

VII.—The Christian Prayer—

"Our Father Who art in Heaven."

The Christian Song—

"Glory to God in the Highest,
Peace on Earth, good will among men."

The Christian Rule—

"Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil by good."

The Test—

"If any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His."

Yet Christ burned with zeal, and he drove the money changers from the temple. More hopeless than blazing, erring hate is lifeless, loveless Cynicism, or unfaithful Selfishness, or cowardly surrender to sin.—Selected.

HOW STRONG ARE THE ROOTS?

BY HELEN R. STEARNS.

One day while clambering about over steep and rather dangerous hills in search of laurel and rhododendron, one member of our party slipped toward the edge of a precipice where we knew the river lay far below. No one was near enough to save her, but just at the edge her foot caught in a small but tough laurel bush whose roots were firmly enough embedded to withstand the sudden impact. It was a thrilling rescue, but the real hero was the tiny laurel bush which stood the test because its roots were strong.

Much difficulty with religious thinking—or perhaps the lack of any thinking at all—can be located in weak, under-developed roots. When boys or girls go to college and in the multitude of interests and enthusiasms seem to loose their religion—the roots are not strong. When men and women face sorrow, disaster, a crisis in their thought life, and say, "There is no God of love who cares for human beings"—the roots are not strong. When a proud and boastful nation sets out to trample on a weaker one—somewhere the roots are not strong. When for the sake of personal gain, men and women exploit little children, when dishonesty, deceit, intolerance, rule—always, everywhere, the roots are weak and unequal to the strain.

Statistics show that crime is now being committed by younger persons than ten years ago. Many things have been blamed for this—movies, commercialized amusements, homes, even materialistic philosophy—and all more or less rightly. But beyond these, at the root of all difficulty, is a great void—a lack of something, rather than a clearly defined influence for evil. The roots have not been made strong enough. There has been no steady, incessant reaching out of the soul after ever higher values. Bound by a life where in daily practice religious values are made infinitesimal, a child is caught in the wish-wash of temptation and has no strong roots with which to hold. Crime is the result. It is not the movies that are at fault so much as movies plus the immature mind that never sees any other character-forming material. Persons may be immature religiously as well as mentally. Present David, the hero, vividly enough and a boy will imitate him as quickly as he will the escapades of Douglas Fairbanks. Esther makes her choice on the side of loyalty to her people, and a girl can admire her as much as the best actress. Jesus Christ is the greatest figure in all history to compel imitation, and in the act of imitation, the boys and girls will practice some of those great religious values that stabilize character—friendship, loyalty, helpfulness and love. A life is more real than a mere picture.

There is only one cure for all this diseased social thinking—fill the void, strengthen the roots. More religious education in childhood is necessary to insure better religious practice in later life. It is childhood training that very largely determines the strength and steadfastness of one's religion. In the human being, roots of disposition and character are grown in the first twelve years. In the span of normal life, these years are much less than one-fifth, yet in this period one acquires most of his brain growth, much of his physical growth, nearly all of the habits of daily living that contribute to health and physical vigor, and many of the habits of thinking that will later develop into mental and moral stamina. The beginnings determine the direction of life, hence childhood is tremendously important.

If more religious education is necessary, we may well ask, What is religious education? We who follow Jesus Christ believe it is Christian education—a training in the attitudes and conduct that characterized the life of our Leader. Christian education cannot be just knowledge about things, but must be also a series of experiences in Christian virtues. It is not enough for the child to hear about helpfulness or loyalty, or even to listen to stories of real people who have been helpful and loyal, or to learn mottoes and watchwords from the Bible. He must practice helpfulness repeatedly—at home, at school, in the church, on the street; he must experience loyalty under many varied circumstances. These successive experiences in helpfulness and loyalty gradually form conduct habits which are more likely to stand firm in an emergency. When the gang wants to steal apples just to bother the crabbed old fruit dealer, some boy perhaps will face the moral issue—Shall I or shall I not be dishonest? If there have been enough repeated experiences of honesty and helpfulness in his life, these will swing the balance in favor of resisting the gang in their desire for mischief, and that boy will refuse to be anything less than the best as he knows it. So religious education becomes a training of the will to make right choices until, with supreme intelligence, we yield humble submission by saying, "Not my will, but Thine, be done."

Religious education is the recognizing of powerful forces for reshaping character that are inherent in the individual—imitation, imagination, interest, idealized emotion—and the use of these forces for good rather than allowing them to sweep that individual into evil. The small child is learning something all the time, if not religion, something else—for the child's life is never a vacuum. Human nature will imitate—something. It is our concern to place the best models before children. Emotions may pull up or drag down. We must understand how to develop those emotions and enthusiasms that refine and bless a life, not that pollute and curse it.

Religious education, then, is "to help the individual in his own continuous reconstruction and readjustment of experience increasingly to understand, appreciate, and participate in the Christian way of living fruitfully in this world." In this quoted aim, from Emme and Stevick's "Principles of Religious Education," the word "continuous" should be marked as especially significant. It involves all of the normal activities of human life. It means interpreting life—all of life—religiously according to Christian standards.

It is not a question of the church alone, with no concern for the home or the school and playground, nor is it a matter for Sunday alone, with no regard for the other six days of the week. Somehow, if we want the roots strong, we must see that the "reconstruction of experience" is "continuous." It is neither wise nor expedient for the church to assume entire control of the child's time in order to guarantee for itself this continuity of experience. Better is it for the agencies concerned with child welfare and development to get together and correlate their programs so that all may work together most efficiently for the best interests of the child.

The earliest years belong undeniably to the home, but religious education should be found there, for no child is too young to begin. Then the church will begin the training for future citizenship in God's kingdom. First we relate the child's world to God, then, by showing how people can and should live in that kingdom, we attempt to prepare the individual for a free choice to belong to the church—the only organized institution representing God's kingdom on earth. But training is not even now complete. If the church is wise, it tries to link play, work, even physical and health habits, with religious motives. It recognizes life as a unit with all its functions dominated by religious ideals.

Many denominations, recognizing the unity of life, are organizing all agencies that administer to the child's education under one board. It is the same boy (they argue) whether he sits in a Sunday School class, or hikes with his Scout troop. It is the same girl in her Christian Endeavor Society Sunday night, or sewing for Armenian children in a Friday afternoon meeting of her organized class. Perhaps they are brother and sister, so will meet seven days a week in the same home. Everywhere there should be a constant recurrence of controlled religious experiences, but there is no need for duplication of activities. It is to conserve the time and energy of the boy and girl and make every minute count for positive character building that the denominations plead for unified organization for education.

We can feel proud that the Christian Church has been a pioneer in this significant movement. We have believed in making the roots strong and deep, but to remain where we are is to die. Growth necessitates expansion. More interest, more time, more money, must be expended by everyone—everywhere—for we are engaged in a great work—the implanting and developing of roots of character, which our thoughtful nurture, or lack of it, will make proportionately strong or weak.

THE WORLD CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION.

BY MISS RUTH JOHNSON.

I wonder why I have never heard or read of the mystic beauty of the harbor at Plymouth, England. Perhaps it was unusual, the time of day and the circumstance, but everyone on board. The S. S. Carmania will always hold the indescribable picture redolent with vivid colorings. Our ship glided on a smooth and glassy sea, past Eddystone Lighthouse, a very treacherous shoal, 14 miles from Plymouth, and docked in Plymouth Harbor about 7 o'clock on the evening of July 14th.

All of the passengers were interested in the small tender that came to meet us to take some of our passengers ashore and bring us others, when suddenly the C. E. delegation was called to gather on the aft deck.

The Lord Mayor of Plymouth, in all his decorations, had come aboard to bid us welcome to Plymouth, the famous town from which our ancestors set sail on the Mayflower. It was a hearty greeting and the surprise was a thrill. Following him were bishops, pastors, C. E. Workers, each bringing his own word of greeting.

And our ship set sail again—such atmosphere—setting sun, fading moon, and dozens of rainbows transcending the sky. These various lights shaded and blended until 10 P. M., when darkness wrapped them in the blanket of night.

During the night and following morning, we crossed the English Channel and about noon we landed at a French dock in the Havre harbor. Four French battleships encircled our ship as we left the harbor in recognition of the C. E. delegation on board. Our ship crossed the channel again, and during the night anchored at the mouth of the Thames River.

No more sleep after 5 A. M.—such a hurry and bustle of baggage and passengers in their excitement at the approach of our landing hour. For some hours we glided up the Thames, and the quaint old houses and enterprises along its banks prepared us for the London atmosphere.

Soon the realization came, and we were comfortably situated in our respective hotels.

July 16th, the first day of the Christian Endeavor World's Convention, was a day of inter-

(Continued on page 14.)

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

ELON CHAUTAUQUA HONOR ROLL.

The following received International Credit in two courses, or attended 80 per cent of the three classes for the ten days:

Misses Mary Lee E. Bennett, Elizabeth Brothers, Helen White Daughertry, Nannie Sue Dunn, Mable Garner, Eunice Gourley, Mary Holstead, Margaret Harward, Lillie Horne, Cora Johnson, Geneva Judkins, Margaret Lawrence, Cora Lester, Lucile Mulholland, Linner McClenahan, Willie Nedham, Clarine Perry, N. Alberta Smith, Helen Thompson, Odessa Tolley, Jewell Truitt, Erma Jean Whitaker, Lillian White.

Mesdames J. F. Morgan, Florence M. Nelson, W. T. Walters, W. T. Dunn.

Messrs. Herbert Dunn, Howard Smith.

Revs. B. J. Earp, T. F. Wright, J. H. Lightbourne, H. S. Hardcastle, Stanley C. Harrell.

Below is a list of those who received International Credit for work done at the Elon Chautauqua and School of Methods, in the following courses:

"THE PUPIL."

Taught by Rev. F. C. Lester.

Lu Emma Bennett, Jeffersonville, Ohio; Nannie Sue Dunn, Ingram; Mrs. W. T. Dunn, United Christian, Lynchburg, Va.; Virginia Ferebee, Rosemont; Eunice Gourley, Third Ave., Danville; Mary E. Holstead, Rosemont; Margaret Harward, Durham; Geneva Judkins, Suffolk; Mrs. Florence M. Nelson, Christian Temple; Lucile Mulholland, Durham.

"TRAINING THE DEVOTIONAL LIFE"

Taught by Rev. Stanley C. Harrell.

Elizabeth Brothers, Norfolk First; Alberta Smith, Franklin; Lora Johnson, Wake Chapel; Stanley C. Harrell, Durham; Rev. T. F. Wright, Ingram and Pleasant Grove.

"STORY TELLING."

Taught by Mrs. H. S. Hardcastle.

Geneva Judkins, Suffolk; Maedell Lambeth, Elon College; Cora Lester, Franklin; Mrs. Florence M. Nelson, Christian Temple; Jewell Truitt, Burlington.

"THE LIFE OF JESUS."

Taught by Rev. J. G. Truitt.

Howard Smith, Newport News; Elizabeth Brothers, Norfolk First; Margaret Alston, Liberty (Vance); Herbert Dunn, Ingram; Alberta Smith, Franklin; Cora Lester, Franklin; Willie Needham, Ether; Mable Garner, Ether; Rev. J. F. Morgan, Rosemont and Berea; Lora Johnson, Wake Chapel; Linner McClenahan, Danville; Odessa Tolley, Lynchburg; Helen Thompson, Lynchburg; Erma Whitaker, Wake Chapel; Margaret Lawrence, Lynchburg; Rev. B. J. Earp, Newport News; Jewel Truitt, Burlington; Dr. J. U. Newman, Elon College; Lillian Johnson, Wake Chapel; Rev. J. G. Truitt, Norfolk First.

"THE PROGRAM OF CHRISTIANITY."

Taught by Rev. H. S. Hardcastle.

Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, Durham; Lillie Horne, Burlington; Mrs. J. F. Morgan, Rosemont; Dan Long Newman, Elon College; Mrs. W. T. Walters, Burlington; Rev. T. F. Wright, Ingram and Pleasant Grove.

"YOUTH ORGANIZED FOR THE CHURCH."

Taught by Miss Lucy Eldredge.

Sarah Norfleet Daughtrey, Holland; Margaret Harward, Durham; Lucille Mulholland, Durham; Lu Emma Bennett, Jeffersonville, Ohio; Mary

(Continued on page 15.)

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

BY REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

"GIFTS FOR THE TABERNACLE."

LESSON XI.—SEPTEMBER 12, 1926.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Honor Jehovah with thy substance and with the first fruits of all thine increase."—Prov. 3: 9.

LESSON: Exodus 35: 4-36: 7

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psa. 84: 1-2, 8-12.

REFERENCE MATERIAL: Mal. 3: 7-12; I Cor. 16: 1-4; II Cor. 8: 1-15.

A great and good man once said that "one more great revival was needed in religion—a revival of giving." It would seem that he was right. The Christians of the world are not living up to their privilege to say nothing of their duty in regard to this vital expression of Christian living. For Christian living and Christian giving are integral parts one of the other. As the poet says, "He who gives not, lives not."

One of the unfortunate factors in the situation is that when ministers emphasize stewardship, or seek to simulate their people in giving, they are often accused of "preaching for money." As a matter of fact, the minister is simply reminding men of their duty and warning them against their sin. The minister who does not emphasize stewardship, not only of substance but of other things, is not doing his duty. Failure to give may be and often is a sin. It is probable that more people commit sin through failure to give than through drunkenness or adultery, or any other commonly accepted sin. Covetousness, selfishness—these are sins, and failure to give is often and usually born out of these twins.

In this story of a far off day, we have some fundamental principles which need emphasis and application in our day. Brief mention will be made here, but Sunday School teachers can make practical and personal application of these principles to their class or group.

I.—The giving was personal. "And they came, both men and women." The men did not give for the women, nor did the women give for the men. Each man and each woman who did give, gave of his or her own. Here is a fundamental principle. A man ought not to give for his wife or for his children. Every member of the family ought to give for himself. Even if the money eventually comes from the father, it ought to have the stamp of the individual's personality upon it. It is not, be it remembered, simply a matter of money; it is a matter of personal character. There is a real value in having every church member or every Sunday School pupil make his own contribution.

II.—The giving was born of a willing spirit. "As many as were willing-hearted." The children of Israel brought a free-will offering unto Jehovah. Again it may be repeated that it is not primarily how much we give, but how we give; not how much of our money, but how much of our selves we give. The gift without the giver is bare. God loves a cheerful giver. We are not to give grudgingly or of necessity, but gladly, liberally, joyfully. As a matter of fact, when a man thinks of what God through Christ has done for him, he will feel an impulse to give. There is constraint here to giving. The trouble is that men do not respond to that impulse.

(Continued on page 15.)

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

BY REV. F. C. LESTER.

"WHAT IS THE CHURCH?"

SEPTEMBER 12, 1926.

TOPIC: "What Is the Church and What Should It be Doing?"—Eph. 2: 17-22; Matt. 28: 16-20.

Hints to the Leader.

"The Church" is a big phrase and is worthy of your best thought. It is 1900 years old and is composed of about one-third of the earth's people. Its task is beyond words. Think of the greatness of the church, of what it means to the world, and of our relation to it, until you thrill with the joy of being a part of it. Look up the references to the word "Church" in a Bible concordance. Study carefully the Scripture for today. Then plan some interesting way to present the value of the church.

Someone might impersonate such people as Paul, Augustine, Luther, or others, telling what the church has ment to them. Or you might organize your society into a church and hold a business session with reports of work being done in your modern church.

The Message of the Scripture.

Ephesians 2: 17-23. Paul here tells how Jesus came to preach peace to those far off (the Gentiles) and to those who were near (the Jews). Most people, both Gentiles and Jews, are far from peace today. It is no fault of Christ, for He told the way to have peace. Those who are far from Him have no peace. Through Jesus we all have access to the Father by the Spirit. Jesus found the Father through faith and surrender. We find Him in that same way.

The church is like a temple. It is built on the apostles and prophets, Jesus being the Chief Cornerstone. There is no better foundation.

All members are perfectly fitted into the magnificent building, and the temple is not complete without me or you.

Matthew 28: 16-20. The disciples met in a mountain in Galilee. The church has a meeting place where the air is pure, free from the smoke, fumes and poison of the daily life. This is where Jesus appointed, and He met them there.

Jesus told them: (1) I have all power; (2) Go ye, and make learners of all nations; and (3) I will be with you always. Jesus is going still, but many of us do not.

A Message from History.

Jesus spoke of the church just twice. Paul used the term often. The real organization of the church was after Pentecost.

The second generation of Christians began to argue as to what constituted the church. In as much as their definitions differed, there were divisions in the church. The church can be one only in the spirit of Jesus. My definitions may be good for me, but they may not help others at all. Forget the definitions that divide and try to make the church a channel of blessing.

A Message for Today.

The church today has many critics. It needs more supporters. It is easy to find fault; it is hard to live faultless. Try for the difficult.

The church offers a place for and a program of worship. The church gives moral instruction. The church tells how to find moral and spiritual health.

"For Christ and the church," is the purpose of every true Endeavorer.

Questions to be Answered.

What should the church do in a community?

Who should be members of the church?

What should the church expect of youth?

What should youth expect of the church?

What can my Society do to help the church?

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

For two weeks now your editor will be so awfully busy—Oh, Gee. It's going to be two weeks till you see your Korner full of stories. Then—away we'll go again.

Don't forget to write a letter to Daddy Man! Address it to your editor here in Ramseur, N. C., and the dear little letter will go straight off to that kind Daddy who loves our Korner. Did the Kiddies get their prizes? Please tell me, soon, for I sent them three beautiful gifts—for drawing the three beautiful pictures and writing those lovely stories.

The next time you see a letter in our Korner, it will be a great big surprise—so watch, Kiddies.

I forgot to tell you that last Sunday Mr. Rooster and Mrs. Hen went a walking to the town. And as they were walking along the street, here came a huge old truck—and—Well, Kiddies it really didn't make "Stew" out of them—but it got several feathers. Oh, tell all the chick-abidies to run, run, RUN, when the automobiles rush by—chickens don't like stew as well as my own dear Dad likes it.

Two weeks—then watch your Korner, Kiddies, dears—All love,

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT,
Editor.

WHEN LITTLE BEAR RAN LIKE A DEER.

BY FRANCES M. FOX.

Little Bear went out to play by his gate. He saw a deer. She ran fast.

He said in a loud, loud song: "I wish I could run like a deer!"

She heard him. "Come, Little Bear," she called, "I will show you my baby."

Mother Deer walked with Little Bear. At last they stood still. "Do you see my baby?" asked Mother Deer.

Little Bear looked and looked; but he could not find the baby.

Mother Deer said to her baby, "Move your head, my little fawn."

Then Little Bear saw the baby. It was in a low place on the ground.

My baby hides in plain sight," Mother Deer said.

She gave the baby its dinner. Then she said, "Some day she will be a big deer and run fast too. Now we will go away."

They did. She laughed at Little Bear because he tried to run fast like a deer. Mother Bear laughed and Father Bear laughed.

A big black dog came down the road. It ran to the place where Mother Deer left her fawn. It barked loud: "Bow-wow!"

Little Bear ran fast to the baby. He ran faster than the dog. "I will not let the dog get you!" he said to the baby.

Mother Deer came hunning, too. She told the dog to go away. He did.

"You good Little Bear," Mother Deer said; "You ran like a 'dear' to save my baby."

"I got my wish," Little Bear said. He laughed and was glad.—Youth's Companion.

NATURE'S GOOD NIGHT.

"The fields and woodlands are dressed in brown,
And showers of leaves have fluttered down.
The flowers have hidden their faces bright;
All nature's children have said 'good-night'
But God, His loving watch will keep Till spring awakens all from sleep."

—Songs of the Seasons.

A Great Background Book

LANDMARKS in the STRUGGLE BETWEEN SCIENCE and RELIGION

by Professor J. Y. Simpson, M.A.,
D.Sc., F.R.S.E.

This book sets the present day controversy in its right historical setting. It is a survey of an age-long contest between truth and superstition. It makes religion as well as science a living, dynamic thing.

$2.00

DORAN BOOKS

TWENTY years ago Professor David Smith wrote "In The Days of His Flesh." For twenty years it has headed the list of books on Christ.

Now he has written:

OUR LORD'S EARTHLY LIFE

ANOTHER rich tribute to the Lord he loves. Characterized by mature scholarship and a marked humanist strain, this book has instantly gripped the hearts of readers.

$3.00

DORAN BOOKS

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.
Specimen of type

is And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35

(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.
(Weight 18 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and hook-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25

Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jē-hōy'-ā-kīm gave th silver and the gold to Phār'-aōh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and hook-mark..... 5.50

(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and hookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

COMING TO AND FINDING GOD.

LESSON: Matt. 11: 25-30.

"Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

There are many ways of coming to and finding God. There are many sacrifices in them all. All sacrifices are fully compensated for in the quality of character found in them.

This is the way of the laborer and the burdened. Rest is the reward. The Christian life with God is the normal life for all. The way of Christian virtue renders the conquest easier. Come to Jesus for it.

Prayer.—Our Heavenly Father, Thou who art the helper and blessing of our souls, help us to live the proper life and find Thy happiness. Lead us to a full trust in Thee, and make us helpers to others in the same blessings. In Christ's name. Amen.

TUESDAY.

THE MINISTRY OF SOLITUDE.

LESSON: Mark 1: 35-45.

"In the morning, rising up a great while before day, He went out, and departed into a solitary place, and there prayed."

Some of the finest results of service grow out of the ministry of solitude. This is a heartening thing to remember. Countless thousands are far away from the rush of cities and many who live even in the city are solitary! Our Lord often sought the desert places to renew His strength in prayer.

As soon as Paul was converted, he went "into Arabia," seeking fellowship with God rather than with man. All of the great spiritual leaders have been men or women who knew the values of isolation and who rejoiced in the ministry of solitude.

Often our greatest achievements are accomplished when we are alone. Some of the most helpful messages ever written were the result of long preparation, plus meditation in solitude. "Solitude has ever been the mother country of the strong." The pastor's best sermons are not born on the street or amid social festivities, but in some solitary place. The Christian must find time for his rest hour, his time of solitude and meditation. Then he can pray and think and relate truth to the needs of his own life and of the times in which he lives.

Have you a time for meditation? Are you afraid of solitude, or do you seek it? Strong is the man who finds time to live with himself—and God!
—Ernest Baurner Allen.

Prayer.—Holy Father, May we, too, learn the value of meditation and communion with Thee, in the desert places of life. Lead us to follow the example that Jesus gave us of rising early to be alone with Thee, and give us then the strength and power to face the duties that we have to face. For Christ's sake. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

THREE GREAT QUESTIONS.

"Seek ye first the Kingdom of God.

"Fear God and keep his commandments."

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart."

What shall I seek? What shall I fear? What shall I love. The character and quality of our lives are determined by our answer to these.

The first is the wisdom and answer to them all. In the Christian religion is the infallible standing of virtues and values.

Prayer.—Our Father, May we understand and be willing always to come to Thee and in Thee find a solution to all our problems. Inspire us by Thy Spirit to plan, pray, and work for the triumph of righteousness in our lives, our homes and our community. In Christ's name. Amen.

THURSDAY.

GLIMPSES OF GLORY.

LESSON: Psa. 24: 1-7.

"Lift up your heads, O ye gates; and be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors; and the King of glory shall come in."

In the mountains or on the sea, we catch the glory of the sunrise or the sunset, and it comes a little nearer symbolizing the glory of God's wonderful love and holiness than anything else.

There are counterparts of these in ourselves. Some experiences inspire one with a mighty truth. The gates of the soul seem to be lifted and glimpses of the eternal seem to be vouchsafed unto us.

Usually it is at the church, under the spell of an eloquent sermon, or a lofty prayer, or heavenly music; the heavenly doors seem to be lifted up and the King of Glory comes in, and we know the Lord in His fulness. But these glimpses never come until one has done his duty of lifting up the gates.

That is the duty of each of us.

Prayer.—Our Heavenly Father, May our faith be strengthened and our efforts increased towards carrying a vision of heavenly things to others. May we always be found trying to lift up the gates for someone. In Christ's name. Amen.

FRIDAY.

CONSCIENCE, THE "INNER MAN."

LESSON: Acts 24: 10-16.

"Herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offense."

We each carry a judge and a jury within us—conscience. It sits in judgment over our acts and says: "Thou ought," or "Thou oughtest not." Behind the might of this voice stands the majesty of God, whose voice it is.

A good conscience is what made Paul strong before Felix, Luther strong before the Diet of Worms.

Luther said, "It is not safe to do anything against conscience. It is a voice invincible. But Paul said it takes vigorous exercise to bring yourself into line with it.

Prayer.—Our Father, we try to come in line with Christian principles to day. Help us. May we not shun or neglect it, but may we be more sensitive to it and exercise ourselves daily to hear Thy voice. In Christ's name. Amen.

SATURDAY.

STABLE AND UNSTABLE CHARACTER.

LESSON: Matt. 7: 24-27.

"... a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand."

"Character is not builded up like a house, which may be torn down if it be defective. It is being engraved day by day, deep into the soul, the immortal part of you. You cannot rub it out. It stands."
—Robert Burdette.

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, May we be able to see that conduct and character is higher than confession, and give us a hungering for a building not made by ourselves, but by Thy Spirit that shall stand the storms. This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

SUNDAY.

THE SONG OF JOY AT THE WELL.

LESSON: Numbers 21: 16-18.

"Then Israel sang this song, Spring up, O well; sing ye unto it. The princes digged the well, the nobles of the people digged it, by the direction of the lawgiver, with their staves."

This passage gives us a beautiful picture of an ancient scene. A company of desert-travelers are very thirsty after their long journey. Suddenly one of their number discovers a well. The cool, gushing water is so refreshing and so reviving that, out of thanksgiving, they hymn a joyful song of gratitude.

But who were these princes who digged it? Evidently they were travelers who had passed that way before, had found water, and had banked up the bubbling, life-giving spring with stones! They dug out the mud and silt with staves, they banked back the loose sand with carefully picked bricks! They did not go upon their way in selfish forgetfulness, but left behind them a well-constructed spring for the thirsty caravans they knew would follow.

Most of us do not do much traveling in deserts or woods. But across the days of our lives we are traveling a way which others must some day come. Wells of inspiration, of wisdom, of help, of strength and wondrous blessing have been dug for us. At how many such wells have our lives been refreshed! How many have gone before us, whose labors we have entered into, and whose fidelity has made us safe and comfortable and happy! The wells of knowledge, wisdom, understanding and power have been bequeathed to us as a priceless heritage called Christian civilization. Let us leave these wells deepened and sweetened and amplified, that those who follow us may be refreshed and encouraged through our faithful, unselfish labors.

—Rev. Vincent G. Burns.

Prayer.—"Great Redeemer, we bless Thee for love and light, and for happiness that can be found only in obedience to Thy will. O Thou unailing Source of human hope, make this day to be filled with Thy glory. Amen."

"Almighty God, whose blessed Son Jesus Christ went about doing good and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of diseases among the people: continue, we beseech thee, this his gracious work among us, especially in the hospitals and infirmaries here and in foreign lands: cheer, heal and sanctify the sick: grant to the physicians, surgeons, and nurses, wisdom and skill, sympathy and patience: and assist with thy blessing all who are seeking to prevent suffering and to forward thy purposes of love: through Jesus Christ our Lord! Amen.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

We attended the Valley Virginia Central Conference last week and did not get to write our weekly letter to THE SUN. Our financial report this week shows that we have passed another rung in the ladder. We hope to pass another one next week. It is easy to climb if we have those who will push with a strong arm.

Our orphanage family is busy these days canning tomatoes and beans. The continued dry weather has practically ruined our bean crop, and we will not get as many canned as we expected to can. But we are doing our best.

Vacation season will soon be over, and all the children will be in school. Many of them got to go on a vacation, but we have a few who did not get to go. We wish all could have had a place to visit for at least a week. They enjoy it.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER 2, 1926.

Sunday School Offerings.

Brought forward	$ 16,323.27
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Shallow Ford	$ 16.73
Salem Chapel	1.00
Liberty90
Apples Chapel	5.31
Mt. Bethel70
Haw River	6.88	16.73
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Youngsville	$ 3.50
Pleasant Union	8.00
Henderson	5.41
Morrisville	2.00	18.91
Western North Carolina Conference:
Ether	$ 3.00
Pleasant Ridge	2.60	5.60
Valley Virginia Conference:
Concord		4.18
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Hobson	$ 3.99
Ocean View	1.25
Oakland	6.00
First Church, Portsmouth	6.34	17.58
*Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Richland		1.00
Alabama Conference:
New Hope		2.00
Northern Sunday School:
Pleasant Hill, Ohio		5.16
Special Offerings:
Mrs. Mary E. Williams	$.50
Mrs. A. R. Heartsfield	1.00
Children's Card Class, Clayton ...	1.09
Chas. D. Johnston, guardian	60.00
Woman's Board, S. C. C.	15.00
Woman's Board, S. C. C.	24.19	101.78
New Building Fund:
Mrs. Jas. G. Anthony	$100.00
B. C. Denvers	10.00
J. R. Liskey	5.00
G. T. Dixon	2.00
		117.00
Total for the week	$ 289.95
Grand total	$ 16,613.23

THE CHILD AND THE KINGDOM.

(Continued from page 5.)

the children from wandering away from God, to be lost on the "lowway" of sin.

The church should show great interest in bringing the wanderer back to God, but its major emphasis should be with the children in seeking to keep them within the fold of God's love. Oh, the meaning of all of life for the service of God!

With Christ, let us share his appreciation of the religious heritage of the child, and give it its proper place in our church planning. Rich dividends await the church that gives proper consideration to the children.

Though the adult may learn God and know him through reason and through service, the child may know God by intuition. Ruskin was right when he declared, "What a child cannot understand of Christianity, no one need try to understand."

The child seven years of age may know more about the nearness and love of God by the intuition of a pure and innocent heart, untainted by sin, than an adult who has wasted his youth and middle life in sin may ever know.

Ask the child of seven or eight years of age, why he loves God, it will reply, "Because I know he loves me"; and that is the best reason for either a child or adult to give.

"We love him, because he first loved us."

Children do not have to be preached to, in order to get them to confess Christ as Saviour and Lord. All they need is to be given the opportunity, if they have been taught the wonders of his love.

Witnessing children expressing their love for Christ is the happiest experience in any pastor's ministry.

I may be pardoned if I use some illustrations that have come in connection with my own family, or in connection with my ministry.

While I was pastor of the church at Legrand, Iowa, our daughter Ethyle, then eight years old, asked her mother if she might go with me to the Saturday monthly meeting. She told her she had no objection, but to ask me. She came to me with the request, "Papa, may I go with you to the meeting today?" I was delighted to tell her I would be pleased to have her go with me. I did not know why she wanted to go, but during the meeting when others were bearing testimony to their love for Jesus, little Ethyle, sitting in a seat by herself, arose and with a clear voice, and in a positive manner said, "I love Jesus." I knew then the meaning of her request to go with me to that afternoon meeting.

When pastor of a church in Western Iowa, at one of our regular Sabbath morning meetings, I gave an invitation for any one who wished to confess Christ and unite with the church to come forward. A large congregation was present. Bravely, a little girl seven or eight years old came forward and gave me her hand, saying she loved Jesus and wanted to unite with the church. She was a daughter of one of our deacons. Knowing the feeling some mothers have toward children acknowledging Christ and uniting with the church, I went to the mother and told her that her daughter wanted to unite with the church. She replied, "She does not know what she is doing." I asked her to come and speak with the child. She did so. And when she sat down by her, the child's face gave expression of a deep joy in the heart. The mother's first words were, "Do you know what you are doing?" That expression of joy changed to sadness, and the child wept bitterly. I waited a moment and then went and asked the mother what I should do. She replied, "You had better let her join the church for she says it is her desire." The child's face lighted up with joy again, and the deep feeling of God's presence over all the congregation gave evidence that the Father was pleased with this child's public confession of his Son.

I will give a more recent testimony to the desire of children publicly to own their Saviour. When (Concluded on page 15.)

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St. - - - Richmond Va.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION.

(Continued from page 9.)

cession at Christ Church, Westminster, led by men from many nations—India, Australia, Hungary, England and America.

The first day evening service was held at Queen's Hall. I must pause here to mention the beauty of this hall with its marble stairways, velvet draperies and chairs. Its beauty and coloring was much like our Congressional Library in Washington.

The music was a most charming feature at every service. Rev. Carey Bonner, of much fame in London, led the singing. Mr. Allen Brown was organist, and Mr. A. Mouldsdale, soloist.

The evening program was one of welcome. The main speaker was the Archbishop of Canterbury, followed by Rev. Elvert Lewis, president of the National Free Church Council, and Right Honorable Wm. Joynson-Hicks, Howe Secretary of British C. E. Greetings were read from many noted persons and varied countries, among them was a beautiful message from His Majesty King George.

The response by the dearly beloved Rev. Francis E. Clark, founder of the Christian Endeavor movement 45 years ago, was a high tide mark in the convention. Following his message were messages from Pasteur Ernest Sauvin, of Switzerland, Pastor Blucher from Germany, Rev. Martyn Taylor, India, Mr. T. S. Phillips, Jamaica. Each had a very personal testimony for the great good Christian Endeavor had accomplished in his land.

The next service was held Saturday evening, in Royal Albert Hall. This also was an immense, elegant building. Besides the main floor and orchestra, there were five tiers of galleries.

The evening was devoted to a praise and song service by Rev. Carey Bonner. I was never in a like service before. There were hundreds of voices composing a general choir, all dressed in white, and besides the soloists there was a special choir. The music was alternately and antiphonally by choir, special choir, soloists and congregation, accompanied by Mr. Allen on a great organ and Mr. Scott at the piano.

Sunday morning at 8 A. M., there was an open air service conducted by Rev. William Carey of India. A great open air evangelistic service was held in the evening at Crystal Palace grounds. The Crystal palace was an enormous building made entirely of glass. Here all the meetings were held except those mentioned above.

On Monday the outstanding event was a three minute talk from a representative from each of thirty nations, each carrying his own flag, and as he left the platform placing his flag around a massive C. E. monogram. What a beautiful symbol at the close, with a Christian flag floating at the top over them all.

The theme for the day was, "Come." The theme for Tuesday, "Follow." And the theme for Wednesday, "Go."

The high mark of Tuesday's meeting was the address by the Rt. Hon. Lloyd George, "The Youth of the World for Peace and Good Will." He spoke in a personal attitude to the youth of the world, and there were 4,000 of them present, representing over thirty countries and numerous islands.

He said that before the last, and most horrible of wars, was waged, "Europe had been drinking of armaments until it got delirium tremens in 1914, and it is going on secretly drinking now."

He urged that youth, with all of its hope, faith, and courage, cultivate love and friendship between nations and discourage armaments. He avows that unless arbitration and disarmament are adopted and the ideas that war is part of the grim essence of civilization are not torn away, the most horrible of wars is yet to be waged.

Dr. Ira Landrith gave a message on prohibition, in his speech, "The Youth of the World for Sobriety."

Dr. Clark and Dr. Dan A. Poling,

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

President of the United Society of Christian Endeavor of America, gave inspirational addresses Wednesday evening on the great commission, "Go," as a climax to the Seventh World's C. E. Convention. The over thirty nations present and numerous islands, responded in an effective manner.

Thus the great convention of young people was brought to a close. Each must have turned to the future with a greater goal ahead and a keener zeal to be more loyal to the life he has chosen and the Great Father of us all.

THE CHILD AND THE KINGDOM.

Concluded from page 13.)

my son, R. C., was making out membership certificates for those who had signed the decision cards for church membership last Easter, his little daughter, Charlotte, came to him and said, "Father, I want to sign one of those cards," The father said, "Why do you want to sign one of the cards?" She replied, "Because I want to join the church." "And why do you want to join the church?" asked the father. "Because I love Jesus, and I want everybody to know I love Him," was the quick response of the child who is but seven years old.

Could an adult give better answers to the father's questions?

Many ministers have had experiences similar to these I have related.

Such experiences would be the normal experiences if fathers and mothers were true to their children in life and teaching.

Father, mother, the deepest concern of Jesus is the spiritual welfare of your child. Is it your deepest concern?

Fifteen years ago, the religious survey showed that the majority of people who united with the church did so at the age of 13, but the survey that was made recently in Indiana under the direction of Dr. Athern showed that the majority united with the church at 11. Why this change? Because the church is catching the meaning of the words of Jesus, 'Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the Kingdom of God.'

When the whole church catches the meaning of these words and shares with Christ in his interest in child life, we may expect to learn that the majority of the church membership united with the church at 9, or even younger.

So may it be!

CHAUTAUQUA HONOR ROLL.

(Continued from page 10.)

E. Holstead, Rosemont; Mrs. J. F. Morgan, Rosemont; Erna Whitaker, Wake Chapel; Howard Smith, Newport News; Rev. B. J. Earp, Newport News; Margaret Lawrence, Lynchburg; Lillie Horne, Burlington; Linner McClenehan, Danville; Lillian White, Danville; Eunice Gourley, Danville; H. S. Hardcastle, Suffolk; Mable Garner, Ether; Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, Holland; Mable Coghill, Fullers; Herbert Dunn, Ingram; Mrs. W. T. Walters, Burlington; Nannie Sue Dunn, Ingram; Willie Needham, Ether; Galen Elliott, Chapel Hill.

The following persons deserve special mention because they did the work for International Credit but are under sixteen years of age:

"The Pupil": Helen White Daughtry, Franklin; Clarene Perry, Durham.

"Story Telling": Reed Perkins; Clarene Perry, Durham; Emma Williamson, Sarah Johnson, Lucy Caddell.

"The Life of Jesus": Elizabeth Dunn.

"Youth Organized for the Church": Theo Hines, Franklin; Sarah Norfleet Daughtry, Elizabeth Dunn, Ingram.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON—CONCLUDED.

III.—The giving was sacrificial. These people were pilgrims in a wilderness. What they gave, they could not replace. Their giving meant something. Alas how much of our giving means little if anything. We give God what is left. He demands the first-fruits. There are Sunday School pupils who will spend fifty cents a week for movies who will bring five cents to Sunday School and make no pledge to the church. A great patriot once said: "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute." We might paraphrase his words and say, "Dollars for pleasure, but pennies and nickels for the Kingdom."

IV.—The giving took the form of service. Some of the people had little if anything to give. But they did not feel relieved of their responsibility. They gave their service. Even those who did give material things gave of their service. It ought to be so with us. God wants us. The personal service element enters in. Like the apostles of old, we ought to give ourselves first.

That they may carry on

Look into the face of your boy or girl.

There's fine stuff there—that lift of the head is pride—there is intelligence in the level eyes.

A man or woman of the South—in the making.

Our children live in a day of high pressure. The South has taken its place in the front ranks of industry. Modern methods of manufacture, scientific farming, improved transportation—all are factors in building the industrial South. This development brings with it many changes in our customs and habits.

But we must hold fast to the idealism of the Old South—the ideal of useful and intelligent citizenship. The children must carry it on.

This is primarily a matter of education.

The average year's pay of teachers in elementary and secondary schools in the states of the South served by the Southern is only $637. Southern Railway System, which pays three million dollars per annum in school taxes, ventures to express the view that greater material rewards should be enjoyed by the men and women upon whom rests the responsibility of teaching the children of the South.

"—knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

From the Constitution of the state of North Carolina.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
REV. S. C. HARRELL Associate
R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
REV. S. M. LYNAM News Editor
P. J. KERNODLE Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year $ 2.00
Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertiou. Display rates quoted upon request.

OBITUARIES.

PIERCE.

On Friday, August 13, 1926, at her home, 201 Poplar Avenue, Norfolk, Va., Mrs. Fannie Cornelia Pierce died after nine weeks of illness. She was sixty-seven years of age and had been married to Samuel W. Pierce for forty-seven years. For more than forty years they had made their home in Norfolk, having moved there from their farm near Chuckatuck, Va.

Mrs. Pierce was the mother of eight children, and is survived by six of them. Her only son died about forty years ago, at the age of seventeen months, and one daughter, wife of Rev. John G. Truitt, died August 29, 1925. Besides her husband, the children surviving are: Mrs. R. B. Wood, Mrs. M. L. Bryant, Miss Lula, Miss Fannie May, Mrs. E. T. Jones, and Mrs. S. K. Beaser. She is also survived by nine grandchildren, one brother, Chas. H. Pitt, Chuckatuck, Va., and one sister, Mrs. Annie Maude Butler, Windsor, Va.

She was a descendent of some of the first settlers of Virginia. Her father was Charles Wesley Pitt, of Nansemond County, and her mother was Mary Wrench Pitt. It was her good fortune to live long enough to see the continuation of her inherited Christian culture and character firmly implanted in all her children. For forty long years she and her husband had been of the very finest type of members of the First Christian Church, Norfolk, Va. During her life time she and her husband and children contributed several thousands of dollars out of their daily earnings to her church.

Dr. L. E. Smith, pastor of the Christian Temple, Norfolk; Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, pastor of the Suffolk Christian Church, and Rev. O. D. Poythress, pastor of the South Norfolk Christian Church, conducted, at the home, her funeral. Dr. Smith was in charge, Mr. Harcastle read a scripture lesson, and Mr. Poythress sang "I Need Thee Every Hour," and "I Will Never Leave Thee, nor Forsake Thee." Many and beautiful were the floral tokens of love and sympathy. It was the wish of the deceased that her funeral be as she had lived, quiet and unostentatious, and expressive of a sincere and constant devotion to her home.

She was laid to rest in Riverside cemetery, along with her deceased daughter, Mrs. Truitt, and her sou-in-law, the Rev. M. L. Bryant. May her oft repeated prayers for her beloved husband and her devoted children and grandchildren be answered in their lives.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 3/4 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00
0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick $6.00
04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 6 in $4.35
0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75
05153 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25
05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75
04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches $5.50
0023x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick $9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL. Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address

THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Our Price—Post Paid $2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land. No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid $2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc. Our Price—Post Paid $3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid $3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearcut Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 9/8 inches

Specimen of Type AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $1.60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges $0.70

2115P. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes 2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $0.85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red. 131RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges $0.85

151RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer 2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1926.

NUMBER 36.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By Rev. S. M. LYNAM.

Canada to Aid Dry Drive.—

Following the lead of Great Britain, Canadian government officials have informed President Coolidge that the same policy will be adopted there and that new laws designed to check the flow of liquor from the provinces will be enacted.

Ice Box and Cherry Pie.—

The closing days of August were fortunate days for Calvin Coolidge. Across the country came Wallace H. Keep of the Michigan Cherry-Growers, bringing with him a huge pie weighing forty-six pounds and having a diameter of thirty inches and a depth of four inches. It contained five thousand selected cherries. When the White House was constructed some 136 years ago, it had a crude ice box of shaggy lumber. The ice was cut in the midst of winter and stored up in a cold cellar near the presidential abode. For John Adams it took much, for Thomas Jefferson less. Abraham Lincoln got a newer and better ice box, and Grover Cleveland a still better. But it is Calvin Coolidge who has managed to have installed in the White House a huge electric refrigerator, and now he has the cooling power of one thousand pounds of melting ice, and yet Mrs. Coolidge need not worry over the cleanliness of the ice man's shoes or their lack of it.

Cyclones, Electric Storms, Earthquakes.—

The last days of August were awesome days in many places. The black cone of a cyclone descended on Ridgefield, N. J., and destroyed a lumber factory, a big church, a number of lesser buildings, and passed on to four neighboring towns before taking to the Atlantic. On Long Island the natives saw strange bars of blue and red light careering through the heavens, marking a great electrical disturbance. Then suddenly, at North Cliffe, the sound sent up a huge column of water, destroying cottages and dragging the wreckage into the sea with its back-wash. England felt the earth tremble for the third time recently. These terrestrial tremblings mark the fact that England is in the earthquake zone for the first time in history. Needless alarm was caused by the announcement that Vesuvius was showing signs of life. It always is, but history knows of but two really great eruptions of Vesuvius; the one in '79 A. D., which destroyed two cities and was reported by Pliny, and one in 1631 when ashes fell in Constantinople seven hundred miles away. A Japanese steamer watched a powerful disturbance in the Bering sea at the same island that appeared in that sea not long ago. It was indeed a week of disturbance and of portentous things in earth and sky.

Lucky Chicago.—

Chicago has gained a good deal of notoriety these last few years because of the multitude of her criminals, but Chicago has some good sons, and sons able to be good to her in their hours of prosperity. Two lavish gifts proved this recently, when John G. Shell, the aging chairman of the Board of Marshall Field Company gave a million dollars to be added to two other millions which he had given for the construction of the largest and best Aquarium in the United States. This aquarium will house the best ichthyological collection in the world. This will be a fourth great collection of swimming things in America. The other gift was one of three million dollars from Julius Rosenwald of Sears-Roebuck and Company for the restoration of the old Fine Arts Building of World's Fair days and putting into it of an industrial arts exhibit. This gift parallels the gift of Henry R. Towne, lock and hardware magnate, to the city of New York for a building for the peaceful arts. Many experts have already gone to study the best industrial arts collections in Europe, in order that an accurate record of the material progress of man may be got together for these two great buildings.

Dr. George Washington Crile.—

Dr. George Washington Crile of Cleveland, Ohio, is not unknown in his home town. He is highly esteemed there, and the citizens know that at his clinic they can secure an examination of scholarly exactitude. They know too, that his method of blocking nerves during an operation to prevent shock, is as great a discovery as the first application of anesthetic. They have heard little of the studies he has carried on recently in an effort to discover what life is. Experiments have been performed on 2670 animals including man, and that he has been studying cells for nine years. He has arrived at the conclusion that life is a matter of electricity set up between the acidic nucleus and the alkaline portion of each of the twenty-eight trillion cells in the human body. This current of electricity is not so easily established when fatigue is present and almost impossible when the animal is exhausted. He discovered that the cells have no electric current or discharge in death and that the cell is the same chemically throughout. He finds that the brain and the liver disintegrate more rapidly than any other portions of the body, and he believes that the brain is the positive pole of the electrical human organism and that the liver is the negative pole.

Rudolph Valentino Dies.—

On the day following the death of Dr. Eliot, president-emeritus of Harvard University, the wires bore to the nation the message of Rudolph Valentino's death. Mr. Valentino was an Italian, a movie actor, and at the age of thirty-one, was perhaps as well known or better known to the American movie-going audience of thirty-two million than Dr. Eliot. Death followed a sudden collapse at his hotel from whence he was speedily taken to the Polyclinic Hospital where he underwent an operation for appendicitis and later developed pleurisy. In spite of every effort, he gradually lost strength until the end. Inquiries as to the condition of this young man came in at the rate of two thousand an hour, and two operators were detailed to answer them. Thousands blocked the traffic as his body was borne from the hospital to be prepared, as was the body of Enrico Caruso, for perpetual preservation. Rudolph Valentino was born in Italy, the son of a veterinarian and a former cavalry officer. He wandered from one thing to another until he suddenly jumped into fame as one of the actors in The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse. At the time of his death, his life was insured for one million dollars in favor of his producer, Joseph M. Schenck.

Death Calls Dr. Eliot.—

Death found Charles William Eliot at his summer home at Northeast Harbor, Maine. Dr. Eliot was for forty years president of Harvard University, and for seventeen years president emeritus of that institution. He is probably better known, however, as the compiler of the famous "Five Foot Shelf" of essential books.

Dr. Eliot spent three years in Europe as a researcher in mathematics and chemistry. Returning to the United States, he refused the trusteeship of a spinning corporation at a large salary, taught at Boston School of Technology, and wrote for the magazines attacking the American system of education. He contended that the great fault was uniformity. And so he brought himself to the attention of the Harvard Corporation when it was casting about in 1868 for a successor to Dr. Thomas Hill. Many thought him too young when he assumed the presidency of Harvard at the age of thirty-five and began to turn the place over "like a flapjack" as Oliver Wendell Holmes put it. He found Harvard a small college; he left it a great university. When he retired at the age of seventy-five, after having served for forty years, he was succeeded by Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell. Dr. Eliot was offered the ambassadorship at the Court of St. James. The nation was delighted with this nomination of President Taft, but the ex-college president excused himself, but two years later sailed round the world as the Carnegie Peace Envoy. This man whose name is as deeply graven upon the tablets at Harvard as that of John Harvard himself, was ninety-two when death called to him at his summer home, and he laid him down to sleep.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. W. B. Fuller, of Dendron, Va., filled the Baptist pulpit in Wakefield on Sunday night, September 5th.

Dr. S. L. Beougher, President of Bethlehem College, reports that the opening this year, on August 30th, was very successful, and that he expects great things from Bethlehem.

The Christian Sunday School at Wakefield, Va. enjoyed a lovely picnic at Jamestown Island on September 2d. About 75 people joined in the procession. Much life is being manifested in the Sunday School now, and there are many signs of progress.

Rev. M. T. Sorrell has given up his work in Carroll County, Va., and has entered Elon College to further pursue his studies in preparation for his life's work. Brother Sorrell is open for church work should any churches within reach desire his services as pastor.

It is learned with regret that "Uncle Wellons" (Rev. J. W. Wellons), who celebrated so becomingly and illustriously his one-hundredth anniversary the first of January at Elon College, is quite feeble at his present living place, the Masonic Home, Greensboro, N. C.

Rev. J. M. Roberts assisted the pastor, Rev. G. A. Pearce, in a series of meetings at Oak Grove Church, Gates County, the third week in August. The church was greatly revived, the meeting being helpful and much enjoyed. There were six additions to the church.

Rev. G. C. Crutchfield, of Wakefield, is the first pastor to respond to our request for "postal card news notes," which was run in THE SUN several weeks ago, and he furnished his own postals, too. We thank Brother Crutchfield. He has two "notes" in this column. It is time others followed his example.

Rev. G. H. Veazey, one of our Alabama pastors who graduated from Bethlehem last commencement, came with his wife and his two children, to Elon last week. Brother Veazey has entered college and hopes to complete the course in two years. He is open for work with a church or churches desiring his services within reach of the college.

The meeting at Eure's was held the second week in August. Rev. I. W. Johnson, D. D., assisted the pastor, Rev. G. A. Pearce. It was a great and good meeting, the church being much revived. There were 27 professions, many re-consecrations, and 19 additions to the church. The pastor feels much encouraged over the work at Eure's and his entire Gates County pastorate.

Rev. J. H. Dollar, an Elon graduate and very well known by many SUN readers, having finished his work at Vanderbilt Theological Seminary, Nashville, Tenn., has joined the faculty of Bethlehem College, Wadley, Alabama. We are sure this is a distinct contribution to the teaching force of Bethlehem, and we are wishing for Brother Dollar much success in this field of great opportunity.

In the editorial columns of this issue of THE SUN appears the address of Dr. W. W. Staley on "Teaching the History and Principles of the Christian Church in the Sunday School," delivered at the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention of the Eastern Virginia Conference held in Waverly, Va. It contains living truths with little elaboration. It outlines the principles that the ministry and lay-workers of the Church should give heed to.

Quite a wonderful revival is reported to have been held at Cypress Chapel, Va., in which the pastor, Rev. J. W. Roberts, was assisted by Rev. O. D. Poythress, of South Norfolk, who did the preaching. The church was greatly revived and encouraged for future activity. There were many re-consecrations and fifty-two were received into the church. They have a greatly enlarged house of worship, but this was taxed to its capacity and was unable to accommodate all who attended the last two or three days of the services.

Dr. I. W. Johnson has won for himself the appellation, "The Marrying Parson." This is not without foundation, but we wish to advise the readers of THE SUN that Dr. I. W. Johnson deserves to be known also as "The Remodeling and Building Parson." Within a few months Dr. Johnson has seen through to completion remodeling programs in two of his churches, Oakland and Liberty Spring. And we call attention to this, in both instances the Sunday School equipment has been given large consideration.

Rev. G. D. Hunt is enthusiastic and exceedingly hopeful over the program of church building at Roanoke, Alabama. Under date September 3d, Brother Hunt writes: "We hope to be in our new church at Roanoke before Christmas, the Lord willing. We want two thousand members of the Christian Church to lend us one dollar each, and we will pay it back to the conference within the next ten years. Our little band at Roanoke are doing all they can to put the program over and by the help of the Lord we will do the work!" The material for the building has been secured and the job has been contracted. Evidently they mean business at Roanoke, and with Brother Hunt as leader there is no doubt but that the good work will be done, and properly.

"Dr. P. H. Fleming received a long-distance message this morning from near Henderson, announcing the death of Mr. Fuller Coghill, an aged and prominent planter of that section, and asking that he come and conduct the funeral. Dr. Fleming had preached in that section some years ago, and the family was especially anxious to have him back. He organized the church, which was named Fullers' Chapel, for Mr. Coghill." The above from the Burlington News, September 3d, tells of the passing of a devout Christian man. When this writer first met Bro. Coghill years ago, he was joyous and enthusiastic over just seeing completed a Christian Church in his community. They named the church "Fullers'" in honor of this true and loyal man of God. He is the grandfather of our Miss Pattie Coghill, Field Secretary of the Board of Christian Education.

The Executive Committee of the Alabama Conference, Rev. G. D. Hunt, chairman, has endorsed the finance plan adopted by the Convention at Durham. If Executive Committees of all the conferences would adopt the plan, it would expedite the work of the Budget Commission so that the people may clearly understand the plan by the time they assemble in their annual conferences. The only conference to meet thus far was the Valley of Virginia Conference, and this approved the plan of the convention though its members had not understood the matter until conference assembled. It would save much time and discussion at conference if the Executive Committees would adopt the plan so that churches could be discussing the matter and delegates to conference could understand the plan before going to conference. The Convention Committee does not wish to go beyond its authority even in its educational work until the Executive Committees of the conferences have endorsed the program.

SUN readers will be delighted at the splendid opening that Elon is enjoying this year. Last year the college had 198 Freshmen, 17 departmental students and 185 upper classmen. Already this year (this is written on September 3d, and the college opened two days ago) there are 142 Freshmen, 18 departmental students, and 212 upper classmen, and enough college students have already applied and have been accepted to bring the number to the full four hundred within a few days. There are 60 members of the Senior class, this being the largest Senior class the college has ever had. Friends of the college everywhere will rejoice at this fine opening. Each college year makes history in the Church; for in the colleges are being trained, and from the colleges each year there go out, those who are to be leaders in Church work. Character building at Elon means character building in the churches throughout the years to come, and those who have at heart the future of the Church have also the deepest interest and the concern for the work and the progress and success of our colleges.

In the great audience that gathered at Liberty Spring for the rededication service, Sunday, August 29th, there was no happier man than Brother A. J. Savage. For fifty-two years he has taught and worked in the Sunday School and has witnessed a growth from a mere handful in a single room to a great Sunday School with a present equipment of eight class rooms, separate and apart from the church auditorium. While Brother Savage has past his three score years and ten, he is as deeply interested in his school and church as ever, and his heart was filled to overflowing as he witnessed and enjoyed the great day of rededication, realizing as he did that a little leaven had leavened the lump and that of seed sowing had come at last a great harvest. Liberty Spring is now one of our best equipped rural churches, having separate rooms for the various classes and an auditorium that is ample for the great congregations that gather there for worship. There are electric lights in the building, a heating plant that guarantees warmth and comfort in the cold days of winter, and an auditorium for the Sunday School on the days when there is no preaching and the main auditorium is not needed. Brother Savage has lived to witness this great climax of a work begun more than half a century ago and to witness the growth and its power in his community. In talking to men and women of such calibre who have been loyal, faithful and true to their church and to their God through the years, one is constantly reminded of the holy injunction, "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."

MT. AUBURN CHURCH.

The annual union revival meeting of Mt. Auburn Christian Church, Union Methodist Episcopal Church, and Bethesda Baptist Church was held this summer at Union Methodist Church. Rev. Charles Reid, Presiding Elder of the Methodist Church, did the preaching, assisted by the pastors of the several churches and other visiting ministers. Three services were held daily, morning, afternoon and night. At noon the children and young people assembled after dinner for a special service under the direction of some special leader among their number. These meetings prepared them for the evangelistic services.

The morning testimonial meetings and song services were inspirational, intensely spiritual, and evinced deep interest. The responses by the Christian people were beautiful, the spiritual life was intensified, and the fellowship and spiritual unity were ideal. The co-operation of all denominations was perfect and the entire community was greatly revived in spiritual experience.

There were not a great many unconverted people in the community, but those who had made no profession felt a powerful impulse under the strong sermons of Brother Reid to make a profession of Christian faith. As a result, ten or twelve professions were made. The next appointment at Mt. Auburn, seven persons were received into fellowship and membership of the church.

No congregation in the Christian Church has higher appreciation of their pastor than at Mt. Auburn. This fact is a great inspiration to the pastor to do his best for the church. If all churches would exercise genuine appreciation towards their pastor, greater good would be accomplished for the Kingdom.

On the second Sunday in October, Mt. Auburn Church will hold a Home Coming Service. There will be preaching in the forenoon and in the afternoon. Dr. J. O. Atkinson, a former pastor, will be with the present pastor and will preach at one of the services. Dinner will be served in picnic style and old friends and members of the church will renew their acquaintance and cultivate their social good fellowship. All members of the church are requested to attend services and business session of the church on Saturday at 3 P. M., and join in making our church a banner church in the report to the annual conference.

W. C. WICKER.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Alabama Conference will meet with the Church at Bethany on Tuesday, October 12, 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M. G. D. Hunt, President; E. M. Carter, Secretary.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 2, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 16, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church, Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1926. G. O. Lankford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 8, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 - Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x 7 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 11-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50
India Paper Edition, Only 11-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools$2.50

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, briefer, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 13-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1336 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN C. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE CHURCH'S RESPONSIBILITY FOR CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

The term "Christian Education" is coming to have, in the minds of many, a meaning quite different from that of former years. One used to think that the term designated a specified and well defined process or program in an institution of higher learning. Gradually, however, the term has been enlarged until Christian Education has come to mean all training, teaching and learning of Christian type and character. In so far as the Sunday School teaches the Christ's way of living and serving, it is engaged in Christian Education. In so far as the Christian Endeavor Society teaches the principles and practices of the Christ, it is engaged in Christian Education. In so far as the Church, through its preaching and its service teaches its membership and its congregations the Christ's way of living and activity, it is engaged in Christian Education. So on through the entire category, those institutions whose business it is to make the Christ's way plain, and clear, vital and living, are engaged in Christian Education.

At the seat and center of all these institutions is the Church, for out of the Church these institutions have grown just as the fruit grows from the tree. In order that the Church may do its work of Christian Education, not just part the way but all the way, it has built for itself institutions of higher learning, colleges and universities, that pupils who learn something of the way of Christ in the Sunday School may know more of His way in the larger learning and wider teaching of college and university. Every Church college is, or should be, the expression of the Church life that builds and sustains it in its attitude toward and teaching of the youth who has had Christian training at home and in the Sunday School and in the Endeavor Societies and in the other auxiliaries of the Church. In the days of high school the principle part of Christian Education goes on at home, in the family circle, and in the Church School on the Sabbath. Completing this period, the Church undertakes, while youth is engaged in the further process of Education to surround him or her with a Christian atmosphere, through the instruction and leadership of Christian teachers, out-standing and pronounced Christian men and women as teachers, leaders and instructors.

In this light it will be seen that the responsibility for Christian Education is lodged in the Church, and the Church cannot shirk the responsibility. The Christian college is the outcome, the product, the fruit of the Church and is what the Church makes it. Every member in a local church should feel, and in a measure does have, some weight of responsibility for the college which represents his Church, or which is the child and product of his Church.

Here in the South our churches have builded and are responsible for Elon College and Bethlehem College. They are the gift of the Church, the products of the Church, which the Church is responsible for in its attempt to supply youth with that which youth most needs, college training under Christian influence. Our support of these institutions, our response to their plea for students and to their needs for support and for direction cannot be side-stepped. The Church college engaged in the business of Christian Education cannot grow and prosper, nay cannot exist, without response from and guidance of the Church who created and owns it.

In this light every church should cultivate the same feelings of responsibility for its Church college as it does for its Sunday School and for the home life of its membership. For in the days when students are in the Church college, it is their home life and also the place of their training and development in Christian attitude and conduct. Does the Church feel responsible for its children in the Sunday School and in the home? Then it should certainly feel a like responsibility for its youth while off at college, which is to supply both the living and the training, at the most formative and crucial period of life.

This indeed is setting a high standard for the Christian college, but none too high, since it undertakes to do such vital work at such a crucial period in the life of the youth.

After all it is the Church that is engaged in Christian Education and is responsible for Christian Education, because it undertakes to train in Christian ethics, Christian living and Christian practices all the way from the child begins to learn until the youth has completed his college course and enters upon the activities of life as instructor, and leader, and helper of others.

Do we give our means and offer up our prayers and take into our hearts a deep and abiding sympathy for our Sunday Schools, our Endeavor Societies, our other auxiliaries of the Church? Then in a still larger and a more vital manner should we give to, pray for, and cultivate the deepest interest in and sympathy for our Christian colleges which are undertaking, through four years of most critical experience, to carry on properly and effectually that training, development and learning in the principles and practices of Christ which has been carried on under Christian influences prior to college days.

DEVOTION AND SERVICE.

Several times during recent years, criticism has been directed against Conference programs. The criticism has been to the effect that but little or no place has been given for emphasis upon spiritual life. The critics complain that all the time of the Conference is taken up with perfecting organizations, with the laying of plans for enlarged activities, and with the raising of money to finance the many enterprises of the church; and that no time and consideration is devoted to the deepening of the spiritual life of the church. We may safely assume that there are good grounds upon which this criticism is based. Anyone who has had any experience in the making of programs for conferences and conventions realizes what a difficult task it is to prepare a perfectly balanced program. It requires no end of pains-taking care to provide a place on the program for every phase of church life that needs to be considered, and to allot to each its proportionate part of the time available.

There is to be found a possible explanation of the situation complained of, if one will take the trouble to look up the minutes of conferences and conventions which were held thirty or forty years ago. It will be found that then but scant consideration was given to the things that occupy so prominent a place in the programs of today. The leaders of church life and thought of a generation or two ago seemed to be concerned with but one thought; and that was to induce men and women to accept Christ as Saviour and unite with the church. They took it for granted that, once this had been done, there would follow a realization of the fullness of Christian duty and responsibility for others, and each individual member or congregation would of itself find a way to discharge their full duty. Then one day the leaders in church life awoke to the fact that they were responsible not only to lead individuals to Christ, but also to make plain the obligations of the individual to the church, the kingdom, the social order, and to the world; and to provide organizations and mediums through which individual Christians might discharge their full duty in helping the world as represented by their next door neighbor, and by the individual who lives in the most remote part of the earth. Programs of today are a reaction from the narrow programs of the past. And as is natural, we have swung from one extreme to the other. It is not surprising if sometimes we get lost in the multiplicity of details and organizations and plans, in our effort to adjust ourselves to this world wide program that has suddenly dawned upon us.

But if in the breadth of the task, and in the varied organizations we have developed, and in the press of the financial burden they have brought upon us; we lose sight of the matter of our personal relationship to Jesus Christ, and the necessity of nurturing a deep and rich spiritual life, our mistake will be far more tragic than was that of our fathers. We must have both if our Christian life is to be what Jesus would have it be. He himself has given us the example of what life ought to be. We find him going from the solitary place of prayer where he had frequently lingered all night, out to meet and supply the clamoring wants of needy humanity, to help them solve their problems and bear their burdens, and to give them the vision of the larger life of the spirit. You will find Him also reversing the process, and after a day of most exacting service to humanity He would retire for communion with the Father.

The spirit of ascetic devotion, that cuts itself off from the world with all its needs; that is so intent upon enjoying perfect fellowship with God that it shuts out all thought of clamoring, needy and sinful humanity, defeats its own program. It finds when it has retired to the solitary place, that God is not there. On the other hand, if we give all our thought to organization and plans, burdening ourselves with multiplicity of surveys and schemes for social and spiritual uplift of the masses, we may find that in the hour of crucial testing, we may be like the disciples who were trying to drive out the evil spirit, we may have everything but the spiritual power. We began by talking about conference and convention programs, but these after all are but a cross-section of our religious life. The problem of the program-maker is the problem of the individual Christian. That problem is to keep in touch with the Christ on the one hand; and to keep in touch with those whom Christ would win on the other. For we are the connecting link between the two. Our task is to embody the deepest spiritual devotion along with the most unselfish brotherly service.

TEACHING THE HISTORY AND PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

I. REASONS:

1. For the Church Members. Ignorance of History means decadence of loyalty. The Passover kept the Hebrews loyal to their God, and the Communion keeps the Church loyal to Jesus Christ. The Fourth of July keeps the fire of patriotism alive in the American heart.

2. For the New Generation. Whatever may be said of Youth and Education, the inspiration comes through present and past generations. The infancy and youth of Jesus furnished historical information and suggestion to parents and teachers; but Joseph, Mary, and God, must not be left out of the equation. The History and Principles of the Christian Church will die unless taught to the new generation.

3. For Those Outside Who May Come In. They must have reasons for becoming members of the church. Association, friendships, business, marriages, may all enter into the question, but some knowledge of the church in its origin and beliefs, certainly help toward permanent decisions.

II. WHAT SHOULD BE TAUGHT:

1. The Triple Origin in the South, East and West. This, of course, will include persons, as James O'Kelly, Abner Jones, and Barton W. Stone: Methodist, Baptist, and Presbyterian men who, independent of one another, moved out on similar lines of thought and spiritual convictions. It was the religious spirit that first moved the civic independence of America. These three simultaneous movements finally united in one body which is named the "Christian Church."

2. The One Hundred and Thirty-four Years of this History in its Reactionary Influences over Protestantism in this Country. Differences between denominations have been reduced, co-operation has been increased. Dogma has given place to tolerance, and authoritative creeds to Christian life. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, are expressions of fraternity that gave us Prohibition which will mean a sober nation.

3. The Cardinal Principles of the Christian Church—

1. Jesus Christ the only Head.
2. Christian a Sufficient Name.
3. Holy Bible Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice.
4. Christian Character Sufficient for Membership.
5. Right of Private Judgment and Liberty of Conscience should be accorded to all.

III. HOW TO TEACH THESE PRINCIPLES:

1. In a printed Booklet, written in Chatechetical form, very simple, but complete. Questions and answers are more impressive than plain statements. The human mind is a natural question box?

2. Such a brochure should be printed in large numbers so as to supply all the schools of the Convention at small cost. The cost of such a catechism would repay itself in the future. No necessary expense in the Lord's work ever comes to be a burden on the church. False expense or no expense is the heaviest financial load the church has to carry.

3. Such pamphlets should be kept as a part of the school library for repeated use. All education is repetition and each new generation has to learn what the old generation has forgotten. The educational process is as the rising and setting sun. Nature in all her activities is continuous repetition and the church should learn from nature and God.

IV. WHERE TO TEACH:

1. In Sunday School Classes. This will not only put the pupils in possession of needed information, but establish the teacher in the History and Principles of the Church. Teachers and pupils learn together, grow together, and witness together. Teachers need the History and Principles of the Church incorporated in their soul-life so as to qualify them to lead their classes into the same intelligent and loyal allegiance to the church.

2. In the main School by the Pastor or a competent Superintendent; or some specially qualified teacher, man or woman. This should be in the form of repetition and emphasis on the main points of interest and chief lessons to be learned. This would emphasize in the Pastor's mind the importance of the History and Principles of the Church, without which he cannot honestly fill his position as a teacher and pastor. A live Sunday School with a clear understanding of the History and Principles of the Church would press its influence upon the pulpit with a silent and compelling force that would improve the pulpit power for God and the Church. An intelligent spiritual Church possesses potentialities that must eventually win the victory through Christ.

W. W. S.

THE PROOF OF FRIENDSHIP. PART II.

We all look with disfavor upon the man who is so careful in looking out for the interests of No. One that he fails to recognize the interests of No. Two. When a man is bent solely upon getting every cent that is coming to him, and is not so careful in giving every cent that is due his neighbor, he is soon despised by all who know him. The man in business should be willing to give the highest market price for what he buys, if he insists on getting the highest price for all he sells.

The universal law of life is that of give and take. And the man who observes only the second half of the law, no matter in what department of life it may be, whether it is in religion, in business, in education, in the home or wherever it may be, he will have to pay the penalty of incurring the displeasure of those with whom he deals. True, the world owes every man a living, provided every man is willing to pay the price. But the world owes nothing to the man who thinks only about what the world should give him, and nothing about what he might be able to give the world. The man who would reap the benefit of friendship must give his own life as a harvest field on which others shall reap. Even the natural world teaches us the same law of give and take.

Whenever a plant or an animal takes alone and gives nothing in return, whether it be the weed that crowds out the oats and the wheat and robs the soil of its fertility, or whether it be the gopher that burrows up the pasture and destroys the farmer's crops—whatever it may be, if it takes but makes no contribution to the good of life, it is termed a pest, and the extermination of the species is sought.

The question is, Should man evade this law? Can he? No, he cannot. The man who seeks to get the living the world owes him without paying the price in a life of wholesome service is despised by all just men. Society boycotts the business that lives unto itself alone, that gives no benefit to the community upon which it seeks to thrive. It was not strange that the people of a certain western city refused, by common consent, to trade in a store that was started simply to get rid of a surplus stock of goods owned by a firm in another city. They believed in patronizing home interests so long as the home concerns met them half way. They desired to spend their money with the home stores which gave in return their interest in the welfare and growth of their home city.

Men consciously boycott the business that lives to itself alone—that makes no contribution to the community's good. And men will consciously or unconsciously boycott any institution that lives to itself alone—that does not make some definite contribution to the good of society. When the church begins to express its prayer for men without its pail, by engaging in an adequate program of community betterment, the Lord will turn its captivity, and set it free from the false prejudices and unjust criticisms of its enemies.

Yes, and men will consciously or unconsciously boycott the individual who lives to himself alone. No one admires a hermit or a sponger. What right has a man to try to get out of life all he can and give nothing in return? What reason has a man for living, if he does not seek to make the world better by having lived in it? What good is a man's religion if it concerns himself alone?

The depth of one's religious experience and appreciations is measured by the radius of the circle which inscribes his religious interest in other people. Your religion and mine is measured by its output and not by its intake. It is measured by the inspiration we give to others and not by the inspiration we receive. It is not the prayer that we offer for ourselves that makes our religion real, but the prayer that we offer for our friends. For some, the depth and the circumference of their religious experience and appreciation is a mere dot, just self, no depth to it. For others the circumference of the earth is the circumference of their religious interests. Their vision is world wide. They pray for all men everywhere.

Job's experience was that the Lord turned his captivity, gave him a larger vision in life, gave him a larger purpose for living, made him a bigger man, the kind of man the world needs and loves. The Lord did all this when Job prayed for his friends.

The religious appreciation that is expressed in the words of the selfish man's prayer, "God bless me and my wife, our son John and his wife, us four and no more," does not bring God's richest blessing to the soul. No doubt we seriously question whether it can bring any blessing at all.

The man who is held in the captivity of selfishness, who thinks only about his own salvation, and prays for himself alone, is living a very narrow life. His soul is a desert place. The Lord will turn his captivity, will make the desert place of his soul blossom with the flowers of sympathy, love and usefulness when he prays for his friends.

(Continued on page 13.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Trash-Day; Trash-Cart. Ward 1, Tuesday; Ward 2, Wednesday; Ward 3, Thursday; Ward 4, Friday. Then all along the streets, piled up in heaps, boxes, cans, bundles, of trash waiting for the carts. Every housekeeper and storekeeper and office has cleaned up the back yard, the kitchen, the back-porch, the trash-room, because the city is trying to keep clean. Then on trash-day the trash-carts begin their rounds to gather up the trash and haul it away and dump it into some out-of-the-way ravine, swamp, or hillside. This is a good service and friendly co-operation on the part of the people helps to make and keep a clean city.

Newspapers do a good deal of this kind of work. Any reader of the dailies will agree that these papers are the trash-carts of society. They are loaded with the refuse, the waste, the follies, the decaying acts of society. Murders, robberies, divorces, immoralities, thefts, follies, all the worst sayings and doings of society. They gather up the social, civic, and commercial trash and make the "headlines" attract the eyes of the readers. The difference between the paper carts and the mule carts is no compliment to the Press. The mule carts carry the trash out of the city and dump it in an obscure place; the paper carts carry the filth of human society and deposit it in the homes of the city and country; in the sitting rooms, offices, living rooms, and all the best rooms in the best homes.

If trash-carts were to carry city trash and dump it in the front yards of our country homes, it would be resented by law-suits and howls of complaint. That is exactly what newspapers do. They throw on the front porch or put in the mail box the worthless in human speech and human conduct. It poisons the minds of people more than trash would poison the bodies of people.

This raises the question as to who is to blame for this newspaper trash business. No city would dump its trash on the decent premises of its own or in the country. No city or country place would permit the city to do it. Both are responsible for the proper disposition of the useless, the injurious, waste in the physical effort to keep society safe from unsanitary and unsightly conditions. This is no doubt true of publishers and readers. No doubt both are to blame for the worthless, the corrupting matter in the daily paper. Publishers could correct this trash business if they would; subscribers and readers could do it, if human society were pure enough to refuse to support a corrupt press. The press says it gives the people what they want; the people say they have to take what is printed. It is clearly the duty of press and people to cooperate in producing cleaner papers. Much in the papers is ideal in its lessons for society; but much of it is damaging to children, to social, political, commercial and religious life. The most prominent pages in the papers contain the worst and not the best happenings in society. A clean press is a great power for good; a vile press corrupts the imagination and leads society down.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

"THE EXPECTANCY OF YOUTH." PART I.

[Opening Address of President W. A. Harper, at Elon College, Sunday, September 5, 1926.]

"Expecting to receive something."—Acts 3: 5.

Youth have the right to expect something when they enter college. The experience of those who have preceded them in the quest for knowledge warrants them in this attitude of general expectancy. The Higher Education bill of the United States is enormous when we look at it from the standpoint of its total. In our 913 institutions of Higher Learning of various types there were enrolled during the year 1923-24 726,124 students, taught by 56,279 professors and instructors. There was invested in physical equipment and plants $480,998,439 and in endowment $814,718,813. Gifts for operating expenses and endowment that year amounted to $81,722,887. The estimated cost of Higher Education to the United States was that year $388,242,557, which is $534 per year more for each student than the student pays. The people of the United States would not invest so prodigiously in Higher Education unless they were convinced that returns commensurate with the expenditure would eventuate. So youth and age are both joined in the expectancy of good results from the program of Higher Education.

However, youth have particular expectations toward which they hopefully look as properly coming to them from their elders. For example, they have a right to expect sympathy. Sad to say, on the part of a certain section of our adult life the opposite of sympathy has been accorded the buoyant and energetic spirit of youth. Complacency with things as they are and a general attitude of hostility towards changes seems to be the prevailing characteristics of these critics of our young life. They delight in using such bantering phrases as "flappers" and "sheiks." They forget that once they were young and filled with life. They are averse to acknowledge that they are now old and apathetic. In all kindness, we should say to these well meaning friends who are so disturbed by what they label the excesses and degeneracies of youth that years do not make us old, but that the lack of the spirit of youth is evidence always of senility, and we should wish for them the happy privilege and experience of a rebirth into the exuberant, hopeful, and prophetic spirit of young life. Youth has the right to expect an attitude of sympathetic cooperation from their elders. Let us freely and wholeheartedly acknowledge this.

In the second place youth have the right to expect from their elders a skillful and intelligent guidance into the unfolding experiences of the world's growing life. It has been said that experience is the best school master, but that its tuition rate is exceedingly high. It is the privilege of adult life to help youth reduce the tuition cost of this highly expensive school master. We know it is said by some that young life resents the suggestions of age, even though those suggestions are made with the best of intentions. In most cases, however, it will be found that this resentment grows out of a tactless approach to the problem involved or to an unfortunate past experience where this lack of tact was displayed. I seriously doubt if youth entertains an attitude of suspicion with reference to the very laudable desire on the part of parents, teachers, ministers, and other adult persons in their efforts to guide them into wholesome experiences. On this point there must be complete and harmonious co-operation between young life and adult life. Young people should be keen to sense and appreciate the advantage which will inure to their benefit by availing themselves of the valuable advice of those whose experience has qualified them to be guide posts so to speak along the highway of life. And at the same time adults who have had these experiences should come to the willing recognition of the fact that life does not exactly correspond in any two situations and consequently they should not insist on an exact reproduction in the lives of youth of their own experiences. This would be to make life static rather than dynamic. There is need for the spirit of give and take at this crucial point in the relationships between youth and adults. At any rate there can be no question that youth need the guidance of age and that age should be glad without stint to vouchsafe to young life all the benefits of its own experience.

A third legitimate expectancy of youth is to be found in the realm of personal association. It is recognized now that every experience of life is educative and that we learn more in the way of character control from association with persons of character than we do from text books and the formal processes of what we have been pleased to call education. We know that knowledge, for example, arises out of experience when experience becomes charged with meaning. A teacher has opportunity in the educative process to take advantage of this experience charged with meaning which we call knowledge and to enrich it in terms of the best experiences of the race and likewise in terms of the uplifting ideals of the race, and to return it to the experience of the learner as a purposive control for conduct. We thus say that learning begins in experience and returns to experience, which means that we are reasoning in a circle, but it is not a vicious circle. It is rather an ascending spiral. However, in this teaching process, we must never forget that the most effective teaching after all is the teaching of example and not the teaching of precept. The wholesome, uplifting influence of association with personalities of high character is the most fruitful and efficacious teaching we can have.

A college community is well situated to bring this most inspiring interaction of personality on personality through the very organization of its faculty and student life. Colleges are careful, in their selection of students, to insist that young people of high moral qualifications only should be admitted or permitted to remain, and trustees of colleges are even more careful in their choice of faculty members to insist on high character as of even more importance than scholarship on the part of those who are to be instructors and intimate associates of college students. There is imposed upon those who occupy positions of leadership in relationship to youth that they should themselves be living examples of the high ideals they would inculcate. There is no question on the part of those who understand the open-minded, whole-hearted disposition of young life to question their appreciation of such persons, nor to berate the good which will come to them from such association.

The expectancies which we have so far presented as properly to be hoped for on the part of youth apply to youth in general, but there are certain expectancies which apply in a special way to college youth. I would place first among these special benefits to be derived from the experience of college life the acquisition of a correct method of work and the spirit to undertake such work. The valuable part of a college curriculum is not the acquisition of knowledge, but the acquirement of habits of living and methods of approach to the solution of the problems of life. College youth should become thoroughly imbued with the historical and scientific methods. It requires both of them to make a hopeful attack on any problem of life. I would add to these two methods what I am pleased to call the spiritual method. With these three approaches conscientiously applied to the situations or problems of life, the correct solutions may be confidently expected. There are but three constant forces in life. They are the universe, man and God. The scientific method is especially applicable in understanding the universe and how we can utilize it in meeting the problems and perplexities of life. The historical method is particularly applicable to the second of these constants, man. But we dare not exclude God in any undertaking. The spiritual method of prayer and meditation is fundamental in a proper diagnosis in any life situation, and in the application of remedies to meet it. Unless colleges are able to imbue their students with the principles of these three methods, they will have failed in a major purpose.

But it is useless to know how to attack problems unless we have the disposition to work for their solution. We do not come to college to loaf. We come to learn how to do more work and better work with the same expenditure of energy. A college education should increase our efficiency in every line. College men and women are not parasites. They do not conceive that the world owes them anything. They are happily actuated by the altruistic motive in recognizing that their best is none too good to devote to the service of their brethren. Colleges which fail to motivate their graduates in such wholesome fashion have but added to the cleavages that now rend life into competing and jealous factions. What the heart of the world cries out to receive is a generation of trained college men and women ready and anxious to work not for themselves primarily, but for humanity, not highbrows, but workers, hard, steady, diligent workers.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

Bethlehem College and High School opened August 30, 1926. An excellent program was rendered in the public school auditorium to a large audience, from 10:00 to 11:45 A. M. Enrollment of students was begun in the afternoon. Everything bids fair for a large school enrollment and a successful year.

The following faculty members were with the school last year: S. L. Beougher, Mrs. P. M. Beougher, R. M. Satterfield, Mrs. Thyra Swint, Miss Cecil Clardy, O. C. Fincher. And the new members are: M. G. Satterfield, Rev. J. H. Dollar, Mrs. J. H. Dollar, DeWitt Pennington, Miss Clyde Simmons and Miss Velda Craver

The institution is now entering upon the fourth year of its work. During the past three years over three hundred students have taken work in the school. Fifty-five have graduated from the High School and twenty-six from the College. Out of the thirteen who graduated from the college last year, ten are now in college elsewhere taking work leading to the A. B. degree, one attended summer school, and the other two are teaching. Nine of our students are now in our own Elon College.

The schoolhouse is to the modern town what the cathedral was to the medieval town. Never was there so much interest in education, such confidence in its possibilities, such criticism of its actual efficiency. Bethlehem stands for the building of character first and always. There is a feeling which is universal that educational processes are not building up character as they should. Here is a great opportunity for the church school. It should be the leader in making education a character builder.

Men need to be taught to apply the Gospel to social affairs as truly as to the life of the individual. There was never a time when social reform more needed to be intelligently evangelized than now, for good intentions do not always argue good sense. Trained Christian leaders are needed in the field of social service, charity organizations, and all the other agencies of social uplift, to furnish a contagious faith in the divine Good Will for humanity and a sacrificial devotion that is something more than professional ambition.

Bethlehem College is endeavoring to become the promoter of a great Cause, as well as a place for study, training, and research. A religiously intelligent church membership is as necessary as a well-trained ministry. Denominations are becoming organizations for the larger co-operation of their constituent churches. Christians are getting together by working together and by being educated together. Christian co-operation in world-evangelization is already more than a rhetorical dream.

The distrust of intellectual excellence, which is often associated with the pioneer spirit and which has prevailed in the United States for a century, is slowly disappearing. The credit for this is probably due in large part to the value of scientific research to industry. This slowly increasing respect for intellectual work of the highest grade bids fair to be a tremendous asset to the colleges.

The college of the future will profit by this change in public feeling. It will emphasize quality rather than size. It will compute endowment needs as so much per student and will limit its enrollment. It will modify the elective system in important respects; students will still have choices to make, but they will be fewer and more important choices.

The college of the future will not have so much the character of a secondary school. It will allow the student more freedom, will insist upon more serious work, will make larger demands upon intellectual independence and initiative, and will demand relatively less docility. The signs of the times indicate that the American college of the future will be more highly differentiated and less standardized than they are at present. There will be more interesting variations in the curriculum and fewer conventional attempts to teach every aspect of every subject.

S. L. BEOUGHER.

The women in your church should have these books by Mrs. George H. Morrison, wife of the famous Scottish preacher.

PRAYERS FOR WOMEN WORKERS—

Contains prayers for committee and missionary meetings, mother's circles and other occasions. There are many fine prayers for children in the home and verses for prayer building.

16 mo. $1.25

ADDRESSES FOR WOMEN WORKERS—

Inspiring addresses made at public gatherings. Just the book to provide subjects and inspiration for women who speak in public.

12 mo. $2.00

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from the
 MEN'S PENS $2.00
 LADIES' PENS $2.00
 and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFICE.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
 THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
 1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
 RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

HOLMAN BIBLES

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shephee
 not want.
 2 He maketh me to lie
 green pastures: he leadeth
 the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above.

Price—Post Paid 9.35

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

DR. WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP UNDERGIRDS IT ALL.

As the tide of spiritual power from Christian Stewardship comes in, every vital force will be released. How else can the work of the Kingdom be carried on without lives and money? A realization of our stewardship of life causes us to place our lives first in relationship to the Kingdom. Do we need ministers, do we need missionaries, do we need directors of Christian education, instructors in Christian colleges, do we need young men and women offering their trained lives for Christian service, do we need men and women who will give more of their time and their talent to the church and its work? Then, surely we need to know full well the meaning and message of the stewardship life.

How can the kingdom be extended without raising money? It cannot be. It takes money to send missionaries and support them and equip the work which they inaugurate, to support ministers, to build churches, establish colleges, maintain orphanages, publish Christian literature, and to carry on any work of the Kingdom. God has made it so that we need to give it too. It is giving that makes a man like God. Giving is His divine plan to transform character. Giving is one of the greatest spiritual functions of the soul. He has plainly told us in the Word that to withhold from him more than we ought to tendeth to poverty. It is the liberal soul that is made fat. If we withhold more than we ought to from his cause it will sooner or later get away from us somehow.

Stewardship undergirds all of our work—missions, evangelism, education, devotion, publishing, local church support, with both lives and money. The convention, conference, or church, that neglects to stress its importance in every Christian way is a loser. Stewardship is not optional. It is indispensable. It is primarily spiritual. The newness of the subject makes it easy to be overlooked when planning church, conference, convention programs and institutes.

REPORT OF MISSION SECRETARY FOR AUGUST.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY OFFERING.

First Church, Portsmouth	$ 5.36
Lawrence M. Bible Class, Elon College	.81
Timber Ridge, High View, W. Va.	2.55
Durham, N. C.	12.38
First Church, Richmond	1.06
Vanceville, Tifton, Ga.	1.25
Elon Church, Elon College, N. C.	22.50
New Hope, Harrisonburg, Va.	3.15
Linville, Harrisonburg, Va.	4.01
Franklin, Va.	16.00
Graham, N. C.	1.85
Suffolk, Va.	12.50
Ether, N. C.	2.11
Winchester, Va.	5.95
Leaksville, Luray, Va.	1.54
Durham, N. C.	10.94
Hank's Chapel, Pittsboro, N. C.	12.00
Wentworth, McCuller's, N. C.	5.00
Wake Chapel, Fuquay Springs, N. C.	3.10
Pleasant Hill (A), Liberty, N. C., R. 3	1.89
Antioch, Harrisouburg, Va.	8.28
Webster, Havre de Grace, Md.	23.00
Ocean View, Va.	1.25

Norfolk, Va.	3.78
Berea (Nansemond), Driver, Va.	7.00
Liberty (Vance), Henderson, N. C.	6.86
Randleman, N. C.	3.93
Pleasant Ridge, Ramseur, N. C.	2.16
Rosemont, So. Norfolk, Va.	7.00
First Church, Greensboro, N. C.	13.08
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.	3.40
Apple's Chapel, Gibsonville, N. C.	4.11
Ramseur, N. C.	4.72
Mt. Zion, Mebane, N. C.	1.20
Shallow Ford, Elon College, N. C.	3.04
Dry Run, Seven Fountains, Va.	3.71
Providence Memorial, Graham, N. C.	3.31
Auburn, Garner, N. C.	5.00
New Lebanon, Reidsville, N. C.	5.14
Sanford, N. C.	4.04
Mt. Auburn, Manson, N. C.
Piney Plains, Cary, N. C.	2.25
Parks' Cross Roads, Ramseur, N. C.	1.65
Bethlehem, Broadway, Va.	2.88
Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C.	7.02
Haw River, N. C.	.80
New Hope, Roanoke, Ala.	1.00
Richland, Ga.	1.00
Palm Street, Greensboro, N. C.	6.25
Oakland, Hobson, Va.	4.00
North Highland, Columbus, Ga.	1.86
Liberty, N. C.	1.48
Rose Hill, Columbus, Ga.	.75
Bethlehem, Suffolk, Va.	2.08
Catawba Springs, N. C.	22.77
Burlington, N. C.	53.63
Wakefield, Va.	2.85
Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C.	1.13
Total	$ 281.83

EMERGENCY FUND.

Friends, Biscoe, N. C.	$ 4.00
Miss Mettie Sutton, Burlington, N. C.	10.00
Mr. J. R. Liskey, Harrisonburg, Va.	5.00
St. Luke's Church, Dover, Del.	3.00
Total	$ 22.00
Amount previously acknowledged	11,735.17
Grand total to August 31st	$ 11,757.17

TOTALS.

Emergency Fund	$ 22.00
Mountain Work	275.90
Individual Pledges	55.00
Regular Sunday School	281.83
Specials	1,177.39

Total collections for August	$ 1,812.12
Amount of check to R. W. Malone, Treas.	1,812.12

MEN AND MILLIONS.

August Collections	$ 60.10
To C. D. Johnston, Exec. Secretary	60.10

We are very grateful to the Sunday Schools named above for their liberal offering in August, and we are happy to include some schools not heretofore reported in the list of those making the once a month offering to Missions. There are quite a few schools in the convention who do not yet make a once a month offering to missions, but it is devoutly hoped and believed that all our schools will come to realize the wisdom and the righteousness of such an offering and will rejoice one day to take it regularly and send it in promptly. The co-operation and liberality thus far manifested in behalf of our mission work on the part of our Sunday Schools are constant sources of inspiration and encouragement.

We are also grateful for the other sums which have been sent in to forward the work of missions for the Master.

Respectfully submitted,

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

QUARTERLY REPORT.

Below will be found the Report of the Treasurer of the Woman's Mission Board of the Virginia Valley Central Christian Conference for the Quarter ending July 15th, 1926.

Women Missionary Societies.

Winchester, dues	$ 28.78
Leaksville, dues	11.90
Linville, dues	55.00
Linville, special for literature fund	1.25
Linville, Special for Home Missions	15.00
Linville, special for Foreign Missions	10.25
Bethlehem, dues	5.35
New Hope, dues	14.85
New Hope, special for Foreign Missions	4.84
New Hope, Special for Home Missions	4.83

Young People's Societies.

Antioch, dues	6.43
Antioch, special offering	14.12
Timber Ridge, dues	10.23
Timber Ridge, Offering for Porto Rico	20.49
Concord, dues	12.25
Concord, special offering	2.38
Winchester, special for Home Missions	5.00
New Hope, dues	.40
New Hope, special offering	.30
Mount Olivet (R), dues	4.48

Cradle Rolls.

Antioch, dues	2.85
Antioch, mite boxes	12.31
Linville, dues	4.35
Linville, mite boxes	4.18
Leaksville, dues	8.95
Mayland, dues	.85

Special Emergency Fund Offerings.

Leaksville	3.00
------------	------

Special Offering for McKnights.

Leaksville	$ 5.85
Bethlehem	2.57
Mayland	5.19
Concord	3.28
Winchester	5.82
Offering at night service of conference	20.50
Offering received in Board Meeting	8.20
Offering received at door of conference	7.12

$ 323.15

Disbursements.

Check to Mrs. H. S. Harcastle	$ 261.62
Check to Dr. W. P. Minton	58.53
Check to Dr. J. O. Atkinson	3.00

$ 323.15

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. R. A. LARRICK,
Treasurer.

ANNUAL REPORT.

Below will be found the Report of the Treasurer of the Woman's Mission Board of the Virginia Valley Central Christian Conference for the Conference Year, August 1, 1925, to August 1, 1926.

Women Missionary Societies.

Bethlehem, dues	$ 5.35
Leaksville, dues	22.20
Leaksville, thank offering	10.00
Linville, dues	60.00
Linville, thank offering	13.50
Linville, special for literature fund	1.25
Linville, special for Home Missions	15.00

Linville, special for Foreign Missions	10.25
New Hope, dues	14.85
New Hope, special for Foreign Missions ...	4.84
New Hope, special for Home Missions	4.83
Winchester, dues	46.88
Winchester, thank offering	30.57
Young People's Societies.
Antioch, dues	12.09
Antioch, thank offering	7.74
Antioch, special offering	14.12
Concord, dues	12.25
Concord, special offering	2.38
Mount Olivet (R.), dues	8.58
Mount Olivet (R.), thank offering	6.15
Mount Olivet (R.), special offering	1.75
New Hope, dues40
New Hope, special offering30
Timber Ridge, dues	27.54
Timber Ridge, special offering	1.97
Timber Ridge, special for Porto Rico	20.49
Winchester, dues	10.70
Winchester, Special for Home Missions	5.00
Christian Endeavor Societies.
Winchester, special offering	2.75
Cradle Rolls.
Antioch, dues	2.85
Antioch, mite boxes	12.31
Linville, dues	4.35
Linville, mite boxes	4.18
Leaksville, dues	8.95
Mayland, dues85
Special Emergency Fund Offerings.
Antioch Young People's Society	2.00
Leaksville Woman's Society	24.50
Winchester Woman's Society	14.20
Winchester Young People's Society	40.00
Special Offerings.
For McKnights (as in quarterly report) ...	58.53
For Dr. W. P. Minton, taken at One Day School of Missions, Mt. Olivet (R), Nov. 28, 1925	14.89
Special offering from Young People's Society at Antioch for one of Outposts	60.00
Total	$ 621.34

Disbursements.
 Respectfully submitted,
 MRS. R. A. LARRICK,
Treasurer.

Man has reached his present status because he has learned to subdue, at least partially, his passions, to strengthen himself by denying himself some of the things that seem desirable, to cope with every difficulty that may be presented. He has learned that through work one finds pleasure and contentment, and that the more energy put into a project, the more benefit is obtained from it. It is necessary only to glance back through the pages of history to ascertain that the ones who have realized the most from their short span of life, those whose names are immortal, are not those who accumulated fortunes, not those who for a time were able to control the markets of the world, to build palatial homes, but those who spent their time in striving to accomplish something that would aid in the advancement of humanity, and who left behind them eternal monuments of self sacrifice.—J. H. H.

SUPPORTING CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

BY DR. N. G. NEWMAN.

Supporting Christian Education is a necessity, duty, and high privilege. It is a part of the program of the Master Teacher. It is standing with Him in the regeneration of the world. Christian Education is something basic, in a permanent, progressive, and righteous human society.

It is basic because of its inherent character. Christian Education is not education named Christian. It is not any curriculum. It is not any given set of theories about Christ and His religion, nor particular system of theology. It is not necessarily a course in Bible study, nor in how to teach religion. Christian Education is the education of Christian people. I do not mean saints, but those who have at least something in them that is Christian and can be used as a starting point. It is education by Christian instructors and in a Christian atmosphere. It is education that embodies in precept and practice the principles taught and lived by the Man of Galilee. Jesus succeeded, not because of what He taught, but because He was the thing He taught. The teacher who is not what he teaches must fail.

Christian Education must rest on a Christian foundation—broad, solid, enduring—"a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation." All education—arts, business, or professional—becomes Christian on a Christian foundation. It gives ethical and spiritual purpose to the whole.

The imperativeness of Christian Education can be seen when we reflect that so far as the teaching part of it is concerned, the principles lived and taught by Christ, represent neither the aggregate of human opinions nor the arbitrary decrees of heaven. They are inherently, fundamentally, necessarily true. They are as true and as basic as "two and two makes four." They are nothing more nor less than the sum total of the right relation of man to man, and man to God. Christ lived a life of love and service to men—sympathetic, unselfish, even sacrificial. So far as I know, the wildest vagarist has never claimed that a peaceful, prosperous and permanent society could be built on any other human altitudes. Christ lived a life of love, homage, and obedience to God. What other relation could He live and be the Son of God? What other relation should any son of God live? Once concede the Christian's faith, of a God and a Father, in all and over all, and what other altitude can man conceive that is sane and safe, or even thinkable?

No other principles or philosophy of life can work in the kind of world our life must live in, and this cannot fail to work when given a chance. However complex life may become in its development, it is simple at its base—just two relationships merging into one, to God and to man.

The Christian doctrine of love, homage, and obedience to God is no less fundamental than that of love and service of men one to another. We have a lot of talk about man's responsibility to government, to society, and to his "higher self," but the one sense of responsibility that sobers man, gives dignity and worth and character—lifts him from the beastly to the god-like—is a sense of dependence on and a personal accountability to God as Almighty Creator and Father. I would assign as the prime reason for the recent so-called "crime wave" a lack of a sense of dependence on and accountability to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Supporting Christian Education, and making it of the highest and purest type possible, as I have indicated above, has in the past been considered expedient and needful. Today, it is imperative. Education will have to become Christian, or perish from the earth, and civilization along with it. Christian civilization is nearer the Kingdom today than ever before, but nearer the brink of destruction. In the distribution of knowledge, God is no respecter of persons. He has unlocked the hidden secrets of nature to the children of the Kingdom and of the world alike. Could anything be more dangerous? Picture men, and nations, with all the demons of destruction that modern science has discovered in their hands with jealousy and malice and hatred in their hearts, and it takes no prophet to divine the results. We saw it in 1914-1918. We may see it again. Make education Christian and support it. Along with the knowledge of God in the head and hand of man, put the spirit of God in his heart, or we perish from the earth.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

The Woman's Missionary Society of Liberty (Vance) Christian Church met in its regular monthly meeting, Sunday, August 15th, at 4 P. M., in the home of Mrs. R. G. Winn.

There was a large crowd present, about twenty ladies and a number of men and children. A good program was presented by members of the society. At this time the missionary society decided to have a rally day sometime in October, and plans are being made for a home-coming day for the church at that time. We hope to get several, if not all, of the former pastors of Liberty Church to come and attend this service—to bring or send a message of cheer to us.

We feel fond of the work the society is doing under the leadership of Miss Margaret Alston as president. Our president has a true missionary vision, and we trust she may be the means of causing the entire society becoming missionary in spirit.

With all of my pleading as Secretary of the Eastern North Carolina Sunday School Convention, I have received only one report since I returned from the Annual Convention at Wake Chapel. How I wish for the sake of our records that all Sunday Schools would report.

I am happy indeed to see that we have a real missionary pastor at Liberty (Vance), and have called him for half time next year. As he has only been serving us one Sunday per month the past year, we feel that this is an advance step for our church. We are hoping and believing that our pastor will arouse a real missionary spirit amongst us.

MRS. R. G. NEWTON.

People may not be reading the Bible, but they are certainly buying it in untold quantities. Here is a record unique and enviable. The American Bible Society in the past 70 years has printed, bound and issued from within the walls of its own house, Astor Place, New York City, 76,051,112 volumes of the Scriptures. This is an average of considerably over 1,000,000 copies per year for the entire period which, reduced to hours and minutes, is an average of over 8 volumes of the Scriptures every minute for every eight-hour working day during the past three-fourths of a century. One will bear in mind that this is only one of the many houses printing and issuing the Bible. The sale of all other books fall into significance in comparison with the sale of the Bible. It matters not how popular any book is or how it may catch the imagination of the times, no other book enjoys, even in its best days, a sale to be compared to the sale of the Bible. Truly may we say that here is the miracle book of the ages. It is unthinkable that the human mind, un-inspired, could produce a book of such ever increasing sales and popularity. The best productions of uninspired men have nothing in comparison not only to the sales, but to the weight and influences of God's Book—the Bible.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS NOTES.

We suggest that our field worker is available for faculties of inter-denominational training schools and institutes in which our churches participate. Why not use her?

We have already received several invaluable suggestions relative to the character of the program for the 1927 session of the Elon Summer School. But we wish more, for from them we hope to very largely build the program.

Above everything else use the field worker. Miss Coghill is ready to serve you as best she can in institutes, training classes, special services, and with all your Sunday School and Christian Endeavor problems, if you will write her.

Treasurer C. H. Stephenson reports receipts for August of $632.69, and disbursements of $447.50; balance $185.19. The disbursements include the taking up of a $200.00 note, and the receipts include $600.00 from the Eastern Virginia Convention.

During the week of September 18th-27th our field worker will be engaged in Sunday School work in Nash, Johnson, Lenoir and Greene Counties, North Carolina, under the supervision of the State Sunday School Board. We are happy to have our field work so used.

On Sunday the 29th, the Liberty Spring Church of the Eastern Virginia Conference observed a re-dedication. This was called for by the remodeling of the church which not only improves the auditorium but provides an entirely new and adequate Sunday School building. Congratulations are extended this country church in this accomplishment.

The pastorate served by Dr. W. D. Harward held a pastorate meeting Sunday, August 29th, at Isle of Wight Church, Eastern Virginia Conference. It was rather a Christian Education service, with Miss Pattie Coghill present for addresses and round-tables, both morning and afternoon, and Rev. J. H. Lightbourne present for the afternoon service and the closing address.

The Benevolence Commission of the Southern Convention has designated the last Sunday in September as Rally Day for the Sunday Schools, and has authorized the Board of Christian Education to receive an offering on that day for the work of Christian Education. The Board is preparing the literature for the Rally Day service and is also planning a letter relative to the offering for every preacher and Sunday School superintendent in the Southern Convention. We beg for these letters a careful and prayerful reading.

Let it be thoroughly understood that this year only the one offering will be received for our Board. The Board has already voted to send one-third of the offering to the Board of the General Convention. If your Church uses the budget plan, include in your budget provision for the Board. If your church does not use the budget plan, then receive the offering of the Board on the last Sunday of September.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

By REV. H. S. HARCASTLE.

"OBEDIENCE TO LAW."
(Temperance Lesson.)

LESSON XII.—SEPTEMBER 19, 1826.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Drink no wine nor strong drink thou, nor thy sons with thee."—Lev. 10: 9.

LESSON: Leviticus 26.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Proverbs 23: 29-35.

REFERENCE MATERIAL: Jeremiah 35: 1-10.

The writers of the Old Testament, especially those of the early books of the Old Testament assert again and again that righteousness insured material prosperity. Obedience to law guaranteed success in material things. Disobedience brought failure in material things. One needs only to read a book like Leviticus or Deuteronomy to see how much this principle is emphasized.

Now in the light of Jesus' teachings and spirit, we must admit that material prosperity is not the highest fruitage of righteousness. Nor indeed is it by any means a guaranteed fruit of righteousness in individual cases. Many of the world's greatest saints have been poor men. Jesus himself warns men of the handicap that riches may become in the development of character. The man who is religious simply because he thinks it will pay dividends in material things is not religious at all. Righteousness is its own reward. Such material prosperity as may come is a by-product.

But in spite of the fact that we have gone beyond the Old Testament idea as expressed in Leviticus and Deuteronomy, we have not thereby invalidated it. We have simply fulfilled, rather than destroyed the old principle. For today, as always, obedience to law, human or divine brings reward, and disobedience to law, human or divine, brings punishment. Those supposedly bright and modern minds which scoff at the idea that a nation's immorality does not affect ultimately its prosperity have hid their heads ostrich-like in the face of the testimony of history. The trouble with us humans is that we do not take the long look, either backward or forward. He who reads history will see that the nations that forgot God were turned into hell, and he needs only to understand the trend of the times to know where his nation will land. If our nation, or any nation, disregards God's laws, it will go the way of all nations that disobeyed God.

Now the writer of this article is no pessimist. He dares to hope for better things and to work for better things. But he does not say, with an easy-going philosophy, "God is in his heavens, all's well in the earth." God may be in his heavens, but all is not well in the earth, and all is not well in the United States. And unless the Christian men and women of this country do something, and do it with conviction and force, we might become very much concerned about our nation's future. For let it be repeated that no nation that does not respect its laws can endure, and especially when that disrespect affects anything as fundamental as the Constitution itself.

In the light of this background, it must be said that the major problem confronting the American people as a nation right now is the problem of obedience to law. Setting aside all the un-

(Continued on page 14.)

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

By REV. F. C. LESTER.

"THE ADVANCE IN INDIA."

(Missionary Meeting.)

SEPTEMBER 19, 1926.

TOPIC: "The Christian Advance in India."—Isa. 11: 1-10.

Hints to the Leader.

Bring to your society some real facts concerning the progress of Christianity in India. "Building with India," by Fleming, and "The Christ of the Indian Road," by Jones will give you an abundance of information. Both books are small, but are full of interesting information. India is, doubtless, the land of greatest Christian progress of today. You should know what is happening there.

Songs that are Suitable.

"Where Cross the Crowded Ways," From Greenland's Icy Mountains," "Jesus Calls O'er the Tumult," and all such missionary hymns are suitable.

The Scripture.

The Scripture for today tells of the time to come when beastly men will lose their ferocity and live together in peace. Out of the house of Jesse is to come one who will lead the people. Under His leadership the knowledge of the Lord will "cover the earth as the waters cover the sea." Then will be fulfilled the long desire for peace on earth and good will among men. The business of missions is to spread the knowledge of the Lord, under the leadership of the One who came from the house of Jesse, so that men may yet live in peace.

India Yesterday and Today.

It was just a bit more than a hundred years ago that the first modern missionary went to India. For seven years William Carey worked there for a single convert to Christianity, but before he died he had succeeded in accomplishing a tremendous amount of work for the Church, and many of the Indians were coming to love the Christian Way. It was Carey who said, "Expect great things of God; undertake great things for God." It will pay all Endeavorers to read again and again the life of this pioneer.

India has a rich heritage in natural beauty, scholarly writings, power of contemplation, capacity for renunciation of self, and religious consciousness. India is very religious. Sacred shrines are visited by millions of people and each orthodox Hindu home has its daily worship.

But progress is handicapped in India. Disease kills the people. The average length of life is only 24.7 years. It is 44 years in the United States and is gradually increasing. The death rate is 31.8 per 1,000 in India, as compared with 21.9 in Japan, 15.2 in Canada, and 14.1 in the United States. As many as 435 out of a thousand infants die in the large cities of India, while only 81 die in New York.

Poverty is crushing India. Some people speak of poverty as their "Mother." Millions of them never know what it is to have a full stomach.

Of 38,000,000 school children only 8,000,000 are receiving any kind of education at all. Only eight percent of the people can read and write.

Religious superstition holds the people in iron fetters. The fates have made them thus, and nothing can be done. Evil spirits are ever alert to hinder one. To try to do differently might be against the will of the Divine. Under such conditions progress seems almost impossible.

The greatest hindrance to India is its cast system, with its 2,000 divisions of the people. To break cast is worse than death. And beneath the lowest of the castes are millions of "outcasts," who

(Continued on page 14.)

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

prince norma's cat

There was once a little princess named Norma, whose father and mother, the King and Queen, loved her very dearly and gave her nearly everything that she asked for; so when she said one day that she wanted a new plaid coat, the Mistress of the Wardrobe called the sewing maids together and set them at work cutting and basting and stitching; and in the morning the new plaid coat lay on a chair by the princess's bed, all finished.

It pleased her greatly at first, so that she put it on as soon as she was dressed in the morning and was hardly willing to lay it off at night. But when she had had it only a week she went to drive one day with the King and Queen in the royal coach and on the road she saw another little girl who had a coat much like her own, but in larger plaids.

As soon as the Princess Norma was back at her father's castle she took off her coat and threw it on the floor. "I shall never wear it again," she said. "I must have one with larger plaids."

So once more the Mistress of the Wardrobe called the sewing maids together, and once more there was cutting and sewing and basting and stitching, and in the morning a new coat in larger plaids.

For a time that coat, too, pleased the princess, but then a cousin, the Princess Maud, came to visit at the castle, and she had a coat in which the plaids were even larger than those in the Princess Norma's; so that night the Princess Norma again threw her coat on the floor and refused to wear it.

"No one shall have a coat with larger plaids than mine," she said, and stamped her foot. Her father, the King, and her mother, the Queen, talked gently to her and tried to make her see that a coat with very large plaids did not look well on so small a princess, but it was no use. A new coat she must have, with plaids larger than those of the Princess Maud. So the Mistress of the Wardrobe and the tired women were sent to search all the shops, and at last they found some goods that had plaids just the size of the black and white marble tiles in the castle floor, and of it they made stil la third coat.

When it was finished and the Princess Norma put it on, she was delighted and would hardly let it out of her sight, though all the ladies of the court whispered behind their fans that it did not look well at all.

When the princess had worn the coat only four days she happened to look out of the castle and window and saw a shepherd going along the road with a cloak on his back that had plaids half as big again as those on her new coat. This time she danced and screamed with anger, so that the King and Queen came running to see what was the matter. "This time I will take the matter in hand," said the King. "There shall be a coat for the Princess Norma with plaids so large that there can never be any larger."

The next morning the new coat was lying by the princess's bed, but it was black all over. "Why, it was a plaid coat I wanted," she cried. "And a plaid coat you have," the King responded. "But the plaids were so large, that there is only one in the whole coat, and that goes as far as you can see. There is no larger made, so you have your wish, and you must wear it till it is worn out. There will be no more new coats till then."
—E. W. Frentz, in The Youth's Companion.

A Great Background Book

LANDMARKS in the STRUGGLE BETWEEN SCIENCE and RELIGION

by Professor J. Y. Simpson, M.A.,
D.Sc., F.R.S.E.

J This book sets the present day controversy in its right historical setting. It is a survey of an age-long contest between truth and superstition. It makes religion as well as science a living, dynamic thing.

$2.00

DORAN BOOKS

TWENTY years ago Professor David Smith wrote "In The Days of His Flesh." For twenty years it has headed the list of books on Christ.

Now he has written:

OUR LORD'S EARTHLY LIFE

ANOTHER rich tribute to the Lord he loves. Characterized by mature scholarship and a marked humanist strain, this book has instantly gripped the hearts of readers.

$3.00

DORAN BOOKS

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.
Specimen of type

35 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver the thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges.....$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35
(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headhands and book-mark.....$7.75
(Weight 13 oz.)

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.
Specimen of type

35 And Jē-hōi'-ā-kim gave th silver and the gold to Phār'-aoh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges.....$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headhands and book-mark..... 5.50
(Weight 3 lbs.)
Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headhands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style
at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

LIFE AND DEATH.

"Fight the good fight of faith."—I Tim. 6: 12.

Paul is always struggling in a perpetual warfare between sin and righteousness, satan and God, and describes himself as in a race pressing on toward the mark of the prize of the high calling, and running by his faith and trust in God through Jesus Christ.

Life has been described as a battle field, where strongest weapons fail, and stoutest hearts give way; and though the foe is ever present all around us, the feeblest of us must stand in the thickest of the fight; and, thanks be to God, the feeblest may stand and win in the name of the Lord.

Death is described as the end of the strife, when the Angel of God speaks, stops the struggle, drives away the demon host, takes thy banner and spear and proclaims eternal peace to thee.

Fight on brave soul. Thy crown is won only in such a battlefield. God loveth thee, the weak and the small. Heaven's hosts are with thee. God is over thee, fight on.

Prayer.—Our Father, we will fight, help us, and most of all help us to look to Thee for that help and daily rely on Thy strong arms. Forgive us our sins and make us valiant in the fight of life. In His name we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

TRUE SERVICE.

"Whatsoever good thing each one doeth, the same shall be received again from the Lord."—Eph. 6: 8.

"If any little word of mine
May make a life the brighter,
If any little song of mine
May make a heart the lighter—
God help me speed the little word
And take my bit of singing
And drop it in some lonely vale
To set the echoes ringing.
"If any little love of mine
May make a life the sweeter,
If any little care of mine
May make a friend the fleeter,
"If any little lift of mine may ease
The burden of another—
God give me love, and care, and strength
To help my toiling brother."
—Longfellow.

Prayer.—Our Father, Redeemer and Lord, we beseech Thee to guide us in all our acts and words, that we may be an example to others and we may at any time meet Thee with a clear conscience, and our lamps trimmed and burning. Thou didst give Thine only begotten Son to do and suffer for us, and may we follow where He has led us and more resemble Him. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

SPEAK TRULY.

"Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbor; execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates.

"And let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against your neighbor; and love no false oath. For all these are things that I hate, saith the Lord."—Zech. 8: 16-17.

"No idlest word thou speakest but is seed cast into time, and goes through all eternity."—Caryle.

"A lie goes round the world while truth is putting on its boots."—Spurgeon.

"If you your lips would guard from slips,
Five things observe with care:
Of whom you speak, to whom you speak,
And how, and when, and where."

Prayer.—Our Father, teach us daily to be true to ourselves, and help us to strive daily to be Thy examples of truth. May our souls overflow like a fountain with truth and righteousness, that our lips may give good and full speech. Help us to study to think truly that our words may be true and be as faithful seed. Help us to live truly that our lives may be true and shed noble influences for good. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

THURSDAY.

WHAT ANGELS DO.

LESSON: Gal. 3: 19-25; Luke 4: 10.

"It (the law) was ordained by angels."

God would not inhabit eternity in solitude, but as He made man and "crowned him with glory and honor," so He surrounded Himself with angelic beings, that His love might rejoice in their happiness. We have no definite description of the angelic beings, but many interesting references to them. They are of a higher order than men, endowed with greater powers, pure and holy, and delight to do the will of their Creator.

The first mention of one is the cherubim with a flaming sword, stationed at the Garden of Eden to guard the tree of life. Angels appeared to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in visions which made them feel that they beheld the opened gate of heaven.

What is of interest to the Christian is that the angels are deeply concerned in our welfare, and that they are charged with a guardianship over us. "He shall give His angels charge over thee." "The angel of Jehovah encampeth round about the righteous."

An angel appeared to Christ in Gethsemane, comforting Him in His agony. So did angels appear to Paul, Peter and Stephen at crucial times.

Angels rejoice at the repentance of a sinner, and chant: "Glory to God in the highest." They do God's will perfectly, "flying through mid-heaven," to execute His commands, and in that larger life which we look for, it is our joyous fruition that we "shall be equal to the angels."

—Rev. J. B. Remensnyder.

Prayer, by one of the parents, expressing gratitude to our Heavenly Father for His loving-kindness, and for the ministry of angels, who guide His children.

FRIDAY.

DIVINE PROMOTION.

LESSON: Luke 14: 7-15.

"Go up higher."

This is the Christian injunction we all should bare for ourselves. Put away complaining, murmuring, and discontent, and strive for that which is higher and better. In the name of God, rise above the thorns and temptations of life until we reach the plane of heaven where there is no more sickness, sin nor sorrow. Only there will we be told to "Enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

Prayer.—Our Father, teach us by whatever way the lessons of humility, that by it we may be exalted unto Thy love and life. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

SATURDAY.

OUR EXAMPLE.

LESSON: John 13: 15-17.

"For I have given you an example." "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them."

Unselfish service is what Jesus saw that the apostles most needed. With our own limited vision, that is what we believe the world needs today. Knowing that they would be taught more effectually by example than by precept, He washed their feet and asked, "Do you know what I have done to you?" and answered His own question by saying, "I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done unto you."

The following story from India of unselfish service to a person that was full of sores and untouchable, is inspiring:

On a hot day, the waiting passengers at a railway station stood under the shade. But one "untouchable," who could not come near the others, walked about in the sun. Finally he fainted with the heat and fatigue, and fell across the tracks. None stepped to help him, even though a train was approaching. A white man, however—a missionary—leaped down and lifted him to the platform, and away from danger. A Hindu then came forward and said, "That was a beautiful and friendly act." "Why did not you do it yourself?" asked the missionary. "My religion would not allow me," was the reply. But the missionary had a religion which not only permitted him, but commanded him to help his needy brother, whoever and wherever he might be. The true Christian heart is warm and quickly responsive to the needs of others.

Prayer, by one of the parents, asking that we too, may be led to give sincere attention to the many little helpful acts and deeds that raise the drooping spirit and strengthen faith.

SUNDAY.

GOING TO CHURCH.

"Where two or three are gathered together in My name, there I am in the midst of them."—Matt. 18: 20.

Dr. Cadmon says that the greatest problem of today is getting folks together to worship God. Pleasure resorts which are everywhere all the year round, and money and the automobile, make the church Sunday mornings and evenings, conspicuous for empty pews. As a result those who are following these things and forsaking the sanctuary and their duty there, lose spiritual vision, lose a balanced idea of religious life, lose spiritual culture, forget the splendor of the Lord's love, sympathy and brotherhood. Their ways are pleasant and seem right, but before they know it, they are in the way of death.

The life purpose of Christians is to turn a hate-filled, disintegrating world into a unified, love-filled brotherhood and place the goodwill of Jesus in the midst of every individual life and business, until it shall permeate the whole world order. What will we do about our share of it?

Prayer.—Our Father, we pray Thee to bring us under the power of Thy gospel and impel us to labor for Thy kingdom. This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

We did not cross another rung in our ladder this week. We hoped so much to do so. We did our best, but just needed a little more help, and you didn't push quite hard enough. Let us all do our best week and go over another rung.

The Palm Street Sunday School held its annual picnic here on Saturday, August 28th, and we all had a good time together. They had a full attendance. The visiting children made good use of our ocean wave and giant stride, and the older ones had a ball game. We noticed one small young man who was quite an expert catcher, and we hope to see him on our Elon team some time. We furnished ice water as usual, and the visitors invited the Orphanage family to eat mellons with them, which invitation was accepted and enjoyed by all. The Palm Street Sunday School has been a most loyal friend to the Orphanage for many years, and their monthly offerings come to us just as regularly as the clock strikes six in the morning. If all of our Sunday Schools would come to our rescue each month, we could always feel easy financially and know that we could meet our bills at the end of the month.

We have pleaded with all the Sunday Schools from time to time in our ten years' service as the superintendent of your Orphanage, and yet we have quite a number of Sunday Schools not on our list. The Christian Orphanage is your institution and your church and Sunday School are expected to do their part. The one hundred and ten children we have are your children or your neighbor's children, and you have a responsibility to shoulder and a duty to discharge. If your church and Sunday School fail to do their duty and withhold their blessing from the widow and the fatherless will not God withhold his blessing from you?

God wants to bless you and is anxious to bless you, but you must do something for him to bless. Get your school on our list and see if you do not reap rich blessings in your school. Try it, and see.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER 9, 1926.

Brought forward$ 16,613.23

Sunday School Offerings.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Danville Third Ave. S. S.	10.20
Western North Carolina Conference:
Sanford Sunday School	$ 3.45
Grace's Chapel	2.50
	5.95
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Oak Level	$ 1.59
Pleasant Hill	3.87
	5.46
Valley Virginia Conference:
Linville Sunday School	$ 4.88
Bethlehem	2.00
	6.88
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Richmond, First Sunday School	5.69
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Rose Hill	$ 1.06
North Highland	1.62
	2.86
Special Offerings:
Chas. D. Johnston, guardian	$ 60.00
W. A. Roscoeport sup. of child ...	15.00
W. W. Brown	15.00
Newport Children's Day collection .	8.91
	98.91

New Building Fund:

Mrs. Esther Jenkins	$ 10.00
Mrs. Mary Chandler	5.00
Danville S. S. and Mis. Society ...	49.00
J. A. Stephenson	1.00
Millard Stephenson	1.00
O. H. Stephenson	3.00
	69.00

Total for the week$ 204.95

Grand total$ 16,818.18

THE PROOF OF FRIENDSHIP.

(Continued from page 5.)

Our friends have many interests for which we should pray. We pray for the welfare, prosperity and peace of our own homes, and we do well to do so, but the Lord will turn our captivity of indifference toward our friends' homes when we pray for them. When we talk with the Lord, it is our privilege to mention our friends' homes, that they too may be blessed with prosperity and peace. To pray for the parents and their children, that love and harmony may ever prevail, to pray that in our friends' homes, as in our own, that Jesus may be the unseen guest at every meal, the quiet listener to our conversation, is to do unto others as we would have them do unto us. How much we all need the prayers of our friends!

When one starts on a voyage across the ocean or begins a long journey on land, it makes him feel easier to know that his friends are praying for him. You and I can never tell how much we owe to the prayers of our friends and loved ones. Not until the books of the judgment unfold will we know.

If we thus pray for the interests of our friends they will all become of more interest to us, and our souls will grow to make room for our new and growing affections and interests. If we pray for the religious interests of our friends, the springs of our own religious life will deepen. To pray for them in moments of temptation will bring strength to us when we are tempted and tried. To pray for them in their moments of sorrow and grief, will bring comfort to us when our spirits are cast down. To pray for the salvation of our friends, will make our own salvation more secure. To pray for heaven's blessings upon our friends, is to bring heaven's blessings upon ourselves. Every true prayer is twice blessed. It blesses him who prays, and him for whom he prays.

When we thus pray for our friends, the Lord will turn our captivity. He will restore to us the joys that we have missed by neglecting so to pray. He will make life mean more to us, and our religion more real. Let us pray without ceasing for our friends. But better than that, let us never cease to pray for them.

There are those who are under some peculiar captivity, you are "at outs" with someone who was once your friend. Or for some reason you are not happy, you are not satisfied with your religious experience, you want to feel as others have felt, and know as others have known that you are Christ's and that Christ is yours. The Lord will turn your captivity when you pray for your friends.

The highest proof of a Christian's faith and his truest expression of friendship is the fact that he prays for his friends. R. C. H.

In the present age of materialism and commercialism, when the accumulation of fortunes seems to be the consummate desire of a large majority of the people, one may well stop to reason, that finding pleasure in helping others and thinking more often of the welfare of the whole, insures the continued advancement and progress of humanity. Albert Pike, father of Scottish Rite Masonry, has well said: "What we have done for ourselves alone dies with us; what we have done for others and the world remains and is immortal."

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses	$7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses	6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses	6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim.....	1.60
No. 2—Broad rim	1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses	$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85	11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85...	16.00

(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling).	$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....	9.00
No. 4—Broad rim	9.00
Filler—Silver lined	6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St. Richmond Va.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

(Continued from page 10.)

grounded fears of the alarmists, the fact remains that there is an acute and wide-spread disregard and disdain for law in our nation today. The writer has read recently two very striking and disturbing articles on this question, and as he laid the articles down he was forced to admit that if they were true, then there was cause for alarm. The one article was in the Saturday Evening Post of three weeks ago, and was entitled "What Price Bribery?" It deals with the complex and efficient organization that is engaged in smuggling rum into the United States, and shows in an interesting yet disturbing way, how these crooks and enemies of law and national well-being stop at nothing to carry out their nefarious business. It were bad enough if they did nothing more than smuggle rum into the country, but when one reads that they bribe everybody from foreign officials through our own Coast Guards and on up to some of the judges on the bench, one is startled by the facts. It will pay every American citizen to read that article and see what a menace organized law-breaking has become. Then of course there is the so-called leading business man or social leader who openly and flagrantly defies the law by holding and serving intoxicating liquors on all occasions. Such people, it might be remarked are no better than the boot-leggers themselves.

The other article was entitled, "Crime Has Evolved a Big Business," and appeared in Sunday's New York Times of September 5th. Here again was the story, interesting, indeed almost fascinating, and yet disturbing, as to how crime is not a matter any more of isolated individuals committing some petty crime, but a great system, organized and manned by shrewd, influential, and powerful men. As one reads of the great organization and the subtle methods, he wonders if after all, law-breakers are not in the ascendency. In any event, if disobedience to law brings a penalty upon individuals and nations, we might well become alarmed about conditions in our nation and local communities.

In conclusion, the following quotation from an article in Good Housekeeping, by Assistant Attorney-General Mabel Walker Willebrandt, suggests ways in which we can help law enforcement:

"Do you know whether your city has an ordinance against the use of intoxicating liquor and the maintenance of saloons?"

"Do you know whether your police department is honestly enforcing such ordinance?"

"Do you know who your State, county and Federal prohibition agents are?"

"When you hear of a violation of the prohibition law, do you report it to your local agent?"

"Do you follow it up to see whether your evidence is used?"

"Are you willing to testify as a citizen to facts you have in regard to any rendezvous of lawlessness?"

"Do you do jury duty—even if it means inconvenience?"

"Do you protest against clubs to which you belong serving liquor?"

"Do you vote at every election?"

"Do you indulge in the popular pastime of talking about 'my boot-legger'?"

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

(Continued from page 10.)

are "untouchables." Their lives are beyond our power to imagine.

But progress is being made in India. The message of Christ has reached many of the leaders, and they are charmed by the Man and His message. They are ready to accept Christ, the Christ of the Indian Road, but they do not want our Western civilization. Neither do they want our denominations. They want the Gospels and the Christ in all their beauty, power and purity. In fact the Indians can and are teaching us something of what Christ really was, and what He can mean to individuals today.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

VALLEY LETTER.

The recent session of The Virginia Valley Central Conference at Linville has already been reported in THE SUN, for which my thanks are due Dr. Atkinson, and there is not much left for me to say. I do want to say, however, that we appreciated the presence and help of Dr. Atkinson, Rev. and Mrs. W. Q. McKnight, Chas. D. Johnston, and A. F. Chase. Brothers Atkinson and Johnston have been with us in former conference sessions and are well and favorably known to our people. We are always glad to have them, and they are always a great help to us. This was the first visit of Brother and Sister McKnight and Brother Chase to our conference. Our people were much pleased with them, and will gladly welcome them back again.

The attendance at the conference was good in spite of the almost constant rain. It is a fine thing when our people take an interest in attending the sessions of our conference. They always get inspiration to do better service for Christ and the Church.

The following officers were elected for the next year: President, Dr. W. T. Walters; vice-president, W. C. Wampler; secretary, Rev. A. W. Andes; treasurer, Samuel Earman; Director of Religious Education, Roy A. Larrick; Conference Mission Secretary, R. O. Rothgeb.

The officers of the Woman's Mission Board are: President, Miss Verdie Showalter; vice-president, Miss Ora Scott; secretary, Mrs. B. F. Frank; treasurer, Mrs. J. F. Louderback; superintendent of Literature and Mite Boxes, Miss Ella Pickering; superintendent of Women's Societies, Mrs. R. C. Myers; superintendent of Young People's Societies, Mrs. A. W. Andes; superintendent of Cradle Club, Mrs. Noah Painter.

The following churches paid their conference apportionments in full, and are therefore enrolled as banner churches in the conference: Antioch, Bethlehem, Concord, Dry Run, High Point, Leaksville, Mayland, Newport, Timber Mountain, Timber Ridge, Whistler's Chapel, and Winchester.

The conference will meet next year at Leaksville, in Page County, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday before the third Sunday in August.

A. W. ANDES.

Displacing the sombre black which has been the universal garb for locomotives on American railways in recent years, the Southern Railway System has adopted a color scheme of green, gold and burnished steel for 23 heavy Pacific type passenger engines recently received from the Richmond plant of the American Locomotive Company.

These engines have tenders, cabs, smokestacks and other projections above the boiler jackets, drivers and other wheels painted a rich dark green with gold-leaf striping. The boiler jackets, driving rods and other running parts are highly polished. These new engines have 73-inch driving wheels, cylinders of 17-inch diameter and 28-stroke and many modern improvements.

That they may carry on

Look into the face of your boy or girl.

There's fine stuff there—that lift of the head is pride—there is intelligence in the level eyes.

A man or woman of the South—in the making.

Our children live in a day of high pressure. The South has taken its place in the front ranks of industry. Modern methods of manufacture, scientific farming, improved transportation—all are factors in building the industrial South. This development brings with it many changes in our customs and habits.

But we must hold fast to the idealism of the Old South—the ideal of useful and intelligent citizenship. The children must carry it on.

This is primarily a matter of education.

The average year's pay of teachers in elementary and secondary schools in the states of the South served by the Southern is only $637. Southern Railway System, which pays three million dollars per annum in school taxes, ventures to express the view that greater material rewards should be enjoyed by the men and women upon whom rests the responsibility of teaching the children of the South.

“—knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged.”

From the Constitution of the state of North Carolina.

THE PICTORIAL BIBLE

SELF-PRONOUNCING
With 4000 Questions and Answers.

The questions and answers are of great help in interesting young folks in the Bible.

With “Aids to Bible Study” being helps specially prepared for young readers.

—Specimen of Type—

23 Of the sons of Is'sa-cl families: of To'la, the fam:

5181

Large, clear type, with all Scripture proper names, divided into syllables and accented.

31 BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS—These beautiful full-page illustrations of scenes in Bible lands instruct as well as interest. Sixteen are colored and 15 are in sepia. Also has PRESENTATION PAGE.

REAL LEATHER BINDING—Bound in Genuine French Morocco Leather binding, with overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges with headband and bookmark. Size 7¼x5¼ inches. Weight 1 lb. 8 oz.

No. 5181. Our Price $3.25

OXFORD RED LETTER BIBLE

S. S. TEACHER'S EDITION

In this Oxford edition, all the Old Testament prophecies and the words of Jesus in the New Testament are printed in red.

Contains over 50,000 center column references and the famous Oxford S. S. Teacher's Helps. An exceptionally helpful and beautiful edition of the Scriptures. Notice the heavy, black-face type.

—Specimen of Type—

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

05453

Bound in French Morocco leather, with overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. Has headbands and bookmarks and 16 beautifully colored maps, with indexed atlas.

No. 05453. Our Price $6.25

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL, D. D. Associate
- R. C. HELPFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM, D. D. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE, D. D. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year $ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

OBITUARIES.

LAWRENCE.

On July 23d, Brother K. W. Lawrence answered the summons to come home. He was 42 years, 8 months and 3 days old. Death was to him a messenger of mercy, as he had been a sufferer for many months.

Brother Lawrence was a member of Sanford Christian Church, and he left a bright testimony to his faith and assurance. He repeatedly expressed a desire to get well, but said he was ready to go if it was God's will.

May the heavenly Father comfort the sorrowing wife and daughter, father and mother, brothers and sisters.

R. L. WILLIAMSON.

MARRIAGES

PARROTT—PEACE.

A wedding of interest to a large circle of friends was solemnized in the Creedmoor Methodist Church, Thursday morning, August 26th, at 11 o'clock, when Miss Ruth Gladys Peace became the bride of Mr. Frank Edward Parrott.

The impressive ring ceremony was used with Rev. B. E. Stanfield, pastor of the groom, officiating. The church was attractively decorated with evergreens, ferns and goldenrods.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Florine Peace. She is a graduate of Elon College and has taught music in several schools of the State.

The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Parrott of Creedmoor, N. C. He received his education at North Carolina State College. Later he specialized in vocal music at Oxford College and the Southern Conservatory of Music at Durham.

BREEDLOVE—BREEDLOVE.

Mr. Louis Breedlove and Mrs. Anna Breedlove were united in marriage at New Market, Va., August 24, 1926. It was a very pleasant and simple occasion witnessed by a few friends and relatives. Although the youthful days of the contracting parties are past, their pastor and many friends wish for them a happy and useful wedded life.

A. W. ANDES.

W. FRED RICHARDSON
Security Storage Company
 INCORPORATED
SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS FOR SILVER
RICHMOND, VA.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 1/2 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick..... $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/4 inches thick... $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address

THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew: and Esau was a cunning hunter.
5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type

22 And the prophet Isra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearer Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type
AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of GALILEE; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges..... .70

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms $1.10 included

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 E. Broad Street

RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1926

NUMBER 37.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

To Name Dry Candidate.—

The elimination of Justice Cropsy as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of New York and the evident determination of party leaders to name a wet candidate, has resulted in a decision by dry Republicans to select a prohibition candidate.

Crime and the Sunday School.—

In the eighteen years that he sat on the bench in two courts, Supreme Court Justice Lewis L. Fawcett, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has had more than 4,000 boys less than twenty-one years of age arraigned before him, charged with various degrees of crime. But of this large number, only three were members of a Sunday School at the time of the commission of their crimes. The Sunday School would appear to be a good investment from a financial standpoint (for crime costs much money), as well as from the spiritual.

Mexican Congress Opens.—

Addressing the newly assembled Mexican Congress, President Calles declared that to date he knew of no reason for changing the laws and regulations with regard to oil and land rights, but that if it were found they are unjust to foreigners, he would recommend a revision. The Mexican President told the legislators that his Government had taken steps to rehabilitate the country's financial credit and had balanced the national budget. He expressed the hope that the program of reaffirming the sovereignty of the nation would be continued to the end that there would be peace and prosperity for all citizens as well as those of other countries who are living in Mexico.

"Old Ironsides".—

Many monuments to the prowess of our soldiers and sailors during the Revolutionary War have been erected. There is one monument that stands or should we say floats, as a monument to itself. In the editorial column of the Dupont Magazine for August we find the following: "While the exploits of the frigate Constitution do not need to be recounted, let it be remembered that one hundred and fourteen years ago the nineteenth of this month, 'Old Ironsides' conquered the Guerriere in one of the most dramatic naval battles in American history.

"For nearly thirty years this famous ship has been anchored at Boston, and time and the elements have not been kind to her. Public sentiment has decreed that she be restored, and a fund of $500,000 has been contributed by school children, patriotic organizations and manufacturers to finance the repair work."

Economic Aspects of Prohibition.—

Professor Irving Fisher, of Yale, testified in the hearing before the Sub-Committee of the Judiciary that prohibition has brought about a saving in national wealth of at least $6,000,000,000 yearly. He declared that this saving is effected in the form of increased energy, increased wages, and increased industrial profits.

The experience of the Fords in their great industrial plants at Detroit is significant. In the saloon days 100 men out of 5,000 gave trouble. Under prohibition there are not 10 men in 5,000 that give trouble. This means that the men work regularly, increase their savings accounts, buy homes, clothe their children, preserve their own health, keep up a better morale, and find life far more worth while, than in the days when the corner saloon received a considerable amount of their weekly wage. The testimony of industrialists in practically all places is to the effect that the working man, his family, are the chief beneficiaries from prohibition.

League Acts on Reservations.—

America's first three reservations to this country's adherence to the World Court were quickly accepted at a conference of the powers belonging to the League of Nations, but opposition was encountered when the conference took up the fourth and fifth reservations. Canada raised objections in both instances, contending the fourth reservation would prevent amendment of the League constitution without approval of the United States, which is not a member of the League. It interpreted the fifth clause of our reservations as designed to give America the right of veto instead of merely placing the United States on an equal footing with League members, as the American Senate had explained the reservation. Sweden and New Zealand supported Canada's position. The conference was still in session as this issue goes to press with the League Powers undecided whether to draft its own interpretation of our reservations or to ask the United States to clarify the two contested clauses.

Must Be Friends Forever.—

Many things have been written in regard to the World War debt settlements. Dr. S. Edward Young writes as follows:

Eyewitnesses of France's suffering in the World War and all who have seen the way some Americans flaunt their money and bad manners abroad, will understand better the increasing demonstrations in France against Americans. At such times the sober sense and restraint of the less excitable and more judicious in both countries can save the day for international good fellowship.

"America and France must be friends forever.

It would have been magnificent if France, justly owing us vast sums borrowed to preserve her liberties, had continued, without a murmur, to pay her honest debts, and it would have been magnificent if we, remembering the priceless help of France in our struggle for independence, and recognizing how France held back German militarism that threatened us also, had postponed further the date of France's payment or canceled it altogether.

"But neither nation has been perfectly magnificent, and the common challenge is to both nations, together with the British Commonwealth, to work for world-wide brotherhood. Individuals imbued with Christ's appreciation of humanity are the ones to turn the tide from incipient strife to a yet deeper spiritual fellowship of Frenchmen and Americans."

Examinations.—

People are beginning to ask how much examinations are worth. Of course, we cannot get along without them in the grade school, the high school, the college, or the university, but they are becoming more and more to be recognized as quite inadequate exponents of intelligence. Mr. Herbert Sidney Langfield, writing on "The Value of Intelligence Tests," in the August Forum, gives some statistics which are, to say the least, interesting. He says:

"A final examination paper was marked by 142 English teachers in as many high schools, and the marks varied from 64 per cent to 98 per cent. A final examination in American history was marked by 70 history teachers. One assigned it 43 per cent, another 90 per cent, 12 marked it 80 per cent or above, and 12 below 55 per cent. A final examination in geometry was scored by 114 mathematics teachers, 12 marking it 53 per cent or below, and 12, 83 per cent or above."

Of course, these figures do not mean as much as it would appear on the surface. Different teachers with different intellectual backgrounds, and totally unacquainted with the mental quality of the students upon whose answers they are passing will naturally differ quite widely in their judgment as to the merits of these answers. Nevertheless, it does look as if there ought not to be as much difference as the above statistics reveal in the matter of a geometry examination. The truth of the matter is that there is no substitute for personal contact in appraising the value of either student or teacher. When classes are not too large it does not take an intelligent instructor many weeks to size up the intellectual level of those who are taking his work. Doubtless the same thing is true on the other side. Mechanical tests possess a certain value, and we cannot hope to dispense with them entirely, but we should not forget that they are anything but infallible.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Send in your renewal to THE CHRISTIAN SUN, and get ready for Conference. These are two very important things to do.

Rev. Joe French, Wedowee, Ala., a licentiate of the Alabama Conference who was in school last year at Bethlehem College entered Elon College last week.

The Committees on Conference Programs should not delay the preparation and arrangement of their work till too late to publish. Send in your manuscript and order with number of copies desired.

Rev. H. Biscoe Hall, Elm Avenue Church, Portsmouth, Va., is open for engagement the coming year as his work in his present pastorate at Elm Avenue will close with the present conference year.

Rev. J. A. Ledbetter, who may be addressed at Gibsonville, N. C., will change his field of labor at the close of the present conference year. Any church desiring his services should communicate with him as he is open for full time.

Brother J. Fleming Hilliard, Secretary of the Church at Mt. Auburn (Warren County, near Macon, N. C.), reports a Home-Coming Day on October 10th. He requests that all members of this church make an especial effort to be present on that occasion.

"Too many of our finest people think that going to church on Sunday morning is all that is necessary to make them good Christians. There is going to be another great world revival, and it is going to start in some particular church, so every member must watch out for its coming."—Rev. William I. McEwan.

"A master painter of words has passed," said Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, speaking at the funeral of Israel Zangwell, great playwright and speaker. He continues, "Our poor speech can do no more than faintly render the homage in our hearts to the English writer and the Jew. Verily, Israel Zangwell was of an heroic breed, whom adversity nurtures and hardship steels, a gallant figure always."

Rev. H. C. Caviness, Cary, N. C., Evangelist of the North Carolina Conference, was a pleasant caller at THE CHRISTIAN SUN office, at Elon College, N. C., last week. Brother Caviness has been exceedingly busy this summer in evangelistic meetings and reports glorious results from the summer's work. He was to begin at Holland, Va., October 12th, and continue through the 19th, after which he goes to Portsmouth First Church for a meeting there. Brother Caviness is devoted to his work and the Lord seems to crown his efforts in the field of evangelism.

"The America of tomorrow depends on the training of the boys and girls with a religious trend as a basis. People are trying scientific methods and are even trying to train the child by law. That cannot be done. The biblical law is just as efficacious today as it was in the beginning. The future of the child depends upon proper training and proper family life, and fathers and mothers in the final analysis will be required to answer to God Almighty as to the example they set for their children.—Governor A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey.

Dr. N. G. Newman reports good tidings from the work at Holy Neck Church. He says: "The annual revival services were held September 6th to 10th, inclusive. Rev. John G. Truitt, pastor of First Christian Church, Norfolk, did the preaching. The attendance was large throughout, the interest fine, and the sermons of a high order, dignified, spiritual, and forceful. There were about twenty confessions, a large number of consecrations, and eighteen united with the church. Four of those uniting were heads of families, the remainder were children from the Sunday School."

The Herald of Gospel Liberty for September 9th carried the program of the General Convention, which is to meet in Urbana, Illinois, October 20th. Dr. F. G. Coffin, President, in writing of the Convention, says, "We are going to Urbana with the largest number of great problems which have ever confronted the General Convention." On this account as many CHRISTIAN SUN readers as possible should make their plans to attend this great convention. It would certainly be a most gracious act for any church to send its pastor to the convention, paying his expenses for the trip.

On the evening of the 16th of October, 1826, the Rev. James O'Kelly passed over the river to receive his reward in the world beyond. As the Southern Christian Convention has decided to erect a memorial to his memory on the campus at Elon College, would it not be a good time to call this matter to the attention of the entire Southern Christian Church membership, and have a special offering taken on October 17th for this purpose, as there is very little money on hand to begin this work? While we do not believe in special offerings very much, yet this is one that should appeal to the people of our church, and it should be brought to the minds of the pupils in the Sunday Schools, so that they will be posted about this matter, and even if not so much was received, it would at least get the matter before the young people of the church.

The following "Appreciation" was sent in by our good friend, Mrs. Iola Hedgepeth Meredith: "On the Thursday evening, August 26th, there was a service held at the Elk Spur Christian Church in honor of Rev. and Mrs. M. T. Sorrell, whose departure from the mountain field took place last week. A song service and social hour were pleasantly combined with appropriate remarks from Mr. Sorrell, Mr. Bray and Mrs. Iola H. Meredith. At the close of the evening, Mr. W. C. Strickland read the resolutions below, which were approved by a rising audience, followed by a fitting response from our appreciative Rev. Mr. Sorrell. It is the desire of this committee to have these resolutions published in THE CHRISTIAN SUN, together with an expression of thanks to the Mission Board of the Southern Christian Convention for their support to this field."

The resolutions are signed by a committee composed of Mrs. Elsie Bray, Oscar Edwards, Lettie Rigney, Mrs. Iola H. Meredith, M. S. Guynn, Rose Meredith, and W. C. Strickland, and are as follows:

"In as much as our pastor, Rev. M. T. Sorrell is leaving the work at Elk Spur and Rocky Ford, having faithfully and untiringly served for the period of nearly three years, we the undersigned wish to express our appreciation of the same in the following resolutions:

"Be it Resolved—

"First, That the work at Elk Spur and Rocky Ford has been of the highest type;

"Second, That his influence both with old and young has been of inestimable value;

"Third, His spirit of co-operation for the betterment of our communities has been exemplified in every particular.

"Fourth, In losing his services we feel a deep regret, and to him and Mrs. Sorrell we wish God's speed in any thing they may undertake."

NOTICE.

The Eastern Virginia Woman's Missionary Conference will meet in annual session on Friday, October 15th, with the Bethlehem Christian Church, Nansemond County, Va.

All societies are urged to have a full report of the year's work in the hands of the treasurer, Mrs. W. V. Leathers, Holland, Va., not later than September 30th.

Begin thinking of your delegates now. Churches without societies are requested to send representatives.

MRS. L. W. STAGG,
400 W. 34th Street,
Norfolk, Va. Secretary.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

TO DELEGATES TO GENERAL CONVENTION.

At the last session of the Southern Christian Convention, which met with our Durham Church, a committee composed of G. O. Lankford, W. A. Harper, and Chas. D. Johnston, was appointed to look into the matter of arranging a special car or cars for delegates to the General Convention at Urbana, Illinois, next month. If you expect to attend the Convention and are interested in going with a group, please notify the chairman of the committee at once. It is not practicable for all to get together, but one pullman might run from Norfolk, Va., and another from Greensboro, N. C., if a sufficient number desire such an arrangement. The Division Passenger Agent of the Southern Railway is expected in Burlington this week to look into this matter. Should a sufficient number report that this service is desired, definite effort will be made to secure the cars. Report will be made by letter as to the time and place of the leaving of said cars. Your wishes will have to be in our hands not later than September 25th.

Yours for service,
G. O. LANKFORD,
Burlington, N. C.,
September 13, 1926. Chairman.

FROM ALABAMA.

Dear Brother Editor:

I desire, through the columns of THE CHRISTIAN SUN to suggest that the chairmen of all our Conference committees of the Alabama Christian Conference call their respective committees together and have them get their reports all ready for conference before the body convenes.

Since all deliberative bodies transact their business through committees, it seems to me that the conference should do likewise. We will save time and can give more time to religious instruction and such things as will build us up spiritually.

We expect to give place on our program for some great addresses from some of our ablest men. We are facing a new era in the Alabama Christian Conference, and we must prepare to meet it.

The program will appear in THE CHRISTIAN SUN. Be sure to save your paper, or at least save the program, and come to conference prepared to receive a larger program and a brighter vision. Come to stay till the work is finished; come to do your part; come to help glorify your Lord, through your church.

Our pastor's conference will meet at Wadley Christian Church on the fourth Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Let all pastors come.

I closed a two week's revival in Roanoke, Ala., the last of August. We had a fine meeting. Large crowds attended and good order prevailed throughout the entire meeting. I am sure that much good was done. Our people secured a tent and erected it upon a lot that had been graded for the purpose. It was a great thing for our little church, and they acquitted themselves in a very faithful and becoming way.

The other churches and the citizens of the town generally as well as the surrounding country, co-operated with us in a very beautiful way. Quite a number of our ministers worshipped with us during the meeting. While we had no visible results in the way of accessions to the church, the meeting means to us a church house, in which to worship, and ere this is in print, we may hear the sound of saw and hammer and other tools of iron on our new church at Roanoke, to the glory of God. We are going to erect a nice little wooden structure, for the present, and later build a substantial brick building; and then convert the first house into a parsonage. Our lot is conveniently and beautifully situated in the town.

If anyone should feel inspired to help us just a little, please do so now. The town is fully in accord with the movement and will assist us in building. May the dear Lord open some dear soul and reach some consecrated pocket book in this the greatest movement of the Alabama Conference, "So mote it be."

Let all money be sent to me at Wadley, or to Mrs. E. M. Wood, at Roanoke, Alabama.

G. D. HUNT.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Alabama Conference will meet with the Church at Bethany on Tuesday, October 12, 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M. G. D. Hunt, President; E. M. Carter, Secretary.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 2, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 16, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church, Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1926. G. O. Lankford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 8, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
- 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
- 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
- Improved Uniform Series International Lessons.
- 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05

Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.

- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
- 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
- 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8x7 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8x7 Inches, 1 1/10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8x8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1/8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x3 3/4 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x3 3/4 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick. red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools$2.50

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brevier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8x8 1/2 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1436 East Broad Street. Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN C. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

GUARANTEEING THE SUCCESS OF CHRISTIAN MISSIONS.

The one great task of the Church is Christian Missions. Our Saviour did not ascend from earth until He had first, laid the foundation of an institution adequate to, and capable of a program He had come into the world to build, and secondly, until He had given that program to be carried out by the institution He had founded. The Church was the institution founded, and world wide Missions was the program.

The Church, then, is the only institution on earth bold enough and big enough to carry out our Lord's world-wide program. This, be it borne in mind, was not completed, but is in building. He is building His Church and into that Church He has been building through the centuries His program also. The only hope then of making Christian Missions successful is in building and developing and directing the right sort of Church. Here again comes in the program of Christian Education. The Church while founded by our Lord and is being built by Him, waits upon human devotion, direction, energy and sacrifice. Christ is the great head of the Church, but the body is made up of those individuals who compose it. This is why Paul used the figure of the body, declaring that each member depended upon the proper direction and the adequate functioning of the other members. The whole Church suffers when its body of members do not function intelligently, capably and co-operatively. Only Christian Education can bring this to pass in Church membership.

We Christians need constant training and pains taking study and increasing information on the subject of Missions.

Christian Missions must be put into our Christian Education program, that is to say, must be carried to individuals reached by, and in training by all the Christian Educational institutions in the Church.

The Church, before it is thoroughly missionary, will have to have a missionary program in all departments of the Church. In the Christian Endeavor Society, in the Sunday School, in the Christian College, the pulpit and the local church will be teaching Missions in order to guarantee ultimate and sure success. Reduced to its last analysis, the aim of these auxiliaries of the Church is to do that which the Church is trying to do, namely, make the world Christian.

It is not sufficient in any church to merely preach a sermon on Missions, or even to put Missions as a part of the benevolences of the church. In order to make Christian Missions a success, the effort must be carried further than this and an adequate program of instruction must be carried out in all lines of Christian Education.

EDUCATION.

As a rule, those who talk about the shortcomings of our methods of education have more to say about so-called higher education than about primary education. This is true notwithstanding that greater good to the greatest number is more likely to come from early general training of the many than from late intensive training of the few—the weather and weeds permitting, the crop is made at the seeding and the planting.

The primary objective of early education should be character building, and character must be erected on a foundation of appreciation of the true values of life. In the older days, the duty of building character was supposed to rest with parents; the schools and the teachers were charged with the duty of imparting to the young some vague ideas of the shape and history of the world, and acquainting them with the rudimentary aids to self-education—reading, writing, and arithmetic. In many school systems of the country, this standard of primary education still obtains; in a few, and in some extra-educational movements, such as the Boy Scouts, the Camp Fire Girls, and the like, patriotism, consideration for others, and similar basic principles having to do with human relationships are taught.

Even where primary education includes training in human relationships and the cultivation of sentiments, there is usually very little, if any, effort in the direction of grounding the youthful mind in the principles governing his economic relations to his fellow beings. Social, political and other relationships usually receive more attention, yet it is largely upon an understanding of his economic relationships that the future happiness of the individual rests. This is certainly true, if it is true that much of the dissatisfaction with his lot that is attributed to the average man grows out of his feeling that, as a cog in the industrial machine, he is one of the oppressed. In a society which, on the political side, emphasizes the individual as much as ours does, it is perhaps inevitable that early training should be directed at laying foundations from which the individual can get on in the world, if he is so minded, rather than toward giving him a broader appreciation of the fact that the important work of the world is carried on through co-operative effort and leading him to accept the philosophy that a cog is just as important as a piston. In our anxiety to make it clear to the individual that it is within his power to make himself any part of the machine that he would like to be, we overlook the fact that the ninety-nine are bound to remain cogs and in consequence neglect to establish the respect for the cog to which it is entitled—some men are more valuable to society than others, but every man is valuable in his place. Education that started from the premise that the co-operation of all men is needed to hold the industrial machine together, and that the driving force of natural leaders is needed to keep it moving, would leave little room for dissatisfaction and would form a basis for a broader intellectual life for everybody—lay the foundations for a higher level of average intelligence and education. At the rate at which we are going, the material rewards of all who contribute to production will be substantially equal—at least in kind—and it will be possible for the man who preesses the pedals that run a stamping machine to pursue the purely cultural state of education as far as he likes.

The millennium is, of course, not at hand; some will always have more than others—those who work harder and those who are endowed with the kind of ability that the world needs in the getting of its work done; but power-driven machinery is liberating the average man for the pursuit of such things as he has a mind for, and the kind of mind he has may depend entirely upon his attitude toward his fellows and his position in life, as determined by his primary education.

* * * *

This editorial up to this point has been quoted from The American Exchange-Pacific National Bank Bulletin. I have purposely printed it without quotation marks so that our leaders would read it without prejudice. It would appear that education is likely to come into its own with big business taking an attitude of this character toward it.

W. A. H.

FINANCING THE CHURCH.

Finance and Spirituality.

It is singular and deplorable that not a few feel that financing the Church is a process apart from spiritualizing the Church. Too bad that such a misconception ever possessed the mind, especially of a Church member. Unless financing the Church is a part of, and can be made to contribute to the spiritual life of the Church, then something is vitally wrong. If our giving to, or for, the Church is not a vital part of our worship, then we need either to change our giving or to revise our worship. Giving costs something, and one cannot afford to bear the cost unless the cost price produces results. Every dollar or dime given to the Church, or through the Church, should be so much invested in the development of our spiritual life, and so much increase in our joy of worship. When our Lord promised to build His Church He knew that it would require money and a great deal of it, but He certainly did not mean to put the price of impoverishment upon His followers who would obey His command. So when we speak of financing the Church we are not talking of a thing apart from its spiritual life; we are thinking in practical terms of that which will necessarily enhance our spiritual values and deepen our spirituality.

Our Problem.

Our Christian Church now faces a momentous problem, a great task, namely; that of financing itself. The Southern Convention, in session at Durham, N. C., in April, faced that problem. "Standardization" and other individual pledges to our colleges, "Special Individual" pledges to Missions and other pledges on a five-year basis had run the limit and had served their purpose. Their time was out. Now all of these gave impetus to our institutions and enterprises, and under that impetus we went forward as a Church and enlarged all our benevolent and missionary activities.

Here is the question the Convention faced: What can now be done to take the place of all these pledges, and the income from these various sources, which income can no longer be expected? What method can be adopted which will cause our people to be more liberal in the support of the enterprises of the Church, and what steps can be taken to take the place of the five-year program, which was now completed?

This was not only a question for the Convention, but it is a question that must confront every conference this fall, and every local church the coming year. Shall we retrench from work already undertaken, and a program already inadequate? Or shall we go forward? Shall our people be confronted with the fact that our liberality should increase, and not decrease, and that the Church, which we love, is to go forward and not backwards in its work?

The Plan Adopted.

The plan adopted at the Convention, as now interpreted is, that we undertake in the immediate future, and for the next few years, to raise annually for all our Conventional institutions and enterprises, a total of $150,000. The conferences, we believe, have voted already to raise by "apportionment" a total of $25,000. The further question, however, of deep concern was the raising of the other $125,000. It was found that much of this is provided for and in the way of collections through Missionary Societies, through offerings of Sunday Schools to the Orphanage and to Missions, and through the Thanksgiving Offering to the Orphanage, and by individual gifts to the colleges. These items with organizations already operating will reach a total of $50,000, estimated. This would leave a balance of $75,000 to be provided for, if we are to reach the total of $150,000.

It is well known that some of the churches in the conferences prefer a budget of all amounts to be raised, while other churches prefer special offerings for specific purposes. On this account, it was deemed wise through the Budget Commission to put the matter up to the conferences, through which the method is to be carried to and left with the local church. The local church is the key to, and has the last word in, any financial situation, or problem, in the Christian Church. There is no doubt but that some churches, when they have opportunity of voting, will decide to adopt and employ the Absolute Budget system.

The Absolute Budget.

By the Absolute Budget is meant putting into one fund the total amount to be raised by the church during the year, for every cause and call of the church. The church adopting the Absolute Budget undertakes to secure at a stated time, usually at the beginning of the year, in pledges, or in cash payment, all that the church will require for its current expenses and all that it purposes to donate to, or send away for benevolences and missions. The church adopting the Absolute Budget in the connection here spoken of will include the total of its Conference "apportionments" with five times the amount of these "apportionments" for benevolences and missions.

Special Offerings.

Some churches have been working at this for some years, and will possibly adopt the Absolute Budget as a financial program. But there are many Churches not yet ready for nor willing to adopt the Absolute Budget. They are willing to undertake to raise the "conference apportionment" since this is their custom; and furthermore they are willing to make free-will offerings during the year to help support the enterprises and institutions of the Church which call for larger sums than the apportionment gets. These churches want to know exactly the amount of money they are giving and where their money goes when given. The Absolute Budget gives them a percentage thought to be best by the Convention, but they do not like it and want to be individualistic. They have that privilege through special offerings.

Church Calendar Year.

Now for the convenience both of education as to the necessity of raising the Absolute Budget, and for the sake of those churches that will prefer the special offerings, a Church Calendar Year has been agreed upon as follows:

January, February—Colleges;

March, April, May, June—Missions;

July, August, September, October—Christian Education;

November, December—Christian Orphanage.

During the periods thus designated, the Budget Commission will seek, as it may be able, to help; First, churches adopting the Absolute Budget to educate their membership as to the needs of the various enterprises and institutions of the Church; and, Second, to assist those churches not adopting the Absolute Budget in taking, as the pastors may direct, and on a Sunday designated by pastor and church, the free-will offerings referred to during the period of the Church Calendar Year. For instance, in churches preferring to use the free-will offering, on some Sunday of January or February, a free-will offering will be asked for our Colleges. Likewise on a Sunday designated by pastor and people in March, April, May or June, a free-will offering will be solicited for Missions. On a Sunday of July, August, September or October, an offering will be asked for Christian Education. During a Sunday or a day appointed by pastor and people in November or December, an offering will be asked for the Christian Orphanage. The reason for thus distributing enterprises is that the churches may have the opportunity through their pastor, their Sunday Schools, their Christian Endeavor, and their Missionary Societies of becoming acquainted with the interests and enterprises for which the offering is to be made and in the light of such acquaintance may make their offerings as liberal as possible.

With Pastor and People.

Thus it will be seen that our financial program brings the whole matter to, and leaves it with, the pastor and in the local church. The Convention certainly made an honest and a sincere effort to provide a plan of church finance that will work in all churches and a plan which should mean larger resources for the enterprises of the Church, so that our Church may not suffer nor lag, but that it may go forward in carrying out the great purpose for which our Lord Christ is building it in the world. Let us hope and believe that the spirit of liberality shall be thus cultivated in our churches and as we cultivate the spirit of liberality there should be cultivated in us a deeper spirit of devotion to Him Who gave all, and Whose will is "that not one of these little ones shall perish."

NOT WORKS BUT A NAME.

Work cannot save one. One may do all the good one can, from the cradle to the grave, and then be left out of the saving plan of salvation.

This is made plain over and over again in Scripture. (Acts 4: 12.) "Neither is there salvation in any other [Name]: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Good works are the fruit of belief in His name and spring up and take place because of belief in Him who alone can save. If the works could give salvation then we could depend upon our own efforts and make our own plans, but God has not so told us in His Word. True the Word says, "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling." That clearly indicates salvation first, which is, after it is given, to be worked out with fear and trembling. While we may be highly moral and worthy in our own name, yet the human element is there. Christ told the rich young ruler to obey the commands only to learn that he had done this from his youth. Then replying, the Teacher said, "One thing thou lackest." One thing is always lacking when the human element governs and controls. The one thing lacking is a willingness to obey the command of our Lord and serve Him. It was man's wayward, selfish and rebellious will that our Lord wished to control, and He has made plain in His Word this fact. It is our Father's will that is to control us if we are to be saved. On this account we are to accept Jesus Christ as Saviour and Redeemer, and attribute our good works, if we do any, not to ourselves, but to Him—in His name.

He who trusts to the works of human hands is building on the sand. Only the one who trusts in the name that is above every name is building on a rock.

CHURCH VS. STATE IN MEXICO.

The Catholic Church has done for Mexico that which it does for every country in which it holds full sway. This church never has been satisfied in any country until it gets its hand on the helm of the political machine and controls in politics as well as in church. There is no answer to the blight and banefulness of Catholicism quite so convincing as the condition of a country in which it has held sway for decades and centuries. And Mexico is no exception. In resources of soil, mine, forest and climate, Mexico has few equals in all the world, and yet the following picture of that country as it exists today is drawn by the pen of the Editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate, who writes from personal knowledge of conditions as they obtain today:

"Think of those millions in Mexico to whom knowledge is a stranger, soap an impossible extravagance, shoes an unknown luxury, and a full meal only a vague dream. Generations of them going their weary way from the cradle to the grave wondering what it's all about, their only share in the wealth of their great land an occasional glimpse of a gorgeous altar, lofty cathedral arches, an archbishop's cloth-of-gold robe, or the gleaming crown of the Virgin of Guadalupe studded with $1,600,000 worth of jewels; their one hope to leave behind enough to pay for a Christian burial and a bit to hasten a little their dreaded journey through purgatory. Do not lose sight of the common man, for at last he is in the big majority, and he is—Mexico."

"The following comment on relative values is interesting as a measure of public judgment: If Jack Dempsey receives half a million a year for skill in handling his fists; if Charlie Chaplin receives a quarter of a million for skill in manipulating his face; if Paderewski receives $100,000 a year for skill in playing a piano; if President Coolidge receives $75,000 a year for skill in running the nation; if the surgeon-general of the United States receives $15,000 a year for skill in treating the sick; if the chief justice receives $12,000 for skill in dealing with the morals of the nation, and the chaplain-general receives $4,000 for skill in spiritual leadership, we get something of an estimate of values as expressed in the world's standard of values, which is money."

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

It is a pleasure to praise those who deserve praise but do not court praise. Lieutenant Floyd Bennett of Norfolk, Virginia, seems to be one of this deserving class. He is a native of New York, stationed at Norfolk Naval Base for several years. He and his wife are members of Christian Temple and have been for about four years. They are faithful and active members of the Temple, regular in attendance when at home, liberal in contributions, and his wife is active in the women's work of the church. That kind of membership deserves praise, though it does not always receive it. Many of the most faithful and most useful members of the church are unknown to the public. This, however, does not lessen their value in the church or the Kingdom.

Lieutenant Bennett accompanied Lieutenant Commander Richard Evelyn Byrd on his Arctic air flight in 1925. On that trip he travelled three thousand miles in air without a forced landing. Bennett piloted Byrd's plane on his flight to the North Pole and return. It is reported that Byrd said of Bennett, before this last expedition, that "he would not like to be in the Arctic regions without Bennett," and that he would rather have Bennett with him as his pilot, "than any one else in the world." That is a great compliment to Mr. Bennett, and evidently well earned. Mr. Bennett is a very quiet, mild mannered man, says little and does much. The world's work is done by the quiet men and women who say least. It is the quiet all-year Christian that saves the church and pilots the Old Ship of Zion over rough seas; and the church has many of that type. All departments of human endeavor are manned by that same kind of quiet workers.

The Christian Temple was decorated with United States flags the first Sunday after their Arctic flight in special recognition of the great achievement.

Modern inventions and discoveries have taught mankind more and more the importance and significance of the spiritual world and spiritual experience. Air service and Radio unite to demonstrate the reality of the invisible and the use and contact with the unseen. Air is invisible, yet it is powerful and useful to man. The radio picks up the music of human voices and instruments, and human speech from distant places: and if radios can do that out of the invisible and everywhere present atmosphere, why not the heart get impressions from the infinite and spiritual being we call God. Real convictions come that way, and the heart is more sensitive to God, when tuned in, than radios to sounds that float in the air.

It is the plan of the Christian Temple to hold a special recognition for Lieutenant Bennett when he returns to Norfolk, and to invite Commander Byrd to be present at that service. The Temple does big things, has big people in her services, and tries to recognize what is best in men who do things. She will have something great if she has to go to the North Pole for it; but it is not cold when it gets into the warm arms of her warmhearted hospitality. If the Temple succeeds in having Bennett and Byrd in such a recognition service as she is planning, it will be a great religious affair. W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

"THE EXPECTANCY OF YOUTH."

PART II.

[Opening Address of President W. A. Harper, at Elon College, Sunday, September 5, 1926.]

"Expecting to receive something."—Acts 3: 5.

A second special contribution which youth has the right to expect from college days is an acquaintance with the philosophies which have influenced men in their living and a proper evaluation of these philosophies, basing their evaluation of them on their historic results and on what they may be expected to achieve in the character of those who embrace them. A very keen student of philosophy and life, the late President William D. Hyde of Bewdoin College, summarized the philosophies of the world under five heads: Epicureanism, Stoicism, Subordination of Lower to Higher, a Sense of Proportion, and Love. I am inclined to agree with President Hyde that these five philosophies do summate the wisdom and experience of the race as it relates itself to a working principle of life.

The fundamental idea underlying Epicureanism is the pursuit of pleasure. Experience has shown it to be evanescent, and yet the pleasure attitude toward life continues to exert a withering influence over a vast host. The Stoic philosophy goes to the opposite extreme in its attitude toward the pleasures of life. Whereas Epicureanism embraces them as the chief attractions and blessings of life, Stoicism steels itself against them and assumes an attitude of indifference toward them. It has always produced a strong type of character, but there has been a lamentable lack of buoyancy, richness, and joyousness of expression in the lives of this philosophy.

The Subordination of what is known as the Lower appeals and interests of life to what has been called the Higher is associated with the great philosopher Plato. This philosophy has never shown the proper appreciation for all the native qualities and endowments of the human life. You cannot but feel that a wise and beneficent Creator would have been guilty of folly to endow His creatures with certain powers that needed to be subordinated to other powers. When you meet those who are dedicated to this Platonic philosophy of life, you cannot but be convinced that theirs is not a well-rounded life. Something is lacking and that something is the relational development of what is conceived as lower in the personality and the functions of life.

The philosophy of the Sense of Proportion is associated with the great Aristotle, one of the master minds and spirits of human history. He felt instinctively the weakness of the Platonic Subordination of Lower to Higher and set about the remedying of this deficiency by advocating the development and expression of all the powers and functions of life in proper proportion to each other. The weakness of his philosophy is its mechanism, the lack of standards for judging, and the absence of the proper dynamic to make effective the proposed proportionate development of the powers and functions of life.

The fifth philosophy of life, according to President Hyde, is based on Love as a unifying and dynamic force, calling out all the latent powers and functions of life to full and happy fruition and expression, and becoming the great dynamic, underlying every thought, every act, every association. Love makes use of every endowment of man's nature. As Jesus taught it and lived it, it makes use of pleasure and of suffering; it subordinates higher to lower and lower to higher; it supplies a motive for the sense of proportion in life; and it elicits the very best that is potential in the human mind or heart, whether it be in the realm of the emotions, or of the intellect, or the will. Love as Jesus taught it also appreciates the universe as the means of improving and up-building human life; it ennobles man as the offspring of Deity, as endowed with the qualities of Deity by his own spiritual nature, and as obligated to express those Divine qualities in human relationships; and it relates man himself and his use of the universe directly to the will, plan, and purpose of God as the world's Creator and man's spiritual Father. It will appear then that the philosophy of life as Jesus taught it as based on love, includes all that is good and abiding in the other philosophies by which men have lived, remedies all their weaknesses and defects, and dynamicizes every experience and situation of life with the highest motive which the human mind has been able to conceive, the motive of love, unselfish love, consecrated love, Divine love.

It was this exalted philosophy of life which so gripped the Apostle Paul in his wonderful portrayal of its characteristics in that sublime passage known as the Paean of Love which he addressed to the Corinthian Church. Paul says everything is worthless if love is lacking, but let us hear his own matchless words: "Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not love, I am become as clanging brass, or a clashing cymbal. And though I have the gift of prophecy and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not love, I am nothing. And though I sell all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not love, it profiteth me nothing."

And then in contemplation of the master passion of love that possessed him and nerved him to undertake the great labors of his missionary life, he continues his praise of love by drawing a portrait of Jesus, who in His life embodied the spirit of love. Carefully note what he says in praise of love and of the Man who embodied it. It suffered long, and is kind, he says. It envied not; it makes no parade of itself; is not puffed up, is not rude nor selfish; it does not have to be summoned to the aid of anyone, but is alert always for opportunities to serve; bears no malice, never rejoices over wrong doing; knows how to be silent; it is trustful, hopeful, patient, and enduring, never fails. And then Paul speaks of it as abiding forever in that oft-quoted verse, "Now abideth faith, hope, and love—these three, but the greatest of these is love."

The philosophy of love, however, is like the melody in a gem of music. The same melody reappears with each verse, but the words and sentiment is changed. So it is with the philosophy of love. It must have objectives toward which its energies may be directed, and in the realization of which its ideals may be expressed. Love is the all-satisfying philosophy of life, expressing itself in three great objectives. The first of these is work, to which we have already alluded. Love never tires of serving. It is never happier than when it is engaged in programs of uplift to the world.

The second of these objectives is concerned with leisure. In our busy vocational efforts we say we are engaged in work, and work has its influence on character while it brings us a means of support. In our leisure time we do not look for gain, but for the means of culture and agreeable and uplifting association with our fellows. It has been said that play reveals character even more than work, because often times by necessity we are forced to work on projects which we would otherwise not choose, but in our playtime what we innately are expresses itself in our activities. We have not fully appreciated the strategic importance to the life and character of the individual and of the race of our leisure hours. In college our leisure time will make or mar our career, and the same is true of life. Our philosophy of life, the philosophy of love, must reign supremely in our free time, or our character must inevitably degenerate.

The third great objective is the saving influence of the other two. It consecrates work and it elevates leisure. It is worship. When love is in league with life through work and play, expressing itself always in proper attitudes toward God, we have a wholesome ordering of a life which will mean not only personal satisfaction and a spirit of helpfulness toward others, but which at the same time will qualify us for the realization of the eternal values of the human soul. So it is that in this third objective of love, worship, we find the perfection of all that is great, good, lovely, and true in human experience. In this happy investment and integration of human energy, based on love, expressing itself in work, play, and worship, we have that unity for which the human heart has always sought and striven. The major passion in the mental and spiritual realm of man's experience in our day is this quest for unity. It is found enshrined in the philosophy of love which Jesus taught and which we have seen includes all the strengths of the other philosophies which have actuated men in their living and at the same time removes all their weaknesses, being itself a truly synthetic philosophy in the best sense of that word.

I have spoken at length of the expectancy of youth, and I rejoice in that expectancy. Cursed is he who expecteth nothing. It is a hopeful sign that youth looks forward with confident expectancy toward the future, but in concluding I would say that character is best expressed not through receiving, but through giving. The human spirit grows and thrives not on what it gets, but on what it bestows. In that matchless chapter addressed to the Corinthian Church, from which I have already quoted at length, the old translators did not use love to symbolize and connote the greatest spiritual gift as the great Apostle described it. They used "charity" in the place of love. So we read in the King James' version not of love as being the be-all and end-all of Christian experience, but of charity, and we find Paul concluding his praise of this greatest Christian grace in these words: "Now abideth faith, hope, and charity—these three, but the greatest of these is charity." I think that the translation love is superior to the former translation, but at the same time I would insist that love, if it be true love, if it be Divine love, must always express itself in noble charity, and so in all seriousness I would urge the youth of our time not only to be expectant of blessings to be received, but equally anxious for opportunities to give and to serve. College life will mean immeasurably more to those students who approach it not only as a filling station, but also as a power plant for the distribution of their talents in service to their fellow students and to the college whose opportunities they have hopefully undertaken to share. We need both these dispositions not in youth merely, but in every age of living, if our lives are to count fully and hopefully in the program of the Christian way.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

The Bethlehem Summer School of Christian Education was conducted in the interest of pastors, Sunday School and Christian Endeavor workers, although many features of the work were interesting and profitable to others.

The program was arranged so as to occupy five days, with work in the morning, afternoon and night. Courses were given in Bible, Children's and Young People's Work, Adult Activities, Sunday School Administration, Stewardship, Christian Endeavor Work, Missions, and Recreational Activities.

The faculty members were: Dr. W. T. Walters, Miss Lucy Eldredge, Miss Pattie Coghill, Rev. B. J. Earp, Rev. E. M. Carter, J. J. Carter, Miss Virginia Ferebee, Rev. H. W. Elder, Rev. Arch-abaugh, and Dr. S. L. Beougher. These consecrated workers did their work well, as they always do, and it is certainly a pity that double the number of people who heard them were not interested enough to be present so as to be able to carry away some of the very things they need in order to build up the various departments of their church work, that they might be better able to serve their constituency.

We did not have as many registrations as last year, but the work was fine, placing more emphasis on the educational than on the inspirational. We have discovered in our work here that in order to get the folks and hold them, that our program must be educational, inspirational and entertaining. Christian education is the great need of the church today, and yet some of our most consecrated officials in all lines of our church work, and who are living but a few miles from the school, have not as yet caught the vision or felt their responsibility to the church or community, enough to make a little better preparation for the work which the church has placed into their hands.

How shall the churches lead unless they themselves have leaders? Men are not made leaders by being taught to fight progress, or by staying away from Summer Schools of Christian Education. A new generation will be led by its own members, because our youth will go where they will be taught. If the church is to be religious, it must be led by religious men and women, who have both goodness and good sense, together with both cultivated minds and fully developed bodies, who take Jesus Christ seriously, and who believe Him as well as believe in Him.

Our schools of Christian Education are a challenge to our youth and they in turn are a challenge to the church. Our youth are important to the church as potential adults and as members of the younger generation. If we go back through his'cry, we will find that many of our great movemen's have been youth movements. Christ entered His ministry when he was thirty and finished it when He was thirty-three. The great Protestant reformation was started by Martin Luther when he was thirty-one, and was joined by John Calvin at twenty. John Wesley started the Methodist movement at the age of twenty-six.

There may or may not be a youth movement in the United States. Be it so or not, I know that our youth are thinking seriously about work-while problems. As Christians and church members, we are simply facing a question as to whether or not we will take up and seek to tie up this enthusiasm and idealism to the Christian Church through a well organized system of Religious Education. We expect to have the best school next year at Bethlehem that we have yet had, and we know that this dream will come true if we all do our part.

S. L. BEOUGHER.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.

MEN'S PENS $2.00
LADIES' PENS $2.00
aid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER — To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

HOLMAN BIBLES

DURABLE FLEXIBLE BINDINGS THE NEW TESTAMENT THE HOLY BIBLE

NEW BLACK-FACED TYPE TEACHERS' BIBLE

The very latest and newest Teachers' Bible published, and it includes every possible improvement in Bible making. The type is a clean, clear, sharp Black Face, which is printed on the finest paper obtainable. Easy to read (can be read in the dimmest light), and is just the page for those suffering from impaired eyesight. Compact in size, light in weight, easy to carry.

Absolutely flexible binding. Contains Old and New Testaments, Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, Fifteen New Maps in Colors, about 1500 pages in all.

Size, 5 1/4 x 7 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shephee not want. He maketh me to lie green pastures: he leadeth the still waters.

No. 4412. Bound in Seal Grain Morocco, with overlapping covers, rounded corners, red under gold edges. Silk head bands and silk marker.

Price—Post Paid..... 4.20

No. 433X. Holman India Paper. Algerian Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and helps as above.

Price—Post Paid..... 9.35

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

DR. WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

WHICH WAY FROM HERE?

We hear people talking about their giving, sometimes amending the number of calls that come, often giving the impression that their giving is large. It is well to keep two things in mind, (a) "That if one does not keep an account one does not know how little he gives;" (b) that it does well for us, before we agree with such sentiments, to know the facts. Our per capita giving for denominational benevolences was only $2.52 last year, while the average per capita giving for the twenty-five denominations for the same purposes was $4.11. That makes the average per capita giving for denominational benevolences 63 per cent above ours. Shall we give less?

Then again our annual per capita giving for all benevolences, local and denominational, is $3.78, just about one cent a day each, while the average for our co-workers of twenty-five denominations is $5.71. The average is more than 51 per cent above our average. We live in the communities, work on the same farms, in the same shops that the members of our twenty-five live sister denominations do. We live on the same streets, engage in the same business, have the same sun and shadows.

Do we wonder why we do not grow faster, why our missions, colleges, and other agencies do not develop more rapidly? Increase our per capita denominational benevolences 63 per cent; just bring us up to the average of our twenty-five sister groups and see what would happen to your mission work, your colleges, evangelistic work; or, increase our benevolent giving, denominational, conference, various benevolences, 51 per cent, just so as to average with our neighbor denominations, Methodists, Baptists, Congregationalists, United Brethren, and the others, and see what would result.

It takes money to establish new churches, build, standardize and endow colleges, plant and develop mission fields, send out missionaries, care for aged ministers, etc.

The denominations that give more, can do more, can grow more. Shall we be shamefaced before our Lord and before our brethren toiling along our same highways? Shall we recede and take the easier path of less giving, and all this in the face of the further fact that all our giving for all Christian purposes is less than one-fourth of our tithe? Which way shall we go from here? Answer as unto Him.

On October 11th, we desire to have in our office the name of every Conference Stewardship Secretary as of September 30th, in the Christian Church, with the correct address.

Presidents L. E. Smith, H. H. Short, Rue Bunnell, of our Southern, Central and Western Conventions, have made a public plea that our Church become a tithing Church. A goodly number of Conference Presidents have the same conviction and are sending us similar exhortations. What do you think about it?

Member (After the sermon: "I have nothing but praise for the new minister.")

Usher: "So I observed while passing the collection plate."

THE BUSINESS OF OUR COLLEGES.

BY LELAN McREYNOLDS,

Promotional Secretary, Defiance College.

"THAT CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP MAY BE THE HERITAGE OF TOMORROW!"

If over the colleges of the Christian Church, a purpose were emblazoned, such could well be the caption. What more important purpose could any school have? What needs our nation, our world and our entire program for Christ more than Christian leadership? History shows that the most worthwhile contributions to the civilization of our land have been the result, directly or indirectly, of religious leadership. Surely then, we can provide no better heritage for the civilization of tomorrow than leaders imbued with the spirit of the Master Teacher.

Our colleges are true to this purpose. They are furnishing the ministers, missionaries and other special religious workers of the denomination. More than seventy-five per cent of our present Christian leadership is college-recruited. As the church constituency becomes more highly educated, and as God calls our older workers from the service they have so worthily rendered, this percentage must increase, else our task for Christ cannot be accomplished. It is to the denominational schools that we must look for the supplying of our needs in this educational growth and ministerial replacement. Where else can we look? How many of our ministers and missionaries are products of State universities? One denominational authority, after an investigation, has found none. As Dr. Elmer T. Clark said of one institution, so it can be said of most tax-supported schools:

"The University of Virginia is one of the oldest and best State institutions in the South, and it possesses the very finest cultural traditions. Yet in the past thirty-two years this great school produced only three Methodist preachers—and two of these were the sons of preachers who were stationed in the university town. In the same period Randolph-Macon College trained 240 preachers."

Even so, our colleges are the "Randolph-Macons" of the Christian Church.

These schools are equipping this leadership specifically for life service in the Christian Church. The students are afforded the valuable acquaintance with former, present and future denominational leaders. They learn to know former leaders through the study of the history and principles of the church and through the spirit of these patriarch which pervades the atmosphere of our denominational schools. They have contacts with outstanding men and women of the denomination and with sympathetic professors who believe in the Christian Church, who know its constituency and who have the highest good of its program and its student representatives at heart. They have intimate fellowship with other students, who are preparing for the mission field, the pastorate, religious educational supervision, social welfare work and the various professions. Such contacts link the different phases of our program with personalities well-known and respected. Such contacts enrich love for the Christian Church and visualize its program.

These valuable associations, together with great world movements in which students share, and the dreams and idealism which characterize college life, give vision to this leadership. The far-seeing men and women who are planning the great program of the Christian Church, who are seeking for it highest possible service, who are guiding it to strategic points or opportunity, and who are aligning it with potent forces which are forging the destinies of Christianity are largely college-trained. It is this vision and idealism, intelligently directed by proper classroom training and grounded in full-orbed Christian character, that make our colleges the greatest dynamic agencies of the Christian Church.

Our institutions are furnishing Christian leadership for public schools. Nearly half of the graduates of these colleges go into educational work. In the American system of secular education, Christian teachers hold most strategic positions in shaping character aright. With a lack of wholesome home influence and with the church's failure to touch certain classes, the public school becomes the most important factor, and sometimes the only factor, conducive to good character and citizenship. We need teachers with a knowledge of child psychology and educational methods, but far more do we need teachers with that quality which score cards and examination papers will not reveal—Christian Personality, the influence of which permeates, in a lawful way, every activity of school life. There is no better assurance of this type of leadership than teacher training in colleges where technical skill and Christian character are developed together.

These colleges are supplying Christian leaders for the various professions and trades. In the present day when science and technical knowledge are developed to the point where our civilization could be wrecked over-night, it is highly important that we have a moral influence to control the safety lever and to direct this tremendous power along constructive channels. Science plays an important role in our civilization, and our colleges teach it as a part of the Master's program—as the revelation of God Himself in nature. Students get one kind of science from a Christian teacher and quite another kind from an instructor who makes no religious profession. The present tendency of specialization makes it easy for a technician to become an expert in his profession, yet an alien to Christianity. The church schools, with their fourfold program of training, prevent such narrowness. The technical professions are thus exalted to the plane where they can make their God-intended contribution to the Master's program. To provide for this, our colleges have arranged combination courses with certain technical schools and universities. This enables students who are training for agriculture, law, engineering or medicine to get their undergraduate work in a Christian atmosphere before transferring to universities and technical schools. The increasing size of universities, with their unwieldy disciplinary problems and lack of faculty contact with students, has caused authorities in these institutions to recommend this plan.

Dr. James, while President of the University of Illinois, said: "As the head, for many years of large technical schools, and not excluding the medical, I would prefer to take a young man after four years in a small Christian college without any technical training than to take him after an equal time in preparatory technical work."

These two and four year combination programs present opportunities which fathers and mothers of students planning for the various professions cannot afford to overlook.

The church schools are preparing for the home. Approximately twelve per cent of their alumni consist of women who are home-makers. Why need a girl who is "just going to get married" have a college education? We merely pause to consider what a miserable failure the home has made in sharing its responsibility along with the proverbial "School, Church and State" to see that too much emphasis cannot be placed on preparation for home-making. No girl can be too well-trained for that sacred and difficult task of rearing the child aright. Surely there is no place where culture, education, and Christian leadership are more needed. Contrary to the general opinion, a collegiate education does not tend to eliminate marriage, excepting the unsacred kind. Statistics show that college women do not take their domestic troubles to divorce courts. On the other hand, college-trained parents have been found to be highly successful in making real homes and in the rearing of children.

In training Christian leadership for public schools, for various professions and for home-making, the colleges are at the same time providing the church with a potent lay membership. It is at this point where State institutions fail. They do not afford, in addition to technical knowledge, training conducive to strong lay workers. As the responsibility for the success of the church increasingly falls on its lay leaders, there is no greater need than to have our young people return to their home communities with a zeal for Christian service. Higher educational standards of our constituency demand better trained leadership in the churches and Sunday Schools. No longer will consecration and willingness alone suffice for Sunday School teachers. Our young people, with their high school training and their desire for freedom and truth will not be adequately influenced by such teachers. Training in addition to consecration and willingness, must be included in the qualifications. If the church is to make its program effective, and is to command respect in the community, it must have a better trained lay membership.

In providing this leadership, the colleges are creating church solidarity. Our denomination has just experienced a very successful group of summer schools for ministers and young people. What values to the church, the communities represented and the attendants themselves, will be derived therefrom? One cannot estimate the worth of those ten days of worshipping, playing and living together. Ten days! What would a thousand such days—the span of a four-year college course—mean to such groups and to the Christian Church? How would a thousand days effect church solidarity? Not that we are proposing selfish denominationalism, but that we may have closest harmony and highest possible efficiency in our program for Christ, as long as denominations exist. Think of what it would mean to have located in the various church communities of our constituency, leaders who because of their collegiate experiences are intimately acquainted with each other and are working on one big Christian program, which they, in their college days, visioned and planned together. However good other denominational schools and universities may be, they in no way can offer such valuable opportunities for our future leaders and for the Christian Church.

Thus we see that our schools are producing for the Church, the schools, the homes and the various professions of our constituency, leadership that is cultural, leadership that is scholarly, leadership that is expert in technical knowledge, and, above all things else, leadership that is Christian. These colleges exist primarily for the Christian Church, which, as a denomination, has invested in them, and which can get returns on this investment only to the extent that trained leaders are sent back to our communities and into the various fields of world service. But these institutions can send back no more leaders than they get from our church communities. If this leadership is to be adequately supplied, the mothers and fathers of the Christian Church must see that these colleges are vitally necessary to the denominational program. They must see that the true worth of an institution is not in its largeness, but in its scholarship and its contribution to Christian character. They must see that these immeasurable values to our youth will offset distance. They must see these and the many other advantages which our colleges afford to the extent that they will send their own sons and daughters to these colleges—their own colleges. Then, and then only, can the Christian Church accomplish its task, for truly it has been said, "As go the colleges, so goes the Church."

LONDON AND CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

BY RUTH JOHNSON.

London—greatest metropolis of the world—what did four thousand Christian Endeavors from thirty nations mean to such a city? Meeting with one common aim—to further the message of Him who is Prince of Peace and Good-will, and whose desire is to build friendships rather than battle-ships?

Only time will tell.

And what did London mean to her visitors? Historic England, mother of our great nation—she thrilled us with romantic beauty, mastic cathedrals, inspiring spires, elegant castles, and shocked us with her relics of barbarism, of torture and blood-shed.

One must be impressed with the stability in all of her building: houses, churches, roads and bridges. We visited cathedral after cathedral where we were told the building was in progress from one hundred to two hundred years. The wonderful decorative interiors of hand-carved wood and mosaic windows in numerous designs were impossible to comprehend.

There is so much to see in London—the great "Whirlpool," as George Gissing aptly called it, that one must choose what he would see.

We naturally think first of Westminster Abbey, one of the most sacred edifices of Christianity. No other building is so intimately or so picturesquely connected with English History. I suppose it was the expression of universal awe that Washington Irving spoke when he said, "It seems as if the awful nature of the place presses down upon the soul, and hushes the beholder into noiseless reverence. We feel that we are surrounded by the congregated souls of the great men of the past, who have filled the earth with their renown."

It was interesting to read the inscriptions, and search for the tombs or monuments to some of the poets we love best, and the hymn-writer Isaac Watts, and the Wesley Brothers.

'Ard-by, as the English would say, are the Houses of Parliament, or House of Parliament; I am uncertain which to say. I asked once to be directed to the "Houses of Parliament," and the guide said, "The House of Parliament?" The second time I asked a question about the "House," and this Englishman corrected my use to the "Houses." They are an exacting people, even though their own tastes differ, except they have all decided that the Thames River must be called "Tims."

Anyway the House of Lords and House of Commons are joined by a long corridor, on the walls of which hang eight glass-covered frescoes by C. W. Cope. The subjects of the paintings that I recall are: "Departure of the Mayflower," "Expulsion of Oxford Students for Refusing to sign the Covenant," "Parting of Lady Russell from Her Husband, Lord William Russell before His Execution," and "Jane Love assisting the Flight of Charles II," as described so vividly by Dickens in "Woodstock."

The House of Lords is sumptuously decorated. The red morocco benches are ranged right and left of the throne. The throne has over it a gorgeous gilt canopy and under it the chairs reminded me of the "Three Bears" story—the large chair for the King, the middle-sized, to the left, for the Queen, and to the right the small chair for the Prince of Wales.

We were a little disappointed at the residences of the royal family, Buckingham Palace and St. James' Palace, but for the elegant show of numerous Welsh and Scottish footmen in native costume and each group had its national band instruments; and the gorgeous display of mounted house-guards wearing white kid breeches and gauntlets, and brass armour.

While we were standing in the Court of St. James Palace, the prince's valet came out. One might suspect that he had stepped from the cover of Dickens' "Christmas Carol," with his funny, tight, black knee breeches, long frock coat, high silk hat and colonial shoes and stockings.

I later learned that Will Rogers was making the prince a call that morning.

The Tower of London, I dislike to speak of, and the scaffold-site where Anne Boyelyn, Catherine Howard, Jady Jane Grey and others were beheaded. Macauley said enough when he said, "In truth, there is no sadder spot on earth than this." And it was here that Sir Walter Raleigh spent twelve years in prison, paying £1,000 a year for the privilege of a room with a light rather than remain in the dungeon.

One is inclined too much to characterize towns and people. We are all "brothers under the skin" with different manners and languages. I tried only once to talk over the telephone to an Englishman. We were usually unsuccessful without a means of dramatizing our ideas.

I found three things I wish we would adopt from the English: the train compartment idea, the charming English flower gardens, and the custom of serving tea with an assortment of the most delicious cookies, as soon as a guest arrives.

I have to recall this when I want to forgive them for thinking that we had overstepped all bounds in asking for a drink of water—and the luxury of ice water is unknown so far as I was able to discover. Their saloons seem to make the need for soda fountains unnecessary, so about the best thing we could do when we got thirsty was to go to sleep and forget it.

The working man has little chance—wages are very low, and the woman is lacking in freedom, for as Van Dyke says, "O, London is a man's town, there's power in the air."

I was glad to get in rural England, with its peaceful, winding waters, green pastures, and grazing cattle and sheep.

Our first visit was Kenilworth Ruins, immortalized by Sir Walter Scott in depicting the romantic figures, the fickle Queen Bess and the gallant Sir Walter Raleigh and the coat episode, the Earl of Leicester and the unhappy Amy Dudley. A garden of roses now marks the spot that the queen first had planted the potatoes brought by Raleigh from North Carolina soil. By intuition perhaps, I picked the court where the Earl made love to the queen on the night that Amy, his wife, stood posed as a statue among the shrubs and flowers.

A half-hour by bus and we were brought to Warwick Castle on the Avon River, where resides the present Earl of Warwick. The splendor and elegance of the castle are beyond my power to describe. There were paintings of Rubens, Rembrandt and Van Dyke, of inestimable value. A very unusual portrait was of Henrietta, wife of

(Continued on page 13.)

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS NOTES.

The other departments of the Southern Convention are provided for so far as their actual executive expense is concerned. This is not true of the Board of Religious Education. And yet the Board of Religious Education has an executive expense and the Convention is in honor bound to meet it. This expense is not large. This expense is far from extravagant. This expense is worthy. What will you do about it? We mean what are you going to do on Sunday, the 26th?

The letters to the pastors and superintendents of the Southern Christian Convention relative to the offering on the last Sunday of September for the Board of Religious Education were mailed at Henderson on Friday, the 10th. When this news reached us we prayed our Heavenly Father that these letters might be opened, read, prayed over and acted on. If these things were done, then we will receive a representative offering for the Board on Sunday, the 26th.

Mr. W. M. Brown, of Burlington, N. C., and a former member of the Board of Religious Education, stated in the writer's presence that he never did understand how the Board was financed and that there was something miraculous about it. We confess to the same conclusions. But we feel it should not longer be so, and therefore we do not hesitate in appealing thus strenuously in behalf of the Board.

Remember the distinction that is made between churches with the budget and churches without the budget. If your church has a budget, include the Board in the budget and send us word to what amount it has been apportioned and when we can expect to receive it. If your church does not use the budget, then receive a free will offering for the Board on September 26th.

Since last week's issue of THE SUN it has been found necessary to again borrow money to meet the running expenses of the Board. We hope that this will be the last time that this is necessary. If the constituency of the Southern Convention will rally at all generously to the Board in the September offering our hope will be realized.

Our Field Secretary knew sorrow last week, when death came to her home and removed to other life and fields her grandfather, Mr. Fuller Coghill.

The Board is hoping to have the copy for the Handbook in the hands of the printer within two weeks time.

J. H. LIGHTBOURNE.

A Rally Day Program for use in our Sunday Schools and churches on the last Sunday in September, has been issued by the Benevolence Commission of the Southern Christian Convention. Copies have been sent to the pastors and Sunday School superintendents. Additional copies may be had by writing Miss Pattie Coghill, Field Secretary, Henderson, N. C.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

LESSON XIII.—SEPTEMBER 26, 1926.

"EARLY LEADERS OF ISRAEL."

(Review.)

GOLDEN TEXT: "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and perfecter of our faith."—Heb. 12: 1-2.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 105: 1-8.

Having studied the lessons in regular order, they may now be connected up by reading the whole book of Exodus. The time from the call of Abraham to the departure of the Israelites from Egypt is reckoned about 430 years.

Lesson I.—The first chapter of Exodus speaks of the new king and the oppression of the Israelites.

Lesson II.—Chapter 2 tells about Moses, his childhood and education, his adoption as the son of Pharaoh's daughter, and of his being learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians.

Lesson III.—Moses had fled from Egypt, and was in the land of Midian, when he received the Call. Read chapters 2 to 4. This was 1499 years before the birth of Christ.

Lesson IV.—By reading the intervening chapters, we learn of the ten plagues, and are brought up to today's lesson—The Passover, given in chapters 11 and 12.

Lesson V.—In chapters 13 and 14, we learn of the Deliverance of the Israelites at the Red Sea, having set out from Egypt, and being hemmed in on all sides. Read Moses' Song of Deliverance.

Lesson VI.—They traveled three days, and becoming thirsty, they complained to Moses. They also wanted bread. Chapter 16 tells of the Giving of the Manna.

Lesson VII.—On their way to Midian the Israelites had to defend themselves against King Amalek. In chapter 18, Moses accepts the wise counsel of Jethro, his father-in-law.

Lesson VIII.—In the third month, the Israelites encamped at Mt. Sinai. Here they received the commandments. The first table contains our Duties to God. Read chapters 19 and 20: 1-11.

Lesson IX.—This lesson continues the study of the Commandments, giving our Duties to Man, in chapter 20: 12-21. Also read to the close of chapter 31.

Lesson X.—The Israelites were guilty of idolatry, Moses was angered. In order to commune with God, Moses moved the Tent outside of the camp. God promised his presence to go with him.

Lesson XI.—Here we are told of the free-will offerings for the tabernacle. In addition to chapters 35 and 36, read 37 to 40, which describe the work.

Lesson XII.—Is a lesson on Obedience and does not pertain in particular to the preceding lessons. It is complete in itself.

It may be observed that there are many types in Exodus foreshadowing Christ, as Aaron the high priest, the paschal lamb, the manna, the rock in Horeb, etc.

The deliverance of the Israelites from bondage in Egypt points to the deliverance from sin.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Lesson for September 26, 1926.

"WORK FOR THIS YEAR."

TOPIC: "What Work Shall We Plan This Year?" I Cor. 3: 6-17.

Read all of the third chapter of I Corinthians. Paul here gives an idea of the division of work in the church. Not all of us can take first place, nor will all of us be spared to water the flowers that we have planted. That must be left with other hands. Our work should be planned and not be just haphazard. A program should be made out months in advance, and should follow the general outline of the Christian Endeavor campaign.

Every Endeavorer who has not already done so should secure a copy of the book, "Expert Endeavorer," and study it. In order to carry out the work of Christian Endeavor successfully, we must know the principles of Christian Endeavor and apply them.

We should plan classes in personal evangelism, in mission study, and so on. Endeavorers cannot get real training without effort and leadership.

The recreational program is also important—what have you thought of—socials, hikes, picnics, tennis clubs, baseball teams, and so on. The society should touch every part of the life of the young.

Prison work is something that may well be made a part of the program for our city societies, especially. Some States conduct regular meetings in penitentiaries, jails, prisons, and in some prisons Christian Endeavor societies have been formed. Do not neglect the neglected.

The "quiet hour" should not be neglected. Communion with God must be at the root of all we do.

Thanksgiving and Christmas services should be planned well in advance. Baskets of food for the poor; toys for children; carolling; visiting hospitals; all are types of work that should be regularly done by live societies.

Some Bible Hints.

We must always be planting, that is winning new members, evangelizing, sowing the seed.

Gardens need water, and God's garden, which is living souls, needs the water of life—teaching, help, the Spirit.

Endeavorers should go over the fundamentals of the pledge and principles of the society annually. Make foundations sure.

All our plans and work will be tested, not by man, but by the Master. Let our work be conscientious.

To Think About.

What special work does our community need?

How may Endeavorers help in play-ground work?

Why should our church support a missionary, and how can we help?

October begins the year officially in the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor work of our church, and this is our Rally Day. Promotions occur regularly at this time, and we should now plan our work ahead for the year. Why not resolve to take a deeper and more vital interest in every phase of our church effort. This will include emphasis during October on Christian Education, in November and December on the care of our aged ministers, our orphaned children, and THE CHRISTIAN SUN, in January on interdenominational co-operation, in February and March on Foreign Missions, in April on Evangelism, in May and June on Home Missions, and in July, August and September Christian Education again. This is our Church Year, and we should emphasize it in regular sequence as the year advances. Our Southern Convention asks us to do this, and surely we will gladly cooperate.

FROM HENDERSON.

It is surely a fine thing to know that people appreciate what you do for them, but it is no less gratifying or pleasing to a person to have them be so kind and generous toward you. I have thoroughly enjoyed the work this year, laboring in such a field. Surely there can be no better people in all the world than the people of Henderson. This does not exclude those who are not members of the Christian Church, though I speak largely concerning my own members. The citizens in general are very congenial and Christian citizens. There are a number of irreligious people, as in every other town, who do not go to church; that just makes our task the greater.

The summer has just brought our union services to a close. The Presbyterian, the Methodist Protestant, the Methodist Episcopal, and the Christian Churches have been conducting union services during the months of July and August, alternating the services in the various churches each Sunday evening. It has been quite a relief for the pastors and has given them time to hear a sermon themselves. I think it is a fine thing for the members of the various denominations to come together in such a fellowship and worship.

During the summer, I have held two meetings, one being at Fuller's Chapel. There were twenty or more conversions and twelve additions to the church. We had a good meeting, and the power of the Spirit was with us. May the work of God's Kingdom continue to grow and the Lord to send us more laborers to work in His vineyard.

F. D. BALLARD.

Mme. Adelina Patti, in giving the location of her Welsh castle in the district of Brecknockshire, always said that it was "twenty-three miles from everywhere and very beautiful." The description fits rather exactly a good many sermons. They are very often beautiful and a long way from everywhere. A sermon ought not to be more than a mile away from a place where people live and move and have their troubles.—Exchange.

PROGRAM OF THE WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE OF ALABAMA.

To be Held at Cragford, Ala., October 16, 1926.

Forenoon.

- Devotional Services—Mrs. J. H. Swint
- Welcome Address—Mrs. Hamp Mitchell.
- Response—Mrs. A. I. Landers.
- Business Session.
- Song (Missionary).
- President's Address.
- Address, "The Place of Prayer in Our Work"—Mrs. W. M. Melton.
- Solo—Miss Regina Carter.
- Sermon—Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C.

Afternoon.

- Devotional Services—Mrs. W. D. Mitchell.
- Message from Mrs. J. A. Williams, president of Southern Board—Miss Zana Stephenson.
- "How to Reach the Other Women"—Mrs. V. E. Kitchens.
- "Onward through Missions"—Rev. G. D. Hunt.
- Round Table Discussion—Lead by Mrs. O. H. Orr.
- Reports of Committees.
- Adjournment.

MRS. E. M. CARTER,
President.

Wadley, Ala.

A Great Background Book
LANDMARKS in the STRUGGLE BETWEEN SCIENCE and RELIGION

by Professor J. Y. Simpson, M.A.,
D.Sc., F.R.S.E.

This book sets the present day controversy in its right historical setting. It is a survey of an age-long contest between truth and superstition. It makes religion as well as science a living, dynamic thing.

$2.00

DORAN BOOKS

TWENTY years ago Professor David Smith wrote "In The Days of His Flesh." For twenty years it has headed the list of books on Christ.

Now he has written:

OUR LORD'S EARTHLY LIFE

ANOTHER rich tribute to the Lord he loves. Characterized by mature scholarship and a marked humanist strain, this book has instantly gripped the hearts of readers.

$3.00

DORAN BOOKS

The Famous
Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 cross-column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

15 And call upon me in th
of trouble: I will deliver thee
thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges.....$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35
(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.
(Weight 18 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

.35 And Jē-hōi'-'ā-kim gave th
silver and the gold to Phār'-aōh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges.....$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50
(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

GO BRAVELY ON.

"This one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forward to the things which are before, I press toward the mark of the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."—Phil. 3: 13-14.

"Go bravely on, doing the daily duties and trusting that as our day is so shall our strength be."—Bishop King.

"Heed how thou livest; do no act by day
Which from the night shall drive thy peace away.

In months of sun, so live that months of rain
Shall still be happy. Evermore restrain Evil, and cherish good, so shall there be Another and a happier life for thee."

—Whittier.

Prayer.—Our Father, inspire us with the noble calling of life, and enable us to study to show ourselves approved of God a workman that needeth not to be ashamed. Forbid that we shall drift or be satisfied to shuffle through the low and groveling things of life, but daily lifting ourselves up to the loftiest ideals. Amen.

TUESDAY.

SOWING AND REAPING.

LESSON: Gal. 6: 7-9.

"Whosoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Other Scriptures, please read. Job 4: 8; Prov. 33: 8; Hosea 8: 7; I Cor. 9: 11; II Cor. 9: 6; Jer. 4: 3.

"A good deed is never lost. He who sows courtesy reaps friendship, and he who plants kindness gathers love."—Basil.

"Sow to the whirlwind and reap destruction."

"Sow an act, reap a habit;
Sow a habit, reap a character;
Sow a character, reap a destiny."

—Thackeray.

"In the ancient town of Heart's Goodwill
There's a flower-bordered street;
Where the sun shines and the song-birds trill
And the best folks daily meet.

"It is one of earth's enchanted spots,
And the river of Love flows through;
Its banks are lined with forget-me-nots
And Rosemary bushes, too.

"Tis the healthiest part of that fine old town,
And they say life's never complete,
'Til in Heart's Goodwill you've settled down
In a house on Friendly street."

—Jno. Hobbs.

Prayer.—Our Father, we desire to begin this day in love with Thee and Thy world—Thy people. Give us the inspiration to seek for and to plant our lives on Friendly street and in friendly places, that we may, like Christ, be a help to those in need as they go by. May we select our thoughts as we would our friends—tried and true—for their truth and purity; and may we be all to others. For Jesus sake. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

HEAVEN AT THE END OF THE ROAD.

"Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men."—I Cor. 16: 13.

"Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil."—Eph. 6: 11.

"Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life."—Rev. 2: 10.

"Does the road wind up-hill all the way?"

Yes, to the very end.

Will the journey take the whole long day?

From morn to night my friend.

"But is there for the night a resting-place?"

A roof for when the slow dark hours begin?

May not the darkness hide it from my face?

You cannot miss that inn.

"Shall I meet other way-farers at night?"

Those who have gone before?

Then must I knock or call when just in sight?

They will not keep you standing at the door.

"Shall I find comfort, travel-sore and weak?"

Of labor you shall find the sum.

Will there be beds for me and all who seek?

Yea, beds for all who come."

Rosseth.

Prayer.—Our Father, grant unto us incomparable vision of the face of Jesus our Saviour and our Lord, as we pass along through this maze of life, and at the end to be like Him. Amen.

THURSDAY.

PRAYING.

"When thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret."—Matt. 5: 6.

Whittier prayed thus:

"Dear Lord and Father of mankind,

Forgive our foolish ways!

Reclothe us; in our rightful mind,

In purer lives Thy service find,

In deeper reverence, praise.

"In simple trust like theirs who heard

Beside the Syrian sea,

The gracious calling of the Lord,

Let us like them without a word,

Rise up and follow Thee.

"O Sabbath rest by Galilee!

O calm of hills above,

Where Jesus knelt to share with Thee

The silence of eternity

In'ep'reted by love.

"With what deep hush subduing all

Our words and works that drown

The tender whisper of thy call

As noiseless let Thy blessings fall

As fell Thy manner down.

"Drop Thy still dews of quietness,

Till all our stormings cease;

Take from our souls the storm and stress,

And let our ordered lives confess

The beauty of Thy peace."

—Amen.

FRIDAY.

THE GOOD OF SUFFERING.

He was "a man of sorrows, and acquainted with griefs" (Isa. 53: 3), and as such, "touched with the feeling of our infirmities" (Heb. 4: 15), "who can bear gently with the ignorant and the erring" (Heb. 5: 2), because we ourselves are compassed also with infirmity.

"Out of the suffering comes the serious mind, out of salvation the grateful heart; out of endurance, fortitude; out of deliverance, faith."—John Ruskin.

Prayer.—Our Father, give us grace to endure our troubles, trials and sufferings with Christian fortitude. Thou art our strength. In all may we lay hold of life and wear the joy and crown. Amen.

SATURDAY.

THE ENDURING SOUL.

LESSON: Isaiah 33: 11-17.

"Who among us shall dwell with the devouring fire? Who among us shall dwell with everlasting burnings? He that walketh righteously . . . he shall dwell on high."

All nature is a great furnace. The burning heat of the sun and the shining of the stars are the result of rapid combustion. The rusting of iron, the rotting of an apple, the fading of colors in cloth, the heat of our bodies, and the digesting of our food, are either the results or the processes of slow combustion—continual burnings. Some things have great power of resistance to fire, others burn readily.

Our lives, too, are subjected to the test of fire. "Who among us shall dwell with the everlasting burnings?" How many of the events of the past remain in conscious memory? The rest are burned. What permanent residuum shall we have from the work of this day, when time shall have blotted out the memory of its routine? Shall we not find that the permanent part of life is that which we breathe in, during these few moments of devotion—the apparently insubstantial; while the fruits of those hours spent in toil yield little of permanent value?

Only as our dealings build our characters, do they contribute wealth to the enduring soul. It is the atmosphere in which we live that counts. He only may dwell with the devouring fire who walketh righteously, speaketh uprightly, despiseth the gain of oppressions, stoppeth his ears from blood, and shutteth his eyes from seeing evil.

—Rev. D. Raymond Taggart.

Prayer.—Most Gracious Father, may we learn to realize the blessings and promises that come to those who faithfully serve the Lord. Teach us to be just to all men and generous to those who may need of our generosity. Teach us that the stars are bright only by giving of their light, and that we may be like Thee only by giving of ourselves. Amen.

SUNDAY.

THE SABBATH'S CALL.

"Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."—Matt. 11: 28.

We do not wonder at the gloom which shadowed the ancient world, and the melancholy that beset the most thoughtful minds. What words then—gilded with light and hope—these spoken by the Son of God, to the distracted and care-worn children of men! "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." "I will free you from the darkest stains of sin by My cleansing blood. I will guide you in the way of wisdom, so that you will lead the noblest of lives. I will be with you in trouble, and say to the angry waves, 'Peace, be still,' and I will raise you from the dust of the grave to a glorious morning of eternal life."

Prayer.—Our Father, may no cares fret us, no dangers alarm us, no sin beset us, no labor weight us down. Thou who feeds the ravens, marks the sparrows, clothes the lillies, care for us, and may Thine image in us grow into Thy likeness. Amen.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

We had some good help this week. Our good friend, P. J. Carlton, of Richmond, pushed us above the seventeenth rung in our ladder with a $400 check, and then our faithful friend, J. M. Darden, Suffolk, Va., who always comes to our rescue when we are in need, pushed us over the eighteenth rung with a donation of a thousand dollars. And then we have two mighty good friends who live down in the land of flowers, in the State of Florida who remember us with liberal contributions, and they sent us a check for $100, to give us a good start toward the nineteenth rung. Who will come to our aid for our next report and push us above the nineteenth rung? Isn't it fine to have good and loyal friends to help in such a substantial way when we need help so badly at this time. It gives us new energy and a greater determination to do a larger work in behalf of the fatherless children in the Master's name.

We have appeals from day to day from fatherless and motherless children, and if we had the funds to care for them it would be a joy to take them and give them the best that we have to give. If our people could only see the great need as we see it from day to day and read the many letters we receive each week and realize the golden opportunity of reaching and helping the fatherless and saving them for the Master's Kingdom, we believe everybody would want to join in the great work.

Friends, see to it that your Sunday School monthly offerings are as liberal as possible, and if your school is not on our list get it on. Oh! have a part in this work in behalf of the widow in distress and the fatherless children. Give in His name.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR SEPT. 16, 1926.

Brought forward	$ 16,818.18
Sunday School Monthly Offerings.
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Lawrence M. Bible Class, Elon ...	$ 1.01
Durham, Main Street	5.00	6.01
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Turner's Chapel	$ 1.51
Mt. Giliad	1.30	2.81
Western North Carolina Conference.
Pleasant Hill	$ 4.60
Smithwood	3.00
Graham Providence Memorial	2.81
Ramseur	10.00
Parks Cross Roads	1.63	22.04
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Holland Sunday School	10.00
Valley of Virginia Conference:
Dry Run	$ 5.59
Leaksville	2.42	8.01
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Vanceville	1.50
Special Offerings:
R. B. Wicker, support of Edna	15.00
New Building Fund:
W. B. Qualls, Burlington, N. C. ...	$ 1.53
P. J. Carlton, Richmond, Va.	400.00
M. H. Hayes, Warrenton, N. C. ...	10.00
Mrs. M. Z. Rhodes Class, Burlington.	8.00
Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Howell, Jacksonville, Fla.	100.00

J. M. Darden, Suffolk, Va.	1000.00	1,518.00
Total for week	$ 1,584.90
Grand total	$ 18,403.08

LONDON AND CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

(Continued from page 9.)

Charles I, by two artists, Rubens and Van Dyke. In the conservatory there was a lovely marble Grecian urn, said to have been used in the fourth century B. C. It was found in Italy.

The beautiful Shakespeare country then enthralled us. Too much has been said to hear expression here. Shakespeare lives, his spirit is felt throughout this lovely spot, Stratford-on-Avon. The church in which he was an elder, holds dear the baptismal font in which this genius was baptized, and the slab that marks his resting place bears his crude verse:

"Good friend for Iesus sake forbear
To dig the dust enclosed here;
Blest be ye man yt spares thes stones,
And cvrst be he yt moves my bones."

Within this old church remains a pulpit with a chained Bible used before the Reformation.

Cambridge—the rival of the oldest university in England—is a sleepy little market town apart from the movement and gaiety of the students of the twenty-six colleges. No glitter of spires beckons the traveller, but its lure is more intimate, for the lovely trees, rolling banks and charming bridges invite your leisure—each college has its bridge over the gently winding Cam.

The visitor has no fear of intruding on too diligent study—he undergraduates must be poets in the making, or perhaps philosophers, underneath the overhanging willows, canoes float, and among the cushions and pillows in them lulls an undergrad, with feet flung high in the air, dreaming over some leather-bound lore.

We feel "strange enchantments of the past, and memories of the days of old." Each student has a suite of rooms for his abode.

The most beautiful feature architecturally is King's College Chapel. Emmanuel College has its appeal for the Americans. It was founded by the Puritans to train ministers. It is known as the "Mother of American Universities" because it was one of her students, John Harvard, who founded our famous Harvard University.

Not far away, standing out conspicuously on its marsh-girt isle, is Ely Cathedral, built in the seventh century. The town is small—a mere village, but the glistening pile which crowns its hill is one of the finest achievements of Norman and Gothic architects. The isolated hill on which Ely stands, so protected by the surrounding fens-lands that it was here that the English made their last stand against William the Conqueror.

From Harwich the Endeavorers crossed the channel in a chartered Dutch ship, St. Denis, on our way to Hook of Holland.

We went to bed at 22:50 (as they reckon time), wondering what lay in store for us the next morning among the quaint Dutch people.

[Miss Johnson has promised to tell us something of the quaint Dutch people and customs, at an early date.—Ed.]

"Don't Stop Until It's Tried" is Irving Fisher's advice about prohibition, and he makes this the title of his new book, just off the press, whose sub-title is "The Facts About Prohibition." Mr. Fisher says he didn't want to be convinced that prohibition offered the solution of the drink problem, but the facts have forced him into that position. Others who don't want to be convinced are advised to read this book.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses	$7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses	6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses	6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim.....	1.60
No. 2—Broad rim	1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses	$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85	11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85...	16.00

(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling)	$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....	9.00
No. 4—Broad rim	9.00
Filler—Silver lined	6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St. Richmond Va.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

BILLY FINDS A NEW GAME.

Billy and his four playmates sat on the top step of the perch, fussing with each other. One wanted to do one thing, another wanted to do something else and no one wanted to play any of the games that were suggested.

Billy's Mama stood their fussing until she couldn't bear it any longer, and sent them all home.

"That's always the way," Billy grumbled under his breath. "Can't have any fun at all any more. I wish I knew something new to play. Some new game or—"

"Goodness, if that's the cause of the wrangle, come along and we'll try to find some new games," laughed a merry voice, and Go-come-back, the wee travel elfin, hopped down on the porch beside Billy.

"I'd like to know where you're going to find a new game," Billy said. "Do you know of any?"

"I don't think of any just at this second," replied Gocomeback. "But come along," and before Billy could even ask where they were going, they stood on strange ground, just outside a ring of happy little boys.

"Where are we, Gocomeback?" Billy asked.

He knew he had never seen these boys before.

"In South America," replied Gocomeback, and he led Billy up to the crowd of boys and introduced him.

"Goody, we're glad you came, cried one of the largest boys. "Ever play 'Tanganille Chito,' Billy?"

"Gracious, no!" laughed Billy, rather con'uted. "What kind of a game is that?"

"Just what we're going to play," replied the South American boy. "You would call it prop and money. But you can play it with stones or buttons as well as with pennies. If you like it after you see us play, you may join us."

In the center of the crowd of boys, he made a circle on the ground about a yard in diameter. In this circle he placed a stick, on top of which was placed a penny. The players all had to stand off a certain distance and throw their pennies at the one on top of the stick. If the penny fell within the circle, they lost, but if it bounced outside the ring, they won.

Billy watched the game quite a long time, thinking of his little North American friends, and instead of staying and playing with the South American boys, he thanked them and hurried back home as fast as he could go.

When he told his Mama about the new game, she let him call the boys back, and they spent a lovely afternoon trying to knock pebbles off the top of a broomstick. And to the one who got the most pebbles, Billy's mama gave a great big cookie.

THE FUN OF FARMING.

We've grown beyond the age of toys,
We now are happy farmer boys.

We rise up early in the morn
To help our father plow the corn.

There is no task we try to shirk,
We do the chores—all sorts of work.

We bring the cattle home at night
And try to do all things just right.

And when our father goes away,
We cut and stack and haul the hay.

But now and then we stop and wish,
(Tain't no harm), to go and fish.

Besides, we often get the whim
To quit our work and go to swim.

The greatest fun that's on the farm
Is riding horses, that's no harm.

—Hill Akers.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

OBITUARIES.

SPIVEY.

Deacon Cosco Spivey, was born in Southampton County, June 25, 1874, and departed this life August 6, 1926, aged 48 years, 1 month, 11 days. Early in life Brother Spivey professed faith in Christ and united with Barretts Christian Church, and for many years Brother Spivey served his church in the capacity of a devoted Deacon. Brother Spivey was not so much a public man, but a man that was loyal and devoted to his church. He was always in his place when time came for service. He will be missed not only in his home, but in the church and community as well. He was a man who took great pride in helping his neighbors. He himself was a good neighbor. Brother Spivey served as Sunday School Superintendent for years at Barretts, and was always prompt and one that could be depended on. He was a fine type of a Christian gentleman, a good husband and father. His body was laid to rest in the presence of a host of friends, in Spring Hill Cemetery. Rev. J. W. Roberts and Rev. W. B. Fuller officiated, both having been former pastors. May God bless the family.

G. C. CRUTCHFIELD.

WILKERSON.

Many of our hearts were saddened on Tuesday, July 27th, at about 10 o'clock, when the sad news came to us that Homer LeRoy Wilkerson was dead. Homer and a companion were in bathing in the Chattahoochee River. While they were making an attempt to swim across, Homer's strength failed him and he went down under the angry current that swept so madly by.

Had he lived to September 6, 1926, he would have been 17 years old. He would have finished high school in one year. It was expected of many of his friends that he would enter the gospel ministry some time in the future.

He was a member of North Highland Christian Church. The attendance at the funeral was very large. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The funeral was conducted at the North Highland Christian Church by the writer assisted by Rev. P. L. Duke. The Spivey Quartette rendered several beautiful and appropriate numbers. He leaves to mourn their loss a father, mother, two brothers, two sisters, and a host of friends. May the great Burden Bearer of all ages comfort the bereaved ones.

A. H. SHEPPARD.

BRITTLE.

On Monday, July 26, 1926, at his home on East Main Street, Waverly, Virginia, Mr. Flavius J. Brittle died, after an illness of fourteen hours, which was a great shock to the whole community.

He was born May 18, 1879, in Sussex County, near Wakefield, Va. At the age of 21 he went in the barber business at Dendron, Va. On October 1, 1911, he married Miss Bessie Mae Gwaltney of Carsley, and they made their home in Dendron for nine years, then moved to Waverly, where he continued his trade. He was a member of the Dendron Christian Church and also a member of the Acorn Bible Class of the Christian Church of Waverly.

He leaves to mourn their loss a kind and loving wife, two devoted children, Susie Mae and Flavius Joshua, Jr., three sisters, Miss Katie and Miss Carnie Brittle, and Mrs. Etta Richardson and one brother, Mr. Perry T. Brittle, also many other sorrowing relations and friends.

He was buried in the Gwaltney's cemetery ever since he was old enough to join. The many beautiful flowers spoke for those who loved him. May God comfort the loved ones in the sad hour of their trouble. It is hard to part from him, but it is a great comfort to know that our own dear one is at rest, for his last words were, "I will be at rest." He was a kind and loving husband and a devoted father, and their loss is his eternal gain.

He has passed from mortal sight, but not forgotten. Sweet be his sleep till Jesus bids him arise.

"One Who Loved Him."

That they may carry on

Look into the face of your boy or girl.

There's fine stuff there—that lift of the head is pride—there is intelligence in the level eyes.

A man or woman of the South—in the making.

Our children live in a day of high pressure. The South has taken its place in the front ranks of industry. Modern methods of manufacture, scientific farming, improved transportation—all are factors in building the industrial South. This development brings with it many changes in our customs and habits.

But we must hold fast to the idealism of the Old South—the ideal of useful and intelligent citizenship. The children must carry it on.

This is primarily a matter of education.

The average year's pay of teachers in elementary and secondary schools in the states of the South served by the Southern is only $637. Southern Railway System, which pays three million dollars per annum in school taxes, ventures to express the view that greater material rewards should be enjoyed by the men and women upon whom rests the responsibility of teaching the children of the South.

"—knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

From the Constitution of the state of North Carolina.

S O U T H E R N
RAILWAY SYSTEM
The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year $ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

WILLIAMSON.

William Henry Williamson, son of W. A. and Martha Williamson, was born February 28, 1867, died August 28, 1926, aged fifty-nine years and six months. To them were born three children—Willie, Lela and Greely. Lela died in 1913. Besides the two sons, he is survived by his wife, two grand children and one brother, Deacon John W. Williamson.

Brother Williamson united with Hebron Christian Church in Mechenburg County, Va., forty-five years ago, where he held his membership till death.

The unanimous opinion of neighbors and friends is that he was one of the best men in his community. As a husband, father, neighbor and church-member he was faithful to every duty.

The funeral was from his church, on Sunday afternoon, August 28th, and burial in church cemetery. One of the largest crowds ever gathered in that section paid tribute to his exemplary life. The funeral designs were many and beautiful, typical of the good deeds of the deceased.

Truly he rests from his labor, but his influence for good lives on.

C. E. NEWMAN.

GREEN.

William Archibald Green, better known as "Billy," died suddenly in bed on the night of June 9th. He had been unwell for some time, but was able to be up. He was 94 years old and one of the best known and most highly esteemed citizens of Harnette County. For many years he was a faithful member of Pleasant Union Christian Church.

The funeral services took place at the home, conducted by Prof. J. A. Campbell of Bouies Creek. A large concourse of people gathered there to pay tribute to the deceased. The body was laid to rest beside that of his wife in the Pleasant Plains cemetery, where the flowers literally covered the grave. May God's richest blessings rest upon and comfort the family.

J. LEE JOHNSON.

VICK.

Brother Walter Vick, one of the faithful members of Johnson's Grove Christian Church, passed from this life to the great beyond on July 6th. He was in his 76th year. He was for many years a faithful member of Johnson's Grove Christian Church. It can be truly said of him that he was faithful unto the end, as he was in service until the last. He was a faithful friend to the pastor, and always had words of encouragement and information.

May the Lord call someone to fill his place in the church and the community.

ELISHA BRADSHAW.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 1/2 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04533 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. . . $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04533] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. . . $0.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address

THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type 27 And the boys grew: and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid. 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid. 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 1000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type. 22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid. 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid. 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearcut Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type. AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges.70

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms $1.10 included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title, round corners, red under gold edges85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136NP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1926.

NUMBER 38.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Mr. Leach Goes to Cleveland.—

Rev. William H. Leach, the editor of religious books for the George H. Doran Company, has been engaged in publishing a periodical called Church Management. This publication has grown to such proportions as to demand the full and continuous personal attention of Mr. Leach. He is moving to Cleveland, therefore, but will not sever his connection with the Doran Company.

A Successor for Fosdick.—

The First Presbyterian Church of New York City has appointed a committee to find a minister to succeed Harry Emerson Fosdick. Until last March Dr. Fosdick was special preacher in that church. Dr. George Alexander is the pastor and Thomas Guthrie Speers is the Associate pastor. That man who steps into Dr. Fosdick's former pulpit will have a difficult pulpit to fill if he does it as favorably as Dr. Fosdick.

A Gypsum Merger.—

The gypsum industry has grown greatly since 1890. In that year only two hundred thousand tons were mined, but last year the trade demanded 5,118,890 tons. Gypsum is used in building as a base for plaster and as stucco and plaster paris. W. E. Chearer joined the gypsum business thirty-three years ago. He is now the president of the Universal Lime and Gypsum Company. This company merged with the Palmer Cement Company recently, and now controls the gypsum output.

A Proposal from the Movie Czar.—

At White Pine Camp recently Will H. Hayes, the president of the moving picture distributors of America, was a visitor. He went there to propose the reservation of twenty vaults in the new two-million-dollar archives building for the preservation of historical movie films. He talked to President Coolidge about films portraying Woodrow Wilson, the Home-Coming of General Pershing, the Burial of the Unknown Soldier, and many another film which is all history. President Coolidge seemed to think well of the proposal, and Mr. Hayes seemed pleased after the interview.

Celebrates a Hundred Years.—

The New York Christian Advocate celebrated on September 9th the one hundredth anniversary of its first number. In honor of that occasion it published a volume in the same size as its regular issue of 168 pages. The volume is beautifully illustrated, and makes a valuable account of Methodism for the last one hundred years. The volume issued by the Christian Advocate is worthy of the wonderful story of religious activities which it tells and for which the Advocate has been responsible this hundred years that are gone. We wish for the Christian Advocate many another century of useful service, and may the next century carry Christianity further toward its ultimate goal than any other century has ever carried it.

Training for Homemaking.—

The Mission Hills Congregational Church is trying an experiment worthy of careful thought. They are offering two courses in marriage and the making of a Christian home. There is a course for young men led by the pastor, Rev. Lawrence A. Wilson, and the group of young women are led by the pastor's wife. They are discussing such topics as "At what financial status can a couple start safely?" "How far does money count?" "What is the deepest basis of attraction?" "The best chaperone," "At what point should the training of man and woman differ?" "Foundations of chivalry, womanly charm, manly virtues," "Modern enemies of the home." The two groups are striving to work out each for itself ten rules for a successful marriage. One cannot lay down set rules for such a thing, but the instability of modern marriage is presenting a problem so urgent that training for the business of building Christian homes must claim more attention and study. We can no longer trust to mere chance.

How Close All Christians Are.—

A Sandusky, Ohio, church choir devoted a Sunday evening service to the singing of twelve hymns from twelve communions. The hymns show how closely all the denominations are agreed touching the great things of the Kingdom. All of them are sung in the churches and we seldom stop to think of the denomination or faith which gave them to the world. The hymns which the Sandusky choir sang were: "Art Thou Weary," Greek Catholic; "Nearer My God to Thee," Unitarian; "The Lord is My Shepherd," Jewish; "Abide with Me," Anglican; "A Mighty Fortress," Lutheran; "The Sweet By and By," Universalist; "He Leadeth Me," Baptist; "Jesus Lover of My Soul," Methodist; "O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee," Congregationalist; "Immortal Love, Forever Full," Quaker; "O Love That Wilt not Let Me Go," Presbyterian; "Jerusalem, the Golden," Roman Catholic. These hymns reveal the great underlying faith of men in a common Father who loves them all alike, and how God must marvel at our disputing together among ourselves, and our refusal to be brethren all working together toward a common end.

A Race for Diamonds.—

In the newly opened Transvaal diamond district thirty athletes all trained for the track raced 120 women, and fifteen thousand diamond prospectors, for the richest pay dirt in the diamond district there in South Africa. Over night fifty thousand people settled down in a district which before boasted of but three hundred inhabitants. The wrath of the diamond hunters was kindled when it was noised abroad that the athletes who raced ahead of them for the richest places were employed by a great corporation. The diamond mine is a funnel shaped area extending from the surface down into the earth about half a mile. At first it can be worked from the surface by one person, but later must be done by corporations able to finance the proposition, because of slides which make work impossible. In a short while $180,000 worth of diamonds were mined. It was in diamond mining in South Africa that the great fortune of Cecil Rhodes, the founder of the Rhodes scholarships for Oxford University, was made. The mining is done by running the diamond laden mud over greased tables of corrugated iron. The mud and other mineral which it might contain flows on across these tables, while the grease holds the diamonds which it contains.

Earthquakes and Storms.—

The Azores Islands jut out about one-third of the way between Europe and America. Very recently the chief of these islands, Fayal, experienced an earthquake. Many of the little stone houses that rim the beautiful harbor, trembled, crumbled, and fell down. Then the sea rushed in to play among the ruins. About fifty persons were killed and some four hundred injured. The eight thousand inhabitants of Horta, on Fayal, moved to the country or set up housekeeping in tents. Portugal, to whom the Azores belong, rushed aid and houses and tents to Horta. Besides this catastrophe, the earth's crust twitched in Maine for the twelfth time in two years. It trembled in Mexico mildly, in Chile and in Greece sharply. There was a howling hurricane in Louisiana, and torrential rains in Illinois and Iowa. Japan withstood one of the most terrible typhoons in years. One hundred people were killed, and the newspapers talked about equi-noxial disturbances when the equinox was still some days away. And then came what was possibly the most gigantic disaster of recent times, one that vies in horror with the earthquake of San Francisco—the devastation of the South Florida coast. Not all the damage is yet known, nor will it be for days. But it has cost lives by the hundreds and thousands, and the property losses mount into the hundred millions. Man has become self-sufficient in many things, yet often we are reminded that "if ye will not hearken unto me . . . and if ye reject my statutes . . . I will appoint terror over you . . . and I will break the pride of your power: . . . and your strength shall be spent in vain."

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. Jas L. Foster, Elon College, N. C., is open for additional pastoral work. Any church desiring his services for the coming conference year will please address him at Elon College, N. C. Brother Foster is also open for engagements in protracted meeting work for this fall and winter.

Rev. M. T. Sorrell, Elon College, N. C., has accepted work for two Sundays of the month with our Palm Street Church, Greensboro, and for two Sundays with Third Avenue Church, Danville. This, with full work in college, is likely to keep Brother Sorrell out of mischief the coming year at any rate. But he is a man of boundless energy and Christian favor.

How many of our ministers can make reports like this? "We are in the midst of a gracious season of revival. We have few 'unchurched adults' in and about Holland, very, very few, but so far, twenty-two girls and boys have united with our church and become a spiritual asset if we properly use them. They are lambs to be fed at Christ's expressed command."

Newport News Christian Church has called Rev. M. F. Allen from the United Christian Church, Lynchburg, Va., to be its pastor the coming year, and Brother Allen has signified his acceptance. Brother Allen has done some very constructive work at Lynchburg, and it will be difficult to find a successor who will carry forward his work more vigorously and successfully than he has done.

We little realize how many lives a rural church reaches in a brief span of years for good, and influences for all time. Rev. G. D. Hunt, under the caption, "A Record," gives a revelation of what one church may accomplish in a period of years. It is seldom that one man serves his home church through so many years and so successfully as has Brother Hunt, but those who know the man, his manner of life, his sincerity of purpose, his devotion to God and duty, will not be surprised even at the wonderful record of his home church at which he has preached once a month during most of his ministry so far. It is a record worth thinking over and preaching about.

The Board of Christian Education of the Southern Convention is calling upon all churches in the Convention to take an offering for Christian Education on Sunday, September 26th. This is a most worthy cause and it will certainly help if the churches will take the offering, and make it just as liberal as possible. Rev. J. H. Lightbourne is President of the Board; Miss Pattie Coghil, Henderson, N. C., Secretary; and Mr. C. H. Stephenson, Raleigh, N. C., Treasurer. This Board is undertaking a most worthy task, that of improving our Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor Societies, and the offering will certainly help a most worthy cause.

We feel justified in giving to our readers parts from a personal letter, since it is filled with a holy zeal for the cause of the Master, and we hope to have the forgiveness of Dr. Lightbourne. Referring to the matter on the Religious Education page, the letter reads: "It comes from a heart burdened and in the spirit of Christ. It meets a situation that exists and that has to be met somehow, or our Church is going to suffer terribly. I trust my words have fire and yet that they have balm. I prayed as I wrote that I might have the wisdom of the serpent and the gentleness of the dove. And I trust it will reach the far reaches of our Convention before the 26th."

Mrs. J. I. Joyner, who has been for some years at Takoma Park, Washington, D. C., for treatment in a local Sanitarium, has been at the same time deeply interested in a community church being developed there on the principles of our Christian Church. To her this community church, as it is being conducted, and the Christian Church should be one in all co-operative activity. She changes her address to 1900 Colonial Ave., Norfolk, Va., back to her old home town and with kinsfolks and a church people with whom she has lived and wrought many years, "Even more interested than ever before in the work of the Kingdom and that the Christian Church may be consummated in the conversion of the world. Then denominational distinctions at last will cease to exist and Christian love will bind the brotherhood."

Rev. M. F. Allen of Lynchburg has recently been on a visit to his mother in Texas, and as was the case when he visited there last spring, he preached at and organized a Christian Church near by. Discovering from our Christian Annual that Brother Orr lived only forty miles away, he paid this veteran Christian minister a visit of a day, and in turn Brother Orr visited him and has agreed to preach once a month at Mt. Pleasant for the work that Brother Allen has effected there. Brother Allen writes: "Brother Orr is anxious for our church to begin work in Texas. He feels that there is a great opening and a wonderful opportunity for our Christian cause to prosper and to flourish there." Brother Allen was delighted to meet and hold sweet fellowship with Brother Orr whom he regards as a lovable, true and faithful soldier of the Cross.

The Lesson Committee of our Christian Church adopted the plan sometime ago of substituting for the regular review lesson as proposed by the International Committee, lessons dealing with matters directly concerning the Christian Church. There is a feeling among a great number of our leaders of the Christian Church that our people do not know enough about the Christian Church, its origin and principles, and policy and program, and it was thought that something could be accomplished by using the Sunday usually devoted to a review lesson to specially prepared material on the subjects referred to above. The lesson for September 26th is such a lesson, and is concerned with our name "Christian." It will be well worth while for teachers to use this lesson (it is given in the Christian quarterly) so that members of their classes may be able to give a reason for the hope and faith that lieth within them.—H. S. Hardcastle.

From the Herald of Gospel Liberty: "Miss Ruth Johnson, a most competent and trained worker from Fuquay Springs, N. C., has just accepted a position as director of Young People's work and church music with the Riverdale Church of Dayton, of which Rev. Edwin B. Flory is pastor. Miss Johnson is a graduate of Elon College and has been teaching in high school. She has just returned from the World's Christian Endeavor Convention held in London. She takes the place of Miss Zenith Campbell, who has filled this position with great acceptance during the past year." Whereupon we congratulate the Riverdale Church, Dayton, on its happy choice and good success in securing Miss Ruth for full time church services. She is well equipped for such service and THE SUN's Editor has for some years been wishing the church to take Miss Ruth from the school room, even though exceedingly successful there, and put her to work with young people in Christian service.

REVIVAL MEETING.

We have been connected with protracted meetings for more than three months. In some of these evangelistic services, the word was preached intelligently, and in some cases it was preached in the power and demonstration of the Holy Ghost, but I am sorry to say, the visible results were the poorest, for that length of time, that I ever remember. But I am sure that much good seed was sown, and I hope much good may come out of it after all. The world seems so hard to reach in these days of fast and riotous living. We really believe that the love of money, styles, and the love of worldly pleasures are the passions of these days. I really believe that we are living in the last days of the Gospel dispensation, for we are evidently living in perilous times. The present times are certainly described in II Timothy and the third chapter.

Next week we are to be in a meeting in Hope County, N. C., with our Baptist brethren. The third Sunday in October and for a week or ten days, we are expecting to continue our meeting at Morrisville, N. C. Pray for the little band that remains there.

P. T. KLAPP.

NOTICE.

On and after October 1, 1926, Subscribers will remit to THE CHRISTIAN SUN, Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Editor, Elon College, N. C., but all business matters pertaining to advertising and the general conduct of the paper will be addressed as heretofore to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

FOR SALE.

Two or three lots fronting the Elon College campus from the South; width 80 to 100 feet, depth 200 to 300 feet. Address

JAMES L. FOSTER,
Elon College, N. C.
P. O. Box 113.
Adv.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

TO DELEGATES TO GENERAL CONVENTION.

At the last session of the Southern Christian Convention, which met with our Durham Church, a committee composed of G. O. Lankford, W. A. Harper, and Chas. D. Johnston, was appointed to look into the matter of arranging a special car or cars for delegates to the General Convention at Urbana, Illinois, next month. If you expect to attend the Convention and are interested in going with a group, please notify the chairman of the committee at once. It is not practicable for all to get together, but one pullman might run from Norfolk, Va., and another from Greensboro, N. C., if a sufficient number desire such an arrangement. The Division Passenger Agent of the Southern Railway is expected in Burlington this week to look into this matter. Should a sufficient number report that this service is desired, definite effort will be made to secure the cars. Report will be made by letter as to the time and place of the leaving of said cars. Your wishes will have to be in our hands not later than September 25th.

Yours for service,

G. O. LANKFORD,
Chairman.
Burlington, N. C.,
September 13, 1926.

NOTICE.

I am in need of a report from the following churches, for their Sunday Schools, of the Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Bethel, Bethlehem, Beulah, Cary, Chapel Hill, Christian Light, Damascus, Ebenezer, Fuller's Chapel, Mebane, Moore's Union, Mt. Carmel, Mt. Hermon, New Hill, O'Kelly's Chapel, Pleasant Union, Plymouth, Raleigh First, Shallow Well, Six Forks.

I have written most of these, some twice, and sent report blanks. Again I ask that you send in your full report that we may make our 1926 Hand Book an honor to our church. Will you help the secretary to do this? I am anxiously awaiting your co-operation.

MRS. R. J. NEWTON,

Henderson, N. C.

Secretary.

PROGRAM OF THE WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE OF ALABAMA.

To be Held at Cragford, Ala., October 16, 1926.

Forenoon.

Devotional Services—Mrs. J. H. Swint
Welcome Address—Mrs. Hamp Mitchell.
Response—Mrs. A. I. Landers.
Business Session.
Song (Missionary).
President's Address.
Address, "The Place of Prayer in Our Work"—
Mrs. W. M. Melton.
Solo—Miss Regina Carter.
Sermon—Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C.

Afternoon.

Devotional Services—Mrs. W. D. Mitchell.
Message from Mrs. J. A. Williams, president of Southern Board—Miss Zana Stephenson.
"How to Reach the Other Women"—Mrs. V. E. Kitchens.
"Onward through Missions"—Rev. G. D. Hunt.
Round Table Discussion—Lead by Mrs. O. H. Orr.
Reports of Committees.
Adjournment.

MRS. E. M. CARTER,

Wadley, Ala.

President.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Alabama Conference will meet with the Church at Bethany on Tuesday, October 12, 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M. G. D. Hunt, President; E. M. Carter, Secretary.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 2, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 16, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church, Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1926. G. O. Lankford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 8, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

We should be glad to furnish your Sunday School the following supplementary supplies, cash to accompany order:

- 1. Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 21x32 inches, per quarter $1.25
 - 2. Sunday School Superintendent (to accompany the Picture Roll), per quarter..... .15
 - 3. Pupils' Lesson Stories, per quarter..... .06
 - 4. Little Bible Lesson Pictures, per quarter... .05
- Group Uniform Series, Primary Course.
- 1. Group Bible Lesson Picture Roll, 16x20 in., per quarter 1.00
 - 2. Group Pupils' Lesson Stories, Primary, per quarter07
 - 3. Group Lesson Pictures, per quarter..... .04

In making order, be explicit and name the quarter for which supplies are wanted; thus: First quarter, January to March; second quarter, April to June; third quarter, July to September; fourth quarter, October to December.

SEND ORDERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x 7 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

- 2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
- India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 11-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 11-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools$56

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, briefer, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Briefer Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8 x 8 1-2 Inches and 13-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1334 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN C. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

OUR DENOMINATIONAL BENEVOLENCE BUDGET.

The churches of all denominations, as far as this writer is aware, are discussing and grappling with the subject of Budgets. We of the Southern Christian Convention have had and practiced the Modified Budget for years and years. We called our Budget "Conference Apportionments," and the conferences now have this Apportionment or Budget. Then in addition, we have had institutions and enterprises which necessitated larger support than the Budget or Apportionment gave; so these enterprises or institutions went to the church for a Thanksgiving and Easter offering, to the Sunday Schools for monthly offerings, and to individuals for "five year pledges" or personal donations in cash, each institution securing in this way whatever the people saw fit to contribute. This is why ours has been and yet is the Modified Budget, the Budget covering only a fraction of what was necessary to support the enterprises, and the free-will offerings of individuals and churches and Sunday Schools supplying the remainder, as could be secured.

In many churches there has been growing a feeling that the local church should make up its full Budget at the beginning of the year, for every benevolence and missionary enterprise. In some churches individuals no longer welcome periodical appeals for enterprises of the church, however worthy they may be, but desire to know at the beginning of the year what they are expected to give during the year, or what they are willing to give during the year in weekly or monthly payments. These individuals say that if they know what is expected of them, or if they will volunteer at the beginning of the church year to give a certain amount to their church, knowing exactly and agreeing what that amount should be, that they will go to work to give this amount to the support of the church enterprises in the same way that they know what the expenses of their home or their business is toward which they work and for which they work during the year. This it is claimed puts the matter on a logical, business-like basis, and guarantees support to every church enterprise in an adequate and logical manner. Some churches, we see, have come to this conclusion.

There are others, however, and not a few, that have not yet arrived at this conclusion. Their members prefer, individually and collectively, to know exactly what they are giving for and that what they are giving shall go directly to that for which they give it. They are willing to help make up "Conference Apportionments" as a beginning and as a basis of necessary support. After this, if they wish to give ten times as much for the support of one institution or enterprise as for some other institution or enterprise, they want the privilege of doing so. They are willing to hear the claims of the various enterprises and institutions, from time to time, and if these claims seem valid and if they have the money, they will contribute as they are able. They prefer to give either as conditions at the time will allow, and according to their understanding of the needs and merits of the enterprise or institution making the appeal.

To meet the demands of both types of churches designated above, the Southern Convention at Durham undertook to adopt, and did adopt, a Budget sufficiently elastic to meet the demands of each one. It did not claim to establish a Budget on a scientific or a well thought out basis.

On the other hand, the committee with the matter in charge made up its Budget as a beginning, on the basis of the income of the past year, and a seeming actual need of the coming two years. For instance, the committee asked the Orphanage what its needs were. The reply was that the income the past year had been about $30,000.00, and the same would be needed for the coming two years unless there was to be retrenchment. The same committee asked the department of Missions what its request was, based upon the income of the past year. The reply was that it had received the past year about $39,000.00 and would certainly need no less for the coming year. So on through the line. The Budget as now printed in the proceedings of the Convention is based, almost if not quite, solely in the income of the past year or two, and is based solely on the amount that each department asked for the coming year. So we have a Budget based on "askings" from the various departments, which askings, on the other hand, were based on the income of the previous year or years. What the Convention was doing was to begin in the right direction and establish in the minds of the people the thought and the idea and the fact of some sort of Budget which would take care of all the enterprises of the Church. It was not ideal and was not worked out on any ideal basis. It claimed to be practical and to be worked out on the basis of income and "askings."

Will the Orphanage get $30,000.00 during the coming year? That depends upon whether the churches which may adopt the Absolute Budget or includes in that Budget enough as its pro-rata part to help make up the whole, and as to whether those churches not preferring the Budget will, when a free-will offering is taken, give their pro-rata part, so that the full amount may be had. Will Missions, one-half for Home and one-half for Foreign, get $39,000.00? That depends entirely upon whether individuals in the Christian Church, who through the Budget that their church may adopt, or through free-will offerings during the Mission period, will contribute sufficiently and liberally to raise the $39,000.00. Will our two colleges get $47,000.00? That depends upon whether individuals supporting their local church

Budget, or when the free-will offering is taken in the churches not adopting the full amount of the Budget, will give liberally enough to help make up the $47,000.00. So on for the other Conventional enterprises. These amounts, of course, are over and above the Conference Apportionments, or the Unmodified Budget which all of our churches have already in practice.

Our Denominational Benevolence Budget so far as the Southern Christian Convention is concerned has taken a step in this direction, namely: to try to lay before all the people in all the churches the needs and conditions of all Convention-supported enterprises and institutions, and then to try to get all the people to so contribute that no enterprise shall suffer and that all enterprises launched by and under the care of the Convention shall go forward in their glorious work for the enlargement of the Kingdom of our Lord. Subsequent Conventions can very easily shift their "askings" or change the percentages requested for each institution or enterprise.

PEOPLES' CHRISTIAN CHURCH, DOVER.

Sunday, September 5th, was known as Inspiration Sunday at the People's Christian Church, and was the first day of the new-year program, the pastor, Dr. R. C. Helfenstein, having returned Friday from his vacation in the Pocono Mountains.

The attendance at the morning service of worship was the largest for the first Sunday in September of any year during the present pastorate.

The pastor spoke at the morning service on the subject, "Retrospect and Prospect," taking for his text, I Sam. 7: 12—"Hitherto hath the Lord helped us," and Exodus 14: 15—"Speak unto the Children of Israel that they go forward." He said in part that a retrospect of the past year's work in People's Church cannot but impress every loyal member of the church with the truth of the words, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." The past year has been a most remarkable year of service to the Kingdom of God for and by this church, because of the help received from God.

It has been the greatest year in many respects of the six years of the present pastorate. The wonderful work of Divine Grace that has taken place in the hearts of those who today are faithful believers, the spiritual victories of scores of the members, attests the spiritual prosperity of the church for the year past.

The material prosperity of the church during the year is indicated in the fact that all current expenses have been promptly met on time. The church grounds have been beautified in a most remarkable manner, and different items of additional equipment and furnishings have been installed, and the attendance at all services has been excellent. The visitors' register shows that people from twenty-five States of the Union and one Province in Canada have attended the services during the year.

The program of activities the past year, carried on in the Community Building, in addition to the regular worship services held every Sunday of the year in the church auditorium and the regular program of religious education.

A three-day institute in religious education was conducted last September by Miss Pattie Coghill for the Sunday School teachers and workers. The greatest Rally Day program in church and Sunday School was held, and a promotion program prepared by the Sunday School superintendent and his principals and presented by the children's division of the Sunday School. The fifth anniversary of the present pastorate was observed in a most fitting manner early in the fall. More than seven elaborate banquets and suppers were given by the Lend-a-Hand Society, Missionary Society, St. Paul's Brotherhood, and other organizations. Twelve Church Night suppers and Church Night programs of "Food, Faith and Fellowship" were held on Wednesday nights for twelve consecutive weeks during the winter.

Two great organ recitals were given by Dr. Baldwin, of New York City. A five number Lyceum Course was given by the St. Paul's Brotherhood, which course included the best lyceum and chautauqua talent available. The popular play, "Daddy Long Legs," was given by the Dramatic Club under the direction of Mrs. Walter Morris. Several home talent plays were given in the Community Hall. The Young Men's Bible Class held their annual Hallowe'en party in the Community Hall as well as several other social events being planned and carried out by various organizations of the church. Several very interesting and instructive educational and religious motion picture entertainments have been given in the Community Hall during the year free to the public.

Different community organizations held programs and conferences of various kinds in the Community Hall. A series of twenty-four lectures were given by Dr. E. L. House, of Portland, Oregon, on "The Psychology of Religion." A great New Year's Watch Night program was held in the Community Hall by the Young Men's Bible Class, on New Year's Eve for the community. Splendid programs were given by the Sunday School on Christmas and Easter and Children's Day. A series of lectures were given by a specialist in Boys' Work in the Community Hall under the auspices of the Rotary Club, for the boys and men of the entire community.

Numerous lectures of community and State interest were given in the Community Hall and the Chapel, including such talent as United States Congressman Upshaw of Georgia, and Dr. Frederick K. Libby of Washington, and Hermon Eldredge of Dayton, Ohio. The State Sunday School Convention was held in the general Sunday School Building two days in the spring, the attendance at which was declared to be the best in the history of the organization. A Boy Scout Troop was organized for the boys of the Sunday School, and has been meeting each Monday evening in their Scout Club Room. The recreational interest of both the young and the old has been cared for.

A Gym Class of boys of the Sunday School and community has met one night each week during the winter in the gymnasium, under the supervision of a competent leader. Bowling matches have been held each week among various groups. Numerous socials have been held in the social room by the different Sunday School classes. The Church co-operated in the great Community Daily Vacation Bible School. All special days have been observed with special programs.

This program of educational, social and recreational interest in the Community Building has been in addition to the regular worship and devotional program in the church auditorium and the chapel.

In addition to the local program the church has supported a foreign missionary in Tokio, Japan.

The pastor stated that many other things might be mentioned of things this loyal congregation has accomplished the past year and that he believed the accomplishments of the past were only a prophecy of the far greater things the Church is to accomplish in the future. He said he believed that God's blessings to the church would be even greater in the future than those experienced in the past, as great and wonderful as they had been, if every member would go forward in spiritual life and loving service.—The Index, Dover, Del.

A LAYMAN WANTS A FEW QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Editor THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
Elon College, N. C.
Dear Dr. Atkinson:

Everyone knows that the Church and all of its branch organizations need money. Everyone knows that we need hundreds of new churches. We need thousands of new Sunday School rooms. We need better Orphanages. We need better educational facilities. We need many more missionaries, and millions of dollars to carry on the great mission work in foreign lands.

We all know that the Mission Board is in debt. We all know that nearly every church is in some kind of debt. We know that the church cannot be run without money any more than any other organization can. And why is this shortage of money, when there are twenty million automobiles in the United States? When there are millions spent for movies? When there are millions being spent for tobacco to be burned to ashes? When there are millions being spent for pleasure? When there are billions being spent for worldly amusements of many kinds? WHY THIS SHORT-AGE? Because WE have not realized the obligation that we owe to our God. Because we have failed to render unto Caesar that which belongs to Caesar and unto God that which belongs to God. Because we are failing to pay God even a small interest on the great amount of money that He has entrusted to our hands. Because we are failing to give God enough of our time to think, and enough of our thought to hear His call. Because many of us who think that we are giving the Lord a tenth, are only giving Him a much smaller amount, because we fail to keep an account of what we give. Too often we pull out a few pennies or a few dimes and give to the Lord and say that it is the tenth, when if we kept a record of it we would very likely find that it falls far short of being a tenth. And I say this from my own experience.

Several years ago I decided that I would give unto the Lord a tenth of my income, which is not very much. I kept no record of what I gave. I just gave in a hap-hazard way, giving a little change here and a little there, and sometimes a dollar here and a dollar there, and just guessing what the total would run. But two years ago I decided that I would keep a record of what I got and what I gave. And now I can see that up until the time that I started keeping a record of what I gave, I never gave what I thought I did. The nickels and the dimes and the few dollars did not count up so fast. But today I know what I am doing. I know where I am giving and what I am giving, or rather, I know that I am paying the Lord ten per cent interest on what money is intrusted to me, and the nickels and dimes that I once gave as a tenth still go as my gift, and no record is kept of them. My income is now twice what it was two years ago.

Suppose twenty-five per cent of the church members would give a tenth of their income to the great cause. Where would the church and its organizations land? What would happen to the whole world? We could build every new church needed. We could build every new Sunday School room needed. We could build enough orphanages to take care of every orphan child. We could build every college necessary for everyone. We could send thousands of missionaries to the other parts of the world. We could pay the preachers enough to live and rear their families on. And we would have enough left to use for any thing that might arise.

But how shall we get this in the minds and the hearts of the people? How can we get the people to promise their support? How can we get them to keep a record and know that they give what they think they give? I have been in at least a hundred different churches of many different denominations in the last year. I have heard the preacher talk about the financial conditions of the church. I have heard him talk about the debts of the different mission boards. I have heard the Sunday School superintendent beg for a little money to meet some bill. I have heard the young people's societies asking for help that they might carry on their great work. I have read in the church papers where money was needed for every cause. But still we drag on deeply in debt.

If every preacher would preach one Sunday on tithing, if every Sunday School superintendent would talk one Sunday on tithing, if every Sunday School teacher would teach one Sunday on tithing, would that help? If every member of the church was given a card to sign stating that he or she would give a tenth to some cause, and suggest some way to keep a record of it, would that help? Yes, I know that when the preacher is talking about money, when the Sunday School superintendent is asking for money and when the Sunday School teacher is teaching on the use of money, somebody is not going to like it, and somebody is going to talk about it. But very likely they are the class that will criticize something anyway, and it might as well be this as anything else.

Could a certain section of THE SUN be used regularly to remind those who would promise a tenth of the obligation? And a space for others who might decide to make that promise and turn over to their pastor. Yes, I know that it would cost in addition to what it already costs to print THE SUN, but is THE SUN willing to try that plan or one similar? Or does the Editor think anything of it? If such would be considered, pick out a reasonable amount of space and use it for that purpose and send me a bill for the actual cost of it monthly.

Yours truly,

C. J. STRICKLAND.

1101 Elizabeth Ave.,
Charlotte, N. C.

A GRATIFYING RECORD.

Mr. C. M. Cannon, registrar, informs us that on September 15th the full quota of four hundred students had registered at Elon. These students are distributed by classes as follows:

Seniors	-	-	-	54
Juniors	-	-	-	58
Sophomores	-	-	-	90
Freshmen	-	-	-	151
Special students	-	-	-	47

257 of these students live on the campus in dormitories, and 143 come from their homes. By States, in which there are seventeen States represented, the enrollment is as follows:

North Carolina	-	-	-	323
Virginia	-	-	-	42
Fifteen other States	-	-	-	36

Alamance County leads the list with 150 students. Mr. Cannon states that all the students register as Christians except 47, and that eight denominations other than the Christian are represented in the enrollment. There are 161 members of the Christian Church, which is a larger percentage than in the past few years. For the first time, too, since the war, the young men outnumber the young women. There are 210 young men enrolled and 190 young women. It is further stated that no other students can be accepted for this year, until some of those who are enrolled drop out. This is indeed a most gratifying record and one over which all friends of the College will rejoice.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

I picked up a pecan the other day which had fallen from the tree on which it grew. It was not time for pecans to fall, and I examined it to see if it had matured. I cut it into two parts with my knife and it contained no matured nut, and hence no kernel. It was worthless. Its form and size were equal to any on the tree. The bloom was beautiful. It passed through all the processes of formation; but it failed, and hence it dropped off prematurely. This set me to thinking of why so many young people drop out of college, why so many members drop out of church, why so many drop out of business. It is not for lack of opportunity. It is not because of environment. That pecan had the same chance as those that remain on the tree, and nothing but frost can make them fall, and that only after maturity.

Failure is not on the outside, but within. "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart."—I Sam. 16: 7. In this respect man is like a pecan: if he is not right within he must drop out; but man differs from the pecan in that he can control the forces that develop his inner life. The inner life of man is threefold. Some people are physically and outwardly perfect in body, but contain no inner physical strength, because they have taken no real athletic exercise. The best gymnastics is honest work. The real strength is not in outward form or weight, but is within. Physical strength after all is invisible, rises and falls with the will or some other mental power. Anger produces physical strength; joy will do the same thing. The inner life determines bodily strength. If energy is lacking, strength is absent so far as service is concerned. No one has ever seen energy except in results.

Mental strength is attained in the same way as physical strength, by mental exercise. The mind must be directed in right channels to attain strength. The mind develops its greatest strength when exercised in the best lines of thought or life. The more difficult the subject studied in school, the greater mental strength is developed. Silly books, low associations, dissipation, tend to weaken the mind. The study of great questions, association with great minds, important objectives for life, all help to make strong minds. Mind can be measured only by what it puts out. In that respect it is like a factory or a farm. All is determined by what the mind produces and contributes to society. Like a pecan, it matures within; and if it has no inner strength it drops out in the field of thought. Most young people drop out of school because mental strength does not mature. Modern schools tell students too much and do not furnish mental exercise enough to develop mental strength.

When the spiritual life is entered, it is even more within. Profession, declaration, amount to little. What counts most and what this age demands is spiritual character that manifests itself in good works. Members of the church can no more develop spiritual strength without spiritual exercise than the body or the mind can be developed without bodily and mental exercise. Church attendance is as important and as necessary as school attendance. Members who do not attend are faulty within and drop out like the faulty pecan. Regular attendance and regular worship would develop spiritual strength and correct all the failures in church life.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

The Mooney Christian Education Building is to be dedicated and formally presented to the college on Sunday, October 3d, beginning at 10:00 o'clock in the morning. The occasion will be dignified by the presence of the donors of the building, Mr. and Mrs. M. Orban, Jr., and their daughter, Mrs. George S. Melville, all of Whittier, California. Brother Orban visited the college soon after the decision of his wife and himself to donate this building, which has become the social and religious center of the college campus, but Mrs. Orban and Mrs. Melville have not seen the college, nor even this section of the country. The entire college community will look forward with the greatest pleasure to welcoming these three friends and particularly for this auspicious occasion.

On behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Orban, the building will be presented to the college by Dr. W. S. Alexander. Dr. Alexander has been a guest in the home of the Orbans and has known them personally for many years. He will understand the motives which prompted them and the ideals they hope to serve through this magnificent gift to Elon.

Prof. S. A. Bennett, head of the Department of Religious Education and Director of the Mooney Christian Education Building, will depict the character of that great, good Christian pioneer, Rev. Isaac Mooney, father-in-law of Mr. Orban, to perpetuate whose memory in Christian service to generations long to come, this building was given and from whom it takes its name.

Dr. W. W. Staley of Suffolk, Va., former president of the college and trustee from the beginning, will accept the building on behalf of the Board of Trustees. It is expected also that speeches of acceptance will be made on behalf of the faculty, the student body, and the citizens of the college community, all of whose lives are vitally touched and influenced by this Christian Education Building.

The dedicatory address of the occasion is to be given by Dean Walter S. Athearn of Boston University. Dr. Athearn was greatly instrumental in helping to plan this building in detail and it is fitting and proper that he should be the interpreter of its ideal and purpose on this occasion.

The dedicatory services will begin at 10:00 o'clock on the morning of October 3d, and it is expected that they will be concluded by noon, following which there will be a formal inspection of the building. The dedicatory services will take place in the Whitley Auditorium with Prof. C. James Velie at the organ and the college choir rendering appropriate music.

It is hoped that a large company of friends who appreciate the place of Christian Education and of such a building as this as the center of it in college will be present for this outstanding event in the calendar of Elon history and life.

W. A. HARPER.

FROM ALABAMA.

Dear Bro. Editor.

I have been waiting for a "convenient" time to write an account of my work this year, and, like Felix, I find none. So here I come with some inconvenience—tired and time limited.

I serve the following churches this year: Mt. Zion, Pleasant Grove, Carver's Grove, and New Harmony. My work has been very pleasant and in all cases the work has made steady progress. I regret very much that circumstances make it such that I have to give up half of my work, due to being overloaded with other work. We need several capable and energetic young ministers another year very badly. Eight churches have tried to secure my services as pastor, and one congregation in a city where we have no church—Alexander City. I can serve but two. It seems a great opportunity is ours if we had the men.

We began our revival at Pleasant Grove on Saturday before the second Sunday in July. Rev. J. D. Dollar assisted us. We labored under great handicaps, there being much sickness and work in the community. But we had a great meeting. The people co-operated nobly, coming to church and working between times. Bro. Dollar was handicapped because of his eye trouble, but the Lord was with him and his plain and forceful gospel message met with success. It is always a pleasure to work with Bro. Dollar. Nine additions to the church was one of the visible results of this meeting. We have received fourteen members in all here this year—all promising young people and adults. The church has installed a new piano here this year and has a live Sunday School and Ladies' Aid Society. With the splendid talent and its renewed interest, the future prospects are very bright for this good old church.

Our next meeting was at New Harmony. Rev. J. E. Amerson assisted us there. We were having a great meeting with large crowds and splendid preaching, when the excessive rains forced us to close. But we are submissive to the will of Him who "sendeth the rain." The church here has had one adult addition to its membership this time. It has paid some old indebtedness and has a live Sunday School. The material as well as the spiritual welfare of the church seems much better than at the beginning of the year. The outlook here is also hopeful.

Due to continued rain, we did not begin our meeting at Mt. Zion until Monday after the first Sunday in August, but at the very first service a great interest was manifested, and this interest was still growing at the last service. Rev. H. M. Gray, of Lanett, did the preaching in his usual impressive manner. A great meeting was the result. Eleven united with the church. We have received thirteen since conference. The people here have almost completed a very beautiful remodeling job, costing near one thousand dollars. The church here has an evergreen Sunday School, Christian Endeavor, and Woman's Missionary Society. The prospects here, as elsewhere, are exceedingly bright for the future.

We began our meeting at Carver's Grove on Saturday before the third Sunday in August. Bro. Gray came Monday and did the remainder of the preaching. Bro. Amerson, who lives in the community, was also of great help. The crowds and interest grew with every service until the large house would not hold half the people. At some of the last services people came up in the door from the outside to testify. This also happened at some other places. Six united with the church, and we expect others later. This is our "baby" church of the Alabama Conference, and nowhere do I know of a more promising field. They have a fine Sunday School and a Christian Endeavor Society.

We could and should organize churches in four towns and cities right now within our limits, if we only had the men. We need an evangelist for full time work in our conference. May God send us some men.

Brethren, pray for us.

Roanoke, Ala.

W. C. CARPENTER.

ELMON L. GRAY.

The sudden death of Elmon Lee Gray at his home in Waverly, Virginia, at 7:30 P. M., Wednesday, August 25, 1926, was a tremendous shock to the town and community, and news of his death spread rapidly throughout Tidewater Virginia where he was well and favorably known as a prominent and successful business man, and as a captain of industry. He was stricken with paralysis in his home earlier in the day, just as he had invited his brother and a business friend to dinner, and lost consciousness in little more than an hour, from which he never rallied. Mr. Gray fully realized his condition, told his family and friends what had happened, and asked for his physician and for the absent members of his family, who rushed to his bedside. His death breaks the second link in a triangular chain of brotherhood and business partnership, the conspicuous success of which has been due largely to the discriminative intelligence of three brothers and their loyalty to each other. The Gray Lumber Company of Waverly is known throughout the entire East and South. The first break in this chain came with the sudden passing of the late John D. Gray, who died in 1923, and leaves alone Horace A. Gray, surviving partner.

Mr. Gray was in his 59th year and was born in Sussex County, Maryland, being the first child and oldest son of the late Alfred L. and Hester Elizabeth Gray. When about 18 years of age, Mr. Gray moved to Nansemond County, Virginia, where he launched out in the lumber business with his father and brothers. Later the brothers formed a partnership in Southampton County, Virginia, including operations in North Carolina, and still later moved to Sussex County, Virginia, where they have operated for the past thirty years. Mr. Gray was a man of keen perception in business, an dhis advice and counsel were frequently sought by his friends.

Many years ago Mr. Gray made a profession of the Christian faith. While he never united with any church, he was a warm friend and supporter of the Waverly Christian Church, of which his wife and son are members, and for a number of years taught a class in the Sunday School of that church.

He was public spirited, with a kind and sympathetic heart and did many acts of kindness for those in need, which were known only by a few of his closest friends.

In December 1889, Mr. Gray married Miss Ella V. Darden, Daughter of the late Dempsey L. and Alice M. Darden, of Nansemond County, Virginia, by whom he is survived, together with the only child and son, Garland Gray, and a grandson, little Elmon Taylor Gray. Also surviving are one sister, Mrs. P. Fleetwood, and one brother, Horace A. Gray, all of Waverly.

In his death his county and State have sustained a distinct loss and his sudden passing is greatly mourned by his family, his employees, and a host of other friends.

The funeral was conducted from his late residence in Waverly, on Friday afternoon, August 27th, and was attended by friends from this section and from Delaware. The services were conducted by Rev. Howard E. Truitt, pastor of the Waverly Christian Church, assisted by Rev. E. T. Cox of the Baptist Church. The Waverly Male Quartette sang in the home and at the grave. Burial was in the town cemetery.

Active pallbearers, chosen from among the employees of the Gray Lumber Company, were J. W. Council, H. E. Herbert, W. T. Rountree, A. C. Herbert, Jr., W. A. Raines, W. B. Webb, J. W. Bishop and C. C. Rawlings. Honorary pallbearers included J. H. Hamlet, Dr. J. E. Rawls, C. B. Harrell, Thos. H. Howerton, W.

H. Ford, H. Fleetwood, B. E. Livesay, W. E. Norris, W. T. Daniel, W. O. Rogers, L. E. Shipp, J. F. West, Jr., George A. Peek, Dr. L. O. Vaughan, H. K. Moyer, G. A. Harrison, Fred B. Ellis, Judge J. F. West, J. J. Little, James Mavor, J. E. Ferguson, Dr. H. G. Stoneham, P. Fleetwood, Jr., M. H. West, Wynn Crawford, M. D. Magee, J. H. Corbitt, Col. J. E. West, C. R. Dalton, A. A. Tuttle, Wm. B. Cocke, and C. J. Dennis.

PROGRAM
TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL SESSION OF THE
GEORGIA AND ALABAMA CHRISTIAN
CONFERENCE.

Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga.,
October 19, 20, 21, 1926.

First Day—Evening Session.
7:30 o'Clock.

Conference called to order by the President, Rev. H. M. Gray.
Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. S. D. Lankford.
Enrollment as follows: Ministers, Churches, Delegates.
Reading and adoption of program of the session.
The Annual Address, by Rev. H. M. Gray.
Election of officers and appointment of Special Committees.
Miscellaneous business.
Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.
8:30 o'Clock.

Conference called to order by the President.
Devotional Service by Rev. P. L. Duke.
Reading of minutes of previous session.
Report of Executive Committee: Revs. H. M. Gray, C. W. Hanson, H. W. Elder.
Address by Rev. H. W. Elder.
Report on Foreign Missions: Revs. C. W. Hanson, T. J. Dean, S. D. Lankford.
Address by Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
Report on Christian Endeavor: Miss Aylmer Goodwin, Miss Ethel Abell, Miss Mary Talley.
Address by Miss Mary Talley.
Report on Sunday Schools: Revs. A. B. Mann, C. L. Reese, Paul House.
Address by S. D. Lankford.
Ministerial and Church reports.
Sermon by Rev. C. W. Hanson, "Helping God at His Work."
Adjournment for dinner.

Second Day—Afternoon Session
1:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by A. H. Sheppard.
Reading of minutes of previous session.
Place of meeting of next annual session of conference.
Report on Moral Reform: Revs. P. L. Duke, W. D. Wilkinson, T. W. Gray.
Address by P. L. Duke.
Report on Religious Literature: Revs. W. T. Crowder, W. D. Wilkinson, E. J. Easterwood.
Address by the representative of The Christian Sun.
Report on Home Missions: Revs. H. W. Elder, C. W. Hanson, H. M. Gray.
Address by H. W. Elder.
Reports on Superannuation: Revs. A. H. Sheppard, A. B. Mann, H. M. Gray.
Adjournment for supper.

Second Day—Evening Session.
7:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by T. J. Dean.
Annual session of the Christian Missionary Association, Rev. H. W. Elder, President.
Organization.

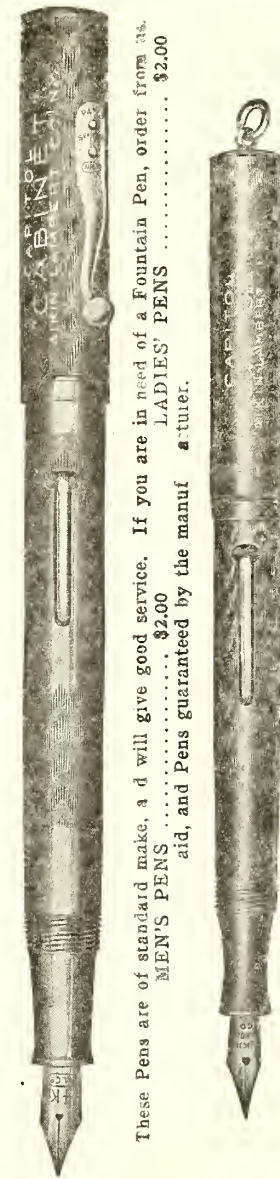

Regular order of business.
Address, "Our Orphanage," by Chas. D. Johnston.
Address, "Our Colleges," by Dr. Beougher, President of Bethlehem College.
Adjournment.

Third Day—Morning Session.
8:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by Rev. A. B. Mann.
Reading of minutes of previous session.
Report on Education: Revs. H. W. Elder, A. H. Sheppard, H. M. Gray.
Address by Rev. J. H. Dollar, Dean of Bethlehem College.
Report of Special Committees.
Bills against Conference.
Report of Treasurer.
Sermon by Rev. H. W. Elder.
Miscellaneous business.
Final adjournment.

Rev. G. D. Hunt writes that he has received $87.00 on his call through THE SUN some time ago for help in building a Church in Roanoke, Alabama. Work on the church building has begun, and he hopes to be able to pay all bills by January 1st, and if the weather remains favorable to have the building completed and dedicated on or before that day. Brother Hunt feels and we think justly that building a church in Roanoke will mean more to our Christian cause in the Alabama Conference than that of any other church building erected in that conference in the past fifty years.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

LIMITED COMBINATION OFFER.—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1526 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.

MEN'S PENS $2.00
LADIES' PENS $2.00
aid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

ANNUAL MISSION BOARD MEETING.

The Mission Board of the Southern Christian Convention met in Annual session at Suffolk, Va., on Wednesday, September 15th. The members present were: Lieutenant-Governor J. E. West, Chairman; W. W. Staley, D. D.; Rev. H. W. Elder, C. H. Rowland, D. D., J. A. Williams, G. O. Lankford, D. D., Mrs. L. L. Vaughan, Mrs. M. L. Bryant, and J. O. Atkinson, Executive Secretary. The report of the Secretary was a recapitulation of monthly reports for the past twelve month of funds collected and paid out, and results achieved. The report showed that there had been collected and turned over to the Treasurer of the Board a total of $36,593.25, for Home and Foreign Missions through the various agencies making contributions to Convention Missions as follows: Monthly collections from individuals and Sunday Schools and for the Emergency Fund, paid direct to the Secretary, $20,340.65; collections from conferences, $6,476.63. The above items, of course, do not include money raised and spent by conferences for Home Missions and church extension within their own borders, nor for money raised by Christian Missionary Associations and Societies doing local work.

There was also collected and turned over to the Treasurer $4,841.92 on Men and Millions. The report showed that the Board has paid out according to the Treasurer's report (R. W. Malone, Cashier First National Bank, Burlington, N. C., Treasurer) $20,986.77, for Home Missions and $18,155.62 for Foreign Missions, the difference in receipts and the amount paid out by the Treasurer accounted for balance carried over one year ago and for a loan that had to be negotiated to meet pressing demands. A goodly per cent of the amount paid out on Home Missions was to cover pledges and obligations already made by the Board in the form of indebtedness brought over accruing from five year pledges. In addition to these obligations the churches that were carried to completion and opened for service during the past year, were South Norfolk, Va., Rev. O. D. Poythress, pastor, and Richland, Ga., Rev. H. W. Elder, pastor. Both of these now have splendid plans and should come to be great assets and helps to all the enterprises of the Church. In Carroll County, Va., the building previously begun was completed and all out-standing bills were met. The work in Carroll County, including salaries and bills paid the past year, amounted to $5,651.79. We now have two splendid church and school buildings in Carroll County, equipped and paid for. They are a splendid contribution to a most needy and most appreciated enterprise.

The Secretary's report showed that there are still out-standing obligations already accrued to the amount of $14,575.00; and pledges made for the coming year of $3,500.00. These obligations are to home enterprises and do not count on current appropriations for the coming year. In face of these obligations the Board was unable to make any large appropriations for the coming year and only made appropriations necessary to carry on work already begun, and now looking to the Board for support until indebtedness is cancelled: Portsmouth, Va., Newport News, Va., Winchester, Va., Raleigh, N. C., Franklinton, N. C., Carroll County, Va., and North Alabama.

The Foreign Mission call is as pressing and as large and certainly as meritorious as the Home Mission enterprises, and the Board feels, as our conferences indicate from their appropriations, that we should give as much to Foreign as to Home Missions. On this account it will be seen that the $39,000.00 asked for through the Durham Convention, and which the Convention voted should be raised from the various sources. If this can be done, the coming year, the Board feels that it can again lift its head above the water and begin constructive work on a scale commensurate with that which gave such impetus to our work six or seven years ago. The Board realizes that a beginning has been made and that our people are willing to contribute as the needs and opportunities are presented to them. On this account the Board urges that the entire amount of $39,000.00 be raised for Missions the coming year, if possible, one-half to Home and one-half to Foreign Missions, except in certain designated funds called "Specials" already fixed for Home and foreign work. The Board voted that instead of taking two offerings during Mission period in that part of the calendar year assigned by the convention to Missions, namely: March, April, May and June, that one offering be taken, the returns to be equally divided between Home and Foreign Missions. A motion was unanimously adopted recommending that our Missionary groups or conferences send representatives to the Summer Missionary Conference at Blue Ridge, N. C., usually held the last of June and first of July; and that the Chautauqua Committee for the Elon and Bethlehem Chautauquas be requested to put in their programs at least two courses on Missions.

A rising vote of thanks was given to the women for their splendid co-operation and great work not only in making contributions of money, but of interest and enthusiasm to the Missionary work of the church in general. The Chairman, Hon. J. E. West, paid a glowing tribute to the women in their achievements in the past two years. Among those visiting the Board session were Mrs. J. A. Williams, President of the Woman's Board, Dr. I. W. Johnson, Secretary of the Convention, and Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, pastor of Suffolk Church. It was a pleasant and busy day. The Board felt that while something had been accomplished, greater efforts must be put forth and larger offerings made for Missions if we are to go forward in the work assigned us.

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

MAKING EDUCATION TRULY CHRISTIAN.

By DR. W. M. JAY.

There is no power wielded by the mind of man greater than the power of education; that power which unfolds the life of man, which elevates thrones and subdues kingdoms. Education is a power so great, so universal and so accessible to all in this day and time that it should also possess the one further and supreme virtue, that of being a Christian power. Can you, by any stretch of the imagination, conceive of a mightier union than that of education and Christian piety. The writer recently listened to a sermon by a famous preacher who without any question was abounding in the spirit and zeal of the Lord. You did not question the sincerity and the consecration of the preacher as you listened to his message, yet according to his own testimony he had never had more than six months schooling in his life, and that was after he was twenty years of age. He was an earnest student of the Bible, and he came to read and know his Bible by studying it till one or two o'clock at night after a ten hour day's labor with the section gang or in the lumber woods. You could but admire the earnestness, ambition and devotion of the speaker. His lack of an education and his inability to express what his soul felt was just as obvious as his zeal and devotion. His own humble plea before that large and intelligent audience was touching and to the point. "If God can take a poor, ignorant, humble mountaineer like me, and use me to his glory and honor, what could he do with you counting the fact that if it is to be a choice between all your intelligence?" There is no distinction between education and spirituality, one should by all means choose the latter. But why not choose both when both may readily be yours?

Educating the child has become the order of the day. The child expects it, the State requires it, and the church endorses it and aids to the same end. The public school system is the State paying its tribute and obligation to the child; while the church and State and private authorities sponsor colleges, universities, normals and schools of every description to further educate the grown-ups. Here you meet the student from the tender age of youth to the hoary head and wrinkled face. Thus the processes of education go on. All along this line of progress there are vantage points where the students are prone to say, "Here's where I will cease from my toil and study in the school room and will apply my fund of knowledge to the busy pursuits of life, some in one field of labor and some in another, while still others merely quit the school room.

As to the outcome of all these pursuits, some really succeed in varying degrees, and many fail. When it comes to assessing the causes of success or failure, we have to ask some very pertinent questions, as: How were you educated and prepared for your task in life? What influences were thrown around you during those days of preparation? What motives beat high in your breast for making use of your education? Was it the lure of financial income, the desire for rank and station, or was it that noble impulse to render the highest and best service of which you were capable, when duty called? The answer to these questions will throw great light upon why some folks fail and others succeed.

Education in itself is neither Christian nor non-Christian. Let me illustrate what I mean by this statement: You may give two boys the same opportunities for securing an education so far as the curriculum is concerned, and one will follow the purely mercenary pursuit of life, with selfish motives and self exaltation as the primary aims; and the other, having made a deliberate choice in life, will give himself in unselfish service and devotion to humanity's interests. Their curriculum may have been the same, their grades may have been the same, but there was a lack of sameness somewhere that accounts for the difference. The education that so unfolds the life as to prepare it for a life of unselfish service in the interests of mankind and for the glory of God, possesses marks of distinctly Christian character which an education that is merely mercenary does not possess.

Wherein lies the difference? It is not necessarily the kind of knowledge that makes it Christian, for Tom Paine and Bob Ingersoll were well versed in the Bible and the tenets of the church, but only for the purpose of refutation and denial. Many have schooled themselves in the Bible to their own condemnation. It was General Lew Wallace, the author of Ben Hur, that great religious story, who set about to acquaint himself with the Bible for the purpose of refuting its claims, only to be mastered by it and to become its great supporter. To be sure the very nature of the subject studied has its influence. A course in Religious Education or Theology should do the same, and as a matter of fact they do, for they are usually pursued from a sympathetic point of view. To pursue the same courses unsympathetically and for the purpose of argument and refutation would devoid them of anything that is Christian. I would maintain that it is the influences, ideals, motives and objectives that are distinctly Christian in character and which are ever held up before the boy and girl at home as well as at school and which he accepts as a part of his education that makes for a Christian education. There is a field of related subjects that are religious in their nature and content and therefore we have our distinctive field of religious or Christian education. But why should I not pursue a purely sociological course, or a scientific course, and have these same ideals and motives, to honor God and serve humanity, and at the same time call my education Christian? The fact is that art, literature and science are a part of a well rounded Christian Education. Let us conclude then that you can make an education Christian by using it in a Christian way and as a Christian should—that the education which a Christian has should be a Christian education—that in fact all education should be Christian and probably will be so regarded, when we can surround those being educated with Christian influences, hold up Christian character as the ideal of life, and imbue the mind and heart with motives and purposes that are unselfish and pure.

Elon College, N. C.

GOD'S LAWS NECESSITATE CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

BY REV. F. L. GIBBS, M. A.

There are so many of God's laws that it would take many volumes to treat such a broad subject. In this brief article let us think of only two of God's great laws. These two, the law of unity and the law of variation, cover a vast field.

Unity is God's first law. In the great plan of creation we recognize the law of unity. God added unit to unit until the whole of creation was established. The co-ordination and co-operation was so complete that the vast universe became, and now is, the complex working unit that is such a mystery to all who make an effort to study it as a whole or in parts.

This law of unity makes it necessary that we have Christian Education. In the final analysis isn't the life a unit with its component parts functioning and co-operating similar to the great component parts of the universe? What is Christian Education if it isn't the moulding the whole of this unitary life into a Christian unit? Our whole being must be so permeated by the Christian Spirit that it will become a working unit in the Kingdom of God. We can't have a part of our instincts Christianized and a part un-Christianized. "There is no such animal." Christian educators and others recognize this, since the purpose of Christian Education is to train the whole life into a oneness of Christian character.

Some have contended that there was such a thing as a religious instinct. We are glad that this conception has been changed by Christian psychologists and Christian educators. The conclusion now is that every instinct is basically religious. These instincts must be considered in the program of the Christian forces. Take for example the play instinct which was long neglected by the church. It was thought that the play instinct was of the devil, and was one of his instruments to defeat the work of the church. What a change! Today thousands are being ushered into the Kingdom through organized play, promoted in the plan of Christian Education in the church.

Show me a church that is merely making an effort to meet the need of the spiritual part of life and is neglecting the mental, social and physical, and I'll show you a church that is losing its grip on its youth. We cannot afford to remain in the dark on this all important point. We must recognize that no particular part of life is capable of being religious separate and distinct from the rest of life. Surely the law of unity necessitates Christian Education.

Let us go from the particular to the general. God within His great scheme of unity included the important law of variety. In creation, in nature and in human life, this is very obvious. This is especially true of the individual. There are no two alike. Christian Education has as its great purpose to administer to all the various stages of development in the individual life. If life is a unit made up of variety, and Christian Education cares for the variations in the whole life, then it follows that God's Law of Variation necessitates such a program that Christian educators advocate.

The child's life is a process of gradual change and development. The religious life of the child of twelve is very different from the religious life of a middle adolescent. These various stages can only be administered to properly through an effective program of Christian Education.

Finally, we must conclude that the law of variation necessitates Christian Education to administer to the various stages in the development of the Christian life; and that the idea involved in the law of unity necessitates a program of Christian Education with the ultimate purpose to bring the whole of the individual life into a unified Christian character.

Siler City, N. C.

A RECORD.

Thirty-five years! It doesn't seem so long, but it has been that long since I was first called to serve Beulah Church as pastor, and I have been pastor here all the while except two years, which time was filled by Revs. J. W. Elder and G. O. Lankford. My pastorate here has been pleasant, and I trust profitable.

I have preached approximately 700 sermons, have received to fellowship some 350 members, have baptized 250 persons. I have tried to be faithful in all my relationships to the church and the community. I have lived for twenty-four years right near the church, and have come to feel that the church is a part of me, and I a part of it. The people have been generous and kind to me, and I love and appreciate them. They have expressed a unanimous desire for me to remain as their pastor, but I feel that my work here should end with the conference year.

I trust they may secure a good shepherd, for the flock deserves one.

This church was organized about fifty years ago, and three of the charter members are still living. They are Sisters Lucy Gibson, E. H. Bailey and Lucattie Phillips. Many of the best citizens of this county have been and are now members of this old church. Almost all of our older members have gone to the glory world or moved to some other section of our country. Thus our ranks have been thinned. The church at Wadley was almost wholly composed of members of Beulah Church. This church has touched hundreds of lives, for she has sent out four ministers of the gospel, three of whom are still living and doing God's will. Five of her members are physicians and dentists, two have been admitted to the bar and are practicing law in our State. Quite a number have gone into the different parts of our country to teach school and to keep books. All of these have made good, without a single exception, so far as I know. Besides all of these, there is a large number who have remained here with us and have erected Christian homes and altars, in and around which their hearts are tuned to praise and bless God.

When we realize in how many ways the church touches life for good, we ought to take courage. It is some ordeal to leave such a people and such fellowship. May God lead them in all their attainments, and may their hope be realized, is the prayer of the retiring pastor.

G. D. HUNT.

TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION.

It is not fair! We do not like it! Well, let's be represented then. Where? At the next session of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference, which meets at the Webster Community Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., November 2nd. Why? Because we voted to go, and the folks are expecting us and will be much disappointed if we do not go. Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe asked that we let him know by October 15th how many we expect to attend. Let's do it. Don't forget it.

Another reason why every church should be represented: we are going to consider the action of the last session of the Southern Christian Convention as to enlarged giving. Is the extra amount really needed? Are our people able to raise it? Should we undertake to raise it as the convention asks us to do? Let each church speak through its chosen representative.

Let those who take THE CHRISTIAN SUN refer again to the articles by other members of the program committee, who have given directions as to getting to the Conference church.

If it means a sacrifice to attend, let's make it for His sake Whose we are and Whom we serve, and for the sake of the church which we love and whose mission we desire fulfilled.

W. D. HARWARD,

President and Chairman Program Committee.

THE PICTORIAL BIBLE

SELF-PRONOUNCING
With 4000 Questions and Answers.

The questions and answers are of great help in interesting young folks in the Bible.

With "Aids to Bible Study" being helps specially prepared for young readers.

Specimen of Type
23 Of the sons of Is'ra-el families: of Tola, the Jarr

5181

Large, clear type, with all Scripture proper names, divided into syllables and accented.

31 BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS—These beautiful full-page illustrations of scenes in Bible lands instruct as well as interest. Sixteen are colored and 15 are in sepia. Also has PRESENTATION PAGE.

REAL LEATHER BINDING—Bound in Genuine French Morocco Leather binding, with overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges with headband and bookmark. Size 7 1/4 x 5 1/2 inches. Weight 1 lb. 8 oz.

No. 5231. Our Price $3.25

OXFORD RED LETTER BIBLE

S. S. TEACHER'S EDITION

In this Oxford edition, all the Old Testament prophecies and the words of Jesus in the New Testament are printed in red.

Contains over 50,000 center column references and the famous Oxford S. S. Teacher's Helps. An exceptionally helpful and beautiful edition of the Scriptures. Notice the heavy, black-face type.

Specimen of Type
15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver the thou shalt glorify me.

05453

Bound in French Morocco leather, with overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. Has headbands and bookmarks and 16 beautifully colored maps, with indexed atlas.

No. 05453, Our Price $6.25

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS NOTES.

We wonder if this column of THE SUN is being read? We wonder if it is being read by those who especially should read it?

We especially entertain this wonder at this hour, for it seems a rather crucial hour for the Board of Religious Education.

Is the Board being taken as seriously as it should be? Is it recognized that the Board is responsible for a field of endeavor in the Convention which is a part of Christ's very own program? Christ said, "Teach."

Oh yes, it may be that the Board does not always go about this task in just the way it should, or at least in just the way you perhaps think it should. Do you always measure up to the ideas and wishes and plans of others?

Now we write after this fashion because the rumor has come to us that such is the case. We are given to understand that personal feelings are permitted to enter so intimately into this matter of support to our Boards that the support is withheld. We are given to understand that because of personal feelings, influential men in some of our conferences are using their influence to have the support of the churches of the conferences withheld from the Boards. Can this be true?

Let us see what is meant by this. And let us see what its effects will be.

For instance, because the Mission Board grants assistance to a church which has a program that does not meet with the approval of these men, they would endeavor to use their influence to prevent the churches of their conferences from giving financial support to the Mission Board. Or because the Board of Religious Education has associated with it a party whose opinions these men do not admire or approve, or whose character they do not relish, they would use their influence to have the churches of their conferences withhold financial support from the Board. Now as we understand it, this is what is meant. Now let us see what its effects are.

Well, in the first place it means the impairment of the usefulness of the Board. And yet our Convention created these Boards and created them to function in very much needed fields of labor. In the second place it means the crucifixion of innocent and well intentioned men who serve on these Boards. It is a terrible thing for a church to elect a man to a place of responsibility and place on his shoulders and upon his heart the burden of that office, and then to lift him into the air on a cross of indifference, of neglect, and of personal prejudice.

We have written severely, but we feel we have written frankly and truthfully. And we feel we are called upon to write so, for the situation the Board of Religious Education faces is most serious. We have just had to make another loan to meet our current expenses. This cannot continue. And yet we are informed from several sources that it is not worth while to make a call in certain conferences for support for our Board. We are informed it will not meet with response and for the reasons stated. If this is the real state of affairs, we would humbly require, "What are we to do?"

Now next Sunday is the Sunday designated as Rally Day in the Southern Convention, and the day on which the Board of Religious Education is to receive an offering for its expenses. If this

(Continued on page 11.)

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

LESSON I.—OCTOBER 3, 1926.

"ISRAEL JOURNEYING TOWARD CANAAN."

GOLDEN TEXT: "Come thou with us, and we will do thee good."—Numbers 10: 29.

LESSON: Numbers 10: 11-36.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 34: 1-8.

It had been good for the children of Israel to be at Sinai, for they had received the law there and had learned the fundamental principles of personal and social righteousness. But they could not remain there. God had other purposes for them. He wanted to lead them from law into the land of promise; He wanted to lead them from law to grace. The time for an advance had come. Jehovah had commanded the people to go forward. The cloud was taken up from the tabernacle of the testimony. The principle holds good today. The child should learn obedience even if it is the obedience of the details of law. But he should not remain here. He should go on to learn obedience to properly constituted authority, and obedience through love. The young Christian should obey specific rules of conduct rather than not to be obedient to any law, but he should go on to the place where he is governed by the law of love.

The people had come out of Egypt an unorganized mob. They leave Sinai a more or less well drilled army. Each group was organized and each had its standard which went before it. It was all in keeping with the method of God. He brought order out of chaos at the Creation and He has been bringing order out of chaos ever since. Paul said let all things be done decently and in order. God is not a God of confusion, but of order and discipline.

An Appeal to Selfish Interests.

"And Moses said unto Hobab, Come with us and we will do thee good." It was an appeal to self-interest. The emphasis was upon what Hobab was going to get out of it. It was, of course, legitimate, and it had a powerful appeal as does every appeal to self-interest, for after all selfishness is the most strongly entrenched force in human life. But here was one fellow living in that far off day who was above this appeal. There may have been selfishness in his refusal to go. He might have preferred to remain in his own home community rather than to go off on a wandering hike with a group who, although they were on their way, did not exactly know where they were going. "Not for me," says Hobab. I am going to stay where I am.

Let it be said in all honesty that there is a certain legitimacy in this appeal. A good test of our lives might be whether we can really do people good who go with us. Every Sunday School boy or girl, every adult, every officer and teacher might well look quietly into his life to see if he really is able to do good unto those who go with him. And, of course, there is this appeal in religion. It does do a man good. There is nothing in all the world comparable to religion when it comes to "doing people good." It is profitable unto all things, having the promise

(Continued on page 11.)

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

OCTOBER 3, 1926.

"WHAT IS EDUCATION?"

(Consecration Meeting)

TOPIC: "What is Education? How Get It? How Use It?"—Rom. 12: 1-3; II Tim. 2: 15.

What Is Education?

The word education is derived from the Latin words ex and duco, out and lead. So the idea that education is cramming something into the brain is wrong entirely. It is drawing something out that is there at least in embryo. Education is the drawing out or developing of the innate powers that are within us, the development of our personality. One may know all books and not be educated. Many persons have been educated in the school of experience alone. It is a thorough school, but a very expensive one.

Education is based on the spirit of inquiry—curiosity—wholesome discontent. Man asks questions about this wonderful world, and gets an education trying to answer them. Man becomes discontented with his position in life, and he gains an education in his attempt to better his position and that of his fellow man. When we stop asking questions we decay. The pig in his wallow is a most wonderful example of contentment.

How Get Education.

We who are fortunate enough, go to school or college for our education. But these institutions can only give us a start. It is life and human activity that educate us best—and the price is sometimes high.

How Use Education.

The man who uses his education for his own selfish ends is worse than the miser who hoards his money. Education is for service, and we, if we want to get the most out of it, must use it for others. We must use it to do good work and to help make the world a better world in which to live.

Some Bible Hints.

To gain education we must give ourselves wholly to it and pursue it with unswerving aim. (V. 1.)

The attractions of the world must not lure the youth who wishes to attain an education. There is no easy way to it. (V. 2.)

Humility is necessary; a willingness to find the facts and follow them wherever they lead. (V. 3.)

Education is gained by thoroughness in study. Half knowledge is a dangerous thing. Master your subjects. (V. 15.)

To Think About.

What are we going to do with our lives?

What means of education are open to us?

How may we get a university-extension course?

"Education does not mean teaching people what they do not know. It is teaching them to behave as they do not behave. It is not teaching youth the shapes of letters and the tricks of numbers, and then leaving them to turn their arithmetic and their literature to lust. I means, on the contrary, training them into the perfect exercise and kingly continence of their bodies and souls."—Ruskin.

The Christian home is the basic institution of our civilization. The home must co-operate with the church, the Sunday School, Christian Endeavor, missions, our colleges, else these causes must suffer. The home is the fountain whence must flow every good, money for our church enterprises and young life to keep them going forward. We should be glad to make our homes Christian, because they will make everything else Christian.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

(Continued from page 10.)

of the life that now is and of the life to come.

But this appeal has been overworked. The explanation of the fact that so many have a selfish form of religion lies just here. The emphasis has been on the personal salvation which the believer enjoys in Christ. "That will be glory for me," sums up the philosophy of all too many Christians. I am saved, let the rest of the world go by, is an attitude too often characteristic of Christians, either consciously or unconsciously.

An Appeal to Service.

"And he said, Leave us not, I pray thee; forasmuch as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou mayest be to us instead of eyes." Ah here is another kind of appeal. Moses says in so many words, "We are here in the midst of the wilderness. There are strange paths to be traversed. There are enemies lying in wait. We know not how to go or what to do. You are familiar with this section. You know it like a book. You can be of incalculable service to us. Come with us, we need you."

There was something in this appeal that won Hobab. The fact that a later reference shows that Hobab's descendants were in Canaan would indicate that he went with the Israelites and was unto them "as eyes." It is true to life and as it should be. After all what is the strongest appeal which religion has for red-blooded men and women? Is it that it will do them good? or is it that it will help them to meet the needs of others? Perhaps the answer is both. But certainly there is a place for emphasis on the latter. We are living in a world that has many "wildernesses." There are many desert places and enemies. The Church of God is on the march and it is trying to reach and to develop as well a land of promise. In this mighty movement toward a better manhood and social righteousness, it needs every man and woman, every boy and girl. It is true that if men and women enlist it will do them good. But over and above any selfish advantage there will come the opportunity to be of service to others. Let this principle be applied to the school life, to the business life, to the religious life. Let the appeal be to the needs of others and the challenge to service.

(Continued from page 10.)

offering is not generous, we cannot see our way. But here is what we have on our heart, and it goes out to every pastor and every Sunday School superintendent of the Southern Convention winged on prayer. Here it is.

Go to your knees and with faith in a prayer-answering God ask Him for guidance in this matter. If He tells you not to take an offering, we have nothing more to say. If He tells you to take the offering, then there is only one thing to do.

J. H. LIGHTBOURNE.

NOTICE.

The Eastern Virginia Woman's Missionary Conference will meet in annual session on Friday, October 15th, with the Bethlehem Christian Church, Nansemond County, Va.

All societies are urged to have a full report of the year's work in the hands of the treasurer, Mrs. W. V. Leathers, Holland, Va., not later than September 30th.

Begin thinking of your delegates now. Churches without societies are requested to send representatives.

MRS. L. W. STAGG,
Secretary.

400 W. 34th Street,
Norfolk, Va.

A Great Background Book

LANDMARKS in the STRUGGLE BETWEEN SCIENCE and RELIGION

by Professor J. Y. Simpson, M.A.,
D.Sc., F.R.S.E.

This book sets the present day controversy in its right historical setting. It is a survey of an age-long contest between truth and superstition. It makes religion as well as science a living, dynamic thing.

$2.00

DORAN BOOKS

TWENTY years ago Professor David Smith wrote "In The Days of His Flesh." For twenty years it has headed the list of books on Christ.

Now he has written:

OUR LORD'S EARTHLY LIFE

ANOTHER rich tribute to the Lord he loves. Characterized by mature scholarship and a marked humanist strain, this book has instantly gripped the hearts of readers.

$3.00

DORAN BOOKS

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

No. 04453

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7 1/4 x 5 x 1 3/8 inches.

Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35

(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)
Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.

(Weight 13 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25

Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 x 1 1/2 inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jê-hôî-â-kim gave th silver and the gold to Phâr'-aôh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50

(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1 1/2 inches thick.

(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

IDEALS AND ATTITUDES FOR EVERY DAY.

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."—
Lev. 19: 18.

"I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done unto you."—Jno. 13: 14-15.

The teachings and spirit of Jesus clearly show that the effective force for the accomplishment and safeguarding of ideals and righteousness and the Kingdom of God within us is the harmonizing of differences between us and our relations and environments, and the overcoming of evil and emanating the spirit of good will to all. Jesus was consistently animated by this principle, and He vindicated the life of love and service in spite and in the face of every circumstance, favorable or unfavorable, and it mattered not how unfavorable. His constant emphasis on forgiveness and charges to love enemies, and His prayer on the cross, "Father forgive them," is the climax of such an example.

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, we desire to be the embodiment of Christian love as far as it is possible for us to be. Help us to see the way and love even as Thou hast loved us, and to trust in Thee. All will be well and we will give Thee the praise. Amen.

TUESDAY.

THINKING.

"Think on these things."—Phil. 4: 8.

Paul urges us to look for the things that are true, and honest, and just; pure and lovely, and good, and think on these, lest thinking on evil or unprofitable things, we shall miss the mark and be lost. We, without fail, become most like what we think about.

Did you ever think? Try sitting down in your room, all alone and think for thirty minutes. A son was once a bit obstreperous towards his father and showed thoughtless ingratitude. The father said, "Son think. Go to your room, lock the door, sit down and think. Think thirty minutes. When the time is up, come out." He obeyed. At first he could think of nothing. Finally he forced himself to think of something, and his father came in mind. He thought on his father: that he was older, that he was good, that he was respected in the community, etc. When he thought thirty minutes was up, he looked at the time, and he had been there only ten minutes. "O Gee," how could he ever think for twenty minutes, but he tried and he thought on his ways and of some great men that were more or less heroes to him and how he would like to be like them, etc., and he became lost in his thoughts, only to find that more than his time had expired and he came out with a fired ambition to be something great in life. "I thought on my ways and turned my feet," said the Psalmist. I believe that many, perhaps a majority of folks never stop to think at all, just drift, take things as they come, and act impulsively, therefore without purpose of mine and too desultory. Take time to be alone a while each day and do some real thinking.

Prayer.—Father of us all, whatever we have received, or whatever we have heard, or whatever we have seen, or whatever we know to be good, impel us by Thy Spirit to think on these things and shine for the Master. In His name. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

DEMANDS OF THE SPIRIT OF CHRIST.

"Thy righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, and Thy law is truth."—Ps. 119: 142.

"Put on the new man, which after God hath been created in righteousness and holiness of truth."—Eph. 4: 23-24.

All Christians are not only compelled to confess and acknowledge Him, but to voice their protest against evil and sin. They are called upon to go further still—to point out to others precisely what the spirit of Christ is and demands of us all, and to try to embody that spirit themselves.

For the attainment of this we must be controlled not by our personal good but by the spirit of the mutual good of the community and all with whom we come in contact.

The Kingdom of God in relation to our homes, our families, our communities, must be established, and we who are God's only forces for the community or for the world, must unite in the noble adventure of faith and a fixed and steady purposes.

Prayer.—Our Father, bless us with pure motives, high and noble purposes, and fix our whole lives on Thee.

Lord's prayer in unison.

THURSDAY.

THE BUILDERS.

"Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth consume, and where thieves do not break through and steal."—
Matt. 6: 20.

"Build up yourselves on your most holy faith."—
Jude 20.

"Ye . . . are built up a spiritual house . . . acceptable to God by Jesus Christ."—I Peter 2:5.

THE BUILDERS.

"All are architects of Fate,
Working in these walls of Time;
Some with massive deeds and great,
Some with ornaments of rhyme.

"Nothing useless is, or low;
Each thing in its place is best;
And what seems but idle show
Strengthens and supports the rest.

"For the structure that we raise,
Time is with materials filled;
Our todays and yesterdays
Are the blocks with which we build.

"Truly shape and fashion these;
Leave no yawning gaps between;
Think not, because no man sees,
Such things will remain unseen.

"Let us do our work as well,
Both the unseen and the seen;
Make the house where gods may dwell
Beautiful, entire, and clean.

"Else our lives are incomplete,
Standing in these walls of Time,
Broken stairways, where the feet
Slumber, as they seek to climb.

"Build today, then, strong and sure,
With a firm and ample base;

And ascending and secure
Shall tomorrow find its place.

"Thus alone can we attain
To those turrets, where the eye
Sees the world as one vast plain,
And one boundless reach of sky."

Prayer.—Dear heavenly Father, we come to Thee who art able to build us up unto a perfect man. Make us true builders of the material of life, so we may be used of Thee and win the inheritance among them which are sanctified. Amen.

FRIDAY.

LESSON: John 10: 1-11.

THE LIFE THAT JESUS GIVES.

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

Jesus came to increase the dimensions of life! First, He increased its length by making it endless. "This is life eternal, that they might know Thee and Jesus Christ Whom Thou hast sent." Instead of a span, life is an eternity.

Jesus came to broaden life. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." The lines of division were to be eliminated, and self begins to take in all humanity. "Make disciples of all nations" was prophetic of the widening waves of interest. The family is the whole household of God, and the nation fades out as we think of the parliament of man.

Jesus came to deepen life; from the shallow life of the flesh to the deeper life of the spirit; from pleasure-seeking to soul-seeking; from idle gossip to world concerns. Jesus solemnized life by showing its possibilities, its responsibilities, and its destinies.

Lord's Prayer—all joining.

SATURDAY.

ONE THOUGHT TODAY.

"Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."—Matt. 6: 33.

"To thine own self be true, and it must follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."—Shakespeare.

Prayer.—Dear Father, whatever each day may bring to us of life, give us the spirit, the grace, and the courage to bring to it all that we can. Then when the day is gone, we may say "well done," because we have done our best. Amen.

SUNDAY.

WALKING IN HIS PATH.

LESSON: Isa. 2: 1-5.

"He will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths."

The religion of the Sabbath day is one fact and struggle to do that. How will you spend it?

Jesus produced the Gospel of "I am the way," and the ethical content of His message was to "follow me."

We may go to the church and worship, but if it ends there we are no more than the "temple traders." For such is no more honest, no more amiable, no more generous, no more self-controlled than if one had never gone. A child once said to its father, "Daddie, is the sermon done?" "No, my son," said the wise father, "it is said, but not done." Doing Christianity is our path every day, and Christ has shown us the way.

Prayer.—Dear Father, may our lives show forth His beauty; our lips speak His praise, and what we do each day make faith more beautiful. Lead us into Thy plain paths and Thy more excellent ways. This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

We have had two things that have kept us occupied for the last week: Cutting, curing and putting up hay has made it very busy for us for ten days. Our hay crop is fine this year, and the weather has been ideal to cut and cure it. The ground dry and hot beneath and the hot sunshine above it has made it dry in a hurry. We have succeeded in putting up something like sixty-five thousand pounds in the last two weeks. All of it is soy beans and makes the best feed for milch cows we know. Now comes the cutting of our corn crop. Another hard job, but the boys are good workers and will stick to it till the last bundle is shocked.

Our graded school opened this week, and there are one hundred and ten children to get off to school. Books, tablets, and pencils, and many other things that go in the work. Old books patched up and new books to buy, takes time, patience and a good deal of energy to handle the situation; but where we can use old books on hand, we save buying a new book. But a little fellow is certainly happy to get a new book. I believe they would be glad if books were changed every year, so that they could get new books. They look so clean and nice. The children look about as happy as I used to fifty years ago when my father bought me a new pair of shoes in the fall of the year, with copper toes. They looked mighty good to me, and I was happy to get them.

The fall of the year will soon be here and it takes coats, wraps, shoes, stockings, and many other things for the winter. How many Ladies' Aid Societies, Missionary Societies, and other societies want to make up a box and send us. A hint to the good women will be sufficient. We feel sure we will receive many boxes, filled with useful articles.

Who wants to donate the range for our New Building? We cannot open the building till we get the range. It will cost $160.00. Who?

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER 23, 1926.

Brought forward$ 18,403.08

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:

Mt Zion	$ 1.37
New Lebanon	2.00
New Lebanon Baracca Class	2.00
Pleasant Grove	7.93
Durham Sunday School	14.70
First Sunday School, Greensboro ..	13.89
Elon Church	5.00
Palm Street Church, Greensboro ..	6.88
<hr/>
	53.77

Western North Carolina Conference:

Shiloh	$ 1.60
Needham's Grove80
Randleman	3.17
<hr/>
	5.57

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Shallow Well	$ 1.74
Wentworth	12.00
Piney Plains	8.25
Mt. Auburn	5.19
Christian Chapel	4.53
Liberty	1.57
Mebane	1.25
Catawba Springs	9.20
<hr/>
	43.73

Eastern Virginia Conference:
First Church, Norfolk	$ 7.67
Wakefield	3.48
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth	6.93
Berea, Nausemond	10.00
<hr/>
	29.63
Valley Virginia Conference:
High Point	$ 2.25
Timber Ridge	2.80
Winchester	5.61
<hr/>
	10.66
Alabama Conference:
Mt. Zion	1.20
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Ambrose	$ 1.52
Lanett	7.00
<hr/>
	8.52
Northern Sunday Schools:
Pleasant Hill Ohio	4.87
Special Offerings:
Boone Bible Class, Sanford, N. C. ..	$ 15.00
Lawrence S. Holt, endowment	150.00
E. M. Davenport, support of children	37.50
<hr/>
	202.50
New Building Fund:
S. A. Horne	$ 10.00
J. A. Truitt	20.00
<hr/>
	30.00
<hr/>
Total for the week	$ 390.45
<hr/>
Grand total	$ 18,793.53

EAST LA GRANGE, GA.

We are always glad to have a good report to make of the work of Christ, especially where there is interest shown. You will surely feel glad with me for this Christian Endeavor.

I always go to church wherever I am. So while in La Grange, Ga., on business and visiting, too, the first of August, I was afforded an opportunity of visiting East La Grange Christian Church. I wish I could have made a visit to our other Christian Church there.

The first Sunday in August I went to Sunday School and preaching at East La Grange. As it was raining, not many were present for the morning service. But friends, you could tell that Christ was there in the midst of the few, just as He said He would be. There was much interest shown, with good talks and a sermon.

I was very much impressed with the Christian Endeavor service, seeing so many young people there interested. It indeed gave me much pleasure to meet with them. The many splendid young friends present seemed to be very much interested and to have the real Christian Endeavor Spirit—eager to learn more about the work. I tried to emphasize the importance of Christian Endeavor in training new leaders for Christian service. Then I emphasized the value of our Summer School of Christian Education. I insisted that they send some one from their church.

The young people who were elected as officers seem very capable of filling their places. Mr. W. M. Crowder is due much credit for this work. He stands behind the young people, with prayer and a strong arm of help. He stands on the firm foundation regardless of disappointments and other things that come in the way.

And friends, we have got to keep praying and working and toiling on, if we ever accomplish anything worth while. God has promised us the blessing if we work for it. "We must work while it is day, for the night cometh when no man can work." May we ever be about our Father's business.

MISS SIDDIE LATHAM.

Linville, Ala.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim..... 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined..... 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St.,

Richmond Va.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT, Editor.

PLAYING COLUMBUS.

Mac and Paula found one drawback to their new home in the Michigan woods. It was lonesome. There was only one other family of children there, the Peppers, and they lived on the other side of the pond.

Every day they grew more lonesome and found it harder and harder to know what to play next. Then came Columbus Day, the twelfth of October, and they decided to have a picnic in celebration of the discovery of America. Mother packed a basket of lunch.

"But a picnic with just two of us isn't much fun," said Mac.

"Why not take your lunch out on the pond and pretend you are Columbus yourself?" suggested mother.

At the pond they boarded the little sailing raft and with the paddles they pushed off into the water. Never before had they gone far from their own shore, but today a strong wind was blowing at their backs, and almost before they knew it they had sailed across to the other side.

"Come," said Mac, "we must go ashore and take possession of this land in the name of our queen." He put one foot on the ground and then hastily drew it back to the raft.

Paula's heart leaped to her throat. There, slinking through the trees in the distance she saw four Indians! To be sure, Columbus had seen Indians when he landed. "But we aren't really Columbus," she thought. "Let's go home," she whispered.

Mac had evidently thought of that himself, and he began trying to push the raft back into the water. But the wind that had helped them coming over was now against them, and it blew harder than ever. "I can't make the ship go," said Mac at last.

"I wish we'd stayed at home for our picnic," Paula was most in tears.

Then Mac had an idea. He laid down his paddle and picked up the basket of lunch. "Columbus met the Indians with gifts," he said to Paula. "I'm going to make friends with these red men, even if I have to give them every bit of our lunch."

Paula did not care to make friends with savages, but she cared even less to be left on the raft alone, so she trailed her brother. When the four Indians saw them coming ashore they began whooping and leaping.

"Oh, let's not go," said Paula, laying hold of Mac, "I'm scared."

But Mac moved forward as bravely as Columbus himself. When they came closer to the Indians he held out his basket of lunch. Then to their surprise they saw that the Indians were neither big nor powerful, but looked just like children all painted and fixed like Indians!

Suddenly they fell on their knees before Mac, crying "Hail, great white chief." Then Paula laughed, for she saw that they were not Indians, but the Pepper children, who lived in the woods beyond the pond.

"But how did you think of playing Columbus, too?" asked Mac, when the children had sat down on the ground to divide their lunch.

"Well," said Lucia Pepper as she took off her big feathered headband, "it's Discovery Day, and we wanted to discover something, so Tom suggested we discover our new neighbors. We telephoned for you to come down to the pond, and your mother said that you were already on your way—that you were playing Columbus. So we thought it would be fun to put on our old Indian suits and play we were the natives Columbus found."

"It was a tiptop idea," said Mac, but I was pretty scared for a little while."

"So was I," said Paula. "I never knew before what a brave man Columbus must have been."—Catha Wells in Youth's Companion.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

OBITUARIES.

STRADER.

Mrs. Tempie Anne Strader departed this life on July 28, 1926, being at the time of her going a little more than 76 years of age. Mrs. Strader was the daughter of Col. F. W. Fonville, a prominent and useful citizen of this section of North Carolina, and the relict of the late Adam Strader of Alamance County. Four children survive: Frank J., Jerry D., Thomas H., and Vera, all of Burlington, N. C.

Mrs. Strader was a most faithful member of the Burlington Christian Church and was always interested in the affairs of the Kingdom. As long as she was able, she was regular in her attendance upon the services of the church and found great joy in the same. One of the marked characteristics of her Christian life was her unquestioned faith in prayer as touching all the activities of her life. It was her custom to pray and then wait expectantly for the answer. She was one of the most devoted mothers it has been the writer's privilege to know. Her children "rise up and call her blessed" as they look forward to meeting her in the land of the "unsettling sun."

Funeral services were held from the Burlington Church by her pastor, the writer, assisted by Dr. P. H. Fleming. Interment at Long's Chapel Christian Church by the side of her husband. May she rest in peace until the day shall dawn and the shadows flee away.

G. O. LANKFORD.

COGHILL.

Johnathan Fuller Coghill, an aged and highly respected citizen of Vance County, N. C., died September 1, 1926, in his 85th year.

He and Miss Zulieka Fuller were united in marriage on December 19, 1866. To them were born eight children. His wife and five children survive him.

In early life he confessed Christ and united with the Christian Church of which church he was a member when death came. He was the leading spirit and financier in the organization and erection of the church which bears his name, Fuller's Chapel.

He was a Confederate veteran, having served four years in the war between the States. At the close of the war, he returned home to build up his home, his church, his country. He labored long, faithfully and successfully. Fuller's Chapel stands as a monument to his loyalty, zeal and steadfastness.

He loved his God, his church, his family and his friends. A good man, husband, father, friend, neighbor and citizen has been called from labor to reward. The funeral services were conducted from Fuller's Chapel Christian Church by the writer, assisted by Rev. Brother Ballard. The interment was in the family burying ground near the church he loved so well.

P. H. FLEMING.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, our heavenly Father in His

Almighty wisdom has removed from our midst Mrs. S. W. Pierce, the beloved wife of one of our faithful Deacons, Brother S. W. Pierce, and

Whereas, in her death this church has suffered the loss of one of her most faithful and devout members, her husband a loving companion and her children a devoted mother.

Therefore, be it resolved:

First. That we bow in humble submission to the will of our heavenly Father who doeth all things well.

Second. That such a life from our midst leaves a vacancy and shadow that will be deeply realized by those whom she has loved and helped.

Third. That with deepest sympathy to the bereaved family, we commend them to the Lord who will comfort and heal their wounded hearts and when the summons comes may they all meet in an unbroken circle around God's throne.

Fourth. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy be spread upon the minutes of the church and a copy be sent to The Christian Sun.

OFFICIAL BOARD
FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH,
E. H. EVERTON,
Secretary.

Adopted Sept. 8, 1926,
Norfolk, Va.

That they may carry on

Look into the face of your boy or girl.

There's fine stuff there—that lift of the head is pride—there is intelligence in the level eyes.

A man or woman of the South—in the making.

Our children live in a day of high pressure. The South has taken its place in the front ranks of industry. Modern methods of manufacture, scientific farming, improved transportation—all are factors in building the industrial South. This development brings with it many changes in our customs and habits.

But we must hold fast to the idealism of the Old South—the ideal of useful and intelligent citizenship. The children must carry it on.

This is primarily a matter of education.

The average year's pay of teachers in elementary and secondary schools in the states of the South served by the Southern is only $637. Southern Railway System, which pays three million dollars per annum in school taxes, ventures to express the view that greater material rewards should be enjoyed by the men and women upon whom rests the responsibility of teaching the children of the South.

"—knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

From the Constitution of the state of North Carolina.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year $ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances to "The Christian Sun," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Virginia.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

HOLLAND.

Mary A. Holland, widow of the late William H. Holland, was born in Nansmond County, June 23, 1859, and died in Norfolk, Va., August 19, 1926, aged 67 years, 1 month and 27 days. She was the daughter of Frederick and Mary A. Holland.

She is survived by five children, Fred. C. Holland of Suffolk, J. Dudley Holland of Norfolk, Mrs. O. D. King of Suffolk, Mrs. S. W. Johnson and Mrs. Stafford Pooshe of Norfolk; eight grand children; one brother, Charlie H. Holland, and two sisters, Mrs. J. L. Rawls and Mrs. Eitta Austin of the County.

She was a faithful member of Bethlehem Christian Church where the burial service was conducted. The pastor was assisted in the service by Drs. W. W. Staley and I. W. Johnson. Interment in the church cemetery.

The Lord bless those who are bereaved in the going of this devoted Christian, loving mother, sister and friend.

W. D. HARWARD.

MITCHELL.

Mrs. Martha Mobley Mitchell was born in Rockingham County, September 10, 1862, and departed this life September 11, 1926, at the age of sixty-four years. She was married to Mr. W. J. Mitchell September 13, 1879, and was the mother of twelve children, four of these having died in infancy and eight of them survive her, five girls and three boys. Sister Mitchell was a devoted Christian, having embraced the religion of our Lord Jesus Christ early in youth, and was a faithful and loyal member of the Christian Church at Reidsville until her death. Her funeral was conducted from the church, on Sunday afternoon, September 12th, by the pastor, after which her body was laid to rest in the family cemetery near Leaksville. No higher testimonial could be given than that of her friends regarding her Christian character.

R. A. WHITTEN.

GRAY.

Mr. Elmore Lee Gray, one of the outstanding citizens of Waverly, Va., died on August 25, 1926, at his home in Waverly. He was born October 21, 1867, near Frankford, Sussex County, Delaware. He came to Virginia in 1883, and since that time was engaged in the lumber business. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Ella Virginia Darden, also a son, Garland, and one grandson, Elmore Thomas Gray. Funeral services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. E. T. Cox of the Baptist Church.

H. E. TRUITT.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria

Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address

THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter. 28 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

Size, 5 3/4 x 3 1/2 inches. With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Our Price—Post Paid. 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautiful Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid. 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc. Our Price—Post Paid. 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid. 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearcut Print in Smallest Size 4 1/8 x 2 3/4 x 1 1/8 inches

Specimen of Type AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115P. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2314. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With all the words of our Lord printed in red. 13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $85

15RL. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1926.

NUMBER 39.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

A New Fuel.—

In Rochester, N. Y., experiments have been made with liquid tar as a fuel. The experiments have proved most satisfactory. It is smokeless and may prove an economical fuel for small factories and homes. If so it will conserve the coal supply of the country, which experts believe to be rapidly being used up.

Dr. and Mrs. Speer Visit the Orient.—

Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Speer have sailed for a five months' tour of the Orient. Dr. Speer is Senior Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, and will give his time to the mission centers of that church. Mrs. Speer, as President of the American Y. W. C. A., will devote her attention to the work of that organization in China, Japan and the Philippines.

Science Again Blesses.—

After a series of successful tests by physicians, a new drug, "Germanin," has been announced. It is a coal-tar product developed in Germany, and is said to kill all malarial germs. If the claims for germanin are well founded, then the human race has been greatly blessed again through science. Malarial diseases are wide spread, and many nations are deplorably backward because of it. This new drug, by destroying the germs, will relieve the situation.

Moravians Sell Trading Rights.—

The Moravian church has sold the Labrador trading rights which it has held since 1771 to the Hudson's Bay Company. The Moravians will continue their mission work in that lonely land, but their withdrawal from the commercial field deprives them of the income by which much of their mission work was supported. This withdrawal leaves the trade of Labrador almost entirely in the hands of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Who Wrote the Fourth Gospel?—

The London Spectator has stirred up quite a deal of debate in the columns of this London weekly, when it published a suggestion from Dr. W. K. Fleming that Lazarus was the author of the Fourth Gospel instead of John as most have supposed. The idea has been brought out before, but the thing which makes it significant now is that the public which has become interested in religious thought, has also become interested in the technical side of the scriptures as well.

Have You Your Share?—

According to an announcement of the Treasury Department, there was enough money in circulation that had it been equally divided, every man, woman and child of America's 115,641,000 people should have had forty-two dollars and one cent each. This means that the average American should have had more money on August 1st, than at any time since November 1, 1920. He had then $52.36. On November 1, 1920, there was more money per capita in circulation than at any time before or since in American history. The above figures mean that on August 1st of this year, the amount of money in circulation totaled $4,858,473,503, while the total stock of money in the United States was $8,399,076,061.

Cigarettes.—

According to statistics nearly eighty billion cigarettes were made in the United States during 1925. This means that those who smoke cigarettes smoked four billion more than during the previous year, or else that new cigarette smokers were made to consume the extra supply. This means that nearly six hundred million dollars were spent for cigarettes during 1925. The situation is indeed a grave one.

A Remembered Vow.—

Four hundred years ago King Charles VII of France vowed that he would build a church in memory of Joan of Arc, if she succeeded in driving the English out of France. She succeeded, but Charles forgot his vow. France remembered, and the Roman Catholic Church made Joan a saint. Four hundred years have passed, and now the little town of Domremy where this peasant girl was born is gay with flags and bunting during the celebration of the dedication of this church to Saint Joan. The church has been thirty-three years in the building, but it is finished now. So France has remembered the vow of its weak king, and made good to this girl who saved her native France four centuries ago.

Germany Enters the League.—

On the third day of the present session of the League of Nations, Germany was admitted to the league and to a permanent seat on the Council. This action of the League caused both Brazil and Spain to withdraw from the League, while the Pilsudski upheaval in Poland has caused that country to be of no help or hindrance to it. Germany has had made good to her the promises of the Treaty of Locarno, but many believe that it was done too late and in such a manner as to destroy the beneficent results which might have come from it earlier. It may also drive Spain and Brazil into the arms of Mussolini and the Latin League which he is striving to perfect, and so bring about a strict pro- and anti-Mussolini alignment in Europe. The admission of Germany to the League, and the withdrawal of the two members, and the disregarding of the Dutch and Norwegian protests show the weakness of the League and its incapacity to do the thing it was created to do.

A Second to Pennsylvania.—

The Senate's investigating committee has unearthed the facts proving that Frank L. Smith, the Illinois man who secured the nomination of the Republican party over Senator McKinley in the recent primaries, spent more than a quarter of a million dollars in his campaign. The Senate decided in the case of Newberry some years ago that the spending of a considerable less amount was indecently immoderate. The question now naturally arises, What will they do with Mr. Smith in case he is elected by the voters of Illinois who nominated him? This Illinois primary scandal is probably second to that of Pennsylvania, but by no means a close one. What a pity it is that the American voter cannot choose the man instead of the money. It makes one wonder if men like that are entitled to a democracy, or having a democracy, can long sustain it. Apparently we are not so far from the place where Rome was when the position of Emperor was sold at auction for ten million dollars. Of course, the United States would bring more money, but the moral condition is approaching the same. It is a time for Christians and patriots to speak out loud and clear and to take steps which shall forever put an end to such things.

Some Questions for the Ministry.—

Bruce Barton, the able writer and recent author of a life of Christ entitled, "The Man Nobody Knows," writing in Collier's Weekly, proposes some questions which he seems to be of the opinion would be sufficient for a candidate for the ministry. The questions which Mr. Barton proposes are so different from those usually asked that it might be well to think them over. As a starter, he would ask, "Could you conduct a successful carpenter shop?" He gives his reason for this question by explaining that Jesus conducted a carpenter shop until he was thirty years old. He points out then that the ministry is one of the most difficult of tasks, and wonders if it might not be well to demand success in some business other than the ministry before ordination. He would follow this starter with, "If confronted with the task of entering the outer court of the temple, alone and unarmed, and driving out a horde of greedy money changers, could you do it?" Following these two, he asks, "Do little children love you and follow you?" "Do common people hear you gladly?" "Do sick people in your presence feel new health and courage?" "Are you so thrilled by the message you have to deliver that if you were to proclaim it in the open country a crowd of five thousand people would come out to hear you, even forgetting in their enthusiasm to bring their food?" Mr. Barton has in his questions certainly left the beaten paths, and we pass them on to SUN readers as fit morsels for meditation.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. S. D. Lankford changes his address from Ambrose, Ga., to Enigma, Ga. In connection with his Church work he becomes first assistant in the school at Enigma.

Rev. G. C. Crutchfield is being assisted in a revival meeting at Barrett's Church by Dr. C. C. Ryan, of Richmond, this week. It is reported that the meeting is great.

Conference secretaries should supply the Church clerks of their Conference with the authorized Church report blanks. The Convention furnishes these for the postage.

Beginning October 1st, all CHRISTIAN SUN subscribers will please send their money for renewals or new subscribers to the Editor CHRISTIAN SUN, Elon College, N. C. He will duly acknowledge all renewals and new subscriptions.

Remittances for subscriptions on and after October 1, 1926,—make remittances to "THE CHRISTIAN SUN," Rev. J. O. Atkinson, Editor, Elon College, N. C. For advertising, Bibles, books, Communion services, etc., send remittances to "THE CHRISTIAN SUN," 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Dr. W. T. Walters is to assist Rev. Floyd Ballard, pastor, in a series of meetings at Henderson, N. C., beginning October 4th. Dr. Walters closes his engagement as field worker of Elon College on September 30th, and expects to enter the pastorate again. Any Church or Churches desiring the services of Dr. Walters can address him at Burlington, N. C.

Rev. G. D. Hunt, president, transmitting the program of the twenty-eighth annual session of the Alabama Conference, says: "I am very anxious for us to have a great meeting—not great particularly in numbers, but in spirit and fellowship. Evidently we are facing larger responsibilities, and with it larger opportunities. The day of small undertakings has past for the Christian Church, and we must get under the great burden for our Church, for the souls of men, and the glory of God."

Rev. E. C. Brady, who has served Franklinton, N. C., Church and a group of Churches nearby, will close his pastorate in this field with the present Conference year and will locate at Bennett, N. C., where he has engaged to teach the coming term. Any Church in the vicinity of Bennett desiring his pastoral service should correspond with him. His address till Conference will be Franklinton, N. C. This will leave an important pastorate vacant at Franklinton, where the Church hopes to finish its building at a not far distant date.

Contributions from individuals who really care for the Christian Church history and principles should certainly come in abundantly during the month of October to the Committee on Memorials. This committee, under the leadership of Judge J. F. West, of the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, has done its best in securing proper designs for the memorials, all of which were presented to the Southern Convention and approved. All who wish to help in erecting these memorials should send their checks to J. O. Atkinson, treasurer of the committee, Elon College, N. C., and the same will be acknowledged in THE CHRISTIAN SUN. Already $110.75 has been received and acknowledged. SUN readers have seen the plans and specifications, and the contract for the work has been let. It now remains only that the money be sent in and the committee, by the vote of the Convention, will do the rest.

Stirred to frenzy of a purely religious character by an eclipse of the sun, hundreds of thousands of Hindus from Calcutta congregated on the banks of the sacred Ganges river, where they bathed and prayed for protection from the demon believed to be swallowing the sun, which being too hot to retain, caused it extreme anguish. The Hindus believe their lives are profoundly affected by this demon unless they bathe in the sacred river. Business and household activities were at a standstill during the eclipse and cooking utensils were broken and sleep and travel were suspended.

SALEM CHPEL MEETING.

The first Sunday in August is the day for the annual meeting of this Church to begin. It is really a home-coming day. This is an old mother Church, and her children are scattered from North Carolina to Indiana, and from Texas to New York. Many of the kindred choose this date for home-coming. The meeting lasted through Friday night. The attendance was large, the attention all a pastor could desire, the services after Sunday were held at 8 o'clock at night. There were four professions, four additions to the Church, and four baptisms. The pastor feels that other good was accomplished.

This Church has 11 A. M. service and night service each first Sunday. The Sunday School and Christian Endeavor add much to the religious atmosphere of the community. These old country Churches deserve great credit for what they have done for maintaining spiritual conditions of the State. Salem Chapel has done well.

JAS. L. FOSTER, Pastor.

FROM ROANOKE, ALA.

I wish to say to the readers of our Church paper that we had a fine day at Antioch Church last second Sunday. It was our annual missionary and Communion day. Notwithstanding there was a great deal of sickness in the community, and many of our members were kept away, we had a very sweet and delightful service in the forenoon. Our collection amounted to $86.00. We will easily make a hundred. Then we spread a most sumptuous dinner upon a table already prepared in the shade, where every one ate and drank to their fill. This was a joyful occasion. After dinner we reassembled in the house, where we enjoyed one of the most solemn and impressive Communion services it has ever been our privilege to attend. Truly the Lord was with us that day, both in giving and receiving. We are hoping at no distant day to see a nice new Church house at Antioch.

It will happen some time. Keep your eye on us. And, too, remember, friends, that the foundation is being laid for our new Church at Roanoke, Ala. Now, please don't forget to lend us that dollar. I have received up to date $86.00 of that number asked for. Watch our thermometer rise. We want to have every dollar in hand by the first of January with which to pay the Church debt. I believe we can, don't you? Just a small lift all along the line and we will carry the load. Great faith leads to great undertaking, and great efforts leads to great accomplishments. Who will be next? Every gift will be reported in THE SUN.

G. D. HUNT.

HOME COMING DAY AT BEREA.

September 19th was our home-coming day at Berea Church (Norfolk). We have had such days in our Church for the past five years, and such events or gatherings have come to mean great things to us. We have more people to come together than at any other time in our Church history. Sometimes we meet friends there that we have not seen for several years. Two years ago I met a lady and a gentleman that I had not seen in thirty years, and several others I had not seen in ten or fifteen years.

On this occasion of which I speak we had the largest gathering we have ever had, and the addresses of the day were given by home talent or speakers. Mrs. J. F. Morgan opened the exercises with a prelude. After the opening preliminaries we had an offertory by Mr. Guy Hall and his son, Guy, Jr. Then a solo, "Home of the Soul," by Miss Mary Hall Striker. Miss Striker graduated at Elon College two years ago and is now head of art demonstration in the public schools of Norfolk County. The address of the morning, "Home Coming," was delivered by Dr. S. B. Hall, Virginia State supervisor of secondary education, Richmond, Va. Guy, Sr., and S. B. Hall are the oldest and youngest son of our good brother Deacon M. W. Hall. After the address we sang a hymn, took a recess, and gathered around one of the most bountifully supplied tables of good things to eat that it has ever been my pleasure to witness. Oh, what joy, gladness, merriment was seen on every face as we met and mingled on the lawn and sought to satisfy the inner man with the delicious viands before us. In the afternoon we had another offertory by the same brethren who favored us in the morning, and a solo, "Teach Me to Do Thy Will," by Dr. S. B. Hall. An address, "The Berea of Yesterday," was given by Deacon M. W. Hollowell. After a hymn, another address, "The Berea of Today," was rendered by Miss Eva McKinney, her subject was wonderfully and logically prepared and delivered with such emphasis and earnestness that she held the audience spellbound.

Our pastor, Rev. J. F. Morgan, presided very gracefully during the entire day. This day we will long remember because of the joyful and pleasant associations. We parted with glad hearts, happy souls, and inspired lives.

M. W. HOLLOWELL.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

TO DELEGATES TO GENERAL CONVENTION.

At the last session of the Southern Christian Convention, which met with our Durham Church, a committee composed of G. O. Lankford, W. A. Harper, and Chas. D. Johnston, was appointed to look into the matter of arranging a special car or cars for delegates to the General Convention at Urbana, Illinois, next month. If you expect to attend the Convention and are interested in going with a group, please notify the chairman of the committee at once. It is not practicable for all to get together, but one pullman might run from Norfolk, Va., and another from Greensboro, N. C., if a sufficient number desire such an arrangement. The Division Passenger Agent of the Southern Railway is expected in Burlington this week to look into this matter. Should a sufficient number report that this service is desired, definite effort will be made to secure the cars. Report will be made by letter as to the time and place of the leaving of said cars. Your wishes will have to be in our hands not later than September 25th.

Yours for service,

G. O. LANKFORD,

Chairman.

Burlington, N. C.,
September 13, 1926.

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN C. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

WHEN IS A HOME CHRISTIAN?

Many of the ills in society at present are laid at the door of our homes. On all sides we are hearing that the moral break-down at the present is largely due to the lack of Christian homes. We are told that the good old days when father refused to begin the work of the day until he had had family prayer are gone forever. We are further told that there is a lack of reverence and devotion in the home and that the Bible lies untouched on the library table and that the family seldom if ever read it and together bow in prayer for divine guidance.

This writer will not undertake to say to what extent these claims are true. Neither will he assert nor deny that family prayers are essential in making a home Christian. He is inclined to think more people hold family prayers than the public is aware of, and that the family Bible does not lie on the library table as much and as long as some would indicate. However these matters may be, there are certainly many influences at work to destroy or prevent the moral and spiritual atmosphere, essential to a Christian home.

That which makes the home Christian is that which makes an individual, or a school, or a state, or a people Christian, namely: loving loyalty and an abiding faith in Jesus Christ. Unless the spirit of Jesus, the knowledge of Jesus, the name of Jesus as Lord and Saviour, are fundamental in the home life, and direct and govern the activities and attitudes of the home, it is not Christian. That is a Christian home, in which the spirit of our Lord is enthroned as ruler and has first place. It is difficult to say and to understand how the spirit of our Lord can or will control in the home when a knowledge of Him is absent from the home life and when His teachings, His sermon on the mount, His service to humanity, His self-denial, and His death on the cross, which was the last word in His self-giving, are not thought of or referred to or held up in the homes as things desirable, prominent, and permanent.

The Christian home, interpreted individually by the conduct and attitude of each member thereof, will certainly have to manifest some of the following teachings, attitudes and characteristics: First, It will honor the name of Christ above every other name and cultivate a loving loyalty and devotion to Him as the world's Saviour and Redeemer. Secondly, It will respect and hold in reverence and frequently as a group or as individuals will read the Bible that it may acquire a knowledge of its best Friend, its safest Guide, and its greatest wisdom. Third, It will hold near and dear the church and will seek the allegiance to and service in and for the church. As occasion presents, members of a Christian home will seek the church for worship and will entertain the highest respect and reverence for the church as not merely a human, but a divine institution. Fourth, It will seek co-operation with and activity in support of the institutions, enterprises, and auxiliary organizations of the church.

The Word has plainly said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." The Christian home will certainly do this much and will enthrone the King and the Kingdom and give these first place in its esteem, devotion and service. Making Christ first and fundamental is certainly an essential in making any home Christian.

THE O'KELLY AND OLD LEBANON MEMORIALS.

The Christian Church has certainly waited a long, long time without putting a permanent marker and memorial on the site of the old church in which the name Christian was first proposed as being a sufficient name for the Church, and the Bible as a sufficient rule of faith and practice. Moreover, on October 16th, 1926, the Rev. James O'Kelly, the leading spirit in the movement and the presiding officer of the Old Lebanon meeting in establishing the Christian Church, will have been dead one hundred years, and no suitable memorial has yet been established to his name.

The last session of the Southern Christian Convention, at Durham, N. C., in April, approved plans and specifications for a marker for the Old Lebanon site and a memorial to be established on the campus at Elon College, N. C., to the memory of Rev. James O'Kelly. The total cost of these two memorials will be $2,095.00. About $105.00 of this amount has been sent in and contracts for the memorials have been let. The committee charged with responsibility for this work, namely: Judge J. F. West, Waverly, Va., Chairman; Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, Durham, N. C., Secretary; Mr. W. E. McCleny, Suffolk, Va., Historian; J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C., Treasurer, are exceedingly anxious that the funds for these memorials shall be donated during the month of October so that the work may be done in November and before it gets too cold to do such work.

It would seem that the people of the Christian Church, who have waited since August 4, 1794, now more than one hundred and thirty-two years, would be exceedingly anxious to do something in honor of the great pioneers in religious liberty and toleration, whose great vision and Christian statesmanship made the Christian Church possible. If ever there was a fund that should be liberally and gladly donated this would seem to be that fund. If pastors would speak of the matter from their pulpits or if Sunday School superintendents would ask classes to sponsor the movement and solicit funds from individuals, we are sure this fund would be quickly raised and donated.

We have certainly been prodigal of our history and have done next to nothing to preserve the memory of its landmarks, its patriots, its prophets and its seers. We have a history in which we can indulge a pardonable pride, but we have certainly done little to make that history permanent and prominent amongst us. This is certainly an attempt to give permanency to great events in our church life.

SHIBBOLETHS OR SURVEYS?

The scientific expert and the level-headed business man do not undertake or initiate projects without first ascertaining all the relevant facts that have a bearing even remotely upon the measure that is under consideration. Even then they sometimes err.

There was a time, however, when shibboleths played a large part in inducing scientists and business men alike to enter upon new undertakings. Experience has demonstrated the futility of such haphazard procedure, and today the reputable scientist or business man absolutely parts company with the shibboleth idea.

In the church, however, we are still influenced more by the shibboleths on our banners than we are by the facts involved in our situations. No retail shoe dealer, for example, would think of putting up another store in a town of five hundred population, but there are numerous instances where communities of five hundred population have four churches now competing with each other, with a fifth and sixth fully intending to enter.

We of the Christian Church are shortly to assemble in a quadrennial session of our General Convention. I venture to predict that the leader who is able to present the best catch-phrase, watchword, slogan, or shibboleth for his cause will be the one who will achieve the most notable victory for the project he undertakes. Good and worthy causes have been known to suffer in our denomination and in the other denominations, too, for the lack of a skilful phrase-maker.

What we ought to do is to set in motion at the General Convention measures that will lead to a survey of our denomination, to an appraisal of its resources, and that will give us a solid foundation upon which to erect programs for the future. This is particularly true as it relates to our colleges, to our missionary work, and to the general benevolent enterprises.

Let us hope and pray that we will have the wisdom to undertake the method of the survey and to deprecate the method of propaganda which relieves people of the necessity for thought, by substituting therefor a shrewd catchy phrase or shibboleth.

W. A. H.

LOSSES THROUGH LEAKAGE.

Many people leave the Christian denomination and go to other denominations. The Christians are not the only ones that seem to suffer in this regard. From the Western Recorder (Baptist), Louisville, Ky., this statement is taken:

"Baptist losses are alarming and call for heroic action to put a stop to them. It has been conservatively estimated that for every hundred new members who are baptized into the fellowship of Southern Baptist churches we lose forty by pure leakage, not counting losses by death. But such losses are not from readers of Baptist papers. They come almost entirely from the ranks of those who could never be induced to subscribe for a Baptist paper; but if the paper were put in their hands many of them would read it and be saved to the Baptists."

The Editor of THE SUN is unprepared to say what percentage the Christians lose by pure leakage, that is, loss on the part of those who simply drop out from any church affiliation and those who go to other churches. This, however, the Editor can assert, namely: that practically all who go in either of these directions are from those who do not read their Christian paper. We little reckon what we are doing for the church when we get an individual or a family to subscribe for the church paper. It tells its story silently and powerfully, and one of the strangest things the Editor tries to think of is that in the face of such facts pastors of churches, who know the value and worth of the church paper, do so little, many of them nothing at all, to get their people to subscribe for and read their church paper.

OUR CHURCH YEAR.

The Burlington Church has something in the nature of a church year program of which the writer wishes to speak, in the hope that some suggestion may be passed on to some other church or pastor that will prove to be beneficial in some way. From the experience this church has had and is having in this matter, it is found that a workable program must be built with considerable elasticity and flexibility. Otherwise it cannot meet the needs of or fit into the demands of the congregation. We are finding, however, that a program can be made and executed with a number of definite objectives toward which to strive, and, at the same time, affording opportunity for a larger cooperation and unanimity of action because such a program serves as the basis of a stronger appeal to the membership. The stronger the appeal, the wider and fuller cooperation may be expected as a rule.

It has become a custom with this church to lay stress upon certain phases of the church's life and activities at certain seasons of the year, because of the seeming opportuneness of these seasons. For instance, as the old year ends with the last day of October and the new church year begins with the first day of November, it becomes necessary for plans for the new year to be made and set in operation. During September and on into about the middle of October, therefore, special preparation is made for the every-member canvass for the budget for the incoming year, the canvass being made as a rule on the second or third Sunday in October. This season is used to stress the subject and responsibility of stewardship and particularly the stewardship of possessions. Last year a stewardship institute which continued for a week, with Dr. W. H. Denison, Stewardship and Promotion Secretary, as leader, was held and with most beneficial and helpful results.

March of the present year was observed throughout as Mission Month. During this time the pastor spoke morning and night each Sunday on the great subject of missions. The various organizations of the church also definitely emphasized this subject in their meetings during this time, and much earnest prayer was offered for the missionary enterprises of the church. Never before in the same length of time has there been so much missionary teaching, preaching and intercession in this church. Aside from the observance of March as Mission Month, the subject of missions runs as a golden thread through the thought and activities of the church throughout the year. With four distinct missionary organizations meeting regularly each month, with a missionary program executed in each meeting, with a missionary superintendent in the Sunday School speaking twice each month, and with the special emphasis given in many and various ways through the life of the church, it becomes apparent to all that the spirit of missions is alive in our midst.

The work of evangelism is stressed from time to time as the church's activities are carried forward, but the easter season is observed with this thought especially in mind. It has become something of a custom with this church to hold special evangelistic services about this time, with special emphasis upon personal and visitation evangelism. Out of these efforts rich fruitage is realized in the lives of those who give themselves to service in this way. Many are enriched and strengthened. Responsibility for the winning of others to Christ as personal Saviour is definitely placed upon those who are already Christians, thus inculcating a spirit of evangelism as the years go on.

Each year, for the past three years, a Daily Vacation Bible School has been held for two weeks in the early summer. This work has proven itself a great factor for good and an inspiration in the church and to the community as well. Preceding and during this vacation school is a time that lends itself admirably to the thought of Christian education and the dedication to and training for life service. Some very effectual work has been done in that direction.

The men of the church are now organized, this organization having been effected about a year and a half ago, and is known as "The Men of the Church." Meetings are held monthly, with attention given to various phases of the church's life and work. An occasional fellowship meeting is held with fine results. A very wholesome interest has been manifested by our men in the special work they have undertaken and accomplished. Significant among the services this organization has rendered was the fine work done in making the every member canvass last October. It was an inspiration on that Sunday afternoon to see fifty strong men gather at the church, from which center they went out in the name of the church and of the Christ to make the canvass mentioned. And it was no less an inspiration and joy to see those same men gather in a body at the evening church service to make report of the work of the afternoon which terminated in victory for the cause undertaken. On a more recent Sunday afternoon our men did another piece of work we feel is worthy of mention, namely, an afternoon of house to house visitation with the sole purpose in view of interesting and enlisting inactive members in the work of the church. This was an experience greatly enjoyed by the men, and helpful results have followed.

A number of other matters touching our work might be mentioned, but enough has been said to give you an idea as to what is being undertaken. All in all, it is felt that the simple, flexible program we have in operation is beneficial in a great way and is making a worthy contribution towards the ends the church has in view. With the beginning we have made, with an expanding vision which we trust shall be ours, with a consecration which will dedicate every thing to Christ for which consecration we pray, and with a richer and maturer experience as the months shall go on, we hope to do increasingly the will of our Father in putting on the program of Jesus Christ, for we realize that His program alone deserves to succeed.

G. O. LANKFORD.

Burlington, N. C.

Temperance leaders and organizations need to renew their campaigns of education, which have been neglected since the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted. Their opponents are busy night and day on a campaign of education, trying to convince the American people that Prohibition has failed, trying to make it appear that the majority favors modification of the Volstead Act. The campaign of education which the many organizations supporting Prohibition should wage needs to go deeper than showing the benefits of banning liquor. It must also educate the people to personal obedience to the law and an active participation in its enforcement. When that is accomplished the illicit liquor traffic will be finished. The recommendation for dealing with the Prohibition question, presented to the Presbyterian General Assembly, was: "Pour out anew a flood of fact and truth in our schools, churches, places of business and society in general." It is only by systematic education showing the falsity of the liquor interests contentions that we can ever hope to reach the ideal of Prohibition enforcement.

READERS—TAKE NOTICE.

After October 1st THE CHRISTIAN SUN will be published under a new agreement which has been entered into by the Board of Publication and the Central Publishing Co., Inc. This new agreement is a modification of the contract submitted by the Board of Publication to the Convention, in Durham, and adopted by the Convention. This agreement deals mostly with the financial aspects of the original contract.

For the past several years the Central Publishing Company has been publishing THE SUN and receiving whatever was paid on subscriptions, and in addition thereto the Convention has paid the Publishing Company $3,000.00 per year. In view of the fact that a good many of the subscribers to THE SUN were in arrears and further that it was very difficult to get new subscribers, the Publishing Company was compelled to ask for an increased amount from the Convention per year, to cover the deficit in cost of publication. This was passed by the Convention. But since the Convention, the Board of Publications, with the aid of the President of the Convention and the Executive Committee, has perfected a new agreement with the Central Publishing Co., Inc., which essentially is as follows:

The Convention is to pay the Publishing Company a stipulated amount per week for publishing THE SUN, up to and including 3,000 copies, for 51 issues per year. The collection of all subscriptions, both new and those in arrears, to be collected by the Convention through the office of the Editor, Dr. J. O. Atkinson.

The Board of Publication is of the opinion, as well as Convention officials, that THE SUN can be published for less cost to the Convention under the new contract than would be possible under the original contract. However, this will not be true unless those subscribers who are in arrears will be kind enough to pay their subscriptions on an advance basis, and our preachers and laymen will emphasize the importance of having THE SUN go to the home of every member of the denomination.

The Board of Publication earnestly seeks the co-operation of every member of the denomination, but especially seeks the influence of the leaders in the denomination to the extent that they will urge upon our membership the importance of subscribing to THE SUN.

Bear in mind that all subscriptions are now to be forwarded to Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Editor, Elon College, N. C., but all other business matters, are to be sent, as formerly, to P. J. Kernodle, Managing Editor, 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

L. L. VAUGHAN,
Chairman Board of Publication.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

One of the complaints made against dangerous driving of automobiles is the "middle of the road" drivers. The "middle of the road" drivers usually go slow. The law in this country requires drivers, fast or slow, to remain on the right side of the road. This is just as important for slow driving as fast driving. It is even more important for slow drivers to remain on the right side of the road, as more cars pass the slow cars than the fast cars. Car drivers are not the only middle-of-the-road people. There are many other roads than highways over which cars go to and fro.

There are middle-of-the-road politicians—men who seek office and do not want to offend any voter. They go slow. They stay in the middle of the road on many questions. On the subject of prohibition you can hardly tell on which side they stand. They go slow and in the middle of the road. They believe in the abolition of the saloon, but they think the prohibition idea may be carried too far. Perhaps the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act might be modified to meet better the will of the public mind and the need of the age.

Citizenship travels in the middle of the road sometimes. Law enforcement goes slow. Law is violated, the public demands investigation, the punishment of violaters; but the excitement dies down, the cases pass out and the courts have allowed the matter to die. The courts are blamed, but citizenship is in the middle of the road, too. Citizenship travels slow along the road of demanding the enforcement of law. There are so many ways to violate law, and so many violate law that courts find it difficult to enforce not only the eighteenth amendment, but other laws. What this country needs is such strict obedience to law by a large majority of citizens that it would deter others from the violation of law. On this question of temperance, and many other questions, many citizens walk in the middle of the road.

In the matter of religion, many good people travel the same way. They believe in Christianity. They believe in the Bible. They believe in the Church. They believe in benevolent institutions. They contribute to charity. They give to the Church. But in the religious road they travel in the middle and go slow. They do not live up fully with the Church. They go to Church. They admit its claims. They appreciate what the Church does for business, society, education, everything except union with the Church. They travel with the Church and the world; they are in the middle of the road. When politicians, citizens, Church members, moralists, do not travel on the right side, but in the middle of the road, they are leaning to the left side of the road, which is the wrong side. What this age of great progress needs is for all people to keep on the right side of the road, to avoid danger, and to help to make this world not only "safe for democracy," but safe for all institutions, all individuals, and all interests. Joshua's exhortation to the people was fine: "Choose you this day whom ye will serve." Take sides with God or the gods on the other side of the flood. Indecision is the mark of failure, and the middle of the road increases the danger of all travelers. Keep on the right side. Help to make it safe for all who travel the same road.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

Prof. Simon A. Bennett is now engaged in the third year of his work as professor of religious education and as director of the Mooney Christian Education Building in Elon College. He and his coworkers are engaged in a major work of experimentation in the general field of week-day religious instruction, particularly as it relates itself to the program of higher education. There is hardly a week in which distinguished visitors engaged in the work of Christian education do not visit Elon and look over this project in which he is the central figure.

This week Dr. Henry H. Sweets and three associate general officers of the Southern Presbyterian Church were visitors here and found themselves more than delighted with the constructive work being done under Prof. Bennett's leadership in religious education. Last July, Dr. George Albert Coe, of Teachers College, Columbia University, wrote for a description of the work we are doing here. It was sent him, and, as I write, I am just in receipt of a letter in which he thanks us for letting him know of this "interesting and important work," and concludes with these words: "My students, I am sure, will be fascinated by what you are doing in religious education."

Prof. Bennett has just brought from the press of the Christian Publishing Association, Dayton, Ohio, a book entitled "The Christian Denomination and Christian Doctrine," which, bound in paper, sells for 25 cents, and bound in cloth for 65 cents. It is a book of but four chapters, but they marvelously interpret the genesis, the genius, and the contribution of the Christian denomination to Christian doctrine in the United States. The reading of this book will give any member of the Christian Church a new pride in the movement of which he is a part and new appreciation of the principles which it espouses and undertakes to make effective in American life. There should also arise out of such a reading of this book an unconquerable desire to make these principles all that they ought to be in a developing Christianity.

Dean Shailer Mathews, of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago, has written a very effective introduction to Prof. Bennett's book.

This first volume by Prof. Bennett should find a place in the course of instruction in every institution of higher learning of the Christian Church. It should also be found in the libraries of all our ministers and Christian workers, and there is not a Christian home in the denomination that would not profit greatly by its possession and reading.

W. A. HARPER.

FIELD NOTES.

As requests have been made for pastors to write regarding their labors and as the year's work is drawing near a close, I pen these sketches, hoping others may likewise do the same, because from others we like to hear too.

We began our protracted meeting at Apples Chapel the fourth Sunday in July. Rev. P. T. Klapp was present and preached in the afternoon. Rev. J. W. Knight, of Stokesdale, N. C., arrived on Monday and did the preaching till the close of the meeting with great acceptance and with power and demonstration of the Spirit.

As a result of the meeting we received ten members at the close and two others have joined since, making twelve in all.

Beginning the first Sunday in August, we held our protracted services at Hines Chapel. Rev. G. C. Crutchfield did the preaching from start to finish, which was well received and much enjoyed by all present. We did not get to hold our closing service which was to have been on Thursday night, on account of rain, but we have received since five new members.

On the fifth Sunday in August we held our protracted services at Shallow Ford, with Rev. R. A. Whitten, of Reidsville, N. C., doing the preaching. Bro. Whitten was with us a year ago, and so it was a great pleasure to both pastor and people to have him again, as he had already endeared himself to all who had heard him.

Also again it was good to have Bro. Charley Walker, representing the Federation of Christian Workers, from Burlington, with some of his workers, on two nights to help us along.

At different services through the meeting there were a number of the brethren in the ministry whose presence and services we much appreciated. As a result of these meetings, eight members have been received. Besides these meetings of our own charge, it has been a very great pleasure to be with the following pastors and their people: Rev. J. F. Apple, at Hopedale; Rev. L. L. Wyrick, at Happy Home; Rev. J. W. Knight, at Shallow Well; Rev. John M. Allred, at Union Grove, and Rev. M. A. Pollard, at Smithwood.

In our experience in the meetings this year, the work has not been as easy nor the results seemingly as great as last year, but that the work is moving steadily onward by harder earned victories for Christ and His kingdom. So we can truly say, Thanks be unto God, who giveth the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

T. J. GREEN.

Elon College, N. C.

HAPPY HOME.

The evangelistic services began here on July 18, 1926, and closed July 23rd. The attendance was very good and interest increased from day to day. Harmony prevailed in each service. The music and singing were inspiring. This Church has some excellent talented people for singing.

Brother T. J. Green, Elon College, N. C., came to us on Monday and took charge of preaching the Word. He was with us here last summer. His congeniality deepened his friendship with the Church and community. His messages were plain and substantial. His preaching was very effective, for he lived the life consistent with his teaching.

There were twenty-two confessions and reclamations of faith in Christ, besides a deeper spiritual interest among the local membership. There were nineteen additions to the local Church.

The meeting was very helpful to pastor and Church. For all the good that was accomplished and the blessings enjoyed, we give thanks and praise to the good Lord, who gives the opportunity to all for the abundant life.

L. L. WYRICK.

P. S.: The C. E. Society here is doing some good work. They conducted one prayer service one morning of the meeting which was very helpful to all present and enjoyed. This is a fine band of young people.

L. L. W.

FOR SALE.

Two or three lots fronting the Elon College campus from the South; width 80 to 100 feet, depth 200 to 300 feet. Address

JAMES L. FOSTER,
P. O. Box 113.
Advs.
Elon College, N. C.

PROGRAM

TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL SESSION OF THE GEORGIA AND ALABAMA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga.,
October 19, 20, 21, 1926.

First Day—Evening Session.
7:30 o'Clock.

Conference called to order by the President, Rev. H. M. Gray.
Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. S. D. Lankford.
Enrollment as follows: Ministers, Churches, Delegates.
Reading and adoption of program of the session.
The Annual Address, by Rev. H. M. Gray.
Election of officers and appointment of Special Committees.
Miscellaneous business.
Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.
8:30 o'Clock.

Conference called to order by the President.
Devotional Service by Rev. P. L. Duke.
Reading of minutes of previous session.
Report of Executive Committee: Revs. H. M. Gray, C. W. Hanson, H. W. Elder.
Address by Rev. H. W. Elder.
Report on Foreign Missions: Revs. C. W. Hanson, T. J. Dean, S. D. Lankford.
Address by Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
Report on Christian Endeavor: Miss Aylmer Goodwin, Miss Ethel Abell, Miss Mary Talley.
Address by Miss Mary Talley.
Report on Sunday Schools: Revs. A. B. Mann, C. L. Reese, Paul House.
Address by S. D. Lankford.
Ministerial and Church reports.
Sermon by Rev. C. W. Hanson, "Helping God at His Work."
Adjournment for dinner.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.
1:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by A. H. Sheppard.
Reading of minutes of previous session.
Place of meeting of next annual session of conference.
Report on Moral Reform: Revs. P. L. Duke, W. D. Wilkinson, T. W. Gray.
Address by P. L. Duke.
Report on Religious Literature: Revs. W. T. Crowder, W. D. Wilkinson, E. J. Easterwood.
Address by the representative of The Christian Sun.
Report on Home Missions: Revs. H. W. Elder, C. W. Hanson, H. M. Gray.
Address by H. W. Elder.
Reports on Superannuation: Revs. A. H. Sheppard, A. B. Mann, H. M. Gray.
Adjournment for supper.

Second Day—Evening Session.
7:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by T. J. Dean.
Annual session of the Christian Missionary Association, Rev. H. W. Elder, President.
Organization.
Regular order of business.
Address, "Our Orphanage," by Chas. D. Johnston.
Address, "Our Colleges," by Dr. Beougher, President of Bethlehem College.
Adjournment.

Third Day—Morning Session.
8:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by Rev. A. B. Mann.
Reading of minutes of previous session.

Report on Education: Revs. H. W. Elder, A. H. Sheppard, H. M. Gray.
Address by Rev. J. H. Dollar, Dean of Bethlehem College.
Report of Special Committees.
Bills against Conference.
Report of Treasurer.
Sermon by Rev. H. W. Elder.
Miscellaneous business.
Final adjournment.

NOTICE.

On and after October 1, 1926, Subscribers will remit to THE CHRISTIAN SUN, Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Editor, Elon College, N. C., but all business matters pertaining to advertising and the general conduct of the paper will be addressed as heretofore to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 1-1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50
India Paper Edition, Only 1-1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 3/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 3/8 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools.....$3.00

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold..$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold.....$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x8-1-2 Inches and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

Rev. Arthur A. Richards, President of the Merrimack Conference and pastor of our Franklin, N. H. Church, makes a strong plea in this message which follows. He sets forth in a clear and forceful way outstanding facts. Read his message carefully. He is speaking to every reader. Follow his reasons.

THE PRACTICAL SIDE OF TITHING.

I believe in tithing first of all because it is the most practical method of financing religious enterprises that human experience has evolved. The whole question of "The Money Side of Religion and the Religious Side of Money," is an old one. But the Jewish people who have given the world so much out of their hard earned experience, adopted tithing as the most sound, the most sane, the most satisfactory, and the most religious way of carrying forward the work of God.

I believe in tithing in the second place because Jesus named no other specific plan in His teachings. It is true that He did not in any direct way teach tithing. Yet, Jesus being a Jew, and the most practical of them all, no doubt accepted tithing as the most practical method. His very silence about the tithe is very suggestive of His approval of it, for He never was silent about the things that met His disapproval. True, He greatly emphasized stewardship, but He who honestly tithes has at least placed his feet on the first round of the ladder of Stewardship.

I believe in tithing in the third place because I know of no other plan that is as fair, that is as fit for universal adoption, that is as adequate for the work that Christian responsibility demands.

I believe in tithing in the fourth place because it works where it is adopted. We have much to say about this being the day of pragmatism, the day when we want to know if a thing works. History reveals no cases where the tithe, if made, has not met the demands of Kingdom promotion. I believe the tithe will work if the church makes it possible for it to work.

To my mind, the whole future of our church depends more greatly upon our willingness to become a denomination of tithers, or even better, honest stewards, than we realize. As a Christian, as a member of one of our churches, as president of one of our conferences, I plead that we face, and that we answer this whole matter of Stewardship, beginning with the tithe. Until we do this, we can do but little more than we are doing, but when we do it satisfactorily, it will be a new day for God and the church and the world.

GETTING READY FOR THE CONVENTION.

In what way? First of all in the secret closet of prayer. That is where things really happen. I sat one day in a study class where our missionary, Miss Martha Stacy was instructor. The lesson was "Prayer and Missions." I asked, "Miss Stacy, does anything happen in Japan when we pray here, that would not happen if we did not pray? What evidence have you?" Those in that class at Elon will never forget how she stood there for thirty minutes with tears in her eyes and convinced us of the power and results of prayer. We need to get hold of God and let Him direct our plans, thinking, ambitions. We need help to do straight, Christian, unselfish thinking about measures and men. Japan is thousands of miles away. So thousands who are not delegates to Urbana can help mold our thinking, plans, decisions. Delegates are Christians, picked men and women, going up to our quadrennial convention to confer together how to plan and carry on the work God has entrusted to us. We are entrusted with a great stewardship. "It is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful."—I Cor. 4: 2.

OUR MOUNTAIN WORK.

The following people visited our work during the summer:

Miss Mary D. Atkinson, Elon College. She came up from Mt. Airy just before her school closed, spending a part of Saturday and Sunday. On Sunday morning she sang for us at Elk Spur and in the afternoon at Rocky Ford. The special selections were enjoyed by all. We enjoyed having her with us and hope she will be able to visit the work again in the near future.

Rev. A. W. Andes, of Harrisonburg, Va., was our next visitor. He did the preaching at our Rocky Ford revival meeting. His sermons were from the Word of God, and he spoke them with no respect of person. He was loved by all who heard him.

Bro. Pollard of Liberty, N. C., helped next in our revival meeting at Elk Spur. This being his second visit to the mountains, he found the people even more ready to hear him than before. They liked him so well this time that they expressed a desire to have him for their next pastor.

Our next visitor was Dr. M. J. W. White, Jr., Norfolk, Va. He spent about two months doing medical work. He was a hard worker and did all he could to help those who needed his service. As a result he found a large field of work. During his stay, his father made a visit and was impressed with the work the Convention was doing here. He made many friends during his short stay.

Prof. and Mrs. L. L. Vaughan, of Raleigh, came up on Sunday morning, August 15th, and stayed until Monday. They both gave talks at our Sunday School and evening service. Mrs. Vaughan impressed the people very much in assuring them that the missionary societies were backing their work. Prof. Vaughan gave an interesting talk on advertising our work. They seem to be well pleased with the work and hope for its future.

Our last visitor was Rev. R. A. Whitten and family of Reidsville, N. C., who found us packed up and ready to leave. As they only stayed a short while we did not have the privilege of having them speak. Brother Whitten made several friends during his short stay.

We were indeed glad to have these people to visit the work. We feel quite sure they have a new conception of the work.

During August we were very busy visiting and being visited for the last time by our many friends. These were sad days for us. It seems each day that we should return to the mountains to be about our work. It has been hard to realize that we have left our good friends.

The mountain people were always kind to us and ready at all times to offer such services as they could. They showed a deep appreciation for our work and did all they could to help make it a success.

On Thursday night before we left on Saturday, the church was lighted and a large congregation of people had gathered in before we know what was going on. In a short while we were invited over to the church. After a short song service, our good friend Mrs. Iola Hedgepeth Meredith led a short service of testimonies in regard to our work. After this, Supervisor W. C. Strickland, another good friend read a paper containing the expression of the appreciation of both Elk Spur and Rocky Ford people of our work. We can say that we did not deserve all the good things the people said, yet of course we appreciated their attitude. After this we gave a short talk expressing our appreciation of the kindnesses shown us in our stay with them. We want the people of our mountain work to be assured that while we cannot be with them, we will continue to do all we can for them.

The many churches, societies and friends that have so graciously helped us in the work, we thank, and we trust you will continue to give to the work your loyal support.

M. T. SORRELL.

Elon College, N. C.

BEREA (NORFOLK) OF TODAY AND TOMORROW.

A more pleasant task could not have been assigned to me than to recall the last year's history of our church and to picture the future, yet I do not feel capable. I feel as an old negro did, that I once heard the story of.

John Brown was a great sleepy head and once while on his way from the city he became so sleepy that he stopped his horse and fell asleep. Some people passing thought it looked so dangerous for him to lie there with the team at liberty that they unhitched the horse and tied him in the wood. After a while John awoke and exclaimed, "If this is John Brown he has lost a horse, and if it is not John Brown he has found a cart."

Now it is just as difficult for me to realize my position; however I shall attempt, and if I should omit any little event I hope some one will remind me of it.

But first let me bring to your mind the great changes that have taken place. The great changes that have taken place in the youth of today as compared with the youth of yesterday. I say great changes because they will revolutionize the whole system of our church, which we hope will be for the better. Now older people, don't misunderstand. I don't mean to say you've not been successful, because you have. You have your accomplishments to show and our future success depends largely on your past work.

Religion is like every thing else—never at a standstill—always moving either backward or forward. We hope to keep it on its forward journey as you have started it. Yet there are obstacles and our way looks dark and dreary when we try to devise some method to overcome these drawbacks. So many, yes so many youths of today are indifferent. That is they neglect religion and devote themselves to other phases of life. This is regrettable for two reasons:

First, Their discovery of truth can never be complete without the contribution of religion.

Second, They may influence others to withdraw.

Now what is more sad than for man to let other things, often trifling, take the place of his God. How nice it would be if every youth could realize how essential it is to live within the kingdom of God. It will be a lamentable pity if the youth of today continues along this sort of highway and fails to take the correct attitude toward the church.

Yet with all this gloomy picture, I have been portraying, we say, "Be still sad heart and cease repining, for behind the cloud the sun is still shining."

Many characteristics point this out. We are proud of them and want to give due credit to the past generation as we feel they are largely responsible for this great development. The outstanding points are:

I. Presence of less dogmatism, which is the most audacious and insidious foe human progress encounters. This selfish idea locks the doors of the mind to all new truths. With smug complacency its victims declare their superiority over all others. Years ago men were afraid to investigate or question the theories of the leaders of the church for fear of being excommunicated. Naturally a reaction against such a state was bound to come, and we are glad it did come, but hope we will not swing to the other extreme. Today we feel free to pry into any phase of the church and reveal the whats and whys. We feel free to express ourselves so long as we do not infringe upon the rights of others. In our minds we have this resolution, "Oh consistency, thou art indeed a jewel."

II. The churches and Sunday Schools are better equipped. Of course we are not very far advanced along this line, as our funds are limited, but are crawling slowly and surely. The average Sunday School is divided in two departments—a Junior and Senior department. They have class rooms. They have good libraries. They are using the graded system to an advantage. They are combining and offering training for their teachers. These teachers are well prepared to carry on the work of God.

III. The youth of today realizes the true meaning of leadership. We know that discovered leadership is far more stable than that which is assumed. If we cannot be good leaders, we have as our ultimate aim to be excellent followers. If we are anxious—and we know we are—to accomplish something definite and of the noblest and highest type in the sight of God, we must have real genuine leaders and most important of all we must train ourselves to be good followers.

Somebody has been an excellent leader, and somebodies have been excellent followers, for this church has broken its record the past year.

Note the church attendance. One year ago, six pews would easily hold the average attendance, and today we can boast of the church being at least three-fourths full. We are absolutely waking up. The young people have organized a Young People's Society. This has little to show now, but just wait. Look to the right of the church and you will see an attractive building constructed by the Ladies' Aid and presented to the church as the parsonage. What could mean more to a church. Then note the advancement of the Sunday School. One year ago, last quarter, the average attendance was 52; this year it was 98. Berea had the greatest percent increase of attendance of any Sunday School of Greater Norfolk.

Yes, someone is and has been an excellent leader. Most of you know who it is, but for the benefit of the visitors, it is Rev. J. F. Morgan, our beloved pastor. God saw our need, and sent us this wonderful pilot. No church could stand still with such a guide whose motto is "Forward go." We regret very much that we are to lose Mr. Morgan soon, and we hope through some means we will keep him longer than we expect.

In solving our problem of keeping Mr. Morgan, we must also devise some method of keeping the church alive, for losing him is misfortune enough. To me, the best and in fact the only way is to use a skillful hand in dealing with the young people. There are about 150 boys and girls within easy reach of this church. We must keep these within the community. We must create such an interest in this village, such a love in the church and the home, that they will not leave. The only reason why they will leave us is because other places attract and possess the elements that satisfy more. We seldom see those who roam from place to place ever settling down and taking an active part in any church organization. Of course there are exceptions, but we feel it is best to keep them here and train them as God would have them to be.

This is our great aim, but what are the little things we must do to accomplish this great aim? Just as it takes little grains of sand to make a seashore, so we must deal wisely with the little objectives to accomplish our great aim. I hope these that are about to be enumerated will make such an impression that you will accept the challenge, for "We are not here to play, dream or drift. We have hard work to do and loads to lift."

Mrs. Bullock says, for the child himself our objectives should be:

1. To help him to find for himself the laws of truth, courtesy, obedience, cheerfulness and friendliness, that he may live rightly in the world in which he finds himself.

2. To help him to find the principles of world friendship, that he may make his world a friendly world.

3. To give him information concerning good men and women that he may understand and participate as fully as possible in their thoughts and emotions and take their ideals as his own.

4. To relate him to the church through the knowledge that these will help him to become God's child in thought, word and action.

5. To relate him to the Bible and other religious literature that he may find rules that will guide him in choosing the right and rejecting the wrong.

6. To give him a definite desire to follow the laws of God in caring for his own body, in living with his associates, and in helping God to make and keep this world a beautiful place in which to live.

7. To give the child that sense of personal love and trust which comes through the acceptance of God as his Father and Jesus Christ as his loving elder brother and understanding friend.

8. To direct him in search of opportunities to carry out these principles of service and friendship.

In developing these characteristics inwardly we might say we will be building up the community outwardly. Use your imagination as I depict the picture of this village. The picture of this village ten years hence.

The parsonage is now occupied by an all-time preacher. His wife has proven to be an asset to the community and is quite a factor among the ladies. The people are witnessing in large congregations services at eleven o'clock every Sunday morning and at eight Sunday evening. Music is furnished by an organized choir and is directed by a trained leader. The older people have prayer meeting every Wednesday evening. Interest in the Ladies Aid has been revived and they boast of a 100 per cent membership. These ladies are setting good examples for their children. The young people have done excellent work in their Missionary Society. They are even supporting a missionary in Porto Rico. They have organized a Christian Endeavor Society which meets every Sunday evening. The children have been organized and are preparing themselves to enter in work with the grown-ups when they get older. The rear of the church has been extended and we now have a Junior Sunday School. The children are being promoted annually. The church and school are co-operating in training the children of the public school. The pastor conducts chapel at the school at least once each week and his wife visits each grade and tells them helpful stories during their story hour. Many of the children do not have the privilege of attending Sunday school and are receiving help through these stories. The children love the pastor and are anxious to follow his example. Many of them stop in his home after school and stay for hours. The principal and pastor are solving the problems of school discipline together.

You may think this an ideal situation, and I do too; but it is not too far up the ladder. Other churches are doing this now. What we need is a stimulant. A right kind of leader. Someone who is not afraid to express himself. Someone to show interest and an intelligent desire to profit by experience. When this person appears, we will find interest really contagious—spreading like fire. "Only resolve and thou art free." That is, the most difficult part is to decide to do this work. When once we have set our hearts and our heads, then all will be well.

(MISS) EVA MCKINNEY.

A bronze bust of Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, of Orange, N. J., was unveiled at Chautauqua, New York, recently. Dr. Hurlbut is the only survivor of that pioneer group led by Bishop John H. Vincent, who founded the Chautauqua movement. He was for years a leader in every progressive movement in Religious Education. The condition of Dr. Hurlbut's health kept him away from Chautauqua this year for the first time since its beginning in 1874. The unveiling address was delivered by Dr. Frederick Kepple, President of the Carnegie Foundation.

THE PICTORIAL BIBLE

SELF-PRONOUNCING

With 4000 Questions and Answers.

The questions and answers are of great help in interesting young folks in the Bible.

With "Aids to Bible Study" being helps specially prepared for young readers.

Specimen of Type

23 Of the sons of Is'sa-cl families: of Tō'la, the fam

5181

Large, clear type, with all Scripture proper names, divided into syllables and accented.

31 BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS—These beautiful full-page illustrations of scenes in Bible lands instruct as well as interest. Sixteen are colored and 15 are in sepia. Also has PRESENTATION PAGE.

REAL LEATHER BINDING—Bound in Genuine French Morocco Leather binding, with overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges with headband and bookmark. Size 7¼x5x1 inches. Weight 1 lb. 8 oz.

No. 5181. Our Price $3.25

OXFORD RED LETTER BIBLE

S. S. TEACHER'S EDITION

In this Oxford edition, all the Old Testament prophecies and the words of Jesus in the New Testament are printed in red.

Contains over 50,000 center column references and the famous Oxford S. S. Teacher's Helps. An exceptionally helpful and beautiful edition of the Scriptures. Notice the heavy, black-face type.

Specimen of Type

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

05453

Bound in French Morocco leather, with overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. Has headbands and bookmarks and 16 beautifully colored maps, with indexed atlas.

No. 05453. Our Price $6.25

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS NOTES.

It has been suggested to the writer that the Board of Religious Education has not popularized itself with the Conferences as it might, and that especially has this been so in the matter of its being officially represented at the annual sessions of the Conferences. We are not altogether certain of our ground here, but we are lead to believe that if this criticism is justified it has been largely due to a lack of funds to defray the expense of such representation.

Two Conferences have so far invited the Chairman of the Board to attend the annual sessions this year and present the work and expectations of the Board. The Chairman would be delighted to accept in both instances, but he feels he would not be warranted in doing so until the Board is financially able to bear such an expense.

Yet, on the other hand, the Chairman feels it is just this character of work that is necessary to interest several of our Conferences in the Board and to secure for them a real understanding of the nature of the work the Board endeavors to accomplish.

Very frequently we hear the criticism that graded literature for the Sunday School does not contain sufficient Bible. We feel this is a criticism that cannot be sustained, for personal investigation of the facts reveals that the graded literature covers more of the Bible, and covers it more thoroughly, than the International Lessons. Recently, for instance, the senior class in the Holland Sunday School devoted two whole quarters to the study of the life of Christ as it is recorded in the Gospel of Mark. Not a great while ago the same class studied for a whole quarter the Epistle of James. Recently the class has been studying the life of David Livingstone, with each lesson based on Bible lessons and references. This should prove interesting to both Bible and missionary exponents.

If the Churches of the Convention adopt the suggestion of the Educational Committee of the Budget Commission and assume the current expense of the Sunday Schools, and thus leave the schools free to adopt a complete program of benevolent offerings, we feel two things at least will be accomplished. One of these is a more equitable distribution of the benevolent offerings. The other is a training of the Sunday School scholars in benevolent giving.

The program proposed by the Budget Commission contemplates one Sunday's offering each month for missions, the Orphanage, religious education and colleges. In proposing the program to his own school, the Chairman suggested that the offerings on fifth Sundays be used for the Sunday School Convention dues.

And in line with this it might be well to suggest to the Budget Commission that these Convention dues be credited to the local Church just as the local Church is credited with the Conference apportionment. It is very probable that all the Sunday School Conventions will adopt the plan of giving the Board of Religious Education all of these dues except that small sum necessary in each Convention for running expenses. These dues are as legitimately benevolent as the Conference apportionments, and as such should be credited to the local Church.

Mr. W. H. Baker, an active member of the Newport News Christian Church, is this week at

(Continued in column 3.)

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

LESSON II.—OCTOBER 10, 1926.

"THE REPORTS OF THE SPIES."

GOLDEN TEXT: "We are well able to overcome it."—Numbers 13: 30.

LESSON: Numbers 13: 1-14: 45.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 95: 1-7.

After leaving Sinai, the Israelites had finally reached Kadesh-barnea. It was from this place that the spies of today's lesson were sent out. It was here that the Israelites waited for their report. Kadesh-barnea is an attractive desert oasis, and because of its water supply the Israelites made it their headquarters for the remainder of their wilderness life, over thirty-eight years, living there much as do the Arabs of this region today.

The student should read the entire lesson, as the part given in the quarterly gives only a very meagre part of the story. The entire lesson is divided into five subdivisions, which are briefly as follows.

I.—Twelve Spies Sent to Canaan. Verses 1-20.

When the Israelites reached Kadesh-barnea, Moses sent out twelve spies over the border to ascertain the nature of the land, and to determine whether the people were strong or weak, and the facts as to how they lived.

II.—The Journey of the Spies. Verses 21-25.

The Spies proceeded to Hebron and into the Valley of Eschol. They cut down a branch with a single cluster of grapes so heavy as to require two men to carry it. They also brought back pomegranates and figs.

III.—The Majority and Minority Reports. Verses 25-33.

Upon their return, the spies reported "to Moses and Aaron, and to all the congregation," that it was a land that "floweth with milk and honey." It was a land greatly to be desired, and the fruit of the land which they brought with them proved their words. "Howbeit," they said "the people that dwell in the land are strong; and the cities are fortified, and very great." And ten of the spies declared, "We are not able to go up against the people, for they are stronger than we."

Then the two gave their opinion, "Let us go up at once . . . for we are able to possess it. Fear ye not the people of the land; for . . . Jehovah is with us."

IV.—The Rebellion of the People. 14: 1-10.

Despite all that Caleb and Joshua could say, despite the remonstrances of Moses and Aaron, the people accepted the adverse report, and they wept and murmured against Moses and Aaron. They even went so far as to threaten choosing another leader to lead them back to Egypt—back into bondage, and demanded that the two spies be stoned. At this point "the glory of the Lord" appeared in the tent of meeting.

V.—Jehovah's Threat, and the Penalty of Disobedience Pronounced. 14: 11-45.

"I will smite them with the pestilence, and disinherit them. But after Moses plead with God the penalty was changed. They were doomed to spend the rest of their days in the wilderness, but Caleb and Joshua should lead their children in to possess the land."

God heard Moses' plea, but the sin of unbelief must be punished. How much do we lose of the real joys of life, because we refuse to enter in and possess them at God's command.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

OCTOBER 10, 1926.

"HOW TO PULL TOGETHER."

TOPIC: How to Pull Together.—Mark 2: 1-5; I Cor. 3: 1-9.

Pulling Together.

No business is effective where every department pulls for itself alone—thinks of itself alone—and would rather fail itself than help another department. Business is based on pulling together. And Christian Endeavorers are about the business of their King.

To co-operate with some people requires much diplomacy. We must believe that there is good in them and we must not do things which we know will antagonize them. To co-operate effectively, we must love them. If we do not love each other we will pull apart, selfishly, each thinking of his own gain.

Someone has said, "The spirit behind co-operation is the Golden Rule; and its effect is to give us better results than if we worked alone." The writer once saw a baseball game in which the pitcher fanned nineteen men out of the twenty-four that faced him. And he "put out" three other men un-assisted—and lost his game. There was no team work—no co-operation—no pulling together. More than one business, church, Sunday School, or Endeavor Society has failed, because the "nine" did not co-operate with their "pitcher."

Hints from the Bible.

There are things we cannot do alone. We must have help, and should not be too proud to accept it. (v. 3).

In planning a piece of work four minds are better than one, but they must work together in harmony; in carrying out that work, four working together have the strength to do things that four working separately would never accomplish (v. 5).

Lack of co-operation is always selfish, and it leads to defeat (I Cor. 3: 3).

To Think About.

Why do people grate upon each other?
What society work calls for co-operation?
What good do we get out of co-operation.

(Continued from column 1.)

Bristol, Va., presiding over the State Christian Endeavor Union. Mr. Baker is an authority on Christian Endeavor, and has won state-wide recognition as such. He is a son-in-law of Dr. N. G. Newman.

But Mr. Baker feels the Christian Church lacks Endeavor interest and appreciation.

Several months ago Colonel J. E. West, of Suffolk, became very much concerned regarding the question of men and missions. The colonel realized the women are accomplishing great things, both as regards mission study and mission giving. And the colonel also realized the men do not study missions at all, and that their giving to missions is rather spasmodic and inadequate. The colonel interested the writer, and after these several months in which to ponder the matter he has nothing better to suggest than what he suggested when the matter was first brought to his attention. It was this: the Bible classes of the Sunday Schools afford splendid fields of mission study, and the finest kind of courses can be secured for this study. Not only is this true of missions, but it is true of stewardship, evangelism, and a score of other big and vital questions and subjects. We feel a Bible class could now and then study one of these excellently edited elective courses on missions or stewardship, or even on one of the books of the Bible, for a quarter, and still remain loyal to its name. Try it.

CONFERENCES MEET.

Alabama Conference will meet with the Church at Bethany on Tuesday, October 12, 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M. G. D. Hunt, President; E. M. Carter, Secretary.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 2, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 16, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church, Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1926. G. O. Lankford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 8, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

PROGRAM OF THE WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE OF ALABAMA.

To be Held at Cragford, Ala., October 16, 1926.

Forenoon.

- Devotional Services—Mrs. J. H. Swint
- Welcome Address—Mrs. Hamp Mitchell.
- Response—Mrs. A. I. Landers.
- Business Session.
- Song (Missionary).
- President's Address.
- Address, "The Place of Prayer in Our Work"—Mrs. W. M. Melton.
- Solo—Miss Regina Carter.
- Sermon—Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C.

Afternoon.

- Devotional Services—Mrs W. D. Mitchell.
- Message from Mrs. J. A. Williams, president of Southern Board—Miss Zana Stephenson.
- "How to Reach the Other Women"—Mrs. V. E. Kitchens.
- "Onward through Missions"—Rev. G. D. Hunt.
- Round Table Discussion—Lead by Mrs. O. H. Orr.
- Reports of Committees.
- Adjournment.

MRS. E. M. CARTER,
President.

Wadley, Ala.

NOTICE.

The Eastern Virginia Woman's Missionary Conference will meet in annual session on Friday, October 15th, with the Bethlehem Christian Church, Nansemond County, Va.

All societies are urged to have a full report of the year's work in the hands of the treasurer, Mrs. W. V. Leathers, Holland, Va., not later than September 30th.

Begin thinking of your delegates now. Churches without societies are requested to send representatives.

MRS. L. W. STAGG,
Secretary.

400 W. 34th Street,
Norfolk, Va.

A Great Background Book

LANDMARKS in the STRUGGLE BETWEEN SCIENCE and RELIGION

by Professor J. Y. Simpson, M.A.,
D.Sc., F.R.S.E.

¶ This book sets the present day controversy in its right historical setting. It is a survey of an age-long contest between truth and superstition. It makes religion as well as science a living, dynamic thing.

$2.00

DORAN BOOKS

TWENTY years ago Professor David Smith wrote "In The Days of His Flesh." For twenty years it has headed the list of books on Christ.

Now he has written:

OUR LORD'S EARTHLY LIFE

ANOTHER rich tribute to the Lord he loves. Characterized by mature scholarship and a marked humanist strain, this book has instantly gripped the hearts of readers.

$3.00

DORAN BOOKS

The Famous
Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.
Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35

(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.
(Weight 18 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25

(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jê-hôu'-â-kim gave th silver and the gold to Phâr'-aôh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50

(Weight 3 lbs.)
Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style
at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

OUR GREATEST PROBLEM.

"If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted; and if thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door." Gen. 4: 7.

Matthew 7: 21 says: He that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven shall do well. Mr. Coue expressed the philosophy of doing our very best when he said, "Day by day, in every way, I grow better and better." That is ideal in every thing that we have to do.

Someone has said, "The place to begin is here; the time to begin is now, and the tools you should use are the ones in your hand." The other man's job may look the best, and you may wish better tools, all of which may be true, but they are not in thy hands, why slack or drift. "Go to it," with what you have. Do the small things if you can't do the greater ones.

Prayer.—Our Father, give unto us a vision of all the duties, however small, imposed upon us by Christianity. Make us willing to try, and in everything to do Thy will. We pray for a fruitage of life that is blessed to others and glorifies Christ. In His name we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

IS JESUS PRECIOUS?

LESSON: I Peter 2: 1-10.

"Unto you therefore which believe he is precious."

If Jesus is precious to us, it should not be in belief only. We ought to know some outstanding reasons for the fact.

First, He has saved us from our sins. If He is our Saviour, He is precious.

Again, He is our Teacher who teaches us all things and brings all things to our remembrance. It is through Him the great truths of our Lord come to us. We are desperately in need of that and because He is our teacher, He is precious.

Again, All around us is darkness, sorrow, broken hearts, depleted plans, disappointments, sickness, misfortunes of a thousand kinds; but in spite of them all, there is light, comfort, inspiration in renewed or new plans, heartening influences, fortitude in sickness, loyalty in misfortunes and sin. It is Jesus that does this, and "He is so precious to me."

Prayer.—God, our Father, and Jesus, our all, Give us a full appreciation of Jesus. Give us His abiding presence. Help us to practice His presence today. In His name we ask. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

THE BEAUTY OF GOD.

LESSON: Ps. 90: 12-15.

"Let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us."

God has spread beauty everywhere. He has made everything beautiful in its own season.

He is love; He is light; He is law; He is beauty, also.

But how man distorts life! How he disfigures beauty! How he sins and mars his soul! How he changes the divine image!

Give God loyalty, and He gives His beauty. Live pure, and His beauty is bestowed upon us. Our greatest prayer is that we may have the beauty of the Lord upon us.

Prayer.—Our Father, satisfy us early with Thy mercy, that we may see and realize Thy beauty and rejoice and be glad. May we grow in the divine life and a closer walk with Thee. In His name we ask it. Amen.

THURSDAY.

A BRIGHT SOUL.

"They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that learn may be to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever."

As weak and feeble as we are, we are strong enough to be wise and right, and to turn other folks into the paths of righteousness, honesty, truth and integrity. It is a task of infinite difficulty and too much for us alone, but the shining light of wisdom and true understanding that beams to the world the infinite wisdom of God is attainable through the guidance of divine aid.

God's great love revealed in a man's life is wisdom! And this in co-operation with God is the wisdom that turns men to God. The world is to be made right and in harmony with God by Divine Compassion and love working through men's hearts.

Prayer.—Our dear Father, we offer ourselves to Thee this day to live for God, glory and right. And may our light shine to save others along the way. Amen.

FRIDAY.

OUR PASSPORT TO HEAVEN.

"Straight is the gate and narrow is the way which leadeth unto life."—Matt. 7: 14.

"If thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments."—Matt. 19: 17.

Our Lord tells us that nothing entereth there that defileth, and in the parable of the talents, He said to the one who had been faithful, "Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

So it seems that character and not education nor logic is the credential to be offered at Heaven's gate for entrance thereto. Christianity is the builder of character for heaven.

"Sow an act, reap a habit;
Sow a habit, reap a character;
Sow a character, reap a destiny."

—Thackary.

Prayer.—Father of us all and all that ever shall be, may the springs of our lives be out of Thee. May we lose ourselves, and seek to make all the ends of our aims be for our truth, honesty and uprightness, and Thy glory. In His name we ask it. Amen.

SATURDAY.

COMING, HEARING AND DOING.

LESSON: Luke 6: 46-49.

"Every one that . . . heareth my words, and doeth them."

Property owners along the New Jersey coast will not soon forget a storm which swept the shore a few years ago. Under a boisterous northeast wind, the waves piled higher and higher. For three days there was no abatement of the wind, nor change in its direction. Angry waters took their toll of the summer cottages along-shore. Many large houses were crumpled up like cardboard and whisked off to sea.

One small cottage remained intact, however, while a more stately neighbor was undermined and carried out to sea. The owner of the small house had erected the cottage with his own labor. A student of the Scriptures, he had remembered the famous parable of Jesus. Unable to dig down to rock, he had sunk concrete pillars deep in the sand and the sills of his house had been bolted to these pillars. The storm gave illustration of the parable of our Lord.

Let us note the parable closely. So often we lose the point of familiar passages of the Word. Cometh, heareth, doeth, these are the points of the lesson. That man builds upon the rock, who heeds the three words. The house built upon the sure foundation represents "Every one that cometh unto Me, and heareth My words, and doeth them." With many of us our religious experiences are like the house built upon the sands, because we have failed in the last two words—"doeth them."

Lord's Prayer—all the Circle joining

SUNDAY.

THE PROMISE OF THE PRESENCE OF GOD.

LESSON: Judges 6: 14-18.

"Surely I will be with thee."

After Bishop W. S. Lewis had been in China for some time, Bishop J. W. Bashford was heard to say: "I now know the secret of the power of Lewis. Bishop Lewis walks with God."

God can do mighty things through the man who is submissive to His will. Gideon was an obscure man who was called to a large task from which he instinctively shrank at first. But God came to him with a word of assurance, and commanded him to go and save Israel from the hand of the Midianites. "Have not I sent thee?" was the challenging question of Jehovah Himself. Gideon was assured of the sustaining Presence and the supporting power.

The presence of God makes his servants sufficient for their task. "I was asked," said Bishop Thoburn, "to tell the secret of the work in India throughout these years. So far as I had anything to do with it, it is this: Jesus Christ has been just as real to me as this man is here, today (and he placed his hand upon the shoulder of the person next to him), and that work in India was not done for India, but for Him."

Elijah could face the assembled hosts of Baal on Mount Carmel, and Paul could make his defense before Felix, each being secure in the knowledge that God was with him.

Prayer.—Our most gracious Father, may our faith in Thee be strengthened, and may we seek Thy counsel in all the affairs of life, and follow it, confident that if we acknowledge Thee in all our ways, Thou wilt bear us safely through every crisis. In the name of the Saviour we pray. Amen.

Moslem women are not allowed to marry Christians by the terms of the modified form of the Swiss civil code now before the Turkish national assembly for ratification. The law which prohibits polygamy and divorce by the mere whim of the husband, declares as null marriages contracted with Christians.

The number of church members in America increased 800,000 during 1925. Methodists led in the increase. There are now 46,883,000 church members out of a population of 116,000,000.

WHAT HAVE WE DONE?

Another conference year is fast drawing to a close. When we think of this, we are reminded of the great question, What have we done for the Lord's Kingdom? We can look back and see multitudes of mistakes that we have made in our efforts to render service in His kingdom. We, ministers and laymen alike, have made many mistakes. On many occasions the results have not been what we expected. Doubtless we have gone away from our churches greatly disappointed with the results of the meeting. A number of us have closed our annual revival services with no visible results. In fact there has been very little or nothing constructive accomplished in many places. The Sunday School, the Christian Endeavor, and other auxiliaries of the church may have decreased in interest and in number. There is a cause somewhere. Where is it? Who is to blame? Certainly not Christ. The fault is undoubtedly with the ministers and laymen. No doubt we have gone before our congregations without thorough preparation, although we may have studied our commentaries and read our Bibles, but have we really communed with God? Have we had a vision? "Where there is no vision the people perish." Have we been burdened with the needs of our people? Or have we only gone before them and preached and enjoyed their hospitable entertainment, and gone home and congratulated ourselves upon rendering service?

Have the laymen been true to the trust reposed in them? Have they supported the cause with their presence and their prayers? Have they held up the minister's hands? Have they been burdened with the unsaved in the community? Have they kept the altar fires burning in the homes? Has the church as a whole been praying for God's Kingdom to come on earth as it is in Heaven?

Let everyone ask himself this question, Have I done my best? Will God accept anything less?

Are we going to our various conferences burdened because we have not done our part? Although we may not have accomplished our desires, yet we should thank and praise our heavenly Father for His goodness to us and strive to do more to extend His kingdom in the future than we have ever done in the past.

G. H. VEAZEY.

Elon College, N. C.

Many a war, it is safe to say, has broken out in Europe and elsewhere over issues no greater than those which, from time to time, cause sectional alignments on Capitol Hill. We are a people made up of many sections, and if the interests of North and South do not clash as they did in the decades that preceded the Civil War, there is still an abundance of opportunity for sectionalism to show itself. And by the same token, it is a great tribute to the genius of American political institutions that sectionalism in Congress no longer menaces our national unity.—The Boston Transcript.

PROGRAM

TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL SESSION OF THE ALABAMA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Bethany Christian Church, Randolph County, Ala.,
October 12, 13, 14, 1926.

First Day—Morning Session.

- 9:45 Opening song—"Blest Be the Tie that Binds."
- Devotional Services, led by Rev. J. H. Hughes.
- 10:00 Organization:
- Enrollment of Ministers and Delegates.

Election of Officers.

Courtesies to Fraternal Delegates.

- 11:00 President's Annual Address.
- Communion Service. (Emblems furnished by the local church.)
- 12:00 Adjournment.

First Day—Afternoon Session.

- 1:00 Conference called to order.
- Devotions led by Rev. W. T. Meacham.
- Report of Executive Committee, Rev. G. D. Hunt, chairman.
- Reading of Ministerial and Church Reports.
- Report on Moral Reform, by J. W. Payne.
- Discussion: "What should be the Attitude of the Church toward the Moral Upbuilding of the Country?" by Rev. J. H. Hughes.
- Report from the Christian Orphanage, Elon College, by C. D. Johnston, Superintendent.
- Miscellaneous Business and Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.

- 8:30 Devotional Services, led by Rev. J. D. Dollar.
- Report on Religious Literature, by Rev. Carl Dollar.
- Address: "Our Literature," by Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
- 9:30 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions, Rev. C. W. Carter, Chairman.
- Address: "Our Foreign Work," by Dr. L. E. Smith.
- 10:30 Report of Home Mission Board, by Chairman.
- Address: "Our Needs in the Home Field," by Rev. G. D. Hunt.
- Freewill Offering for Missions.
- 11:30 Preaching by Dr. D. Anonymous.
- 12:00 Adjournment.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.

- 1:00 Conference called to order.
- Report of Committee on Education, Rev. E. M. Carter, Chairman.
- Address: "Our Schools and Colleges, and Their Demands upon Us," by Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College.
- Address: "The Why and Wherefore of Bethlehem College," by Rev. G. D. Hunt.
- Address: "Financial Needs of Bethlehem College," by Rev. H. W. Elder.
- Address: "The Opportunity Bethlehem College Offers those of Moderate Means," by Dr. S. L. Beougher, President.
- 2:30 Report of Sunday School Board, by Mrs. E. M. Carter.
- Address: "The Claims of Our Young People upon the Church," by Rev. J. H. Dollar.
- 3:30 Report of Committee on Superaunuation, by Rev. C. W. Carter.
- Address: "The Ministry of the Christian Church," by Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
- Miscellaneous Business.
- Adjournment.

Second Day—Evening Session.

- 8:00 Report on Christian Endeavor, by Rev. J. H. Hughes.
- General Meeting for Young People, led by Miss Pattie Coghill, Field Secretary.

Third Day—Morning Session.

- 8:30 Devotional Services, led by Rev. H. W. Elder.
- Report of Committee on Church Statistics, by J. J. Carter, Chairman.
- Report of Committee on Apportionments, J. W. Payne, Chairman.
- Report of Committee on Nominations.
- Report of Special Committees.
- Preaching.
- Fellowship Meeting.
- Final Adjournment.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St. Richmond Va.

OBITUARIES.

MONTGOMERY.

John B. Montgomery died at Rainey Hospital, Burlington, August 29th, after undergoing an unsuccessful operation. He was seventy-two years of age and had spent the greater part of his life in Graham. He had been in feeble health for a year; however, he was cheerful, hopeful and submissive to the end. He married Laura Harden, daughter of the late Peter R. Harden, of Graham, and he and his companion had lived in Graham since their union forty-five years ago. They had one child who lived only a short while.

The deceased was a member of Graham-Providence Memorial Church, and was very much interested in it. The pallbearers were selected from the Men's Bible Class of which he was a member. His funeral was conducted from his Church and by his pastor, assisted by Dr. P. H. Fleming, and then his body was laid to rest in the cemetery by the side of his infant child.

ers—W. L., of Chicago; J. P., of Burlington, and F. C., of Graham—two sisters, Mrs. Ludwick Sommers and Mrs. Lafayette Holt, both of Burlington, and an adopted daughter, Virginia Harden, who mourn his departure.

T. E. WHITE.

STRATFORD.

Mrs. Bessie O. Stratford, wife of W. O. Stratford, Haw River, N. C., was born October 19, 1858, and departed this life September 6, 1926. Her maiden name was Trollinger. On October 25, 1877, she and Mr. W. O. Stratford were united in marriage, and to them were born seven children. Her husband and five children survive her.

In early life she united with New Providence Christian Church, but some years ago placed her membership with the Presbyterian Church, and was at the time of her death a member of the Presbyterian Church, Graham, N. C.

In her daily life she was kindly disposed, generous, self-sacrificing. She delighted in doing good, in helping others. A good woman, wife, mother, friend and neighbor has passed from labor to reward.

The funeral services were from the home, and her body laid to rest in the family plot in the Trollinger cemetery, New River, N. C., by the side of loved ones.

P. H. FLEMING.

BRADLEY.

Mrs. Phoebe Elizabeth Bradley departed this life at a hospital, where she had gone for treatment, September 4, 1926, in her sixty-fifth year. Her husband preceded her to the spirit land some years ago. She leaves to mourn her going seven children, thirteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

She was a member of Union Christian Church and a very useful woman in the homes where there was sickness, sorrow, and suffering. In the midst of sorrow and suffering she found comfort in the religion of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

The funeral services were conducted from Mt. Zion Christian Church by the writer, assisted by Rev. Mr. Overton; and her body was laid to rest in the Church cemetery to await the resurrection.

P. H. FLEMING.

BRAY.

Mrs. Sarah Alice Bray was born January 3, 1876, and died September 4, 1926. In early life she was converted and joined the Christian Church, and where she lived, there she placed her membership and worked and worshipped. At her death she was a faithful member of Liberty, N. C. (Randolph County), Christian Church. She was married to Charles L. Bray May 24, 1895. To this union one daughter was born—Mrs. E. R. Stout, of Mt. Airy, N. C. Her death was sudden and distressingly sad. The father and mother were spending a short vacation with their daughter, Mrs. Stout, when the daughter carried Sister Bray and the little granddaughter out riding, and as the child stood at the auto door the door opened and the child fell out, and the grandmother, to save the child, sprang out after it, but failed to land on

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E
CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings. (Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

her feet, but struck on her head with such force that she died in a few minutes.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends" (Jno. 15:13). Surely this mother gave her life for the grandchild. She lived the earnest, sincere Christian life. She was a woman of strong faith in God. She was faithful and efficient in her Church. The burial was from Pleasant Ridge Christian Church, where the pastor, Rev. Allred, and quite a number of friends spoke in loving testimony of her life. The attendance was very large and the flowers beautiful in their color and fragrant in their silent words of love. The hymns of the old type were sung tenderly and sweetly. The burial services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Revs. J. E. McCauley, J. E. Allred, and Lindley. She leaves to mourn their loss a devoted husband, an only daughter and son-in-law, and the precious good daughter for whom she gave her life, and a host of relatives and friends. May God sustain the bereaved ones is the prayer of her pastor.

JAS. L. FOSTER.

FERRELL.

Phillip Ferrell was born July 27, 1859, and died August 31, 1926, in his 68th year. His wife, whose maiden name was Della Cooper, died October 21, 1903. To Bro. Ferrell and wife were born eleven children, ten of whom are living. He has 39 grand children and 12 great grand children living.

In early life he united with Hanks' Chapel Christian Church, but a year or two ago moved his membership to the Haw River Christian Church, of which church he was a member when he fell asleep to await the resurrection.

He was very fond of music and frequently played on his violin, "The Haven of Rest." He expressed himself as sure of the rest that remaineth to the people of God.

The funeral services were conducted at Hanks' Chapel by the writer, assisted by Rev. Mr. Starling. The interment was in the church cemetery.

P. H. FLEMING.

WILLIAMS.

Murdock Augustus Williams died at his home in Nausemond County, June 18, 1926, aged 77 years.

He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Eudora Johnson. From this union there survives one son, J. F. Williams of Suffolk.

He is also survived by his second wife, who was Miss Marta John Daughtrey, three daughters and seven sons: Mrs. Westley Nelms, Mrs. Forest Pearce, and Miss Marie Williams, of the County, George, Harrison, Jack, Cecil and Moses Williams of the County, Otto Williams of Suffolk, and Millard Williams of Silver City, New Mexico, and seventeen grandchildren and one great grand-child.

The funeral services were conducted at Providence Methodist Church by the writer, assisted by Revs. H. J. Goodwyn of the Baptist Church and C. L. Ledbetter of the Methodist Church. Interment in Cedar Hill Cemetery, Suffolk, Va.

The Lord bless the bereaved ones.

W. D. HARWARD.

Oh, when shall we learn the sweet trust and home?—Phillips Brooks.
in God that our little children teach us every day by their confiding faith in us? We who are so mutable, so faulty, so irritable, so unjust, and he who is so watchful, so pitiful, so loving, so forgiving! Why cannot we, slipping our hand in his each day, walk trustingly over that day's appointed path, thorny or flowery, crooked or straight, knowing that evening will bring us sleep, peace

A Chicago boy, hailed into court on a disorderly conduct charge, was sentenced to read good books. The sentence was carried out under supervision of a court official.

The greatest earthquake disaster in all history ocured in China in 1556. More than a million people were killed. Chinese tradition refers to it as "the time when the mountains walked."

The biggest piece of mica ever found was taken not long ago from a North Carolina mine. It weighed 3,332 pounds and was worth approximately $5,000.

"Pilgrim's Progress" is one of the most read of books. It has been translated into at least 107 languages.

A continuous performance

Nothing is permanent in railroading.

Larger cars and engines must be bought to handle greater loads; the roadbed must ever be kept in good condition, new ties and heavier rails must be laid to support heavier trains at high speeds; and in places the course of the line must be changed to reduce curves and grades.

Shop facilities must be enlarged, terminals improved and bridges rebuilt to carry the ever-growing train-loads. New signalling devices are being installed, and new tracks, yards and sidings built to handle the growing traffic of the South. This process of change, improvement and renewal goes on day in and day out throughout the year.

But the service must never stop. The way must ever be kept open for the great freights as they rush through the night carrying products of the South to distant markets, and the world's goods to Southern buyers. And the Crescent Limited, the Royal Palm and other passenger trains must not be delayed.

Railroading on the Southern Railway System is a continuous performance both in service rendered and in provision for handling the greater traffic of the future.

Everything used on a railroad wears out. Last year about $60,000,000 was spent by the Southern in replacing things that had worn out.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D.....Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D.....Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D.....Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL.....Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D...Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM.....News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE.....Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year$ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to "Editor Christian Sun," Elon College, N. C.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas on July 6, 1926, God, in His infinite love took from our church, Sunday School and community our beloved brother, Walter Vick, we wish to express our appreciation of him:

First, That we remember him as being a most faithful member in all his duties to both church and Sunday School. His loyalty was not surpassed. We commend his life to all our members, and may the influence of it draw us nearer to God and heaven.

Second, While we realize that we have lost a faithful and long-lived member, and mourn our loss, we are submissive to Him who doeth all things well.

Third, That we sympathize with the family, especially with the one who remained with him so faithfully, and may our Father sustain them.

Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy sent to the records of Johnson's Grove, and copies sent to The Christian Sun and The Tidewater News for publication.

- Miss INEZ BEALE,
- Miss EMMA HANCOCK,
- M. H. DOYLE.

RESOLUTIONS.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Main Street Christian Church of Durham wishes to pay a tribute of love and respect to one of its oldest and most faithful members, Mrs. Margaret Harward, whom God in his infinite love and wisdom saw fit to remove from our midst on June 30, 1926.

She was always present at the meetings when able to attend, and ever interested in every phase of the work.

Be it resolved:

First, That we thank our heavenly Father for her faithful Christian life and cherish her memory as one who dedicated her life to her Lord.

Second, That we extend our sympathy to the children and grandchildren and trust that her gentle influence and life of devotion may be a guide to them in all the years to come.

Third, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to The Christian Sun for publication, one sent to the family, and a copy be preserved in our records.

- Mrs. R. J. KERNODLE,
- Mrs. E. H. BOBBITT,
- Mrs. J. M. SAUNDERS.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00
- 0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick..... $6.00
- 04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35
- 0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75
- 05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25
- 05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75
- 04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50
- 0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick... $9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address

THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type

22 And the prophet Isaiah said, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearst Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type. AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges..... .70

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1926.

NUMBER 40.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

THE PRESIDENT RETURNS.—

President Coolidge has returned to the White House in Washington after his summer spent at White Pine Camp, in the Adirondacks, as the guest of Mr. Irving Kirkwood, a St. Louis Newspaper man. He has announced that he will probably visit the west next summer for his vacation.

A GREAT RECORD.—

According to statistics released at London recently, but one railroad passenger was killed in England last year, 1925. As students of railroads know, the English trains are very fast trains, those between England and Scotland being the fastest in the world. During 1925, 6,766 passengers were killed in wrecks on American railroads. This is a big difference, and cannot be accounted for by the extent of the American systems, but only by the fact that English Railroad systems are operated in a far more careful manner than those of America.

NO CHANGE IN POLICY.—

President Coolidge announced that the report of the unofficial commission to Russia under Sherwood Eddy would bring no change in the policy of the United States toward Russia. The policy is not to recognize Russia or any other power until it has established a government which meets the standards of the United States, so that the government can feel safe in saying to its citizens that they may make commitments to that country and rely upon the support of the government in their collections. The Sherwood Eddy commission was not able to convince President Coolidge that Russia has such a government as yet.

INDIANS INCREASING.—

During the eighteenth century certain poets praised the American Red Skin, and lamented the fact that the day would soon come when no more of these romantic figures would be left to roam the forests. Had they survived so long, they might have rejoiced at the report of Charles H. Burke, the Indian Commissioner of the United States Government. His report showed that there were at present 450,000 Indians in the United States. He pointed out that this was a gain of four and one-half per cent in the last decade. The Cherokee Indians of North Carolina are more prolific than any of the others, and show a thirty-four and one-half per cent increase in this period. Since 1871, the United States Congress has appropriated $460,000,000 for the support and education of the Indians. "I know of no dependent people in all history who have made such progress as the last fifty years show the Indians to have made," Mr. Burke said. Except these few on the spot, their all. Many feel, however, whose land oil has been discovered, all the Indians are poor enough to need government aid Mrs. N T sent the storm, it will certainly aid in the correct adjustment of values, and that Florida and Miami will emerge with a greater stability than ever could have been possible had the hurricane not come. "God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform."

HEALTHY CHICAGO.—

Of the 148,000 children given public health examinations last year, 110,000 of them were found to have ailments serious enough to warrant medical treatment. Though this is true, Chicago's death rate is still the lowest of any community of more than a million people in the world, and this in spite of her killings. In Chicago, 11.5 persons out of every thousand die; in Berlin, 11.7; in New York, 12.2; in Vienna, 12.9; in Philadelphia, 13.2; in Buenos Aires, 13.7; in Paris, 14.7; in Bombay, 25.4; in Calcutta, 32.7. These statistics may be surprising, and the thing to wonder at is not more that Chicago's death rate is so low than that the death rate in the two Indian cities is so high. It is true that Jesus came into the world to bring life, and where He is known the death rate is comparatively low, and where His is not known, it is high.

CATASTROPHE.—

The destruction at Miami, Florida, stands out as one of the greatest catastrophes of our time. No city's growth has ever been so phenomenal as Miami's, increasing as it did a quarter of a million in five years. It has drawn to its blue waves and sun-kissed shores the wealth of a nation where millions are abundant. It has boasted of its indolent rich and the magnificence of its hotels. Its real estate has been exploited until further exploitation was impossible. During the past summer the reaction had come, but Miami still boasted. The other day the barometer began to fall, and fell steadily until it stood at the lowest point ever reached in America. The winds blew a 130 miles an hour hurricane. The houses that were built to sell crumbled and fell and were blown away, leaving nothing to mark the place where they had stood. Debris strewn the earth. Ships anchored themselves in the streets and houses went to sea. Water and crashing timbers took a heavy toll of life. No one knows yet how many corpses are still buried beneath the wreckage. The monetary loss is inestimable. Thirty-eight thousand people were left homeless and without food or clothing. Martial law was declared, and to the rescue came the Red Cross. President Coolidge called upon the nation to aid Florida. The papers thought it well to assure the people that this catastrophe was not an exhibition of the wrath of God, and they boasted no more of the fair city which in a night had ceased to be. The poor will suffer most. They always do. Those men and women who had answered the boom call and had put all they had in Florida; they will suffer because

MR. KIPLING OFFENDS.—

The newspapers, cartoonists, and the American public generally have seized upon a choice morsel from Rudyard Kipling's latest book which they consider an insult to Americans. By a striking simile of the parable of the laborers in the Vineyard, and by insinuation, he charges America with having entered the late war at the eleventh hour, and using the fresh strength which she had to seize the spoils and make them her own. In this poem, which will help his reputation not a bit, Mr. Kipling has been unpleasantly frank with America. The English Press regrets the poem, but it reminds Americans that Poet Kipling is not the Laureate of England, and never has been. In his early years he did do some hymning of the "Dominion over palm and pine," and aided the brutal exploitation of India in his "The White Man's Burden," but he was never poet laureate of the nation. His utterances, therefore should not be taken as the utterances of the nation or the national attitude. In America the press has been irritated distinctly by the poem, or it has found in it a source of philosophizing broadly. In writing the poem, it is certainly true that Mr. Kipling did not keep his facts in mind. On the other hand it is equally true that Americans have been too conceited about their part in the war, bragging as many do, that they won the war. The whole European attitude toward America, which is none too friendly, is caused by the fact that America is insisting upon the collection, in part at least, of debts which they made during the war. They wanted the United States to make a financial contribution to them as individual powers in lieu of her belated entrance into the struggle. Mr. Kipling's poem is not calculated to make the American people feel more generous toward Europe. America is asking only for her own, while Europe is just as urgent in her efforts to collect the indemnity from Germany, which is a contribution levied by the conquerors upon the conquered, and in which the United States does not share one cent's worth. Mr. Kipling should remember these things, and Americans must remember the heroic sacrifices of other peoples in the struggle, and remember that together she and they did what, perhaps, neither could have done alone. Let us be more considerate, and more opinions such as Mr. Kipling has expressed may not cross the ocean to us here in America.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Conferences will soon begin. The Churches, in making their selections for delegates, should choose those who will go to the annual Conference, arriving by the hour of opening and remaining until Conference closes.

Let each SUN reader bear in mind that the Committee on Memorials, Judge J. F. West, chairman, Waverly, Va., is exceedingly anxious to secure enough funds during October to erect the memorials to O'Kelly on the Elon College campus and a permanent marker on the Old Lebanon site, Surry County, Va.

Send all money for O'Kelly and Old Lebanon Church memorials to the treasurer of the committee, J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C., who will acknowledge the same in THE CHRISTIAN SUN. Any individual who cares for our Christian Church history and principles can and should have a part in this worthy undertaking.

Miss Ruth Johnson of Fuquay Springs, N. C., is very much delighted with her work in our Riverdale Church, Dayton, Ohio. Miss Ruth sends us the last installment of her recent trip to Europe with Christian Endeavor and we know many readers will deeply regret that she returned so quickly and finished her interesting account so soon.

Get two or three children busy in each church or Sunday School soliciting funds for the O'Kelly Memorial and the Old Lebanon Site Marker. We need $2,000.00, all of which can be and should be secured during the month of October, if proper opportunity is given to the people of the church. All money for the memorials should be sent to J. O. Atkinson, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Orban, Jr., of Whittier, California, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Melville, have been pleasant visitors at Elon College and in the home of President and Mrs. Harper, the past week. Brother Orban and his good wife donated the handsome, adequate and costly Religious Education Building to the College. While here they drove over one day to Christian College, Franklinton, N. C., in which these good people are much interested.

Let CHRISTIAN SUN subscribers bear in mind that hereafter, all money on subscriptions, whether for new subscriptions or renewals, should be sent to the Editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, Elon College, N. C. The Board of Publications has asked the Editor to collect and receipt all subscriptions, and he is glad to do so, or to help in any way possible, that our dear CHRISTIAN SUN may continue to live and go forward in the great work it is doing for the Church.

The General Convention of the Christian Church convenes in Urban, Ill., Wednesday, October 20th. It is the mecca towards which hundreds and thousands of Christians are looking and longing. From reports, a large delegation from the South will be going. The Chesapeake and Ohio railway route has been chosen from Norfolk, Richmond, Charlottesville, and a special Pullman, or more than one if necessary, will be attached to the train leaving Norfolk at noon on October 19th. See notice of more detailed schedule in another column.

It is to be hoped that every CHRISTIAN SUN reader will read every line of the brief article in this week's SUN, "After a Century." This article is by Brother J. F. West, Jr., son of Judge J. F. West, Waverly, Va., who is the Chairman of the Committee on Memorials and has done so much to get the work as far as it is. Brother J. F., Jr., certainly goes to the point in his article and gives the whole matter in a nut shell. If nothing else is read in this week's SUN, by all means read "After a Century."

Rev. G. O. Lankford, D. D., Burlington, N. C., has returned from a series of meetings with Pastor J. F. Morgan, at Berea Church, Norfolk County, Va., of which Dr. Lankford was the former pastor. In writing of the meetings, Brother Morgan says, "We closed a wonderful series of revival meetings last night at the Berea (Norfolk) Christian Church. There were twelve additions to the Church, and a very large number of reconsecrations. Dr. G. O. Lankford, of Burlington, N. C., did the preaching, and the music was led by the pastor. Dr. Lankford's sermons were of a high order, and were greatly appreciated by the large audiences that attended the services."

We are wondering if teachers in Sunday Schools or leaders of Christian Endeavor Societies have cards to give to some member of their class or school to solicit funds for the O'Kelly and Old Lebanon memorials? The Editor of THE SUN has sent some cards to each Sunday School superintendent and every pastor in the Southern Convention with the earnest desire and urgent request that these cards be given to some hustling young person in the Sunday School. We believe in this way funds can be secured for the memorials. Rev. James O'Kelly will have been dead one hundred years on October 16th. It would seem a most fitting thing that Churches take an offering on the 17th of October, so that we may raise the funds necessary to put up the memorial to this great man and pioneer in the field of religious liberty.

People's Christian Church, Dover, Del., celebrated a rally day service with a large congregation, and a most beautiful and appropriate service on Sunday, September 26th. The printed program shows an inviting occasion. The sermon by the pastor was on "The Supremacy of the Church." They had a rally day song, entitled "People's Church, How Wonderful!" tune, "America the Beautiful." Words by the pastor. The first two stanzas and chorus were as follows:

O wonderful is People's Church!
It's known both far and near;
Its building stands majestically
In Dover, Del-a-ware.

Chorus.

O People's Church, with faith so true,
In Gospel's liberty;
God bless thy loving service here
With wondrous victory.

Our members have sweet fellowship,
True loyalty and worth;
They have the grace of harmony,
Their love spans all the earth.

FOR SALE.

Two or three lots fronting the Elon College campus from the South; width 80 to 100 feet, depth 200 to 300 feet. Address

JAMES L. FOSTER,
Elon College, N. C.
P. O. Box 113.
Adv.

AFTER A CENTURY.

The call of the Committee on Memorials of the Southern Christian Convention, now finding its way into the heart of our denomination, should meet with quick response. For one hundred years—to our shame—we have left unmarked the site of "Old Lebanon," in Surry County, Va., the birthplace of the Christian Church, and failed to memorialize Rev. James O'Kelly, the founder and father of the movement which brought this great thing to pass.

It was a great day in our Church life when the Southern Christian Convention appointed a committee to undertake this work, and the recent announcement by this committee that the contracts have been let for the erection of these memorials should awaken us from our long sleep. The committee is to be congratulated in that suitable memorials have been arranged at a total cost of only $2,095.00. The appeal for a special offering on the Third Sunday in October is deserving and no Christian should let so rare an opportunity pass. The Old Lebanon Memorial will stand on the Richmond-Norfolk highway, and the memorial to Rev. O'Kelly will be erected on the campus at Elon College.

Brother Superintendents and Pastors, you have been asked to carry this story to your people. Be prompt in your action. We have been moved by love and pride; may that same devotion and sacred memory flood the office of Dr. Atkinson during the third week of October by your remittances and mine, so that this noble work can be finished in November. Not a dollar should be left unpaid; and Christian people, the task is ours. After One Hundred Years! will we not respond? God help us to do the right.

J. F. WEST, JR.

AN APPEAL FOR BETHLEHEM.

Bethlehem College opened according to the regular program. We had a fine opening. It will be hard to find a finer set of young people anywhere. The teachers are happy on their jobs. But, oh! how we need more room. I am doing all I know to get the Administration Building up. We need a few thousand dollars to get this building finished. I am trying to pay as we go, and that makes the work slow. We have the sub-floor on the second story, and we want to get the roof on before bad winter weather. Our people here are responding nobly, but we must have some outside help, if we are to succeed. I know we have good people far and near who wish us well, but we need help right now.

I am just wondering and praying if the many good friends who read this will not stop right away and send us a check. Send it to me at Wadley, Alabama. It would help us so much in this hour of our need. I am making the hardest fight of my life to put this project over. Back me up with your prayers and your money.

I am yours for the Kingdom of our Christ.

H. W. ELDER.

The Christian has much to be thankful for. He who stands upon the solid rock of eternal truth enjoys a satisfaction found nowhere else. To avoid human opinions, refusing to build upon the sand, and, upon the other hand, to walk in the light of Holy Writ, practicing implicitly what is enjoined therein, is, indeed, to stand upon the firm foundation of God. When the rock of Gibraltar shall have crumbled to dust, when the everlasting hills are leveled by the wasting hand of time, the grounds set forth upon the sacred page, and that are occupied by all true children of God, shall prove to be firm and eternal.—Gospel Advocate.

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
 Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
 W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
 J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN C. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

CHRISTIANIZING THE ENTIRE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

There is no greater need in America today than that our entire system of education shall be Christianized. Be it borne in mind that Christianity led off in the work of education in America. Some of our very first primary and secondary schools, as well as our oldest and most noted colleges and universities were founded and fostered by the church, or religious leaders. Harvard University bears the name of Rev. John Harvard, an humble minister of the gospel so interested in its welfare that he gave it his library. Yale was founded by twelve ministers and is to this day a Congregational institution, or at least is largely sustained by Congregational leaders and religionists. Every denomination of numbers and history has its college or colleges for higher education of its youth. These are some of the facts which prove that America has always felt the need of Christianity in her educational system. One is inclined to assert, in the absence of definite statistics to the contrary, that there are more pupils in church colleges and universities in America today than there are in State owned colleges and universities.

This does not indicate, however, that all education, even in denominational colleges, is Christian. This is the tendency and should be the fact, but how easily in prosperity and power and in prestige do we forget the spirit of the Man of Galilee and ignore the teachings and the life of the Carpenter of Nazareth.

All education should be Christian. This would not detract from the worth and power, but would enhance the merits and achievements of education. Jesus said, "I am the truth." What education seeks is truth. But the spirit of many institutions is to educate youth from Christ instead of educating youth to and in Christ. That education is Christian only which begets both in the educated, but the educator, a spirit of loyalty to Jesus Christ. He is the world's greatest teacher. Socrates, Aristotle and Plato taught unitedly a hundred and thirty years, but their combined lives and teachings are not to be compared in height, or depth, or in results with the three years' teaching of the Carpenter of Nazareth. He stands alone in the realm of teachers, and from His day until this hour teachers have been great and achieved only as they have approached Him and His methods, and have led their pupils along the line of loyalty to, esteem and reverence for, Him. The Sunday School is engaged in the Christian task of giving a larger knowledge of the Christ, and this task should be carried out and is carried out by institutions that are really Christian. The effort of Christian colleges is to enthrone Jesus Christ, not to dethrone; and to build up in the hearts of pupils everywhere a loving loyalty to Him and a more thorough and intimate acquaintance with Him.

Our whole educational system from grades to graduation should be Christian, and must be Christian to attain highest and best results.

"JESUS SAID IT."

"Heaven and earth shall pass, but my words shall not pass away." Man has done much to destroy the words of our Saviour and the Word of God, but it cannot be done. There is a reason. Jesus Himself gave the reason, in John 6: 63, "The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life." Because the Word of God is spirit and is life, the Word cannot be done away by the will or works of man. Voltaire, the versatile and powerful French atheist, predicted that the Bible would soon pass and the Word of God would be to non-effect. The very printing press from which Voltaire's works were issued has since been used to print the Word of God. Chesterfield, the great infidel who held an infidel club in his parlor expected naturally that the Word of God would pass away and yet in that very room now Christian men meet for prayer, praise and worship. Even "the wrath of God shall praise Him. Hume, the Historian, predicted that Christianity would be dead in twenty years from the time he wrote, but the Bible Society of Edinburg held its first meeting in the room where Hume died. Hume passed away, but the Words of Jesus still abide. When Tom Paine landed in New York, he predicted that in five years not a Bible would be found in the United States, but there are more Bibles in the United States today by millions than there were in the days of Paine, and more than in any other country in the world.

Some things pass away readily, but the great and good God who created this earth, made some things to be permanent. His Word is one of the "permanents." Jesus knew what He was talking about when He declared that heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass.

OUR DENOMINATION BUDGET.

Convention Action Affects All Pledges to the Denomination's Interest.

There has been a desire on the part of the leaders of our Church for the past years to expand her interests and enlarge her program. Such undertakings have entailed great responsibilities in men and in money.

To make these responsibilities possible and to make possible the growth and development of our Church, a large number of our public-spirited men and women of the Church came forward promptly with their pledges and liberal donations.

Large pledges were made to the missionary interests of our Church in response to the appeal made by our Mission Secretary, Dr. J. O. Atkinson. We are not only interested in missions, but we are interested in education—in Elon College—and there were a large number among us who came to the support of the institution with our pledges and co-operation under the leadership of our president, Dr. W. A. Harper, and our board of trustees. There arose, however, a feeling throughout the Church that only those with larger means had had the opportunity of contributing to the Church through these two departments; and that the whole Church should be asked to support every interest of the Church; so under the insistence and inspiration of Lieutenant-Governor J. E. West, the Men and Millions Movement was launched.

Pledges were received from every section of our brotherhood and from a number of individuals and Churches.

A great number of these pledges have been paid in part or in full. The date set for the final payment of all paid pledges had past. The Convention felt the necessity of adopting a larger program for the Church which would necessarily entail the adopting of a larger Convention budget—this done in Convention assembled at Durham, N. C. At the same time, the Convention voted to return all pledges, made to the Convention interests, to the individuals or Churches making these pledges.

I am writing this article to the Church at large to suggest that if there are individuals who do not wish their pledges returned to their local Church that they write immediately to the one to whom the pledge was made; also to state that these pledges will be returned to any and all Churches upon request. Write either Dr. W. A. Harper or Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C.

In voting that these pledges be returned to the individual or Church and that no further collection be sought by the Convention officials, it is the hope and prayer of the Convention that every individual in the Church will feel a personal responsibility to support the larger program and budget of the Church through his local Church, and that every Church will be willing to underwrite both the assessment determined by the Convention and accepted by the Conference, and the larger benevolence budget which the Convention has requested and whose committee is now becoming most active in placing this claim on the Church at large.

As President of the Convention, I most earnestly appeal to every Conference, every Church and every individual throughout the Convention to give his whole-hearted endorsement and support to the extent of his financial ability in order that our Convention interest such as missions, colleges, orphanages, Christian education, superannuation, e. c., may have sufficient support to enable them to press forward with their aggressive and forward-looking program.

Your Church is depending on you.

L. E. SMITH,

President Southern Christian Convention.
Norfolk, Va.

TOWARD A BETTER UNDERSTANDING OF YOUTH.

BY REV. P. V. HARRIS.

To discover the reason for the contradictory opinions concerning the young people of today is difficult. To discover the fact is not difficult at all. Extravagant statements are made pro and con. A certain group of outstanding leaders who pose as the champions of youth would have us believe that youth presents no problem at all. That, in stead, they constitute the final court of appeals, since they have not been affected by the cake of custom or the tethering of conventionali-ties. A man of national repute, in a lecture delivered recently, impressed his hearers with the idea that youth, being unaffected, as they are, by such influences, were able to solve the major problems facing civilization and the Church today. Such an attitude, to most of us, seems extreme and we believe is only rarely accepted by the young people themselves.

Other leaders swing to the opposite extreme. They offer adverse criticism freely, and many of them go into tirades against modern youth upon the slightest provocation. Scathing denunciations are being printed daily in both secular and religious periodicals. A large per cent of this group find the strength (or weakness) of their argument in a comparison of the youth of an idealized past with the youth of the present.

While the great majority represent neither of these extremes, the insistence of the extremists in broadcasting their views, and the silence of the majority, are grounds for the belief that too much cannot be said or done that will tend toward a better understanding of youth.

So far as the people of the Christian denomination are concerned, we have great reason to rejoice. A bright star is shining. It will lead to Bethlehem. A new and sane understanding is being developed between its adulthood and its youth. We are feeling our way through the maze of darkness. We are doing again what the Master once did. We are putting man first, personality before things. We do not want anything to exist for its own sake. Our Churches, schools, orphanages, everything that we call a righteous enterprise, must be merely an agent through which life can be properly unfolded. We have reached such vantage ground that even the greatest friend of youth need not feel that he must rise up to defend them. We have passed through the period of defense, and are doing a much more pleasant thing. We are heralding the fact that in co-operation with the young people themselves a program for the proper development of character that is worthy of the approval of us all is being worked out. This program is based on self-development through vital activity.

It is true that some changes, modifications, and developments are being made in the young people's program. But—why not? Does not the change of world enterprises make it necessary? Such terms as a "new day," "new age," etc., have long since become hackneyed, but the very fact is that they have helps to establish it as a fact in our thinking. Industrial changes, production of wealth, released time with its cultural and recreational opportunities, have produced conditions that necessitate policy changes of the Church as well as every other institution that functioned in an earlier day. Of all changes or modifications, the program directly touching the young people is the one that would naturally be altered first.

The message and purpose of the Church will always remain the same. The method of the Church must change with every movement of society. As an institution, the Church has always been rather conservative, and ought to be. It should neither be erratic nor unstable. It should not be guilty of sailing after every glittering innovation that some high-powered salesman offers her until it is proven and found worthy. The Church must remain the stabilizing influence in the world, and no revolution should mark its tactics.

But it must be remembered that until recently we have had no distinct enterprise within our Church, as a whole, that offered the modern youth full opportunity for safe development of his four-fold life—physical, mental, social and spiritual. Nor has it been so essential in the past as it is today. Until recently, there was no such thing as commercial interests capitalizing the elements of appeal for the sake of money. Perhaps we did not notice this until it was discovered that even after the series of tirades upon the waywardness of youth, a large percent of the Churches had drawn a parenthesis about the ages of fourteen to twenty-four, this group being conspicuous by their absence from all Church meetings. It was discovered that the situation was produced by a misunderstanding of the young people themselves. To some it came as a shock, but the discovery was only made by those who were able to convince the young people that they were their friends. This friendship continues to wax stronger and stronger in our denomination, until it can soon be said that there will be no middle wall or partition between the wholesome interests of the youth and the desire of the adults for their realization. In many Churches the adults are gladly responding with their money and interest as new building programs and educational plants are being added with recreational and social rooms, when possible, in their effort to co-operate with the young folks in the program of character building through self-activity.

One discovery that has been made is that we demanded of the young people that they have adult reactions, rather than the reactions of young people. We have called them silly, flippant and giddy because they had not completely absolved the characteristics of childhood and appropriated the piety and even parsimony and external seriousness of adulthood (a certain type of adulthood). But now the pendulum is swinging so that many of these characteristics to which we gave the taboo we are wanting to appropriate as adults.

The one thing that has been definitely established is that the boy or girl will receive his greatest advantage in the proper development of his life when the Church will afford an opportunity for his self-activity. There is no other way to learn than by doing. It is a great thing to sanction an ideal and say, "That is mine." But it is more important to build it into one's life by an ardent battle for it as a principle. It is a good thing to talk about the ideals of Jesus in the Sunday School class, and to let the individual talk about them in the Christian Endeavor prayer meeting. But after they have been talked in the class and reviewed in the Endeavor Society, is it not equally worth while that the boy appropriate them in his life, while ardently engaged in his favorite sport? Virtue and respect for the opposite sex can be taught effectively in the review of the story of Jesus and the woman at the well. But is it not also an aid in building it into the life itself by proper social contact under the supervision of the Church? So it is that the modern Church is using fine arts, dramatization of Bible stories, pageantry, etc., in relation to its young people's program. It is welcoming the social room or the parlor in a Christian home and thus capitalizing the social instinct of youth in the effort, through self-activity, to build Christian character. It is even appropriating the gymnasium and the recreational room for the same purpose, and the writer believes that it will be a happy day for the Church when its understanding of youth reaches the point that it can say of every wholesome activity, "We do not bid you depart, but we appropriate you in our supreme task of character building."

To make these interests merely a bait would be justifying criticism of their use. Unless a good thing in themselves, the Church has no right to use them. If a good thing in themselves, then the Church should approve them.

A young pastor recently was enthusiastic over the new program that he wished to have adopted by his Church for the advantages of his young people, when a counter-charge came back at him with a finalissimo that does not lend itself to word picture. "Well, I think that the young people have got such a start of the Church that they can't do anything now." The Church cannot compete with the world.

Another minister, while advocating the use of pageantry and the dramatization of Bible stories, was set back in a similar way when the remark came, "Before I was converted, the world made an appeal to me. I wanted to go to the theater and enjoyed worldly things, but after I became converted I cared no longer for the things of the world. I ceased going to the theater, and I do not want the theater to come to the Church."

Another who was planning a recreational program for the young people soon met the objection that it was from such foolishness that the Church was seeking to save its youth.

I mention these three incidents because they are representative of the thought too frequently expressed in our Churches.

In the first instance, the person practically says, "The task is hopeless, the present-day youth is godless. Let the Church throw up her hands and call 'Enough'."

In the second instance, the objection is that the bars are down, the Church can no longer function since its ideals are those of Beelzebub rather than Christ. Its practices are no different from the worldly destructionists. Therefore, the more it would succeed, the greater would be the influence for evil in the life of the unfolding youth.

In the third instance, the objection is that true religion consists in a life of restrictions; that, although it may be the natural thing for the girl to giggle at a certain age, it would be far more religious to cry; while the boy might have oodles of impulses to prank and play and develop physically and socially, it would be foreign to religion and it would be better to curtail such vain impulses, hold his hands down and molly-coddle away what leisure time he is permitted to have, and if he is determined to throw a baseball, jump the rope or disgrace himself with a worldly group of basket-ball players the Church should stay by its lead, and cry out against such nonsense. At least it should turn its back upon such carryings on so as not to behold with its holy eye. Above all things, it should not supervise, lest it be giving sanction to a worldly program.

But let it be understood that the religion of Christianity is to be applied to the whole of life. That just as the adult must allow it to affect his business relations, his every-day activities, even so must it carry over into the young man's or young woman's every-day interests and activities. And a proper understanding of the youth would lead one to affirm that he is living in these realms, that play and recreation and social activities are just as much a vital part of his life as the business transactions of his father and is a vital part of his development for the period of sterner things which are to appear later on his horizon.

Perhaps no finer thing has been done for the youth of our Church than the establishment of the summer schools for conference and training of young people. There is a great task, a far-reaching challenge. The utopia is not yet. The consecrated youth of our Church must be trained and released to serve their own. Those who are permitted to work with young people at summer schools and Christian colleges are amazed at the initiative and ability the young people display. They are working out a program of their own. Let every Church and every pastor encourage them in their task. With the larger place given them by the Church, scores of young people will be led from the unsatisfying appeals of worldly selfishness into the channels of Christian service with lofty ideals and altruistic endeavor.

Conneaut, Ohio.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

One of the problems in a local church is the matter of finance. Money is as necessary in the conduct of a church as it is in government, public schools, or business. It is as binding upon church members to pay for the support of the church as it is for citizens to pay tax. A citizen is not allowed to vote in an election unless he has paid his poll tax. In the Jewish economy the tithe included support of church and state. It was a Theocracy—the church and the state were one. The separation of church and state is a modern Christian idea. While the church and state are separate in their government and support, the Christian is under obligation to contribute to the support of both; and it would not be a bad rule to pay as much to the church as to the State, the county, and the city. Spiritual interests are as important as are civic interests. In the field of civic obligations there are taxes in the city, the county, the State, and the nation. In the church there are local financial needs, Conference needs, and Convention needs. The United States rests on the States, the States on the counties and the cities. The Convention rests on the Conferences, and the Conferences on the churches, and all rest on the members.

The above emphasizes the importance and value of church membership. It is everything in its influence, its value, and its support. There are three things church members must do or the church will die. They must live their profession. They must follow Jesus Christ in such a way that others may "take knowledge of them, that they have been with Jesus." (Acts 4:13.) The sinless life of Jesus was not for Himself but for sinners. Church membership is not for self, but for others. The life of a church member that does not radiate the spirit of Jesus Christ fails in its first obligation. Church attendance is the second obligation resting upon all church members, "not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another; and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching." (Heb. 10:25.) Church attendance is not simply a privilege, it is an obligation. "When the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place." (Acts 2:1) One accord in one place—that is the secret of a revival. It always begins that way. The potential forces of the church are locked up in being together in prayer.

Living and attending could never make a real church. There would be no house of worship, no pastor, no Sunday School, no choir, no heat and light, if members did nothing but live and attend church. They must pay; and they do. All do not, but those who pay keep the church alive, the pulpit to speak for God, and the choir to sing His praise. Every member should contribute regularly to the support of the church and its enterprises and institutions. Those who cannot give much should give little. Those who are able should give more; and all should give as God prospers them: "Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gathering when I come. (I Cor. 16:2.) That plan is simple, practical, divine.

W. W. STALEY.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

It is said that "competition is the life of trade," but it is even more than this, for through it a moral end is reached. For when the underlying principle of any successful business is the power to inspire confidence that just value is given for value received, and there can be no establishment of confidence aside from the spirit of the Golden Rule.

Under adequate governmental regulation, competition not only stimulates individual effort, but clears itself of abuses. Even for successful and permanent business, competition only fixes the limits within which men may operate. Where private initiative is not a factor to be considered, competition should be eliminated altogether. It will be easier for the social order to be Christian when all the necessary forms of public service have been socialized.

This is a hopefully competitive world. Even co-operation must have in it a competitive element, for it is this that gives zest to life. The old poem of Genesis tells only a half-truth when it names work as a curse upon the head of man. True, work in and of itself may be a burden, and when the only incentive is to secure the bare conditions of subsistence, it is a hardship. But introduce the competitive element, let one man measure himself against another, and work becomes a game.

But for what shall men compete? Upon that question turns the fate of society. Upon this change of the basis of competition, of the stake for which man plays his game, depends the socializing and Christianizing of human life. The time was when the bald struggle for existence was the only form of competition, but this gave place in time to the contest for power: The chief was the man who wielded the heaviest club. Afterward, when man began to join his brain to his muscle, he was still superior who by cunning and strength was more powerful than his fellows.

Happily the stake for which men have competed has changed for the better, but equally happily the competitive spirit remains. Every real man wants to win, whatever the game; he wants to excel, to stand among his fellows, to be counted great and successful. A man's eminence in any age is reckoned on the basis of his achievement, but on what basis is achievement reckoned? The world's progress may be read in the changing definition it makes for achievement. What was it that men competed for; what was counted success in any age; on what ground was one man held to be superior to another; what was the power and excellence which men craved? Answer these questions, and you will know the stage of development that each age has attained.

In our day, money is the badge of success! It is the evidence of achievement, the mark of superiority. What the chieftain and priest and monarch could do, the rich man can do in proportion to his wealth. Money rules today. The way to socialize an incurably competitive world, is to set men competing for something better than lordship and gold. Society is just as good as the stake for which men play. Christianize the rules of the game and the game becomes Christian. Set up a new standard of excellence, a new definition of achievement, a new measure of success, and men will inevitably play for the new stake.

Jesus gives us the Christian definition of achievement and true success: "Whosoever would be great among you, let him be your servant." The adoption of this rule for the game—that winning means serving—will change the game. Men will still compete to be first, but for a new stake, and business will become Christian. Apply the standard of Jesus and measure man's success by the amount of service rendered and not by the amount of dividends wrung out of business, and we will have in business one of the finest expressions of the Christian ideal.

S. L. BEOUGHER.

SEEING EUROPE WITH CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS.

BY MISS RUTH JOHNSON.

Across the channel lies Holland!

The Christian Endeavor group that toured the continent this summer were rather old-fashioned—none of them swam the channel; all crossed in the boat. And in contrast with the whirl of London, quaint, peaceful Holland was a retreat. She has no scars of war, but a clean, bright-faced people, full of joy and welcome.

As we rode through her streets, her villages, or countryside we were greeted with smiles and waving hands from old and young. Whether their dress was the modern or the old Dutch style, wooden shoes and balloon trousers, their manners were the same.

The Dutch women were not the bedraggled type that the English were, nor the over-blaze that the French were, but rather the American type—stylish, chic dresses worn by athletic women in appearance. There was much bobbed hair, but many of the smaller girls wore their hair in two long braids.

And everybody rode a bicycle. Oh, what a fad was created among the Americans. We couldn't rent one, but some of the group dramatized enough to borrow one for a short ride.

One energetic Endeavorer thought he would qualify for a David Belasco production when he went to a "garage" where bikes were parked and demonstrated his desire to rent a bike. They had none for rent, but gave us a card with a nearby address. We traced the address and found it to be a circus of expert bike-riders. We decided our Endeavorer would qualify better in the animated movies.

Quaint Holland with her dikes, canals, wind-mills and charming people, has much to interest her visitors.

The Peace Palace at The Hague, and the queen's palace in the woods bespeak of her peaceful atmosphere.

No one wished to leave Holland so soon, especially those who were staying at Hotel Kurhan's, at Schweningen (the Atlantic City of Holland), by the North Sea.

But the itinerary took us over into Belgium and into Brussels, their capital, where the Germans made their barracks during the World War, and where they committed their most dastardly crime in shooting the English Red Cross nurse Edith Cavell.

The Belgians impressed us with their bravery and courage. The restoration has been made beautifully and rapidly.

We think the best testimony of the Christian Endeavor group came from a Belgian. There were about three hundred of us who ate at a restaurant one day. The preparations had been preciously made, except there was no water. The manager of the group insisted that the restaurant manager supply water. He said it was impossible and fussed around. The meal was delayed, but finally water was supplied, and the Belgian told

(Continued on page 15.)

PROGRAM

TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL SESSION OF THE GEORGIA AND ALABAMA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., October 19, 20, 21, 1926.

First Day—Evening Session. 7:30 o'Clock.

Conference called to order by the President, Rev. H. M. Gray. Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. S. D. Lankford. Enrollment as follows: Ministers, Churches, Delegates. Reading and adoption of program of the session. The Annual Address, by Rev. H. M. Gray. Election of officers and appointment of Special Committees. Miscellaneous business. Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session. 8:30 o'Clock.

Conference called to order by the President. Devotional Service by Rev. P. L. Duke. Reading of minutes of previous session. Report of Executive Committee: Revs. H. M. Gray, C. W. Hanson, H. W. Elder. Address by Rev. H. W. Elder. Report on Foreign Missions: Revs. C. W. Hanson, T. J. Dean, S. D. Lankford. Address by Dr. J. O. Atkinson. Report on Christian Endeavor: Miss Aylmer Goodwin, Miss Ethel Abell, Miss Mary Talley. Address by Miss Mary Talley. Report on Sunday Schools: Revs. A. B. Mann, C. L. Reese, Paul House. Address by S. D. Lankford. Ministerial and Church reports. Sermon by Rev. C. W. Hanson, "Helping God at His Work." Adjournment for dinner.

Second Day—Afternoon Session. 1:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by A. H. Sheppard. Reading of minutes of previous session. Place of meeting of next annual session of conference. Report on Moral Reform: Revs. P. L. Duke, W. D. Wilkinson, T. W. Gray. Address by P. L. Duke. Report on Religious Literature: Revs. W. T. Crowder, W. D. Wilkinson, E. J. Easterwood. Address by the representative of The Christian Sun. Report on Home Missions: Revs. H. W. Elder, C. W. Hanson, H. M. Gray. Address by H. W. Elder. Reports on Superannuation: Revs. A. H. Sheppard, A. B. Mann, H. M. Gray. Adjournment for supper.

Second Day—Evening Session. 7:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by T. J. Dean. Annual session of the Christian Missionary Association, Rev. H. W. Elder, President. Organization. Regular order of business. Address, "Our Orphanage," by Chas. D. Johnston. Address, "Our Colleges," by Dr. Beougher, President of Bethlehem College. Adjournment.

Third Day—Morning Session. 8:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by Rev. A. B. Mann. Reading of minutes of previous session.

Report on Education: Revs. H. W. Elder, A. H. Sheppard, H. M. Gray. Address by Rev. J. H. Dollar, Dean of Bethlehem College. Report of Special Committees. Bills against Conference. Report of Treasurer. Sermon by Rev. H. W. Elder. Miscellaneous business. Final adjournment.

NOTICE.

On and after October 1, 1926, Subscribers will remit to THE CHRISTIAN SUN, Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Editor, Elon College, N. C., but all business matters pertaining to advertising and the general conduct of the paper will be addressed as heretofore to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.75 India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 11-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $6.00 Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.50 India Paper Edition, Only 11-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia and bindings are black

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 1/2 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps. $2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools. $2.50

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold. $1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 1/2 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold. $3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold. $2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brevier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type. Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 1/2 Inches and 13-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold. $3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

A DENOMINATIONAL BUDGET.

We believe that the time is at hand for our Convention at Urbana to adopt a plan for a denominational budget. We hope such action will be taken. We believe our workers generally are ready for such a business system. To have adopted such before this time would have been abortive, but now if the Convention will adopt a limited or minimum budget, our people generally will consider it sound and wise.

Such limited or minimum budget should be made up of the actual needs of the Convention itself and of its several boards. The "askings" of each board should be based on receipts of the previous year and actual needs to carry forward the work as constituted at the end of the year. These askings should then be referred to a Finance Board of the Convention and finally be ratified by the General Board which is composed of some fifty of our most representative workers. Thus the church would receive a united financial program after careful study by three groups—the especially interested group, a special finance group, and the whole church group. All this would make it an unbiased budget for the best interest of the whole church.

This budget then should be suggested and apportioned to the several conferences on a definite percentage basis for the various causes by the Finance Board, taking into consideration four items necessary to arrive at a just division among the conferences—one-fourth to be worked out on the basis of church membership, one-fourth on the value of church property, one-fourth on the salary paid pastor, one-fourth on the previous cultivation and giving.

This limited or minimum budget would not provide for growth and expansion of the present work nor the inauguration of new work. Also, it does not provide for special interest, initiative on the part of executives, expression arising from educational periods and growing interest. Our church year rightly calls for definite educational periods for four major enterprises. These are already a very definite part of our church life, habit and thought—the Convention and its allied or subordinate interests, Foreign Missions, Home Missions, and Church Extension, and Christian Education. During these four educational periods an offering should be taken largely for expansion work. These four voluntary offerings being already established among us would give opportunity for expression, enlistment, cultivation and special interest. This would do away with a multiplicity of calls and with the undesirable features that arise from a fixed maximum budget. These voluntary offerings would supplement the minimum or limited budget.

The above plan would call for a Finance Board in the Convention. Such has been a growing need for some time and should be provided at Urbana. It is obvious that this Finance Board should not be composed generally of Board executives, each feeling that his work is the most important, but should be composed of those who in a special way represent all the work and who are familiar with the work of all the boards. It should therefore be composed of the President, Vice-President, and Secretary of the Convention, by virtue of their offices, and the two "at-large" members of the Executive Committee. To these should be added some four others from the General Board and chosen by said Board, chosen with special reference to their fitness for this particular kind of work.

We believe such a plan as this is necessary, will meet many of our troublesome problems, is fair, business like, will provide for normal work and give chance for expression, initiative, and growth.

REPORT OF MISSION SECRETARY FOR SEPTEMBER.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY OFFERING.

Oak Level, Youngsville, N. C.	$ 1.32
Henderson, N. C.	4.55
Youngsville, N. C.	1.00
First Church, Richmond, Va.	2.02
Isle of Wight, Va.	1.75
Monticello, Brown Summit, N. C.	4.90
Lawrence Bible Class, Elon College, N. C.57
Wadley, Ala.	1.48
Holland, Va.	10.00
Mt. Pleasant, Vass, N. C.	1.60
Wake Chapel, Fuquay Springs, N. C.	3.80
Vanceville, Tifton, Ga.	1.50
Linville, Harrisonburg, Va.	4.54
High Point, N. C.	14.35
Pleasant Grove, News Ferry, Va.	8.84
First Church, Norfolk, Va.	5.80
Salem Chapel, Walnut Cove, N. C.	1.00
First Church, Greensboro, N. C.	17.31
First Church, Winchester, Va.	5.21
Ether, Star, N. C.	3.73
Suffolk, Va.	12.50
Pleasant Hill (A), Liberty, N. C.	3.00
People's Church, Dover, Del.	31.11
Berea (Nansemond), Driver, Va.	6.50
Bethlehem, Nansemond Co., Va.	3.92
Providence Memorial, Graham, N. C.	3.71
Durham, N. C.	15.48
Pleasant Ridge, Ramseur, N. C.	2.75
Ocean View, Va.	2.86
Liberty (Vance, Henderson, N. C.	4.80
Antioch, Harrisonburg, Va.	6.75
Lawrence Bible Class, Elon College, N. C.	1.65
Randleman, N. C.	5.63
Oakland, Chneckatuck, Va.	6.00
Holland, Va.	10.00
Fuller's Chapel, Henderson, N. C.	2.80
Rosemont, South Norfolk, Va.	6.38
Mt. Zion, Mebane, N. C.	1.00
North Highlands, Columbus, Ga.	2.05
Ramseur, N. C.	5.35
Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C.	1.29
Liberty, N. C.	1.85
Dry Run, Seven Fountains, Va.	1.85
Palm Street, Greensboro, N. C.	15.00
Zion, Moneure, N. C.	2.00
Wentworth, McCullers, N. C.	4.35
Richland, Ga.	1.00
Newport News, Va.	37.03
Mt. Auburn, Manson, N. C.	3.40
Mt. Bethel, Summerfield, N. C.	1.03
Park's Cross Roads, Ramseur, N. C.	2.18
Burlington, N. C.	86.52
Woman's Bible Class, Rosemont, Norfolk .	12.50
Shallow Ford, Elon College, N. C.	1.81
Total Sunday School Offerings	$ 302.97

EMERGENCY MISSION FUND.

Leaksville Church, Luray, Va.	$ 3.00
Richland, Ga. (refund)	16.50

Total for month	$ 19.50
Amount previously acknowledged	11,860.17
Negotiable note	300.00
Grand total	$ 12,179.67

TOTALS FOR SEPTEMBER.

Emergency Fund	$ 319.50
Sunday School Regular Offerings	302.97
Mountain Work	3.55
Specials	252.37
Individual collection	5.00
Total	$ 883.39
Check to R. W. Malone, Treasurer	$ 583.39
Negotiable Note	300.00
Total	$ 883.39

We are very grateful to the Sunday Schools named above for their liberal offerings in September, and we are happy to include some schools not heretofore reported in the list of those making the once a month offering to missions. There are quite a few schools in the convention who do not yet make a once a month offering to missions, but it is devoutly hoped and believed that all our schools will come to realize the wisdom and the righteousness of such an offering and will rejoice one day to take in regularly and send it promptly. The co-operation and liberality thus far manifested in behalf of our mission work on the part of our Sunday Schools are constant sources of inspiration and encouragement.

We are also grateful for the other sums which have been sent in to forward the work of missions for the Master.

Respectfully submitted,
J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

HENDERSON MISSIONARY MEETING.

On Tuesday night, September 23d, the Ladies' Missionary Society of the Henderson Church held their semi-annual Missionary Meeting. It was a missionary rally and there were quite a number present.

This meeting was a very pleasant surprise to us. Not even all the members of the Society knew what was coming. A very unique program was rendered consisting of hymns, prayer, scripture reading, and the roll call. They also rendered a short play entitled, "Sewing for the Heathen." At the conclusion of the program, again to our surprise, they served refreshments.

As a result of this meeting, quite a number of members gave their subscription to the Christian Missionary. It was a very enthusiastic meeting and one enjoyed by all who were present. Several new members joined the society.

This spirit of the women of our churches is what keeps us men alive. If the men of our churches were as enthusiastic about missions as the women are, our societies would be larger and we would have no difficulty in raising the amount of money called for by our Mission Board. Where ever the women of a church are alive, the church is alive and active. The same can be said about the men, but we men won't let it. Missions need men. If you are a man, the missionary call of Christ needs you. The surest way to help ourselves is to help others.

A fine example of some Home Mission work is this: A wise teacher and Christian woman, who is superintendent of the junior department, saw the need of it, first to help the church, then seeing it as a help to the church she set about the task to raise money enough to buy one. In her department she had a number of fine boys and girls who were anxious for something to do. Soon they began to work out some scheme together. They decided on something and went to work toward that end. That was an electric lighted bulletin board. More than two years have passed since the task was begun, but the goal has been reached. Last week the board was installed, and the members of the department are surely proud of the work they have accomplished. We are planning to have a dedicatory service next Sunday for the purpose of inculcating into the minds of these young people the spirit of Missions and of reverence to God. To dedicate the board to the proclaiming of Jesus Christ and His Gospel along our highway. "Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled."—Luke 14: 23.

F. D. BALLARD.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

The Woman's Missionary Conference of the North Carolina Christian Conference is to meet with the church in Raleigh, November 5th. By vote of the Executive Board, in a meeting held in Burlington on September 9th, it was decided to close the books of the treasurer, Mrs. W. R. Sellars, Burlington, N. C., on October 15th. Each society will take notice and send all money in hand immediately to Mrs. Sellars.

The secretary was instructed also to send two statistical report blanks to each church, one to be retained by the church for its records, and the other to be mailed back immediately to Mrs. W. A. Harper, Secretary, Elon College, N. C.

If any church fails to get a blank, I will be glad to be notified and blanks will be immediately sent.

MRS. W. A. HARPER,
Secretary.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To All Pastors and Churches of the Eastern Virginia Conference:

All pastors, delegates and visitors are urged to send, not later than October 15th, to the pastor of the Webster Community Christian Church, the Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe, Havre de Grace, Md., their names, when they expect to arrive at the Conference Church, and if they are traveling by automobile or train. The Committee on Entertainment cannot properly provide for you unless you help them with this information. Please send it to us at once.

MILTON W. SUTCLIFFE.

PROGRAM OF THE EASTERN VIRGINIA WOMAN'S HOME AND FOREIGN MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

Bethlehem Christian Church, Nansemond County, Va.,
October 15, 1926.

CONFERENCE THEME: "Extension."

Morning Session—10 o'Clock.

- Call to Order by President, Mrs. M. L. Bryant.
- Hymn No. 572—"This World for Christ."
- Devotional Service—Mrs. W. H. Andrews, Suffolk, Va.
- Welcome Address—Mrs. F. H. Dilday, President of Bethlehem Woman's Missionary Society.
- Response—Mrs. B. D. Jones, Holland, Va.
- Report of District Superintendents.
- Report of Superintendent of Young People.
- Report of Superintendent of Cradle Roll.
- Report of Superintendent of Literature.
- Report of Treasurer.
- Vocal Solo—"In the Beautiful Garden of Prayer," by Rev. O. D. Poythress.

- Greetings from Dr. Atkinson. (Absent, attending Alabama Conference.)
- "Blue Ridge Breezes," Mrs. W. V. Leathers.
- Quartette—"Send the Light," Revs. J. F. Morgan, G. A. Pearce, O. D. Poythress, I. W. Johnson.
- Address—Lieutenant Governor J. E. West.
- Appointment of Committees.
- Announcements.
- Collection.
- Adjournment for Dinner.

Afternoon Session—2 o'Clock.

- Hymn No. 583—"Go Ye into the World."
- Devotional Service—Mrs. W. D. Harward, Windsor, Va.
- Address—By a Missionary from abroad.
- "The Books We Must Study," Mrs. W. V. Leathers.
- Male Quartette.
- Suggestions from Ministers present.
- Presentation of Banners, Rev. H. S. Hardeastle.
- Reports of Committees.
- Miscellaneous.
- Reading of Minutes.
- Closing Service.

MRS. L. W. STAGG,
Secretary.

PROGRAM

TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL SESSION OF THE ALABAMA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Ecthany Christian Church, Randolph County, Ala.,
October 12, 13, 14, 1926.

First Day—Morning Session.

- 9:45 Opening song—"Blest Be the Tie that Binds."
- Devotional Services, led by Rev. J. H. Hughes.
- 10:00 Organization:
- Enrollment of Ministers and Delegates.
- Election of Officers.
- Courtesies to Fraternal Delegates.
- 11:00 President's Annual Address.
- Communion Service. (Emblems furnished by the local church.)
- 12:00 Adjournment.

First Day—Afternoon Session.

- 1:00 Conference called to order.
- Devotions led by Rev. W. T. Meacham.
- Report of Executive Committee, Rev. G. D. Hunt, chairman.
- Reading of Ministerial and Church Reports.
- Report on Moral Reform, by J. W. Payne.
- Discussion: "What should be the Attitude of the Church toward the Moral Upbuilding of the Country?" by Rev. J. H. Hughes.
- Report from the Christian Orphanage, Elon College, by C. D. Johnston, Superintendent.
- Miscellaneous Business and Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.

- 8:30 Devotional Services, led by Rev. J. D. Dollar.
- Report on Religious Literature, by Rev Carl Dollar.
- Address: "Our Literature," by Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
- 9:30 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions, Rev. C. W. Carter, Chairman.
- Address: "Our Foreign Work," by Dr. L. E. Smith.
- 10:30 Report of Home Mission Board, by Chairman.
- Address: "Our Needs in the Home Field," by Rev. G. D. Hunt.
- Freewill Offering for Missions.
- 11:30 Preaching by Dr. D. Anonymous.
- 12:00 Adjournment.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.

- 1:00 Conference called to order.
- Report of Committee on Education, Rev. E. M. Carter, Chairman.
- Address: "Our Schools and Colleges, and Their Demands upon Us," by Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College.
- Address: "The Why and Wherefore of Bethlehem College," by Rev. G. D. Hunt.
- Address: "Financial Needs of Bethlehem College," by Rev. H. W. Elder.
- Address: "The Opportunity Bethlehem College Offers those of Moderate Means," by Dr. S. L. Beougher, President.
- 2:30 Report of Sunday School Board, by Mrs. E. M. Carter.
- Address: "The Claims of Our Young People upon the Church," by Rev. J. H. Dollar.
- 3:30 Report of Committee on Superannuation, by Rev. C. W. Carter.
- Address: "The Ministry of the Christian Church," by Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
- Miscellaneous Business.
- Adjournment.

Second Day—Evening Session.

- 8:00 Report on Christian Endeavor, by Rev. J. H. Hughes.
- General Meeting for Young People, led by Miss Pattie Coghill, Field Secretary.

Third Day—Morning Session.

- 8:30 Devotional Services, led by Rev. H. W. Elder.
- Report of Committee on Church Statistics, by J. J. Carter, Chairman.
- Report of Committee on Apportionments, J. W. Payne, Chairman.
- Report of Committee on Nominations.
- Report of Special Committees.
- Preaching.
- Fellowship Meeting.
- Final Adjournment.

THE PICTORIAL BIBLE

SELF-PRONOUNCING
With 4000 Questions and Answers.

The questions and answers are of great help in interesting young folks in the Bible.

With "Aids to Bible Study" being helps specially prepared for young readers.

Specimen of Type—
23 Of the sons of Is'sa-cl families: of To'la, the fam

Large, clear type, with all Scripture proper names, divided into syllables and accented.
31 BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS—These beautiful full-page illustrations of scenes in Bible lands instruct as well as interest. Sixteen are colored and 15 are in sepia. Also has PRESENTATION PAGE.

REAL LEATHER BINDING—Bound in Genuine French Morocco Leather binding, with overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges with headband and bookmark. Size 7 3/4 x 5 1/2 inches. Weight 1 lb. 8 oz.

No. 5181. Our Price $3.25

OXFORD RED LETTER BIBLE

S. S. TEACHER'S EDITION

In this Oxford edition, all the Old Testament prophecies and the words of Jesus in the New Testament are printed in red.

Contains over 50,000 center column references and the famous Oxford S. S. Teacher's Helps. An exceptionally helpful and beautiful edition of the Scriptures. Notice the heavy, black-face type.

Specimen of Type
15 And 'call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver the thou shalt glorify me.

Bound in French Morocco leather, with overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges. Has headbands and bookmarks and 16 beautifully colored maps, with indexed atlas.

No. 05453, Our Price $6.25

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS NOTES.

At the Elon Summer School this year Miss Lucy Eldredge taught a class on Young People's Work, and in the class there were many young people. One day Miss Eldredge assigned for written work for these young people papers on "What I Expect of My Church." Later Miss Eldredge asked the permission of these young people to permit me to see their papers. The permission was granted, and I have excerpts from the papers before me. They are very interesting to a pastor.

Miss Edredge was very fine in asking the permission of the young people to show me those papers. Some would doubtless feel it was a very minor matter and inconsequential in the extreme. But these persons are wrong in their opinion, for these very much criticised young people are very critical themselves, and they have little use for those who do not play the game fair. Prayers and professions and gifts will not cover up unfair play in their young minds.

Now one note is discoverable in many of these papers, though it is given very different expression. It is the desire of the young people for fellowship from the older members. This rather surprised me. But here are some of the terms used by them: "I expect guidance of the older members," "We expect Christian fellowship," "From my church I expect fellowship," "We expect the church to teach us . . . true fellowship," "When young people go into the church, they expect the church to sympathize with them," "I expect right fellowship," "One thing youth expects from the church is the Christian example of its members," "But lastly, there is one other thing that we expect from the church, something that in the past we have not had, and that is fellowship."

These, my readers, and I trust that some of my readers are the older members of the church, are the words of our very own young people. And they are well worth pondering. Perhaps it will interest you to read some of the replies of these young people more at length. If so read on:

"I expect guidance of the older members of the church; a good working program to keep me busy. I expect instruction from the pastor, the Sunday School teachers and the missionary workers."

"Besides instruction we expect Christian fellowship. This is essential in the development of personality."

"One of the chief things which we expect of the church is instruction in religious education. We expect to have the Bible explained and presented to us so that we can understand it. We not only expect to learn the Bible but also the work of the church, its history, about its missionaries, etc. We also expect training in leadership so that we too can take part in its activities."

"From my church I expect fellowship, friendship, recreation and training in Christian character; and also guidance in the spiritual things of Christ."

"When young people enter the Church they expect the church to sympathize with them in the things that they undertake to do. The young people expect to be informed about the church. They expect the church to give them something to do. The young people expect fellowship."

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

LESSON III.—OCTOBER 17, 1926.

"MOSES HONORED IN DEATH."

GOLDEN TEXT: Precious in the sight of Jehovah Is the death of his saints.—Psa. 116: 15.

LESSON: Deuteronomy 32: 45-52.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psa. 116: 12-19.

TIME: 1459 B. C.

PLACE: Moab and Mount Pisgah, opposite Jericho.

Thirty-eight years have elapsed since the events that took place in last Sunday's lesson. The Israelites who had turned a deaf ear to Jehovah's command to go up and possess the land of Canaan, were perished, and a new generation was found there in the wilderness. Miriam, the little sister who had watched when Moses was hid in the river had died only eleven months before, and Aaron had followed six months later. Only Moses, Joshua and Caleb of that great throng were left. And the time had come when Moses was to go away.

Even then Moses first thought was of his people, and his final counsel to them was. Set your heart unto all the words which I testify unto you this day, which ye shall command your children to obey, even all the words of this law. For it is no vain thing for you; because it is your life. What Moses said then is true today. No individual, no nation, can live who breaks the immutable laws of God.

And on that selfsame day, when Moses had ceased speaking, God summoned him: "Get thee up into this mountain of Abarim, unto Mount Nebo facing Jericho, and behold the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel for a possession." Moses was in sight of the land of promise, but he could not enter in, for his time had come. The death of Moses was punitive, "because ye have trespassed against me in the midst of the children of Israel," said the Lord. Yet Moses was ready to lay down his heavy burden. And God had prepared a home more wonderful than Canaan for him.

So Moses bade farewell to his people, and blessed the tribes, one by one. He then betook himself to the Mount of Nebo, where "Moses the servant of Jehovah, died." "And he buried him in the valley of the land of Moab." How wonderful it was that God was with him even at death, and that his record was that he was a servant of Jehovah.

Moses stands out as one of the greatest men of all times, and the contrast is only emphasized by those about him. It was Moses who crossed the Red Sea; the children of Israel only followed. It was Moses who bore with them and taught them; for what were they but abject slaves, who desired nothing better than the enjoyment of a slaves' portion from the flesh-pots of Egypt. Yet even greater than the freeing of the slaves from bondage was Moses' achievement of making of their children a people capable, under God, of conquering Canaan and of knowing God and His laws. It was Moses who created the people of God. He used his life for God, and a greater thing than this can no man do. The voice of Moses scudded in the hearts of the Israelites, and sounds today in the hearts of all who hear Jehovah.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 17, 1926.

"IDEALS OF THE CONSTITUTION."
(Citizenship Day.)

TOPIC: "What Ideals are Found in the Constitution of the United States?"—Rom. 13: 1-8.

Before the Constitution of our country was adopted many a war of words was waged. It was only after a momentous struggle that all of the original thirteen States were brought to promise to abide by its rulings. And even now, to quote the words of President Coolidge, "The Constitution is not self-perpetuating. If it is to survive, it will be because it has adequate support. . . . That means making adequate sacrifice to maintain what is of public benefit."

Suggestions for the Leader.

The ideas contained in the Declaration of Independence were in the minds of the men that wrote the Constitution. Some of our ideals are there.

One ideal is "a more perfect union." Man always, when at his best, seeks union, co-operation. On this prosperity and safety depend.

Another ideal is justice. Unjust nations may long endure, as some Eastern powers have done, but they cannot prosper or make their people happy.

A third ideal is "domestic tranquillity" or peace. Without the Constitution, America would have been another Europe, with selfishly striving nations.

There is another thing about the Constitution. It guarantees our liberties, but it also places responsibility upon us. It forces us to take a part in our own government. We make the laws, and we must obey them. It shows poor sportsmanship not to live up to the laws of the game of government.

What the Bible Lesson Teaches.

There is no middle path between obedience to law and anarchy (V. 1).

God is the source of all law, and human laws are good only as they express divine law (V. 1).

The Constitution is a "minister for good." It expresses our ideals, outlines our methods, and is a real covenant between the States (V. 4).

The spirit of the Constitution is really love: that is, yielding personal rights in order to secure the welfare of the nation as a whole (V. 8).

To Think About.

Why should everyone study the Constitution?

What are some of the sources of the Constitution?

How may the Constitution be amended?

The women in your church should have these books by Mrs. George H. Morrison, wife of the famous Scottish preacher.

PRAYERS FOR WOMEN WORKERS—

Contains prayers for committee and missionary meetings, mother's circles and other occasions. There are many fine prayers for children in the home and verses for prayer building.

16 mo. $1.25

ADDRESSES FOR WOMEN WORKERS—

Inspiring addresses made at public gatherings. Just the book to provide subjects and inspiration for women who speak in public.

12 mo. $2.00

DORAN BOOKS

CONFERENCES MEET.

Alabama Conference will meet with the Church at Bethany on Tuesday, October 12, 1926, at 10 o'clock A. M. G. D. Hunt, President; E. M. Carter, Secretary.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 2, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 16, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church, Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1926. G. O. Lankford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 8, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

PROGRAM OF THE WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE OF ALABAMA.

To be Held at Cragford, Ala., October 16, 1926.

Forenoon.

Devotional Services—Mrs. J. H. Swint
 Welcome Address—Mrs. Hamp Mitchell.
 Response—Mrs. A. I. Landers.
 Business Session.
 Song (Missionary).
 President's Address.
 Address, "The Place of Prayer in Our Work"—Mrs. W. M. Melton.
 Solo—Miss Regina Carter.
 Sermon—Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C.

Afternoon.

Devotional Services—Mrs W. D. Mitchell.
 Message from Mrs. J. A. Williams, president of Southern Board—Miss Zana Stephenson.
 "How to Reach the Other Women"—Mrs. V. E. Kitchens.
 "Onward through Missions"—Rev. G. D. Hunt.
 Round Table Discussion—Lead by Mrs. O. H. Orr.
 Reports of Committees.
 Adjournment.

MRS. E. M. CARTER,
 Wadley, Ala. President.

NOTICE.

The Eastern Virginia Woman's Missionary Conference will meet in annual session on Friday, October 15th, with the Bethlehem Christian Church, Nansemond County, Va.

All societies are urged to have a full report of the year's work in the hands of the treasurer, Mrs. W. V. Leathers, Holland, Va., not later than September 30th.

Begin thinking of your delegates now. Churches without societies are requested to send representatives.

MRS. L. W. STAGG,
 400 W. 34th Street,
 Norfolk, Va. Secretary.

A Great Background Book

LANDMARKS in the STRUGGLE BETWEEN SCIENCE and RELIGION

by Professor J. Y. Simpson, M.A.,
D.Sc., F.R.S.E.

This book sets the present day controversy in its right historical setting. It is a survey of an age-long contest between truth and superstition. It makes religion as well as science a living, dynamic thing.

$2.00

DORAN BOOKS

TWENTY years ago Professor David Smith wrote "In The Days of His Flesh." For twenty years it has headed the list of books on Christ.

Now he has written:

OUR LORD'S EARTHLY LIFE

ANOTHER rich tribute to the Lord he loves. Characterized by mature scholarship and a marked humanist strain, this book has instantly gripped the hearts of readers.

$3.00

DORAN BOOKS

The Famous
Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION
 Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.
Specimen of type

15 And 'call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver the: thou shalt glorify me.

- No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50
- No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35
 (Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
 Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.
 (Weight 18 oz.)
- No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

- RED LETTER EDITION
- No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition
 - No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jē-hōy'-ā-kīm gave th silver and the gold to Phār'-aōh

- No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50
- No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50
 (Weight 3 lbs.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
 Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
 (Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)
- No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

WAIT UPON GOD.

"Teach me thy way, O Jehovah; and lead me in a plain path."

LESSON: Psa. 27: 11-14.

This states the whole purpose of our Family Altar page. Begin this week by reading the above lesson, and follow the dictates of thy soul.

It is not an easy thing to do. There is so much to keep us from it. Samuel said to Saul, "Stand thou still awhile that I may show thee the word of God." We know too well that we cannot know the word of God, cannot be spiritual, cannot even possess a well poised mind without "being still" long enough to possess what we seek.

The pace and pressure of modern life is anything but spiritual. Our various duties and activities crowd every minute of our days and nights. If we don't stop and tarry for Jesus and let Him preoccupy our minds a little, there is no chance that He can reach our souls at all.

"Happy is he who, knowing how to wait,

Knows also how to watch and work and stand
On life's broad deck alert; and on the prow
To seize the passing moment, big with fate,
From Opportunity's extended hand,
When the great clock of destiny strikes Now!"

Prayer.—Our Father, bring us to resting places and quiet times with Thee. In His name we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

CONTINUING IN PRAYER.

LESSON: Col. 4: 1-5.

"Continue stedfastly in prayer"

Our daily strength depends largely upon our prayer life, and to this end the Apostle Paul bids us continue in prayer. The Bible is indeed a great Book of Prayer. Here we find Jacob wrestling with the angel in prayer; Daniel, in his little upper room, with his windows open toward Jerusalem, praying. Paul and Silas, when cast into prison, prayed and sang praises to God. But our greatest Example and Teacher is our Lord Himself. Jesus prayed continuously—and as He prayed, the fashion of His countenance was altered. Prayer not only gives strength, it changes things.

Our trouble is we do not ask for strength, but are content with certain physical or athletic exercises. Whatever else we may do, nothing can take the place of prayer—"Prayer releases power."

One day, two men were discussing prayer and its necessary place in the life of a Christian, whereupon one took from his pocket a small notebook filled with long lists of strange and foreign-sounding names. He explained that these names were of people whome he definitely assisted to Christ. Daily he had used this book through the years, just to refresh his memory so that he could be always praying for them. Let us continue in prayer and claim our blessing from day to day.
—Rev. Lewis Keast.

Prayer (by one of the parents).—Asking that our entire household may realize the value of prayer, and that our frequent petitions may rise to the Throne and win acceptance; also that our faith in the power of prayer may grow daily and brighten the whole life.

WEDNESDAY.

CHILDREN AND A CHILD'S PART.

LESSON: Gal. 3: 25-29.

"Ye are the children of God."

As God's creation, the birds are at home in the air, the fish are at home in the sea, wild animals are at home in the forest, and man can be at home only at peace with himself and with God, his Creator and Father, and that by the ties of faith and love.

"Thou, O God, hast created our souls for Thee, and our rest is never found until we find it in Thee."

"Ye are his children," then instead of fretting, let us take our troubles to Him. "Ye are his children," then let us go to Him as to a loving Father. "Ye are his children," then let us ask Him to explain the mysteries we should know. If we are His children, let us go to Him, because we need Him, and because He is standing waiting to do for us what we most need.

Prayer.—Our Father, we are Thy children. May we be loving and loyal and always sensible to the honor of being His child. Forgive us and save us. Amen.

THURSDAY.

MY DUTY TOWARD MY NEIGHBOR.

LESSON: I Kings 20: 38-43.

"Keep this man." "Am I my brother's keeper?"

"A minister was called to conduct the funeral of a girl who had died just as she was blooming in womanhood. Hoping to speak a word of comfort to her friends, he asked her Sabbath School teacher: 'Was Mary a Christian?' The answer was, 'I do not know. I meant to speak to her a few days ago, but I put it off for a more convenient season.' He asked the mother a similar question, and received the same answer. He then turned to her best friend, and was startled to get the same reply. The Holy Spirit had been trying to get a message to this girl, but no one would go for Him. Now she was gone."

Every one of us are under charge to keep our brothers. The man with us, whoever he may be is a brother.

Then what if we are "too busy," or if he is not according to our liking, or if he is our enemy, or even if we have no interest in him? Let us answer honestly. Christ said, "Preach the gospel to every creature."

Prayer.—Our Father, forbid that we should become so engrossed in our own concerns that we leave Thy charge unfulfilled. May we be bold and brave for Jesus' sake, lest our own life be required. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

FRIDAY.

GOD'S BOUNDLESS GIFTS

LESSON: Psalm 84: 11-12.

"No good thing will He withhold from them that walk uprightly."

This Psalm is composed of twelve of the most wonderful verses in all literature! Not only each verse, but each sentence suggests volumes. This eleventh verse is a promise, coming as the climax of many beautiful and uplifting thoughts. God has given, is giving, and stands ready to give so much that the Psalmist sums it all up in these words: "No good thing will He withhold from them that walk uprightly."

There are many things that God, in His infinite wisdom withholds from us. But when we read that "no good" is withheld, then we need no explanations or qualifications. God is more anxious that we receive every good than we are to seek it.

We must qualify for this good. We must "walk uprightly. If we are not in the right attitude to receive good from the hand of the Lord, it would not be "good" for us. We might ask for it; we might earnestly desire it; we might almost question the wisdom of God on withholding it; but in and through it all, we should remember that—

"Ill that God blesses is our good;

And unblessed good is ill;

And all is right that seems most wrong,

If it be His sweet will."

Rev. I. D. Lyttle.

Prayer (by one of the parents). Asking that we may learn the lesson of absolute trust in God who is ever ready to supply all our needs, and who desires to withhold no good gift from those who love and serve Him.

SATURDAY.

THE SECRET OF CONTENTMENT.

LESSON: Phil. 4: 10-13.

"I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content."

A recent writer says of the Apostle Paul: "Although he often traveled through grand scenery there is not in all his letters a single allusion to the beauty of nature, or any indication that he ever heard a bird sing or observed so much as a blade of grass." True enough, but let us observe too that although he was continually meeting with perils of every kind, there is little in all his letters that would suggest that birds ever ceased to sing or flowers to bloom. The tokens of love and thoughtfulness from his converts brought a lump into his throat; Christians repenting under his rebukes brought tears of joy to his eyes; and faith that was spoken of throughout the whole world brought him to his knees in gratitude. His normal condition was rejoicing in the Lord always. "I know both how to be abased, and I know how to abound."

—Rev. D. Raymond Taggart.

Prayer (by one of the parents). Asking that we, too, whatever our position in life, may learn the secret of contentment and trust our bountiful Father—who never fails—that He will supply our needs.

SUNDAY.

THE WORK THAT JESUS LOVED.

LESSON: Jno. 9: 3-6.

"I must work the works of Him that sent me."

During childhood, when with his earthly parents, Jesus loved his toil, the sanctity of life, and, as seen in the temple, his ministry.

That work was relieving human suffering, wretchedness and sorrow. His greatest work was the saving of souls from death, as James puts it. It was this great work He has committed to us. It is so imperative that we carry out His work that only eternity can reveal the dire consequences of our failure in it. We must do His work and do it well, for night cometh to our opportunity, and then it will be too late.

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, purify our hearts and minds, strengthen us in Thy love, and make it a joy to us to follow the example of Jesus to do His work. Amen.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

The Orphanage has had showers of blessings. Our good women of our Elon Community Church have set a good example, and we hope many more will follow the example they have set. They showered the orphanage with a box containing thirty-three towels and a pair of pillow cases. This shower was sponsored by Circle No. 4, but was given by the entire society. It was designated for the New Building.

Our good friends, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Carlton of Richmond did not stop at a shower, but made it just rain by sending us for the upper floor of our New Building: 32 comforts, 32 blankets, 128 towels, 32 pillows, 64 pillow cases, 128 sheets, and 64 spreads. These good friends have furnished the entire upper floor in the New Building. And it makes you happy to see how pretty it is. A child having a place in this pretty home will certainly be inspired to make good in life.

Our people are real kind to us in this work of love and charity, and often remember us with showers of different kinds. We have had quite a number of showers since our last report:

The daily Vacation Bible School of our church at Franklin, Va., sent us 29 aprons.

High Point Christian Philathea Class, two nice quilts, two dresses, five towels, one boy's suit, and one sheet.

The Daily Vacation Bible School, First Church, Greensboro, one box of rag dolls. Truitt Philathea Class, Greensboro First Church, 20 towels, 8 pair pillow cases, 4 sheets, one counterpane.

Mrs. J. W. Holt, Burlington, N. C., one dozen half-gallon jars of apples.

Holland-Holy Neck Vacation Bible School, 4 aprons, 6 table cloths, one dress, one undergarment.

A Friend, Star, N. C., three pair of pants. No name on package.

Mrs. J. L. Steel, Durham, N. C., six dozen writing tablets.

Mrs. Hattie Glass, 2 dresses and 3 quilts. Roger Lee, one boy's suit.

Mrs. J. E. Dever, one shirt.

Our good friends, Holland-Beamon Co., of Suffolk, Va., shipped us one car of coal containing 70½ tons, to make the children happy and comfortable during the winter months. These good friends make this their annual donation, and it is a wonderful help to us in our work.

We are very grateful indeed to all of these kind friends for these gifts, and we pray that God will richly bless each and every one.

You will notice in our financial report this week that we have passed the nineteenth rung in our ladder for this year, and are climbing on up toward the twentieth. We are hoping and praying that we will reach and pass the twentieth rung in the month of October, as that will carry us two thirds of the way to our goal for this year.

I want to ask all who have not paid their second payment on their pledge to the new building fund to please send it in, as we are needing it very much at this time. We also want to request all Sunday Schools that have money on hand for the Orphanage to mail us a check so that we will be able to reach and pass this twentieth rung in our ladder this month. Let us all make a strong pull and pull together to do this thing. And may the Master richly bless you.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR TWO WEEKS ENDING OCT. 8, 1926.

Brought forward$ 18,793.53

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference:

Long's Chapel	$ 1.00
Shallow Ford	1.77
Howard's Chapel	1.00
Monticello	4.93
Bethlehem	3.70
Third Avenue, Danville	5.97
Mt. Zion	1.50
Reidsville	6.89

26.76

Eastern North Carolina Conference:

Auburn	$ 4.50
Christian Light	4.01
Sanford	5.55
Liberty (Vance)	7.33
Henderson	7.47
Morrisville	2.00
Mt. Carmel S. S. and Class 6	7.77
Fuller's Chapel	3.37

42.00

Western North Carolina Conference:

High Point	$ 7.50
Hanks Chapel	2.40
Pleasant Ridge	1.37
Ether	5.53
Burlington	59.94

76.74

Eastern Virginia Conference:

Isle of Wight	$ 2.00
Suffolk	25.00
Bethlehem	2.98
Berea	11.88
Antioch	7.07
Union	12.00
Holland	10.00
Ocean View	2.86
Christian Temple	21.62
Newport News	17.94
Oak Grove	5.00
Mt. Zion	3.37

121.72

Valley Virginia Conference:

Palmyra	$ 1.71
Liville	4.09
Mayland	1.65

7.45

Alabama Conference:

Pisgah	$ 1.32
Wadley	1.45

2.77

Georgia and Alabama Conference:

Rose Hill	$ 1.00
North Highlands	2.05
Richland	1.00

4.05

Special Offerings:

Boone Bible Class	$ 15.00
W. A. Roseoe	15.00
W. W. Brown	15.00

45.00

New Building Fund:

K. S. Garmon	$ 5.00
Sunday School Classes of Mrs. R. L. Baker and Mrs. Byrd, Newport News, Va.	50.00
J. H. Richmond	5.00
Mrs. Julia A. Tuck	1.00
Class No. 25, First Church, Greensboro	10.00
J. J. Carter	2.50
Woman's Bible Class, Holland	10.00
Young People's Class No. 6, Holland	5.00
Danville S. S.	4.00
Bible Class, Holy Neck	30.00
Live Wire Class, Mt. Auburn	7.50

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sellars	100.00
Mrs. Cora J. Zeiders	20.00
	249.50
Total for two weeks	$ 569.13
Grand total	$ 19,362.66

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.73
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim..... 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90... 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90... 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim
- Filler—Silver lined

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
1536 E. Broad St., Richmond Va.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE MOFFITT WHITESELL, Editor.

Hey Ho, Kiddies:

How would you like a letter again from your editor? Will you look up at the top of the page, please? There are nine new letters up there. Read them and see what word they spell—and then—say, oh, yes, our editor has a new name. Kiddies, see how you like that new name, and write me a wee letter, and let's put it into the Korner right away. Will you? Address the letters to Ramscur now, instead of Burlington.

Kiddies, while you are reading about "Baby Ray" and the "Go to Sleep Story," don't forget, please don't forget, that our little Mountain Friends up in Carroll County can't run to the Southland when winter comes like the birdies can, and you and I must be getting up some of our last winter's clothes that we have out-grown, and fix a real Christmas box full for them—their precious little legs mustn't get cold this winter—and their little undershirts are worn out now, so hustle, Kiddies. Get your Missionary teacher to help you fix the box.

I love you every one. Your Editor,
MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT WHITESELL.

THE UPSIDE-DOWN GARDEN.

The girls of the Bluebird Class had decided to raise flowers to sell to get money to buy a new blackboard. Every garden had come out fine but Myrtle's; a neighbor's chickens had come in and scratched up all her young plants after they were well started. Then it rained and rained, so that she couldn't get into the garden to plant any more seed.

There was to be a Sunday School fair in July, and every class wanted to have something to sell. The Bluebird Class was to have a flower booth.

"It's going to be lovely," Myrtle told her best friend, Irma, "and I can't have anything in it."

"I don't think it is too late to plan some flowers, now," suggested Irma. "I have some seeds of flowers that will come up quickly."

So Myrtle planted the seed and was as happy as could be when the plants came peeping out of the ground. This time she was careful not to leave the garden gate open so that the chickens could get in.

"How are your flowers?" Irma often asked her.

"They came up thick and are growing fine," Myrtle told her. "You had better come and see."

When Irma got there, she began to laugh. She laughed and laughed until Myrtle was almost angry.

"Why are you laughing at my flowers?" she asked.

At that Irma only laughed harder, until she saw that Myrtle was ready to cry.

"I'm so sorry," explained Irma, "but I must have given you the wrong seed. Mother must have put vegetable seed in those packages. Instead of flowers, you have beets and carrots and onions and turnips."

For a second Myrtle looked as if she were going to cry sure enough, but then she had a happy thought.

"I guess vegetables can be sold as well as flowers," she said. I heard Mrs. Murphy wishing just yesterday that she could get some fresh vegetables. I'm going to take care of these little plants just the same as if they were flowers. I expect my little Upside-down Garden will make as much money for the blackboard as the other girls' flower gardens."

On the day of the Fair, when Myrtle brought in a beautiful basket of golden carrots, purple and white turnips, rosy red beets, and white onions, shining like satin, the girls all agreed that her's was one of the prettiest baskets there.—Frances McKinnon Morton.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

SEEING EUROPE WITH ENDEAVORERS.

(Continued from page 6.)

our manager that the Americans were a fortunate people to realize strong dring was detrimental, and he only wished that Belgium would follow in her steps.

Gay Paris was our next thrill. Much has been said and written during the summer about the tourist in France (the New York Times said there were 500,000 Americans in Europe this summer). The terrible fluctuation of the franc has brought much distress to that people. Living is very dear to them, and the war debt is oppressive.

"They don't take bad care of themselves financially," says Will Rogers, yet who can blame them when an American can walk in with a ten dollar bill and exchange it for all the francs he can wish to carry around for a few days.

Who can characterize the French with their devoted patriotism, their adoration of beauty, their incomparable cathedrals, but where are their moral standards? I could find none.

The madness of their revclution at the gaudy extravagances of the Louis' seems not to have vanished. The common ground we could meet them on was the ravished battlefields. We passed hundreds of soldiers who cheered and waved with vigorous enthusiasm. They have not forgotten!

The remains of dugouts, trenches, and automatic gun foundations are too crude to describe. But in Flanders fields the poppies still grow between the crosses, reminding us of the blood that tells us our civilization is too little removed from barbarism, and that the only beauty that can ever come to the world is through Him who is Prince of Peace.

And the beautiful Reims Cathedral laid in waste—how can France forgive that ignoble act? Rockefeller's millions do not restore it, for they cannot get the workmen to stick to the job, it is so dejecting.

It was restful to go to Geneva—the peace city; to wonder at the majesty and beauty of the Alps contrasting with the calm serenity of Lake Geneva; to hear our own beloved Woodrow Wilson praised—we were reminded that a prephet is not without honor save in his own country.

On Sunday morning, Dr. Daniel Poling, our national president of C. E., preached at Calvin's Church, and from the same pulpit he occupied forty years. Just over a few cobblestones stood John Knox's Church. Who can estimate the influence of these two men on Christianity! "Christianity" was Dr. Poling's theme. I do not know how much those Swiss worshippers got from the message, but the inspiration of the combined languages in song was enough.

We sailed beautiful Lake Geneva, or Lac Le-man, as Byron calls it in his immortal poem, "Prisoner of Chillon," up to Montreaux, and went into the castle prison, where Bonivard spent so many years true to the "Faith of His Fathers Living Still."

We climbed beautiful snow-capped Mont Blanc and crossed its glacier.

From Geneva we returned to Paris, then to Cherbourg Harbor, where we set sail for a westward trail.

Our ship passed forty-five visible icebergs during the days near Iceland and Labrador; not many during the nights, however, as the crew anchored, remembering the Titanic and taking no chances in a fog.

When the "Rutonia" landed in Montreal there was a large delegation of C. E.'s to welcome us. They gave us a banquet the following evening, and the final separation of the American delegation to the seventh World's Christian Endeavor Convention came.

Every one poorer in bank account, richer in experience and vision, understanding Europe better, loving America more and saying, with Van Dyke:

"I know that Europe's wonderful, yet something seems to lack; The past is too much with her, and her people looking back. But the glory of the present is to make the future free—

We love our land for what she is and what she is to be.

"So it's home again, home again, America for me! Give me a ship that's westward bound, to plow the rolling sea: To the land of youth and freedom beyond the ocean bars, Where the air is full of sunshine, and the flag is full of stars."

A continuous performance

Nothing is permanent in railroading.

Larger cars and engines must be bought to handle greater loads; the roadbed must ever be kept in good condition, new ties and heavier rails must be laid to support heavier trains at high speeds; and in places the course of the line must be changed to reduce curves and grades.

Shop facilities must be enlarged, terminals improved and bridges rebuilt to carry the ever-growing train-loads. New signalling devices are being installed, and new tracks, yards and sidings built to handle the growing traffic of the South. This process of change, improvement and renewal goes on day in and day out throughout the year.

But the service must never stop. The way must ever be kept open for the great freights as they rush through the night carrying products of the South to distant markets, and the world's goods to Southern buyers. And the Crescent Limited, the Royal Palm and other passenger trains must not be delayed.

Railroading on the Southern Railway System is a continuous performance both in service rendered and in provision for handling the greater traffic of the future.

Everything used on a railroad wears out. Last year about $60,000,000 was spent by the Southern in replacing things that had worn out.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religions Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. ... Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year$ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to "Editor Christian Sun," Elon College, N. C.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

MARRIAGES

ISLEY-RIDDLE.

Accentuated with charm which usually characterizes a home wedding, the Isley-Riddle wedding was one of the prettiest of the season's nuptials.

The wedding took place in the bride's home, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Isley, Burlington, N. C., June 8th, at 8 P. M.

Prior to the ceremony Miss Florine Robertson took her place at the piano, and Mr. Arthur Goins sang, "All for You," and Miss Bessie Boone sang, "O, Promise Me." To the first sound of the Wedding Chorus from Lohengrin, the bridal party entered. Rev. C. E. Geringer, uncle of the bride, who performed the ceremony, enter with Dr. J. B. Hurley, who assisted in the service. Miss Erma Love, first bride's maid and Mr. Graves Holt then entered. The second bride's maid to enter was Miss Margaret Riddle, sister of the groom. Entering opposite Miss Riddle was Mr. Marshall Butler.

The ring bearer, little Mildred Howell, niece of the groom, came next. In the Madonna Lily showered with valley lilies, she carried the ring. The little flower girl, Dorothy Kirkman, from a beautiful basket strewed rose petals in the pathway of the bride who entered with the maid of honor, Miss Erma Stadler.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Riddle left for a brief trip to western Carolina, after which they will be at home on Asheboro Street, Greensboro, N. C., where Mr. Riddle holds a responsible position with the Greensboro Record.

Mrs. Riddle is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Isley, and is one of Burlington's most attractive young women. She attended Burlington high school and was a most popular member of the younger set.

Mr. Riddle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Riddle of Burlington. He is a young man of unusual business ability.

We wish for them a long and happy wedded life. C. E. GERRINGER.

FOR SALE.

One Manual Pipe Organ, suitable for a chapel or small church, complete with or without electric motor. Price very reasonable.

Write V. E. MAREAN, Organ Builder, 3011 Lamb Ave., Richmond, Va.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick..... $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/4 inches thick... $0.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria

3011 Lamb Ave., Richmond, Va. Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address

THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type; Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearer Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type. AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges..... .70

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer 2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1926.

NUMBER 41.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

Mrs N T Farmer 1-1

By REV. S. M. LYNAM.

DR. CLARK BANQUETED.—

Dr. Francis E. Clark, who founded the Christian Endeavor in 1881, was recently honored at a banquet on his seventy-fifth birthday. The banquet was held at the Bradford Arms, Sagamore Beach, Massachusetts, under the auspices of the Cape Cod Association of Churches of which Dr. Clark is honorary president.

A COLLEGE FOR JERUSALEM.—

A college on the English model is now being planned for Jerusalem. It will be situated on one of the slopes of the Mount of Olives. The present English college in Jerusalem known as the Anglican Bishops' Mission will form a nucleus for this new institution. The present plans call for its completion within the next two years.

AN IMMENSE LOSS.—

The Erie Railroad claims that its income has been cut more than a million dollars a year by the establishing of bus lines leading into New York along its New Jersey lines. Railroads all over the country are making the same claims, and much discussion is being aroused as to the propriety of allowing bus lines so to injure the railroads which are absolutely essential to the national life and prosperity.

WHO PROFITS BY PROSPERITY?—

It is claimed that a careful analysis of the tax returns of the United States reveals the fact that only twenty thousand men who are at the head of the twelve hundred large corporations of the country profit by prosperity. These approximately twenty thousand men get most of the dollars reported as national prosperity, and that the lot of the common mass of people remains practically the same is a fact which we cannot escape.

MINISTERIAL CANDIDATES INCREASING.—

According to the reported registrations of the colleges and seminaries, the candidates for the ministry are increasing. This year, for the first time, those registering as ministerial students has reached prewar figures, and in some religious bodies surpassed that number. Contrary to the usual trend in recent years, the conservative seminaries appear to have the greatest gains. Episcopal, Baptist, Disciple, Lutheran, Methodist, and Presbyterian churches are leading in these gains. It is a hopeful sign that young men are turning again to the church and its ministry.

A GREAT DISCOVERY.—

It is reported that scientists of Prague have been successful in using the blood of lower animals for transfusion into the human system.

They have succeeded in eliminating the toxins in the blood of the lower animals which heretofore have made it poisonous to the human blood. Until now only the blood of humans could be used for transfusion. Transfusion is being used more and more by physicians, and this discovery at Prague is considered one of the greatest of the age.

ONE OF THE BEST TEN.—

It is interesting to note that one of the best ten articles appearing in September magazines is written by a young country preacher. The article is, "Lincoln's Parentage and Childhood," in the Century Magazine and is by Rev. Louis A. Warren of Zionsville, Indiana. He is the pastor of a rural Disciples church and is still in his twenties. Mr. Warren has done considerable research in the country where Lincoln was born, and has written a book on the subject soon to be published by the Century Company. The rural ministry is rapidly advancing to keep pace with the fast rising standards of rural education and culture.

DID ST. PAUL PREACH IN ENGLAND?—

The Mosaic floor of a banquet hall at Woodchester, Gloucestershire, England, which was discovered by grave diggers thirty-six years ago, and until now known only to archeologists, is about to be thrown open to the public. This is one of the three or four most beautiful specimens of mosaics ever unearthed. It was evidently the floor in the home of a Roman general or governor of that part of Britain. The pastor at Woodchester points out that if St. Paul visited England, as legend asserts he did, in all likelihood he visited this home, since to go to the home of the high official would have been the logical thing for him to have done.

AN OUTWARD FLOW TO EUROPE.—

More American tourists visited Europe this year than ever before. It is estimated that they will spend 700 million dollars in European countries. It is also estimated that foreigners and naturalized citizens of the United States will send back to Europe half a billion dollars more. These together make a grand total of a billion, two hundred million dollars. This is a tremendous flow of money from the United States to Europe. The Europeans ought to welcome to their countries Americans who bring in such a vast sum of money to them. More and more, however, the strong feeling regarding the war debts is causing the Europeans to make it unpleasant for American visitors.

THE SALVATION ARMY KNOWS.—

Whatever other organizations and propagandists may say, there are no two minds in the Salvation Army about the benefits of prohibition, and the Salvation Army workers ought to know as no other body could know. In a statement on the subject recently, Commander Evangeline Booth says: "Why try to tell the Salvation Army that the park benches are crowded with drunken men as they were before prohibition, when we used to gather them in on Thanksgiving day, for example, and fight to salvage them? They are gone. The benches still remain, but the occupants are not drunk any more. They are climbing upward to better things, while the public rushes by all unheeding. Why try to tell us that the working men spend their wages before their families can get the money for food, and that men beat their wives and children as in the old days? It simply is not the case." The Salvation Army can speak with authority on this matter. The workers know the situation, and this message from the Commander ought to give us cheer and challenge us to stand fast and hold to what we have won.

THE OIL SITUATION.—

The report by the federal oil conservation board shows serious concern over the present petroleum conditions in the United States. The alarm is caused by the rapid consumption of oil and the estimated amount available for military and industrial purposes. Secretary Work made the report public and announced that it was being forwarded to President Coolidge. The present reserves in the pumping and flowing wells in proved sands, according to the report, is only four and one-half billion barrels. This is theoretically only six years' supply, which fact the report stresses, though, of course, it cannot be extracted in that length of time. Since the first oil well was drilled in Pennsylvania, more than sixty-eight thousand wells have been drilled, more than a fifth of which have been failures. Up to June 30th last, more than nine billion barrels had been produced. Three billion barrels of this great total have been produced in the last five years. Last year 750 million barrels of crude oil were produced. The United States is at present producing and using 70 per cent of the world's oil production. It is estimated that nine and one-half billion dollars are invested in the business, and in the last year for which figures are available, the wholesale value of the oil products was $1,793,700,027. The figures reveal how vast is the oil business in the United States, and it ought to arouse the nation to the fact that the supply might very soon be utterly exhausted. The oil conservation board's report voices alarm over the situation.

NOTES-PERSONALS

This week the Alabama Christian Conference is in session. We wish for them a session that will be far-reaching in the good work done and the goals set.

Rev. B. J. Earp has accepted a call to the First Christian Church of Winchester, and will take charge beginning with the first of November. His correspondents will address him at No. 12 W. Clifford Street, Winchester, Va.

We received notice of the change of date of the Woman's Missionary Conference of Alabama too late to get it in last week's issue. The date has been changed from Saturday, October 16th, to Sunday, October 17th, to enable the conference to have a fuller representation from the societies.

The Richmond Church held its last quarterly meeting for the year on October 8th. The reports showed progress in the work, there having been thirty-five additions to the church during the year. Delegates to conference were elected and two new deacons chosen, Bros. N. B. Barker and W. J. Stephenson.

Brother W. M. Suits, Wentworth, N. C., requests that all persons going by rail to the N. C. and Va. Christian Conference, which meets at New Lebanon Church, Rockingham County, N. C., on November 16, 1926, will notify him when they expect to arrive at Reidsville, N. C., which is the railway station.

Send all money for O'Kelly and Old Lebanon Church memorials to the treasurer of the committee, J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C., who will acknowledge the same in THE CHRISTIAN SUN. Any individual who cares for our Christian Church history and principles can and should have a part in this worthy undertaking.

The Rockingham Ministerial Association, of which Rev. R. A. Whitten, Reidsville, N. C., is the president, met with the Reidsville Christian Church in its regular monthly session on Oct. 4th. Some thirty ministers were present and an inspiring session was held, after which a luncheon was served and good fellowship prevailed.

Programs for Willing Workers and Young People's Missionary Societies of the Southern Christian Convention are being arranged and will at an early date be mailed to societies by Mr. R. T. Bradford, Superintendent Young People's Societies, R. F. D. 5, Suffolk, Va., who was elected by the Board to prepare and send out the same.

It is deeply regretted that the Eastern N. C. Conference and the Western N. C. Conference are published to meet at the same time. There are those who would like to attend some of both conferences, but this conflict in dates will prevent this. It is greatly to be hoped that these two good conferences will so arrange their dates as not to conflict after this year.

Let CHRISTIAN SUN subscribers bear in mind that hereafter, all money on subscriptions, whether for new subscriptions or renewals, should be sent to the Editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, Elon College, N. C. The Board of Publications has asked the Editor to collect and receipt all subscriptions, and he is glad to do so, or to help in any way possible, that our dear CHRISTIAN SUN may continue to live and go forward in the great work it is doing for the Church.

Mrs. Elsie Bray, teacher at Rocky Ford, Carroll County, Va., states that the school at Rocky Ford opened on Monday, September 27th, with twenty-six pupils. She also acknowledged receiving the following: One barrel of clothing from Lafayette, Ohio; one box of clothing from Burlington, N. C.; A small box of clothing from Norfolk, Va.; A box of Sunday School papers from Mrs. Knapp; and a flag for the school building. We know that these gifts were the source of much joy to those that received them, and we believe that the donors also received a blessing in the giving.

The General Convention of the Christian Church convenes in Urban, Ill., Wednesday, October 20th. It is the mecca towards which hundreds and thousands of Christians are looking and longing. From reports, a large delegation from the South will be going. The Chesapeake and Ohio railway route has been chosen from Norfolk, Richmond, Charlottesville, and a special Pullman, or more than one if necessary, will be attached to the train leaving Norfolk at noon on October 19th.

Mrs. F. E. Bullock, the capable and talented Editor of our Junior Herald and the Children's Quarterly, Dayton, Ohio, was a pleasant visitor at Elon College the past week, being entertained in the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Harper for a day and night. Mrs. Bullock was on her way to Winter Park, Florida, health seeking. She has not been in good health for some months, and is now endeavoring to recuperate. We devoutly hope that desired results will be achieved in the balmy atmosphere of Florida.

"On the 5th Sunday in October, 1926, there will be a Home Coming Day and Missionary Rally at Liberty (Vance) Christian Church. A full program will be rendered. It is the desire of the church that all the former pastors be present and take some part in the services. Every member is expected to be present. All former members and friends are invited to worship with us on this occasion. We cordially invite you to be present and help make the day a success and one full of joy." The foregoing invitation is signed by, H. E. Crutchfield, pastor; J. Lee Lassiter, secretary; Miss Margarete Alston, president of the Missionary Society, and Mrs. R. J. Newton, secretary; who compose the committee.

Rev. Sion M. Lynam, one of our splendid young preachers, and one who supplies THE SUN's Observatory with rich material each week, is now located at 38 Barton Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, writing under date of October 4th: "My work here is opening up in a most encouraging way. Since our books and furniture have not yet come from Alabama, we are still unsettled, but I feel confident that we are going to like the work here, and a more loyal people I have never met. Our Rally Day was quite a success, and the whole Church is taking on new life after the holiday season, which in the city here is hard on churches. The church is planning to do some very constructive work during the coming months with a view to beginning definite steps toward our new church plant here."

We learn with real sorrow of the death of Mrs. J. J. Summerbell, whose husband used to be a valuable contributor to the columns of THE CHRISTIAN SUN and at the same time Editor of the Herald of Gospel Liberty. His loving wife, Mrs. Summerbell, we remember with great pleasure as a fine, good woman. The following is from the Herald of Gospel Liberty: "The friends at Dayton who remember her sweet-spirited and lovable personality, were saddened last week by the news of the death of Mrs. Isabella F. V. Summerbell (Mrs. J. J. Summerbell), at her home at Fall River, Massachusetts. Mrs. Summerbell for long years was one of the prominent members of our church in that city, and her death removes a most gracious and helpful personality. During the years she lived in Dayton, she won the hearts of us all, in unanimous and unbroken admiration and friendship. Her pastor, Rev. H. R. Clem, conducted the funeral service."

CONFERENCES MEET.

Georgia and Alabama Conference will meet at Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga., on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, October 18, 1926. H. M. Gray, President; H. W. Elder, Secretary.

Eastern Virginia Conference will meet with Webster Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., Tuesday, November 2, 1926. W. D. Harward, President; I. W. Johnson, Secretary.

North Carolina and Virginia Conference will meet with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., Tuesday, November 16, 1926. C. H. Rowland, President; Stanley C. Harrell, Secretary.

Western North Carolina Conference will meet with Pleasant Grove Church, Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1926. G. O. Lankford, President; W. C. Martin, Secretary.

Eastern North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet at such place as the Executive Committee may select on November 23, 1926, at 9:30 A. M. H. C. Caviness, President; W. C. Wicker, Secretary.

North Carolina Conference adjourned to meet on Wednesday, December 8, 1926. W. C. Wicker, President; L. L. Vaughan, Secretary.

REVIVAL MEETING.

Our revival services at Concord began July 25th, and continued through July 29, 1926. The weather was inclement, but the attendance was as good as usual and the interest was good also.

Rev. R. A. Whitten, Reidsville, N. C., was with us here and did the preaching of the Word in a most acceptable manner. This was his first work at this place since he came from Georgia. He is very congenial in fellowship and is earnest in his effort to win souls for Christ. The congregation was very much delighted with his messages and heard him attentively. We were very glad to have him with us at this place and appreciated his efforts to strengthen the local church.

May God abundantly bless his labors of love elsewhere and his people whom he serves as pastor.

There was no landslide or anything startling during the meeting, but we believe there was some substantial good done. There were seven professions of faith in Christ, one reclamation, and six additions to the local church membership. The church was revived and encouraged to continue in the life of righteousness.

Praise the good Lord for all that was done and the blessings enjoyed. L. L. WYRICK.

FOR SALE.

Two or three lots fronting the Elon College campus from the South; width 80 to 100 feet, depth 200 to 300 feet. Address

JAMES L. FOSTER,
P. O. Box 113.
Elon College, N. C.
Adv.

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
 Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
 W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
 J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

CHRISTIAN CITIZENS AND CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

Christian education is a theme that looms large on the horizon of our day. It signifies that an effort at last is being made to train boys and girls to be Christians, to accept Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour, to cultivate a loyalty to Him, and to make the leadership of His life the great ideal of their lives. This certainly is an effort in the right direction. Our civilization will certainly require Christian education with all that it signifies if it is to endure. The object of Christian education is to make Christian citizens.

Christian citizens, on the other hand, are in a position to help the work of Christian education. The State will not and cannot train its citizens to be Christians. The Christian institutions must do this. The State may afford the opportunity and may give the privilege, but Christian institutions must avail themselves of the opportunity and the privilege. On this account, Christian citizens can be of great service in the field of Christian education. They can give of their means, and will do so for the support of Christian institutions. They will give their loyalty and their devotion to Christian institutions, that they may influence youth to patronize and to attend Christian institutions. Real Christian citizens are interested in Christian education and will manifest that interest not only in the giving of their means and their influence, but in lending every possible help in the way of patronage and encouragement to build up Christian institutions, whether those institutions be the Sunday school, the local Church or the Christian college. If our civilization is to be made Christian it will be through a process of Christian education. Christian citizens must back and support and sustain this process, and will contribute constantly to the process.

COLLEGES AND THEOLOGICAL EDUCATION.

Dr. Robert L. Kelly, in the October number of Christian Education, writes a very illuminating article entitled "A New Theological Seminary Curriculum." Dr. Kelly is well qualified to speak on this subject, because he has published the most noteworthy book in this field in the history of American education. His book is entitled "Theological Education in America," and sells for $4. It can be ordered of the Christian Publishing Association, Dayton, Ohio.

However, the point in Dr. Kelly's article which gives the title to this editorial is this statement: "I presume that a theological seminary is a graduate, professional school. If it is a graduate school, there should have been a pre-theological course. The ministers in our seminaries now come from seven hundred colleges and there is not a carefully outlined pre-theological course in a half a dozen of them. Presumably, a 'practicing minister' should know the Bible. How many colleges teach the Bible? How many matriculate in theological seminaries know the contents of the Bible? It is the job of the college."

It is interesting in this connection and at the same time gratifying to note that our college at Elon has sensed this obligation of the colleges to give a complete knowledge of the English Bible. This course is required of every student who receives a degree from Elon, and is considered by the faculty as being absolutely necessary to a liberal education, whether for a layman or for a minister.

This Bible course is listed on page 76 of the catalogue as Bible I and is taught by Prof. S. A. Bennett. The following is a description of the course:

"English Bible Course. This course will cover the entire Bible. The approach will be from the viewpoint of appreciation. The emphasis will not be literary nor interpretative, nor critical, nor historical, nor comparative, but informational as to the Biblical content only. The Bible must be read by every student. The Book will speak its own message. The aim, therefore, is to give the student a comprehensive grasp of the Bible as such. This course is required of all candidates for a degree, but may be elected in any year desired. It is also the prerequisite for all other Bible courses. Three hours per week."

I am sure that Dr. Kelly also, without saying so, is thinking of Elon as one of the half-dozen colleges in the country that really gives a pre-theological education to its ministerial students. Several of the larger seminaries of the countries, in appreciation of this pre-theological course here, allow our graduates who have had as many as five of these courses to enter as second-year students and receive the B. D. degree in two years after receiving the A. B. at Elon.

Unless our denominational colleges really offer this pre-theological work and at the same time provide adequate training for Christian laymen and laywomen, in my judgment, they have no excuse for existence. W. A. H.

THE O'KELLY AND OLD LEBANON MEMORIALS.

THE SUN'S Editor, who is treasurer of the Committee on Memorials, sent out letters to all pastors and all Sunday school superintendents, each letter containing three or four cards suitable for boys or girls in the Sunday school to use in soliciting funds for the memorials. So far, no response has come, which is taken to indicate that all are placing the cards and using them in the way suggested. Rev. Stanley C. Harrell reports that one class in his Sunday school has already raised about $50.00. If other Sunday school classes will take up the matter, something good will take place. We grown-ups often say that the young people and children care nothing for the Church or Sunday school. Here is a fine opportunity to test them out. Just let those who have these cards place them in the hands of the young people in our Sunday school classes or in a Christian Endeavor Society and ask them to see that the cards are properly filled out with sufficient "punches" to take the entire card. We have an idea if this matter is given to the children in the Sunday schools and proper explanation is made of what it is all about and how they are to use the cards, the funds will come in during October and we will at last do this great work. Meanwhile, if any CHRISTIAN SUN reader has a dollar or five dollars or fifty dollars that he or she wishes to go for this worthy cause, send it in and due acknowledgment will be made. It is for every one who is interested to do what they can in behalf of this good matter.

THE IDEAL CHURCH MEMBER.

"The ideal Church member respects the past, believes in the present, and cherishes enthusiastic hope for the future. He expresses his faith in deeds, rather than in creeds. To be a member of any Church means that one has a vital interest in the Church. A person dismembers himself from his Church when he loses interest in his Church. The ideal Church member loves his Church. He appreciates every item of progress his Church makes. He shows his loyalty to his Church by faithful attendance, making it his practice to attend at least one service of worship each Sabbath if physically able. As much credit is due the Church member who lives in the country for attending one service each Sunday as for the person who, living in town, attends two services.

The ideal Church member gladly supports the Church according to his ability. He lives his religion instead of argues it. He makes a large place for prayer in his life. The ideal Church member is not a perfect person, nor does he claim to be perfect. But he is one who, recognizing his weakness and his shortcomings, seeks, by God's help, to win the fight for character.

The greatest heresy of all time is the heresy of professing to believe in Christ and His gospel, and then refusing to try to play the part of an ideal Church member. Every Church member who is sincerely trying to do his or her best in serving Christ and promoting the interest of the Church, is an ideal Church member. R. C. H.

TITHING.

The Editor of THE SUN is not going to ask its readers to tithe, except those who are already doing so. He is going to make one request, however, and it would seem that it should be granted by all fair-minded Christians. Just this: Study to see what the Bible teaches on tithing. That is a simple request, and when one has done that there can be no question about the consequences. We have never yet known a person to honestly and candidly study what the Bible taught on tithing, but that he or she came to the conclusion that it is the plain word of God, and that all should tithe.

The declaration comes ringing down the ages as unanswered and unanswerable at present as it was in the day when the divinely inspired prophet Malachi preached, "This whole nation hath robbed me in tithes and offerings, saith the Lord."

We may get around tithing to our own satisfaction. We may substitute something for it for our own satisfaction. We may disregard it and be indifferent to it; but it is God's will, and the Bible teaches it as sure as there is a Bible and as sure as the will of God is revealed therein.

The Old Testament taught it as law; the New Testament taught it in love; and from cover to cover neither the law that constrained it nor the love that compelled it has been revoked.

The kingdom of God now being established in the earth as it is in heaven, should not be a poverty-stricken kingdom and one that must needs plead with men and women for help or "a hand-out." And this indeed it would not be if the children of the kingdom were to obey the laws of the kingdom. We will never properly finance the kingdom of God on earth until we do so according to God's will, and His will is that the tithing of the first fruits and of all increases shall be consecrated to the support and enlargement of His kingdom in the world.

Not only is tithing best for the kingdom; it is best also for all individuals who are in the kingdom and in the Church. The economy of God was never created to impoverish men. The best economy that men have ever practiced from ancient Jewry to this good hour has been that economy of God which demanded of a man that he give a tenth of all his increase to the Lord. Such giving carries our minds from things about us to the Maker of all things about and above us. We need to have our minds and our hearts lifted from sordid things to the divine Creator of things, whose we are and who in His wisdom is seeking to lift us up and bear us on eagle wings unto Himself.

THE O'KELLY MEMORIAL.

Attention has already been called through the columns of THE CHRISTIAN SUN to the proposed memorial to the Rev. James O'Kelly. The Southern Christian Convention, at its recent session held in Durham, authorized the erection of this memorial. Dr. J. O. Atkinson is the treasurer of the committee that is charged with raising the funds with which to honor this pioneer of religious liberty. Dr. Atkinson has appealed to our people through THE SUN, and has sent out letters to pastors and superintendents of Sunday schools, asking that each Church and Sunday school have a part in this most commendable enterprise.

It is earnestly to be hoped that there will be a generous response on the part of all our people. It may be of some encouragement to know that some of our people are already at work. Some weeks ago, of their own initiative, the Junior Philathea Class of the Durham Sunday School, of which Mrs. W. H. Boone is teacher, voted to undertake to raise $50.00 toward this memorial. This class is in the habit of doing the things that it undertakes. At the time this is written, practically the entire amount is in the hands of the class treasurer. Inspired by the Junior Philatheas, the Senior Philathea Class of the same school is now working on plans to raise their part, and this class, too, has the reputation of doing things. If the matter has been suggested to the Baracca class, it has not come to our attention, but if this splendid class of men set themselves to the task they will do something fine and generous. Let us hope that many of our schools and organized classes will get busy, and that by the time the memorial is ready to be erected the funds may all be in the hands of the committee.

Some months ago THE CHRISTIAN SUN carried an article written by Rev. W. T. Scott, describing the condition of the cemetery in which Rev. James O'Kelly is buried. The description was by no means exaggerated. Rev. James O'Kelly was buried in a family burying-ground, on the O'Kelly farm. The farm is now owned by a negro, and the burying-ground had grown up in scrub oaks, wild honeysuckle, and briars. Someone spoke about the condition of the cemetery to Brother J. L. Cash. Now Brother Cash's motto is: "Do it now." And he applies that motto to every thing except getting married, and he insists that he is going to do that as soon as he can get through with the rush of other matters that are already engaging his attention.

Brothers Cash, C. G. Mulholland, C. A. High, and H. B. Harward, assisted by two colored men hired to help them, went down and put in a hard day's work in thoroughly cleaning off the cemetery and putting it in splendid condition. It would seem that these good men are due the thanks of our entire brotherhood. And those who are not near enough to help with their labor can help with their dollars in honoring the memory of so great a man.

STANLEY C. HARRELL, Pastor.
Durham Christian Church.

NOTICE.

On and after October 1, 1926, Subscribers will remit to THE CHRISTIAN SUN, Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Editor, Elon College, N. C., but all business matters pertaining to advertising and the general conduct of the paper will be addressed as heretofore to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

TENTATIVE PROGRAM OF THE EASTERN VIRGINIA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

To be Held at Webster Community Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Maryland, November 2-4, 1926.

Monday Night, November 1st.

Fellowship Service.
Introduction to the Conference of Rev. R. W. Sutcliffe, assistant pastor Webster Community Christian Church.
Devotional Service, Rev. H. S. Hardeastle, Suffolk, Va.
Address of Welcome, by Rev. Richard W. Sutcliffe.
Response to Welcome, by Rev. J. G. Truitt, Norfolk, Va.
Introduction of Visitors.

Tuesday Morning, November 2d.

9:30 Call to Order by President W. D. Harward.
Song Service, conducted by Rev. O. D. Poythress.
Invocation.
9:40 Enrollment of delegates.
Reception of visitors.
Appointment of committees.
Report of Executive Committee.
Report of Program Committee.
10:10 President's Address, Dr. W. D. Harward.
10:40 Report of Committee on Religious Literature, by Rev. H. S. Hardeastle.
Presentation of The Christian Sun, by P. J. Kernodle, Managing Editor.
Discussion.
11:25 Devotional Half-Hour, Rev. H. S. Hardeastle.
11:55 Report of Committee on Memorials, by Rev. N. G. Newman, D. D.
12:00 Communion Service, conducted by Rev. W. W. Staley, D. D.

Tuesday Afternoon.

2:00 Song Service.
Invocation.
2:10 Treasurer's Report, Mr. H. Woodward.
2:20 Digest of Chart, Study of Church and Ministerial Reports, under supervision of Rev. I. W. Johnson, D. D.
3:20 Report of Committee on Stewardship, by Rev. F. C. Lester, Chairman.

Address, Rev. W. H. Denison, D. D.
Discussion.

4:00 Presentation of Woman's Missionary Conference and Report, Mrs. M. L. Bryant, Pres.
4:35 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions, Rev. J. F. Morgan, Chairman.
Address, "Our Greatest Task," by Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.

Tuesday Night.

7:30 Music by Webster Church.
Conference Sermon, by Rev. L. E. Smith, D. D., Norfolk, Va.

Wednesday Morning.

9:30 Song Service.
Invocation.
9:40 Report of Committee on Moral Reform, by Rev. Elisha Bradshaw, Chairman.
Discussion.
9:55 Presentation of Christian Missionary Association, by Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, Pres.
10:10 Report of Committee on Home Missions, by Hon. J. E. West, Chairman.
Address, Rev. L. E. Smith, D. D.
11:30 Devotional Half-Hour, Rev. H. S. Hardeastle.
12:00 Presentation of Elon Summer School, Miss Pattie Coghill, Field Secretary.

Wednesday Afternoon.

2:00 Song Service.
Invocation.
2:10 Report of Committee on Education, by Rev. W. W. Staley, D. D., Chairman.
Address, Dr. W. A. Harper, President, Elon College.
Discussion.
3:30 Report of Committee on Religious Education, by Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, D. D., Chairman.
Discussion.
4:00 Report of Committee on Evangelism, by Rev. L. E. Smith, D. D., Chairman.
Discussion.

Wednesday Night.

7:30 Music by Webster and Dover, Del., Choirs.
Address, "Christian Leadership for Our Day," by Rev. Roy C. Helfenstein, D. D., Dover, Del.

Thursday Morning.

9:30 Song Service.
Invocation.
9:40 Miscellaneous Business.
Report of Collectors.
10:20 Report of Committee on Apportionments.
Address, "Our Convention Goals," Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.
Address, "The Layman and the Goals," Hon. J. E. West.
12:00 Devotional Half-Hour, Rev. H. S. Hardeastle.

Thursday Afternoon.

1:30 Song Service.
Invocation.
1:40 Report of Special Committees.
Nominations.
Place for holding next session.
Finance.
Resolutions.
Final Business.
Reading of Minutes.
2:40 Closing Service, Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe, Pastor Webster Community Church.
3:00 Adjournment.

Thursday Night.

7:30 Song Service.
Missionary Pageant, by Webster Church.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Obligations are of many kinds. A written obligation, as a pledge or promissory note, is legal in its nature. Such obligations are the easiest to keep, because legal forces compel payment. The signature of the person and the law unite to make the promise good. Even endorsement of a promise obligates the indorser to pay the note. The world is full of legal obligations. The business of the world is done in its largest activities on written promises. Failure to meet such commercial obligations means bankruptcy, and sometimes imprisonment. It ought to be understood that a church pledge is as binding as a bank note; but legal processes are so seldom used that subscribers to church enterprises do not feel the binding force of a written pledge; hence many of them remain unpaid. A church pledge contains a moral obligation, as well as a legal obligation, and should be all the more sacredly regarded.

There is another class of obligations that are not legal, but might be called social obligations. Individuals receive courtesies, kindnesses, considerations from the public in so many ways that real obligations are implied. Public sentiment, public behavior, outdoor manners, all help to protect virtue, develop refinement, and create Christian civilization in its best sense. This suggests, and almost compels, proper conduct on the part of individuals. Good manners are not entirely personal and voluntary; they are the keeping of an obligation to society. Any failure to keep this obligation is coarse, rude, vulgar. Good society, by its behavior, demands proper conduct. Good society is the right relation of all grades of society to one another. No one set can produce best manners, proper courtesies, and the finest community. The finest gardens are made of a variety of flowers.

There are two other obligations: one is to God, the other is to self; and the most difficult to keep are the obligations to self. Every life knows that it is difficult to keep pledges made to God: pledges to read the Bible, to pray every day, to attend Christian Endeavor meetings and church; but a sense of obligation contained in the promise, reminds us of our pledge. But at the same time there is no outside, visible and tangible reminder, to keep us true to our pledge, like society and law.

Within the realm of our own being, it is most difficult to keep promises, because such promises are unknown to others. Legal obligations, social obligations, church obligations, are known and required by others; but those promises made to oneself are as secret as life itself. We promise ourselves we will do certain things, and we fail to keep our promise; we promise ourselves we will not do certain things again, and then go and do them. "The good that I would, I do not; but the evil which I would not, that I do."—Romans 7: 19. Here in the inner precinct of ones own life, failure is most frequent, wrong is most done, and obligations are broken. The man who can keep promises to himself can keep all other promises.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

The college has been fortunate recently in entertaining distinguished visitors.

First came Dr. Martyn Summerbell of Lake-mont, New York, who has been making annual pilgrimages to Elon for thirty-seven years. He preached an uplifting sermon on Sunday, the subject of which was "The Futility of Evasions." His sermon was based on the effort of our first parents to pass the blame for what happened in the Garden of Eden on to others. Evasions have been futile from that day to this. In a day like this when moral responsibility for conduct is being doubted on the part of the public generally, as well as by the perpetrator, a message of this kind was a spiritual tonic. On Monday and Tuesday following his great Sunday message, Dr. Summerbell gave two lectures on Modern Prophets, Dr. Samuel Osgood and Dr. Stephen H. Tyng.

Dr. Summerbell left for his home on Tuesday at noon, and at three o'clock that afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Orban, Jr., of Whittier, California, and their daughter, Mrs. George S. Melville of Los Angeles, California, arrived and were the guests of the college until the Monday following. The immediate occasion of their coming was the formal presentation and dedication of the Mooney Christian Education Building, on Sunday, October 3rd, but the college was anxious that they should become thoroughly acquainted with its life and spirit and was happy to be able to entertain them in various ways for a week. A full account of the dedication of the Christian Education Building has been written by Mr. C. M. Cannon in this issue of THE SUN, and it need only be said here that October 3rd goes down in Elon history as an outstanding event.

For the dedication of the Christian Education Building, two distinguished brethren, aside from the resident speakers, were present. I refer to Dr. Walter S. Athearn of Boston, who gave a great address entitled, "The Prophet and the Teacher," and Dr. W. W. Staley of Suffolk, who accepted the building on behalf of the Board of Trustees. Dr. Athearn is by many esteemed to be the most distinguished leader in the field of Religious Education in America, and Dr. Staley has served through a period of thirty-seven years as trustee and president of Elon College. It is safe to say that Dr. Staley has been for a generation the most constructive leader in the Southern Christian Convention, sane in his business judgment, thorough in his scholarship, constructive in his spoken messages, and prophetic in his grasp of the interrelationships of all the enterprises of the church. He stands forth among our leaders like a lone oak in a cultivated field, furnishing shade for and the enjoyment of life and shelter in its times of stress and strain.

On Tuesday following the visit of the Orbans, who had gone North on a visit to various cities of the East on their way to the General Convention in Urbanna, the college was honored by a visit from Mrs. F. E. Bullock, editor and field secretary of our Board of Christian Education. Mrs. Bullock was on her way to Florida, where she expects to recuperate for a few months. She has for the past several years done the work of at least two persons and as a consequence has recently been in a declining state of health. Her host of friends will be glad to know that she is promised a complete recovery after a brief rest.

I must not fail in conclusion to mention the coming of Suzanne Keener, Metropolitan Opera soprano singer, who gave a most uplifting dramatic and vocal program to the college students and a large group of music lovers from cities nearby.

One of the most educative features of the college curriculum is the appearance in the college life and program of distinguished personalities. Students are always uplifted by such visits, and receive impressions of a salutary and inspirational character which spur them on to the achievement of their highest ideals.

W. A. HARPER.

GOOD SUCCESS IN CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

It is the year for the meeting of the quadrennial convention. Four years ago the Christian Church undertook to pioneer again as of old time. Its efforts fell in the field of Christian education, and a program for twenty years was carefully outlined by the Church leaders. A department was brought into being with Dr. W. A. Harper at its head, and able assistants were given him. When the work began four years ago it was a new thing, and it was understood that twenty years would be needed for its accomplishment.

Four of those twenty years have passed. The first four of those twenty years, and the hardest of those years, because the whole Church had to be awakened to the need and the methods of the new program, and not only the whole Church, but the whole of Christendom, for the thing was new. The program has lived and, in some sort, functioned. To have lived is much. To have accomplished anything to speak of it achievement. Christian education has achieved much.

It is not the purpose here to give a report of the work of the Department of Christian Education. The secretary will do that at the quadrennial convention, where reports will be in order. The aim here is to remark upon some of the outstanding things which the department has done and which are apparent to all who care to pause for a moment and contemplate them.

So far as the whole Church and the world is concerned, the most outstanding achievement of the department is the organization of the young people into congresses and the enlistment of those into whose hands we must shortly commit the world and its problems in active Christian service. Recognition of the young people and the discovery of tasks for their hands to do is a long forward step in the saving of them for their coming responsibility. There is in the world no greater impetus for good than this, nothing which is fraught with so great possibilities.

There are few needs so outstanding as the need for trained lay leadership. With the public schools of the country providing education for the masses, and maturing youth at an earlier age than ever before, as they are doing, the Church faces a crisis which it has never before been called upon to face. It must provide a lay leadership competent to do for religious thinking and growth what the highly trained public school teachers are doing along secular lines. It has no such adequate leadership. It must, therefore, train it, and it must come from the adult membership of the Churches. In other words, this generation must begin a generation or two behind and go beyond the next generation and stand ready to train it if the next generation is to be held true to the Church and the great progressiveness of Christianity. More than any other agency, the Department of Christian Education is seeking to meet this need. It, through the summer schools of Christian Education, is undertaking to provide a leadership which knows that Christianity is more than the saying of prayers and the singing of psalms, good though these are. They must know that Christianity is the growing of lives into the likeness of Jesus, the Christ, fashioned after the pattern set by him and brought ultimately to the full beauty of His life. It is a task. The leaders would not claim that they had done it, but they have begun it. That is much, and augers well for the future Church.

In many places all over the Church the department has given assistance in Church organization along the progressive educational lines. The colleges have received a new lease on life, a literature has been brought together in some degree, but, greatest of all, the whole Church has been brought to think about Christian education in a definite and constructive way.

No one would claim that the work has been perfect. There may have been mistakes, but let us remember that the thing was new four years ago and that the program called for twenty years of strenuous effort. In the first quadrennium much has been done, and the promises are brighter, the way more clearly charted, and the goal looms nearer through the mist of unexplored seas. No movement in all its history has called attention to this pioneering Church of ours so much as has the program of Christian education. Other denominations have taken their cues from us, and have begun similar works. It is much to have made a contribution to the Christian thinking of the world, and we should pay high tribute to those men and women who have given unstintingly of their time and service to make the program the success it has been.

Christian education, which alone can inject into the whole thinking of a people the ideals of Jesus, which alone can change the thinking of men, and thereby solve the multitude of problems presented by the complexity of the life we live, is deserving of our thought, our gifts, our selves. The contribution of this age to Christian progress has been Christian education, and the Christian Church was in the vanguard who blazed the trail for other men to walk in.

PROGRAM OF THE FIFTY-FOURTH ANNUAL SESSION, WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Pleasant Grove Church, Randolph County, November 23-25, 1926.

First Day—Morning Session.
10:30 o'Clock.

1. Called to Order by President.
2. Devotional Services by Rev. T. J. Green.
3. Enrollment of Ministers and Delegates.
4. Election of Officers.
5. Report of Program Committee.
6. Appointment of Special Committees.
7. Annual Address by President, Rev. G. O. Lankford.
8. Adjournment.

First Day—Afternoon Session.
2:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. M. Allred.
2. Report of Executive Committee.
3. Ministerial and Church Reports.
4. Report on Religious Literature, Rev. G. R. Underwood, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.
10:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. U. Fogleman.
2. Minutes of Previous Day.
3. Report on Foreign Missions.
4. Address by Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.
5. The Christian Orphanage, by Supt. Chas D. Johnston.
6. Sermon by Rev. J. C. Cummings.
7. Adjournment.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.

2:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. E. C. Brady.
2. Report on Home Missions, Rev. T. J. Green, Chairman.
3. Report of Woman's Board, Mrs. D. A. Cornelison, Chairman.
4. Report on Moral Reform, Rev. J. M. Allred, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Third Day—Morning Session.

10:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services, Rev. W. C. Martin.
2. Report on Education, Rev. T. E. White, Chairman.
Address by Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College.
3. Report on Sunday Schools, B. S. Moffitt, Chairman.
4. Report on Christian Endeavor, Mrs. Madge Moffitt Whitesell, Chairman.
5. Adjournment.

Third Day—Afternoon Session.

1:30 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. W. J. Edwards.
2. Miscellaneous Business.
Reports.
Appointment of Committees for next year.
3. Reading and Adoption of Minutes.
4. Farewell Service, conducted by Rev. T. E. White.
5. Final Adjournment.

G. O. LANKFORD,
T. E. WHITE,

Program Committee.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold.....$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brevier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

ON THE JOB.

We most earnestly hope that every church and pastor will plan for one or more Stewardship Study Classes beginning with November first. It will be necessary to begin at that time to get in a six weeks class before Christmas matters are on hand. Now is the time to select your text book and put an order in to the C. P. A. Otherwise, they may not have sufficient copies on hand when you need them. Your instructors should be appointed now so they may thoroughly prepare themselves for this fascinating and important task.

THE APPEAL BECOMES MORE INSISTENT.

Conference Presidents are joining with three of our Convention Presidents, Dr. L. E. Smith, Rev. H. H. Short, and Rev. Rue Burnell, in urging our Christian Church to become a church of tithers. Dr. E. A. Watkins, Rev. A. A. Richards, have both made public appeals and have urged its importance before their own conferences.

Now Mr. H. H. Jessup, President of the Northern Indiana and Western Michigan Conference, writes:

"As I see it, the only way for the Christian Church or any other church to exist is to become a tithing church. How can we be true Christians without being true stewards? If we tithe our income we will be more apt to give the one-seventh of our time to the Lord, too. Recently I made a tour of our churches in this conference, and I urged each member to become a tither as the only way to keep up their churches. The haphazard way makes haphazard Christians and churches as well. To grow as Christians we need to live up to the Bible standards and plan. God's plan is at least the tenth of the first fruits. I shall advocate tithing wherever I have a chance."

What about your conference becoming a tithing conference?

TWO ADDITIONAL TEXT-BOOKS.

There are two Stewardship text-books to which I wish to call attention and which are most helpful. One is "The Way to the Best," by Anderson, for young people especially, but suitable for any age. We should like to see hundreds of classes use it. It costs 25 cents. The other is "The Call to Christian Stewardship," by Crawford. It is very fine for pastors and church officials and all adults. It is only 60 cents.

THINK THESE THROUGH.

A. A man's stewardship does not end at his death; it has something to say about the terms of his will.

B. As much for others as for self; is your church working on that basis? What church of the Christians will be the first to reach that normal condition?

C. When you receive your salary, income, allowance, do you think of things, or of the Owner of things?

WITH CHRISTIAN TEMPLE AT NORFOLK.

Your secretary has just spent a week assisting the pastor of Christian Temple, Rev. Dr. L. E.

Smith, and its departments of Stewardship and Finance in a strenuous week of stewardship instruction ending with the Every-member Canvass, September 19th. Thirty-four teams made the canvass after a week of preparation. It is too early to know the full result of the canvass. The budget sought was over $16,000, which did not include any part of its building obligations, but merely its local current expenses and benevolences.

MARKERS TO MEMORIALIZE.

By W. E. MACCLENNY.

The Christian Church, South, has at last decided to memorialize the memory of the Rev. Jas. O'Kelly, and the meeting in Surry County, Va., where the Christian Church was formally organized.

Some may ask why we propose to do this.

The Rev. James O'Kelly was a great man, recognized by the leaders of thought of his day, and even his enemies of his day have confessed that he was a man of power. As a young man, before becoming a Christian he was a man of determination, a man of stamina, whatever he undertook he did well.

When he was converted he turned from a wholly worldly life to one of consecration to the cause. He put away worldly things and did not try to serve two masters.

When he entered the ministry he went into it whole-souledly. He began to "render unto Caesar the things that were Caesar's and to God the things that were God's," and from that day unto the day of his death he was a persuader of men to leave the perishing things of the world, and set their faces towards the New Jerusalem.

He was 100 per cent American, although he was a minister, and did his part in the American Revolution. He endured the hardships of a true soldier and could not be bribed by his enemies, even for his freedom while a prisoner in their hands. He served as a private, through two campaigns and was honorably discharged at the close of the war. Two others of the same name are listed among the soldiers in the American Revolution, one as an ensign and one as a lieutenant.

When America became free, he championed the cause of full religious liberty as well as civil liberty which the citizens were then enjoying, and because of his stand on this question, the Christian Church was founded. So great was his power among the people that he was given a home in one of the most prosperous counties in Virginia by one of his well-to-do friends.

At the organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in 1794, he was one of the presiding elders, and served faithfully some of the most important districts in Virginia and North Carolina for eight years. At the Methodist conference of 1792 he stood for liberty and more rights for the people, and his motion was lost, and he then decided that he could go no further with their polity, and withdrew from the conference, with many others who were of the same opinion.

Many were the efforts that were made to get him to come back, for they knew his influence and power with the people of his section but he would yield only on one condition and that would not be granted, and as a final result the Surry County meeting was called on August 4, 1794, where the great principles of the Christian Church were brought forth, and the new Church began its career. For thirty-two years he labored hard for the establishment of the new body, and notwithstanding the great opposition which he met he never lost hope of the ultimate success of the movement.

He passed away at his home in Chatham County, N. C., on the 16th day of October, 1826—one hundred years ago next Saturday—and was buried in the family burying-ground. A marker was placed there by the North Carolina Conferences in 1854.

The time has now come when his memory should be marked by a monument on the campus of Elon College, so that the rising generations may see and learn something of his life and work. Others have done the same thing for their leaders, and we have neglected this already too long. If every member of the Christian Church, South, will do his bit, the marker will soon be there and paid for. The Surry meeting should be memorialized, so that the wayfarer may see and know that such a man lived, and that it was in that county that the movement first took definite shape. The open Bible will be shown as the only creed of one band of the followers of the meek and lowly Jesus of Nazareth.

The month of October, 1926, has been set to raise the funds for these markers, and it is hoped that each one will do his or her part, and the work will be accomplished.

NOTICE.

To Delegates to the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference.

The Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference will be held at the Oak Level Christian Church, near Youngsville, N. C., beginning November 23, 1926, 10 o'clock a. m. All delegates are urged to attend, and to notify Brother J. W. Hudson, Secretary of Oak Level Church, Youngsville, N. C., at once of their intention and time of arrival.

H. C. CAVINESS,

President Eastern N. C. Christian Conference.

PROGRAM OF THE WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONVENTION, NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

To be Held at Raleigh, North Carolina,
Friday, November 5, 1926.

Theme: "The Name that is above every other name."
—Eph. 1: 21.

Morning Session—10:00 o'Clock.

Call to Order by the President, Mrs. L. L. Vaughan.
Devotional Service, Mrs. J. Lee Johnson.
Roll Call of Societies and Enrollment of Delegates.
Reports of Officers Reports of District Leaders.
Reports of Societies.
President's Message.
Special Music.
Echoes from the General Convention.
Address, Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
Special Offering.
Appointment of Committees.
Adjournment.

Afternoon Session.

Devotional Service, Mrs. W. M. Jay.
Reports of Committees.
Discussion of Mission Study Books, Mrs. C. H. Rowland.
Special Music.
What Blue Ridge Has to Offer.
Miscellaneous Business.
Benediction.

DEDICATION OF CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING AT ELON COLLEGE.

Dr. Walter S. Athearn gripped and held the attention of his audience for almost an hour in his stirring address for Christian Education, entitled "The Prophet and the Teacher," Sunday morning, October 3d, at the dedication service of the Christian Education Building at Elon College. He said that it appealed to him as a fitting thing that the type of building this is should be dedicated to the memory of a pioneer minister in our country.

Rev. Isaac Mooney, Father of Mrs. Orban, and in whose Memory the Christian Education Building is Named.

The occasion of the services at which Dr. Athearn was the principal speaker, was the formal presentation of the Mooney Christian Education Building, devoted exclusively to religious instruction in connection with the college curriculum, given by Mr. M. Orban, Jr., and his family, of Whittier, California, in memory of Dr. Walter S. Athearn, Dean of the School of Social Service and Religion, Boston University, Principal Speaker at the Dedication Services.

Rev. Isaac Mooney, the father of Mrs. Orban, to the board of trustees of Elon College, and also a dedicatory service for this building. Six speakers took part in the program in the presentation and acceptance of this building.

Mr. and Mrs. Orban, and their daughter, Mrs. G. S. Melville, were present for the services, which began at 10:00 o'clock and lasted until twelve. Dr. W. S. Alexander, pastor of the Elon College church, presented the building by request of Mr. Orban. Professor S. A. Bennett, local director of religious education, then gave an account of the life and work of Rev. Isaac Mooney, in whose memory the building was named and dedicated. Dr. W. W. Staley, Suffolk, Va., a trustee of the college since its beginning, thirty-seven years ago, officially accepted the building on behalf of the board of trustees. In his speech accepting the building, he named five things it was to serve: Christianity, the Christian Ministry, Christian Education, the Southern Christian Convention, and Elon College. H. E. Crutchfield, a member of the student body, then spoke in appreciation to Mr. Orban for what the building meant in the way of service and instruction to the students. C. M. Cannon, superintendent of the local Sunday School, made a further speech of acceptance of this building on behalf of the citizens of the community and the boys and girls

He defined religious education as "The introduction of control into experience in terms of a great religious ideal." He made a strong appeal for Christian nurture as regards the child, contending that ideals stamped on the mind of youth exercised the greatest control over life of any method known.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Orban, Jr., and their Daughter, Mrs. G. S. Melville. Taken in front of the Christian Education Building.

MOONEY CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING.
Dedicated Sunday, October 3, 1926. Given to Elon College by M. Orban, Jr., and Family, in Memory of Rev. Isaac Mooney.

of the Sunday School, whom this building serves in a magnificent way. These speeches were preliminary to the main address on the program, which was that of Dean Walter S. Athearn of the School of Social Service and Religion of the University of Boston. Dr. Athearn was selected for this address because of his outstanding work in Christian Education and because he had helped in the planning and designing of this building.

In his address he stated that the first course in religious education to be given at a college for credit toward an academic degree was only sixteen years ago, but that now 120 colleges in the United States were giving religious instruction in their curriculums, but that it had remained for Elon College to erect a building devoted exclusively to this purpose in connection with their college.

Dr. Athearn in the course of his speech defined three terms and then spoke along the lines of his definitions. Those terms were, Education, Religious Education, and Christian Education.

Education he defined as "The introduction of control into experience." He described vividly the early tendencies in education in contrast with the tendencies of education today, stating that the "pull of an ideal," and practice under criticism and supervision, would be the motivating methods of education in the future. The progress of the human race depends upon psychology and philosophy, he contended, the minister and the teacher, human consciousness and religion.

And for the definition of his last term, Christian education, he gave "the introduction of con-

Dr. J. W. Wellons, Christian Minister, 101 Years Old, who took part in the Dedication Service of the Mooney Building.

control into experience in terms of the ideals and teachings of Jesus Christ. He declared that the
(Continued on page 11.)

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS NOTES.

Writing under the date of October 8th, Treasurer Stephenson advises us that eleven churches have reported to him with regard to the offering for the Board of Religious Education, and that these eleven offerings amounted to $88.46.

If your church has not yet taken the offering, feel perfectly free to do so even though the date set for the offering to be taken has passed.

And if the offering has been taken but not reported, please attend to it at your earliest convenience.

The Treasurer's Report for September follows:

Balance in Bank, Sept. 1st	$ 185.19
Returned expense money	1.75
Borrowed	197.00
Raleigh Sunday School	16.00
Liberty (Vance)	5.27
Leaksville	5.41
Pleasant Ridge	1.00
	<hr/>
	$ 411.62

Disbursements:

Salary for August	$ 100.00
Salary for September	125.00

Balance, October 1st $ 186.62

A recent letter from Mr. D. W. Sims, General Superintendent of the North Carolina Sunday School Association, has this to say about the services of Miss Pattie Coghill for the Association, September 18th to 26th inclusive: "Miss Coghill has proven to be a very winning speaker, and so polished, polite and ladylike in all her dealings that the people who hear her are compelled to enjoy her messages. . . . Her addresses are clear, pointed and helpful. May I congratulate you and the Board of which you are Chairman on having such a capable worker."

Now this splendid tribute is given by a Sunday School worker of experience and achievement, to our own Field Secretary, who stands ever ready to assist any Sunday School in the Southern Convention from her office, and the Sunday Schools of any conference convention in institute or leadership training work where they will promote the program and invite her to come.

Let us use Miss Coghill in institutes and leadership training. If we do not, we will soon be saying, "I'll tell you, the State Association has a fine worker in that Miss Coghill. Now if we had a worker like that in our church, we would be getting somewhere." Well, we have her, so let us use her.

The following Chautauqua young people are in college this winter: Jack P. Dalton, Jr., Galen Elliott, Mable Alexander, Sarah Norfleet Daugherty, Mary Graham Lawrence, Ruth Alexander, Darden Jones, Lucile Mulholland, Nannie Sue Dunn, Mary Lu Emma Bennett, Howard Holland, Minnie Johnson, Silas Madren, John Norfleet, Jr., Dan Long Newman, Jewell Truitt, and Gladys Yates.

The Young People's Department of Fuller's Christian Church met recently to organize and elect officers. Meetings will be held twice each month. The Philathea Class also recently elected new officers.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

BY REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

LESSON IV.—OCTOBER 24, 1926.

"JOSHUA, ISRAEL'S NEW LEADER."

GOLDEN TEXT: "Be strong, and of good courage; for Jehovah thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest."—Joshua 1:9.

LESSON: Numbers 27:18-20; Joshua 1:1-9.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Proverbs 2:1-8.

"And Jehovah said unto Moses, 'Take thee Joshua, the son of Nun, a man in whom is the Spirit, and lay thy hand upon him . . . and give him a charge.'" One of the best tests of a real leader is his ability and his willingness to develop other leaders. Joshua had been associated with Moses as his attendant, and he was being groomed for the work which Moses was to lay down. Every church should be discovering, developing and using future leadership. It is the command of God.

"A man in whom is the Spirit." It is not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit saith the Lord God of Hosts. When will we learn this truth. Natural ability counts. Training counts. Organization counts. But the thing that gives life and permanency to a man's work or the church's work is the Spirit that quickeneth. See to it, Mr. Preacher, Mr. Pastor, Mr. Sunday School Teacher, Leaders of Young People, one and all, that you take time to be holy. Give attention to the devotional life. It is not the amount of work you do; it is the spiritual quality of the work, that count's. The need of our time is for men and women, in whom the Spirit is.

"Jehovah spake unto Joshua, the son of Nun, Moses' minister, saying, 'Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou and all this people.'" Moses is dead. It would seem that it was a time for mourning—a great and mighty man of Israel had fallen. It was. There is a time for all things, and there is a time for mourning. But a man's grief must not interfere with his duties. One of the most effective ways of showing our devotion to our departed loved ones, is to do in a worthy of them the things we have to do. There was a land to be possessed. "Be up and doing," said Jehovah. Master your grief.

"Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, to you have I given it." The land was theirs—as they possessed it. How easy it would have been for Jehovah to give them the land. He could have done it. But how fatal it would have been. The Hebrews needed that discipline which would come from subduing both the land and its inhabitants. The early settlers of this country did more than conquer the country; they developed strength of character. How nice it would be if someone would give me an education, thinks the student as he pores over his task when he wants to be doing something else. How nice! How fatal! It is so in all other realms of life. A wise Father knew what He was doing when He commanded us to possess the land.

"I will be with thee." As I write these notes, a World Series is being played. Much emphasis has been laid on the fact that the Cards are playing on their "home lot." It means a great deal (Continued on page 11.)

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 24, 1926.

By PATTIE L. COGHILL.

"LESSONS FROM GREAT ATHLETES."

TOPIC: "Lessons from Great Athletes."—I Cor. 9:24-27; Heb. 12:1-3.

Hints to the Leader.

At one time any form of athletics was regarded as sinful because it was thought that the mind and spirit only needed development, and that the body developed incidentally. Now the importance of a strong and healthy body as a base for mental, social and spiritual development is understood, and a great deal of emphasis is being put on physical development and strength in our schools and colleges. In Luke 2:42, a verse which young people all over the world are frequently using now, we are told that Jesus increased in wisdom (mentally) and stature (physically) and in favor with God (spiritually) and man (socially). The physical, mental, social and spiritual sides of each individual are so closely connected and dependent upon each other that to develop normally is to develop along all four of these lines.

Many persons, physically disabled, are handicapped mentally, socially and spiritually. Paul said, "Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you?" If this is true, each person is responsible for the use he makes of his or her body. It will require some thought and attention. A healthy body tends to make a healthy mind, and a healthy mind, thinking pure thoughts, will aid in keeping a healthy body.

Do the members of this society keep strong and healthy bodies? Do they do things which are harmful to their bodies? Is this society providing any form of social or recreational life for its members? (Write Miss Pattie Coghill, Henderson, N. C., for suggested programs for Christian Endeavor socials and books on the subject.)

Lessons from Athletes and Athletics.

1. Fair Play. Fair play is one of the things an athlete learns early in his experience. He finds that his opponents expect it, those watching the game expect it, and he expects it from his opponents.

2. Team Spirit. The player in basket ball, foot ball, or any other game, who plays for his own glory and honor gets no applause from the side lines, and is looked upon with distrust by his own team. A player must lose himself for the team. It is only through co-operation of every member of a team that victory is won.

3. Alertness. One of the best things which comes from participation in games is the ability to think quickly under trying conditions. A player must think and act quickly, at the same time using his best judgment.

4. Self-Control. An athlete must exercise self-control. He uses self-control by eating only certain foods and doing only certain things while in training for the teams. To permit an exception of this may cause him to lose the good effects of his entire training. Strength of character is built up by exercising self-control.

5. Practice. The athlete realizes that "Rome is not reached in a day," and works patiently and persistently to become a good player. He tries to overcome his short-comings and build up his best points.

6. To be a Good Loser. This is one of the first and hardest things for an athlete to learn. To be a good loser is to be a "good sport." A good loser is one who can sincerely congratulate the person or team which has defeated him. Remember that it takes both sunshine and rain to (Continued on page 11.)

DEDICATION OF MOONEY BUILDING.
(Concluded from page 9.)

building then being dedicated was to bring about this ideal; that this need was the cause for such a building being erected; that the building stood for a child of God and for individual control over environment and destiny. This ideal, he declared, will stimulate the motive for life, and that this ideal upheld in the dedication of this building will make a great contribution to the community in which it stands, to the State of North Carolina, and to the country at large.

The service was simple, but very impressive. Preceding the speaking a special chorus under the direction of Prof. C. J. Velie, of the college music conservatory, rendered "And the Glory of the Lord," by Handel. Miss Florence Fisher and Mrs. Zenith Velie gave a duet, "My God and Father," by Marston, and the chorus near the middle of the service sang "The Hallelujah Chorus" from the Messiah, by Handel.

Dr. J. O. Atkinson, of the Southern Christian Mission Board, read the Scripture and offered prayer at the beginning of the service, and Dr. J. W. Wellons, a minister of the Christian Church who is nearly 101 years old, pronounced the benediction.

Mr. and Mrs. Orban and daughter have been visitors of the college at the president's home for several days, and have been present with the students on a number of occasions. From Elon they plan to go to Urbana, Ill., to attend the quadrennial session of the American Christian Convention.

C. M. CANNON.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

(Continued from page 10.)

to know that the crowd is with you. It means more to know that the Lord is with you. "I will not fail thee nor forsake thee." The consciousness that God is with one, makes that man master. One need have no fear that God will forsake him if he is doing what God would have him do. He need only fear that he will forsake God.

"This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth, but thou shalt meditate thereon day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein." The secret of success was loyalty to moral and spiritual ideals. They were not only to know the law; they were to do it. It is a fine thing if Sunday School teachers and preachers can stimulate and inspire their constituents to read the Bible and to possess its information, but it is a far more vital thing if they can inspire them to live the Bible and to be possessed by it. Right knowledge does not insure right conduct, but it helps to secure right conduct.

"Be strong, and of good courage; be not affrighted." Fear is the great paralyzer. Love casteth out fear. Jehovah is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear: The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

(Continued from page 10.)

grow good crops, victory and defeat to grow good people.

Questions for discussion.

1. What part should a Christian take in athletics?
2. Why has athletics been condemned?
3. What is the value of athletics in school?
4. What is recreation?
6. How do body and mine work together?
6. How can we "practice" our Christianity?
8. How may we use self-control, fair play, being a good loser, team work, etc, in our daily living?

A Great Background Book

LANDMARKS in the STRUGGLE BETWEEN SCIENCE and RELIGION

by Professor J. Y. Simpson, M.A.,
D.Sc., F.R.S.E.

This book sets the present day controversy in its right historical setting. It is a survey of an age-long contest between truth and superstition. It makes religion as well as science a living, dynamic thing.

$2.00

DORAN BOOKS

TWENTY years ago Professor David Smith wrote "In The Days of His Flesh." For twenty years it has headed the list of books on Christ.

Now he has written:

OUR LORD'S EARTHLY LIFE

ANOTHER rich tribute to the Lord he loves. Characterized by mature scholarship and a marked humanist strain, this book has instantly gripped the hearts of readers.

$3.00

DORAN BOOKS

The Famous
Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION
Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

- No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50
- No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35
(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.
(Weight 18 oz.)
- No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

- No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition
- No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

.35 And Jē-hōi'-ā-kīm gave th silver and the gold to Phār'-aoh

- No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50
- No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50
(Weight 3 lbs.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)
- No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33:3.

MONDAY.

CHURCH AND SCHOOL.

"Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid."—Matt. 5:14-16.

The Church and the school are representative of what we think, do, say, and are. "Institutions are the lengthened shadows of men," said Emerson. Through them we trumpet our ideals and ideas to posterity. What we preach and teach today, men and women will be tomorrow. No nation rises higher than its institutions of light and leading. Church and school should command our best. They are a continuous challenge to us to be the best that is in us as we plan for their efficiency and influence.

Both Church and school should be, not politics or selfishness or intolerance or bigotry, but knowledge and righteousness.

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

TUESDAY.

THE NECESSITY OF FAITH.

"For we know in part, and we prophesy in part."—1 Cor. 13:9-12.

The world in which we live is a mysterious and wonderful world, and we really know but little about it. The doctor, the lawyer, the merchant, the scientist, all must say: "We only know in part."

It is true that knowledge has amassed tremendously in recent years, and that man now knows far more, especially about the physical universe, than he ever knew before. But still our knowledge is terribly partial, and we must live by faith. Our reason and intelligence are at hopeless odds if we strive to live life alone. To God we must turn, through prayer and inspiration from the Bible and the Church, for that larger wisdom which never can be ours away from God. Without God, I am like a ship without a compass. Life's sea is too vast and infinite for me. My faith in God is my pole-star by which I steer.

But He leaves us not entirely in darkness. We do know in part, but we know! We know the difference between right and wrong. We know that our hear's find in Jesus Christ the dearest life and the loveliest Friend of earth. We know that every page of the Bible speaks convincingly to our souls. We know that in humble prayer we feel the power of God guiding us toward decisions of wisdom and experiences of peace. We know that Christian companionship and friendship build us up in character and meet our deepest spiritual needs. These things we do know, and are sure of. We must walk by faith; nevertheless, we thank God for what we know, and from that small center we press toward the circumference of the full-orbed truth, knowing that some day our faith will be sight and we shall know also as we are known.

Prayer.—Our dear Heavenly Father, we pray Thee that we may be led to value the things that are vital and enduring above, all riches and worldly possessions and have a faith to live day by day that knows no bounds and reaches thy heart. In His name we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

THE SUPREME PRIVILEGE AND DUTY.

"What do ye more than others?"—Matt. 5:44-46.

Our supreme privilege and duty is to be and do, in things good and nice, a little more than others. We are told of a little girl who once prayed "O Lord, make all bad people good, and all good people nice." Have we not a right, as Christians, to expect of others, and others to expect of us, a superior courtesy and kindness? The Bible says: "The fruit of the Spirit is goodness and righteousness." Christ taught always that a Christian should be distinctive, in whom there is no question of faith and goodness.

Visiting an old cemetery, a man stepped before a stone and scraped the moss away. It read: "Think what a man ought to be, and he was that. Such is the fruit of the Spirit."

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, day by day help us to get better and better, that some day we may be perfect as our Lord is. May we grow in grace and love, and good works. Forgive us of all sin and fill us with Thy spirit, that we may surrender most truly to Thee. Amen.

THURSDAY.

THE LESSER THINGS.

"And there were also with him other little ships."—Mark 4:36-39.

To be more than others and be good and kind each day is supreme, but there are lesser things that make life great.

When Jesus rebuked the storm, there were other little ships that felt the calm and peace that settled upon the waters.

Folks with whom we come in contact should feel the blessing of our Christianity. "The least of these" owe their very lives to Christianity—every little movement for good; every little organization is a little ship, but the presence of Jesus in the main boat is the central fact.

Prayer.—Our dear Father, we pray for so much of the Christ spirit that we may not regard lightly those others who may be doing but little, but doing their best, to meet the storms of life. Teach us to help even the worst of these. This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

FRIDAY.

SALVATION ON THE FACE.

"Who is the health of my countenance?"—Psa. 42:5-11.

Paint and powder and rouge may be all right for lots of folks. With some it is hideous, but with many it is a great improvement. There are some, however, whose intimacy and devotion to spiritual life exceeds cosmetics in the character and countenance. Christianity saves the face as well as the soul. It is when God is the health of the soul that He is also the beauty of the face.

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, as we begin each day may we realize and trust in Thy promises and give us full joy of a Christian heart, that others who look upon our faces may see also Jesus in our lives and be helped. This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

SATURDAY.

A DAY OF PRAYER—TOMORROW.

"I exhort therefore that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men."—Luke 18:9-14; Tim. 2:1.

Tomorrow is the day of the Lord—a day of intercession and prayer; a day for the good of man and the glory of God. We ought to decide today how we will spend it, and let our conscience with Christ's spirit be our guide.

A noted president of a college was known by his oft-repeated prayer: "Lord, deliver the ladies before Thee from lying, cheating, cowardice, and laziness, which are as the devil. Put common sense in their heads, fear on their hearts, and give them grace to be honest men all their lives."

On the eve of Grover Cleveland's election he said: "I am honest and sincere in my desire to do well, but I doubt if I know enough to accomplish my desire. If mother were alive I should feel much safer. Her prayers always had much to do with my success."

Will we be remembered by our prayers?

Prayer.—Dear Lord, Giver of every good gift, give unto us the spirit and power of prayer. Oh, for a close walk with Thee! Amen.

SUNDAY.

THE VALUE OF TRUE WORSHIP.

"They that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth."—John 4:22-24.

The first essential condition of true worship is to realize the presence of God. It is only when other voices are still and the realization of God's nearness comes to us that we are ready to worship.

Were you ever in a crowd that was waiting for some great man to appear? Everybody was talking. When the great one appeared, everybody forgot everybody else in the concentration of thought upon the one central figure. And so when we realize God's nearness, our souls will respond to His presence in grateful thanksgiving, reverence, trust, loyalty and love. This is worship.

A boy, standing in silence on the shore of a mountain lake, encircled by forests, and watching the moonlight shining on its surface, said: "Surely God must enjoy beautiful things to put this wonderful lake here, where for many years no one has seen it but Himself."

That is worship! That same boy, grown to manhood, sits in Church; the sweet tones of the organ quiet him; the prayer of his pastor makes him search his heart to see if he is keeping it true to his early ideals. He remembers, as he bows his head thankfully, that the Church in all the world has helped as nothing else to make honor and morality, and true piety ever live and thrive. He sees his neighbors worshiping with him, and he feels that God is near. That is worship, "in spirit and in truth."

Prayer.—Dear Lord, glorious God above, we lift our hearts to Thee this day for help. Open wide our eyes that we may see our duty of worship and service on the Sabbath, and that we may always strive to know Thy will, live close to Thee, and do all in our power to serve. May we live today with love. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

The Woman's Missionary Conference of the North Carolina Christian Conference is to meet with the church in Raleigh, November 5th. By vote of the Executive Board, in a meeting held in Burlington on September 9th, it was decided to close the books of the treasurer, Mrs. W. R. Sellars, Burlington, N. C., on October 15th. Each society will take notice and send all money in hand immediately to Mrs. Sellars.

The secretary was instructed also to send two statistical report blanks to each church, one to be retained by the church for its records, and the other to be mailed back immediately to Mrs. W. A. Harper, Secretary, Elon College, N. C.

If any church fails to get a blank, I will be glad to be notified and blanks will be immediately sent.

MRS. W. A. HARPER,
Secretary.

Christian Orphanage

REPORT FOR OCTOBER 14, 1926.

Brought forward	$ 19,362.66
Sunday School Monthly Offerings.
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Main St. Durham	$ 5.00
Howards Chapel	1.00
First S. S., Greensboro	15.38
21.38
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Turner's Chapel	$ 1.51
Oak Level	4.21
Pleasant Hill	5.39
Franklinton	10.00
Plymouth	12.16
Catawba Springs	9.50
Mebane	1.25
44.02
Western North Carolina Conference:
Providence Christian Memorial ...	$ 3.68
Seagreve	1.53
Pleasant Ridge	2.65
Union Grove	3.00
Mt. Pleasant	1.50
Pleasant Cross	5.00
Hanks' Chapel	3.06
20.42
Eastern Virginia Conference:
First Christian, Richmond	6.00
Valley Virginia Conference:
Dry Run	$ 3.42
Leaksville	3.05
6.47
Alabama Conference:
Rock Stand	$ 3.96
New Hope	2.00
5.96
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Vanceville	1.00
Northern Sunday Schools:
Dayton, Ohio, Dr. J. F. Burnett's office ..	1.10
Special Offerings:
R. B. Wicker, support of Edna	$ 15.00
Chas. D. Johnston, Agt.	6.00
21.00
New Building Fund:
C. H. Dickey	$ 10.00
Naomi Boyce	5.00
Mrs. W. R. Partin	1.00
Mrs. Hubert Jones	1.00
H. C. Simpson	10.00
27.00
Total for the week	$ 154.35
Grand total	$ 19,517.01

PROGRAM

TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL SESSION OF THE GEORGIA AND ALABAMA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Richland Christian Church, Richland, Ga.,
October 19, 20, 21, 1926.

First Day—Evening Session.
7:30 o'Clock.

Conference called to order by the President, Rev. H. M. Gray.
Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. S. D. Lankford.
Enrollment as follows: Ministers, Churches, Delegates.
Reading and adoption of program of the session.
The Annual Address, by Rev. H. M. Gray.

Election of officers and appointment of Special Committees.
Miscellaneous business.
Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.
8:30 o'Clock.

Conference called to order by the President.
Devotional Service by Rev. P. L. Duke.
Reading of minutes of previous session.
Report of Executive Committee: Revs. H. M. Gray, C. W. Hanson, H. W. Elder.
Address by Rev. H. W. Elder.
Report on Foreign Missions: Revs. C. W. Hanson, T. J. Dean, S. D. Lankford.
Address by Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
Report on Christian Endeavor: Miss Aylmer Goodwin, Miss Ethel Abell, Miss Mary Talley.
Address by Miss Mary Talley.
Report on Sunday Schools: Revs. A. B. Mann, C. L. Reese, Paul House.
Address by S. D. Lankford.
Ministerial and Church reports.
Sermon by Rev. C. W. Hanson, "Helping God at His Work."
Adjournment for dinner.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.
1:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by A. H. Sheppard.
Reading of minutes of previous session.
Place of meeting of next annual session of conference.
Report on Moral Reform: Revs. P. L. Duke, W. D. Wilkinson, T. W. Gray.
Address by P. L. Duke.
Report on Religious Literature: Revs. W. T. Crowder, W. D. Wilkinson, E. J. Easterwood.
Address by the representative of The Christian Sun.
Report on Home Missions: Revs. H. W. Elder, C. W. Hanson, H. M. Gray.
Address by H. W. Elder.
Reports on Superannuation: Revs. A. H. Sheppard, A. B. Mann, H. M. Gray.
Adjournment for supper.

Second Day—Evening Session.
7:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by T. J. Dean.
Annual session of the Christian Missionary Association, Rev. H. W. Elder, President.
Organization.
Regular order of business.
Address, "Our Orphanage," by Chas. D. Johnston.
Address, "Our Colleges," by Dr. Beougher, President of Bethlehem College.
Adjournment.

Third Day—Morning Session.
8:30 o'Clock.

Devotional Service, by Rev. A. B. Mann.
Reading of minutes of previous session.
Report on Education: Revs. H. W. Elder, A. H. Sheppard, H. M. Gray.
Address by Rev. J. H. Dollar, Dean of Bethlehem College.
Report of Special Committees.
Bills against Conference.
Report of Treasurer.
Sermon by Rev. H. W. Elder.
Miscellaneous business.
Final adjournment.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To All Pastors and Churches of the Eastern Virginia Conference:
All pastors, delegates and visitors are urged to send, not later than October 15th, to the pastor of the Webster Community Christian Church, the

Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe, Havre de Grace, Md., their names, when they expect to arrive at the Conference Church, and if they are traveling by automobile or train. The Committee on Entertainment cannot properly provide for you unless you help them with this information. Please send it to us at once.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlockink, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
 - No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
 - Filler—Silver lined 6.00
- Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.
1536 E. Broad St. Richmond Va.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE MOFFITT WHITESELL, Editor.

Dear Kiddies:

Do you know—Why bats are useful? What insect is called the death watch? How fish control their breathing? Which hawks are good and which bad? Whether peanuts grow on trees? How many different kinds of clouds there are? Which is the largest frog in the world? What makes the rainbow in the sky? Whether animals have two sets of teeth?

Answer these questions, and send them in to your Editor. These are questions about our great out-doors—the outdoors that God made for us all to enjoy. Who is it that doesn't like nature and wild animal life. Let's send in our answers at once. Won't it be great to have your name in the Korner as the quickest and smartest? Lets go! You will not be sorry you tried.

YOUR EDITOR.

MILLIONS OF BUBBLES.

"Hurry, Jim! They won't wait for us to start the games, if we aren't there soon," Rex called to his cousin, Jim.

Jim's only answer was a grunt.

The third grade pupils were going on a picnic in the oak grove half a mile away. By hurrying, the boys would reach there just in time to join their playmates. But Jim seemed in no hurry. He was smoothing back his hair carefully with his hand.

"What do you think of this," he asked suddenly turning.

"Why, your hair looks smooth and glossy," admitted Rex.

"That's the way the big boys wear it at home. See how smooth it is compared with yours," Jim added unkindly.

Rex reddened. His hair was out of place, but he had combed it the best he could.

"Let's fix yours like mine!" Jim was sure they had plenty of time; so Rex agreed. To his surprise Jim began to wet his hands and rub the cake of soap on them. Then, before Rex could speak, Jim rubbed the sticky soap over his hair. When it was combed, it looked smooth and shiny.

The boys were late, but when the others saw their fine pompadours, they did not say a thing about it.

They had a glorious time playing. But when lunch time came, a big cloud passed overhead and a fine rain began to fall.

Suddenly Rex saw that something strange had happened to Jim's hair. Drawing closer, Rex blinked in surprise. Jim's head was covered with bubbles!

For an instant Rex did not know what to do. He knew he must look like Jim. Then he remembered his cap. Taking it out of his pocket, he drew it far down over his head.

Quite at ease now, he walked toward a group of his playmates. The boys and girls looked at him and then began to laugh.

Rex did not wait to hear what they would say. He hurried away to a small hut on the edge of the wood.

"Bubbles! Millions of bubbles!" his playmates called after him, which only made Rex run the faster.

In the hut he found a piece of mirror which the boys had used to signal with. When he looked at himself, he laughed too. All around his head, where the cap rubbed, was a crown of soap bubbles!

Rex hurried out of the hut and to the well. As he was drawing up some water, Jim came. The two boys looked at each other. Then with a grin they plunged their heads into the cold water.

Their hair was wet and untidy when they got through, but it was clean. And they decided, as they joined their friends, that clean, neat hair was better than sticky, slick hair.—Marguerite B. Moret.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

WHITESELL-MOFFITT.

On Thursday, September 16, 1926, at five o'clock, at the Ramseur Christian Church, a large audience of invited guests witnessed one of the prettiest and best directed church wedding ceremonies ever solemnized there, when Miss Madge Fleming Moffitt and Mr. John Chester Whitesell were united in holy wedlock.

Extensive decorations made the environment most impressive for this sacred occasion. Numerous ferns and potted plants, interspersed with baskets of cut flowers and predominated by large bouquets of goldenrod, all tastefully arranged, made a lovely background before which the bridal party stood while the covenanting words were spoken. Dozens of yellow candles, placed on large stands of yellow, furnished a soft glowing light.

The bridal party was directed by Mrs. Herbert Coble, of Elon College, N. C., while the following close friends of the bride and groom were ushers: Messrs. T. A. McMath, H. P. Smith, C. R. Whitehead and D. E. Whitehead, all of Ramseur. Those composing the group of musicians were: Miss Allie Malone, Miss Mary Lee Foster, Mrs. Robt. Brannock, Mrs. N. F. Phillips and Mr. R. B. Moffitt, who after being conducted to their places by the ushers rendered the following program: Miss Allie Malone played "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly" on the violin and also played oblagatta for Mr. Moffitt who sang "All for You" and "When Song is Sweet." Miss Mary Lee Foster sang sweetly "Until," Mrs. Robert Brannock accompanying pianist. Mrs. N. F. Phillips, pianist, accompanied Mr. Moffitt and played the processional and recessional.

The Delta U Sorority Sisters of Elon College and Martha Stacy Missionary Class of Burlington, and others, were honor guests. Dame of honor, Mrs. R. B. Moffitt, wearing beautiful powder blue crepe back satin and a picture hat, stood on the right, while little Elfleta Curtis, dressed in a dainty green dress of voile, bore the ring in a large rose. The bride wore a lovely Spanish raisin satiu crepe dress and a large picture hat. Her father, Mr. T. A. Moffitt, gave her in marriage, while the groom was presented by Mr. Lem Harrell of Suffolk, Va., best man. Dr. G. O. Lankford, of the First Christian Church of Burlington, N. C., was the officiating minister. He first gave the solemn charge to those making this sacred covenant and spoke of the institution of marriage, its origin and of the approval of God upon it since the first families of the earth. Then, using the ring ceremony of the Christian Church, he pronounced them husband and wife. As Lohengrin's recessional rang out the bridal party hurried out as hearty congratulations were extended. The bride and groom left immediately for an extended trip to Washington and other places of interest in the North.

Mrs. Whitesell is the attractive and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Moffitt, of Ramseur, N. C., and a graduate of Elon College. She is popularly known over the State, having taught in the schools of Ramseur and elsewhere and spent some time in social service work with the First Christian Church at Burlington, N. C. She stands high in the social, intellectual and religious life of the communities in which she has rendered splendid service, and numbers her friends by the scores. The unusual collection of valuable gifts received by Mr. and Mrs. Whitesell speaks of their popularity and the large number of their friends.

Mr. Whitesell is the popular son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Whitesell of Elon College. He graduated from Elon College with honors and is a young man of outstanding qualities and bright outlook. He holds a responsible position with the Texaco people at High Point, N. C.

These fine young people have the most hearty congratulations and best wishes of their many friends.

A young man claiming to be Baron Frederick von Krupp, son of the noted German manufacturer of the same name, was arrested at Albuquerque, New Mexico, on a charge of passing worthless checks. The German Krupps denied that any member of their immediate family was in America. The "baron" had been royally entertained by the General Electric Company and Henry Ford.

A continuous performance

Nothing is permanent in railroading.

Larger cars and engines must be bought to handle greater loads; the roadbed must ever be kept in good condition, new ties and heavier rails must be laid to support heavier trains at high speeds; and in places the course of the line must be changed to reduce curves and grades.

Shop facilities must be enlarged, terminals improved and bridges rebuilt to carry the ever-growing train-loads. New signalling devices are being installed, and new tracks, yards and sidings built to handle the growing traffic of the South. This process of change, improvement and renewal goes on day in and day out throughout the year.

But the service must never stop. The way must ever be kept open for the great freights as they rush through the night carrying products of the South to distant markets, and the world's goods to Southern buyers. And the Crescent Limited, the Royal Palm and other passenger trains must not be delayed.

Railroading on the Southern Railway System is a continuous performance both in service rendered and in provision for handling the greater traffic of the future.

Everything used on a railroad wears out. Last year about $60,000,000 was spent by the Southern in replacing things that had worn out.

S O U T H E R N
RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year $ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to "Editor Christian Sun," Elon College, N. C.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

MARRIAGES

LOFTIN-ALLEN.

A wedding accentuated with that charm characteristic of a home wedding, was solemnized on Tuesday morning, June 15th, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. N. A. Allen, near Troy, N. C., when Mr. Walter Jones Loftin led to the altar Miss Rosa Lee Allen.

Miss Bertie Allen, sister of the bride, presided at the piano and rendered the Wedding Chorus from Lohengriin, as the bride and groom entered the living room unattended, where the ceremony was performed by the writer.

The home was beautifully decorated with potted plants and a profusion of cut roses.

The bride has held a responsible position with Odell Hardware Company of Greensboro for a number of years, while the groom has held a position with the Thomasville Chair Company of Thomasville, N. C. After a motar trip through Western North Carolina, they will be at home in Thomasville, N. C.

The many friends of this popular couple wish for them a long and happy life together. C. E. GERRINGER.

HYATT-MARSHALL.

At three o'clock on Saturday afternoon, October 2nd, at the Monticello Christian Church, occurred the marriage of Miss Ruth Marshall to Mr. J. Clifford Hyatt. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. A. Whitten, former pastor of the contracting parties. Both young people are from the Pleasant Ridge Church community in Guilford County. They will continue to make their home in that community. Their many friends wish for them a long, happy and useful life.

R. A. W.

School Desks, Opera Chairs, Folding Chairs, Kindergarten Chairs, School Supplies, Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

FOR SALE.

One Manual Pipe Organ, suitable for a chapel or small church, complete with or without electric motor. Price very reasonable.

Write

V. E. MAREAN, Organ Builder, 3011 Lamb Ave., Richmond, Va.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. . . . $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. . . . $9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria

3011 Lamb Ave., Richmond, Va. Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL. Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address

THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearest Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type. AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115P. French Morocco Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $85

15RIP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1926.

NUMBER 42.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

A LONG FLOAT.—

Some months ago while rescuing the crew of a sinking English vessel the S. S. President Roosevelt lost a life boat. This boat was recently found floating in the ocean between Scotland and Iceland, 1,750 miles from the place where it was lost. The little life boat had had a long float and had ridden the waves well.

A LAUDABLE EFFORT.—

An effort is being made to get the nations of the world to unite in prohibiting the manufacture and sale of heroin, a drug to which so many unfortunate people become addicted. The use of heroin is large among the school children, and is steadily growing. This effort should receive our hearty endorsement and co-operation. Heroin is as dangerous as opium and far more insidious.

HONOR PIONEER UNITARIAN.—

The Sesqui-Centennial has revived many historical memories almost lost. Dr. Joseph Priestley, a pioneer Unitarian preacher, has been little appreciated. He settled in Pennsylvania, and profoundly affected the religious views of Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin. It was Dr. Priestley who discovered oxygen, and the Chemistry Society meeting at Philadelphia recently, made a pilgrimage to this preacher's grave.

CHURCH BECOMES SHRINE.—

The executive committee of Congregational Churches recently voted one thousand dollars to the fund now being raised around the world to preserve the old Southwark Congregational Church of London, England, which is said to be the first Congregational Church in the world. It was founded in 1592, and from it came the London contingent of those Pilgrims who sailed on the Mayflower. The sailing of the Pilgrims is celebrated in this church during September of each year. The church is now situated in one of the poorer districts of London, and carries on social ministrations as well as the regular religious program.

A WORLD PEACE BOOTH.—

World peace competed this year with prize pigs and fat steers for the attention of Iowa farmers. Three young Quakers were on duty for ten days at the Iowa State Fair. They kept open a booth distributing peace literature. The young men also made the rounds of the automobiles daily handing pamphlets to the visitor otherwise unreached. The inspiration for this venture came from Frederick Libby of the Young Friends General Conference. This competition of an ideal with material things for public attention is a new venture, but rightly conducted, it may reach many otherwise unreached people, and bring a larger support for the ideal.

AUTOMOBILE MURDERS.

During the first thirty-five weeks of this year 3,274 persons were killed and many times that many more seriously injured in sixty-six cities of the United States by automobiles. This means that 18½ persons out of every hundred thousand population of these sixty-six cities were killed by automobiles during the first thirty-five weeks of the year. This is one more per 100,000 than last year. The highest death rate was in Pittsburgh, Pa., where 26 per 100,000 population were killed. As automobiles increase, the death rate from them increases. Some definite steps will have to be taken to bring about better conditions. It would appear that all that has been done is proving unsuccessful.

THE FIVE FOOT SHELF.—

In 1908, Dr. Charles W. Elliot, then President of Harvard College, and who died recently, gave out for publication a set of books exactly filling a five foot shelf. These books, he said, contained the best gems of literature of all the ages, and if mastered would give a person a literary education equal to a college course. He called the collection "The Harvard Classics," and since that time more than fourteen million volumes of these books have been sold for a sum totalling twenty million dollars. This fact demonstrates two things, first, the power of one great man's opinion and influence, and second, that the love of what is best in literature has not wholly died, in spite of the great amount of trash which the presses are daily sending forth, and which the American public is consuming. The great sales of the five-foot shelf of books is a hopeful sign for those who love the best and hope for its triumph.

COLLEGE CHAPEL ATTENDANCE.—

The problem of compulsory chapel attendance by students is still an issue. The National Student Federation of America recently sent a letter of inquiry to 315 college presidents and forty-two student editors. Most of the college presidents responded. 176 opposed compulsory Sunday chapel attendance, while 136 favored it. The vote went the other way, however, with reference to daily chapel attendance. 220 of the college presidents favored compulsory attendance for students, and ninety opposed it. The drift has been away from compulsory attendance, but regardless of how the college presidents vote, the problem of the religious life of students still remains a problem. It merits and, we think, is the best thought of the world. The churches and college faculties are adjusting themselves to the new attitudes of youth, and youth is slowly discovering the permanent and abiding values of religion. Students everywhere are seriously thinking about religion, and from their thought there will ultimately come good things.

A SAFEGUARD FOR AIRPLANES.—

The airplane service has been a most dangerous one. Now a parachute large enough to bring a stricken plane safely to earth has been invented and successfully demonstrated. The parachute is fifty feet in diameter, and can easily support an airplane. The demonstration was made at Los Angeles by R. Carl Oelge, formerly a naval air pilot, who staked his life on the invention. At an altitude of 2,500 feet Oelge killed his engine and allowed his plane to drop. It came down steadily for a while, and then began to oscillate. The great parachute on top of the plane unfolded beautifully, and it came to land on a hillside. Oelge hopped out none the worse for his experience. One propeller and a part of the running gear was all that was injured of the plane. The parachute is the invention of Harry A. Doucett, chief machinist's mate, United States Navy, stationed at the Naval Air Base at North Island, San Diego, California. This new invention may be the means of saving hundreds of lives. It will aid materially in making airplanes commercially valuable.

A MESSAGE TO THE NEGRO.—

Dr. H. H. Proctor, Moderator of the New York Congregational Association, and himself the son of a slave, delivered a message to the negroes of America which has found wide publicity in the press. He exhorted negroes to get all the education possible. He spoke to them concerning their history, and called their record the romance of American history. They were snatched from their native land, transported across an angry sea to alien shores, subjected to a cruel bondage, freed at the edge of the sword, started on the highway to freedom without guidance, disfranchised, mobbed, and redistributed. In all this the church has stood out as a beacon light on the road to freedom. In its light the four million freedmen have become twelve million freemen. During this evolution the negroes of America have accumulated two billion dollars worth of property, and be it said for their gratitude to the church, ninety million dollars of it is invested in the church. The negro has removed eighty-five per cent of his illiteracy since the War between the States, and has made long strides forward in every line of endeavor.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Mr. Melzer Saunders of Durham, N. C., attended services at the First Church, Richmond, last Sunday, and was a welcome visitor to the office of Central Publishing Company on Tuesday. He is in the city for several days on business.

Dr. J. O. Atkinson, the Editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, on his way to the General Convention of the Christian Church, stopped over between trains and made a pleasant visit to the publication office. We were glad to see him in our city.

Rev. B. J. Earp, who has accepted a call to the Winchester Christian Church, called at THE SUN office on his way to the General Convention, at Urbana, Ill. He spoke well of his Newport News pastorate which he has been serving for the past five years. He is to be succeeded by Rev. W. F. Allen of Lynchburg, Va.

Manny SUN readers who knew him will learn with deep regret of the sudden death of Mr. Jno. M. Cook, at Burlington, N. C., Thursday, October 14th. Mr. Cook was a half-brother of Dr. W. W. Staley, a graduate of Elon College, and a well known and much esteemed citizen and business man of Burlington.

Send all money for O'Kelly and Old Lebanon Church memorials to the treasurer of the committee, J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C., who will acknowledge the same in THE CHRISTIAN SUN. Any individual who cares for our Christian Church history and principles can and should have a part in this worthy undertaking.

Rev. C. C. Ryan, D. D., pastor of the First Christian Church, Richmond, left Tuesday to attend the General Convention of the Christian Church at Urbana, Ill. He will be gone till Wednesday of next week. His pulpit will be supplied next Sunday by Rev. Mr. Lancaster, the Chaplain of the Virginia State institutions.

The following is gratefully acknowledged: "Mr. DeLancie Judson Mood announces the marriage of his daughter, Mary Pearl to Mr. Richard Scott Randolph, on Saturday, October 9, 1926, Smithfield, Va. At home after October 12th, Barton Terrace, 2400 Barton Avenue, Richmond, Va." Our congratulations are extended. Mr. Mood was once joint owner and publisher of THE CHRISTIAN SUN with the late lamented Rev. W. G. Clements.

Rev. H. W. Elder is putting forth the supreme effort of his tireless and consecrated life in behalf of the building fund for Bethlehem College. He believes in the "pay-as-you-go" program in erecting a college building and it is doubtful if any other man in all the church could have under so many difficulties raised $20,000 in small and multitudinous donations in so short a time and in such a limited territory. Meanwhile that beautiful dormitory goes up and funds come in. Brother Elder is a builder.

The Mission Secretary had the joy last Saturday night of being sheltered and entertained in the hospitable home of the Kimbal Brothers (W. W. and J. A.) of our Mt. Auburn community. What a happy household that! Its good fellowship has no bounds and its regal hospitality no limits. That is indeed a Christian home or we do not know one. Sunday was home-coming day at dear, good old Mt. Auburn. Two services, and what a dinner! And then those dear and unnumbered friends of a former pastorate and happy association. Dr. W. C. Wicker is now the envied and much esteemed pastor, and they know how to esteem, love and honor a pastor at Mt. Auburn. We missed from the scene and services dear Brother Ellington, who through the years has been true, tried and loyal there. He is feeble now and in declining health. May God comfort and sustain him. What a day of delights and joys unspeakable at this great and good old country church.

Our dear Brother Alfred Hurst, Elkhart, Ind., in renewing his subscription to THE CHRISTIAN SUN, makes some observations of interest, which we quote: "I take THE CHRISTIAN SUN in order that I may keep in touch with the work of the Christian Church in the South. I have never had my residence in the South, but I am interested in the work of our denomination in all sections of the country. You are making THE SUN an excellent promotional paper in the interest of the various church enterprises, and I judge that is the sole reason for its publication. I was interested in reading of Mr. and Mrs. Orban being at Elon College for the dedication of the Religious Education Building. It certainly is an evidence of general denominational vision on the part of these people who have given so liberally to Elcn, Defiance, Palmer, Union Christian and Franklinton. That is as it should be, for our denomination is a unit, and every member should be equally interested in each of its institutions. Although Mr. and Mrs. Orban are members of the Western Christian Convention, they have realized that beyond that they are members of the Christian denomination. Would it not be a splendid thing if Defiance people would also make investments in Elon and Palmer, and some of the loyal supporters of Elcn should reciprocate in behalf of Defiance and Palmer. Until that is done, I take it that Mr. and Mrs. Orban have excelled."

THE CHILDREN'S TRIBUTE TO THEIR MOTHER.

By DANIEL ALBRIGHT LONG,
DECEMBER 13, 1902

Jane Stewart Long was the daughter of Col. John Stockard and Catherine (nee Albright) Stockard. She was born June 17, 1811, and fell asleep December 13, 1902, in the room to which she came as a bride, January 3, 1833.

After our noble and devoted father, Jacob Long, reached his 88th year, he left mother a widow, May 21, 1894. They were the parents of the following children: John Henry Long, Chapel Hill, Mo., Mrs. Elizabeth Catherine Clendenin, Graham, N. C. William Samuel Long, Graham, N. C., Joseph Gibbs Long, killed in battle in the last charge at Chancellorsville, Va., May 3, 1863, Daniel Albright Long, Graham, N. C., Jacob Alson Long, Greensboro, N. C., George Washington Long, Graham, N. C., Benjamin Franklin Long, Statesville, N. C.

For sixty-one years she was the delight of our father's heart, the sweetener of his toils, the comforter of all his sorrows, the sharer and hightener of all his joys.

Of the five boys who were in the Confederate Army, only Joseph and Jacob saw hard service in battle. When Joseph fell, one of the brothers took up his mangled remains, had them embalmed, brought home and laid away in the cemetery at Providence, near Graham, and never gave the parents the details of the harrowing spectacle. Their gray hairs went down to the grave, in sorrow, for the loss of their brave young son, who sealed his devotion to the Southern Cross with his heart's best blood, near the spot where Stonewall Jackson fell.

In all the vicissitudes of father's fortunes, through all the good and evil report of this world, in all his struggles and all his sorrows, the affectionate participation and cheering encouragement of mother was his never failing support and solace.

She gave her heart to the Saviour in the morning of her beautiful life, and dedicated all of her children to the service of God, before they were born.

She made garments for the poor and needy. The letters she received from the orphans at Oxford, N. C., she treasured as jewels. The success of Christian Missions filled her soul with delight.

So skillful and industrious was she with her needle, that she made a quilt for the Alamance County Fair, in her 92nd year, that was awarded a premium.

Thoroughly devoted to the cause of Christian education, she trained her children at home, and heartily united with father in sending them to the best schools.

A careful and constant reader of many good books and papers, she always placed the Bible first, and read it most of all. She read it through, consecutively, oftener than any person we ever knew. Had she lived a hundred years, every day of her life would have been filled with deeds of goodness and of love. There was not a virtue that can abide in the human heart, but it was the ornament of hers. The descendant of Revolutionary heroes, her soul glowed with patriotic fire. She was the personification of charity, piety and virtue. She was known and loved by her neighbors for industry and never intermitting benevolence.

To the dear Old Homestead, her children, grand children and great grand children came to bring her comfort and good cheer. To her they looked for counsel, prayers and benedictions. Now that she is gone, she is to us all more than a mother—she has become a spirit from above, watching us, like our sainted father, for good. The remainder of life's journey will be lonelier for us all. Never, never, will one of her children forget their pure right-educating mother. On the blue mountains of our dim childhood, towards which we will often turn and look, will always stand that dear one who first marked out for us the path of honor. It was then that we all learned that no joy in nature is so sublimely affecting and beautiful as the joy of a mother at the good fortune of her children. In the years to come, in fancy, we will often go back to the Old Home, and stand by her side. The flowers will bloom, the birds carol, the sun throw its mellow radiance over the hills, the bubbling brooks and rippling river where we played in childhood. Pensively we will stand there until the twittering birds begin their vesper songs, and the sun goes down into the purpling horizon, before us finish the roll-call of the loved ones of long ago.

Again we will go with father and mother to the shores of the dark flood, watch them as the angels seem to come and go, hold their precious hands once more, until the surging tide sweeps back, the shining way opens, and they vanish through gates unseen by mortal eyes, that stand ajar forever.

FOR SALE.

Two or three lots fronting the Elon College campus from the South; width 80 to 100 feet, depth 200 to 300 feet. Address

JAMES L. FOSTER,
Elon College, N. C.
P. O. Box 113.
Adv.

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
 Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
 W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
 J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE EASTERN VIRGINIA WOMAN'S CONFERENCE.

Each annual session of the Eastern Virginia Woman's Missionary Conference marks "the best yet" and the greatest. It has been and yet is a constantly rising tide of interest, of numbers and of enthusiasm. The session Friday, the 15th, at good Bethlehem, three miles out from Suffolk, fully measured up to the high standard of increase and excellence already established by this remarkable body of Christian workers and missionary enthusiasts. Here are some facts, reported at this meeting, worth thinking over and admiring. There were 376 registered delegates present. There were 500 visitors present (we are told), there were sixteen ministers present (fifteen of them pastors in Churches of the Conference). The magnificent chart prepared and presented by the treasurer, Mrs. W. V. Leathers, showed that the Conference now had 993 members in local Woman's Societies who had paid into their societies the past year a total of $4,201.21; 581 members of Young People's Societies who had paid in the past year $1,645.36; 310 Willing Workers, who had paid in $571.66 the past year; that there were 403 babies on the cradle rolls who had paid in $130.70; that the Suffolk Christian Endeavor Society had given $100 to missions, and the rally day offerings had brought in $65.16—thus making a total paid to the treasurer and passed on for the work the past year $6,714.09. The goal set a year ago was $6,600. The Conference, therefore, had reached the highest goal it had ever set for itself, and went over the top by $114.09.

Think of it—and be thankful! If this one Woman's Conference continues its work and increase in the next five years as in the past five it alone will be paying into our mission work $10,000 a year. And the women are so enthusiastic, so unselfish, and so happy over it all. They do not tire in the task, but with each recurring year and Conference gather new strength, new courage, new enthusiasm for this great work.

The program at Bethlehem this session was a gem and a joy. The theme was "Extension." After Mrs. M. L. Bryant had called the Conference to order exactly at 10:30 A. M., as appointed, and the packed house had sung "This World for Christ," Mrs. W. H. Andrews, Suffolk, Va., led a most appropriate and impressive devotional service. Besides her well-chosen Scripture lesson and solemn, reverential prayer, she had arranged with seven girls, a soloist and a pianist to give in pantomime "Oh, Zion, Haste!" It was indeed an appropriate beginning for an auspicious day and program. Mrs. F. H. Dilday, president of the local society, gave a charming welcome, and Mrs. B. D. Jones, of Holy Neck, was equally happy in her response. The four district superintendents gave excellent reports of how the work went the past year in their districts—Mrs. H. S. Hardcastle, for the Suffolk district; Mrs. J. A. Williams, for the Franklin district; Mrs. B. E. White, for the Waverly district; Mrs. O. S. Mills, for the Rosemont district. One was impressed with the fact that either one of the four districts into which the Conference is divided does a greater work now than the whole Conference did a brief decade ago.

Mrs. Russell Bradford sent in the report for the Young People's Work, which was impressively read by Mrs. I. W. Johnson; Mrs. W. H. Baker, that for the Cradle Roll; Mrs. J. E. Cartwright, that for Literature, and Mrs. W. V. Leathers, the very capable and competent treasurer, presented on a great chart, that all might read, the statistical and financial report.

Mrs. Bryant, in presenting the president's message, gave a striking and comprehensive study of "Making Missions Attractive to Young People." By vote of the body, this paper will appear in THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Lieutenant-Governor J. E. West, president of the Mission Board, Inc., of the Southern Christian Convention, gave a practical, eloquent and inspirational address on "The Well-Balanced Program of the Church." During the morning session, Rev. O. D. Poythress sang "In the Beautiful Garden of Prayer," and a quartet of ministers—O. D. Poythress, I. W. Johnson, J. F. Morgan, and C. A. Pierce—sang a beautiful selection. A very liberal offering was taken for the memorials to Old Lebanon and Rev. James O'Kelly.

And then what a luncheon those great-hearted Bethlehemites did serve! Well-prepared, abundant, wholesome, orderly and perfectly served.

In the afternoon Mrs. W. D. Harward conducted impressive devotionals. A male quartet sang "Lend the Light." Mrs. W. V. Leathers told impressively of the Blue Ridge Conference and presented the study books of the year. The Mission Secretary addressed the Conference on "The Relationship of the Missionary Society to the Church," and Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, in an exceedingly felicitous manner, presented the banners. The Windsor Society carried off the banner for the Woman's Society, attaining the highest standard of excellence; Holland, that for the Young People; Windsor and Rosemont, for the Willing Workers; Suffolk and Holland, that for Cradle Roll. The meeting next year is to be at Christian Temple, Norfolk, Va. Rev. John G. Truitt closed the session with prayer and benediction.

The spacious auditorium of the Church, the Sunday School rooms the aisles and the galleries were packed to the limit by the great audience that attended the day's session. Our women are certainly showing us how to hold a great Conference and how to carry grace, gravity and graciousness into the great work they are doing in the name of their Lord. There is no more hopeful phenomenon in all our Church work today than the determination and consecration with which our own good Christian women in all our Conferences have dedicated themselves to the task of planting and nourishing in every Church a live, active Missionary Society. May God hasten the day of this holy consummation, and have pity and compassion on those struggling Churches that so far have no Missionary Society.

THE ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

The Alabama Conference met Tuesday, October 12th, with Bethany Church, eight miles out from Roanoke, in its twenty-eighth annual session, and was called to order by the president, Rev. G. D. Hunt, of Wadley. The program, as printed in THE SUN, was adopted as the order of business. Rev. J. H. Hughes conducted the devotionals. Rev. E. M. Carter was in the secretary's chair and enrolled the delegates. On the first day, delegates from almost every Church in the Conference were present—and there for business! The same officers as last year were re-elected—Rev. G. D. Hunt, president; Rev. C. W. Carter, vice-president; Rev. E. M. Carter, secretary; Rev. J. H. Hughes, assistant secretary; Bro. J. W. Payne, treasurer. The president, in delivering the annual address, discussed "A Called and Sent-Out Ministry," using as his text Acts 13:2. It was a strong and striking plea for a consecrated, self-sacrificing, divinely called ministry, and for a consecrated laity to sustain and support the ministry in its endeavor to reach and save a world from sin. After the sermon a very solemn and impressive Communion service was held.

The good people of the Church and community spread a plenteous luncheon, to which all present were invited and made welcome.

The reports from the Churches showed increase, activity and progress along all lines the past year. The Churches of this Conference have some faithful, large-visioned, aggressive pastors, who are leading in the right direction and to achievement in the Master's cause.

The Executive Committee made report of great interest and import along two lines for the Conference.

First, it recommended the adoption of the financial plan, with the increased apportionment, as adopted by the last session of the Southern Convention. This was thoroughly explained and discussed by the Conference until all seemed to fully comprehend the measure—and then it was adopted by a rising and unanimous vote.

This Conference is not as large in numbers as some others, but it may always be counted on to adopt and do its part on every program that looks to wisdom, to progress and development.

Another item of great concern was a recommendation from the committee that a vote and steps be taken looking to a union with the Georgia and Alabama Conference and a consolidation of the two Conferences. The body voted unanimously for this also. There is a deep and widespread feeling that these two Conferences should be one and that the cause for division into two has long since and wholly disappeared. The body was ready to go into such a union, provided the other Conference should so vote.

Brother J. W. Payne presented the report on moral reform, which was seasonable and sensible.

Wednesday morning, Superintendent C. D. Johnston, of the Christian Orphanage, made a most lucid address on the worth and work of the Orphanage. A very nice offering was taken for the institution. Rev. G. D. Hunt, chairman, presented the report for the Board of Home Missions and showed the necessity of greatly increasing efforts in behalf of the home base. A new Church building is now in process of construction at Roanoke, and the work in North Alabama is still progressing and hopeful. A very liberal offering was taken for the home mission work of the Conference. Rev. C. M. Carter read the report on foreign missions, and the Mission Secretary delivered a brief address on "Our Missionaries." Under the topic and report on "Our Literature," an appeal was made for the support of THE CHRISTIAN SUN and explanation was given of the new plan under which THE SUN is now printed and published. Many subscribers renewed; not one said "Stop it," and some new subscribers were secured. THE SUN'S Editor preached on "The Ministry and the Church." After which a bountiful dinner was served on the Church lawn. The writer being compelled to leave, did not hear the report on education, with its scheduled address by Dr. Beougher, of Bethlehem College. He did hear, however, that all was going well at Bethlehem, that the new dormitory was still in building, that over $20,000 for its construction had already been collected and paid in by its hustling financial agent, Rev. H. W. Elder, and that the enrollment at the college was most gratifying. The next session of the Conference is to be at Antioch, unless the two Conferences unite before next session and choose a new meeting place. It was a joy and a privilege to be at this Conference and share its fine fellowship and brotherly love. J. O. A.

A PROGRAM OF EXPANSION.

An occasion arose not long ago to examine the proceedings of the annual Conferences held twenty-five, thirty, and forty years ago. One was impressed with the fact that at practically every session of a Conference of that day there was great emphasis placed upon the work of Church extension. Preachers seemed to have been on the alert to discover new fields in which to establish Churches. Established Churches seemed to have felt a responsibility for giving financial aid in the establishing of Churches in new fields. In the Conference sessions of today, but little is said about the establishing of Churches in new fields. The emphasis today seems to be an intensive, rather than an extensive, program.

Of course, one must recognize the fact that the country is far more adequately Churched today than it was forty years ago. There is a danger in establishing Churches where they will compete with other Churches already on the field. The writer is not well enough informed to say whether or not all the territory in which the Christian Church is working has all the Churches that are needed to minister to the spiritual wants of the people. The writer is unable to escape the conviction that there are still communities in which the Christian Church could render a distinct kingdom service by the establishing of new Churches. Certainly the Christian Church should make a careful survey of its field and contiguous territory before a decision is reached that there is no occasion for further efforts to establish new Churches. The usefulness of a denomination and the ability to render kingdom service depends upon its ability to expand and to build up strong forces to carry on its work.

There are strong indications that the very best territory in which a denomination can undertake a program of expansion is in that territory where it is already well established. There seems to have been a feeling in the Christian Church that one Church organization is enough for any one city. Where there has been one well-established Christian Church, our people have been very slow to undertake the organization of other Churches.

The reasoning seems to have been, it is better to have one strong Church than two weak ones. One wonders if we of the Christian Church might not learn a lesson from the bees. When a certain number of bees have been raised in a hive, then the bees swarm and establish a new hive. And it is not very long before the new hive is just as strong as the old one was, and the old hive has not suffered. In fact, the bee-keepers tell us that it is better for the old hive for the new swarm to leave. The experience of other denominations bear out the wisdom of starting new enterprises. If cases in point were desired, the writer believes that he could name Churches of large membership from which certain groups have withdrawn to establish Churches in other sections of the city, and instead of the mother Church being weakened, it has actually been strengthened by the division.

It may be possible for some pastors and organizations to secure the finest possible service from each individual member of a congregation that numbers into the thousands. But it is extremely doubtful that the average Church organization can use to good advantage more than a thousand members. And sometimes there are evidences that about five or six hundred members are about all that the average pastor and Church can work to advantage. And in the Christian Church there can be no doubt but that there are congregations smaller than that where half of the members are not being solidly lined up to support kingdom enterprises. If there are no additional fields to conquer, let us by all means make the most of those that we have.

There has never been such a day in which to engage in the work of the kingdom. The labors of all past ages have been preparing the way, and making possible for us such kingdom enterprises and kingdom achievement as have been possible in no other age. The question that should be constantly stirring the Christian Church; that should be asked in every Convention, in every Conference, in every local Church, and in the heart of every individual member is: Are we giving to the Christ the best possible service of which we are capable?

DR. HARPER'S NEW BOOK.

President W. A. Harper, of Elon College, has just brought from the press of the Macmillan Company, New York, a volume of 150 pages, entitled "An Integrated Program of Religious Education." The title indicates clearly what the book undertakes to present, namely: a program. Dr. Harper has written in his best style and on a topic with which he is, as a teacher and student, most familiar.

The volume is not intended to appeal to the average or cursory reader, but essays to be, and is, a manual for students and experts in the field of Christian education. It is highly technical and deals specifically with theories not yet worked out. It presents a program for comprehensive and all-inclusive Church activity which the versatile author feels will ultimately be adopted by all agencies and institutions of the Church. Co-operation and correlation of religious forces and organizations have done and are doing much; but they are not enough, the author teaches, and before the Church, with its subordinate and auxiliary organizations, properly and most efficiently functions, there must be integration—a making into one the whole activity of every sort in which the Church is or may be engaged.

The volume will, doubtless, be adopted, as no doubt the author, in writing it, intended it should be, in many schools and classes as a manual or textbook on the great theme of religious education. It is a students' book, written on a live theme of increasing interest, by a versatile writer and a wonderfully brilliant scholar and teacher. The volume is well printed and bound, and may be had of the publishers for $1.50 per copy.

IF OTHERS FELT THIS WAY.

How one wishes two thousand people in the Christian Church felt as does the dear brother who wrote the following personal letter, which must be printed:

Tenasly, N. J.

J. O. Atkinson, Treas. Memorial Fund,
Elon College, N. C.

My dear Brother Atkinson:

You present to us through THE CHRISTIAN SUN, statements as to the Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly and the site of Old Lebanon Church. Though burdened heavily with the work of The World-Wide Purity Legion, getting no salary and few helping to publish the vastly important graded purity booklets, most of them given out free for the good of humanity in Jesus' name, I do wish to have at least a little part in that very worthy and very sacred duty of honoring James O'Kelly, who for the glory of God and in due justice to Christ our only and all sufficient Saviour, first proclaimed in America that "Christian" is the right name for Christ's Church—a name under which all who truly love Christ can unite in His service.

I enclose one dollar. Were I able, I would make it five hundred dollars sooner than have the project fail, because it may be made to mean so much to His cause if the matter is rightly set forth. Of course, there are many who wish a part, and some are very able. In February of this year, by the blessing of God and the kindness of a dear son, I was privileged to visit Palestine—Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Nazareth, etc. I continue to thank God for all it did for me.

On the shore of the blessed sea of Galilee I knelt and prayed for dear ones. I prayed for blessings upon The Christian Church, with its blessed union principles, and for "The World-Wide Purity Legion," so greatly needed.

God prosper and greatly bless all.

Yours for Christ,

ALBERT GODLEY.

"THE CAN'T-BE-DON-ER."

By BERTON BRALEY.

There's a thousand "Can't-be-don-ers"
For one who says "It can";
But the whole amount of deeds that count
Is done by the latter clan.

For the "Can't-be-don-ers" grumble
And hamper, oppose and doubt,
While the daring man who says "it can,"
Proceeds to work it out.

Oh, the "Can-be's" clan is meager,
Its membership is small,
And mighty few see their dreams come true,
Or hear Fame's trumpet call;

But it's better to be a "Can-be,"
And labor and dream and—die,
Than one who runs with the "Can't-be-dones"
Who haven't the pluck to try.

The Denver Commercial.

NOTICE.

Those making payment on subscriptions should remit to THE CHRISTIAN SUN, Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Editor, Elon College, N. C., but all business matters pertaining to advertising and the general conduct of the paper will be addressed as heretofore to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The question of finance is a personal as well as a public question. One thing is important in both cases, even in the church; and that is, that receipts and disbursements shall be at short intervals and small quantities. The old-fashioned way of paying church obligations once a year, and that at the end of the year, would not work in this age when so much more is required to keep a church alive. In fact weekly payments is both scriptural and sensible; in fact, whatever is scriptural is sensible.

The industrial world conducts its business on the small and frequent payment plan. Most of them pay the workers by the week. This is sound as to business, and best for the workers.

Most salaried people are paid by the month. This is the same in principle and practice. If people who work as wage earners or on salaries received their earnings for the whole year at one time, they could not pay house rent, living expenses, and indulgences and live out of debt for a single year. Very few people are financiers with sufficient capacity to work on that plan.

If preachers received their salaries for the year in advance, they would be hopelessly in debt at the close of the year. But nature and business have united to pay for service in small sums and frequent intervals. If shop men received their wages for a year in advance, the industrial world would suffer irreparable loss. Work by the day or week; pay by the day or week; work by the month, pay by the month, is the salvation of all. That is the way men eat. "Give us this day our daily bread," is more than a prayer; it is a lesson for the world. It is the only way to live, and it is the only way to pay. The church must learn this great lesson, simple as it is. Paul, inspired by the Holy Spirit, gave the sound advice when he directed the followers of Christ to "lay by in store on the first day of the week" that there might be no gatherings (collections) when he came. It is sound in principle, sound in Bible teaching, works in the industrial and business world, and will work in the church; and it is the only way the church can maintain a sound financial policy.

One difficulty in farming is the selling of the money crops and getting the money earnings of the year all at one time. Money is a hard thing to keep. That is the reason why, when farmers cultivate all money crop, as cotton, tobacco, peanuts, corn, wheat, they have such hard times. The diversified crop, and the sale of small products, at brief intervals, always gives better results. The old-fashioned farming is always safe; the laying by of a little every week, the small and frequent payments, the daily task well performed, the systematic, frequent contributions are the salvation of the church and the cause of Christ. A regular attendant at church, a regular contributor to the church, is always a lover of the church. They are also the best satisfied and the most useful members of the church. Try it.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

Dr. Robert E. Speer is quoted as saying: "We do not need a youth movement. What we need is a truth movement."

There are evidences, however, in practically all lands of what may be called a "Youth Movement." This movement has particularly asserted itself in the colleges because designing agitators have secured access to student groups. There does not appear to be a "Youth Movement" as a spontaneous uprising of the world's young people. The manifestoes, strikes, and other demonstrations of unrest common to college campuses these latter days can easily be traced to "experts," "spell-binders," and "protagonists" of special causes, some of them on faculties and some outside, who have learned that the best opening to exploit their theories and to propagate their pet schemes is found in the field of student life.

Dr. Henry H. Sweets is authority for saying: "On every hand the strategy of intellectual leadership is recognized and oftentimes adroitly employed."

Our viewpoint is that the youth of the world should be encouraged in the sincere desire to achieve their highest aspirations and that their enthusiasm and energy should not be exploited by the sinister methods of propaganda in the interest even of the Kingdom of God, but appealed to, motivated, and so eventually activated on behalf of the Kingdom of God, because of the irresistible appeal which the idealism of this Kingdom inevitably makes to the exuberant spirit of youth.

The youth of the world in this day as in every other day is interested in the pursuit of truth. The wide-spread intelligence of young life today accentuates this disposition, but has no more created it than it has created the law of relativity. The whole tendency of the modern mind is to seek for unity in truth and through truth. The modern world cannot be conceived of as pluralistic. The youth of the world is, therefore, seeking for unity and truth and in this quest every encouragement should be given. Youth have the inalienable right to expect such sympathetic encouragement and should be accorded it without stint or misgiving.

However, it must be willingly recognized that neither age nor youth alone can discover truth. As unity is the fundamental concept of truth, so unity of life and not cleavage is the fundamental condition for the discovery of truth. Age needs the energy, the exuberance, the enthusiasm of youth. Youth needs the experience of age. It also needs its ideals introduced into conduct as purposive controls. The tendency in many parts of the world, therefore, to make a chasm between age and youth and to array them one against the other, is not in any sense to be approved and can only produce harmful and mischievous results. The youth of our time is deeply religious. Youth reads, thinks, and purposefully acts in terms of religious ideals and concepts. That is why our age concentrates its attention to so large an extent on youth and religion and the problems of religious life. The engrossing pursuits of the human spirit in our day is undoubtedly for unity, and it is certain that unity must include every interest and concern that touches the heart and life of man. This necessitates that religion be studied and that life be thought of in its terms.

But there is a deeper reason than this for our consideration of it. For religion is not only an interest or concern of major importance, but it is itself the synthesizing and unifying principle for all the interests of life. Modern psychology has rendered no greater service to our understanding of man than its explosion of the traditional contention that we are possessed of a religious instinct. We are permeatively religious rather, for religion rests on all the instincts. It is therefore impossible to be, and not to be religious in some degree. Religion thus is shown to be an inherent quality of every act, and not extraneous.

Of this we may be sure, the future rests with our youth as the actors on life's stage in cooperation with their elders as the stage directors. That our youth are seeking so earnestly, so passionately for ultimate reality, for the unity of truth, is an encouraging and inspiring situation, and that they are willing and open-minded and expectant as to the contribution religion can make to the attainment of their goal presages great things for human progress.

The spirit of a genuine accommodation of viewpoints, and methods, is the hope of the forward march and ultimate triumph of the human mind in its quest for unity and truth, a triumph to be prophetically undertaken by youth and to be thoroughly buttressed by age. So shall God's tru'h go marching on.

W. A. HARPER.

GREENSBORO.

It was my privilege to assist my pastor, Dr. C. H. Rowland, in a week's Evangelistic Program, in our church in Greensboro, N. C., beginning Sunday, September 19th, and it is because of my profound impressions of the splendid work which is being done there and because Dr. Rowland is such a modest soul in reporting the achievements of his church that I write this note. I am sure it is just as gratifying to the whole church as it is to me, to know of the wonderful work our Greensboro church is doing under the leadership of Dr. Rowland. The meeting was on the order of the Kingdom Enlistment Program and was the outgrowth of the interest of the men of the church's brotherhood in personal evangelism.

The week was a full one for the whole church. Each day the Ladies of the church served lunch to the men, and at this luncheon, problems of evangelism were discussed under the leadership of the pastor. These mid-day meetings were very spiritual and helpful. The attendance at the evening services was good and the interest shown at these services was an inspiration to the speaker. The results of the meeting were gratifying both in membership additions and in the renewed interest of the church.

I have known the Greensboro work for a number of years, but I have never seen the spiritual life and interest so distinctly manifested as it is now. Under the leadership of Dr. Rowland as pastor, the church in the last three years has gained very substantially in membership and in influence. The church is winning a prominent place in the religious life of the city.

Besides the many other activities there is a morning prayer service held each Sunday morning at 6:30 at the church, and in this service all denominations join. It was my privilege to attend one of these services, and I have never attended a service more spiritual. It means a sacrifice to go to this service, but the attendance is a manifestation of much interest and appreciation of the church as a great institution of the Kingdom.

The church has employed a full time pastor's assistant, Mrs. Stewart, and her leadership will add greatly to the work. This is a forward step of the church and is one of the many indexes being shown for a greater church in Greensboro.

WM. T. SCOTT,

1138 Yale Station,
New Haven, Conn.

Honor thy parents and be true to thy friends.—
Phythagoras.

LIBERTY (RANDOLPH).

Liberty Christian Church, Randolph County, N. C., is now a little bee-hive of activity. They have only 20 odd members of the church, with more than fifty in Sunday School. It has been the pleasure of this writer to preach for this church since January, 1926. They are prompt in their attendance and enthusiastic in their work. On fair days the attendance reaches from 75 to 100, in church services.

The pastor has recently received one young man into fellowship, and at his last appointment baptized four. If the large number of Christians living in Liberty would unite with this church, it would become quite strong. Many are members of Christian Churches out in the adjoining counties. We hope to hold a protracted meeting later in the fall. The outlook for building up and enlarging this church is hopeful. We pray for the co-operation and the coming into the church of all Christians in the community. This band of workers is not only prompt but liberal in their support of the church.

JAS. L. FOSTER,
Pastor.

PROGRAM OF THE FIFTY-FOURTH ANNUAL SESSION, WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Pleasant Grove Church, Randolph County,
November 23-25, 1926.

First Day—Morning Session.
10:30 o'Clock.

1. Called to Order by President.
2. Devotional Services by Rev. T. J. Green.
3. Enrollment of Ministers and Delegates.
4. Election of Officers.
5. Report of Program Committee.
6. Appointment of Special Committees.
7. Annual Address by President, Rev. G. O. Lankford.
8. Adjournment.

First Day—Afternoon Session.
2:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. M. Allred.
2. Report of Executive Committee.
3. Ministerial and Church Reports.
4. Report on Religious Literature, Rev. G. R. Underwood, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.
10:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. U. Fogleman.
2. Minutes of Previous Day.
3. Report on Foreign Missions.
4. Address by Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.
5. The Christian Orphanage, by Supt. Chas D. Johnston.
6. Sermon by Rev. J. C. Cummings.
7. Adjournment.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.
2:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. E. C. Brady.
2. Report on Home Missions, Rev. T. J. Green, Chairman.
3. Report of Woman's Board, Mrs. D. A. Cornelison, Chairman.
4. Report on Moral Reform, Rev. J. M. Allred, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Third Day—Morning Session.

10:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services, Rev. W. C. Martin.
2. Report on Education, Rev. T. E. White, Chairman.
Address by Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College.
3. Report on Sunday Schools, B. S. Moffitt, Chairman.
4. Report on Christian Endeavor, Mrs. Madge Moffitt Whitesell, Chairman.
5. Adjournment.

Third Day—Afternoon Session.

1:30 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. W. J. Edwards.
2. Miscellaneous Business.
Reports.
Appointment of Committees for next year.
3. Reading and Adoption of Minutes.
4. Farewell Service, conducted by Rev. T. E. White.
5. Final Adjournment.

G. O. LANKFORD,
T. E. WHITE,
Program Committee.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x3 3/4 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x3 3/4 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold.....$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

THE STEWARDSHIP OF THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

All delegates to the General Convention now in session have a stewardship of a two-fold character. It is individual in that each of us belongs to God through a personal commitment to Christ. We are stewards of our personality and possessions. Time, energy, talents, property, and opportunities, all enter into that stewardship.

It is also a group stewardship. We are here in a delegated and representative capacity. No delegate represents himself alone. For the time being, this group of delegates is the Christian Church. We are in such a relationship with others that involves the use, for a united work, of all that belongs to our individual stewardship.

Both for our individual and our group stewardship we are accountable to God. Every measure, every choice of personnel, every objective must, therefore, have our best thought, unselfish interest, unprejudiced judgment, with every personal interest, every selfish ambition, every unworthy motive eliminated.

We, the delegates assembled at Urbana, are stewards of the Christian Church, entrusted with as high and holy mission as there is on this earth. Shall we fully realize our stewardship and be faithful stewards, or shall we be less? It is between us and God. To Him we shall render the account.

MOVING THE BENCH.

At a conference recently, a long bench was placed along the laden table. A number of us sat down, but the table was too far away and we wanted to be nearer. The way we finally moved the bench was by all getting up and moving the whole bench at the same time.

That is the way it will be with our Christian Church Stewardship campaign during November and December; if all pastors, local church, conference and regional convention stewardship secretaries will make a united effort, our whole people may be stirred with stewardship's gripping message. Only by such co-operation will the largest results be obtained. If only a few, and at irregular times, and with unprepared programs the messages and practice of stewardship are stressed, the blessings and inspiration will be correspondingly small. More churches than ever before are planning strong programs, but we plead for all to lift and to lift at the same time.

MAKING MISSIONS ATTRACTIVE TO OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.—I.

By MRS. M. L. BRYANT,

President Woman's Missionary Conference of the Eastern Virginia Conference.

In almost all of our Woman's Conferences, the Presidents' Messages have had to do with the missionary enterprises from a woman's view-point, and they have been planned and thought out with the intent to encourage the women to a forward-onward march among their own societies. Today I shall change the slant of our ideas and ask you to consider with me some vital things concerning our young. I have chosen for my theme, "Making Missions Attractive to Young People."

I am sure that from my own experience I have not succeeded in a very large measure in doing this thing, but from this same experience I have drawn some lessons on "How Not to Make Missions Attractive to Young People," and I have given these points some study. The result of this study and experience I gladly bring to you, hoping that it may put you to thinking and that together we may eventually work out a program that will be attractive to young people.

Consider for a few minutes the subject and its meaning, "Making Missions Attractive to Young People." We are almost all agreed that "Missions" is the big task given us by the Father.

Who is to assume it? He didn't say, "Go, ye grown people," but "Go ye." He didn't say, "Teach grown people," but "Teach all." Whose is the responsibility of teaching missions attractively to the young?

All good parents assume the responsibility for their children from infancy until they get to be self-supporting. The wise parent assumes the responsibility of selecting the environment the best possible for his child to live in, selects his school, his friends, as a rule, his books, his doctor and his church. A very long time ago, the parent selected the child's clothing. This however is completely out of style now. When the parent has selected his child's school and prepared him for it, that is all he can do except to encourage effort to succeed. The courses of study, the trend of thought, the selection of the teachers and the matter of the teachers' influence, are matters beyond parent control. Those things are left to Boards of Education or some Committee, and to others out-side the realm of the average parent. How well the child measures when the courses are finished and he starts in life, is what counts. The parent selects the physician for his young certainly with confidence, believing that he is able to do all possible in times of need. Select is all he can do. It is left to the physician to guide the health charts and to bring them up to maturity with a fair degree of good health and as strong physical bodies as possible. Parents select for or suggest friends to their young people. That is all they can do. You can't make friendships. In selecting companions, you always try to select well-trained, well-behaved, studious, moral young people whose influence should count in helping to make character. Select is all possible. It remains with the young themselves as to what value such friendships have on their lives in after years. Parents select books hoping that example may make impressions that will be helpful, but that is all they can do, select. It remains with the young as to whether the lessons desired are learned and with the author of the book as to whether he has made it attractive enough to stick to the young. Parents select the church, as a rule, to which their children are sent. Here they can do a little more, they can by being interested outline some of its policy and program. They can help to select its officers, its teachers, its committees, etc., but it remains with the church as to what it shall make attractive enough to be lasting.

If parents and adults are responsible for all of these things I have mentioned, I am wondering if we are not responsible in a measure for the undertaking of "Making Missions Attractive to Young People"? For the sake of getting the question before you I am going to assume that we are responsible and ask, How shall we proceed?

First, I would suggest that we study. Prepare ourselves for the task by informing ourselves of its history, its growth or lack of growth, what other denominations are doing about it, what ours is doing, so that we can have something on which to start this attractive program that we must make. An artist is as careful of his background as he is of his objects. A bank needs its assets on which to earn its reputation, a farmer needs his acreage or his seeds are worthless. Let's get a background on which to build, and I know of nothing that we as workers, both officers, teachers and to the last member, need more than some accurate knowledge of our own Church History.

Several months ago, a lady who is a member of my church, one of my best friends, a teacher of the Young Ladies' Class in our Sunday School, principal of one of the Norfolk City schools, went to Washington, D. C., to an Educational Conference. While there she and a Baptist friend attended a Methodist Church. The minister and his wife both spoke to them and welcomed them. In a conversation that followed it seemed interesting to know why a Christian and a Baptist should select a Methodist service. This led the minister asking, "Who are the Christians?" This lady came back and said to me that she was actually ashamed that she knew absolutely nothing to tell him concerning our church history. How many of us would be in the same position if we should visit in a community where our church is not established? How long an answer could you write to such a quiz if you were given a test just now? Shame on us, I say, and on those whose business and responsibility it has been to let us grow up and not be able to get a pass mark at least on the question, "Who are the Christians?"

Again I repeat, "Study." Study our Church History and study along with it our work in the fields of Missions. You know we have fads in educational work, and one of these during the last few years has been to send out questionnaires on all phases of school work. I could not begin to tell you the number of kinds I have either received or seen. I liked some of them fine, so I made up a Missionary Questionnaire containing just the very few facts I really knew about our Church and Missions. After working a long time, I finally got together ten questions such as these: 1st. In what foreign countries does the Christian Church support Mission work? 2nd. What Home Mission work do we support? 3rd. What is the organ of our Missionary work? 4th. Name one missionary who has gone out from our denomination. 5th. Have you ever met or seen any of our missionaries? If so, whom? 6th. In what special field have our Young People been working? Several others of similar nature making ten in all. I gave them out at a meeting and instead of having the answers written, we had a show of hands for each question. The result was appalling. Again, I repeat if we are to make the subject attractive to our young people we have got to know a great deal more about it ourselves. We cannot teach attractively what we do not know. Nothing gives a student greater respect than to be confident of the fact that the teacher knows his subject. Alas, we have waited too long already in ignorance ourselves. Our Mission work as a denomination has surely suffered because of it, and it seems proper and fitting that if we are convinced that it is our job or responsibility as adults to make Missions attractive to young people, that we should engage in some serious study. "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."

When we have mastered, or even partly so, our study concerning our Church and our Missions, we will be so interested that we will want to talk about it. This past school term I took, along with my other work and duties, a course in Shakespeare offered by the Extension Department of William and Mary College. I became interested when I began to study and read, and whenever I met one of the members of this class, on the street, in the street car or bus, or wherever we met, we paused if possible and chatted a few moments and sometimes longer on the subject of our lectures and readings. Why? We were interested in the same thing, and greatly interested. At the end of the fifth lecture we had a test, sort of a questionnaire, and incidently, I passed. Why? I was interested and I studied. Then I felt that I really wanted to teach those around me the good things I had learned in that course. That is what I presume will happen to us if we study.

We will teach. It may be in a class at Sunday School, it may be in Christian Endeavor, in the Willing Workers, Young Peoples Society, Woman's Society, Cradle Roll mothers, Ladies' Aid, etc. Everywhere we are called to serve we will have an opportunity to teach some of these facts we have learned, that will help us to make our work attractive to young people. When we teach our Church history and get our background inviting, we have other fields to enter. I can scarcely conceive of a Sunday School lesson in which some phase of Missions cannot be introduced. Not a sermon will be preached that somewhere in it a current will not flow that carried home the idea of carrying out the last command. If the business of the church is to recognize and make known the principles of Christ's life on earth, I cannot see how a service can ever begin and end without having as one of the lessons something pertaining to Missions. We cannot help from teaching, when we know ourselves.

I am thinking about some of the teaching that goes on in the school system of which I am a part. Very small children are taught a great deal about Norfolk City and its history. You would be surprised just how much they do know. It is made very attractive. Then in an upper grade Norfolk is taught again, this time from a larger, commercial view point, so that when a normal child leaves the grammar school, someone is seriously to blame if the child does not have a reasonable knowledge of his own city. Virginia is taught in the same way. First, very much in story form, attractively arranged for beginners, then more for historical value later on. The same course is pursued concerning the United States. Children are taught the names of officials, the plan of government, the assets, the liabilities, the resources, the attractive features, the neighboring cities, States, etc. If a child should go through the grades of my city and come out un-informed, uninterested, untaught in some of the above things laid down in the course of study to be taught, someone would be to blame.

Who is to blame that we allow children to come through our Sunday School, after as many years as are spent in day school, and the subject of Church History and the subject of Missions practically untouched. Not only through the Sunday School do they come, but through the church, after years and years of attendance, and no visible interest in our church history and its missionary growth. We will change this and have a new vision in the years to come, if we begin now to teach our young people what we ought to know, if we study.

Why do we admire Robert E. Lee? I doubt if any of you here ever saw or knew him personally. Why do we often attend meetings, even now, when he is the subject of the address? Why do you associate the word "duty" with his name? Why did Southern people so long hold hostile ideas concerning Abraham Lincoln? We didn't know him personally. Why do we associate the word "slave" with his name? Why do you admire Wilson? Very few of us ever came in direct contact with him. Why do most of us think of the word "peace" in connection with his name? For what reason do we admire Edison? Why, I ask? Because we have been taught. Someone has been engaged to teach. Either the school-room, the daily press, the magazines, or the pulpit. These things have shaped our thought, whether we wanted them to or not, and we are more or less victims of what we have been taught. I do not say we have to believe and swallow like a pill all the things we hear. We can get our own opinions, our own set of facts to guide us, and to shape our own thinking.

We have been taught from the earliest grades up about Washington being the father of his country. We observe his birthday. We know where he was born, what work he engaged in as a young man, where he lived, how his life ran into politics and of his Presidential career. His home is one of the show places of the United States. We know even of what diseases he died, where he is buried, and some of us have made pilgrimages to his tomb. What do we know about the founder of our church and what led him to start the movement. How many of us know his name, his birthplace, his family, his occupation, his life's interest or his burial place? Again I say, teach, teach, TEACH.

TENTATIVE PROGRAM OF THE EASTERN VIRGINIA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

To be Held at Webster Community Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Maryland, November 2-4, 1926.

Monday Night, November 1st.

- Fellowship Service.
- Introduction to the Conference of Rev. R. W. Sutcliffe, assistant pastor Webster Community Christian Church.
- Devotional Service, Rev. H. S. Hardecastle, Suffolk, Va.
- Address of Welcome, by Rev. Richard W. Sutcliffe.
- Response to Welcome, by Rev. J. G. Truitt, Norfolk, Va.
- Introduction of Visitors.

Tuesday Morning, November 2d.

- 9:30 Call to Order by President W. D. Harward.
- Song Service, conducted by Rev. O. D. Poythress.
- Invocation.
- 9:40 Enrollment of delegates.
- Reception of visitors.
- Appointment of committees.
- Report of Executive Committee.
- Report of Program Committee.
- 10:10 President's Address, Dr. W. D. Harward.
- 10:40 Report of Committee on Religious Literature, by Rev. H. S. Hardecastle.
- Presentation of The Christian Sun, by P. J. Kernodle, Managing Editor.
- Discussion.
- 11:25 Devotional Half-Hour, Rev. H. S. Hardecastle.
- 11:55 Report of Committee on Memorials, by Rev. N. G. Newman, D. D.
- 12:00 Communion Service, conducted by Rev. W. W. Staley, D. D.

Tuesday Afternoon.

- 2:00 Song Service.
- Invocation.
- 2:10 Treasurer's Report, Mr. H. Woodward.
- 2:20 Digest of Chart, Study of Church and Ministerial Reports, under supervision of Rev. I. W. Johnson, D. D.

- 3:20 Report of Committee on Stewardship, by Rev. F. C. Lester, Chairman.
- Address, Rev. W. H. Denison, D. D.
- Discussion.
- 4:00 Presentation of Woman's Missionary Conference and Report, Mrs. M. L. Bryant, Pres.
- 4:35 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions, Rev. J. F. Morgan, Chairman.
- Address, "Our Greatest Task," by Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.

Tuesday Night.

- 7:30 Music by Webster Church.
- Conference Sermon, by Rev. L. E. Smith, D. D., Norfolk, Va.

Wednesday Morning.

- 9:30 Song Service.
- Invocation.
- 9:40 Report of Committee on Moral Reform, by Rev. Elisha Bradshaw, Chairman.
- Discussion.
- 9:55 Presentation of Christian Missionary Association, by Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, Pres.
- 10:10 Report of Committee on Home Missions, by Hon. J. E. West, Chairman.
- Address, Rev. L. E. Smith, D. D.
- 11:30 Devotional Half-Hour, Rev. H. S. Hardecastle.
- 12:00 Presentation of Elon Summer School, Miss Pattie Coghill, Field Secretary.

Wednesday Afternoon.

- 2:00 Song Service.
- Invocation.
- 2:10 Report of Committee on Education, by Rev. W. W. Staley, D. D., Chairman.
- Address, Dr. W. A. Harpor, President, Elon College.
- Discussion.
- 3:30 Report of Committee on Religious Education, by Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, D. D., Chairman.
- Discussion.
- 4:00 Report of Committee on Evangelism, by Rev. L. E. Smith, D. D., Chairman.
- Discussion.

Wednesday Night.

- 7:30 Music by Webster and Dover, Del., Choirs.
- Address, "Christian Leadership for Our Day," by Rev. R. C. Helfenstein, D. D., Dover, Del.

Thursday Morning.

- 9:30 Song Service.
- Invocation.
- 9:40 Miscellaneous Business.
- Report of Collectors.
- 10:20 Report of Committee on Apportionments.
- Address, "Our Convention Goals," Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.
- Address, "The Layman and the Goals," Hon. J. E. West.
- 12:00 Devotional Half-Hour, Rev. H. S. Hardecastle.

Thursday Afternoon.

- 1:30 Song Service.
- Invocation.
- 1:40 Report of Special Committees.
- Nominations.
- Place for holding next session.
- Finance.
- Resolutions.
- Final Business.
- Reading of Minutes.
- 2:40 Closing Service, Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe, Pastor Webster Community Church.
- 3:00 Adjournment.

Thursday Night.

- 7:30 Song Service.
- Missionary Pageant, by Webster Church.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS NOTES.

Our field worker was very much surprised and pleased while helping in a County Convention, which met in Selma, N. C., recently to find Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Etheredge of that place, waiting for her at the door. They have been living in Selma, where there is no Christian Church, for thirty-five years, and are still loyal to their church and subscribe to THE SUN. Mr. Etheredge is a member of the Etheredge family of Norfolk, who hold their membership at Christian Temple, but they were members of Oak Level Church, near Youngsville, when they moved to Selma.

It is surprising how reluctant some of our church and Sunday School officials seem in giving information about their churches and Sunday Schools. This information would give their churches good reports along with others and at the same time help us to make our statistics more nearly correct. Thanks are due those who responded so splendidly to the Secretary's call for reports for the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Handbook recently.

A letter giving the organization and work of the Worker's Council, with suggested program, has been mailed to all of the superintendents of Sunday Schools in the Southern Convention by the Field Secretary. Further information about the Worker's Council may be had by writing Miss Pattie Coghill, Henderson, N. C.

One of the best ways to increase attendance in your Sunday School is to find out how many people in the community you are not reaching and then make plans to win them. This may be done by conducting a survey of your community. The blanks for this purpose may be had by writing the Secretary. Another way to find out just what your school is doing is to check the Sunday School roll with your church membership.

A News Bulletin to Young People of the Southern Convention has been mailed from the Secretary's office. It tells among other things of the plans to have news of our Young People's work in THE SUN, along with other Christian Education activities. If you are a young person and have not received a copy of this bulletin, please send us your name and address. Also, we shall be glad to have news of your Young People's work.

At the Elon Summer School this summer, our young people were asked for expressions as to what they, as such expected from the Church. The following is one of the numerous replies that were received:

"The Church, as the greatest organization on earth, expects much from the young people of our land. In return, the young people expect just as much from the Church. Perhaps one of the greatest things the young people expect of the Church is the Christian example of its members. The young people are conscious of the fact they will, before many years, have charge of the Church; and desiring to be well-prepared for this work the young people attempt to follow the examples of the Church members. These examples must, therefore, be Christian examples."

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

LESSON V.—OCTOBER 31, 1926.

"THE EVILS OF STRONG DRINK."

(World's Temperance Sunday.)

GOLDEN TEXT: "At last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder."—Proverbs 23:32.

LESSON: Proverbs 23:29-35.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 97:1-6, 10-12.

Drunkenness is about as old as the human race. From the beginning, it seems that man had a craving for something with a "kick" in it. Among all the nations of early historic times, there are records of drinking, and among even the most primitive nations or tribes today there is some kind of drink that is more or less intoxicating. Strong drink has been one of man's chief enemies. It has always been making him trouble. The unfortunate thing is that strong drink is not simply a "has been." In spite of the fact that there is a Constitutional Amendment—even though this Amendment is an integral part of the Constitution—there is a great deal of strong drink consumed in America in the year of our Lord 1926. It might be stated here, however, that there is not nearly as much consumed now as was consumed before the Volstead Act, nor nearly as much as some people would have us to believe is consumed. Nevertheless "The Evils of Strong Drink" is still a timely subject for a Sunday School Lesson to be studied throughout the world.

It hardly seems necessary to point out in this modern day the evils of strong drink, but it will not be amiss simply to suggest some of the baneful effects of this monster which goes up and down our nation seeking whom he may devour. These evils will be jotted down without any special reference to their order of power or importance.

Strong Drink Undermines Physical Health. Alcohol is a poison. In spite of so-called expert opinions to the contrary, strong drink does affect the body in a harmful way. There are exceptions, of course, but the drinking man is not as strong, nor does he have the powers of resistance as does a man whose body is free from the poison of strong drink. Athletes are not permitted to indulge in strong drink when in training. Sooner or later alcohol takes its toll in things physical. He that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption.

Strong Drink Impairs Efficiency. There are some who think that a drink makes for efficiency. It tunes them up for their work, and tones them up for their play. There is no denying the fact that as a stimulant strong drink may arouse new powers and release for the time being new forces. But it is only for the time being. Men who drink cannot retain efficiency without the resort to continual drinking, or they lose their efficiency when they cannot get drink. As a matter of fact one of the death blows to John Barleycorn was struck when Big Business learned that drinking and efficiency do not go hand in hand, or even in the same company.

Strong Drink Debases Its Victims. There are some to whom a drunken or drinking man appears funny. There would be an element of humor in what a drinking man says and does, were it not for the fact that a grim tragedy under-

(Continued on page 11.)

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

OCTOBER 31, 1926.

"GOOD POINTS OF RACES."

TOPIC: "What Are the Good Points of the Various Races in America?"—Acts 10:24-38.
(Missionary Meeting.)

We have not progressed far in Christian life unless we have overcome racial prejudice. We need like Peter, a vision to show us that nothing is unclean or common, when God's hand has placed his stamp of approval thereon.

Our lesson does not teach us that we should throw down all barriers of immigration to good and bad alike, but it does teach us that we should receive those that we can assimilate, and above all else we should teach them, when once they have come, to be good citizens—honest, Christian citizens.

We can find good in all men if we will look for it—all races have contributed something to our national welfare. The Endeavorer's Daily Companion gives us the following suggestive thoughts:

Races have all more than one good point, just like individuals. Few think of connecting a Frenchman with thrift, yet he is thrifty, far more so than the Scot, about whom all the funny stories are told. The French are also artistic. They have an ineradicable love of beauty, and know how to find expression for it. Life would be drab without their contribution.

The British have a flair for organization, government, law and order. Wherever they come they bring order with them, and justice, without which we perish.

Germans are known for their industry. No nation is more patient or turns out more intelligent workers. They are patient investigators, thorough in everything. We should be poorer without them.

Italy recalls beauty and music. The soul of the Italian is a singing soul. And what expression this finds in vocal song! The world must never stop singing.

Scandinavia gives us plodders, farmers, a strong, sturdy race of patient, intelligent workers, who give their Viking strength to America.

Steiner says that the Russian Jew is honest, industrious and frugal (with exceptions, of course), and has the makings of a man in him.

The Bohemian is pugnacious, but is easily led, proud, passionate, a well of force. He is best when he the best examples before him.

The Irish are generous, a kindly and sympathetic folk; strong in friendship. We need their warmth of heart.

Thus might we take the other races that have come to our shores. There is good in all of them. Christ came to earth that He might search out this good in mankind, and we as his followers are to help in the work that he came to start.

To Think About.

How can we help foreigners in our community? What good points have we noticed in foreigners we know?

Are immigrants good or bad for America? Why?

"Give love, and love to your life will flow,
A strength in your utmost need;
Have faith, and a score of hearts will show
Their faith in your word and deed.

"Give truth, and your gift will be paid in kind,
And honor will honor meet;
And a smile that is sweet will surely find
A smile that is just as sweet.

"For life is a mirror of king and slave;
'Tis just what we are and do.

Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

(Continued from page 10.)

lies it all. There is nothing that so debases men and women and young people as strong drink. One has only to think of the things that are done by drinking or drunken people to see how true this is. Murder is committed, virtue is lost, fighting is done, profanity and corruption is the natural order of the day.

Strong Drink Undermines Homes. The tragedy of the homes of drunkards. Thany God things are not what they used to be. But strong drink still breaks up homes and hearts. Wives and children still wonder what will happen when husband and father come home drunk.

Strong Drink Breaks Hearts and Brings Sorrow. "Who hath woe?" The drunkard himself and his family. "Who hath sorrow?" The devotee of strong drink and his loved ones "Who hath wounds without cause?" Those who tarry long at the wine.

Strong Drink Brings Blight Upon Generations Yet Unborn. It were bad enough if strong drink did no more than bring blight upon the present generation. But it does more. It brings blight upon the children of the next generation. Alcohol above all other things seems to affect the life plasm itself and the sins of the fathers are visited upon the children even unto the third and fourth generation. A man is playing fast and loose with his children's future when he drinks.

Strong Drink is Economically Unsound. Money spent for whiskey is worse than money wasted. Much poverty can be traced to drinking.

In the face of all these facts and others that might be given, there are thousands, who for selfish purposes would have the legalized liquor traffic restored to our nation. John Barleycorn still constitutes a menace to our country and to the world. Let every Sunday School teacher bring home to the members of every class the evils of strong drink. Let them emphasize the need for support of law and the formation of a bitter hatred against anything that pertains to the use of strong drinks. Let them help to train up a generation that will do away with this curse against mankind.

One by one our Sunday Schools are finding it wise and helpful to give one offering a month to Missions and one offering a month to the Orphanage. Our dear Brother W. H. Freeman, superintendent of the Ether Sunday School was not hasty in getting his school to adopt the proposition as the school seemed to have all it could carry to finance itself. But after trying the proposition for several months, Brother Freeman testifies as follows: "The Sunday School seems to be very glad now that it accepted the proposition of you and 'Uncle Charlie' to give one offering each month to Missions and one to the Orphanage. In addition to what has been contributed for these two worthy causes, we have spent more than twice as much for Sunday School supplies the past school year as usual, and we have started the new year out of debt. Truly it is more blessed to give than to receive. I trust that many other schools will soon be added to the list of regular contributors. We are greatly handicapped in our Sunday School work for lack of sufficient room, but we are now preparing to build two rooms to the church, and this will relieve the situation to some extent at least." Is it strange that as a Sunday School begins to think and to give for the blessing and benefit of others, that Sunday School begins to get blessings and benefits itself? It is the logical and inevitable result, according to the Word of God.

A Great Background Book

LANDMARKS in the STRUGGLE BETWEEN SCIENCE and RELIGION

by Professor J. Y. Simpson, M.A.,
D.Sc., F.R.S.E.

J This book sets the present day controversy in its right historical setting. It is a survey of an age-long contest between truth and superstition. It makes religion as well as science a living, dynamic thing.

$2.00

DORAN BOOKS

TWENTY years ago Professor David Smith wrote "In The Days of His Flesh." For twenty years it has headed the list of books on Christ.

Now he has written:

OUR LORD'S EARTHLY LIFE

ANOTHER rich tribute to the Lord he loves. Characterized by mature scholarship and a marked humanist strain, this book has instantly gripped the hearts of readers.

$3.00

DORAN BOOKS

The Famous
Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION
Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.

- Specimen of type*
- 15 And I call upon me in th
of trouble: I will deliver the
thou shalt glorify me.
- No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50
 - No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35
(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.
(Weight 18 oz.)
 - No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

- RED LETTER EDITION
- No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition
 - No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

- Specimen of type*
- 35 And Jē-hōi'-ā-kīm gave th
silver and the gold to Phār'-aōh
- No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50
 - No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50
(Weight 3 lbs.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)
 - No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and hookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style
at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

THE MEANING OF A NAME.

"Thy name shall be called no more Jacob, but Israel."—Gen. 32:22-30.

We do not pay much attention to the meaning of names. The Jews did. When they gave a name it meant something. When God gives a name it means something. By birth, Jacob was a deceiver, but by his God he was "a man of God."

We sometimes wonder why God blessed Jacob more than He did Esau and prospered him in spite of his wickedness. It was because Jacob changed his manner of life.

Esau was always satisfied with material things and personal pleasures. Jacob was always striving to better himself and was continually passing through self-denials and sacrifices to obtain it. At Penial he surrendered to God wholly, and he had a right to God's blessings.

Have we surrendered to God and let our affections on things alone? Will we sacrifice everything? Is our chief passion to do God's will? What is my name?

Prayer.—Dear Father above, forgive us where in we have been unworthy of Thee. Give unto us more and more the influence of the Holy Spirit, that all our powers may be consecrated to Thee and our name may be "Christian." In His name we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

STRIVING WITH GOD.

"Love unto him that striveth with his Maker."—Isa. 45:8-12.

Jesus has thunder in His words as well as noble beatitudes. Soft words do not always answer.

Isaiah's people were at strife with God. Out of some sort of frenzy they were hurling defiance into the face of God. Do we make the same mistake? The greatest things of our civilization are sometimes used in conflict against God.

Happy those who have taken Jesus as Saviour. The unsundered life is always at strife with God.

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, may we and our children dedicate ourselves and our best to the service of God and the inbringing of the kingdom. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

TRUE REPENTANCE.

"Wherefore I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes."—Job 42:1-6.

Three murderers were executed some time ago in New York. Their crime had been deliberately planned and was exceptionally cold-blooded. Two went defiantly to death, and the third avoided confession. None exhibited the least sign of penitence.

Contrast with this the utterance of Job in the text: "I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes." Job lived a conscientious life before God, his family and the world. Yet when he came face to face with the Judge of all the earth, he felt that he was but clothed in filthy and unclean rags.

The best of us are guilty of sins, conscious and unconscious, that will shame us when we come to confront the All-Seeing One. Therefore, we should search ourselves, find out the evil propensity, mark the bad temper, see the unjust act and repent of it with humility and shame.

This matter of a genuine repentance is of first practical importance to Christians, because they are in danger of being self-deceived. The test of repentance from the heart is that we so abhor one guilt that we cannot repeat the sin. The danger here is that besetting sin forms a habit.

Prayer.—By one of the parents, asking that we may learn that sincere repentance is essential to complete forgiveness, and that God looks with approval on the humble heart's confession of weakness.

THURSDAY.

HONORING JESUS.

"Far above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come."—Eph. 1:17-23.

Lord Kelvin, the famous scientist, was asked to name his greatest discovery. His answer was: "My greatest discovery is Jesus Christ!" When Wilfred Grenfell was announced to preach at Harvard University, the students thought they would listen to a thrilling description of the Labrador missionary doctor's adventures among the perils of ice and wave. Instead, he took for his theme the question, "What will you do with Jesus Christ?" His theme was Christ, not Grenfell.

Great men and famous women refer to their Master, not to themselves. One of the characteristics of leadership is humility and abasement. "I can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth me," was Paul's way of expressing the thought.

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

FRIDAY.

LISTENING AND HEARING.

"Let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath."—Jas. 1:19.

We are swift to speak and slow to hear. Good listening is a rare thing. A man said the other day, "I talk with twenty men each day, and not a one of them knows how to listen." With our own minds on something of our own interest, it is hard to listen properly to another. This is an evil "as old as the hills." Jesus tried to correct it by saying, "He that hath ears to hear, let him hear."

"Be still" and listen "and know that I am God." In this only is the secret of prayer. Study to be a good listener.

Prayer.—Our Father, and our God, we know Thou art speaking to us. Help us to enter into our closet as it were, shut out the world, and listen to Thee. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

SATURDAY.

THE POWERS OVER THE WEAKNESS OF PRAYER.

"The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."—Jas. 5:15-20.

It is evident everywhere that a great many Christians are not entering fully into the enriching experience of effectual prayer. To them, prayer is a problem, and being a problem it ceases to be a power. This ought not to be. All Christians ought to be able to storm the gates of heaven and be heard for fervency.

The weakness of prayer is that it is a problem, and we have let go our ardour and fervency. The history of prayer is that the faithful souls in their hour of need, not only called upon God, but worked with Him at all times; and at all times such strong, faithful souls have found prayer powerful, even to overthrowing the strongholds of sin and the building up of righteousness. The effectual, fervent prayer of those to do work with God will not be denied. If denied now, some time it will break through the crust of circumstances, and even more excellent things are found to be in store.

Prayer.—Dear Father, help us to confess our faults to one another, and pray for one another. May we learn more and more the value of our access to Thy mercy seat through the divine blessing of prayer, and may we walk with Thee now and forever. Amen.

SUNDAY.

THE TWO VOICES.

"They that trust in the Lord shall be as Mount Zion."—Psa. 124 and 125.

There are two voices that call us—one to doubt and darkness in which they say, "We don't know," and the other is to faith and life. It believes in God and His plan for the world, and challenges doubt to make it different.

One question is, which voice will we heed? And especially does our youth need to settle this question. It is one of hope, and the young people are facing the problems of society, education, industry and scientific adjustments. They are willing to face these fearlessly if they can be rightly informed turned in the way they should go. History confirms that they who have given ear to the voice of the Church—faith in God—are the ones who have brought friendship and good will to the world. This is God's world. It is our world. We must move on to things better. It is the business of us all to hear this voice of trust and express courageously the spirit of brotherhood, friendliness, trust and hope. This is what Jesus taught.

Prayer.—Dear Father, forgive us for staying in unbelief and doubt. Strengthen our faith and use us for the good of the world, and our neighbors in particular. Amen.

PROGRAM OF THE WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONVENTION, NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

To be Held at Raleigh, North Carolina,
Friday, November 5, 1926.

Theme: "The Name that is above every other name."
—Eph. 1: 21.

Morning Session—10:00 o'Clock.

Call to Order by the President, Mrs. L. L. Vaughan.
Devotional Service, Mrs. J. Lee Johnson.
Roll Call of Societies and Enrollment of Delegates.
Reports of Officers Reports of District Leaders.
Reports of Societies.
President's Message.
Special Music.
Echoes from the General Convention.
Address, Dr. J. O. Atkinson.
Special Offering.
Appointment of Committees.
Adjournment.

Afternoon Session.

Devotional Service, Mrs. W. M. Jay.
Reports of Committees.
Discussion of Mission Study Books, Mrs. C. H. Rowland.
Special Music.
What Blue Ridge Has to Offer.
Miscellaneous Business.
Benediction.

Christian Orphanage

REPORT FOR OCTOBER 21, 1926.

Brought forward	$ 19,517.01
Sunday School Monthly Offerings.
North Carolina and Virginia Conference:
Durham Christian Sunday School ..	$ 19.75
Lawrence Bible Class, Elon College.	1.05
Happy Home	1.62
Mt. Zion	2.42
Greensboro, Palm Street	6.64
New Lebanon	2.00
New Lebanon Baracca Class	2.00	35.48
Eastern North Carolina Conference:
Sanford	$ 4.19
Mt. Gilead	1.50
Bethel	5.00
Wentworth	8.00
Shallow Well	2.50
Youngsville	1.00
Mt. Auburn	17.08
First Church, Raleigh	5.00
Piney Plains	9.75	54.02
Western North Carolina Conference:
Randleman	$ 3.38
Shiloh	2.50
Parks' Cross Roads	2.89	8.77
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Bethlehem	$ 4.22
Hobson	2.58
Oakland	6.00
Berea (Norfolk)	6.12
Wakefield	3.27
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth	2.68
People's Church, Dover, Del.	50.00	74.48
Valley Virginia Conference:
Bethlehem	$ 2.52
Timber Ridge	2.76	5.28
Alabama Conference:
Richland	$ 1.00
Roanoke	10.00
Bethany (Special Account)	3.00	14.00
Northern Sunday Schools:
Pleasant Hill, Ohio		7.11
Special Offerings:
So. Railway, acct of charity	$ 61.19
Mrs. Tillie Fee, Warrenton, Ind. . .	15.00
Alabama Conference, spe. offering .	26.35	49.33
New Building Fund:
B. F. Branch	$ 20.00
J. L. Read	5.00
A. P. Read	5.00
Danville Church	2.00
C. A. Hughes	25.00
Live Wire Class, Mt. Auburn	8.00	65.00
Total for the week	$ 366.55
Grand total	$ 19,883.56

Parental imagination easily sees him lifting his young eyes in near fright to the adults in the circle round about and doubtless resting them for assurance upon the face of the lover of all childhood.

Apart from the immediate lesson of childlike qualities that Christ made requisite for his followers, there is a human interest in the scene, because it represents what God is forevermore doing. The little child is perpetually being set in the center of life. The world is full of the mood of parenthood, a mood that is broader than one sex, and that includes all good people everywhere. The traffic in the busy street can be halted by the cry of a child, and this because the roughest hearts carry within them a certain parental spirit.

There is a sense in which that spirit stands for the religion of Christ. In the Old Testament God is spoken of under the title of parenthood rarely; in the New Testament 265 times Jesus broke the spell of humanity's orphanhood. But He did more. If He revealed the heavenly Parent as one to whom we should have likeness, then our growth in Christian life means inevitably the growth of the parental element in us. Advancing character always makes us more parental. For this reason the general title of father or mother is never given in a community to a man or woman of mean or doubtful life. It goes only to those whom the people have come to love and trust. It is a popular method of canonization, because it indicates that the esteem of the people is based upon the recognition that the aging saint has become like the Heavenly Parent.

Consequently the test of any civilization or of any person is the attitude taken toward the child in the midst. In the long run our country's life must be determined by the relation that it takes to the young. The same thing is true of the normal man or woman. A lack of interest in the child is always the sign of a deficient character. Mothers lay their claim upon the heart of the world because mothers are devoted to the children that God is always putting in the midst of our lives. Nor is it to be wondered at, even though marveled at, that when the Saviour came, He himself arrived as a child in the midst. Those who had expected an impressive visitor to break through the dome of the sky were disappointed. Instead of that, a Jewish woman walked the road of pain to her motherhood, and the cry of a child was heard in the Bethlehem night. Thus a cradle was converted into the altar of the world, and at that altar parenthood and childhood are being forever glorified.—BISHOP E. H. HUGHES, in Nashville Christian Advocate.

NOTICE.

To Delegates to the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference.

The Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference will be held at the Oak Level Christian Church, near Youngsville, N. C., beginning November 23, 1926, 10 o'clock a. m. All delegates are urged to attend, and to notify Brother J. W. Hudson, Secretary of Oak Level Church, Youngsville, N. C., at once of their intention and time of arrival.

H. C. CAVINESS,

President Eastern N. C. Christian Conference.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To All Pastors and Churches of the Eastern Virginia Conference:

All pastors, delegates and visitors are urged to send, not later than October 15th, to the pastor of the Webster Community Christian Church, the

Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe, Havre de Grace, Md., their names, when they expect to arrive at the Conference Church, and if they are traveling by automobile or train. The Committee on Entertainment cannot properly provide for you unless you help them with this information. Please send it to us at once.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
 - Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
 - Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling) $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St. Richmond Va.

"A LITTLE CHILD IN THE MIDST OF THEM."

"Jesus called unto him a little child and set him in the midst."—Matt. 18: 2.

Nobody knows who this child was. He is perhaps the best-known child in history, save the Child of Bethlehem. Yet he was anonymous then, and he remains anonymous to this day.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE MOFFITT WHITESELL, Editor.

"Isn't it strange that princes and kings
And clowns that caper in saw-dust rings
And common folk like you and me,
Are makers for Eternity?"

To each is given a bag of tools,
A shapeless mass and a book of rules,
And each must make ere life is flown,
A stumbling block, or a stepping stone."

My dear Kiddies:

How was that hard, hard contest last week? Did you like it much? It was a good lot of snap-questions for only the smartest Kiddies to answer—kiddies as old as twelve years, too—so the wee kiddie dears mustn't get discouraged.

Jack Frost is coming around soon—I feel his icy breath in the air real often. O-O-O-Oheeee—me! Where are all our nice warm clothes? And where are those warm clothes you are to send to our Mountain Babies? Oh, please, dears, don't forget that box of clothes you want to send to the mountains.

Here's heaps and loads of love for each of you,
Your Editor,
MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT WHITESELL.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

HOW THE TERRAPIN LOST HIS WHISTLE.

Of all the creatures of the olden days, the Terrapin was the slowest. There was a reason why the Terrapin never made haste. In those days he had a whistle. He would bask in the sun on the edge of some swamp and play his whistle for hours at a time. Everyone envied the Terrapin his whistle, and they all planned ways of taking it away from him.

But the Terrapin did not think of danger. So he was not at all worried when the Partridge came up to him one day and asked if he might try his whistle.

"Are you sure that you will return it to me?" asked the Terrapin.

"If you doubt me," replied the Partridge, "you may stay right beside me as I blow your whistle."

This seemed fair; so the Terrapin gave the Partridge his whistle.

"What do you think of my blowing, he asked the Terrapin.

"It is fine," the Terrapin told him.

"And this blast?" asked the Partridge, walking rapidly along the path toward the forest.

"Splendid!" cried the other, but this was all he could say, for he was out of breath trying to keep up with the Partridge.

"And this?" asked the partridge, blowing harder and making more haste.

"Very good, but don't walk so fast," begged the Terrapin, "for I can't keep you in sight."

The partridge waited at the foot of a very tall tree in the forest, and when the Terrapin came up in his slow way, the bird blew another blast.

"How do you like this tune?" he asked. "Are you close enough to hear me?" He blew the whistle, as the Terrapin craned his long neck and little head and listened.

"I really think," said the Terrapin kindly, "that you play as well as I."

Just then the partridge spread his wide wings and flew with the whistle to the top of the tree. That was the last the terrapin ever saw of his whistle. He often heard it, though, as the Partridge blew it in the forest.

Ever since that day the Partridge has been the only bird who has a whistle like the Terrapin made for himself. And ever since then, whenever the Terrapin thinks how he lost his whistle, he puts his little round head way down inside his shell house and walks more slowly than ever along the road.—CAROLYN S. BAILEY, in Little Learner.

OBITUARIES.

JOHNSON.

On September 14, 1926, Brother Morgan Johnson was called from time to eternity, being about 64 years of age. Brother Johnson was a deacon in Pleasant Union Christian Church, having united with the Church, I think, under the ministry of Rev. J. D. Wicker.

He was a man highly esteemed in his community, and a good citizen, faithful to his church and loyal to the right. He suffered much in his last days, which suffering made his heart more tender and his love greater towards all. He expressed himself freely as being prepared to meet his Lord and prayed beautifully and sang before he died.

Services were conducted from the home by the writer. May God's richest blessing rest on those who mourn for him.

J. LEE JOHNSON.

ANDREWS.

John Alexander Andrews was born on December 22, 1839, and died September 30, 1926, aged 86 years 9 months and 8 days. He had been a member of Apples Chapel Church for about 50 years, and was faithful till death. He served in the Civil War, 54th N. C. Regiment.

He is survived by his wife and ten living children, 56 grandchildren, and 18 great grandchildren, besides many other relatives and a host of friends.

He expressed his willingness and readiness to depart.

A good man has gone home. May the heavenly Father bless and comfort his loved ones.

T. J. GREEN.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas our heavenly Father, in His almighty wisdom, has removed from our midst Deacon Cosco Spivey, and whereas in his death the church at Barretts has suffered the loss of one of its most faithful and devout members and deacons, his wife a loving companion, and his children a devoted father,

Therefore, Be it resolved:

First, That we bow in humble submission to the will of our heavenly Father who doeth all things well.

Second, That such a life from our midst leaves a vacancy and shadow that will be deeply realized by those whom he has loved and helped.

Third, That with deepest sympathy to the bereaved family, we commend them to the Lord, who will comfort and heal their wounded hearts, and when the summons comes may they all meet in an unbroken circle around God's throne.

Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy be spread on the minutes of the church, and a copy be sent to The Christian Sun for publication.

W. G. ROLLINGS,
R. C. HINES,
J. F. WELLONS,

Committee.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

In as much as our Lord deemed it wise to take from our midst our beloved friend and co-worker, Brother Joel T. Pierce, let us bow in humble submission to our heavenly Father's divine will, knowing He is too kind to err and too wise to make mistakes.

Brother Pierce loved his God, his church, his neighbors and his friends.

He loved to sing praises to his Christ and was always in the church choir when able. But far better will be the mingling of his voice with the angels' and those that have joined the heavenly band.

Be it resolved:

First, That we sympathize with the family, especially with the one who remained with him so faithfully, and may our Father sustain them.

Second, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy sent to The Christian Sun for publication and a copy be put on the records of the Liberty Spring Christian Church.

Mrs. Y. C. BYRD,
Mrs. V. E. RAWLES,
C. E. BYRD,
F. F. BRINKLEY,
Committee.

A continuous performance

Nothing is permanent in railroading.

Larger cars and engines must be bought to handle greater loads; the roadbed must ever be kept in good condition, new ties and heavier rails must be laid to support heavier trains at high speeds; and in places the course of the line must be changed to reduce curves and grades.

Shop facilities must be enlarged, terminals improved and bridges rebuilt to carry the ever-growing train-loads. New signalling devices are being installed, and new tracks, yards and sidings built to handle the growing traffic of the South. This process of change, improvement and renewal goes on day in and day out throughout the year.

But the service must never stop. The way must ever be kept open for the great freights as they rush through the night carrying products of the South to distant markets, and the world's goods to Southern buyers. And the Crescent Limited, the Royal Palm and other passenger trains must not be delayed.

Railroading on the Southern Railway System is a continuous performance both in service rendered and in provision for handling the greater traffic of the future.

Everything used on a railroad wears out. Last year about $60,000,000 was spent by the Southern in replacing things that had worn out.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscripti n Rates:

- One Year$ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to "Editor Christian Sun," Elon College, N. C.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

MAIFELD.

Mrs. Matilda C. J. Maifeld was born October 27, 1865, in Kneistadt, Germany, and died, September 6, 1926, at Waverly, Va., aged 60 years, 10 months, and 9 days. She came to this country with her mother, Mrs. Lochr, and two brothers, C. F. and W. H. Lochr, in 1877. They located at Waverly, Va., and have remained there to the present. She was married to Albert H. Maifeld, December 22, 1883. To this union were born eight children: Amelia, Henry, Gus, Albert, Freddie, Mary, Johnie and Louie. Amelia died at the early age of 2 years. Gus died at the age of 22 years. All other children survive their mother. She leaves 13 grandchildren; her brothers also survive her. Her husband preceded her in death, November 25, 1924.

She joined the Waverly Christian Church about 20 years ago and remained a member till death. About 7 years ago she suffered a stroke of paralysis, but survived and was able to go about until 2 years ago she became invalid, and about 7 weeks before death came she grew worse till the end came.

Her Christian life was of the kind that Martha lived. She was the busy follower in service. Her hands knew no idleness. Ever busy in her home, yet she turned her hands to many deeds of kindness, and her lips often spoke words of love.

She was tender and emotional in her love and sympathies. She was a devoted wife, a loving and serving mother, and a helpful friend and neighbor. She had faith in God and trust in Jesus Christ. A beautiful feature of her life was her great love of flowers, and many sick people have been made cheerful by her thoughtfulness in sending choice flowers to the sick. The writer feels to say to her memory, that in all his pastoral visiting, he feels he never visited a member or a home where his presence and his prayers were more appreciated. Her request was ever "Pray with me."

A beautiful feature of the burial services was the acting as pallbearers by her five strong sons and two brothers. The services were held from the home, and burial was in Waverly cemetery, in the presence of a very large gathering of friends. The writer was assisted in the services by Rev. Cox, of the Baptist Church and Rev. Oglesby of the Methodist Church. Beautiful old hymns were sung. Much sympathy was expressed for this large family, manifested in so large a gathering and such a beautiful display of flowers.

Peace to the dust of this good woman.

JAS. L. FOSTER.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 3/4 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick.....$6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick... $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL. Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address

THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Isaiah, and said unto himself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearlest Print in Smallest Size 4 3/4 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type. AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

- 2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles60
- 2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges..... .70
- 2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms $1.10 included

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes 2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

- 13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85
- 15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer 2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1926.

NUMBER 43.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

For Jews Only.—

The Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations in America have opened a cafeteria and dormitory for Jewish students only. The building was formerly a private residence, standing on shady Prescott Street, back of the Harvard Union, and not far from the red brick home of President A. Lawrence Lowell, Harvard's able leader. The cafeteria and dormitory for Jewish students at Harvard will be managed by Dr. Nathan Isaacs, the Harvard professor of business law. Only Kosher foods will be served, and the old Jewish dietary laws as recorded in Deuteronomy XIV will be strictly observed.

Ultra-Violet Panes.—

The educators of Birmingham, England have, after careful study of the health of school children, decreed that all the schools of that great English city shall be equipped with window panes made especially to permit the transference of ultra-violet rays of light. Their study revealed that these children studying behind ordinary glass windows were three pounds lighter, one-half inch shorter, and had in their bodies many a red corpuscle less than those studying behind the especially made panes. Cities of the United States have studied the beneficent effect of the especially made panes admitting the ultra-violet rays, but no city so far has installed these panes in all its schools.

To Aid Cotton Farmers.—

Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, became alarmed recently. Cotton tumbled forty to fifty points in price, following the announcement of the Department of Agriculture that about sixteen million bales would be grown next year. He hurried over to the White House to call the matter to the attention of the President. President Coolidge announced promptly that the government would make a thirty million dollar loan to the great co-operative marketing associations who were distressed because of the drop in cotton prices. On the following day the President appointed Secretaries Mellon, Hoover, Jardine, and Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director of the War Finance Corporation, as a commission to devise orderly means for disposing of the surplus cotton crop. These steps by the government may save the Southern farmers from acute suffering because of overproduction.

Porto Rico Makes Progress.—

Notable progress has been made by Porto Rico during the past year ending in June. Health and sanitation measures have been strengthened and better enforced. Progress has been made in public education, the percentage of illiteracy has been reduced. The total revenues of the island during the year were $11,740,384. All the budgetary expenses were paid, more than a million dollars paid on the floating debt, and four hundred thousand dollars remained in the treasury. The external trade of the island amounted to $194,000,000, 88 per cent of which was with the United States. Secretary Dwight F. Davis was pleased with the report of Governor Horace Mann Towner. It is a report which should please the nation, and we of the Christian Church should be particularly interested and pleased, because our missionaries there are striving to make this notable progress possible to the island of Porto Rico.

Religion Growing on the Campus.—

A hundred years ago on the Princeton College campus there was but one Christian communicant. Now a majority of the students are active Church members. This fact is pointed out by Dr. William Chalmers Covert. Commenting on the statement, the Chicago Daily News calls attention to the fact that more than two million dollars have been spent in religious buildings at the University of Illinois, that the $1,700,000 chapel now going up at the University of Chicago is destined to wield a large religious influence on thousands of student lives. The News points out that fifteen years ago only 8 per cent of Methodist ministers came from nondenominational colleges, and that now forty-four per cent come from such colleges. More progress in religion has been made on college campuses since the close of the war than in any other period since the time of recorded history, the News declares. All the complaint of irreligious conduct on the college campus simply does not square with the facts we are told by that paper which has made a careful study of the facts in the case.

We are glad when facts like these are called to public attention, because, while there is much that is undesirable in college life, it is better, we believe, than it ever has been before, in spite of the fact that so many are going to college, a far larger percentage of the population than ever before.

Try Dictating to the Church.—

The forty-sixth annual conference of the American Federation of Labor met in Detroit recently. Just previous to its meeting the Detroit Board of Commerce sent a letter to the Detroit Churches, asking that the talks in the Churches on Sunday by labor leaders be canceled, as inimical to business. The Churches withdrew their invitations. The address by President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, was canceled by the Y. M. C. A., where he was to have spoken to a mass-meeting on Sunday afternoon. Charles B. Van Dusen, general manager of the S. S. Kresge Company and president of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., explained that the invitation was withdrawn to have the possible effect on their five million dollar campaign for a new building. He had given a hundred thousand, Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, had each given three-quarters of a million, and there were a few other great gifts from powerful Detroit industrialists.

The rank and file of labor was bitter because of the action of the Board of Commerce. In Church committee rooms there were anxious conferences. Men like Dr. Lynn Harold Hough and Gaius Glen Atkins refused to evade the issue. They felt strongly on the matter and favored the social program of the Federal Council of Churches which organization had fostered talks by labor in the Churches at the annual conferences for the last seven years. The stand of these preachers brought about the re-extending of the invitations to labor leaders in eighteen Detroit Churches. They were accepted.

The day gave Dr. Hough opportunity to call the actions of the Y. M. C. A. and the Board of Commerce an insult to the Churches. "Never in history," he said, "has any one asserted 'I am the Church,' as Louis XIV had cried, 'I am the state.'" Father John H. Ryan preached "Commerce and employment all come within the Churches' province as teacher of morals. They are either right or wrong. It is the function of the Church to say when they are right and when they are wrong." Father Ryan is of the social action division of the Catholic Welfare Council. James Schermerhorn and Dr. Atkins' First Congregational Church said: "This is the first time in history that I ever heard of labor or any one else having to fight to get into a house of worship. As a rule, the average big industrialist leaves plenty of room in all Churches for any one to fill."

The Detroit Churches are to be commended on the stand they took in the face of the high-handed methods of the Board of Commerce. No body of men, be they capitalists or laborers, can be allowed to dictate to the Church. It must remain independent and supreme in its province of religion, and we are coming to understand that the province of religion covers every field of life and endeavor where ethical standards are involved, and ethical standards are involved everywhere where men are in any way related one to another. It is an issue which the Church must face squarely as the Detroit Churches faced it. The Detroit Y. M. C. A. has lost in moral potency as a Christian institution, and has injured that great organization everywhere by its weak-kneed submission to the dictates of capital. "I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my Lord than to dwell in the tents of the wicked," the psalmist exclaimed, and his choice was a wise one, for those who dwell in the tents of wickedness abide there but for a season, while the house of the Lord is a dwelling-place forever.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Mrs. Elsie Bray, who is in charge of our school at Rocky Ford, Carroll County, Va., under date October 13th, writes: "We have a very good day school at Rocky Ford; also prayer meeting and Sunday School. We have enrolled thirty pupils in our day school and there are others yet to enter."

We acknowledge with gratitude the receipt of ten dollars from the Philaetha Class of Suffolk Christian Sunday School, Lieutenant-Governor J. E. West, teacher, for the O'Kelly and Old Lebanon memorials. Cards have been distributed in many Sunday Schools and communities, and it is believed that returns will come in from now on. Certainly this is desired. We have previously acknowledged $111.75, making a total receipt to date of $121.75. The entire cost is to be $1,275.00. Any individual, or class, or society, or Church, or school sending any amount will have due acknowledgment in THE SUN and will certainly do a great deed at a most opportune time.

NOTICE.

The place of the annual meeting of the North Carolina Christian Conference was left for the Executive Committee to select. Any Church willing to entertain this Conference which meets December 7th and 8th will please extend an invitation to the Executive Committee for the Conference.

G. O. LANKFORD,
W. C. WICKER,
L. L. VAUGHAN,
Executive Committee.

Elon College, N. C.

NOTICE.

For the benefit of those traveling to Conference by train, the following is offered for their information:

Washington—6:50 A. M., 8:15, 11:45, 2:08 P. M.

Baltimore—7:53 A. M., 9:18, 12:50, 3:10.

Havre de Grace—8:46, 10:37, 1:56, 3:55.

The Church is located four miles out of town, therefore all delegates and ministers who are traveling via train should not neglect to notify Church of time they will arrive.

We cannot provide accommodations unless you notify us at once when you will arrive, how you will arrive, and who is coming.

REV. MILTON W. SUTCLIFFE.

WORTHWHILE SERVICES.

It seems as we meditate upon life's momentous ways that some things come to pass which not only bring happiness, but also give new hope, faith and courage to carry on God's work. Such was our experience of late at Berea, Norfolk County. On the evening of September 20th, Rev. G. O. Lankford, D. D., of Burlington, N. C., was present at our Church to hold a series of meetings for ten days. He came by invitation of our pastor, Bro. Morgan, through the request of the brotherhood of our Church. Dr. Lankford was our pastor from 1917 to 1921, and when he resigned to accept the work at Burlington he left a wave of sadness in the hearts of our people, for no pastor has ever gone from us more beloved than Dr. Lankford. So when he came back into our midst he found a hearty welcome, a joyous reception, and a willingness to assist in every good work. Therefore, we had a glorious meeting.

At every service the Church was full. Some nights several chairs were used in the aisles, and still many had to stand. At every service there was a sweet fellowship and brotherly affection manifested and a deep, abiding interest also was visible at every service. Dr. Lankford preached with that vigor, life and earnestness for which he is known. His consecration was an inspiration to all of us. The services each night were visited by visible manifestations of the Spirit's presence. Through this channel of divine presence and power fourteen souls were born into the kingdom and added to our Church.

Brother Morgan, our pastor, wore a smile so convincing and appealing that others had to smile too, and his words of praise were indicative of much joy for what had been accomplished. Bro. Morgan has been our pastor for twelve months, and through his abiding interest and earnest efforts for the welfare of the Church he has awakened and aroused an interest and co-operation among us that hitherto was unknown. Therefore, we feel that this spirit should also be considered as we think of the achievements mentioned above. The Lord be praised for what has been done.

M. W. HOLLOWELL.

Monument to the Rev. James O'Kelly.

A SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL.

The Rev. H. E. Caviness has just closed a series of meetings at First Church, Portsmouth, marked by deep spiritual power and consecration, resulting in twenty conversions and many re-consecrations. Dr. Caviness impressed the entire community with his rare gift as a wise winner of souls. The Church being without a pastor since the resignation of Rev. Henry Wallace Dowding, extended a call to Dr. Caviness to become its permanent pastor. He has accepted the call and will assume charge about November 15th.

At the close of the meetings, Dr. Dowding congratulated the Church upon its choice of his successor and expressed the hope that they would rally all their forces to make the Church a great power for good in the city.

At the last meeting, Mrs. Caviness, wife of the new pastor, gave a lecture, "How to Become a Successful Wife." This was a most unusual address, replete with facts and illustrations, disclosing the fact that Mrs. Caviness also is a woman of broad vision and gifted in public speaking.

We feel that the new pastor and his gifted wife will make a large contribution to the work of the kingdom of Christ in Portsmouth.

HENRY WALLACE DOWDING.

WAKEFIELD LETTER.

I am ashamed for not having written to THE SUN sooner, not that I haven't had something to write about, but just because I did not write. I have enjoyed two of the finest revival meetings in my field that ever it was my privilege to enjoy in my own work. The meeting at Burton's Grove began the second Sunday in September; Rev. O. D. Poythress was with us and did the preaching through the meeting. It has been our privilege to have worked with Brother Poythress before, and he was fine, but this time I think he did some of the finest and best preaching I ever heard him do. His subject matter was splendid; his appeal was strong. The whole Christian atmosphere was greatly deepened; not a note of discord was sounded, but everything worked in perfect harmony. As to the number of professions, the writer does not know, but suffice to say they were many; there was six additions to the Church, all of which were grown young folks and heads of families. The Church is not so strong, but the writer has found the work very congenial, and not a discord in the Church at all, but splendid co-operation; a fine folk they are! May the Heavenly Father continually bless them richly.

Barretts.

The fourth Sunday in September, the revival meeting began at Barretts. Rev. C. C. Ryan, of the Richmond work, came to us on Monday and did the preaching through the meeting. His sermons were forceful and strong, and well illustrated and to the point. It was my first experience to work with Brother Ryan, but I found him a fine, consecrated and a most efficient helper and a great preacher. I think the Christian Church or any other Church as to that matter, should count itself proud to have among its ministry a man of God as is Brother Ryan.

The meeting was one of the break-down type; one that stirred the Church and gripped the Church; one that caused the Church to examine its own spiritual life, and one that called forth a unanimous consecration on the part of the Church. As to the number of conversions here, again the writer does not know, but there were many. Eleven additions to the Church, and all of them substantial members. It was the greatest meeting under my ministry at this Church.

The Church work at Barretts goes very well; not by a good bit what it might, but a very promising Church. It has a fine group of young people, and all of them love and respect their preachers. The writer feels safe in professing that the day is not far distant when this Church will be one of our strongest rural Churches.

As to the work as a whole in this field, it goes very well, and with a few exceptions it has been a joy to work with them. The Ivor Church is few in number, but a more united people the writer has not been permitted to know. They are a people very easy to serve, and one very sympathetic in their criticism. They are making a strong fight to carry on the work, and apparently doing it successfully.

The work at Wakefield does not go so well. There seems to be an undercurrent prevalent somewhere that is holding the work back. They are some good folks in the Church, and folks who are loyal, but somehow the work does not go smoothly. The writer found a division in the Church when he came, and am sorry to say it is not any better yet. There is splendid talent in the Church, especially among the young people. The writer is hoping and praying for great and lasting good to be manifested yet out of the Church. May God bless all these dear folks, is the writer's prayer.

G. C. CRUTCHFIELD.

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
 Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
 W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
 J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

Last week and this the General Convention of the Christian Church has been in session at Urbana, Ill. The Convention only meets once in four years, and its nine days' sessions are filled to the limit with reports, resolutions, addresses, conferences and legislation. This is written in the early days of the session and can give no results of the counsels and deliberations. It is a great body, and delegates are here from Main to California, from Vermont and New York to Alabama. We find the following registered as delegates present from the South: Revs. W. W. Staley, D. D., I. W. Johnson, D. D., and H. S. Hardcastle, from Suffolk, Va.; Revs. L. E. Smith, D. D., John G. Truitt, J. F. Morgan, O. D. Poythress, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. W. White, and Mrs. A. M. Johnson, from Norfolk; Revs. W. D. Harward, D. D., and J. M. Roberts, of Windsor, Va.; Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, Holland, Va.; Rev. F. C. Lester, Franklin, Va.; Rev. C. C. Ryan, D. D., Richmond; Rev. B. J. Earp, Winchester, Va.; Rev. A. W. Andes, Harrisonburg, Va.; Rev. and Mrs. S. C. Harrell, Durham, N. C.; Dr. G. O. Lankford, Burlington, N. C.; Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Greensboro; Mrs. L. L. Vaughan, Raleigh; Miss Pattie Coghill, Henderson; Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Harper, Dr. W. S. Alexander, Rev. H. E. Crutchfield, Dr. W. M. Jay, Rev. Simon A. Bennett, and the writer, from Elon College, N. C.; Rev. S. L. Beougher, Wadley, Ala., and Rev. Roy Helfenstein, D. D., Dover, Del.

This delegation of thirty-two from our Southern Convention should be able to get and carry back to our Convention, Conferences and the Churches much helpful information and inspiration from these deliberations. At least eight of these pastors were sent here from the South by their Churches. It certainly would be a most worthy, fitting and appropriate thing to do if every Church whose pastor has come at such great expense of time, labor and money would at least reimburse their pastor for the money outlay. All Churches should do by their pastors like eight of the number have done. For their pastors are here trying to get help and benefit which they may carry back to their congregations and people. And each congregation is certainly far more able to bear this expense than is their pastor.

The Convention opened Wednesday, October 20th, and is scheduled to close Thursday, October 28th. The sessions begin at 9 A. M., and then there are three sessions each day, busy ones, too, which hold till a late hour in the evening, with unnumbered committee meetings wedged all in between. We will try next week to tell SUN readers something of what the Convention did. It is a great body, working strenuously those days with only the enlargement of the kingdom of our Lord in mind. J. O. A.

CONQUEST FOR GOD.

A house of worship is not an end in itself. It is the recruiting station from which prayers and persons are to be offered to go out to the uttermost parts. A Sunday School or a Bible school is no better than a day school or a business school unless those gathered in the Bible school shall be inspired to send that Bible, or carry its contents, to the hundreds of the community and in the uttermost parts of this earth. A Christian college can have no place or part in the plan of God or the purpose of the Church unless its one objective is to carry out the command of our Lord, to give His gospel to this suffering, needy world. They tell us that we ought to build a strong home base and establish Churches in city centers. Well, an all-wise God will never allow us to do it as long as we think merely in terms of dimes and dollars to be used for the profit and pleasure of the home base. From the foundation of the world until now there was never a strong home base until there was some thing worth while and promising to occupy that base and make it strong.

Principles, however magnificent and glorious, unless changed with the program of adequate proportions are engines without steam, machines without power, dynamos with no electricity, dead bodies without living souls. Great principles may loom up on the horizon as a mighty ship, but it is a ship without a rudder, a vessel without power, a mere hull without chart, or compass or captain.

I know well enough that one is being told that in discussing missions one must use reason, common sense, calculating logic, or our missionary program will fail and fall to the ground. Well, then, may God help us and have mercy on us until we learn a different language.

Men's souls are not redeemed by logic, and persons are not born into the kingdom of God by rules of expediency. Our Lord's Christ did not use logic when He told His eleven disciples and those about Him to go to the uttermost parts of the earth. Neither did He use the cold common sense of demanding first of all that they build a strong home base. Men of logic tried to persuade Peter and John after Pentecost to quit preaching about a crucified Christ, but the more expediency urged them to quit, the more vehemently they cried out, "The Christ whom you and your rulers crucified, Him we declare unto you." The more that common sense and logic said stop, the more vehemently they cried out "There is no other name given unto heaven and man whereby he must be saved." The Church of the living God was not founded upon reason; it was founded on revelation. It was not thought out through reason; it was wrought out in the heat of a blazing, burning passion. Moses was logician before he saw a burning bush that could not be consumed by a flame of fire. After that he was himself a fire that literally burned itself out for God. Paul was a scholar, a logician, a man of letters before he was blinded by a vision on the Damascus road; after that he was himself a flame that set on fire two continents for God. "The Jews could persecute him; the Greeks could obstruct him; the Romans could challenge him; but all the forces of earth and hell combined could not prevent him from preaching the gospel in Europe and Asia and from planting Churches wherever he went whether in chains, or in shipwreck, or in prison. The logicians tried to persuade James Chalmers of New Guinea to come home at the end of his career, for he had done enough; but they were met with the reply, "With all I have yet faced and do face in the heathen world, I would gladly go through it all again rather than to give my life to any other cause." And this only a few months before he was killed and eaten by cannibals. They tried to dissuade Paton by saying, "You may yet be eaten by those cannibals," only to be met with the rejoinder by that intrepid soul, "But you who stay at home will surely be eaten by worms."

This world is not to be reformed by logic; it is to be redeemed by passion. It is not to be reconstructed by expediency; it is to be regenerated by love—a love that will not let its victims go. An amazing passion for duty—that alone can give soul to our slothful, sleeping bodies and carry us on to conquest for God. J. O. A.

SALARIES.

Much has been said, more has been thought, and still more has been felt on the subject of salaries. This is common property in every field where men serve upon fixed salaries. Whatever else may engage the consideration of life's problems, the question of earning capacity and expenditures enter into the equation. While the "love of money is the root of all evil" (not many kinds of evil), the necessity for money remains as an essential of living and performing industrial and religious obligations. Earning capacity and necessary expenses must be compared and adjusted. This is universal experience, and there is no escape from it. Corporations and labor organizations are in the field together in the solution of wages and living expenses. The solution of these questions in that field will reach a satisfactory conclusion when each party considers the interest of the other party. Mutual consideration, joint approach to the question, and unselfish determination will settle that question which has already been greatly reduced in its suspicion.

But the main purpose of this utterance is the question of salaries for ministers. It goes without proof that ministers receive less financial pay for their work than any other class of servants. They are servants if they are real ministers. Jesus settled that when He said: "I am servant of all." That is the highest place in human society. "Serve the Lord with gladness"; and ministers should serve the people in the same spirit.

Now, the question of salary cannot be separated from the position of the pastor. He and his family eat food, wear clothes, and use medicine just like laymen. He uses books and must pay traveling expenses as well as a traveling salesman. Salaries for ministers should be increased in proportion to the increasing demands upon his life, for nothing cripples the usefulness of a pastor more than to be in debt to members. "Owe no man anything but to love one another" applies to pastors as well as to others. Debt robs any man of energy, enthusiasm, hope, and a cheerful countenance; and a pastor needs all of these. There are three reasons why the average Church should increase the salary of the average pastor. First, to prevent a minister from serving more Churches than he can serve properly in order to get a living.

The Churches are retarded in the growth and the pastor hindered in doing his best by serving too many Churches.

The second reason is that when Churches pay too little it schools them in lifeless, heartless, useless inactivity. It is just as important that a Church shall grow in the grace of giving as in any other grace. God loves a "cheerful giver," and that includes a Church as well as a person. "The liberal soul shall be made fat," and the liberal Church always prospers.

Third, the pastor himself, in these days, needs more money, and his only resource is in a larger salary. When he does not receive enough salary to live on, he cannot be a leader, for he ought to lead in giving as well as in preaching. Salaries should be increased in most of the Churches, in order that ministers may do their full duty. When one considers the time and money spent in preparation to preach the gospel, this obligation of better salaries should impress the Churches.

UNIFYING OUR WORK.

When quite a young man, I looked in on the General Convention of our Church in session at Norfolk. Twelve years ago I was a member for the first time of a quadrennial session of our Church. I am now at Urbana. I rejoice in the growing spirit of unity that pervades every enterprise and thrills every heart.

Our educational work is organically unified. Our Board of Christian Education is constantly laboring to integrate it. They say twenty years will be necessary, but that is a short time for so great an undertaking, a new thing in the field of Christian education.

Our Christian Publishing Association is anxiously working for unity with our other departments, and despite hindering legal requirements is exhibiting a genuine spirit of co-operation.

Our financial efforts are being budgeted, not as completely as some of us expected, but the spirit that will bring ultimately the unity we hope for is present. It must eventually come.

Our Commission on Christian Union is aggressively at work and potently approaching other denominations with its overtures for union in the name of Christ. And we are just as free as ever we were. "Liberty and union, one and inseparable, now and forever." True liberty and freedom are found only in the Christian religion, which must be unified.

W. A. H.

THE FAITH OF JAMES O'KELLY.

We are now collecting funds to build an enduring memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly. On this account and because of its fine interpretation, the following is reprinted from the Herald of Gospel Liberty, its leading editorial in the issue of October 21st:

One hundred years ago Saturday, October 16th, there died one who had been a leader in one of the greatest religious movements in modern times. That one was James O'Kelly. The movement was that of individual liberty and democracy which has slowly pervaded all of Protestantism during the last century. Reared a Methodist and induced into the warm and pulsating ministry of the Methodist Church, young O'Kelly had breathed too much of the spirit of freedom which was then athrob in the political atmosphere of the new nation to rest content under the autocratic rule of the Methodist form of organization and of the religious concepts which then afforded such minor place to the rights and the conscience of the individual believer. In time, he led a group of his fellow-ministers out from that Church to form the tributary which later on should join with like tributaries from New England and the Central West to found the Christian Church. But the teaching and influence of these and like-minded men in other Churches soon ran far beyond denominational lines and have had incalculable influence upon the thought and the policies of the Church of Jesus Christ and have directed the whole course of modern Christendom into new and more momentous channels. So profound is the significance of this movement that the faith which underlies it should be more clearly apprehended than it has been even by some of its own exponents.

First. This spirit of democracy for the Church is based upon the inviolate conviction that there inheres within every individual a conscience which is potentially the voice of God goading and directing him towards the right and good. Individual freedom does not mean and never has meant, in the Church nor in the State, the right of the individual "to do as he pleases" or "to think as he pleases," as has too often been assumed by those who would oppose the theory and by those who would abuse the theory in order to license their own desires or willfulness. Rather must human freedom ever mean, both within the Church and within the State, only the right and the liberty of every human soul to follow the dictates of his conscience towards the highest good, as in sincerity and honest endeavor he seeks to discover what is that highest good for him and his fellowmen. Such freedom is founded on the faith that there is the will of God for every individual, and that God seeks directly and definitely to make that will known to every individual. If this be true, it is perfectly obvious that no hindering bonds of creed or sectarian indoctrination or ecclesiastical or political suppression and restriction dare be placed upon the individual, else he cannot voice the thought of God nor follow the will of God made plain to him. To make light of the Churches which have no written creeds or confessions as though they were a rabble of incoherent faith and infidelity, as the late Mr. Bryan and others have done and are doing, is not only to belie the most potent facts of Church history but also to deny the very postulate of God's directive will for every individual child of his. Again and again the Church has furnished brilliant illustration of the fact that some individual prophet or saint has discerned and understood the wish and thought of God clearer and better than has the whole united Church of that day; and the hand of God would have been helplessly tied down to an immovable past if he had been estopped by Church or creed from making known his will and purpose to the individual. And the history of denominations proves that both intellectual faith and fidelity to Christian life have been as well preserved, yea, better, under liberty than they have under the restriction of creed and confession.

Second. Democracy within the Church is founded upon a sublime faith in folks. Herein is one of the deepest cleavages between Roman Catholicism and Protestantism. The Catholic Church fears to trust the united conscience and saintliness of the people, and hence places its reliance upon the theory that God delegates to one ecclesiastic autocrat a perfect knowledge of his will and the authority to make it known to humankind. The Protestant Church, wherever it has been true to its basic postulate, refuses to believe that God has chosen an infallible pope or priesthood for this purpose, but that any and every child of God alike may become a prophet or a priest for the unfolding of the will of God among men. And history fully substantiates this view. Yet nothing has seemed harder for many Protestants than to hold fast to this faith. They have from time to time erected many substitutes or subterfuges for the infallible Church. The apostolic succession, the apostolic Church and practices, the heavy forms and creeds and confessions of other centuries and of other lands and peoples, all have been called into play to overawe and restrict the individual and do for Protestantism what the doctrine of the infallible Church does for Catholicism. Out of this same form of unbelief grows that extreme doctrine of infallibility and inerrancy as applied to the Bible which has wrecked the logic and consistency of so many Christian believers in our own day and given rise to the most bitter religious controversy of modern times. Always it is a seeking for authority that shall override the individual sense of the will and wish of God. Always it is a fear that God Himself cannot manage folks in this day and this generation as well as he managed folks in some preceding day or generation, nor make known to us in our own times his truth and his will as well as he made it known to our forefathers who wrote the Westminster Creed or the Heidelberg Confession or other creed or instrument of the past. It was against this lack of faith in God and lack of faith in folks that O'Kelly and his compeers rebelled. To them there was no explainable or intelligible reason why the Christian men and women of their own day were not just as open to the impress of God and far more intelligently qualified to compose their own statements of faith than were the Church assemblies of a thousand years or more ago which devised the creeds over which the Churches were then dividing and controverting and over which some of them still divide and controvert. And in that faith and that conviction O'Kelly and his associates founded a Church that should take the Bible as its only written statement of faith and then grant to every child of God the right to follow the dictates of his own conscience in all matters of Christian belief and practice.

Third. But a still deeper faith was inherent in their venture. They not only believed that God has a will and a wish for every individual; they not only believed in folks and had confidence that the spiritual insight and integrity of their contemporaries were as trustworthy as that of Christian people in any former age, but they also had unshakable faith in the capacity and competency of the Holy Spirit to guide and direct the followers of Jesus Christ into the ways of truth and righteousness, as Christ Himself had promised that His Spirit should do. "When He, the Spirit of truth, is come, He shall guide you into all the truth." "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth will make you free." Whoever seeks to erect rigid barrier around the mind and heart of individuals, thereby betrays his own lack of faith in the power of the Holy Spirit to quicken and guide the conscience of men and women. Whoever would set stakes beyond which the mind of man shall not go, whoever would keep the thinking of the Church and the activities of the Church to the confines of the past, betrays his own skepticism of the properties and function of the Holy Spirit as Jesus Christ Himself announced and described them to be. This very unbelief has been one of the most impoverishing and retarding elements in the history of Christianity. Throughout most of their existence, the Churches of Jesus Christ have been more anxious for conformity to the dogmas and practices of the past than they have to discover anew the will and spirit of God. They have been far more determined to defend the little that they did know and understand than to explore those great and unsearchable riches and illimitable expanses of the mind and the heart of the Father which lie out beyond anything that the mind and heart of man have yet understood and experienced. The whole tendency of this attitude has been to impose upon the Church an inflexibility and an inadaptability which again and again have had to be crushed and broken through by reformation or revolution before God could make his immediate will and purpose known to

(Continued on Page 13.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The most difficult thing in life is to decide on what to follow as a life-work. The next most difficult question to solve is where to live. The next most difficult question is who to marry. All these questions arise naturally in all human minds and all of them must be settled to make life succeed. Vocational education may help the individual to solve the first question, but it cannot answer it fully. Mechanical training cannot make a mechanic unless the mechanical talent is in the individual. Advice from experienced teachers may help in the solution of the question of what vocation, profession, or line to choose and follow. The inherent gift furnishes the individual with the surest help to the solution of this question; and there is no escape from the question except to drift along the road to failure. Nothing in nature looks so worthless as driftwood when the stream rises; but human drift on the current of time is even more pitiable. True aspiration seeks to find the path and the work for which God has designed the life. The true man never seeks another's place, but tries to find his own; and he can find it if he surrenders himself to the Holy Spirit in following Jesus Christ. Too many people, like disobedient children, want to have their own way. It is easy to find the place if one keeps in the right road.

Where to live is another question that is a lifetime question, for that involves the question of home. The prodigal found that cut in a "far country," and he not only decided to go, but went home. In the country or in the city, in one's native State or another State, location often determines success. Some men are natural farmers. They belong in the country. Others are traders and belong in the centers of population. A mule could never succeed on the racetrack, yet the mule is worth more to the world than the race horse. He tills the soil; he produces the cotton and cane; he draws the load, and does not complain. His friends are few, but his dependents are many. The same is true of men. The humble man in his place and doing his simple work in a faithful way is the useful man, and will receive his reward. The unknown citizen who obeys the law and is loyal to the government is as essential to the welfare of the nation as members of the Legislature, Congress, or presidents of great corporations or banks. It is life at its best that counts. "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things he possesseth." Most of the mischief of this age is done by persons away from home. Nothing is more valuable than being in place. That is what makes a watch good: for the hands to be in place. It is just as true of men.

Marriage is another question that is common among men. Where the head and the heart agree is safe ground for decision. Separate these two and leave God out, and wreck is liable to follow an unbalanced choice. Mistake here is fatal. Success here is a happy home. Character is the best asset in this field of decision. Common sense, which is the natural sense yielding to the guidance of the Spirit of God working within is always safe.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

The "Souvenir Christian Education Bulletin" has just been printed. It contains all the addresses given at the dedication of the Mooney Christian Education Building, and in addition a poem by Mrs. S. A. Bennett and an article on "Leadership Training and How Elon Provides It."

There are numerous illustrations of the building and its work, together with cuts of Rev. Isaac Mooney, of the Orban, and others. The bulletin is bound in maroon and printed in gold—the college colors. It contains forty pages and is destined to become a historic document, since it gives account of the first Christian education building on a college campus in the world. While they last, a copy of this bulletin will be sent free to any one requesting it.

As I write, I am near the Wesley Foundation of the University of Illinois, an institution with eleven thousand students. The Wesley Foundation is the social and religious center for Methodist students of the university. Courses of instruction in Bible are offered by members of the staff of the foundation and in every possible way the voluntary life of those who will come is directed into Christian channels and attitudes. Less than ten per cent of the Methodist students avail themselves of the opportunities.

This foundation, great as it is, attempts only a part of the work of our Christian education building. We have, in addition to all they aspire to do, a genuine laboratory of religious education, in which our students in training do practice teaching in our week-day religious school, thus preparing them by actual experience to be workers and leaders in their local Churches, whether as ministers or laymen.

Dean Athearn says the donors of our Christian education building have made the most signal contribution to religious education of the past decade. I agree with him, and the dear friends who made this great building possible deserve the distinction their generous hearts have won for them. May the Lord richly reward them!

W. A. HARPER.

UR OF THE CHALDEES.

Dr. C. L. Wooley, director of the joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania Museum, reported to the British Association of Science the latest results of excavations at Ur of the Chaldees, which figures in biblical history as the home town of Abraham. He said that in the temple at Ur he found the soil riddled with vertical terra-cotta drain pipes, through which the Chaldeans poured libations down to the nether gods. In the temple to the Deity Bur-Sin the archeologists discovered what seemed to them to be a modern kitchen, which contained a welts oven and a cooking range still in serviceable condition.

MEMORIAL TO REV. ISAAC MOONEY.

(Address at dedication of the Mooney Christian Education Building Sunday, October 3, 1926, by Prof. S. A. Bennett, head of Department of Religious Education in Elon College.)

Any building so completely furnished and carefully planned as the Mooney Christian Education Building cannot be the result of mere chance. It stands rather as an achievement in a long line of earnest effort and painstaking toil. It is not my purpose to trace this line in detail, but to merely indicate a few of the most important factors that have combined to make this building a reality on our campus.

The building of Christian character and leadership training were central in Elon's program from its inception. As the years have passed, the college has continually kept this goal uppermost. In the fall of 1920 the President saw the need for practical laboratory work in Christian education, and inaugurated the Elon week-day school of religion. For three and one-half years the school worked with the handicaps of inadequate equipment and facilities, but the experiment proved valuable in the enriching of Christian experience and the training of leadership.

January 18, 1923, left the Elon administration building a heap of ruins. It was a sad and gloomy day. In the midst of the gloom, rising above the ruins and ashes faith projected a beautiful vision of a new and greater Elon. In the imagination of the president, buildings commenced to rise; one after another they reared themselves and stood in stately beauty. Could this dream be realized? Or was it only a vision the result of wild imagination? Steadied by the realization of the actual needs of an efficient small college and buoyed up by faith in Christian education, the trustees launched the building program. In this new building program of the greater Elon, one building is unique. No such building had ever been erected on a college campus. Elon must undertake it, but could it be accomplished? Under the tremendous pressure of necessary buildings, could the college dare to undertake a new experiment in a Christian education building with laboratory facilities? Such a building seemed to be a necessary part of the developing program at Elon and prayerfully and earnestly the task was undertaken.

At the insistence of Col. J. E. West, Dr. and Mrs. Harper set out on a transcontinental trip August 2, 1923, and carried the needs of Elon to the hearts of Mr. and Mrs. M. Orban, Jr., of Whittier, Calif. The members of this family have long been loyal members of the Christian Church at Towanda, Kansas, and in recent years have made their home in Whittier, Calif. Those who know them best know most about the quiet, unassuming Christian grace of this fine family. Out of the largeness of their Christian hearts they gave of the means which God had blessed them, and presented Elon College with this magnificent Christian education building. The college, the community and the Church at large feel indebted to Mr. Orban and family for this honored gift in the time of need. We rejoice that God has raised up friends for such a time and has placed upon their hearts a sense of stewardship and a vision of service that has made this splendid building possible.

What is the spirit that prompted this gift? Why was Mr. Orban willing to offer such a sum of money for this cause? As I attempt to answer these questions I feel that we must tread on holy ground and ask the most profound reverence as we make this venture. Every true Christian realizes there is a debt of gratitude we owe to those who have lived before us. We stand in the present indebted to the past. A great wealth of moral and spiritual heritage has made us what we are. As we stand at the threshold of the future, we feel ourselves indebted to the past. Unable to pay this debt to the past, we project it in the future and seek to enrich the lives of those who now live and those who will later enter life's busy tasks.

The donors of this building are humble, unassuming, loyal Christians. For these graces they feel indebted to godly men and women who gave them birth and reared them in the Christian faith. They feel indebted to the pioneers who pushed westward and through toil and frugal living laid the foundations of a great civilization in the semi-arid west. By hard work, privation and sacrifice, these pioneers built homes, Churches and schools and laid the enduring corner-stones of noble Christian living. Typical of all that was noble and fine in Christianity stands the Rev. Isaac Mooney, revered father of Mrs. Orban, a faithful Christian preacher and early citizen of central Kansas. It is fitting that this Christian education building should be dedicated in service as a memorial to this devout and consecrated minister of the gospel.

As I go about this Mooney Christian Education Building it speaks to me of the devotion and stalwart faith of the pioneer, the true service of those who have made our present achievements possible. A long line of earnest souls have worked and toiled and prayed, and contributed to the development of this noble structure. We stand today the guardians of this sacred trust. "Others have labored and ye are entered into their labors."

O Thou, who led the men of old,
Be Thou our guide and stay;
Inspire in us a courage bold,
And lead us on our way.

Be light and wisdom to our path,
Be strength for us today.
O Thou, who led the men of old,
Lead us, O God, we pray.

PROGRAM OF THE FIFTY-FOURTH ANNUAL SESSION, WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Pleasant Grove Church, Randolph County, November 23-25, 1926.

First Day—Morning Session. 10:30 o'Clock.

- 1. Called to Order by President.
2. Devotional Services by Rev. T. J. Green.
3. Enrollment of Ministers and Delegates.
4. Election of Officers.
5. Report of Program Committee.
6. Appointment of Special Committees.
7. Annual Address by President, Rev. G. O. Lankford.
8. Adjournment.

First Day—Afternoon Session. 2:00 o'Clock.

- 1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. M. Allred.
2. Report of Executive Committee.
3. Ministerial and Church Reports.
4. Report on Religious Literature, Rev. G. R. Underwood, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session. 10:00 o'Clock.

- 1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. U. Fogleman.
2. Minutes of Previous Day.
3. Report on Foreign Missions.
4. Address by Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.
5. The Christian Orphanage, by Supt. Chas D. Johnston.
6. Sermon by Rev. J. C. Cummings.
7. Adjournment.

Second Day—Afternoon Session. 2:00 o'Clock.

- 1. Devotional Services by Rev. E. C. Brady.
2. Report on Home Missions, Rev. T. J. Green, Chairman.
3. Report of Woman's Board, Mrs. D. A. Cornelison, Chairman.
4. Report on Moral Reform, Rev. J. M. Allred, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Third Day—Morning Session.

10:00 o'Clock.

- 1. Devotional Services, Rev. W. C. Martin.
2. Report on Education, Rev. T. E. White, Chairman.
Address by Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College.
3. Report on Sunday Schools, B. S. Moffitt, Chairman.
4. Report on Christian Endeavor, Mrs. Madge Moffitt Whitesell, Chairman.
5. Adjournment.

Third Day—Afternoon Session.

1:30 o'Clock.

- 1. Devotional Services by Rev. W. J. Edwards.
2. Miscellaneous Business.
Reports.
Appointment of Committees for next year.
3. Reading and Adoption of Minutes.
4. Farewell Service, conducted by Rev. T. E. White.
5. Final Adjournment.

G. O. LANKFORD, T. E. WHITE, Program Committee.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8x7 7/8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8x7 7/8 Inches, 1 1/16 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8x8 Inches, and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x3 3/4 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x3 3/4 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps. $2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday School. $2.50

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold. $1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x7 7/8 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold. $3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold. $2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8x8 1/2 Inches and 1 3/8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 in dived maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold. $3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

Shoulder to Shoulder.

When these lines are being read, the Convention will be in its closing hours. For nine days duly elected delegates from every Conference and section of our brotherhood will have been considering carefully the task and privilege of the Christian Church to serve in the interests of the kingdom. There will have been much prayer privately and collectively; measures and plans of work will have been adopted; goals will have been set; officials and boards will have been elected to carry out the will of the Convention. It is not likely that all the plans of the Convention or that all the officiating will be the ones you or I would have chosen. However, they are the action of the Convention together, and they are entitled to the loyal co-operation of our whole brotherhood. We should be a living demonstration of how those Christians love one another and how they can work together. It takes co-operation to make a success of anything. Our young people who play baseball, football, basket-ball know that it is the only way to win their games. Each must play for the team to win and sink self out of sight. It is the only way that there may be happiness and success in the home—when husband, wife and children counsel, work and plan together. It is true in Church life. There can be victory and success only when pastor and Church pull together. If one department has not learned that spirit, defeat frequently comes; one singer can spoil the work of an entire choir; one Sunday School class may nearly ruin a whole school. Having prayed, counseled, planned together, let all unitedly get behind our whole work. If every conference, Church, institution, worker, will do this we may go forward and please our Lord.

That is the way it will be if we are to have a successful stewardship campaign apart from the raising of funds during November and December. If all our pastors, Churches, regional and conference stewardship secretaries will make a united effort, our whole people may be stirred with stewardship's gripping message, a stewardship atmosphere be created and a spiritual blessing secured. Only by such co-operation will the largest results be obtained. Results will be correspondingly small if only a few co-operate, and the campaigns are held at irregular times, and the programs are unprepared, and December 12th not observed as a time for enrollment of tithers. There is power and victory in united effort. There is weakness in divided effort. We are glad that so many are co-operating this year, and congratulate those Churches whose leadership is wise enough to put on a worth-while stewardship study and program.

Shall We Be a Tithing Church?

Three regional convention presidents—Revs. L. E. Smith, H. H. Short, Rue Burnell—have made such public appeals to our brotherhood. Conference presidents join in the same urgent message—Rev. E. A. Watkins, A. A. Richards, Mr. H. H. Jessup have spoken their conviction in these columns. We have two more messages from Conference presidents awaiting publication in this department. Our people are being aroused to its importance.

MAKING MISSIONS ATTRACTIVE TO OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.—II.

By MRS. M. L. BRYANT,

Teach young people loyalty to their Church. Teach them that every member whose name is on the roll is just as necessary to the real success of the church as is the pastor or deacon. Teach them that it is not the foreigner in the community, nor the alien population, nor the persons who are not members of the church that keep the church from making progress in strides, but the persons young or old who have come before the altar and acknowledged the church's principles, expressed an abiding faith in its work, and pledged themselves, before God, as it were, to support that church, and then who have gone out and neglected it. They are the ones who retard any organization, whether church or otherwise. Is it possible that lessons untaught can be blamed for this sad plight? How about some lessons on loyalty early begun in an attractive way and later taught as a part of character and so ingrained that it might have been grouped in the class with pity, love, mercy, truth; would such lessons have helped? We teach or get our idea of family loyalty by saying that blood is thicker than water. We teach flag loyalty, State loyalty, and loyalty to our country. What person is there among us who is not proud of being an American? How many of us are proud of being members of the Christian Church, are proud of what she has achieved, of what she is achieving, of what she might achieve if we remain loyal? Are we proud of her institutions? Are we proud of our leaders? Do we support them? If we are not proud of our church, its history, its leaders, its institutions, it is because so many have not been taught the lesson of loyalty. Go over your church roll and read aloud the names, check every name that is active, then every one who comes on extra occasions, when something like Conference is going on, then those names there who do not come at all. Get the other churches in your community to do the same, and compare notes. I wonder if the ones who are active and loyal to the church in each community do not form the best and happiest homes in that community. Read aloud the names who have lost interest for this reason or that, as they give it, and who never help in any church activity or who never attend. Find out, if you can, whether their lives and influence help or hinder the Christian spirit of your community. Loyalty is a trait necessary to be developed if we want to make our work attractive to the young people. They admire it in other things, schools, communities, clubs, etc., so why not in church life.

Teach young people that there are such things as spiritual beggars. A beggar in the usual way is looked upon in pity or disgust. We either help him in giving alms, or pass him by with a feeling, he's as able to work as I. Seldom do we consider the spiritual beggar, because he asks nothing in return, neither pity nor disgust. Just what do I mean by a spiritual beggar? They are not necessarily paupers in money matters, some may be wealthy. I consider a spiritual beggar any person inside the church or out of it who accepts the influence of the church in the community and fails to contribute to its support. They buy a home in a community and say we are so convenient to church and schools. They support the school, because the law makes them, but the church, never! Do they come; they may or may not. But they selected their location. Why, I say, they wanted to have the church's influence, its advantages and it does not cost them anything. Why does this condition sometimes, nay often, happen? Our young people haven't been taught that it is just as much a disgrace or misfortune to be a spiritual beggar as it is to be a street beggar. We could implant this in them if it is true and worth while. I am thinking now of a member of my church, older than I am by a few years, who pays fifteen cents a week in her church envelope. She has no family except her husband, who is not a church member, but who nearly always is present at one service and sometimes two every Sunday. He commands a fine salary, of which she has entire control. Shame on him. One side of our church envelope is marked "current expenses," the other "benevolences." Every now and then this lady calls our treasurer over the phone to remind him of the fact that she does not want her fifteen cents to be split and used for any other purpose except "pastor's salary." She "loves her pastor." But does she love her church? What would happen if we could use no electric lights or heat or janitor's service? Now the point I make is this, could she have been taught differently, and whose business was it to do the teaching? Would you not call her and all like her spiritual beggars, expecting God to give great return in earthly ways for fifteen cents a week. Now if that represented all she were able to do, I grant you that she could expect God to open the flood-gates of mercy forever unto her. It might become her memorial someday. Sad indeed are the members who are within the fold in name and so far removed from its blessings and privileges. Teach the young people to look with pity and compassion on such as these.

I am thinking of another spiritual beggar I know. He is the spasmodic kind, out more often than in. When something, not essential in any way, occurs that he can find an excuse to remain away for long periods he always takes advantage. Most often it is I don't like the preacher! But what does he do? He comes nearly every Sunday morning and stands at the front while the crowd is passing in to Church. He is nearly always there. People passing by would surely think he was a regular attendant, and even some of our own members mingling with him outside would scarcely believe it if you told them he never came in to service. He waits until the others go in then he walks off. Pity! pity! pity! At night the same thing occurs. I have often paused and had a short conversation before entering. He seems in good spirits and could be a spiritual asset. He must desire the friendship of the people and the influence of the Church, he so often stands under its shadow. In cases of family sorrow, the Church has served, and served willingly and sympathetically. I am asking you to help me in deciding why he is a spiritual beggar. Is it the fault of early training in Church loyalty, the kind of loyalty that would make him stand by the Church, regardless. I believe religious education will cut down the present percentage of spiritual beggars, if we begin to teach some attractive things to our young people.

There is so much that we have to teach that must be done to make our background for missions to the young people attractive. When the recent call went out for our special fund of $25,000 for missions during February and March of 1926, we were told and had it pictured to us in no uncertain terms that the Mission Board of our Church was fighting a losing battle. Their backs were to the wall, and relief had to come if we were to hold our own even for a little longer. Who is this Mission Board? Do you know? Have you ever had created in you enough interest concerning the missionary enterprise of your Church for you to inquire who is the Mission Board? Who are the men who are fighting this battle of heart and mind? Why are they doing it? How many of us really do know who they are and why? If I should ask you to rise to answer, would you be embarrassed? What do they need $25,000 for? Why not stop work if the money has given out? Yes, why not, I ask you to answer. In my own Church, that Sunday, without any pressure at all except facts presented—no begging, no soliciting, just an opportunity given—very nearly $300 was laid on the plate for the special offering. Now, that isn't what we should have given, but for our people present, that was representative. What I am thinking of is, why did people open their hearts and purses and put nearly $300 on the plate at one service over and above the usual Church offering. What made them do it? Education. They had been taught the need. It had been studied and passed on. No person who came to that Church for one solid month but what got some information concerning that particular need. Now, if this teaching process could begin with our children and young people and be constantly added to in their religious education, would such an emergency arise or would our gifts for such work have been coming in constantly and this crises avoided? I know a few young people who gave $1 each for this particular need who never before gave a whole dollar to Church in their lifetime. Whether the $25,000 was raised or not, the campaign was certainly a grand success in enlightening our people. It has shown us our need of teaching, and teaching the young people missions in an attractive way.

What else shall we teach except loyalty and concerning spiritual beggars? Teach that just above the beggar class there is a class of "spiritual ne'er do wells"; our young people are impressionable. Cite illustrations, avoid names if possible; if necessary, use them. Drive home your lesson without being unkind. Create sympathy instead of dislike for the spiritual ne'er do well as well as for the beggar. A ne'er do well, in ordinary life, is easily described. They begin many things and finish nothing. Have one job this month and another next, soon get a business reputation that isn't enviable, and finally move away when the community or neighborhood has nothing new and attractive to offer. Do we have spiritual ne'er do wells? Do you know any? Go over your roll again, and when you have eliminated the beggars look for the names of those who are never to be depended upon. They may be there, they may not; don't count on them. They move away, and at your next Church meeting somebody mentions the fact that we have lost a member or a member has moved out of the community. A silence, the committee thinks (maybe), then somebody (maybe the pastor) says, well they didn't amount to much, so far as we are concerned, and after a brief, sympathetic discussion the conclusion is reached that maybe the Church hasn't lost much or perhaps is none the poorer because the person had gone. That may be true and rightfully spoken. A little later a request from another pastor comes, stating that a certain person has agreed to become a member of the Church at that place, and he is writing for his (record) and his letter of transfer. What about it? Somebody may say, as has been said, "Well, we've carried that name long enough and paid Conference assessment on them long enough; let somebody else do it a while, and we give them a letter of transfer." Is it a sad reflection on our policy of education that they have become a spiritual ne'er do well, a spiritual liability? Every now and then the minister is called on to bury such an one, and somebody says, "Well, they're gone; they never were any help to the Church, but they could have been; they had a talent." I am asking you—those who have the young in charge—is there any system of Church education with an attractive background that would help us teach our young people and teach them attractively so that it would stick, last and endure and prevent them ever becoming spiritual liabilities once they had vowed to support the kingdom of God and its agents?

(To be Concluded in Next Issue.)

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

The Woman's Missionary Conference of the North Carolina Christian Conference is to meet with the church in Raleigh, November 5th. By vote of the Executive Board, in a meeting held in Burlington on September 9th, it was decided to close the books of the treasurer, Mrs. W. R. Sellars, Burlington, N. C., on October 15th. Each society will take notice and send all money in hand immediately to Mrs. Sellars.

The secretary was instructed also to send two statistical report blanks to each church, one to be retained by the church for its records, and the other to be mailed back immediately to Mrs. W. A. Harper, Secretary, Elon College, N. C.

If any church fails to get a blank, I will be glad to be notified and blanks will be immediately sent.

MRS. W. A. HARPER,
Secretary.

TENTATIVE PROGRAM OF THE EASTERN VIRGINIA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

To be Held at Webster Community Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Maryland, November 2-4, 1926.

Monday Night, November 1st.

- Fellowship Service.
- Introduction to the Conference of Rev. R. W. Sutcliffe, assistant pastor Webster Community Christian Church.
- Devotional Service, Rev. H. S. Hardeastle, Suffolk, Va.
- Address of Welcome, by Rev. Richard W. Sutcliffe.
- Response to Welcome, by Rev. J. G. Truitt, Norfolk, Va.
- Introduction of Visitors.

Tuesday Morning, November 2d.

- 9:30 Call to Order by President W. D. Harward.
- Song Service, conducted by Rev. O. D. Poythress.
- Invocation.
- 9:40 Enrollment of delegates.
- Reception of visitors.
- Appointment of committees.
- Report of Executive Committee.
- Report of Program Committee.
- 10:10 President's Address, Dr. W. D. Harward.
- 10:40 Report of Committee on Religious Literature, by Rev. H. S. Hardeastle.
- Presentation of The Christian Sun, by P. J. Kernodle, Managing Editor.
- Discussion.
- 11:25 Devotional Half-Hour, Rev. H. S. Hardeastle.
- 11:55 Report of Committee on Memorials, by Rev. N. G. Newman, D. D.
- 12:00 Communion Service, conducted by Rev. W. W. Staley, D. D.

Tuesday Afternoon.

- 2:00 Song Service. Invocation.
- 2:10 Treasurer's Report, Mr. H. Woodward.
- 2:20 Digest of Chart, Study of Church and Ministerial Reports, under supervision of Rev. I. W. Johnson, D. D.

- 3:20 Report of Committee on Stewardship, by Rev. F. C. Lester, Chairman.
- Address, Rev. W. H. Denison, D. D.
- Discussion.
- 4:00 Presentation of Woman's Missionary Conference and Report, Mrs. M. L. Bryant, Pres.
- 4:35 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions, Rev. J. F. Morgan, Chairman.
- Address, "Our Greatest Task," by Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.

Tuesday Night.

- 7:30 Music by Webster Church.
- Conference Sermon, by Rev. L. E. Smith, D. D., Norfolk, Va.

Wednesday Morning.

- 9:30 Song Service. Invocation.
- 9:40 Report of Committee on Moral Reform, by Rev. Elisha Bradshaw, Chairman.
- Discussion.
- 9:55 Presentation of Christian Missionary Association, by Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, Pres.
- 10:10 Report of Committee on Home Missions, by Hon. J. E. West, Chairman.
- Address, Rev. L. E. Smith, D. D.
- 11:30 Devotional Half-Hour, Rev. H. S. Hardeastle.
- 12:00 Presentation of Elon Summer School, Miss Pattie Coghill, Field Secretary.

Wednesday Afternoon.

- 2:00 Song Service. Invocation.
- 2:10 Report of Committee on Education, by Rev. W. W. Staley, D. D., Chairman.
- Address, Dr. W. A. Harper, President, Elon College.
- Discussion.
- 3:30 Report of Committee on Religious Education, by Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, D. D., Chairman.
- Discussion.
- 4:00 Report of Committee on Evangelism, by Rev. L. E. Smith, D. D., Chairman.
- Discussion.

Wednesday Night.

- 7:30 Music by Webster and Dover, Del., Choirs.
- Address, "Christian Leadership for Our Day," by Rev. R. C. Helfensteiu, D. D., Dover, Del.

Thursday Morning.

- 9:30 Song Service.
- Invocation.
- 9:40 Miscellaneous Business.
- Report of Collectors.
- 10:20 Report of Committee on Apportionments.
- Address, "Our Convention Goals," Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.
- Address, "The Layman and the Goals," Hon. J. E. West.
- 12:00 Devotional Half-Hour, Rev. H. S. Hardeastle.

Thursday Afternoon.

- 1:30 Song Service.
- Invocation.
- 1:40 Report of Special Committees.
- Nominations.
- Place for holding next session.
- Finance.
- Resolutions.
- Final Business.
- Reading of Minutes.
- 2:40 Closing Service, Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe.
- Pastor Webster Community Church.
- 3:00 Adjournment.

Thursday Night.

- 7:30 Song Service.
- Missionary Pageant, by Webster Church.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

November 7, 1926.

TOPIC: "How Make War Against War?"—Matt. 7:12; Isa. 2:1-4. (Consecration Meeting.)

Some Bible Hints.

The Golden Rule applies between nations as well as individuals. It will abolish war (v. 12). Only as religion is held high in esteem and its precepts obeyed will people achieve the spirit that abolishes war (v. 2).

When one great nation is brave enough to make war a crime by popular vote, "all nations will flow to it." The world needs leadership (v. 2).

The nations need a new vision, a new life, a new morality. Only Christ can give these things (v. 3).

Suggestive Thoughts.

War must be voted a crime by the nations, and thus outlawed. The nation that wars must be held a criminal nation. Law must settle differences.

We cannot abolish war by means of war. It can be done only by giving law a supreme place and by pledging all nations to have recourse to law alone.

We need a world court of law, not arbitration. A court of law means that the court has authority to call witnesses, to summon nations before it, and to pass judgment even if a nation refuses to obey the summons.

We need a code of international law. A court that passes judgment on the basis of such law, which has been accepted by all nations, would have the moral judgment of mankind behind it, and no nation would dare defy the judgment.

A Few Illustrations.

The Christ of the Andes shows that war is unnecessary. Good will is infinitely better.

As society could not be established unless all submitted to law, so the society of nations must fail until all submit to international law.

The opinion of the victims of war, young men and mothers, has never been asked when war was declared. Rulers are going to hear our opinion in days to come, and it is for peace.

We discharge a stupid, blundering manager of a factory. Shall we tolerate blundering rulers who would plunge us into war when the futility of war is so manifest?

To Think About.

How can we make known our opinion about war?

How may America take the leadership of the world in abolishing war?

How can our society spread the principles of peace?

A Cluster of Quotations.

War is an institution, established and recognized for settling international disputes. The first step should be to make war illegal, to outlaw it.—Anon.

China is becoming militarized. Education is relegated to the background. The one thing that China is ardently taking from the West is the worst element in history—militarism.—J. B. Jones.

What can you do? Inform yourself as to what constructive proposals have been made to abolish war. Read, study, and talk about the matter. Create the peace spirit in others.—S. L. Gulick.

Organize peace meetings. Get big speakers. Begin in the society. Then have a peace meeting in your Church. Then a joint meeting with all Churches in the city. Work! Pray!—S. L. Gulick.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS NOTES.

We wish again to bring before you the attitude of our young people toward the Church, as this attitude was revealed by the papers of our very own young people at the Elon Summer School this year.

"Along with this Christian example, the young people look to the Church to instill in their hearts and minds Christian ideals. These ideals can be implanted only through Christian fellowship. This fellowship, of course, means the making of Christian friends; friends who will understand us through sharing mutual Christian experiences."

"Young people desire something to do, and look to the Church for this. The Church, as sponsor for the young peoples' organizations, can do this and at the same time give the necessary instruction. The youth who is active in the Church is learning through practice."

"Youth of today expects of the Church a thorough house-cleaning, a throwing out of old, useless furniture and an installation of new."

So far as we could discover, the last quotation is the only one that could be classified as radical. The others are all moderate, and seem to suggest a real appreciation of the Church and the work it undertakes. This last, and we are going to assume it is a young fellow full to the brim of physical and mental energy, is simply a cry against stilted creeds, controversies and formalities and an appeal for actual Christian experience and practice. He closes as follows: "You know the purpose of the organization of the Church was to create true fellowship, and in Matt. 28:18-20, Jesus declared his purpose to be a constant companion in a growing friendship that would eventually envelope the world."

The elder members of the Church very frequently indulge in pretty free criticism of youth of the land, but I wonder if it would not do these same elder members good to sit down and think for a while of just what the young people have a right to think of them. I was very much astonished one Sunday when a group of young people very quickly and correctly detected the unethical conduct of a man in a story I had just told them, and then voted unanimously that the Christian men of their Church would, under like circumstances, follow the very same unethical course. When the question was put to them the majority acknowledged they, too, would follow the unethical course, because it paid.

We wonder if in our Churches stewardship is being taught as the one great wedge against materialistic philosophy? You at once realize that in the attitude of the young people in the above paragraph you have a glaring example of the materialistic policy. If it pays, and you can accomplish it without detection or loss of reputation, it is the thing to do. The philosophy has made such inroads that these young people have detected it in the lives of their elders. Only the recognition that we are God's stewards and must give account as stewards will counteract this terrible materialism that is sweeping our land.

J. H. LIGHTBOURNE.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson VI—November 7, 1926.

THE FALL OF JERICHO.

GOLDEN TEXT: "This is the victory that hath overcome the world, even our faith."—1 John 5:4.

LESSON: Joshua 6:12-20.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 66:1-9.

The Israelites had entered the promised land. They were to have as much of it as they could possess. The strategic place to begin was Jericho, for it not only commanded two fords in the River Jordan, but it also stood between two highways that led into the heart of Canaan. The first step toward possessing Canaan was to capture Jericho, and thitherto was Joshua sent. As if to confirm the promise which Jehovah had made to the effect that He would be with him, "the captain of the host of the Lord" appeared unto Joshua and strengthened him for the task.

"Now Jericho was straitly shut up because of the children of Israel." Thus doth conscience make cowards of us all. The approach of an army, bearing in its front ranks the symbol of religion and the presence of Jehovah Himself, struck fear in the hearts of the inhabitants of the city, who were, because of the climatic conditions, and more so because of their immoral living, lacking in courage and moral faith. One righteous man can put to flight a thousand wicked when it comes to a moral show-down. There is that about wrong living that makes men cowards.

The plan of attack was very unique. The host was to march against the city. Army men went before seven priests bearing seven trumpets; then came the ark of the covenant, and then came the others of the Israelitish host. There was to be no shouting or noise of mouth, and the only gesture which the army was to make was to march quietly and orderly around the city once every day for six days, and then on the seventh day it was to march seven times. As it marched the seventh time, at a given signal, all the people were to shout—a shout of triumph, for the city was to fall at that time. They were then to rush into the city and slay right and left, sparing only Rahab, the harlot, and her family, and taking spoil only for the use of Jehovah Himself. Selfish motives were not to be mixed up with high moral enterprise.

It was a very unique and very simple method of attack, but it was very effective, for when the people did as Jehovah had said they found that He did as He had promised. The walls of the city fell down, and they took the city, blotted out its inhabitants, and appropriated its prizes. To this day it is a desolate ruin, a witness to all who would read the lesson of history.

What does it all mean? What is the lesson for us in a modern day? The real victories of life are victories of faith. Moral force will accomplish what physical force can never achieve. The cause of righteousness is to establish, not by the sensational and noisy methods and materials of the world, but by the hosts of righteousness as they do daily and by faith the duties assigned to them. There is tremendous power in the display of the organized forces of righteousness. Say what one may about the Catholic Church, it was a magnificent and inspiring display which they cago, and they made a tremendous impression both upon the forces of good and of evil. It seems like a more or less unimportant thing, but the army of men and women and boys and girls, who Sunday after Sunday wend their way to Sunday School and Church, are doing a mighty work toward breaking down the strongholds of Satan. Let no member of the Church or Sunday School fail to do his or her part by failing to take a place in that great multitude which no man can number, but which by its silent march and by the character of its personnel, is undermining the confidence of wrongdoers, and bringing about the downfall of evil.

(Continued on Page 11)

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

(Continued from page 10.)

BIBLES SHOW MUCH USE.

Bibles are being literally "read to pieces" by the inhabitants of the Armenian republic, according to a report made to the American Bible Society, Astor Place, New York City.

Owing to governmental restrictions against the importation of Scriptures, the Armenians have been unable to secure any new Bibles for more than five years. The present supply is almost exhausted. An attempt to send Bibles from the outside would only "result in a bonfire," declares the society's correspondent.

The American Bible Society has tried repeatedly to send Scriptures to these Christian people, but in each case the attempt has been defeated by the strong opposition of the government. The Soviet government has recently given permission to have the Bible printed and circulated in Russia in the Russian language. This permission does not benefit the people who know only Armenian.

The society has been the only source of supply for Scriptures in the modern Armenian language, as it owns the plates from which these Scriptures are printed at the American Press, Beirut, Syria. The Armenian people were among the first nations of Europe to accept Christianity as their national religion and its sacred book in the face of the most bitter and relentless persecution.

AIR SCHOOL OF THE BIBLE.

A new departure in religious education will be undertaken by the Philadelphia School of the Bible, which yesterday commenced the enrollment of students in the Air School of the Bible. The first lecture will be broadcast from station WRAX, Philadelphia, over a 268-meter wave-length, at 8:45 P. M., October 7th, by Dean William L. Pettingill.

The course of lectures on biblical subjects will be continued every Thursday evening for ten months. Registered students will be given written examinations periodically and will be credited for the work accomplished. The announcement of the innovation states that Dean Pettingill, who is a noted biblical authority, will describe and interpret the numerous colorful episodes of the Bible, and that the program will also include vocal and instrumental music.

The Philadelphia Bible School was founded in 1914 by Dr. C. I. Scofield. It is an interdenominational institution for the free training of young men and women for the ministry. Station WRAX has been established by Rev. O. R. Palmer, pastor of Berechah Gospel Church, Philadelphia.

Moslem women are not allowed to marry Christians by the terms of a modified form of the Swiss civil code now before the Turkish national assembly for ratification. The law which prohibits polygamy and divorce by the whim of husbands, declares null marriages contracted with Christians.

A Great Background Book

LANDMARKS in the STRUGGLE BETWEEN SCIENCE and RELIGION

by Professor J. Y. Simpson, M.A.,
D.Sc., F.R.S.E.

J This book sets the present day controversy in its right historical setting. It is a survey of an age-long contest between truth and superstition. It makes religion as well as science a living, dynamic thing.

$2.00

DORAN BOOKS

TWENTY years ago Professor David Smith wrote "In The Days of His Flesh." For twenty years it has headed the list of books on Christ.

Now he has written :

OUR LORD'S EARTHLY LIFE

ANOTHER rich tribute to the Lord he loves. Characterized by mature scholarship and a marked humanist strain, this book has instantly gripped the hearts of readers.

$3.00

DORAN BOOKS

The Famous
Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly, because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5¼x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th
of trouble: I will deliver thee
thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35
(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)
Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.
(Weight 18 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jē-hōi'-ā-kīm gave th
silver and the gold to Phār'-aōh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and hook-mark..... 5.50
(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and hookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style
at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

SPIRITUAL WEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

"All things are yours."—1 Cor. 3:18-23.

Christians ought to be the happiest and healthiest people on earth. One has only to go into non-Christian lands or even in non-Christian conditions to realize this.

Christ had no where to lay His head, and yet no man so enjoyed his life. Paul had nothing but misery, yet he counted it all joy to preach the gospel and help others to be happy.

Think of the contentment there is in a trust in a Supreme Being who will not fail in working all things out well. Think of the riches in Christian brotherhood where the carpenter helps the blacksmith and all help one another. Think of the satisfaction there is in a wisdom that supercedes that of the world and leads us in ways the end of which is peace and pleasantness. Think of heavenly guidance in all things. These are some of the riches of being a Christian.

Prayer.—Our Father, guide us into Thy ways. Enrich our poor souls. Fill us with Thy spirit. Establish us among men in Thy love. In Christ's name. Amen.

TUESDAY.

A TRAGIC FACT.

"I have power."—Jno. 18:33-38.

This fact is our undoing just as it was Pilate's. He said to Jesus, "I have power to crucify Thee." The tragedy of it was that it was true! And it is true today. We have power. People are crucifying Jesus today and putting Him to an open shame by their pleasure-loving, worldly minded lives. Some may say, "I have power to do as I please; why should I be subservient to the Church and religion? Why should I commit myself to the claims of Christ, or Church membership or service?" Yes, they have power to do as they please, and have no moral enthusiasm, no high ideals challenging them to service, no moral force or conviction, or courage. Let us make a self-examination and let it not be us.

Prayer.—Our Father, may we see ourselves as Thou dost see us, and turn our power to the good of God and countrymen. Forbid that we shall spend our lives in dissipation and crime, but in love and service. This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

A LIFE RELIGION.

"I am the way, the truth, and the life."—John 14:6-15.

Christianity is often called a "love religion." It would be even more appropriate to call it a "life religion." Our Lord was always talking about life. He says of His friends: "I came that they may have life, and may have it abundantly." If there is one thing which characterizes the teachings of Jesus Christ it is life. Because of this confidence, the Christian looks forward to a better world beyond the gateway of death.

John Ruskin at times became very melancholy in his later life. He said: "My own feeling now is that everything that has been done by me, whether well or ill, has been fitting me to do better work more thoroughly. And just when I seem to be coming out of school, and expecting to enter some more serious business, I am dismissed by the Master I hoped to serve, with a 'That's all I want of you, sir.'" The first part of this testimony is true.

A far better thought of death occurs in a dialogue between two soldiers who were talking about the death of a comrade. One said:

"There's another poor fellow got his discharge."

"Not that!" said the other.

"Well, if not that, I would like to know what it is."

"Only transferred."

"Transferred where?"

"To the other department."

"What for?"

"For duty."

"What duty?"

"Don't know. That depends on what he is fitted for."

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

THURSDAY.

OUR THANK LANGUAGE.

"Now, therefore, our God, we thank Thee and praise Thy glorious name."—1 Chron. 29:13-17.

A man once gave thanks at his table this way: "O Lord, we thank Thee that Thou art mindful of us. And, Lord, we thank Thee that there are others who are mindful of us, too. Bless this good dinner. Amen."

Another was heard to say, "Heavenly Father, we thank Thee that what we have got is still lasting."

Another said: "Thank Thee, Lord, and bless the cook for dese heah victuals we have took."

Those present had a strain to maintain the proper decorum. Some left and had their laugh cut. But these blessings were good ones, notwithstanding that they were unconventional. Why have a set grace for the table all the time? Why not study to know what we are thankful for and have a different expression every time? Every meal, then, becomes an opportunity for expression.

Prayer.—Lord, Thou triest our hearts, and Thou hast pleasure in uprightness and truth. We ask that love and gratitude may abound in our hearts and we may have a fresh heart for Thee every day. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY.

SELF-MADE OR GOD-MADE?

"We are his workmanship."—Eph. 2:4-10.

Often we hear the boast that a certain person is a self-made man. That he is what he is by the sheer power of personality, will and determination, and that what they have accomplished has been by their own energy.

First, the Bible says we are what we are by the power, grace and goodness of God. "It is He who hath made us and not we ourselves"; and it is only as we give ourselves to the divine and directive will of God that we can attain the highest heights of character. Our boast should always be in God. It is thus His children "grow lovely in His sight." It is better to be God-made than self-made.

Prayer.—Our Father, turn our thoughts daily to Thee and cause us to know always that Thou art the author of our souls and the finisher of our character as well as our faith. Grant unto us Thy likeness. In Jesus' name we ask it. Amen.

SATURDAY.

THE FAITH THAT GIVES POWER.

"Add to your faith . . . temperance . . . patience . . . godliness."—2 Peter 1:2-8.

The man or woman without self-control lacks the first element of a well-ordered life. Lack of self-control has led to a great deal of the world's sin and misery. How many lives of poets, authors, statesmen and soldiers have revealed a lack of self-control that has vitiated their great influence and limited their power of usefulness! If we are to live well, we must add to our Christian faith the virtue of self-control.

Let it be assumed that we realize the worth of this virtue, but we find it hard to attain it. There is this or that, a tempter, a passion that runs away with our better nature. What about it? How are we to attain self-control? There are subsidiary elements that help. First, we must know ourselves, look our weakness in the face and set out to conquer them. Concentration of purpose means much, as Paul knew when he said, "This one thing I do." Make a habit of right practice, and fortify the soul by steady endeavor. Control yourself in a small thing and build up the power for greater occasions.

These are hints meant to be helpful, but the one only effective help to self-control is Christ control. Learn of Him, submit your minds and hearts to Him, and He will give you that which you lack.

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

SUNDAY.

"IF I HAD A FRIEND."

"Behold . . . a friend of publicans and sinners."—Matt. 11:16-19.

The other day a friend was visiting me. The conversation turned to religion. We were talking of the buttresses to faith—those things that helped us all to deeper faith in God. We all gave our opinions and then my friend spoke: "If I had a friend whose face was so radiant, whose life was so beautiful, whose character was so noble that every time I looked at him I saw incarnated beauty, goodness, truth and love, that would help me tremendously on my road toward God!"

It so happens that the very friend who spoke those significant words is just the one who is doing that for me. He is giving me, by the inspiration of his wonderful life of love and selflessness, a more glorious glimpse of, not only God's existence, but what God must mostly be like!

Oh, if every soul upon this earth only had a friend like mine, through whom they found their faith strengthened and uplifted! Some people make it very hard to believe in God. Their sins, their selfishness, their fear, their worry, their hatefulness—all these discourage us, bewilder us, break down our confidence in men and God. We prize the undying influence of an honorable personality. We see there goodness as the outcome of faith. That strengthens our faith. That blesses us with hope and anticipation and courage!

"If I had a friend—" how many young people today are saying that? "If I only had some good friend who was proving God in victorious living, that would make a good life and a strong faith so much easier!" Responsibility comes home to each of us. Others' faith may depend upon our life. What will we do to make faith easier for others?

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

It always makes us happy to reach our goal. It makes one put more energy and more effort in a thing we are trying to accomplish. It has always been our custom, especially since in this work, to set goals. One day this week we dug our sweet potatoes and we had to keep the boys out of school to help. We had quite a patch to go over, and we did not want to keep the boys out of school but one day. We started one afternoon and hauled in forty bushels, and next morning we set our goal to finish the job that day. We started out early in the morning, and when the sun had hidden behind the western horizon and the shades of evening had begun to settle so that we could hardly see, we dug the last row and loaded them on the wagon. Every boy was faithful and stuck to the job till the last potato was on the wagon. And when we counted up the loads we found we had gathered in that day 260 bushels, making a total of 300 bushels for our crop. We reached our goal and everybody was happy.

The first of the year we set our goal for the income this year at $30,000. We calculated that we would reach $20,000 by November 1st. Our financial report this week shows that we have reached and passed the $20,000 mark. And we are grateful indeed. Our good friend, C. V. Sellars, mailed us his check for $250 to pay his pledge to the new building fund in full and to help push us across the goal we were trying to reach. It's fine to have friends to push you just when you need a push and help to reach a desired goal.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR OCTOBER 28, 1926. Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

Brought forward	$19,883.56
N. C. & Va. Conference:
Ingram	$ 3.00
Bethlehem	5.94
Hines Chapel	5.00
Third Avenue Church, Danville.....	6.45
	20.39
Eastern N. C. Conference:
Christian Light	$ 4.85
Wake Chapel	10.62
Christian Chapel	4.27
Pleasant Union	8.00
Liberty (Vance)	10.72
	38.46
Western N. C. Conference:
Burlington	$59.09
Liberty	2.13
	61.22
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Antioch	$ 5.68
Berea (Nansemond)	10.00
Suffolk	25.00
	40.68
Valley Virginia Conference:
Winchester	3.51
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
North Highland	1.78
Alabama Conference:
Wadley	2.00
Special Offerings.
A. M. Allred, support of children..	$25.00
E. M. Davenport, support children.	50.20
Boone Bible Class	15.00
	90.20

New Building Fund.

Second Bible Class, Holy Neck.....	$20.00
Live Wire Class, Mt. Auburn.....	4.50

C. W. McPherson	5.00
D. L. Mann	10.00
Mrs. Mollie Ausley	5.00
C. V. Sellars	250.00
C. M. Walters	10.00
Mrs. Thyra Swint	1.00
	305.50
Thanksgiving Offering.
Mrs. J. L. Barksdale	3.40
	308.90
Grand total	$20,460.70

"It is God's law. Remember it
In your still chamber as you sit
With thoughts you would not dare have known,
And yet make comrades when alone

"These thoughts have life, and they will fly
And leave their impress bye and bye
Like some marsh breeze, whose poisoned breath
Breathes into homes its fevered breath.

"And after you have quite forgot
Or all outgrown some vanished thought
Back to your mind to make its home,
A dove or raven, it will come.

"Then let your thoughts be sweet, be fair,
They have a vital part and share
In shaping worlds and moulding fate—
God's system is so intricate."

(Continued from Page 5.)

the newer generation. One does not need to cite instances, for they are among the most common items in the records of the Church. But the incredible thing is that after all of these humiliating experiences of the Church's past, so many of the devout followers of Jesus Christ in our own day have not yet learned that Christianity is not a static thing and cannot be fixed and confined to the limits of any past generation—whether that generation be one a thousand years ago or the one that is just slipping away into eternity. One of the greatest, most deadening unbeliefs in the Church ever has been the fear that God would let His people get away from Him and run riot in infidelity of mind and life if they were not closely tethered with ancient forms and shibboleths, and that the Spirit of Truth has ceased to come or else ceased to be competent to guide the followers of Jesus Christ into the truth of enlarging knowledge or into those ways of righteousness which will the better express His spirit of love and mercy in our new industrialism and commercialism and internationalism than can the obsolete standards and ethics which our fathers worked out for the life of their own day.

NOTICE.

To Delegates to the Eastern North Carolina
Christian Conference.

The Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference will be held at the Oak Level Christian Church, near Youngsville, N. C., beginning November 23, 1926, 10 o'clock a. m. All delegates are urged to attend, and to notify Brother J. W. Hudson, Secretary of Oak Level Church, Youngsville, N. C., at once of their intention and time of arrival.

H. C. CAVINESS,

President Eastern N. C. Christian Conference.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To All Pastors and Churches of the Eastern Virginia Conference:

All pastors, delegates and visitors are urged to send, not later than October 15th, to the pastor of the Webster Community Christian Church, the

Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe, Havre de Grace, Md., their names, when they expect to arrive at the Conference Church, and if they are traveling by automobile or train. The Committee on Entertainment cannot properly provide for you unless you help them with this information. Please send it to us at once.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses	$7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses	6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses	6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim.....	1.60
No. 2—Broad rim	1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses	$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85	11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85...	16.00

(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling).	$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....	9.00
No. 4—Broad rim	9.00
Filler—Silver lined	6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St.

Richmond Va.

OBITUARIES.

BLAND.

On October 2, 1926, at his home, in Sauford, N. C., Brother Thomas J. Bland was released from the pain and affliction of this life by death.

Brother Bland was born near Pittsboro, N. C., August 2, 1849, where he spent the greater part of his life. He moved to Sanford, N. C., December 20, 1902, where he was living when the summons came.

Brother Bland was a Christian of the highest type, having accepted Jesus Christ as his Saviour in the early days of his life; he built his life wholly upon that foundation. He was a useful and influential citizen, having obtained through an unwavering faith in Jesus the qualities that begets true citizenship; he never shirked a duty to his God, his family, his friends, or his country.

He was a loyal member of Hanks Chapel Christian Church and expressed his love for his Church in a Christ-like way through the avenue of unselfish service.

Brother Bland was the only son of his parents, John and Betsy Bland, and, according to the records, his father, John Bland, gave the first money donation for the building of Elon College.

In his dying hour he expressed his unshaken faith in God, and his great love for his Church and humanity by sending to them from the very midst of the shadows of death an invitation to meet him in heaven.

He is survived by his widow and three children—Chas. A. Bland, of Wadesboro, N. C., and Misses Rose and Daisy Bland, of Sauford. The funeral services were conducted from Hanks Chapel Christian Church by his pastor, Rev. J. Fuller Johnson, assisted by Rev. G. E. Underwood, a former pastor, with interment in the Church cemetery.

The floral designs were many and beautiful, and the friends who were present to pay the last tribute of respect to the memory of him who had endeared himself to their hearts were many and heart-broken.

May God's richest blessings rest upon the bereaved wife and children, and may we all heed his last invitation and, through Jesus Christ our Lord, when life's battles are over, meet him in heaven.

J. FULLER JOHNSON.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas our heavenly Father, in His almighty wisdom, has removed from our midst Deacon R. H. Rollings of Barretts Christian Church, and whereas in his death the church has lost one of its most faithful members and deacons, and his children a devoted father,

Therefore, Be it resolved:

First, That we bow in humble submission to the will of our heavenly Father who doeth all things well.

Second, That such a life from our midst leaves a vacancy and shadow that will be deeply realized by those whom he has loved and helped.

Third, That with deepest sympathy to the bereaved family, we commend them to the Lord, who will comfort and heal their wounded hearts, and when the summons comes may they all meet in an unbroken circle around God's throne.

Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy be spread on the minutes of the church, and a copy be sent to The Christian Sun for publication.

W. G. ROLLINGS,
R. C. HINES,
J. F. WELLONS,
Committee.

SIMMONS—TATE.

On the afternoon of October 9, 1926, Mr. Ottis Simmons and Miss Bessie Tate, of Caswell County, motored to our home, Elon College, accompanied by a few intimate friends, and were married. Immediately following the ceremony they left for the home of the bridegroom's father. They are popular young people of their community. Their many friends will wish for them health and happiness.

They will make their home in Burlington, N. C., where Mr. Simmons has recently accepted a position. May a long, peaceful and happy life be theirs.

L. L. WYRICK.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E
CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings. (Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE MOFFITT WHITESELL, Editor.

Dears:

The flowers are going to sleep every day now, waiting for that warm blanket of pretty leaves to cover them up, head and ears. It will be next spring before we see their faces again.

Here's a lovely story about a wee tree that sang a song— Come running, Kiddies; see the school children marching out! Oh, oh! it's a fire drill, I just know. How quickly they all are getting out! and right in line, too! Fine! fine!

Everybody's laughing now. Soon, soon it's Hallowe'en. Don't forget to have a party—and listen dears: Should you want a game, send an addressed, stamped envelope to me and I will send you some games for your party, address Mrs. John Whitesell, Ramseur, N. C.

Away we run! What fun!

YOUR EDITOR.

THE TREE THAT SANG.

By Carolyn Sherwin Bailey.

Timothy Todd had heard that there was to be a May party in the village, but he had not been asked to attend it.

"Why should I be?" he asked himself. "We have been at The Lodge only a week, and I haven't had a chance to go to the village school yet? But I would like to see the Maypole and the queen."

Timothy was sure that he was going to enjoy living at The Lodge. His grandfather was to have charge of the lawn and garden and the orchard that sloped down from the big house to the water. It was so large a place that Timothy had not been able to explore it all yet.

"I'll get acquainted with the grounds and the barns and the birds first," decided the boy. "Maybe the boy on this place would be too proud to speak to The Lodge boy."

There was one spot on the grounds that Timothy liked better than any other—a part of the orchard with gnarled old apple and pear trees.

"There ought to be a dryad living here," Timothy told himself. He stood under a great pear tree, trying to look up into its green boughs, but the branches were so crooked and the blooms so thick that he could not see. Timothy did not know that he had spoken aloud, but suddenly the tree began to sing in a sweet, clear voice:

"I once had a sweet little doll, dears—

The prettiest doll in the world.

Her cheeks were so pink and so white, dears,

And her hair was so beautifully curled.

But I lost my sweet little doll, dears,

As I played in the fields one day."

Then the tree stopped singing and laughed merrily. Timothy was surprised. No doubt about it; there was a dryad in this old part of the orchard. "I don't like the idea of being alone here, for she might turn me into an old stump," thought the boy, "but I might look about a bit and see if I can find a lost doll."

May Eve was his first chance, for grandmother had needed kindling wood cut, and there was grass to be raked for grandfather. But toward twilight he started out to look for the dryad's doll. Up and down the garden and through the new and the old orchard Timothy went. After a while he did come upon a doll, exactly the kind of doll a dryad would have if she took time from her tree tending to play. It was a wee little French doll with pink cheeks and yellow curls.

"She's probably gone to the party in the village," the boy told himself. "She's gone to hide herself in the Maypole so as to be there bright and early tomorrow morning." Then Timothy laughed at himself, for he knew this could not be true. He did wonder, though, about the singing tree. Because he wondered so, Timothy went down to the old pear tree the morning of May Day. When he came to that lonely part of the orchard, he heard the tree singing again: "I found my sweet little doll, dears—"

As Timothy came near, he discovered that the doll was gone. He discovered something else, too—a pair of sandals dangling down from a branch, and there was a squeal from the dryad. The dryad had caught herself on the way down and was about to have a tumble.

"Jump!" shouted Timothy bravely. "Jump, and I'll catch you. I'm here, just below."

There was nothing for the dryad to do but jump. Down she came safely and stood, laughing into Timothy's face, a girl, but apparently a good comrade.

"You must have found Angeline!" she said. "You must be the new boy at The Lodge. Come up to my tree house. It's all fixed with streamers and flowers and a lunch for May Day."

Why prosperity?

IT is a fact of history that the famous nations of the past have made their greatest contributions to civilization only after the attainment of prosperity or economic health.

For what are the benefits of national prosperity but the betterment of public health, the improvement of all forms of education, and the growth of those cultural influences which make life richer for all?

The prosperity of the South is today an accomplished fact, and, in the light of history, its promise for the future of the South is great.

The prosperity of southern communities is definitely bound up with the prosperity of the southern railroads. The Southern Railway System regards its present good credit and earning power as an opportunity to assist in the preservation of the general welfare of the South in the years that lie ahead.

Only a prosperous railroad can render the transportation service needed by the people of a prosperous country.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religions Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELPFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates

- One Year $ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to "Editor Christian Sun," Elon College, N. C.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obitnary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

SHULAR.

Mr. John Shular was born March 20, 1833, and died October 9, 1926, his age being 94 years, 6 months and 9 days. He came from Snrry County about thirteen years ago and had made his home in Rockingham County since. He had lived in the community of Happy Home about three years.

Brother Shular professed Christ as his Saviour early in life and joined the Quaker Church. Some years afterwards he became indifferent to the Church, but he renewed his covenant with the Lord and lived consistent to the end. He joined Happy Home about two years ago, which Church he attended as long as he was able to be away from home. He cherished and loved the Church and Christian people until he went away. His admonition was that every one might come to Jesus, and his favorite song, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus!" He was blind physically, but spiritually he could see.

He leaves to await their coming: three children, R. L. and J. A. Shular and Mrs. Reynolds; also eighteen grandchildren, 92 great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren.

Interment of his body was made in the Church cemetery. May the Lord comfort the bereaved.

L. L. WYRICK.

HOLLAND.

Whereas, our Heavenly Father, in His infinite love and mercy, called our beloved friend and co-worker, Mrs. Mollie A. Holland, from a consecrated life of faithful service on earth to the enjoyment of her eternal home, the memory of her life will linger with us. She loved her Christ, her Church, and was ever ready and willing to help in all Church activities. Therefore, be it resolved:

1. That in the death of Mrs. Holland, the Ladies' Aid and Missionary Societies of the Bethlehem Christian Church have lost noe of its most faithful and loyal members.

2. That we extend to her children and loved ones our heartfelt sympathy and commend them to our Saviour, who is abndantly able to comfort them in their sorrow.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy be spread upon the minntes of our societies, and a copy to The Christian Sun for publication.

MRS. J. W. FOLK.

MRS. ISAAC PILAND.

MRS. H. T. TAYLOR.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04103 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00
0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING

At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria

Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a snfficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address

THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type
27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter.
5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.
Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.
Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearst Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.
AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes
2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $8.50

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.
139L. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $8.50

153LPL. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer
2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

SOCIETY. 1956.
Convention of Congregational Christian Churches.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1926.

NUMBER 44.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Friends Found School.—

At Moscow, the Society of Friends has undertaken to establish a training school for nurses. It has been reported that Miss Anna Haines, who is in charge of the project, has received assurance of co-operation from the Soviet government.

Urbana.—

Reports are encouraging concerning the proceedings of the General Convention. It is well attended, representative of the whole Christian Church, the addresses are splendid, and a fine spirit pervades the whole. A full report of the Convention will appear on this page next week.

Divinity Students at Chicago.—

A notable thing was done at the University of Chicago during the past summer in the inauguration of regular university work during summer months. This made a particular appeal to teachers and ministers. There were enrolled for the divinity courses 412 students and 872 in the college of education. The total number of students in all departments for the summer was 6,548.

Poland Admires Us.—

Last week the President of the United States was the recipient of 100 volumes and a gold medal from Poland. Within the magnificent volumes was a testimonial signed by five millions of the Poles, expressing their admiration and good will for the people of the United States. The document also contained the announcement that the Fourth of July had been proclaimed a holiday in Poland. We are glad for such expressions of international friendship as this. Every advance in mutual good will and understanding brings the kingdom of peace one step nearer.

Long Family Pastorate.—

Dr. Andrew Broadus, III, pastor of the Salem Baptist Church near Sparta, Va., died recently, ending a pastorate held for 106 years by a man of the same name. The original Andrew Broadus was called as pastor in 1820, a service which he filled acceptably and well. At his death he was succeeded by his son, Andrew Broadus, II, who, after a long and successful pastorate, died, and was in turn succeeded by his son, Andrew Broadus, III. These three men were remarkable examples of culture and consecration, who saw an opportunity for high service in a rural field. They succeeded well. Under the ministry of the last, the Church gave twice as much to missions and benevolences as it spent on the local work.

Prohibition and the Negro.—

Wiley College, at Marshall, Texas, is establishing a foundation for the study of the effects of prohibition on the negro. The Christian Advocate has this to say on this work: "Negro college men and women are to be educated in the facts as to the progress the negro has made during prohibition times and to promote among them leaders for the cause, not only in Wiley, but in all negro colleges. Wiley College was the negro institution whose student body, twenty years ago, led by President Dogan, helped to make Marshall, Texas, a local option city by going among the negro population and securing their vote. Dr. I. Garland Penn, Cincinnati, Ohio, one of the secretaries of the department of educational institutions for negroes of the board of education, and President M. W. Dogan, of Wiley College, are the promoters of the foundation."

The Evil of Loose Talk.—

Senator Underwood, of Alabama, recently returned from Europe with the report that he found strong underlying sentiment against the United States on his recent trip abroad, he said recently, on his return to the capital.

The European feels, he said, that the wealth of the United States was made out of the war and that this country did not do its part in the war. Any consideration now for the cancellation of the debt, he said, would appear as though the United States were pleading guilty to such an indictment.

Much of the feeling against this country could be traced to loose talk by American travelers as to what this country would or would not do, Mr. Underwood said.

Loose talk and irresponsible talk, we do not know of greater mischief-makers than these. They ruin families, blight Churches, blast reputations, break hearts, estrange nations. It is by no means unthinkable that they bring on war.

Labor.—

The American Federation of Labor closed its forty-sixth annual convention with almost unanimous pronouncements of policy. Vice-President Matthew Woll reported on injunctions, in which he said, in part: "Government by injunction must cease if government by law is to function unchallenged. The way equity courts have used injunctions in industrial disputes has created in the minds of wage-earners a general distrust of our courts. Equity courts are without authority, constitutional or statutory, to interfere with or infringe upon government by law." His report was adopted unanimously.

Anent Communism, the A. F. of L. resolved that the Soviet regime in Russia is "the most unscrupulous, most anti-social, most menacing institution in the world today." They denounced and deplored Italian Fascism, ordered an investigation of the Mexican Federation of Labor, and threatened to sever their relations with the Mexican organization unless that body promptly "clears its skirts," and among other quite important decisions voted to give systematic relief to the Passaic strikers.

Jews Have Financial Trials.—

The chairman of the executive board describes the present situation of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations as a financial crisis. The proposed budget of $600,000 presented to the last meeting of the executive committee had to be reduced to $500,000. In order to answer the numerous urgent calls for assistance and relief for Jews abroad, the neglect of providing support for Jewish activities in America, such as the Hebrew Union College, has been inevitable.

During the London conference, just closed, great interest was shown by non-Zionists as well as by Zionists in such matters as the economic problems in connection with the rebuilding of Palestine as the Jewish national home. The Jewish population of that country has increased from 50,000 to 150,000. Recently a plan was announced for the settlement of 200,000 Jewish families in the Crimea on land which the Soviet government has decided to set apart for that purpose.

Cotton.—

From the viewpoint of the planter, this has been too good a year for the growing of cotton. There are now 47,207,000 acres to be harvested, and each acre is yielding an average of 168.4 pounds of lint cotton. Last year the yield per acre was 167.2 pounds. The crop is estimated to be 16,627,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight each. The price has fallen below 14 cents a pound, and the situation is naturally causing widespread anxiety.

President Coolidge appointed a commission, whose duties it shall be to determine to what extent the cotton-consuming European countries may be induced to make long-term purchases; to urge the domestic spinning industry to do so as a matter of self-protection, and to check panicky sales; to encourage Southern bankers to support relief steps and to increase co-operation of Federal farm credit agencies; to restrict cotton acreage next year. The farm Labor Board will give $30,000,000 credit to co-operative market associations.

Secretary Jardine wrote to President Edward A. O'Neal, of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation: ". . . The basic economic conditions of the country are sound, and cotton producers must soon realize that the intrinsic value of this crop has not changed in the last few weeks. . . . We have the necessary facilities for storing the crop for months, or, if need be, for years, and ample credit to carry it. Cotton in storage is probably the soundest basis for credit that we know. It is my earnest hope that the present stampede may be checked while the major part of the crop remains in the hands of the farmers."

NOTES-PERSONALS

Bethel Church, Virginia Valley Central Conference, adopted the increased Southern Convention apportionment by a unanimous vote, and also accepted the goal set by the Budget Commission. Steps were taken and members secured for a Woman's Missionary Society.

This is the busy Conference season. The Eastern Virginia Conference is in session this week with Webster Community Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md. The editor of THE SUN is endeavoring to attend each of the Conferences, and any who wish to renew their subscription can get a receipt from him.

We hope to have each week a "Department of Tithing," and think the same will be helpful to SUN readers and will be appreciated. One of our fine young laymen, Bro. C. J. Strickland, of our Mt. Gilead Church, in Franklin County, but who now resides in Charlotte, N. C., is to furnish the copy and be editor of this department.

The following will be of interest to many SUN readers, the happy groom being of our Catawba Springs Church, in Walke County, N. C., and a former student in Elon College: "Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. George announce the marriage of their daughter, Ruth Titus, to Mr. William Carson Franks, on Thursday, October 14, 1926. Sarasota, Fla. At home, 3006 Harbor View, Tampa, Fla."

If we Christians really care anything for our history and wish to put some of it in permanent form so that the ages to come will read it, we will certainly make our contributions now to the Old Lebanon and O'Kelly Memorials. All money for this purpose should be sent to the Editor of THE SUN, Elon College, N. C., who is treasurer of the Committee on Memorials, and the same will be duly acknowledged from week to week until the amount necessary ($2,075) shall have been received.

Our good friend and brother, Rev. B. F. Vaughan, Centerville, Ohio, has put CHRISTIAN SUN readers under obligations for his fine historical contribution printed elsewhere. THE SUN tries to present its readers with such historical data and information because the fact is apparent to all that we as a people have been indifferent to our history, and there is a growing sentiment amongst us and an increasing desire that our historical records and documents should be preserved. Brother Vaughan is secretary-emeritus of the Miami-Ohio Christian Conference, and is a writer of note and prominence.

Dr. P. H. Fleming delivered an address before the North Carolina and Virginia Conference November 10, 1925, which was so much appreciated by the Conference that it was ordered published in pamphlet form and funds were collected to pay for same. This address is now published and bears the title, "Disciples Called Christians." They are for free distribution. Any one desiring a copy can secure the same by addressing Dr. P. H. Fleming, Burlington, N. C., or Editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, Elon College, N. C. Stamps should be enclosed with request to pay postage. It is a booklet of sixteen pages besides the cover, and is printed in good type and should have wide reading.

Liberty (Vance) Church, Henderson, N. C., celebrated and enjoyed a home-coming and missionary rally Sunday, October 31st. The pastor, H. E. Crutchfield, reports a great, good day and a very large congregation. Rev. C. E. Newman, a much-beloved ex-pastor, was present and preached at the morning hour, and Rev. J. E. Franks, another beloved ex-pastor, was present and made a short, but very acceptable talk. Rev. H. C. Caviness, President of the Eastern North Carolina Conference, and held in great esteem by the Liberty people, preached in the afternoon. Two Baptist ministers were also present and gave brief addresses. One charter member only, namely: Mrs. Elizabeth T. Ayscue, was present. The pastor read the Church history, which showed that the Church was organized in 1859 with fifty-seven members. It now has a membership of 369. One of the very faithful pastors in the early history of the Church was our venerable Rev. J. W. Wellons, who still has many admiring friends in the congregation.

NOTICE.

Delegates and ministers of the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference, which is to meet at New Lebanon Christian Church November 16, 1926, Rockingham County, N. C., who are coming by train to Reidsville, will please notify Bro. Garrett Sharpe, secretary of the Church, Wentworth, N. C., Route 1, of the time of their arrival, so they can be met. Those coming by their own conveyance either from Greensboro or Reidsville, will take North Carolina State highway to Mr. George Ross', twelve miles west of Reidsville, and the road north from there to the Church.

J. W. KNIGHT.

PROGRAM OF NORTH CAROLINA AND VIRGINIA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Following is the program of the one hundred and first annual session of the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference, to be held at New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., November 16, 17, 18, 1926:

First Day—Morning Session.

- 10:30 Conference Called to Order by the President, Dr. C. H. Rowland.
- Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. R. A. Whitten.
- 10:45 Roll Call of Ministers and Churches.
- Enrollment of Delegates.
- 11:00 Welcome Address, Mr. W. T. Moore.
- Response, Rev. T. F. Wright.
- 11:20 Report of Program Committee.
- Report of Executive Committee.
- Report of Treasurer H. C. Simpson.
- Announcement of Special Committees.
- Reception of Visitors.
- 11:45 Annual Address of the President, Dr. C. H. Rowland.
- 12:30 Adjournment for Dinner.

First Day—Afternoon Session.

- 2:00 Conference Called to Order.
- Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. J. S. Carden.
- 2:15 Report of Committee on Religious Literature, Rev. J. W. Patton, Chairman.
- Address, Rev. J. W. Patton.
- 2:45 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 3:00 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions, Rev. P. T. Klapp, Chairman.
- Address, Rev. P. T. Klapp.
- 3:45 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 4:00 Miscellaneous Business.
- Report of Entertainment Committee.
- 4:30 Adjournment.

First Day—Evening Session.

- 7:30 Praise Service.
- Sermon, Dr. J. U. Newman.
- Communion Service, administered by Dr. P. H. Fleming and Rev. P. T. Klapp.

Second Day—Morning Session.

- 9:30 Conference Called to Order.
- Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. L. L. Wyrick.
- 9:45 Reading of Minutes and Enrollment.
- 10:00 Report of Committee on Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor, Rev. T. F. Wright, Acting Chairman.
- Address, Rev. T. F. Wright.
- 10:30 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 11:00 Report of Budget Committee, Dr. W. A. Harper, Chairman.
- General Discussion, led by Dr. W. A. Harper.
- Vote on Report.
- Miscellaneous Business.
- 12:30 Adjournment for Dinner.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.

- 2:00 Conference Called to Order.
- Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. M. F. Allen.
- 2:15 Report of Committee on Home Missions, Rev. J. A. Ledbetter, Acting Chairman.
- Address, "Organizing the Home Base," Rev. Stanley C. Harrell.
- Address, "Spiritualizing the Home Base," Dr. P. H. Fleming.
- 3:00 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 3:15 Report of Committee on Education, Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Chairman.
- Address, Dr. W. A. Harper.
- 3:45 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 4:00 Report of Committee on Stewardship, Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Chairman.
- Address, Mrs. C. H. Rowland.
- General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 4:45 Adjournment.

Second Day—Evening Program.

- 7:30 Worship Service.
- Sermon, Rev. H. E. Crutchfield.

Third Day—Morning Session.

- 9:30 Conference Called to Order.
- Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. J. F. Apple.
- 9:45 Reading of Minutes, and of Pastoral and Church Letters.
- 10:15 Report of Committee on Superannuation, Mr. C. D. Johnston, Chairman.
- General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 10:45 "The Christian Orphanage," Superintendent Chas. D. Johnston.
- 11:15 Report of Committee on Moral Reform, Dr. W. S. Alexander, Chairman.
- Address, Dr. W. S. Alexander.
- 11:40 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 12:00 Miscellaneous Business.
- Report of Collectors.
- Report of Auditors.
- Report of all other Special Committees.
- Closing Service (to be arranged).
- Final Adjournment.

Program Committee:

STANLEY C. HARRELL.
C. H. ROWLAND.

Christ had in mind a fellowship for the regeneration of a fallen world. This the Church should develop and live for.—A. J. Fletcher.

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
 Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
 W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
 J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love hinds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

In THE SUN of last week something was told of the initial meetings of the Convention. At this writing the Convention has closed, and it is in order that much more be told. However, one cannot tell even the proceedings, much less the meaning and the measure of such a gathering. In introducing to the Convention Rev. Samuel M. Zwemer, Cairo, Egypt, Dr. F. G. Coffin, President of the Convention, said that every theme and subject presented to the Convention had been discussed by outstanding experts of the world. Dr. Zwemer is himself a world figure, and is outstanding authority on the whole religion of Islam and the Moslem world with which the Mission Study Books have to do this year. Dr. Zwemer delivered a great address and won the hearts and esteem of the great body that heard him. The effects of his address will be abiding. Dr. Coffin, however, was not speaking of Dr. Zwemer only, for he had reference to other world figures and experts in their line. No addresses delivered before the Convention were more gripping and thrilling than those on "Evangelism" by Dr. Charles L. Goodell, of New York. Dr. Goodell was a great and successful evangelist while pastor of a famous New York Church, but since he has given all of his time and energy to the work of evangelism under the auspices of the Federal Council, he has inspired thousands with his evangelistic fervor and zeal. His first address before the Convention was on the "Evangelistic Emphasis." In this address he must have convinced all who heard him that unless the emphasis in all our preaching and methods was on evangelism a serious blunder would be made. Dr. Goodell believes in the saving power of the blood of Jesus Christ and that this world is to be redeemed through belief in a crucified and a resurrected Christ. The whole Convention was certainly impressed by the fervor, zeal and eloquence of this great man of God, and the preachers who heard him will be compelled in their future ministry to emphasize as they never have the note of evangelism or to ignore the outstanding fundamental fact in the teaching and life of our Lord. In his second address, Dr. Goodell chose as his theme "The Evangelism for Today," and showed in great and unmistakable terms that the evangelism of the past was not out of date, and had produced great results, and what the Churches need at present was to put in the forefront of their teaching, preaching and programs the evangelistic message.

Another outstanding figure in the Convention, and one who brought a message as an expert, was Mrs. D. Everette Waid, of the Council of Women for Home Missions, New York. Mrs. Waid has a charming personality, and spoke under the auspices of the Woman's Mission Board, on the topic, "Women and the American Conscience." It would be impossible in a brief sketch to give even a summary of this great address, but it carried weight and conviction to the minds and hearts of the great company who heard it.

Not a few present felt that one of the outstanding pronouncements of the Convention was that of Dr. Fred B. Smith, chairman World Alliance for International Friendship through Churches. Dr. Smith has been heard on many occasions and by many who were present, but his address before the Convention in the great auditorium of Illinois University on Sunday afternoon on the topic of "Christian Unity and World Brotherhood" surpassed all previous pronouncements by this great expert, and student of world brotherhood and the Convention was thrilled by his eloquence and the scope and the breadth of his point of view.

It was the regret of all present, and certainly that of Dr. S. Parkes Cadman himself, that he failed to reach the Convention, coming from New York to Urbana, Ohio, to which he was misdirected, instead of Urbana, Illinois, where the Convention was in session. Dr. Cadman is President of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, and made a sincere, earnest endeavor to reach the Convention. It was the misfortune of the Convention that there is an Urbana in Ohio as well as in Illinois. His presence at the last moment was supplied on the program by a wonderful address by President F. G. Coffin, of the Convention. Dr. Coffin has spoken before the Convention on previous occasions, but never with more eloquence and aptness than on this occasion. Other outstanding and notable sermons or addresses of a general type were those by Dr. Alva M. Kerr, editor of the Herald of Gospel Liberty, at the 11 o'clock service in the university auditorium Sunday, October 24th, and by Dr. L. E. Smith, Norfolk, Va., President of the Southern Christian Convention, in the same auditorium, at the evening hour, Dr. Kerr and Dr. Smith giving sermons of an unusually high order and inspired their great audiences with their gospel messages. It was indeed good to be there and to hear them.

It is impossible to tell, one by one, of all the great addresses and themes assigned, which themes were handled in a masterly manner by real students in their several departments. The Convention was inspirational, and the Churches back at home are bound to profit in the months and years to come by the addresses, the sermons, the counsels and the pronouncements of this great body of religious workers.

Among the features most likely to be of interest to CHRISTIAN SUN readers is the change in the office of General Secretary of the Convention. For many years Dr. J. F. Burnett has served as the efficient and capable Secretary until he has won a large place in the affections and esteem of the brotherhood everywhere. Because of failing health, Dr. Burnett felt compelled to relinquish his work as Secretary. It was a touching incident, and moved the Convention mightily when President Coffin, on behalf of individual members of the Convention, presented to Dr. Burnett a very sizeable check with which to purchase a suitable object to hang up in his room to remind him in the remaining years of his life of the esteem in which he is held by his brethren.

Rev. W. H. Denison, D. D., who had filled so well the office of Stewardship Secretary, was made General Secretary of the Convention. Dr. Denison is known as one of our most energetic and consecrated workers, and will certainly prove himself a worthy successor to the beloved Dr. Burnett.

Dr. Omer S. Thomas has resigned as Home Mission Secretary of the Convention and has reentered the pastorate. Bro. Thomas has served the Church well and with great fitness in this capacity for a period of twelve years. To this office the Convention elected Rev. A. W. Sparks, of Everett, Pa., a brother widely known because of his very successful work as field secretary of the Rays Hill and Pennsylvania Conference. These were the two changes that gave the Convention most concern.

In the Christian Publishing Association, Mr. H. E. Sims, of Piqua, Ohio, was elected President and Executive Secretary. For many years Judge O. W. Whitelock, of Huntington, Ind., has filled this position with great consecration and ability. It is doubtful if any official in the whole Church has labored with more zeal than has Judge Whitelock to build up a great department for the Church. He has carried the burden of a great business as well as anxiety for a great work in the Church for many, many years.

Judge Whitelock remains on the Board of Publications and will still give to the body the benefit of his rich experience and great wisdom, and is vice-president of the Board of Trustees. Bro. Sims is one of our most successful business men of Ohio and has served as a member of the board for some years. The Christian Publishing Association has developed into a great enterprise, and now has large assets which require the great skill and ability of big business minds.

As one begins to reflect on the details of the Convention a great cloud of witnesses arises and the features of the Convention will be told in the coming four years by the activities and efforts of those who have been entrusted with great tasks for the Church.

Dr. E. A. Watkins, pastor of Urbana Church, and his congregation labored with tireless effort to make everybody happy and comfortable. We have never attended a Convention in which there was such unanimity of business, of program and of plan, and one in which good fellowship and brotherly love prevailed more explicitly than in this. There was not an unpleasant incident or event in all the session to mar the wonderful feeling, brotherly love or to obstruct the great vision that the dear Christian Church seems not to be inspired with.

J. O. A.

THE MEANING OF HOME-COMING.

By DR. S. B. HALL,

Director of Secondary Education for the State of Virginia.

(Delivered at Berea Church, Norfolk County, Va., September 16, 1926.)

The home and its meaning—home! What does it mean? Is it merely a place of abode or a place to eat, sleep, and rest, or is it an institution which serves as the foundation of our civilization? The home is the great source of all the nations, and if a stream is to remain pure, its source must most certainly be pure. In this day of fad and fancy, when all things, even the most sacred institutions of society, are being called into question and all manner of sophistries are being put forth, it behooves all lovers of righteousness and morality to exert all their influence to keep the home pure and unstained. The finest and purest picture of what a real home is has been given to us by one of our own Southern writers, Henry Woodfin Grady. His language is as follows:

"A few days ago I stood on a hill in Washington. My heart thrilled as I looked on the towering marble of my country's capital, and a mist gathered in my eyes as, standing there, I thought of its tremendous significance and the powers there assembled, and the responsibilities there centered—its Presidents, its Congress, its courts, its gathered treasure, its army, its navy, and its sixty millions of citizens. It seemed to me the best and mightiest sight that the sun could find in its wheeling course—this majestic home of a republic that has taught the world its best lessons of liberty—and I felt that if wisdom, and justice, and honor abided therein, the world would stand indebted to this temple on which my eyes rested, and in which the ark of my covenant was lodged for its final uplifting and regeneration.

"A few days later I visited a country home. A modest, quiet house, sheltered by great trees and set in a circle of field and meadow, gracious with the promise of harvest—barns and cribs well filled, and the old smoke-house odorous with treasure—the fragrance of pink and hollyhock mingling with the aroma of garden and orchard, and resonant with the hum of bees and poultry's busy clucking; inside the house, thrift, comfort, and that cleanliness that is next to godliness—the restful beds, the open fireplace, the books and papers, and the old clock that had held its steadfast pace amid the frolic of weddings, that had welcomed in steady measure the newborn babes of the family, and kept company with the watchers of the sick bed, and had ticked the solemn requiem of the dead; and the well-worn Bible that, thumbed by fingers long since stilled, and blurred with tears of eyes long since closed, held the simple annals of the family, and the heart and conscience of the home. Outside stood the master, strong and wholesome and upright; wearing no man's collar; with no mortgage on his roof, and no lien on his ripening harvest; pitching his crops in his own wisdom, and selling them in his own time in his chosen market; master of his lands and master of himself. Nearby stood his aged father, happy in the heart and home of his son. And as they started to the house, the old man's hands rested on the young man's shoulder, touching it with the knighthood of the fourth commandment, and laying there the unspeakable blessing of an honored and grateful father. As they drew near the door, the old mother appeared; the sunset falling on her face, softening its wrinkles and its tenderness lighting up her patient eyes, and the rich music of her heart trembling on her lips, as in simple phrase she welcomed her husband and son to their home. Beyond was the good wife, true of touch and tender, happy amid her household cares, clean of heart and conscience, the helpmate and the buckler of her husband. And the children, strong and sturdy, trooping down the lane with the loving herd, or weary of simple sport, seeking, as truant birds do, the quiet of the old home nest. And I saw the night descend on that home, falling gently as from the wings of the unseen dove. And the stars swarmed in the bending skies—the trees thrilled with the cricket's cry, the restless bird called from the neighboring wood, and the father, a simple man of God, gathering the family about him, read from the Bible the old, old story of love and faith, and then went down in prayer, the baby hidden amid the folds of its mother's dress, and closed the record of that simple day by calling down the benediction of God on the family and the home!

"And as I gazed, the memory of the great Capital faded from my brain. Forgotten, its treasure and its splendor. And I said, 'Surely here, here in the home of the people is lodged the ark of the covenant of my country. Here is its majesty and its strength. Here the beginning of its power and the end of its responsibility.' The homes of the people; let us keep them pure and independent, and all will be well with the republic. Here is the lesson our foes may learn; here is work the humblest and weakest hands may do. Let us, in simple thrift and economy, make our homes independent. Let us in frugal industry make them self-sustaining. In sacrifice and denial let us keep them free from debt and obligation. Let us make them homes of refinement in which we shall teach our daughters that modesty and patience and gentleness are the charms of woman. Let us make them temples of liberty, and teach our sons that an honest conscience is every man's first political law. That his sovereignty rests beneath his hat, and that no splendor can rob him and no force justify the surrender of the simplest right of a free and independent citizen. And above all, let us honor God in our homes—anchor them close in His love, build His altars above our hearthstones, uphold them in the set and simple faith of our fathers and crown them with the Bible—that Book of books in which all the ways of life are made straight and the mystery of death is made plain. The home is the source of our national life. Back of the national Capital and above it stands the home. Back of the President and above him stand the citizen. What the home is, this and nothing else will the capital be. What the citizen wills, this and nothing else will the President be."

Home and Its Responsibilities.

"What an hour that was in the councils of heaven when the thought of 'home' was conceived first in the heart of God; when the plan was wrought out to provide for the perpetuation of man, with the father on one hand and the mother on the other; where the mother was to nourish the seed of life in her flesh, to warm it into life by her blood, to graft the new life into her life, to make her soul its shelter, and her heart its cradle! How beautiful, how wonderful, how divine is motherhood! There is no tie so tender and no relations so precious. Again, where father was to love, provide, and protect, yes, where he was to give his very all for the benefit and care of his mate and offspring, where the father was to be to his child what the Heavenly Father was to him."

This word-picture gives us in brief the purpose of home as well as its greatest responsibility. God's plan for perpetuating the race was the establishment of the home. In this home there must be the father and the mother with their mutual responsibilities, care, and love. In but a brief span of years we find, ideally speaking, this home is changed, and now is composed of the father, mother and children. Throughout the history of this home we find various and sundry responsibilities—rearing and training the children, social, religious, and educational duties, recognizing of mutual rights and desires, safeguarding social and religious influences, being mindful of other homes, making the home the strong foundation of the country, State and nation.

The great library of divine truth, which we know as the Bible, is primarily a home book. It begins with the establishment of a home on earth and ends with the great home gathering of the redeemed about the throne of the Heavenly Father. Throughout the Bible the sacredness of the home is emphasized. Properly trained children are necessary to the establishment and maintenance of Christian homes, and Christian families are the bulwark of Christian nations. Every nation that has rested upon any other foundation than the unchangeable truth of God has learned to its sorrow that it has built "wood, hay and stubble" and has passed away. The home is the fountainhead of all the streams that flow into the great sea of society and national life. The Bible and its teachings constitute the center of every Christian life and of every Christian home, and the family, God's first institution, is the great bulwark of society.

Home and Its Influence.

Psychologists agree that there are two great influences which control the development of mankind. On one hand is heredity, while on the other is environment.

Heredity is, of course, but the mark of the parents on the child or children. Whatever may be said or done, it is inevitable that the offspring will inherit certain traits of the parent. Environment is, as it were, the servant of heredity. Other things being equal, what a child fails to inherit may be developed and acquired through environment.

The environment of a home is established and determined by the parents. Naturally, a mother exerts a wonderful influence over her children. She not only holds sway over youth, but her influence continues as long as life. To be sure, "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world." We cannot get away from the fact that the influence of a home is greatly and largely determined by the mother in the home. "Men are what their homes have made them, and their homes are the products of their parents. Most men attribute their success in life to the fact that a great mother was responsible. This is but to say that successful men come from homes with the proper influences prevailing because mother is the "homemaker," while father must provide. Abraham Lincoln, Robert E. Lee, Thomas A. Edison, John Henry Jowett, Oliver Schreiner, Carlyle, and thousands of other men of history and the present day pay tribute to "mother and the home" for their greatness and success in life.

"As the twig is bent, so groweth the tree," is a famous quotation which is extremely applicable. The influence of the home on the children thereof is vastly greater than most of us realize. It is in these young, tender, and plastic years that our children should be trained and taught in the great principles of life and living. This home-coming day but brings together those of us who were the children of yesterday. We can recall the homes in which we were reared. We can revive again the scenes of our childhood. We can call to mind many things of the past that were and are near and dear unto us. Yes, we can picture that old home in which it was unusual when the entire family did not sit down together at mealtime, and the absence of any one was always keenly felt. In the evening father, mother, and the children gathered about the fireside where much old-fashioned dogma was dispensed and the children were generally anchored in the security of parental influence. Yes, even the sacred family altar was not omitted. Today, in the average American home, it is seldom that a family of any size is found seated simultaneously either at the table or in the evening by the fireside. The glory of the great white way, the light of the cafe, the motion picture, the speed of modern living have all conspired to disrupt the type of home in which we were reared. This old type of home is a thing of the past. It never will return. However, the problem before us today is: Can we of the present day and generation develop such homes as will guarantee that our children will be able to meet

(Continued on Page 11.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Criticism has poor taste. It looks for the worst and then abuses that. Had it been a bird it would have been a vulture. It overlooks its own ignorance and calls itself wise. It makes no allowance for circumstances, exercises no mercy, and overlooks its own faults. There are some people who never seem to see any good in others. They see the faults, but not the virtues in other people, and reverse that judgement upon themselves. A severe critic, as a rule, has complimentary opinions of himself. He is right and others are wrong. This, of course, is the worst type of critic. There is another type of criticism that has in it a purpose to help. That type is constructive, rather than destructive. In finding the faults, it offers the way of improvement. Parents and teachers represent that type of critics. Their object is to help, and they do.

The teacher corrects the paper of the student in order to help the student. The parent points out the wrong to show the child the right. This is a great help to the young. All helpful criticism is direct. It goes to the individual in love. It is self-sacrificing in its approach. It risks being misunderstood for the good it hopes to accomplish. It is one of the best evidences of love. It is a gospel in itself, whether it comes from the pulpit, the family altar, the school desk or a personal friend. This type of criticism is a boon to mankind. It corrects the faults of men and improves the critic himself. It is called constructive criticism. God Himself in His word points out human sin with the view of salvation, and Jesus Christ is proof of His love. But He does not tell others of our sin. He tells it to us. The Holy Spirit always deals with the wrongdoer himself. Within the domain of one's own being, the Holy Spirit secretly tells us of our sins. That is His way of leading men to Christ, and God never exposes us. He always makes us feel our need of Him, and He makes us feel that He loves us. He came not to condemn the world, but to save the world. Human criticism may safely follow Him in this and in all other ways.

But it is the other kind of criticism that this letter is trying to expose. It is that criticism that talks about men and women to others. It sees the worst. It tells the worst. The motive is the worst. The effect is the worst. It spreads. It corrupts. It is moral and social taint. It is unjust. It is un-Christian. It is cancerous. "Confess your faults one to another" is scriptural; but telling other folks' faults to others is one of the worst diseases in the world. When the spirit of criticism is turned upon the Church it becomes a hindrance to the salvation of men and reveals a type of ignorance that the critic would not like to have exposed. They always pick out the poorest types of members and appraises the Church by them. The only way to determine anything is to select the best specimens and judge of the institution, because all institutions have their good and their bad. The peddler that peddles the gossip of the community, that tells more than he knows about others, that always says the worst, does not help himself, others, or the Church. This class of criticism reveals the character of the critic himself. Jesus said: "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone," and then He said: "Go, and sin no more." The criticism of Jesus was an effort to save; but the criticism of which many people are guilty is the revelation of individual character, the slander of others, and the menace of human society.

W. W. STALEY.

PLEASANT HILL NEWS.

Due to an extensive remodeling and building program last year, there has been no work done on our Church building this year. However, we feel that the general progress has been quite successful.

The business affairs of the Church are probably most noticeable. The pastor has already been paid his salary in full, and all financial reports are in good shape to be paid in full by the end of the year. Besides the regular assessments, a nice sum was contributed to the emergency mission fund in March. At the last quarterly conference, a memorial association was organized. Its business is to raise funds for the upkeep of the cemetery. It has already, with the help of free labor, greatly improved the appearance of the cemetery. The grounds have been put in proper condition and beautified. The old cemetery fence is being removed and will be replaced with a better and nicer one at an early date. A park limit has been established around the building. This eliminates much confusion, and with the extra work done on the grounds and grove, adds much to the outside appearance of the Church. When the season will permit, new shade trees are to be planted in place of several of the old ones that have died.

Without exception, the doors of the Church have been opened every Sunday in the year for service. Brother M. F. Hornaday is sexton, and serves faithfully. He is always on time to ring the bell, and never fails to have everything in perfect condition for services.

The annual memorial service was held the first Sunday in May. Professor S. R. Bennett delivered the memorial address. In the afternoon the pastor preached a sermon in response to Professor Bennett's address. These two sermons, together with the singing, made the day one of great enjoyment and of special benefit to each one present.

As is the custom, children's day program was given the first Sunday in August. We feel that this is one of the most important services of the year, because the children have a part in the Church program. About fifty children took part in the program and rendered their parts in a very creditable manner. Miss Vera Teague, head of the primary department, had charge of the children's training. Miss Teague is a genius with small children, and a leader of rare ability. For many years she, with chosen assistants, has had charge of this work, and they have always given us a program unsurpassed in entertainment and spiritual uplift. We are truly thankful for such faithful workers.

The Sunday School has been very progressive during the year, with Mr. W. A. Hornaday superintendent. Brother Hornaday is untiring in his efforts and really superintends. The total enrollment is about two hundred, with an average attendance of 135. The parents come and bring the children. Where this custom prevails, greater good is accomplished than where the children are "sent" to Sunday School. One Sunday in each month an offering is taken for orphanage and mission. This, with the Thanksgiving and Easter offering, gives a fair sum for these two worthwhile causes. We find that this plan works splendidly in our Sunday School, and our own treasurer still has plenty to run the Sunday School. August 28th the whole school met at the Church for a picnic. Old and young alike enjoyed a rare

(Continued on Page 15.)

PROGRAM OF EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Following is the program of the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference, to be held at Oak Level Christian Church, Youngsville, N. C., November 23, 24, 25, 1926:

First Day—Morning Session.

- 10:00 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 10:20 Devotional Service, Rev. J. E. Franks.
- 10:30 Enrollment.
- 10:40 Election of Officers.
- 10:50 Welcome Address, Rev. J. Fuller Johnson.
- 11:00 Response, C. O. Eaves.
- 11:10 Appointment of Committees to Fill Vacancies.
- 11:20 Conference Sermon, Rev. H. C. Caviness.
- 12:00 Adjournment.

First Day—Afternoon Session.

- 1:30 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 1:40 Devotional Service, Rev. J. Lee Johnson.
- 1:50 Report of Executive Committee.
- 1:55 Treasurer's Report.
- 2:00 Ministerial Reports.
- 2:20 Report on Stewardship, Rev. J. Fuller Johnson. Address by the Chairman, and Discussion.
- 2:40 Report of Committee on Social Service, J. A. Kimball. Discussion.
- 3:00 Report on Religious Literature, Rev. R. L. Williamson. Discussion.
- 3:20 Appointment of Special Committees.
- 3:30 Miscellaneous Business.
- 3:40 Report of Committee on Entertainment. Assignment of Homes.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.

- 9:30 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 9:40 Devotional Service, Rev. M. T. Sorrell.
- 9:50 Reading Minutes of Previous Day. Roll Call. Enrollment.
- 10:00 Report of Committee on Home Missions, Rev. J. E. Franks. Discussion.
- 10:20 Report of Committee on Apportionments, Prof. L. L. Vaughan.
- 10:30 Report of Committee on Evangelism, Rev. M. T. Sorrell. Discussion.
- 11:00 The Budget Plan of Southern Christian Convention. Discussion.
- 11:30 Report of Committee on Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor, C. H. Stevenson.
- 11:40 Christian Education of Southern Christian Convention, Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, Holland, Va., and Miss Pattie Coghill.
- 12:00 Adjournment.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.

- 1:15 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 1:30 Devotional Service, Rev. B. J. Howard.
- 1:40 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions, Rev. J. Lee Johnson.
- 1:50 Address on Missions, Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D., Mission Secretary.
- 2:30 Address on Christian Orphanage, Chas. D. Johnston, Superintendent.
- 3:00 Report of Committee on Finance, K. B. Johnson.
- 3:10 Report of Committee on Place for Next Session, Rev. J. E. Franks.
- 3:20 Report of Committee on Superannuation, K. B. Johnson.
- 3:30 Miscellaneous Business.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

Third Day—Morning Session.

- 9:30 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 9:40 Devotional Service, Rev. J. C. Cummings.

- 9:50 Discussion of Church Auxiliaries, Mrs. L. L. Vaughan.
- 10:10 Report of Committee on Education, Rev. W. C. Wicker.
- 10:20 Address, Dr. W. A. Harper, President, Elon College.
- 11:00 Thanksgiving Service, led by President of Conference.
- 11:30 Report of Committee on Resolutions, Rev. R. L. Williamson.
- 11:40 Miscellaneous Business.
- 12:00 Adjournment.

Note: The regular Annual Meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference is on Tuesday before Thanksgiving each year. A full delegation from every Church is desired. Members of Conference should come on time for the opening session, attend every session, and remain until the close of the Conference.

PROGRAM OF THE FIFTY-FOURTH ANNUAL SESSION, WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Pleasant Grove Church, Randolph County,
November 23-25, 1926.

First Day—Morning Session.
10:30 o'Clock.

1. Called to Order by President.
2. Devotional Services by Rev. T. J. Green.
3. Enrollment of Ministers and Delegates.
4. Election of Officers.
5. Report of Program Committee.
6. Appointment of Special Committees.
7. Annual Address by President, Rev. G. O. Lankford.
8. Adjournment.

First Day—Afternoon Session.
2:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. M. Allred.
2. Report of Executive Committee.
3. Ministerial and Church Reports.
4. Report on Religious Literature, Rev. G. R. Underwood, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.
10:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. U. Fogleman.
2. Minutes of Previous Day.
3. Report on Foreign Missions.
4. Address by Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.
5. The Christian Orphanage, by Supt. Chas D. Johnston.
6. Sermon by Rev. J. C. Cummings.
7. Adjournment.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.
2:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. E. C. Brady.
2. Report on Home Missions, Rev. T. J. Green, Chairman.
3. Report of Woman's Board, Mrs. D. A. Cornelison, Chairman.
4. Report on Moral Reform, Rev. J. M. Allred, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Third Day—Morning Session.
10:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services, Rev. W. C. Martin.
2. Report on Education, Rev. T. E. White, Chairman.

- Address by Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College.
3. Report on Sunday Schools, B. S. Moffitt, Chairman.
 4. Report on Christian Endeavor, Mrs. Madge Moffitt Whitesell, Chairman.
 5. Adjournment.

Third Day—Afternoon Session.
1:30 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. W. J. Edwards.
 2. Miscellaneous Business.
- Reports.
Appointment of Committees for next year.
3. Reading and Adoption of Minutes.
 4. Farewell Service, conducted by Rev. T. E. White.
 5. Final Adjournment.

G. O. LANKFORD,
T. E. WHITE,
Program Committee.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.
Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7-8x 7 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4 7-8x7 Inches, 1 1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3-8x8 Inches, and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1 1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4x3 3/4 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4x3 3/4 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools.....$2.50

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold.....$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, briefer, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Briefer Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

Down to Brass Tacks.

Of course you and your Church are already in your stewardship program which was to have been started November 1st. And of course you will not think of making it less than a six weeks' course. It has been such a neglected subject that permanent and abiding interest cannot be established in less time than that. No Bible subject has been more neglected. What subject will bring greater spiritual power? No subject has more space given to it in chapters, paragraphs, verses, than has this. Have you considered what emphasis the gospels give to it?

Did Jesus Talk About Money?

Dr. Walter L. Lingle says, in the Presbyterian of the South, "Did Jesus talk about money?"

"If you will search the four gospels with this question in mind you will probably conclude that He had more to say about money, directly or indirectly, than about any other single topic. Think of all the parables in which He refers to money! We think at once of the parables of the talents, the pounds, the unjust steward, the man hiring workers for his vineyard, Dives and Lazarus, the rich fool, the lost coin, the treasure in the field, the pearl of great price, the good Samaritan, and the prodigal son. We think, too, of the stories of the rich young ruler, Zaccheus, the widow and her mite, and the woman with the precious ointment. In addition to these, we recall the words of Jesus about laying up treasure upon earth, about the peril of trusting in riches, and about the extreme difficulty the rich have in entering the kingdom of God, so that it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom. These are but samples of the sayings of Jesus about money that come crowding to the mind as we think on this subject. Even a casual reading of the gospels will reveal many more such references."

What We are Anxious About is that your entire Church and congregation shall get the message. This cannot be done by using only one method. It will require a series of sermons, some of them in the morning and some in the evening. And the children and young people are entitled to this instruction. During these weeks, such a program needs to be carried on in the Sunday School by officers and by teachers, so that all are reached each Sunday. Thus an impression will be made. It may be only fifteen minutes each Sunday, but each teacher should provide his class with it. Your pupils are entitled to it. So with your young people's societies. One Church plans to take five Sunday evenings with the book, "The Way to the Best," by Anderson, and form their young people's department of the Church into a class for the Christian Endeavor hour instead of using the regular Christian Endeavor topics. That means something definite. The ladies' aid, the missionary society should study the subject. Ten minutes at a meeting would present one of the six chapters in "Woman and Stewardship," by Mrs. Pierce. Your whole Church is entitled to it. Each of the books referred to costs but twenty-five cents. Then there is the most helpful book for junior workers, "Using Our Heavenly Father's Gifts," by that noted Sunday School worker, Maud Junkin Baldwin, with its ten stewardship lessons for juniors. Thirty cents brings it to you, and it will be a worthy helper. Give all—adults, youth, children—the stewardship message. They look to you for it.

TITHING FOR GOD.

Did you ever take some long trip and get a good distance from home and come to a cross-roads and there was no signpost to direct you? I was out in another State some days ago and was traveling alone when I came to a cross-roads with not a single sign pointing in any direction. I "guessed" at the road that I should take, and drove ten miles before I found that I was on the wrong road. I felt like writing to the State Highway Commission and suggesting that a sign be put at that cross roads. But the thought occurred to me that this is not so bad, as I can turn around and go back to the cross-roads and get on the right road. Yes, you and I can turn our bodies around in this old world and go back. But what about the soul? What about the sign-post that directs the soul that must spend eternity in heaven or hell? Shall you and I neglect to erect sign-posts that will tell the world and all who are in it which road to take?

You will perhaps be surprised when you read the following figures pertaining to the religious education that is being given the youth of this country—America. A close check shows that there are 95 per cent of the youth of the whole Jewish population that are not receiving any religious training at all. There are 78 per cent of the Catholic boys and girls who are not receiving any religious training. And there are 66 per cent of the Protestant boys and girls not receiving any religious training whatsoever. These figures are for the United States. This seems amazing, especially since we have so many Churches and so many other Christian organizations. But we must go farther with our Churches. We must go farther with our other Christian organizations. We must build many more Churches. We must put up many more sign-posts for those who follow. We have the Church to point the way of salvation. We have the Salvation Army to point the way of life. We have other Christian organizations that lead on to the great eternit. But just the same as our roads are marked on the highways and left unmarked on the country roads, our sign-post of life is up in some places and some parts of this country and has never been seen in others.

It takes money to put up the sign-posts along the highways of our nation. And it takes money to put up the Churches and print the literature that act as sign-posts for those who are looking for the road of life eternal. It takes money to build and run the orphanages that teach the unfortunate the right road to take. It takes money to send missionaries to other lands, that they may tell the love of our God. You and I can turn around in the physical sense and go back, but what about the soul that has run its race? The soul that must follow this old body around in this world and then take its flight to the great unknown, when the body shall be laid down, never again to rise? Let's you and me decide now to help erect sign-posts along the road of life by being—tithers for God.

C. J. STRICKLAND.

OCTOBER MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.

Sunday School Missionary Offerings for October.

Graham, N. C.	$ 2.10
Wakefield, Va.	4.98
Mt. Pleasant, Vass, N. C.	1.00
Timber Ridge, High View, W. Va.	2.83
First Church, Richmond, Va.	1.21
Isle of Wight, Va.	3.15
Franklinton, N. C.	10.00
Liuville, Harrisonburg, Va.	5.00
Vanceville, Tifton, Ga.	1.00
Rock Stand, Roanoke, Ala.	2.25
Oak Level, Youngsville, N. C.	1.81
Wadley, Ala.	1.51
Piney Plains, Cary, N. C.58
Bethlehem, Broadway, Va.	2.27
Raleigh, N. C.	4.50
Rose Hill, Columbus, Ga.30
Sanford, N. C.	8.04
Ether, Ether, N. C.	2.92
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.	3.46
Graham, N. C.	2.33
Spring Hill, Lineville, Ala.	2.05
Oakland, Chuckatuck, Va.	5.00
Richland, Ga.	1.00
Youngsville, N. C.	2.00
Windsor, Va.	14.75
Pleasant Ridge, Ramseur, N. C.	1.90
Wake Chapel, Fuquay Springs, N. C.	2.80
First Church, Suffolk, Va.	12.50
First Church, Winchester, Va.	6.03
Hines Chapel, McLeansville, N. C.	5.00
Antioch, Harrisonburg, Va.	8.21
Berea (Nansemond), Driver, Va.	7.00
Providence Memorial, Graham, N. C.	3.26
Chapel Hill, N. C.	3.56
Newport News, Va.	9.00
Pleasant Hill (A), Liberty, N. C.	2.96
Liberty (Vance), Henderson, N. C.	5.51
Leaksville, Luray, Va.	2.04
First Church, Norfolk, Va.	5.85
New Elam, New Hill, N. C.	3.46
Randleman, N. C.	3.83
Holy Neck, Whaleyville, Va.	16.00
Mt. Zion, Mebane, N. C.	1.64
Durham, N. C.	15.73
Windsor, Va.	1.28
Wakefield, Va.	5.08
Ramseur, N. C.	7.21
Dendron, Va.	13.58
Dry Run, Seven Fountains, Va.	1.67
Happy Home, Ruffin, N. C.	1.00
Salem Chapel, Walnut Cove, N. C.	1.00
Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C.	1.00
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.	3.00
Holland, Va.	10.00
Isle of Wight, Va.	1.20
Palm Street, Greensboro, N. C.	4.00
Elon Community Church, Elou College, N. C.	5.00
First Church, Portsmouth, Va.	18.31
Lawrence Memorial Bible Class, Elon.	1.00
Haw River, N. C.	7.22
Total	$283.87

We are very grateful to the Sunday Schools named above for their liberal offering in October, and we are happy to include some schools not heretofore reported in the list of those making the once-a-month offering to missions. There are quite a few schools in the Convention who do not yet make a once-a-month offering to missions, but it is devoutly hoped and believed that all schools will come to realize the wisdom and the righteousness of such an offering and will rejoice one day to take it regularly and send it in promptly. The co-operation and liberality thus far manifested in behalf of our mission work on the part of our Sunday Schools are constant sources of inspiration and encouragement.

We are also grateful for the other sums which have been sent in to forward the work of missions for the Master.

Total Collections for Missions in October.

Emergency Fund (Reidsville Church)....	$ 20.00
S. S. Regular	283.87
Mountain work	302.50
Specials	510.36
Individual collections	40.00
Total	$1,156.73
Check to R. W. Malone, Treasurer.....	1,156.73

Respectfully submitted,

J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

MAKING MISSIONS ATTRACTIVE TO OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

By MRS. M. L. BRYANT,

(Concluded from Last Week.)

What else can we teach besides Church history, Church loyalty, spiritual beggars and ne'er-dowells? Teach self-denial. The story of the goose and the golden egg illustrates my point. We cannot use all and still have. It is a law that does not seem to work. No one admires a greedy, selfish child. Selfishness is scorned at in infancy and discouraged by society in age. Why is the Dead Sea dead? It receives all and gives nothing. Many inflowing streams and rivulets, nothing flowing out—all for self. Why do some pools become stagnant? Do you know people who have their names on Church rolls, young and old, and who are dead seas and stagnant pools? They receive all and give nothing. No call makes any appeal. They can't spare any change. Let the others give—they are use to it; they've been giving all the time. This Church was here when I came. It will be here when I'm gone. Why should I pay? "Yes, it was there when they came; it will be there when they are gone." Christ said: "I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." What are the gates of hell? I pledge you my word of honor, I never gave it serious thought before. Are the gates made up of only the real evildoers, the murderers, the cut-throats, the thieves, the blasphemers? A person who hesitates or refuses at all times to contribute to his Church and its activities is certainly not one that we could hold up in an attractive way to our young people. Select some generous soul who has little and gives of that little. Teach the joy, the comfort, the consolation they have for contributing of their little to a cause worthy in their sight. Get the treasurer to lend you his book, go over the leaves with your young people, watch their surprised faces. Why shouldn't they know who keeps their Church going? They know who pays the home bills, and if they are helping at home, why not at Church? Teach attractively the verdict "She hath done what she could." If I have been taught that I should attend Church until I am able to decide for myself and then decide to continue and pledge to support it, it doesn't mean with person, with bench space, with handshakes and pleasant smiles, but with my earnings also even to the point of self-denial. How I pity the people who have never been taught to give to the Church of their money. How much they have missed! I don't want any spiritual advice of theirs; it will not do me any good. I shall not forget soon a very recent experience along this line. A seemingly very valuable young married man in my Church (an official, by the way), who was a very faithful attendant and a man of splendid Christian character was selected by our official board to be a junior deacon. He and two other young men were selected at the same meeting. When our pastor phoned this young man to come to the study and talk it over, he said he would think it over, but did not think he could accept the position as deacon, although he appreciated the honor very much. At any rate, he thought it over and came back the next day. He then told the pastor that his reason for not accepting the deaconship was because he and his wife were planning to build a home in another part of the city, and they intended being in our part of the town only a short while longer. This seemed reasonable, but somehow got on my mind, and the night I first heard it I couldn't sleep for thinking how great a loss this would mean to our Church, knowing the community they anticipated had no Christian Church, his wife being a Baptist, I just concluded that the Christian Church was losing a fine young Christian gentleman, one whose character was above reproach and one of whom every one thought so well. It grieved me so that I made an appointment with him after the service next morning and we discussed the matter freely. I came away feeling actually sad concerning it. It worried me no little. About two months later I happened to have cause to learn that that grand young man, as I thought, was not a financial contributor to our Church at all. He never gave a penny or put in his envelope. On one of our every-member campaigns, he had made a pledge of 50 cents weekly, had paid it for three weeks and stopped. So far as any record of his financial support was made that began and ended it. When notified by the new treasurer that his pledge had lapsed, he said he wasn't going to give any more; he couldn't afford it. In the meantime, he had received a promotion at his place of work and was planning to build a new home. The tragedy of such a situation! The tragedy concerning him is great, but the tragedy of him nearly becoming my deacon is greater to me. Surely the board thought they knew what they were doing, but I am certain the good Lord knew that the Church wasn't safe in such hand as those who were never willing to give even to denial. Whose fault is it that this otherwise good Christian gentleman had never been taught the service of giving to his Lord?

"Teach them the good way wherein they should walk" (1 Kings 8:36).

When we have studied and taught what, else can we do to make missions attractive to our young people? Serve. I am wondering how many societies among the women feel the lack or need of workers, leaders and officers. Do you have any trouble in getting presidents, secretaries, treasurers, etc.? Do you ever select such officers and have them refuse positively to serve? What usually are their reasons for refusing? Mostly lack of training, lack of confidence, sometimes real honest timidity. Have you ever tried to serve as president, or secretary, or treasurer? You know what it means to feel the responsibility of carrying your end of the load. If you are just a member and can't get there conveniently on meeting day, it is all right you think, but if you are an officer you have too much responsibility to assume, you just have to be there whether you want to or not. Is that the way we feel about it. I'll help but let somebody else lead. Well, there are those who are honest, in wanting to help as a member. I for one believe that the humblest member whose name is on the roll and who may sit on the last seat and answer so feebly to her name at roll call that she can scarcely be heard is just as necessary to the success of the missionary society as the president who occupies the front chair. Many a preacher has been kept a poor one because he looked at empty benches so long his vision became warped. Many an officer has been made a good one because the members served as members the best they could. One of the saddest things I know of is the lack of superintendents for our Young People's and Willing Workers' Societies. Do you have such a need in your Church? Have you ever had any people to apply for those kind of jobs? Very recently, in my school system, it was reported that one of our music teachers had resigned. The supervisor told me that within twenty-four hours he had fourteen people to apply for that position, all with credentials testifying as to their experience and fitness. Have you ever had your superintendent of Young People or Willing Workers to resign? How many applicants did you have overnight? Did they have credentials? The lack of servants who are willing to serve in hard places! I don't believe there is a Church anywhere that couldn't have a Willing Workers' Society if they had a leader. Children are certainly willing and ready to attend, and it seems that there is our opportunity to do some teaching and serving. In what capacity do you serve? Go on studying, and teaching and serving; it will pay. Remember, a good member serving is just as necessary as the president. I am thinking about the distribution of the talents. Yours may have many, you may have but one, but surely you want yours to serve and not be hidden.

Our Lord called Matthew from the seat of customs to come follow, which meant to serve. He called the women at the well, which meant service. He called Zacchaeus, which meant service; he calls us to follow, which means to serve. Matthew lived to serve and write one of the gospels; the woman at the well told a whole town the story of Christ; Zacchaeus served and entertained. We may not write a gospel literally as did Matthew, but we are writing a book with our lives day by day; we may not tell a whole town about Christ as did the woman at the well, but we have a privilege as servants to tell others; we may not entertain as did Zacchaeus, but we can serve by teaching Christ's principles that he taught Zacchaeus.

I am thinking again of the Nile River. How it serves! As a river, yes, but more. Twice every year it overflows its banks and leaves the fine sediment scattered over the farm lands that is so necessary for the crop life. While it stays within its banks, it serves and is appreciated; but when it overflows it serves and becomes famous. Its wealth is reckoned by service. We may be poor in money, but we can be rich in service. What kind of servants are we? Are our talents multiplying against that day when we shall be called to give an account?

"If any man serves me, let him follow me, and where I am there shall also my servant be; if any man serves me, him will my Father honor."—John 12:26.

Realizing all too well that I have not touched my subject, "Making Missions Attractive to the Young People," I have hoped only to lay a foundation for an attractive background, trusting that from a full course in studying, teaching and serving we can make a course in missions at least more attractive than it has been before.

Whittier has so beautifully expressed our feelings in the lovely hymn—

Dear Lord and Father of mankind,
Forgive our feverish ways;
Reclothe us in our rightful mind,
In purer lives Thy service find,
In deeper reverence, praise.

In simple trust like theirs who heard,
Beside the Syrian sea,
The gracious calling of the Lord,
Let us, like them, without a word,
Rise up and follow Thee.

There are two things that ought to bind all God's people together—the Lord's Prayer and the Lord's supper, which show us that we have a common Father and that we are all brothers.—R. C. Bushnell.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

November 15, 1926.

TOPIC: "How May We Promote Interdenominational Fellowship?"—1 John 1:3-7; Eph. 4:1-6.

Some Bible Hints.

If we live close to God we shall have no trouble about living in harmony with one another (v. 3). Lack of fellowship suggests pride in us, and pride is the worst kind of darkness (v. 6).

There will be more fellowship when there is more meekness and a readiness to see good in others (Eph. 4:2).

Fellowship should be actively pursued. "Give all diligence." It does not come of itself (Eph. 4:3).

Suggestive Thoughts.

If we would emphasize the affirmatives of our faith and leave out the negatives, we should be closer together. We agree in so much.

Men will never believe exactly alike any more than they will dress exactly alike. Personality must have room to move in.

Interdenominational fellowship is actually attained in Christian Endeavor through its program of union work. We forget differences when we unite in doing worth-while things.

We should really like many persons if we were better acquainted with them. Christian Endeavor socials foster acquaintance and help our fellowship.

A Few Illustrations.

When Endeavorers in a town or city unite in an evangelistic effort they find that they are all aiming at the same thing, and fellowship grows.

United work in a community fosters fellowship among denominations—a community Christmas tree, clean-up week, Red Cross work, and so on.

Exchange of Christian Endeavor leaders fosters fellowship. It is good for the Methodist to discover that a Baptist can be a good Christian, a good fellow, and a good teacher.

Study of the missions of other denominations shows us that Christianity is the same everywhere, and that heroes are not confined to any denomination.

To Think About.

How do denominations co-operate in our town?

How can Endeavorers establish friendly relations with all denominations?

In what things can we all work together?

A Cluster of Quotations.

Fewer and fewer people now defend competitive denominationalism. To divide the body of Christ is weakness, and should be recognized as such.—Anon.

While Christian Endeavor stands for loyalty to one's denomination, it also stands for fellowship in and love for the whole army of God.—J. Jackson.

in life ask for white-collar jobs; in an age when every effort is made to make things easy; in an age when the average man looks forward to the time when he can "retire" and take it easy—the words of this real man of other days sound a challenge to our day. How uncomfortable Caleb would be in a world in which there were no challenges and in a heaven in which there was nothing but rest!

The Spartans are not safe examples to follow in all matters, but they have a lesson for us today with our love of ease and our tendency to avoid the difficult. They speak shame to those parents who would shield their children from every hardship, and who would make life a flowery bed of ease. Character is not achieved that way. God give us men! real men! men with red blood in their veins, who are not afraid of hard tasks!

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION FIELD NOTES.

Treasurer Stephenson writes us a few more schools have been heard from and that with October's expenses met there is a small balance in the treasury. We are beginning to entertain the conviction that the Churches and Sunday Schools of the Southern Convention intend to support the work of the Board. We have been advised by several pastors that the offering was received but not forwarded by their Churches and schools because held inadequate. This, too, seems a hopeful indication.

If you have not as yet received the offering for the Board, receive it as soon as you can make the necessary arrangements and forward the offerings to the treasurer, Mr. C. H. Stephenson, 120 West Martin Street, Raleigh, N. C.

It is our plan to publish in this column at a later date the names of the Churches and schools contributing to this offering and the amount contributed.

President L. E. Smith advises us that for this year the Board will receive from the Conference apportionments 5 per cent of the apportionment where the Conferences so desire. This ruling means the Board will not participate in funds forwarded by the Conferences to the Convention treasury. If the Conferences desire the Board to share in the apportionments to the extent of the 5 per cent suggested by the Convention, the Conferences themselves must take action to that effect, set the money apart themselves and send it either directly to the Board treasury or as a designated fund to the Convention treasury.

Beginning with next year, the Board will share with the other boards and departments of the Convention in the Conference apportionments and to the extent of 8 per cent.

It is the purpose of the chairman of the Board to present in the very near future a suggestive program of objectives for the Christian educational work in the Convention. It goes without saying that first and chief will be the objective of making all the educational work Christian.

We have just returned from the quadrennial session of the General Convention of the Christian Church. The First Christian Church of Urbana, Ill., was the Convention's host, and it cared for the many responsibilities efficiently and graciously. We presume complete reports of the Convention session will be carried in other columns of THE SUN, and so in this we will confine ourself to the Christian education representation and presentation.

Our Southern Convention was represented by Presidents Beougher and Harper, of Bethlehem and Elon Colleges, respectively, and the latter college was further represented by Professors Alexander, Bennett and Jay.

The Board of Religious Education had present at the Convention its field worker, Miss Pattie Coghill, Board members J. F. Morgan and Miss Ruth Johnson, and the board chairman, J. H. Lightbourne.

Board member Morgan was the Convention song leader.

Dr. W. A. Harper read the report of the Department of Christian Education and presided over the afternoon and night sessions allotted the department. Dr. Harper also reported the progress of the Journal of Christian Education.

(Continued on Page 15.)

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson VII—November 14, 1926.

CALEB'S FAITHFULNESS REWARDED.

GOLDEN TEXT: "I wholly followed Jehovah my God."—Joshua 14:8.

LESSON: Joshua 14:6-15.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psa. 15.

It is a good thing to store away in one's mind some of the exceeding great and precious promises of God. It helps one to bear up under difficulties, to undertake new tasks, to continue in well doing. Caleb had done this. It had been forty years since God had made a promise to him in regard to the possession of the land which he had gone up to spy out, but Caleb had not forgotten that promise. It is quite within the facts to say that that promise was probably the strength and motive of his life during that long period in the wilderness. There may have been times when he thought that God was a little slow in fulfilling His promises, but he never doubted that God would fulfill His promises. We would be more faithful to our work, and more free from worry and care if we had the promises of God in our hearts, and took Him at His word.

"I wholly followed Jehovah my God." What a fine testimony! On the lips of some men it would be blasphemous sacrilege. But there are men and women who can testify that the secret of both a strong constitution and a serene mind is to be found in the fact that they had made it central in their lives to follow wholly Jehovah their God. It is the secret also of a power for good in the lives of one's fellowmen. Godliness is profitable unto all things, having the promise of the life that now is and of that which is to come.

"I am this day fourscore and five years old. As yet, I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me." There are, of course, exceptions to every rule, but the fact remains that those who come down to a ripe old age in full possession of their faculties and with a strength like that of Caleb, are those who have taken care of themselves. Whatsoever a man sows, he reaps, and he that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption. What a fine thing if every Sunday School teacher can impress indelibly upon the members of the class the supreme importance of taking care of the body.

"Now, therefore, give me this hill country (or this mountain) whereof Jehovah spake in that day." There is something majestic about these words, spoken by a man eighty-five years of age. The Hebrews were to be farmers, fruit-raisers, stock-growers. It was not easy to do any one of these things in the mountains where both the natural elements and the animal world conspire against one. Even though it could be done, it was a difficult task. Furthermore, the country for which Caleb asked was inhabited by giants—the very giants whom the spies had seen—and in whose sight the spies appeared even as grasshoppers. To take that country against the forces of nature would be hard enough, but to take it against both nature and these giants—that was a real man's job!

Caleb was a real man. His rugged constitution, his life of hardship, his faith in God had developed in him that which makes for manhood at its best. He was asking for the hard thing to do. How strange it sounds in the ears of many today! In an age when young men starting out life's obligations as well as we were prepared in our childhood homes to meet them? Can we, with the modern conveniences and facilities of our day, develop and maintain homes which will give to our children that type of training and culture which will tend to develop Christian men and women—men and women who revere God and exemplify His teachings in their daily life? The task is before us. What are we going to do? In attempting to answer this question we would do well to compare our present-day task, our facilities, our conveniences with the task of our fathers and mothers, their facilities, and their conveniences. Think how much easier our task should be as compared to theirs, and think again how much easier it will be for our children. I say this because the last fifty years saw more developments, inventions, discoveries, and growth than the previous one hundred and fifty saw, and to be sure the next fifty years is to see still greater development and growth.

THE MEANING OF HOME-COMING.

(Continued from page 5.)

Just one word of warning needs to be included in this last thought. If we are to grow and prosper, and if we are to discover, develop, and invent, and if we are to maintain our civilization and prestige, we must put God first in all we do, say or act. Asiatic eyes and European statesmen are already saying, "If America continues to be engrossed in materialism, there is no hope for her civilization."

Home—Its Sacrifice.

To be sure, it is hard, but, nevertheless, it is true that this home about which we have been talking should, after being established and developing a family, have to be torn apart and scattered about the country. But again it seems to be the great plan of God again for the perpetuation of mankind.

Mother's and father's love for us is measured far more by their own sacrifices than by our worth. They deny themselves for the sake of their children. They spend hours and hours toiling for the little ones while the little ones sleep. They are willing slaves and would not change their life for mines of priceless gold or for years of cushioned ease. They will risk all—lose all, even life itself—for the benefit of their children.

After all of this sacrifice, however, there comes another sort of sacrifice. One by one the members of this family grow into manhood and womanhood, but very soon thereafter each of these go to establish another home wherein the same God-given plan is wrought out again. Here again the same family ties are developed, and similar conditions prevail. On and on from one generation to the other this process continues.

On the face of affairs, this is apparently a great sacrifice—to have a beautiful home with father, mother and the children spend a number of years together, then to be separated. Nevertheless, in so doing we are but carrying out the great plan of our Heavenly Father. It is too sad to mention the sacrifices in death, but again we can face even this sacrifice through the help of our Master and His wonderful promises.

Now, stop and think: were it not for this plan of life, were it not for home, its meaning, its influence, its sacrifices, there would be not need for a day of "home-coming." There would be no realization of family ties and friendships. This day affords us the great opportunity of clasping hands again with each other, of mingling our voices once again, of renewing old acquaintances, of reviewing the scenes of our childhood, of making those old buildings resound with many familiar voices and of pledging anew to keep our homes places in which God reigns supreme and making it His institution, as it was from the foundation of the world.

A Great Background Book

LANDMARKS in the STRUGGLE BETWEEN SCIENCE and RELIGION

by Professor J. Y. Simpson, M.A.,
D.Sc., F.R.S.E.

¶ This book sets the present day controversy in its right historical setting. It is a survey of an age-long contest between truth and superstition. It makes religion as well as science a living, dynamic thing.

$2.00

DORAN BOOKS

TWENTY years ago Professor David Smith wrote "In The Days of His Flesh." For twenty years it has headed the list of books on Christ.

Now he has written:

OUR LORD'S EARTHLY LIFE

ANOTHER rich tribute to the Lord he loves. Characterized by mature scholarship and a marked humanist strain, this book has instantly gripped the hearts of readers.

$3.00

DORAN BOOKS

The Famous
Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION
Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th
of trouble: I will deliver thee
thou shalt glorify me.

- No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges.....$3.50
- No. 04452—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35
(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.
(Weight 18 oz.)
- No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

- RED LETTER EDITION
- No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition
- No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8¼x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

.35 And Jē-hōi'-ā-kim gave th
silver and the gold to Phār'-aōh

- No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges.....$4.50
- No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50
(Weight 3 lbs.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)
- No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style
at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

THE WAGES OF MOTHERHOOD.

"Take this child away and nurse it for me, and I will give thee thy wages."—Ex. 2:1-10.

Can a mother be paid for motherhood? Not in wages. Only in the faith unseen that holds the world together. From the descending birth rate, it appears that a great number of our good young women do not think it worth while, nor do they desire children. They prefer comfort, order at home, spotlessness, personal pleasures. Motherhood means hardships, self-sacrifice, privations, all of self laid on the altar of the young life.

But thank God for mothers who take the adventure of faith and who render the service that locks into the future of the world and gives it men and women worth while!

That was a true mother who said:

"Yes, I know there are stains on my carpet,
And traces of small, muddy boots;
And I see your fair tapestry glowing,
All spotless with flowers and fruits.

"Now, I think I'm a neat little woman;
And I like my house orderly, too;
And I'm fond of all dainty belongings,
Yet I would not change places with you.

"No! Keep your fair home, with its order,
Its freedom from bother and noise;
And keep your own fanciful leisure,
But give me my four splendid boys."

Prayer.—The Lord's Prayer in concert

TUESDAY.

A GREAT EXAMPLE.

"So . . . walk even as He walked."—1 John 2:3-9.

The general theme of Bunyan, in "Pilgrim's Progress," seems to be "wherever I see the print of His shoes, there I strive to go."

One supreme reason makes it imperative for us to follow Jesus—not for ourselves alone, but for others. Hundreds are watching our foot-steps in the way of life. If we would have our friends inspired and walk in the exalted ways, we must walk in and mark the way of Jesus ourselves.

Prayer.—Our dear Father, we pray Thee that all the members of our household may walk in the foot-steps of Jesus and lead others that way, too. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

THE UNCONQUERABLE SPIRIT.

"The Lord is my light. . . Whom shall I fear."—Psa. 27:1-4.

The spirit that fears nothing and becomes of indomitable goodness rises victoriously over obstacles to highest and truest successes is the unconquerable spirit.

Some think that material prosperity and financial success is success; but God is first, the last, and the deciding issue in every question, problem and struggle. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and all these things shall be added unto you."

Folks who have little of this world's goods and earthly support, if they have divine support they are rich. They may fail now, but it is only for a season.

"Whoever fights, whoever falls,
Justice conquers evermore;
And he who battles on her side,
God, though He were ten times slain,
Crowns him victor glorified,
Victor over death and pain."

Prayer.—Our dear Father in heaven, give us the unconquerable spirit of faith in the justice of God. Help us to make it our one thing we do today. Amen.

THURSDAY.

MY GOAL.

"I press toward the mark of the prize."—Phil. 3:13-14.

Paul means, "I run like a man in a race."

Think of yourself as a professional runner. You have trained for months. You are pitted against the fastest runners in the land. It is a course of many miles. The prize is a million dollars. How will you run it? Will you take things easy? Will you rest if a pain hits you in the side? Not much! You will press on, using your best to win the race, and if you can't come out first you will still try to make second or third, or even fourth, or you will not give up until you are exhausted by the roadside.

Does this characterize your Christianity? Napoleon said, "Victory belongs to the persistent," and some one has said: "There is no creature so contemptible but what by resolution may gain his point."

Prayer.—Dear Lord Jesus, inspire our lives with the aim and hope of the eternal prize. May we be brave and press on always. Amen.

FRIDAY.

HEAVENLY GUIDANCE.

"I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go; I will guide thee with mine eye."—Psa. 32:8-11.

"What ought I to do?" is a question constantly before us, and concerning nothing are we more frequently assured of God's guidance. His guidance is the better, for it is with the eye, and that means tenderness and with a smile. It means direction with a personal friend close. But His guidance can be followed only by looking intently to Him. The palmist said, "Mine eyes are ever toward the Lord." Yet, if we turn our backs, he guides with the voice of conscience. To those who look to Him He guides with His eyes. To those who listen and hear, He guides with his voice.

Prayer.—Our Father, may we trust Thee wholly, and throw thou around us Thy mercy. Give us Thy protecting care and may we learn the inestimable value of the divine promise. Forgive us of all our sins, and today may we praise Thy name. Amen.

SATURDAY.

"RAISED TOGETHER WITH CHRIST."

"Seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God."—Col. 3:1-4.

What does the resurrection of Jesus mean to us? Is it merely a historical fact, interesting but not related to our life? Alas, that many so regard Easter. Paul rightly says that everything of hope for the future rests absolutely upon the resurrection of Jesus.

Another truth is only second to this in import. If we believe and accept this fact, then we rise with Christ to newness of life, through faith and love. This new life comes into our soul at once, while we are still in the body. Thus it is a new birth of the spirit. This life does not at once become full-grown; but it is within us in germ, as manhood or womanhood is in the soul of the newly born babe.

Paul was pre-eminently practical, as Jesus was practical. "Seek those things which are above." We need the "daily meditation," lest our minds be engrossed with the things of the flesh. More than this: "Seek the things that are above, where Christ is." Then we must keep our real, essential life "hid with Christ in God." This will effectually prepare us for the time and the change, "when Christ shall be manifested." If He is "our life" while living under the handicap of the mortal existence, then we shall be manifested in His glory, when we escape from this mortal body.

Prayer.—By one of the parents, asking that our thoughts, hopes and aspirations may be lifted to nobler things, and our whole lives purified and made acceptable to God.

SUNDAY.

THE ADVENTURE OF FAITH.

"They that go down to the sea in ships."—Psa. 107:23-30.

In a Southern university, a group of high-minded young men fell into a discussion as to what they should do with their lives. Being Christians, all agreed that life is an investment and should yield some high return. One of the group that same night wrote back to his pastor: "Give us a text of Scripture that will be a motto for our guidance."

On receipt of the request, the minister did some serious thinking. Two days later he wrote, and this was his Scripture selection: "They that go down to the sea in ships see the works of the Lord and His wonders."

The young men were nonplussed. Did their friend mean that they should all study navigation? Did he mean that they would find God on the ocean as nowhere else? Their spokesman wrote back for an explanation. The pastor replied: "I do not exhort you to go to sea. Some of you, perhaps, will never see the ocean. But life is like the sea; some men snuggle in the harbor and never put out; that is, never make a venture in God's name. Other men sally forth in the name of the Lord to do some worthy thing. Such men—like the sailor who puts forth—are certain to face a blow now and then. But it is in the storm and stress that we find God. If you do fare forth, the Father does not promise immunity from storms; but He does promise to be with you, and to lead you to a safe harbor."

Prayer.—By one of the parents, thanking God that in the past He has always heard our cry of distress and made the storm a calm; also thanking Him that He will ever be our refuge.

NOTICE.

The place of the annual meeting of the North Carolina Christian Conference was left for the Executive Committee to select. Any Church willing to entertain this Conference which meets December 7th and 8th will please extend an invitation to the Executive Committee for the Conference.

G. O. LANKFORD,
W. C. WICKER,
L. L. VAUGHAN,
Elon College, N. C. Executive Committee.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE MOFFITT WHITESELL, Editor.

Dear Icicles:

Isn't it fun to read about ice and snow on a hot summer day? But isn't it nice to wake up these cold, cold mornings and see the frost on the ground! That means ice and snow isn't far away.

New readers, do join our "Korner" and write us a wee letter. Each letter from one of the Kiddies is just like a vote saying "Yes, I want the Kiddies' Korner to go on living."

Please, please, Icicles, write us a winter-time letter this very day.

Loving wishes from your editor and want-to-be friend.

MADGE FLEMING MOFFITT WHITESELL.

A DOUBLE-HEADED MOTHER'S DAY.

By Josephine Phillips.

How are you going to get your carnation for Mothers' Day?" asked Marie. "They're twenty-five cents apiece, and I spent my last penny for May-basket paper."

"So did I," said Emily, with a little sigh. "If I was only a boy, I'd mow somebody's lawn or weed a garden. Girls can't do anything but wash dishes. Are you going to earn your quarter, Dora?"

Dora shook her head. "I don't see how anybody can earn money in a little town like this. I wish I lived in a city, like Manfield."

"Oh, I wouldn't want to live there," spoke up Sally a little wistfully; "but I wish that mother could go there for a few days."

"Why?" Her three companions looked at her in surprise.

"Because grandmo'her lives there, and she's been sick. She can't come here for a visit, and mother can't go there because of the two hired men to cook for and spring planting. Besides, there isn't enough money on a farm in the spring to pay even carfare. I could manage the meals, so I've been saving and saving, but I haven't much over a dollar and a half. That wouldn't even take mother one way, and of course I'd want her to come back!" she laughed.

"You just keep on saving!"

Marie gave Sally a comforting little pat on the shoulder and jumped off the doerstep. She had an idea!

Dora, too, was very busy the next day, while Emily began to act quite mysterious about something. Very early on Wednesday morning Dora called at Emily's back door.

"Can you go over to Mrs. McEntire's with me? It's real important." Dora pointed to her little tissue-wrapped package.

"I was going there myself as soon as I had hung up my dish-towel," laughed Emily.

"Why, what are you doing there, this time of day?" asked Dora.

"You'd never guess! I'm washing dishes, morning and night, so Mrs. McEntire will have more time for the babies. By tonight I'll have fifty cents. That will buy my carnation and one for Sally, too, so she won't need to use her special money."

"Oh!" cried Dora, "you've taken almost my very plan. This package has two yards and a half of mile-a-minute lace in it. I showed Mrs. McEntire the sample, and she ordered some for the babies' dresses. She's paying me twenty cents a yard, and if you know your numbers that means my carnation and Sally's. Who's that?"

Ahead, in Mrs. McEntire's yard, was a small figure behind a clattering lawn-mower.

"Marie!" exclaimed the two girls, as they came nearer. "What are you doing?"

"I'm mowing down a Mothers' Day carnation for myself. I got Sally's yesterday, over on the parsonage lawn, so she won't have to use her special money." Emily and Dora looked at each other.

(Continued on Page 15.)

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings. (Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

PLEASANT HILL NEWS.

(Continued from Page 6.)

feast of watermelons, lemonade and cake. These social events play an important part in holding the interest of the children and youths in the Church. It is here that the old and young alike can meet on mutual grounds. We were glad to welcome the people of the Elmira Presbyterian Church to our grove for a picnic July 31st.

The singing has been no small feature in the year's program. Mr. D. H. Lashley is choir director and leader. He is a man of unusual talent, and a faithful and conscientious worker. He has labored untiringly that the people might be entertained with good singing, not only at the regular Church service, but several special "sings" have been held during the year. We are heavily indebted to Brother Lashley. We owe much to him for the interest shown in all our Church services. May the Lord bless him in his efforts.

The annual revival was held the first week in September. The pastor was assisted in these services by Rev. J. E. McCauley, a former pastor. Brother McCauley's sermons were full of spiritual truth and were very much appreciated. Although there was no great harvest of souls, the Church was greatly revived, and we feel that much seed was sown in good ground.

Our beloved pastor, Rev. H. E. Crutchfield, has served us faithfully and without fault. It is due to his wise counsel and good judgment that we have kept together so perfectly. He has accepted a unanimous call to serve us another year, with a twenty-five dollar increase in salary. By his good leadership may we go forward and accomplish great things for the kingdom through Jesus Christ our Lord.

EUGENE H. THOMPSON.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS NOTES.
(Continued from Page 10.)

Rev. J. G. Truitt, director for the Eastern Virginia Conference, was in attendance throughout and conducted the devotional meditations of the first full day session. Later on, Director Truitt contributed an able and stirring address to the discussion of ministerial preparation.

The Board chairman, J. H. Lightbourne, addressed the Convention on Saturday night on the subject, "The Call to the Ministry."

A Young People's congress and banquet were held Saturday afternoon under the direction of Miss Lucy Eldredge, formerly field worker for our Board.

Field Worker Pattie Coghill made a very acceptable member of the Convention committee on Roll.

Prof. W. M. Jay spoke on Friday night on the subject, "Men and Kingdom Finance."

Former Recording Secretary B. J. Earp, of the Eastern Virginia Convention, attended all the sessions and participated in several discussions. His successor in office, F. C. Lester, was also in attendance and conducted the devotional period the afternoon of the 27th.

Some old friends now serving in the Northern Churches were met with at the Convention, among them being E. H. Rainey, E. T. Cotton, W. H. Denison, H. Russel Clem, E. B. Flory, Shelton Smith, F. S. Sailor, L. F. Johnson.

A DOUBLE-HEADED MOTHER'S DAY.

(Continued from Page 14.)

"Well, if this isn't a mix-up!" laughed Emily. "Here all three of us have a carnation apiece, while Sally is going to have three carnations.

Then she explained to Marie what they had done. But Marie had the answer to their puzzle.

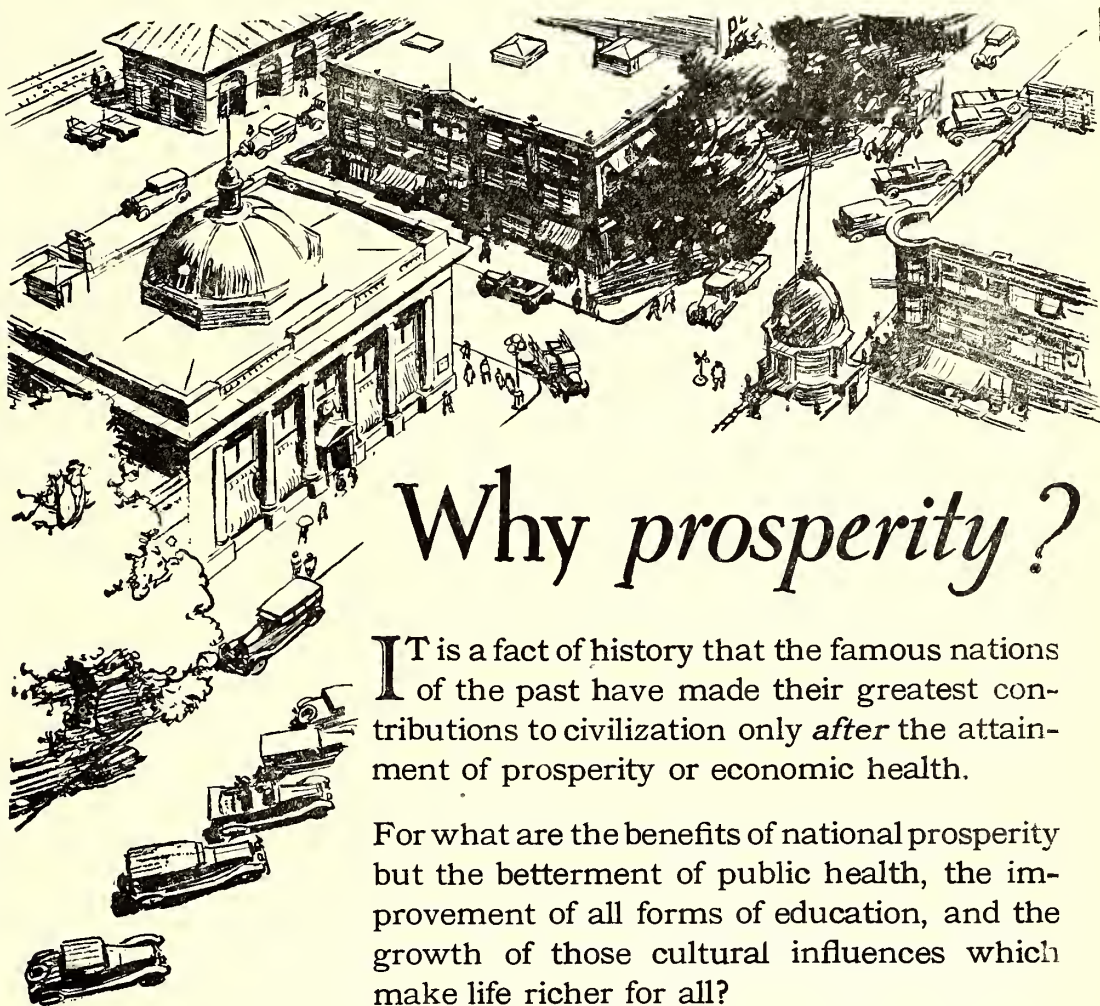

"We have a dollar and a half between us already, and I know of two more lawns that aren't too terrace-y for me to mow. Mrs. McEntire was just saying she hoped Emily would keep on helping her with dishes."

"And I know she can use all the lace I can crochet," chimed in Dora. "If we go without carnations ourselves, we'll have plenty for car-fare to send Sally's mother on a Mothers' Day visit to her mother. Wouldn't that be a double-headed Mothers' Day celebration, though? Shall we do it?"

"Of course we shall," they agreed.

Next Sunday, while Sally's mother was being a real tonic to her white-haired mother, four girls sat in a row at Church. Unless you got very close to them, you wouldn't have known but that the carnations they wore were real. Sally had made them from some of Marie's red May-basket paper, and Emily had scented them with perfume.

Why prosperity?

IT is a fact of history that the famous nations of the past have made their greatest contributions to civilization only after the attainment of prosperity or economic health.

For what are the benefits of national prosperity but the betterment of public health, the improvement of all forms of education, and the growth of those cultural influences which make life richer for all?

The prosperity of the South is today an accomplished fact, and, in the light of history, its promise for the future of the South is great.

The prosperity of southern communities is definitely bound up with the prosperity of the southern railroads. The Southern Railway System regards its present good credit and earning power as an opportunity to assist in the preservation of the general welfare of the South in the years that lie ahead.

Only a prosperous railroad can render the transportation service needed by the people of a prosperous country.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year $ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to "Editor Christian Sun," Elon College, N. C.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertiou. Display rates quoted upon request.

PARKERSON—TUCK.

The social event of the season for Virgilina was on Saturday P. M., October 23rd, at 3 o'clock, when Mr. George R. Parkerson, of Norfolk, Va., and Miss Nettie Sue Tuck were united in marriage at the home of the bride. The parlors of the home were beautifully and tastily decorated. Miss Pearl Tuck, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Mr. W. W. Tuck, father, gave his daughter away, and Mr. L. M. Cannou, brother-in-law of the groom, acted as best man. The ring ceremony of the Christian Church was used by the writer, the bride's pastor. Just before the bridal party entered the parlor, Mrs. Emerson King sang "I Love

You Truly"; Mrs. Arthur Tuck presided at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Parkerson are on a bridal trip to northern cities and will be at home after November 1st, at 4 Brevard Apart-Va.

Mrs. Parkerson is a graduate of Elon College, and has taught school for four years at Virgilina and Norfolk. It was the writer's privilege to receive her into the Church and baptize her when she was a child. She has always been possessed of a disposition that drew about her a host of friends. In social life, in the school and in Church her Christian influence is admirable.

Mr. Parkerson is an excellent young man, engaged in business in Norfolk, where he has many friends.

My prayer is for heaven's blessings to attend these young people on life's journey together, that they may prosper in material blessings and in Christian grace.

C. E. NEWMAN.

CLINE—KELLY.

On September 22, Mr. Ralph M. Cline and Miss Pearl Kelly were, by the writer, united in marriage. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Cline. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Kelly.

The writer joins the many friends of these popular young people as they begin married life together. May the Lord bless and prosper them.

R. L. WILLIAMSON.

Six Little Words.

Six little words lay claim to me
 Each passing day—
 I ought, I must, I can, I will,
 I dare, I may.

—Daily Song.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

- 04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00
- 0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00
- 04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35
- 0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75
- 05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.25
- 05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75
- 04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. $5.50
- 0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM "THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria

Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address

THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter. 5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Our Price—Post Paid. 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid. 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc. Our Price—Post Paid. 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid. 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearer Print in Smallest Size 4 1/2 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type: AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles. $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included. $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes 2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges. $85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red. 13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included. $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer 2135XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included. $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1926.

NUMBER 45.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By Rev. S. M. LYNAM.

PRESIDENT COFFIN SPEAKS.

The General Convention of the Christian Church met Wednesday afternoon, October 20th, at Urbana, Ill. The afternoon session of the Convention was given over to the hearing of reports. Dr. S. Parks Cadman, president of the Federal Council of the Churches, was to have addressed the Convention at the evening session. Dr. Cadman, however, did not arrive. He went instead to Urbana, Ohio. Dr. Martin Summerbell, Lakemont, N. Y., introduced Dr. F. G. Coffin, president of the Convention, who delivered his quadrennial address instead of Dr. Cadman. Dr. Coffin spoke on "The Christian Way in a Changing World." It was a call to the Church to return to the presentation of the Christ rather than the presentation of facts about Him. Dr. Coffin declared that the Church today was not suffering so much from differences as from indifferences. His address, by vote of the Convention, is to be published in pamphlet form for distribution. Every member of the Christian Church should secure and read this great address. In it Dr. Coffin sounded the keynote of the thinking of the Church, and particularly the thought which guided the Convention throughout its deliberations.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONGRESS.

Saturday afternoon of the Convention was given over to a memorial service, and the celebration of Communion. At the same time, the young people from all parts of the Church held a Church-wide congress at the Universalist Church of Urbana. A large number of young people from every section of the Convention were present, and under the able direction of Miss Lucy M. Eldredge, field secretary for young people of the Department of Christian Education, the program was a most successful one. The chief speaker of the afternoon session was Dr. Alva Martin Kerr, editor of the Herald of Gospel Liberty. Dr. Kerr brought a stirring message to the young people, speaking on the theme, "Youth and the Christian Church." The great editor urged the young people to a definite consecration of their lives. He believed that a general consecration of life to God was so broad that it could scarcely mean much to the young people making it. It was to consecrate oneself to some definite task for God which would bring out the best in the life of a young man or woman. Striking a note of optimism, and yet pointing out the weaknesses of youth today, Dr. Kerr stirred these leaders of the youth of the Christian Church profoundly, and sent them out more definitely committed to service for the Church and the Christ.

This session of the congress was followed by a social hour in which the young people played games and became better acquainted with each other. They entered heartily into this program, demonstrating in a fine way the need and usefulness of the four-fold program which has been planned for them by Miss Eldredge. A banquet followed this social hour, at which Rev. Frank Wright presided as toastmaster. He handled the ceremonies in a most admirable way. Wit and vivacity characterized his presentation of the various speakers. Most of these speakers were young people, and the speeches which they made were most commendable. Dean Ernest D. Gilbert, of Defiance College, spoke on "Forward on the Christian Trail Together." Dean Gilbert brought a sane and uplifting message to the 150 persons present at the banquet.

In a body, the banquets went to the auditorium of the First Baptist Church of Urbana for the evening meeting. Dr. W. A. Harper, president of Elon College and general secretary of the Department of Christian Education, presided at this meeting. Dr. James H. Lightbourne and Mr. Hermon Eldredge were the speakers of the evening. Dr. Lightbourne, of the Holland Christian Church, Virginia, discussed the call to the ministry, and Mr. Eldredge, of the Department of Christian Education, the call to Christian service. Both delivered stirring addresses, bringing to a close the first Church-wide congress.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

The Sunday which fell during the Convention was a day of great messages. Dr. Alva Martin Kerr, editor of the Herald of Gospel Liberty; Mr. Fred B. Smith, secretary of the World Alliance for Friendship through the Churches, and Dr. L. E. Smith, Norfolk, Va., were the speakers of the day. Dr. Kerr, in a soul-stirring message, moved the audience who heard him in the auditorium of the University of Illinois profoundly. He urged the holding of a present and vital Christ and the tearing away of those things in the Church which tend to obscure Him. It was a call to the sacrifice of the cross which Dr. Kerr gave. By vote of the Convention, this powerful sermon is to appear in the Herald of Gospel Liberty and in pamphlet form for distribution. It should find a deep and abiding place in the hearts of the Church, because it is the message so much needed in the world today. Dr. Kerr is the author of "Thinking Through," one of the most powerful and sane commentaries on the religious situation which has appeared. This book deserves and should receive a wide reading throughout the brotherhood.

Mr. Fred B. Smith spoke at the afternoon session on the world outlook, discussing whether it promised peace or war, revolution or brotherhood. He presented the dark situation as many are seeing it in the world, and declared that the men who refused to see the seriousness of the world problem now were not deserving of our hearing. He then pointed to the peace among the common people as the hopeful sign of the future. He cited incidents from his numerous experience: in many parts of the world to illustrate this great hope, and then very briefly he spoke of the program which he believed would usher in the peace for which men long. He charged the pulpit with the great task of education and leadership; urged that the Church underwrite all efforts in the right direction, such as the League of Nations, the World Court, and other worthy ideas; but he made it very clear that the hope of the world was the actual practice of the principles of Christ. These were fundamental, and without them peace could never come to abide.

Dr. L. E. Smith, at the evening service, spoke on "The Christ of the Crimson Road." It was a powerful appeal to see the Christ of the cross and to be influenced by his message.

PRESENTING THE DEPARTMENTS.

All the departments of the Church were ably presented by the chosen speakers. Prof. S. A. Bennett, Miss Lucy M. Eldredge, and Dr. A. G. Caris presented the program of the Department of Christian Education; stewardship was ably presented by Dr. W. M. Jay, Rev. S. C. Harrell, and Dr. G. O. Lankford; home missions were discussed by Dean W. R. Collins, of Franklinton Christian College for Negroes. Dean Collins ably presented the cause of negro education, and brought the needs of Franklinton to the attention of the Convention in a most vivid way. Rev. H. M. Hainer discussed Church extension, and Mr. J. K. Johnson, of the Dayton, Ohio, Y. M. C. A., talked about Americanization work in a most interesting fashion. Dr. J. O. Atkinson was the speaker for foreign missions, and, in his own fine way, brought a message of stirring power which moved the Convention mightily. Dr. W. P. Minton, secretary of the Department of Foreign Missions, read messages from all the missionaries we have on the field. It was a most impressive service, being closed as it was by a devotion period, led by Mrs. Alice V. Merrill. Dr. Howsare and Dr. Charles L. Goodell cared for the Department of Evangelism most ably.

NEW OFFICERS.

Because of advancing age, Dr. J. F. Burnett, who for many years has served the Convention as secretary in a most acceptable manner, retired from this important position. Through the President of the Convention, the members of that body presented Dr. Burnett with a purse of $120. Dr. Warren H. Denison was chosen to succeed Dr. Burnett. Dr. Omer S. Thomas, secretary of home missions, resigned, to re-enter the pastorate, and

(Continued on Page 5.)

NOTES-PERSONALS

Today is remembered as the anniversary of Armistice Day, ending of the World War, 1918.

Rev. G. C. Crutchfield, who has been located at Wakefield, Va., has closed his pastorate there and has moved to Stokesdale, N. C., becoming pastor of several Churches located in reach of Stokesdale.

Rev. M. F. Allen, formerly pastor United Christian Church, Lynchburg, has moved to Newport News, Va., where he has become pastor of the Christian Church. Brother Allen will certainly find a most loyal and willing people at Newport News.

Rev. G. H. Veazey, of Elon College, preached for our Lynchburg people morning and evening last Sunday. He reports a most enthusiastic people, a most promising outlook, a splendid Church building, a hopeful congregation and an inviting pastorate for some minister who may be called to serve them.

Several leaflets on adult work in the Sunday School may be had by writing the secretary, Miss Pattie Coghill, Henderson, N. C. "The Adult Worker and Work," by Barclay & Phifer, price $1.00, is one of the finest books on adult work. Have you a home department for those who cannot attend Sunday School?

A good sister (to be personal, Mrs. J. S. Persons, Windsor, Va.) puts it this way: "I send check to renew my subscription. THE CHRISTIAN SUN shines in my home after the sun goes down. I do hope it will shine in all homes of the Christian Church." Now, that is just the right way to think, talk and write to and about your Church paper.

If you will just send that check for $5.00, $10.00, or $20.00 today to help erect those memorials to Old Lebanon, in Surry County, Va., and to Rev. James O'Kelly on the campus at Elon College, this will save you the trouble and the time of sending it tomorrow or some other day. Of course, you are going to send it, so come along and let's get over with it. Thank you, loyal ones and true.

The women of the Valley Virginia Conference, according to a splendid program recently sent out, are holding their missionary rally at New Hope Church, near Harrisonburg, Va., November 13th. We trust the rally will be well attended, as the program is an excellent one. One of the great helps to our missionary work among the women has been these rallies in the small groups of Churches.

Rev. H. C. Caviness, Cary, N. C., was installed as pastor of First Church, Portsmouth, Sunday, November 7th. Brother Caviness recently conducted a most successful meeting in this Church and found a work fraught with possibilities and prospects of growth and development and of service, and the people of First Church, Portsmouth, found in Brother Caviness a man whom they can afford to follow as their leader in building up the work which they so much love.

We sincerely hope that increased contributions to the Old Lebanon and O'Kelly memorial funds will pour in on us the next few weeks. After having neglected for a hundred years these two epoch-making events of our Church life, it would seem that we Christians would greet with gladness the privilege of making contributions to this fund. Surely, now that we have made the start, we will hasten the day of erecting these memorials to the man and the Church site most eminently associated with our history as a people.

It is learned, with regret, that Rev. P. L. Duke, of Phoenix, Ala., member of the Georgia and Alabama Conference, passed from his earthly to his heavenly home recently. Brother Duke was a very consecrated and much-beloved minister of the gospel and was faithful unto death. We have not learned the date of his death and place of burial, but these will be given later. Brother Duke had been in failing health for more than two years, but spent that time, much of it, in anxiety and supplication for others. Surely a good man has gone to his reward.

NOTICE.

As the several Conferences in North Carolina meet during this month, the November meeting of the Piedmont Christian Ministers' Association will not be held. We meet, however, in December at the usual time, on Monday after the second Sunday

G. O. LANKFORD, Secretary.

NOTICE.

Delegates and ministers of the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference, which is to meet at New Lebanon Christian Church November 16, 1926, Rockingham County, N. C., who are coming by train to Reidsville, will please notify Bro. Garrett Sharpe, secretary of the Church, Wentworth, N. C., Route 1, of the time of their arrival, so they can be met. Those coming by their own conveyance either from Greensboro or Reidsville, will take North Carolina State highway to Mr. George Ross', twelve miles west of Reidsville, and the road north from there to the Church.

J. W. KNIGHT.

PROGRAM OF NORTH CAROLINA AND VIRGINIA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Following is the program of the one hundred and first annual session of the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference, to be held at New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., November 16, 17, 18, 1926:

First Day—Morning Session.

- 10:30 Conference Called to Order by the President, Dr. C. H. Rowland.
Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. R. A. Whitten.
- 10:45 Roll Call of Ministers and Churches.
Enrollment of Delegates.
- 11:00 Welcome Address, Mr. W. T. Moore.
Response, Rev. T. F. Wright.
- 11:20 Report of Program Committee.
Report of Executive Committee.
Report of Treasurer H. C. Simpson.
Announcement of Special Committees.
Reception of Visitors.
- 11:45 Annual Address of the President, Dr. C. H. Rowland.
- 12:30 Adjournment for Dinner.

First Day—Afternoon Session.

- 2:00 Conference Called to Order.
Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. J. S. Carden.
- 2:15 Report of Committee on Religious Literature,
Rev. J. W. Patton, Chairman.
Address, Rev. J. W. Patton.

- 2:45 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 3:00 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions,
Rev. P. T. Klapp, Chairman.
Address, Rev. P. T. Klapp.
- 3:45 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 4:00 Miscellaneous Business.
Report of Entertainment Committee.
- 4:30 Adjournment.

First Day—Evening Session.

- 7:30 Praise Service.
Sermon, Dr. J. U. Newman.
Communion Service, administered by Dr. P. H. Fleming and Rev. P. T. Klapp.

Second Day—Morning Session.

- 9:30 Conference Called to Order.
Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. L. L. Wyrick.
- 9:45 Reading of Minutes and Enrollment.
- 10:00 Report of Committee on Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor, Rev. T. F. Wright, Acting Chairman.
Address, Rev. T. F. Wright.
- 10:30 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 11:00 Report of Budget Committee, Dr. W. A. Harper, Chairman.
General Discussion, led by Dr. W. A. Harper.
Vote on Report.
Miscellaneous Business.
- 12:30 Adjournment for Dinner.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.

- 2:00 Conference Called to Order.
Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. M. F. Allen.
- 2:15 Report of Committee on Home Missions, Rev. J. A. Ledbetter, Acting Chairman.
Address, "Organizing the Home Base," Rev. Stanley C. Harrell.
Address, "Spiritualizing the Home Base," Dr. P. H. Fleming.
- 3:00 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 3:15 Report of Committee on Education, Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Chairman.
Address, Dr. W. A. Harper.
- 3:45 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 4:00 Report of Committee on Stewardship, Mrs. C. H. Rowland, Chairman.
Address, Mrs. C. H. Rowland.
General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 4:45 Adjournment.
- #### Second Day—Evening Program.
- 7:30 Worship Service.
Sermon, Rev. H. E. Crutchfield.

Third Day—Morning Session.

- 9:30 Conference Called to Order.
Devotional Service, conducted by Rev. J. F. Apple.
- 9:45 Reading of Minutes, and of Pastoral and Church Letters.
- 10:15 Report of Committee on Superannuation, Mr. C. D. Johnston, Chairman.
General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 10:45 "The Christian Orphanage," Superintendent Chas. D. Johnston.
- 11:15 Report of Committee on Moral Reform, Dr. W. S. Alexander, Chairman.
Address, Dr. W. S. Alexander.
- 11:40 General Discussion and Vote on Report.
- 12:00 Miscellaneous Business.
Report of Collectors.
Report of Auditors.
Report of all other Special Committees.
Closing Service (to be arranged).
Final Adjournment.
- Program Committee:
STANLEY C. HARRELL.
C. H. ROWLAND.

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

A GREAT CONFERENCE.

They went, they saw, and they were conquered! Thus is described the procedure of the Eastern Virginia Conference, in annual session at Havre de Grace, Md., November 2nd, 3rd, and 4th. It was a great session, a great contact and a great conquest. The great-hearted people of Webster Community Church literally captured and took possession of the Conference as a whole, and then every individual part of it. No people ever entertained a Conference with more zest, abandon and whole-hearted hospitality than did the members and friends of Webster Community Church. Rev. M. W. Sutcliffe, the consecrated, competent and courageous pastor, was everywhere and was doing everything to make everybody comfortable and happy, and all his people followed their leader. Brother Sutcliffe is a man of parts and power. He preaches, has a wonderful voice in song, plays the piano, pours out his heart in intercession, and inspires his congregation and all who come in contact with him to go forward in the service of the King. He and his people are doing mighty things in the name of the Lord. He believes first of all in prayer, and then proceeds to put on a program in keeping with his praying. He wants his people to pray, and then they just naturally know how to pray. It was all so beautiful, marvelous and wonderful. Two years ago just a piece of ground out in a fine rural community; then a vision, and things began to take place. The Church building, ground and parsonage have cost $53,000.00, and you would not believe it were you to see what they have. Not the most inviting house on the outside, but once you enter you realize that you are in a sanctuary—solemn, impressive, comfortable, with every suggestion and invitation to be reverential and to worship. They began work on this building on March 13, 1924. When they began, they then and there decided to finish at noon on August 23rd of the same year. That was just five months and ten days, and they carried their schedule out and finished on August the 23rd, five minutes before noon, and the beautiful edifice was dedicated on August 24, 1924. It was a great achievement, and they have a plant that is a credit to any people, and pays tribute in proper proportions to their reverence and adoration of their God. The building has the impressive cathedral windows, a splendid pipe organ, polished hardwood floors, great oak pews, and an impressive baptismal font, a Sunday School auditorium, and rooms and a basement beneath equipped for cooking and serving meals to several hundred people at the same time. Well, this is one splendid, up-to-date, well-equipped rural Church, with a loyal constituency and an aggressive and consecrated pastor and a whole-hearted people. No wonder the delegates and all who attended the Eastern Virginia Conference last week were taken in and captured.

But it was a great body and a great Conference and greatly attended, considering the long distance the delegates had to travel. Harmonious in deliberation, progressive in plans adopted, delightful in fellowship, thrilling in the great addresses delivered. THE SUN's editor did not arrive in time to hear the opening address by the President, Rev. W. D. Harward, but he heard highest words of commendation and a request unanimously adopted that the address be printed in THE CHRISTIAN SUN. Rev. J. G. Truitt delivered an exceedingly helpful address, tracing the genesis and genius of our history and polity. One of the outstanding addresses was that by Dr. W. H. Denison on "Stewardship." A layman was heard to remark that if he had five hundred thousand dollars, one hundred thousand of it should go to placing upon the minds and hearts of our people the program so impressively presented by Dr. Denison. He would certainly get his money's worth in results.

The Conference sermon by Rev. L. E. Smith, D. D., Norfolk, Va., struck a sympathetic and responsive chord in the minds and hearts of the great congregation who heard it, and that sermon will live in their lives. Dr. Smith never spoke with more power and impressiveness, and was never heard more gladly and joyously. Lieutenant-Governor J. E. West brought to the Conference a historical address, using as his topic "The Religious Legacy of our Forefathers." The Conference was exceedingly anxious to see this great address in print, and it will be in an early issue of THE SUN unless Colonel West desperately denies its readers the privilege. It showed that our forefathers had a passion and a plea for their day and have transmitted to us a torch that we should kindle into a great flame and transmit it to the generations to come. Miss Pattie Coghill, field secretary of Christian education in the Southern Convention, impressively presented the work of the Elon Summer School and showed some of the advantages and benefits to be derived from attending the school. On Wednesday night, Dr. R. C. Helfenstein, the brilliant and beloved pastor of our Dover Church, simply inspired his great audience with a heavenly and holy message on "Christian Leadership for Our Day." All of us agreed with Dr. Staley in saying that this was certainly Dr. Helfenstein's greatest and most helpful utterances thus far before our Conference or Conventions. The address had to do with the method of producing Christian leaders; of that spirit of devotion and consecration necessary to producing Christian leaders. He told us how Christian leaders had been produced and pointed out quite clearly the only method by which we might hope to produce them in the years to come.

There were many other addresses of interest, and all the reports were well thought out and discussed with interest and becoming intelligence and wisdom.

That which interested the Conference as no other one report was the decision of the Southern Convention at its last session at Durham in the matter of the budget and the greatly increased apportionment. The Conference had voted a year ago to increase the apportionment in keeping with the decision of the Convention two years ago. The apportionment to the Churches was made known at the Conference and was adopted as read, with one or two slight exceptions. It was voted by this Conference to undertake raising the entire amount, or as much thereof as possible, even for the first year of the amount voted by the Southern Convention.

Rev. H. S. Hardcastle led the daily devotions, which were exceedingly appropriate to the occasion and very helpful to all.

In order to help solve the financial problem of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, it was voted that all the pastors of the Conference endeavor to increase threefold the number of subscribers in their field before January 1, 1927.

The Conference licensed as a probationer Bro. Richie Edwin Brittle, now a junior in Elon College, who comes from Union Christian Church, Surry County, Va., and voted that Rev. Floyd D. Ballard, pastor of our Henderson Church and a graduate of Elon College, be ordained during the session of the Eastern North Carolina Conference to be held soon. Rev. H. S. Hardcastle was elected President of the Conference for the coming year, and Rev. J. F. Morgan, Vice-President, Rev. I. W. Johnson, D. D., remaining as Recording Secretary, and Brother H. Woodward, of Suffolk, Va., Treasurer.

The next session of the Conference is to open on Wednesday before the first Sunday in November, and is to be held at South Norfolk, Va.

The choir of the Webster Community Church greatly enlivened and edified the Conference with programs of song, and at one service they were assisted by members of the choir from the Dover, Del., Church to the delight of all. On the closing night of the Conference the Woman's Missionary Society put on a most impressive pageant, "How Aunt Tilly Learned to Tithe." This was an exceedingly suggestive pageant and one that every Church could easily put on to great profit and advantage.

We have not attended a session of the Eastern Virginia Conference that seemed to do as many good and great things in such a wonderful spirit of promise and progressiveness as this one. It was indeed good to be there. J. O. A.

ENLISTING FOR CHRIST FOR SERVICE TO HIS CHURCH.

The writer, who is also pastor of People's Christian Church, Dover, Del., recently submitted the following to each member of his congregation on a printed sheet, with a square marked at the left of each request so that the letter "X" could be placed in answer to each request and the same returned to the pastor. Requests have come from other pastors that such a plan be given them, and, for the sake of what it may be worth either to our pastors or to our laymen, I submit it as it was printed and laid before my congregation:

"The Christian's highest privilege is to enlist in definite lines of Church activities and kingdom service for Christ and His Church. Our goal is to make this Church year the best year in the history of our Church in order that we may expect the most from God for our personal lives, our homes, our Church and our community.

In how many of the following lines of Christian service will you enlist? Mark an "X" in the square in front of each item for which you will enlist, sign your name, and hand it to the pastor next Sunday.

Health and strength permitting, it is my sincere purpose this year—

To attend worship services each Sunday, morning and evening.

To attend at least one service of worship each Sunday.

To attend the prayer service and Bible study each Wednesday evening.

To attend the Sunday morning class meeting.

To attend Sunday School each Sunday.

To promote the interests of the "Lend-a-Hand Society."

To promote the interests of the St. Paul's Brotherhood.

To be willing to teach a Sunday School class.

To attend a community leadership training school for Sunday School teachers.

To attend a class in practical psychology for a ten-weeks' course.

To be willing to sing in the choir.

To be willing to act as usher.

To bow my head in silent prayer at each service of worship when first seated.

To have thanks offered before each meal.

To have family worship each day.

To read a few verses from the Bible each day.

To pray for my pastor and my Church each day.

To contribute each week to the support of the Church.

To contribute to missions and the other benevolences of the Church.

To practice tithing—to give one-tenth of my income each week to the Lord's work.

To take the Herald of Gospel Liberty or THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

To attend the Woman's Missionary meeting each month.

To attend the Young People's Missionary meeting each month.

To invite my friends and neighbors to our Church.

To try to win at least one person to Christ during the year.

To furnish a bouquet of flowers for the Church three Sundays during the year.

To furnish one bouquet for the memorial vase in memory of some loved one.

To assist with the Church night suppers.

To be willing to assist in directing games at socials in the community hall.

To be willing to call on members who are "shut-ins," and read to them.

To be willing to render any service within my power when requested by the pastor.

To boost People's Christian Church and all its organizations at every opportunity.

To seek sincerely to live as Christ would have me live in my personal life, my home life, my business life, and my social life.

(N. B.: Please mark an "X" in square in front of each item for which you will enlist in the Master's name and for His Church. The more things you are willing to do for the Church of the living God, the more you have a right to expect from God. Sign your name and mail or hand to the pastor, bring filled out this Sunday morning if possible.)"

The pastor is hopeful that this request will result in greater activity in the Church and for the Lord the coming year.

R. C. H.

CARELESS AND LAZY.

Recently, somewhere in my reading, I chanced upon a very suggestive sentence. The writer was discussing that matchless story of the ten virgins. In commenting upon the five foolish virgins, he said: "The worst that could be said of them, they were careless and a little lazy, and yet they were shut out." Careless and a little lazy—what trivial faults they seem when mentioned in the average connection, and how quick we would be to pass over and make excuses for such trivial faults. But when viewed in the light of the consequences they brought about, how terribly tragic they were! Doubtless, in every other particular those girls were charming and delightful personalities. But their undoing was due to the fact that they were careless and a little bit lazy.

Does not this aptly characterize a great many members of the average Church. They are delightful people, with engaging personalities and charming manners. There can be found no fault with them, save that when it comes to the work of the Church and the bearing of the responsibilities of the kingdom, they are just careless and a little bit lazy. Many of them occasionally render very valuable service in the work of the Church, but whether or not they serve, generally depends upon impulse and their individual convenience. They are like the household hatchet—when most the delegate has to come to Conference and report that we tried very hard, but we were unable to raise all that Conference asked of us, and we would like for the Conference to reduce the amount apportioned to our Church. It does not require a very vivid imagination to see a similarity between what happens so often in our Churches and what evidently must have happened among the five foolish virgins when the bridegroom was at the door.

The tragedy of it all is only apparent when one gets a glimpse of the effect upon the larger work that the Church is endeavoring to do. Attend the general Conventions and Conferences of the Church and listen to the reports. Hear those who are planning for larger and better work in the home field tell about what could be done if they only had the means. Find out how the enterprises of the Church are hampered and embarrassed by debts and deficits. And then listen to those who are responsible for the foreign work of the Church tell of the opportunities and of the needed, it is frequently impossible to find them.

Webster Community Christian Church, Havre de Grace, Md., where the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference was held.

There are, doubtless, many Churches whose failure to render the service that might be reasonably expected of them can be explained by these two words, careless and lazy. They have the very best of intentions, and they have ample means at their disposal to enable them to do all that they might wish, but they neglect to do the necessary planning and the necessary work in time to take care of the situation. And when the testing time comes they are found wanting. If they had only thought about the matter in time, and if they had begun to prepare in time it could very easily have been a very different story.

We are now in the midst of the season when the Churches are preparing their reports to Conference, and when they are finishing up the work of the year. It sometimes happens in a Church that some good brother rises up and says, "Behold, week after next the annual Conference meets." And then some one asks just how much was the amount that Conference asked us to send up this year. There is a hurried search for a copy of the "Annual," and then begins a hurried rushing about to beg and to borrow enough to take care of the situation. And too many times wonderful results that have been achieved, and then of what they would like to do, but that the funds are not available.

You will, perhaps, get only a glimpse of the heart-break and agony and despair that we have forced upon them. And all because all of us, all the way along the line have been careless and a little bit lazy. If being careless and a little bit lazy was sufficient to shut out the foolish virgins, it is high time that all of us begin to consider our ways, lest we not only cause the door to be shut upon us, but lest we, through our carelessness and laziness, cause the door of opportunity to be closed to countless thousands for whom we are responsible to our God.

(Continued from Page 1.)

Rev. A. W. Sparks was chosen as his successor. The other executives remained as they were, but a number of changes in the membership of the various boards was made necessary by the new provision of the Constitution declaring that no person could sit on more than one board. The Convention is fortunate in those who will lead the enterprises of the Church during the next four years.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Prayer is the most universal of Christian exercise. Few preach. More sing; but the singers are few compared with the entire body of believers. More attend Church than preach or sing; but more than all of these pray. "Men ought always to pray, lifting up holy hands without wrath or doubting." That is difficult to do. "Holy hands" means more than words can express; "without doubting" is another difficult attitude of mind, for "if I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me." Notwithstanding these high requirements, Christian people pray, not only in Church, but in their homes, and at their work. If the prayers of God's people could be gathered up, they would tax radio to the limit. Most of the prayers are never heard by man; but God's "ears are open to the cry" of His humblest and most unworthy child.

Wrong has no other relief but in prayer. Many agonizing prayers reach the throne of mercy and bring forgiveness and peace to the closeted soul. The "closet" is any secret place where the penitent soul and the worshipful souls commune with God. There can be no worship without prayer. Fine sermons, fine music, fine congregations, fine Church, fine offering all fail without prayer. Prayer contains thanksgiving, confession, adoration, and appeal. "Ask what ye will" and, "according to your faith, so be it unto you. Two essentials for a real revival, prayer and song; but prayer comes first and continues all the way through. This does not mean that public prayer is all. The prayer in the pew, which is never heard, welling up from devout hearts, creates an atmosphere of reverence, conviction, penitence and faith.

The most difficult thing for the minister in the pulpit is not his sermon, but his prayer. It is easier to preach than to pray. There are more good sermons in the pulpit than good prayers. If you listen to many prayers in the pulpit and in the pew, you will discover that much of the prayer is an address for men. This is especially manifest on special occasions. To keep out of mind what the congregation will think of the prayers and approach the throne of God in the spirit of sincere worship, is a difficult thing. Most people who pray in public are conscious of this element of personal pride. Such prayers are more words than spirit; yet God is spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth. This is the reason why uneducated men who pray in public seem to be closer to God in prayer than educated men. They are not thinking about their language, but of God and His love. An educated man can hardly help thinking of how his thought and his language sound to the congregation. What this generation needs is the education of the heart as well as the head. Deep-seated love does not hunt for choice quotations, classic sentences, and rhetorical expressions—it sobs out its feelings with chokings and plain speech. The lover may write poetry and send by mail, but face to face, it is a sob, a stammer, a look, an emotion that cannot be put in words. Many of our speech-prayers do not bring the blessing; but the heart yearning of faith does.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

I am having a new experience this year as a Sunday School teacher. The young ladies of the senior class have selected as their course of study for the year that excellent book by Bruce Curry entitled "Facing Student Problems." The method of conducting the course is what is known as group discussion, and among the topics which the course covers are honesty, purity, fraternities, loyalties, radicalism, race, industrialism, life work, faith, prayer, the Church, death, war, and the like.

The first discussion dealt with "Where Do We Need New Standards?" It was a rigid self-examination of the college life and student conduct.

In this day it is generally supposed that college students are critical of their college, the faculty, and the board of trustees, and that they are prone to find defects in the rules and regulations of the college and what have been called "hamp-ringing restrictions" on student life and conduct, abridging freedom and liberty.

Now, strange to say, these young ladies did not indulge in criticism of their college at all, nor of the faculty, nor of the board of trustees, nor of the college regulations, but they pointed out the weaknesses in student conduct as they had sensed them during their previous three years of study here. The following faults were listed by these earnest-minded young women: getting by, plagiarism, cheating spending too much money on confectionaries, unnecessary noise, damaging and destroying property, not sleeping enough, clamminess, irreverence, and not attending voluntary services on the campus.

The dire prophecies as to the future of American life, and particularly of American home life, which greet us on every hand do not appear to be borne out in the straightforward, matter-of-fact manner in which these young women diagnosed the student conduct of their campus. The present generation of young life may not be perfection, but it is certainly not the awful thing it is painted to be on the part of certain observers of our time.

I have not the time to go into a detailed discussion of these weaknesses of the college life, nor of how these young women resolved that they would adjust themselves to remedy them during their senior year. The fact that they are keen-witted and open-minded to the point where they could so thoroughly diagnose the situation that confronts them is most encouraging. It means much for the college where they are students, and it means much for the next generation which will largely be in their hands and the hands of their contemporaries.

W. A. HARPER.

RECEIPTS FOR MEMORIALS.

We are receiving some reports from those taking an interest in the memorials to Rev. James O'Kelly and the Old Lebanon site, Surry County, Va. The total cost of these two memorials is $2,075.00. This is one enterprise in which the entire Church should take interest and pride. Individuals, Churches, and congregations and Sunday Schools should all have a part in trying to make a contribution to our permanent history in this way.

We are glad to acknowledge the following:

Henderson Church, Henderson, N. C.	$ 8.00
Randleman Church, Randleman, N. C.	5.15
Long's Chapel Church, Burlington, N. C.	4.35

Union (Surry) Church, Dendron, Va.	10.00
Wm. Staley Bible Class, Suffolk, Va.	6.75

Total past week	$ 34.25
Reported in The Sun last week	217.18

Total received to date (Nov. 6th)	$251.43
---	----------

We are profoundly grateful for these contributions. Why not tell our neighbors and friends and send the funds in so that we may have this long-delayed work done before this good year of 1926 is over. Send all funds to the treasurer of the committee, who will acknowledge same through THE SUN.

Gratefully and sincerely yours,

COMMITTEE ON MEMORIALS.

JUDGE J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.
 W. E. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.
 REV. S. C. HARRELL, Treasurer, Durham, N. C.
 J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.

A TRAVELER RETURNS HOME.

It is not of miles I am thinking. I am thinking of men, and God, and the spirit of Jesus. Our boat is homeward bound, my heart is happy, for what heart is not happy when turning homeward, but home is not the thing of which I am writing. Into my life have come two great Conferences, and this boat will bear me into Norfolk harbor a bit more determined to return something into the kingdom of God for the things that have so fed my soul within the last three weeks. Let me be brief: It is no little thing to have had the privilege of spending more than a week in intimate association with the President of the Southern Christian Convention at our great General Christian Convention, in Urbana, Ill. The long morning and evening walks to and from our room together, the moments of united prayer and intercession, the counsel and comradeship and the striving to attain unto the fuller and better comradeship of the Christ, are not lightly to be passed over.

Programs of progressive measures were prayerfully approached in that great Convention at Urbana by picked men from every part of our brotherhood, and right well were they put into operation. Addresses of directness and forethought, prepared as unto God, but of holy fear and heavenly faith, were delivered with a flaming passion at their proper time. Motions and measures were carefully made, and while the future will find whatever weaknesses they may contain, it will never overshadow the fact the Spirit of the Saviour of the world was eagerly sought in all their making. It was a great Convention. It was bigger than the men and women that there convened, for in that Convention was the Spirit of Christ, ruling and over-ruling, which Christ was felt by all to be pre-eminent.

Little men with great messages, and great men with real sermons and addresses played their parts equally well. But business was also attended to—the business of kingdom building, denomination-wide in scope and world-wide in faith and love. It was good to be there, and our next convention must be greater because this one has been great, and the fruit of the present quadrennium must be finer and fuller for the faith that was there everywhere expressed.

But this boat bears me from the Maryland session of the Eastern Virginia Conference. The very word "Maryland" reminds one of the days of O'Kelly and Haggard in a Baltimore Methodist Conference, and "Virginia" reminds one of the land to which they carried their expressed longings for liberty and latitude in a matter so broad as that of loving and serving Christ their Lord. This is the first time in nearly one hundred and fifty years that the successors of O'Kelly and Haggard and others have returned from a Maryland Conference to mount their pulpits in their Virginia Churches. What great responsibility rests upon us! What wonderfully fine historic associations come into our minds at this moment! What great inspiration we have just had in Maryland to measure up to our trust in Virginia, and Maryland, and Delaware, in preaching the liberty and unity of God's people in the spread of the gospel of His Son!

At this Maryland session we have undertaken to do great things, and some herald will hasten to our fields ahead of us, saying: "It can't be done, it can't be done," but we shall not be worthy of our predecessors, nor the passion of the addresses still ringing in our ears, nor the Christ whose crimson road we seek to travel if we do not go in and possess the land our God has given to us.

JOHN G. TRUITT.

PROGRAM OF THE FIFTY-FOURTH ANNUAL SESSION, WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Pleasant Grove Church, Randolph County, November 23-25, 1926.

First Day—Morning Session. 10:30 o'Clock.

- 1. Called to Order by President.
2. Devotional Services by Rev. T. J. Green.
3. Enrollment of Ministers and Delegates.
4. Election of Officers.
5. Report of Program Committee.
6. Appointment of Special Committees.
7. Annual Address by President, Rev. G. O. Lankford.
8. Adjournment.

First Day—Afternoon Session. 2:00 o'Clock.

- 1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. M. Allred.
2. Report of Executive Committee.
3. Ministerial and Church Reports.
4. Report on Religious Literature, Rev. G. R. Underwood, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session. 10:00 o'Clock.

- 1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. U. Fogleman.
2. Minutes of Previous Day.
3. Report on Foreign Missions.
4. Address by Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.
5. The Christian Orphanage, by Supt. Chas D. Johnston.
6. Sermon by Rev. J. C. Cummings.
7. Adjournment.

Second Day—Afternoon Session. 2:00 o'Clock.

- 1. Devotional Services by Rev. E. C. Brady.
2. Report on Home Missions, Rev. T. J. Green, Chairman.
3. Report of Woman's Board, Mrs. D. A. Cornelison, Chairman.
4. Report on Moral Reform, Rev. J. M. Allred, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Third Day—Morning Session. 10:00 o'Clock.

- 1. Devotional Services, Rev. W. C. Martin.
2. Report on Education, Rev. T. E. White, Chairman.

- Address by Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College.
3. Report on Sunday Schools, B. S. Moffitt, Chairman.
4. Report on Christian Endeavor, Mrs. Madge Moffitt Whitesell, Chairman.
5. Adjournment.

Third Day—Afternoon Session. 1:30 o'Clock.

- 1. Devotional Services by Rev. W. J. Edwards.
2. Miscellaneous Business. Reports. Appointment of Committees for next year.
3. Reading and Adoption of Minutes.
4. Farewell Service, conducted by Rev. T. E. White.
5. Final Adjournment.

G. O. LANKFORD, T. E. WHITE, Program Committee.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES. Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and price.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x 7 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 1-1-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1-1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3 1/2 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps. $2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools. $2.50

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold. $1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold. $3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold. $2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, briefer, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x 8-1-2 Inches and 1-3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold. $3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

THE WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

The good women of the North Carolina Woman's Missionary Conference met in annual session with our Raleigh Church Friday, November 5th, and did a fine day's work for their Lord and the Church. Mrs. L. L. Vaughan is president of the body and worked very assiduously the past year not only to make this Conference a success, but to increase interest in missions among the women and young people of the Conference and to increase the number of missionary organizations. The fruits of her labors were in evidence at the annual meeting and all who attended seem to be gratified at the results achieved. The number of delegates attending may not have been equal to that on some previous occasion, but the societies were well represented and the reports were excellent. Mrs. J. Lee Johnson, of the Wake Chapel Society, opened the service with devotionals. On the roll call of the societies it was found that nearly every society was represented both by a delegate and with a report. The reports of the officers showed activity and deep interest in their respective lines. Mrs. W. R. Sellars, the efficient and capable treasurer, reported a total received from women's societies the past year of $2,977.12; from Young People's Missionary Societies, $458.83; from Junior Young People, $91.50; from Willing Workers, $188.00; from the Cradle Roll, $119.78, and from district rallies, $73.90, making a total received for the year of $3,909.13. The goal for the year was $4,000.00, and Mrs. Sellars spoke the feeling of the entire body in expressing regret that they lacked $90.87 reaching the goal. A free-will offering was taken to count on the goals, which totaled about one-half of the balance needed. It is just possible that some societies had money not sent in which would more than make the goal, but Mrs. Sellars could not, of course, report this. The finance committee, on recommendation of the president, brought in a resolution that the goal be increased to $5,000 for next year. So the women will make a desperate effort the coming year to increase their offerings of the past year by at least $1,000. Mrs. W. A. Harper reported as secretary, showing the efficient work her office had done the past year. A vote of appreciation for her services was given and official regret expressed that she declined to serve as secretary the coming year. Mrs. Harper had made a very capable and competent secretary, and all regretted her inability to continue in the office. Miss Mary D. Atkinson, superintendent of the young people's work, presented the report for her department in charts which could be seen and read by the delegates present. It was brought out in the Conference that the weakness of the work in this Conference is the lack of young people's work. Mrs. C. H. Rowland emphasized the fact that if we are to meet our goals and measure up to expectations and realize our hopes, more attention must be given to young people's organizations in the Conference. The young people are willing, but they have to be shown and given instructions as to proper procedure in missionary endeavor and enterprise.

The district leaders reported splendid rallies held the past spring, and it was decided that next year the superintendents of the districts make the reports for all the societies of their group.

The president's message, as presented by Mrs. Vaughan, was practical and carried recommendations for the good of the organization, which recommendations were later adopted by the body under the work of the proper committee.

The ladies of the Raleigh Society and Church served a bountiful luncheon which all enjoyed and which measured up to the high standard set by these good people on former occasions.

Mrs. W. M. Jay, of Elon College, N. C., conducted the devotionals for the afternoon session. Mrs. C. H. Rowland gave echoes from the General Convention at Urbana, and told what the women of our General Convention are doing in the missionary cause. The remainder of the afternoon was taken in making committee reports and discussing the same. Mrs. L. L. Vaughan was elected president for the coming year, and Mrs. W. A. Harper having declined re-election, Mrs. J. J. Henderson, of Graham, N. C., was elected recording secretary; Mrs. W. R. Sellars, treasurer, was chosen as her own successor. It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at First Church, Durham, N. C.

The women were much encouraged by the presence of ten ministers and the interest these pastors manifested in their work. We are sure these pastors were all benefited by attending the Conference and the regret for those who were unable to attend. Certainly there is no meeting in all the year more appropriate and more necessary for a pastor to attend than the annual missionary conference of their Church. The Mission Secretary was permitted to address the Conference on "Our Greatest Task," in which an attempt was made to show that the missionary work is not a thing apart in Church work, but is a vital part, an essential part of Church work, having as its purpose the extension to the uttermost parts of the evangelization that the preacher and the Church at home are doing.

There were special features in music during the day, two solos by trained voices, which were very helpful and were much enjoyed. All went away feeling the day was well spent. The weather was fine, the Raleigh Church was beautiful, their missionary women and friends were happy and hospitable in their entertainment, and a sweet Christian spirit permeated the atmosphere and proceedings of the day.

J. O. A.

THE RISE AND GROWTH OF CHRISTIANS.

By REV. B. F. VAUGHAN.

Briefly stated, the origin of the Christian denomination was as follows: In 1793-4, a break from the Methodists in Virginia, under the leadership of James O'Kelly, a minister in the M. E. Church, resulted in the formation of a new organization, first known as the "Republican Methodist Church," when one thousand persons withdrew from the Methodist denomination and joined the new organization. At a second Conference, held in August, 1794, a new name was chosen by them after this manner: Rev. Rice Haggard, standing with an open New Testament in hand, said: Brethren, this is a sufficient rule of faith and practice, and in it we are told that the disciples were first called Christians at Antioch; and I move that henceforth and forever the followers of Christ be known as Christians simply." The motion carried without dissent. Another motion was made to take the Bible itself as their only creed, which carried unanimously. With twenty ministers and about one thousand communicants, the new organization soon sprang into existence, and they early gained several thousand followers. The Methodists lost 3,670 members that year. The principal cause of this breaking away from the Methodist Church in Virginia was a dislike for the rule of the bishops and a revolt against all creed statements, and a desire for freedom to worship God after the dictates of one's own conscience, and to take the Bible, and especially the New Testament, as a sufficient guide in all matters pertaining to faith and the Christian life.

A Similar Movement in New England.

Under the leadership of Rev. Abner Jones, a Baptist minister in charge of a Baptist Church at Lyndon, Vt., who became convinced that the name "Bap'tist" and the polity of that Church were each unscriptural, and decided to take the name Christian as the only scriptural name and the Bible as a sufficient guide in the Christian life. In the town of Lyndon he organized the first Christian Church in 1801, which was soon followed by other organizations under the same name.

Through his influence, Rev. Elias Smith, pastor of the Baptist Church, in Portsmouth, N. H., was led to adopt the new faith as a welcome relief from the doctrines of Calvinist Baptists, and he gladly brushed aside their doctrines of election, with the traditions, dogmas, and limiting, exclusive ceremonials, and took the broader platform of individual liberty in the interpretation of Scripture, and the name Christian simply as the only name for Christ's followers.

Smith took this stand in 1802 and organized a Church in the town of Portsmouth in March, 1803, which was followed by the organization of other Churches in different places. Jones and Smith led in the new movement, and in spite of great opposition and bitter persecution they continued to organize Churches, and many members were added. The new freedom they found in their break from the shackles of sectism and their departure from the bondage of old, outworn theological beliefs and dogmas, together with the joy they found in taking simply the Bible as their rule of faith and practice, and accepting only the name Christian as individuals and as Churches, with Christ as their Leader, filled their hearts with a new joy and a spirit of broader fellowship.

Rev. Elias Smith founded, at Portsmouth, N. H., in September, 1808, the first religious newspaper in America, which has continued regular publication until the present day—The Herald of Gospel Liberty—now being published in Dayton, Ohio. No coming together of the Christians in Virginia and the Carolinas and those in New England had taken place; indeed, but little, if any, knowledge of each other was generally known until some time had elapsed.

The Great Revival in Kentucky.

We have one more religious movement to record, leading to the same general results, for similar reasons, and with taking the same name and same grounds of religious organization, viz: the break from the Presbyterians in Kentucky, following what was known as the great "Cane Ridge Revival," in Bourbon County, Ky., 1801-'03. Some liberty-loving ministers and laymen in the Presbyterian Church in that section had grown weary of the emphasis given to certain doctrines which they no longer accepted, and were unwilling to submit to creedal rule and the dominating power of the Presbytery, there became dissenters from the Presbyterian Church. At first they tried forming a new presbytery, thus the Springfield Presbytery was organized; but after one year had elapsed they gave it all up, and through the influence of Rev. Rice Haggard they took the name "Christian" as the only cognomen they wanted to be known by. From this time forth, they went about preaching Jesus as their only Leader and the Bible as their only rule in faith and practice, with Christian as the name they loved best and desired to be called by. Some time after this the three branches herein outlined became better acquainted and a consolidation was effected, thus forming the Christian Church of America.

The Christian Church in Ohio.

Rev. Barton W. Stone, a former pastor of Presbyterian Churches at Concord and Cane Ridge, Ky., became an active, able, and influential leader after the famous Cane Ridge revival, in company with Rev. David Purviance and others, crossed over into Ohio (in 1804), traveling northward up into Warren, Montgomery, Preble, Miami, and Clarke Counties, holding meetings in log-houses, log-school buildings, in groves, forests and open fields where clearings had been made, preaching to the people and organizing Churches, many of which died after some years, a few of which lived and grew and are now thrifty Churches.

Among these early Churches, which have had a continuous existence since they were organized, we find the oldest one on record to be the Christian Church at Enon, Clarke County, Ohio, which was organized in the spring of 1806. Soon after a rude, log meeting-house was erected on a knoll overlooking Mad River Valley, about one and one half miles northeast of the village of Enon, and was named the Knob Prairie Church from the knob on which it stood. The building was very primitive in construction, being made of logs, with clap-board roof, puncheon door and floor, with greased paper in the openings called windows, and lighted at night with tallow candles. Yet so interesting and powerful in religious fervor were the meetings held in this rude Church in the forest primeval that people came from miles around to hear the strong, moving sermons of those early preachers, and many converts were made. Among the preachers who preached at Knob Prairie, we mention Barton W. Stone, David and Levi Purviance, Nathan Worley and his son Caleb Worley.

This Church was fortunate in having the Baker families within its fold. It was organized in the log house of Jonathan D. Baker, who was elected as its first deacon, and the office of deacon has been handed down from one generation to another in the Baker families, and is now (1926) worthily filled by Deacon Jonathan D. Baker, a loyal member of the Enon Christian Church. Rev. Melyn D. Baker served at one time as pastor of the Church. The first building was torn down in 1835 and a plain frame building was erected nearby. This in time gave place to the present brick building erected in the village of Enon in the year 1851.

The next oldest Christian Church which still survives in the Miami Ohio Christian Conference is the one at Eaton, in Preble County, organized in 1809 by Elders David Purviance and Barton W. Stone. This is now one of the strong Churches in the Conference. It has numbered among its pastors some of the ablest Christian ministers in Ohio.

The Church at Pleasant Hill, where the Miami Conference was organized in 1819, was organized November 4, 1816, and is at this time one of the strongest and best Churches in the Conference. All these Churches, and others besides, have passed their hundredth anniversary and have celebrated it with appropriate services.

How Dayton Became a Center.

The publishing interests of the Christians have evolved gradually from scattered and somewhat localized publishing enterprises to a more centralized and permanently established business of general denominational interest. The Herald of Gospel Liberty was formerly confined chiefly to the New England section, while the Gospel Herald was a publication founded by the Ohio Christian Book Association in 1843, and after being published at various places in the State it was located at Dayton in May, 1865. But neither paper met the demands of the whole denomination, consequently the General Convention of the Christians recommended the publication of a paper which would represent the whole denomination.

At a meeting of the Christian Publishing Association in 1867, arrangements were made for the consolidation of the two papers, and in January, 1868, the two were combined under the name of The Herald of Gospel Liberty, which became the organ of the denomination. Rev. H. Y. Rush had served as editor of the Gospel Herald since 1865, and was continued editor, and Dayton was chosen the place for its publication. A lot was purchased on the southeast corner of Main and Sixth Streets, a brick building erected, and that became the publishing house of the Christian denomination and remained such until the growth of the city and the demand for greater room for the railroad tracks made it necessary to sell the plant. The publishing work was carried on for some years in rented rooms, until a desirable location was secured on the southeast corner of Fifth and Ludlow Streets, and a new building was erected and dedicated in June, 1905, and this remained the home of our publishing interests until the present new building was erected on South Ludlow Street and dedicated in April, 1925.

With the growth of the Christian denomination in Ohio, Dayton became a central point for its publishing activities. It was also central in the territory of Miami Ohio Christian Conference, perhaps the largest Conference in the denomination. It was long the great ambition of the leading men in this Conference, and others also, to have a denominational publishing house, centrally located, built and equipped to accommodate the departmental work, and furnished with all the necessary presses, rooms and facilities for printing and distributing the denominational literature, books, papers, Sunday School supplies, etc. This ambition has been realized, and our publishing house in Dayton stands as a monument today of the ideals, the labors, and the sacrifices of the noble men and women who have struggled to make it what it is.

Antioch College Built by Christians.

It had been the fond dream of many leading ministers and teachers among the Christians about the middle of the past century that an institution of higher education ought to be established by the Christian denomination in Ohio for furnishing equal opportunities of learning to all, regardless of race, color or sex. The matter had been written about in the denominational paper, discussed in their Conferences and assemblies until the General Convention, held at Marion, N. Y., in October, 1850, when a committee was appointed to select the name and location for such an institution, who agreed upon the name "Antioch College," and one year later, October, 1851, the committee decided that the new college should be located in Ohio.

At a meeting of a subcommittee soon after, held in the old Knob Prairie Church, the oldest Church in the Conference, offers from Yellow Springs, Ohio, were presented and accepted to locate the college there. A charter was soon obtained, and three buildings planned—the main college hall, with auditorium, chapel room, recitation rooms, library room, etc., with two large dormitories. Twenty acres of land were donated by Judge Mills of Yellow Springs, for the buildings and campus. The location was ideal, although the site was then a wheat field and the stumps of the virgin forest yet remained scattered around. But for natural beauty and the nearby cliffs and springs to the east, the scenic charm was almost unexcelled.

Within a few months, or within a year, a beautiful brick temple of learning, with its tall parapets, rose up and was visible from every direction, with two commodious brick dormitories. It now remained to call some one as president of the college who could command the attention and the confidence of the people as an educator worthy of being the leader of an institution founded upon such broad principles and capable of leading to the realization of the noble ideals of its founders. Such a man was found in the person of Hon. Horace Mann, one of the greatest educators of his time, who was called to become the president of Antioch College in September, 1852—on the same day he was nominated as Governor of Massachusetts, his native State, on the free soil ticket. He accepted, however, the presidency of the new college, and his name became forever after associated with the history of Antioch College.

Antioch seemed to embody the fulfillment of the dreams of its founders, and had they possessed the financial foresight and practical wisdom which marked the greatness of their undertaking and the loftiness of their ideals, they might have avoided the pitfalls and crushing financial experiences which plunged them hopelessly in debt and swept away the fond dreams they had cherished in the early years of that institution.

One year later, or early in September, 1853, Horace Mann gathered together his faculty, laid out a tentative course of study, and they all journeyed together to Yellow Springs to hear his inaugural address, witness the opening of the college, and undertake, with this great pioneer educational leader, the task of building up a college which was to offer equal opportunities to both sexes, as well as to the white and colored races. One hundred and fifty students enrolled on the first day, and three thousand people listened to the inaugural address of this great American educator—the greatest of his day, and one who will always hold high rank in the annals of American educators.

The conditions under which the college opened were most unfavorable. The college buildings were still unfinished, the president's home had not yet been provided as was promised, no convenient water supply had been furnished, there being no fences, the president's garden the next year was destroyed by pigs, and conveniences of all kinds were not provided.

The builders of the college were largely a rural people, and did not realize what it meant to run a new college, pay teachers, furnish equipment, etc., without any endowment fund or large gifts to support the college, and the consequence was it became hampered with debts, teachers were unpaid, the hard-working president was harassed, distressed and worn down during the six years he lived to preside over the college, and the property was finally sold for two-thirds its appraisal.

The Christian people came in contact with some great and intellectual men, whose influence and ideals helped to broaden their own views and to call into activity some of the most talented and best educated men from their own ranks. Among these we mention the Rev. Austin Craig, D. D., a professor in the college in the days of Horace Mann, and who was greatly admired and loved by Mann, who urged Craig to become professor of Greek in the college and then to accept the presidency. But Dr. Craig was of an extremely modest, retiring disposition and declined the honors urged upon him. Such letters of correspondence as passed between these two great men are rarely found in the literature of friendly intercourse. Dr. Craig did, however, serve as president of Antioch after Horace Mann had passed to his reward—from 1862 to 1866 he served in that capacity. No better Greek scholar, no finer Christian man, and no greater expounder of biblical truth ever adorned the history of the Christians than this unpretentious Christian man.

Centerville, Ohio.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION FIELD NOTES.

Our Field Secretary, Miss Pattie Coghill, is engaged this and next month in field work with the Churches of the Carolina Conference. It is discovered her itinerary makes possible contact of some character with every Church in the Western North Carolina Conference. Miss Coghill will also represent the board at the Western North Carolina and North Carolina and Virginia Conferences.

The Eastern Virginia Christian Conference voted the board the 5 per cent of its apportionment funds, as suggested by the Southern Christian Convention. This will help the board very materially, and we trust it will inspire the other Conferences of the Convention to carry out the suggested plan of the Convention.

Miss Pattie Coghill addressed the Eastern Virginia Conference concerning the Summer School at Elon College. Her address was both enlightening and inspiring, and in the opinion of quite a few, the very best she has ever made before the Conference.

Travelers on trains are familiar with the announcement, "Last call for breakfast." Well, this is the very last call we can make for suggestions and advice relative to the program for the next session of the Elon Summer School.

A Young People's Congress has been suggested for the youth of the Eastern Virginia Convention. Suffolk has been suggested as the logical place for the congress to meet. It has been suggested no one under fifteen should be admitted, and no one over twenty-five. Five counselors have been suggested and a very limited number of adult speakers. We have before us the names of a group of young folks who are considered capable and available material for a committee on plans and program.

The board chairman realizes the Georgia and Alabama Conferences are a great way off, but he feels, too, that there should be a closer relationship between the board and those Conferences than now exists. He would like to hear from the educational leaders of those Conferences in regard to this.

When one becomes vitally interested in the work of a department of the Church, one is likely to conclude that that department's work is the most important of the Church. And so we have heard different ones assert that missions is the important work; others that it is evangelism; others, stewardship, and still others education. We have been thinking over these different claims and have come to the conclusion they are all correct and all incorrect. No one department of Church work could survive if the assistance of the other departments was withdrawn. Christian education is simply a part of the great work of the Church and equally important in this work with the other departments.

This seems to us to be logical, and, if it is, then there cannot longer be any question in the minds of those upon whose hearts the work of the Church rests as to the need of prayer and service along educational lines.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson VIII—November 21, 1926.

JOSHUA RENEWING THE COVENANT

GOLDEN TEXT: "Choose you this day whom ye will serve; but as for me and my house, we will serve Jehovah."—Josh. 24:15.

LESSON: Joshua 24:14-25.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 107:1-9.

Joshua had called all the leaders together at Shechem to give them his last message before "he went the way of all flesh." He wanted them to renew the covenant which they had made with Jehovah in other days. It was good, sound policy. There was danger that the people, in their success and prosperity, would forget Jehovah, and it would help a great deal to be reminded that the secret of their success and prosperity had been Jehovah Himself. We will do well if we pursue the same policy. It would be a fine thing if the pastor of every Church could call every member of the Church together once every year and have them renew their Church covenant again. What a tremendous increment of spiritual power there would be if men and women could be kept faithful to their covenants with God. It might be added that it might be a good thing if every husband and wife might read together at least once a year their marriage vows, their covenant before God and men. It is not enough to make a covenant; one must keep the covenant, and anything that keeps that covenant a living force in life is worth while.

Recognizing Our Debts.

"Now, therefore"—the whole thing hinges on that "therefore." Read the twenty-third chapter of Joshua and you will see that Joshua is simply reminding the people of the great debt they owe Jehovah. He reminds them how He had brought their nation that really was no nation out of Egypt; how He gave them victory over their enemies; how He had given them material blessings for which they had not labored, and how He had not failed to keep one promise that He had made unto them. They were His debtors.

So are we! When Paul said "I am debtor, both to the Jew and to the Greek," he was uttering a profound and undeniable fact of life. We are heirs of all the ages. We have entered into blessings for which we did not labor. If God were to issue a statement of our account with Him we would find that we are hopelessly in debt to Him. Every fair-minded man ought to recognize this fact.

Paying Our Debts.

"Now, therefore, fear the Lord and serve Him, and put away the gods which your fathers served." A searching test of a man is his attitude toward his debts and debtors. The world admires Sir Walter Scott for his heroic and successful effort to pay off debts for which he was not wholly responsible. The man who receives the blessings of God and who does not try as much as in him lies to make some return to God, is more than a mere ingrate; he is a sinner. Ingratitude is sin. Joshua felt that his people ought to serve Jehovah on the basis of mere honesty, to say nothing of gratitude.

Choosing.

"Choose ye this day whom ye will serve." Life is a series of choices. Every man chooses whom he will serve. And to whom a man gives his service, to him is he his servant, as the apostle says. Before a man decides either directly or indirectly to serve the devil, let him consider the eventualities of his choice. It may seem a little hard at times to serve Jesus Christ, but after all His yoke is easy and His burden is light. Furthermore, a man's character is formed, and his destiny is determined by the choices he makes, not only in the emergencies of life, but in the every-day affairs of life. Let every man take heed how and what he chooses.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Faithful Witnessing.

"As for me and my family, we will serve Jehovah." We need more of this courageous testimony today. Let there be men and women who will rise up and say that, as for them, they are going to serve the Lord, and there will be a quickening of new life in the Church. The trouble is that so many of us are men-servers and ashamed to stand out boldly for Jesus Christ.

By Their Fruits.

"Now, therefore, put away the foreign gods which are among you." Joining the Church is not the test of a man's religion; his manner of life is the test. And although we cannot expect a new Christian to be perfect (or an old one either, for that matter), there is something sadly wrong with the person who does not live differently after a covenant or a vow. If a man goes to the same places, and if he does the same things after he becomes a Christian as he did when an unbeliever, he has not entered into that vital relationship of new life in Christ Jesus.

A Reminder.

"And" Joshua set them a statute and an ordinance in Shechem. And took a great stone and set it up there under an oak, that was by the sanctuary of the Lord." The plain band of gold on the finger of the wife is a memorial of her marriage covenant. It might be well for the husband to have such a band on his finger. And it would be well if again and again husband and wife look at those rings and be reminded of all that for which they stand.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

November 21, 1926.

TOPIC: "How Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow?"—Psa. 116:12-19; Luke 17:11-19. (Thanksgiving meeting.)

Some Bible Hints.

The best thanks we can offer to God is to take more of His gifts and use them well (Psa. 116:12, 13).

To fulfill our obligations is to thank God in a practical way. We have obligations to home, business, friends, and so on (Psa. 116:18).

Most people's prayers are requests, not praise, yet it is the grateful heart whose requests win favor (Luke 17:13).

Our attitude toward God shows whether or not we appreciate His gifts. Are we too selfish to remember? (Luke 17:17.)

Suggestive Thoughts.

Look for things for which to thank God, not for things to grumble about. Thanksgiving keeps the soul sweet.

Thank God by passing on your blessings to others. We are stewards. "Ready to distribute" (1 Tim. 6:18) is a great word.

All that we can return to God for all His gifts to us is gratitude. But to man, we can give our service and sympathy and love.

Jesus thanked God for bread. Do we? Somehow, in His hands, the bread seemed to go a long (Continued on Page 14.)

THE WORK OF THE WOMEN OF THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

In the party that left Greensboro at 12:45 on Tuesday, October 19th, for Urbana, Ill., were Drs. G. O. Lankford and C. H. Rowland, Rev. H. E. Crutchfield, Mrs. L. L. Vaughan, Miss Pattie Coghill and the writer. At Charlottesville we transferred to the special coach from Richmond, which carried a large number of delegates from Eastern Virginia. After greetings were exchanged and a season of social enjoyment was had together, we retired for the night, and the next morning were in Cincinnati, Ohio, on schedule time. Quite a number of other delegates joined us here, and still others at Indianapolis, until we had a good-sized delegation when we reached Urbana on Wednesday at 3 o'clock, where the Convention had been called to order one hour earlier.

You can leave it to Dr. Staley to make train acquaintances, and on this trip he discovered a most attractive young lady from the Hoosier State, to whom he took special pains to introduce his friends of single blessedness, as well as the rest of us, and who added much to the pleasure of all our party. It might be interesting to note that the young lady, Miss Watts, is a worker in the M. E. Church, which work, for the most part, is going into the homes and inviting people to Church.

But we started out to tell about the women and their work as a part of the great Convention. We began early Thursday morning at 8:30 with a board meeting in the Unitarian Church, where all of our day meetings were scheduled to be held. Mrs. W. H. Denison presided. In this service we were led in prayer by the Conference presidents present. Vacancies were filled on the two committees—plans and budget—that had been appointed two months previous, and committees on nomination and roll were also appointed. The president stated that the Ellen G. Gustin fund had been voted to be used to help defray expenses of Conference presidents to these general meetings, and asked that it be given more consideration in our societies and that ten cents per member for this fund be included in budget in our societies.

Mrs. Morrill asked permission to explain about the "doll messengers of friendship"—a plan to promote understanding and good will between America and Japan. Each year, on the 3rd of March, the people of Japan have a doll festival and dolls that have been in the family for generations are brought out and admired. It is a great occasion for young and old. The committee was appointed by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and the plan is to have thousands of dolls in Japan in March as messengers of friendship. The effort is nationwide and needs to be pushed in every community, as the time is short. The first thing to do is to write to Mrs. Jeannette W. Enrich, care Doll Friendship Bureau, 289 West Fourth Avenue, New York City, and she will give you all the information.

Mrs. Powers made her literary report, which will appear in the December Christian Missionary, as well as other convention reports from our Women's Board. On motion, greeting, in the form of a night letter, were sent to Mrs. Emily Bishop, our Honorary President, who began the literature department of our work many years ago.

On Saturday afternoon there was another board meeting, and a final one on Tuesday morning. At both of these, reports from committees were received. In the report of the budget committee, the apportionment for the women of the S. C. C. was $4,500, and the total for all Conferences was $30,000. One feature of this report was the small allotment to the Y. P.—only $500 was apportioned them. This is explained by the Young People's Congresses in many parts of our brotherhood and the young people doing missionary work through these organizations.

Prior to the Convention, the Secretary wrote to each life member and enclosed an envelope for an offering. More than $400 was received in this way, and it was voted that this be divided between Franklinton and P. R. kindergarten work. The committee on roll reported that there were twenty-one Conference presidents present and representation present from Canada and all sections of the United States.

Mrs. Morrill told of Margaret German, from Japan, in school at Defiance, and who had not been able to see the McKnights since they have been in the United States. An offering was taken to give Margaret car-fare to spend the week-end with them before they sailed, that they might be able to say to Margaret's parents that they had seen her while in America.

It was a cause of general regret that the condition of Mrs. Denison's health made it imperative that she give up her work as president of the Woman's Board, which position she has so ably filled for the last quadrennium. In her closing words, she touchingly told of the consummation of the great task which had fallen to her—the uniting of our home and foreign boards into one, the accomplishment of which had covered almost the four years of her presidency. On motion, the board stood in appreciation of her services, and of the other retiring officers. Mrs. Howsare was chosen to succeed her. For many years she was president of the W. H. M. B., so the reins have fallen into tried and faithful hands and one who is familiar with the work in all its departments.

The hours and days that we spent together planning for the future of our work were blessed, joyful days. Closer friendships, better understanding and a deepened interest are some of the results. Ideas and methods were exchanged, new enthusiasm was gained, and we face the next four years with a much larger faith and a greater determination. We will, with the editor's permission, tell something of the two public meetings of the women in next week's paper.

MRS. C. H. ROWLAND,
Rep. W. M. B. of S. C. C.

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5¼x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35

(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.

(Weight 18 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25

Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jē-hōi'-ā-kim gave th silver and the gold to Phār'-aōh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50

(Weights 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.

(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

READ THE SCRIPTURES.

"They are they which testify of me."—John 5:39.

The apostles, the holy fathers, ministers, the preachers and true Bible teachers of the ages give us innumerable passages and utterances describing the Bible as "an inexhaustible treasury of heavenly doctrine," or "an overflowing fountain of salvation," "unsearchable riches," "exceedingly abundant," etc., or referring to it as "fertile pastures" and "beautiful gardens," in which the children of the Lord are marvelously refreshed and delighted. In it came to a satisfying knowledge of ourselves, and from it we derive inspiration how to live right and carry it to others. Paul said to Timothy, "Take heed to thyself and to doctrine; be earnest in them. For in doing this thou shalt both save thyself and them that hear thee."

The book of the Psalms constantly insists that there is in the Holy Scripture the very best of help for the saving and the perfection of ourselves; but those only will find it who, when reading it, will bring not only docility and attention, but also piety and innocent life. Inspired by the Holy Ghost, it contains things of deepest importance to every-day light in living right, which in many instances are most difficult and obscure. Read and study by humble prayer.

Prayer.—Our Father, Father of all light and life, inspire us daily to a reading of Thy Word, and give us Thy light and grace in understanding. Guard us by Thy holiness, and thus we shall be guarded by the holiness of living. Ascribing to Thee all the praise, now and forever. Amen.

TUESDAY.

THE VALUE OF GOOD INTENTIONS.

"Thou didst well that it was in thine heart."—1 Kings 8:17-21.

This is the commendation of the Lord upon David, who purposed to build a temple, but failed to do so. Only to those who say that they will make no more resolutions because they have failed and who feel that it is worse to purpose to do good and fail than not to purpose at all, it is a solemn reproof.

Every great and sincere purpose, though it fails, has eternal values. It is not failures that make crime; it is the low aim. Failures are but postponements. Maybe your intentions were in personal glory, some selfish end, or some untold achievement. Let God handle it. The heart is ennobled by the conception, and all thy good intentions shall rise to victory at last. They will be embodied in the kingdom for Thee. Thou dost well that it is in thy heart.

Prayer.—Our Father, we pray Thee to perform Thy word in us, that we may learn to trust Thee absolutely for Thy blessing on any worthy undertakings, and that our children may learn the example from Jesus. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

HOW MEANNESS REACTS.

"Sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death."—Jas. 1:15.

"With what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again."—Matt. 7:2.

History tells us that President Lincoln once visited General McClellon, but the general was out. After waiting about thirty minutes, the general came in, and, absorbed in his own importance, he brushed by and disappeared upstairs. Another wait of thirty minutes and the general was sent a message that the President was awaiting. The reply was returned that the general was too tired for a conference and had gone to bed. The President left immediately, and when on the street his companion, a cabinet member, burst forth, demanding that this conceited upstart be removed instantly from his command. Lincoln laid a soothing hand on the other's shoulder and said, "There, there! I will hold McClellon's horse if only he will bring us the victory."

Not to resent small things is a sure sign of superiority and greatness. Only the great can humble and master the situation.

Jesus has surpassed all of the ages in such greatness. He knew that pettiness brings its own punishment. The law of compensation operates to reward or afflict us through ourselves. "The man who is mean is mean only to himself."

The little town of Jesus' refused to receive him. No further punishment for that act was necessary. No miracles were done there; no sick were healed there; no hungry were fed there; no poor were inspired there. As for Jesus, he forgot the incident. He was busy at His Father's business. "He that cuts off his nose, spites only his own face."

Prayer.—Our Father, we pray to Thee this day for spiritual endowment and insight to live above the petty annoyances of life, and we pray for the inspiration to be always intent and busy at the main big object of life—the betterment of mankind and the glory of God. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

THURSDAY.

REAPING WHAT WE SOW.

"With what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again."—Matt. 7:2.

The other day a Christian gentleman and one who gives his life for others and makes special effort to minister to the sick and suffering, entered the room of a sick man, who also is known for his gentlemanliness and courtesy, for the purpose of cheering him up and making his burden lighter if possible. The visitor was treated coldly and given to understand that he was not wanted. The visitor bade him good-bye and departed, thinking only of the time years ago when he, too, was visited by a dear friend who sought his companionship, but being in a bad humor, he had been discourteous to his friend and had later to make up for it with deep sorrow. He simply said, "with what measure ye mete, it shall be meted to you again," and not once but many times. "Chickens come home to roost."

Our good deeds come back to us in goodness from others. Our unkind deeds also come home to us. There is no escape. This law of compensation is inexorable. "We shall reap what we sow." Friends, let's be kind always.

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, help us to sow only the good seeds of kindness along the way. Amen.

FRIDAY.

SIN AGAINST THE HOLY GHOST.

"Whosoever blasphemeth against the Holy Spirit is never forgiven; he is guilty of an eternal sin."—Mark 3:29.

There has been much said about what constitutes this awful sin of blasphemy, and much of it is only misunderstanding. All sins are forgiven (Acts 13:38-39; Rom. 3:23-24; 1 John 1:7), but there is another story of an age-long abiding sin in which one may commit spiritual suicide, and when such suicide is completed, forgiveness is impossible. We may say that one may, like the Pharisees, know deep down in his heart that Jesus is the Son of God and the Saviour from sin unto the life of perfection and God, and yet, like them, call Him the Son of Satan and deliberately chose a course in life that leads to total depravity. Such a course must reach a degree of totality wherein it is impossible further to receive holy impressions, or of his own volition turn and be holy. This is a sin against God that is utterly hopeless.

For example: One can lie down on his bed and stay there long enough for his strength to be all gone, and he can't get up—an unpardonable sin against his body. One can blindfold himself until his vision will disappear from disuse—an unpardonable sin against vision. One can carry a burden on the arm until the arm cannot be straightened—an unpardonable sin against the arm.

So that willful and deliberate depravity bringeth forth death to the possibility of forgiveness.

Prayer.—Our Father, inspire us daily to Thy goodness, that we may bring forth to Thee that which is good and holy. Make our hearts and lives fountains of love that righteousness that sheds the light of Christ everywhere and helps save the world from sin. Amen.

SATURDAY.

GIVING THANKS FOR ALL THINGS.

"Giving thanks always for all things in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to God, even the Father."—(R. V.) Eph. 5:14-20.

"Thank the good Lord for so many blessings, and so much more a-comin'," reverently exclaimed an aged saint. His words displayed a simple faith, and indicated that he had learned the lessons of contentment and gratitude.

Gratitude, frequently a passing mood, should become a changeless habit in the life of the Christian. Not simply at an occasional season, or when we feel particularly favored and happy, should we give thanks; but we should also be thankful when circumstances are against us, and pain and sorrow come into our lives. "Always," says Paul, and likewise "for all things," should we be found giving thanks.

A missionary in China relates that he once received bad news from home, and deep shadows passed over his soul. He prayed, but the darkness did not vanish. Then he went into one of the mission houses and saw on the wall these words: "Try thanksgiving!" "I did," he affirmed, "and in a moment every shadow was gone, not to return." We also may "try thanksgiving."

Prayer.—Our Father, we would live with thanksgiving in our hearts. Reveal Thyself to us, and keep alive in our souls the flame of enthusiasm for the ideals of the Master. We beseech Thee to hear us as we pray His prayer. Amen.

SUNDAY.

SOURCE OF OUR BLESSINGS.

"He gave them bread from heaven to eat."—John 6:28-35.

We are in constant danger of attributing our help to the immediate one from whom we receive our supplies—our grocery man, for instance—but he is only an agent of the Lord to convey that way. More gratitude would help to solve the high cost of living.

(Continued on Page 13.)

(Continued from Page 10.)

A Few Illustrations.

The Endeavorers' method of feeding the hungry, of making children happy, and of supporting missions, are all expressions of gratitude, well-pleasing to the Father of all.

Starving Armenia on one side; opulent America on the other! What could America do but feed the hungry? How could we otherwise retain our self-respect?

As cloth sometimes ravel out for want of hemming, so do we lose our blessings through carelessness. The way to keep them is to use them.

David's psalms are full of gratitude, which lies close to worship, wonder, adoration, love. Thanksgiving lifts the soul to the heights.

To Think About.

What have we to be grateful for?

How can we help God's children?

How spread Thanksgiving throughout the year?

A Cluster of Quotations.

No longer forward nor behind

I look in hope or fear;

But grateful, take the good I find,

The best of now and here.—Anon.

We can set our deeds to the music of a grateful heart, and seek to round our lives into a hymn.—William M. Taylor.

Thanksgiving means the recognition of God as the good Father in darkness and light alike. That Thanksgiving should be only a day is a monstrous thought.—Dr. Estey.

One reason why some are highly blessed is that others are in deep need, and the one must help the other. Thankfulness must show itself in service.—Anon.

PRIZES FOR STUDENTS.

The Commission on Interracial Co-operation, with headquarters at Atlanta, Ga., announces the offer of three cash prizes of $100, $65, and $35, respectively, for the best papers on the subject, "Justice in Race Relations," submitted by students of Southern colleges during the present school year. It is the desire of the commission that every college in the Southern States be represented in the contest by one or more papers.

According to the announcement, contestants will be free to choose any phase of the subject, but preference will be given to practical discussions of prevalent conditions and attitudes, with suggestions for their improvement. Further information as to the contest, with suggestions and reading list, will be furnished those interested by R. B. Eleazer, educational director, 409 Palmer Building, Atlanta, Ga.

Parents who have sons and daughters at Elon taking religious education should rejoice that they have the opportunity of studying with such teachers and in such a building as the Mooney Christian Education Building, which was dedicated Sunday, October 3rd. This building, the only one of its kind on any college campus in America, as a part of Elon College, belongs to us. It is serving our local Churches through the students we send there.

It is a regrettable fact that a few of the Churches of the Southern Convention have no Sunday School. The Board of Christian Education will be glad to help organize one wherever it is desired. There are other Sunday Schools which close during the winter months, while the public schools and other organizations keep going all winter. We need more "evergreen" schools.

The reports recently given from our Sunday Schools revealed the fact that a number of our schools are not using our literature. When we buy our literature, which is equally as good or better than others, we help the entire denomination, as the profits go back into the Church.

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

PROGRAM OF EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Following is the program of the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference, to be held at Oak Level Christian Church, Youngsville, N. C., November 23, 24, 25, 1926:

First Day—Morning Session.

- 10:00 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Deuton, Leader.
- 10:20 Devotional Service, Rev. J. E. Franks.
- 10:30 Enrollment.
- 10:40 Election of Officers.
- 10:50 Welcome Address, Rev. J. Fuller Johnson.
- 11:00 Response, C. O. Eaves.
- 11:10 Appointment of Committees to Fill Vacancies.
- 11:20 Conference Sermon, Rev. H. C. Caviness.
- 12:00 Adjournment.

First Day—Afternoon Session.

- 1:30 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 1:40 Devotional Service, Rev. J. Lee Johnson.
- 1:50 Report of Executive Committee.
- 1:55 Treasurer's Report.
- 2:00 Ministerial Reports.
- 2:20 Report on Stewardship, Rev. J. Fuller Johnson. Address by the Chairman, and Discussion.
- 2:40 Report of Committee on Social Service, J. A. Kimball. Discussion.
- 3:00 Report on Religious Literature, Rev. R. L. Williamson. Discussion.
- 3:20 Appointment of Special Committees.
- 3:30 Miscellaneous Business.
- 3:40 Report of Committee on Entertainment. Assignment of Homes.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.

- 9:30 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 9:40 Devotional Service, Rev. M. T. Sorrell.
- 9:50 Reading Minutes of Previous Day. Roll Call. Enrollment.
- 10:00 Report of Committee on Home Missions, Rev. J. E. Franks. Discussion.
- 10:20 Report of Committee on Apportionments, Prof. L. L. Vaughan.
- 10:30 Report of Committee on Evangelism, Rev. M. T. Sorrell. Discussion.
- 11:00 The Budget Plan of Southern Christian Convention. Discussion.
- 11:30 Report of Committee on Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor, C. H. Stevenson.
- 11:40 Christian Education of Southern Christian Convention, Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, Holland, Va., and Miss Pattie Coghill.
- 12:00 Adjournment.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.

- 1:15 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 1:30 Devotional Service, Rev. B. J. Howard.
- 1:40 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions, Rev. J. Lee Johnson.
- 1:50 Address on Missions, Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D., Mission Secretary.
- 2:30 Address on Christian Orphanage, Chas. D. Johnston, Superintendent.
- 3:00 Report of Committee on Finance, K. B. Johnson.
- 3:10 Report of Committee on Place for Next Session, Rev. J. E. Franks.
- 3:20 Report of Committee on Superannuation, K. B. Johnson.
- 3:30 Miscellaneous Business.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

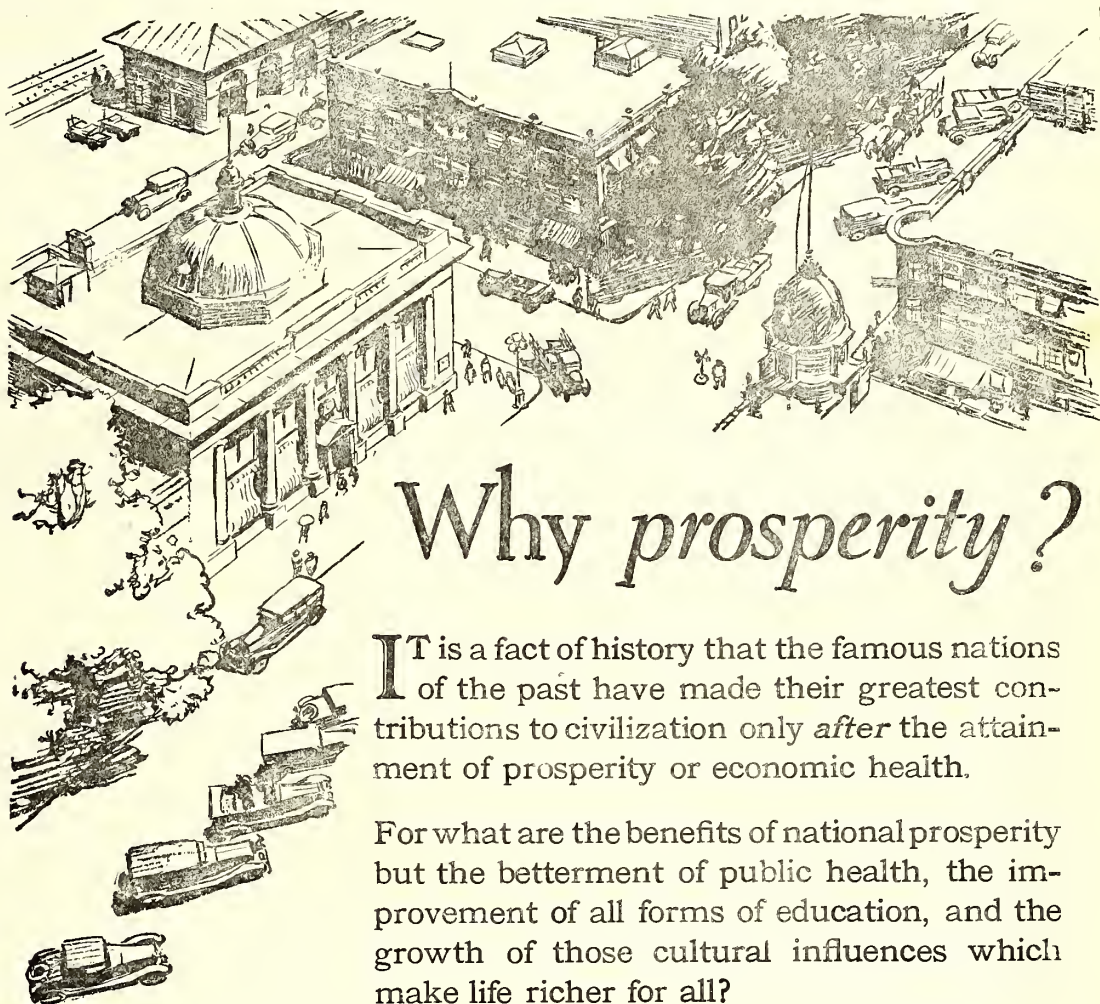

Third Day—Morning Session.

- 9:30 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 9:40 Devotional Service, Rev. J. C. Cummings.

- 9:50 Discussion of Church Auxiliaries, Mrs. L. L. Vaughan.
- 10:10 Report of Committee on Education, Rev. W. C. Wieker.
- 10:20 Address, Dr. W. A. Harper, President, Elon College.
- 11:00 Thanksgiving Service, led by President of Conference.
- 11:30 Report of Committee on Resolutions, Rev. R. L. Williamson.

- 11:40 Miscellaneous Business.
- 12:00 Adjournment.

Note: The regular Annual Meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference is on Tuesday before Thanksgiving each year. A full delegation from every Church is desired. Members of Conference should come on time for the opening session, attend every session, and remain until the close of the Conference.

Why prosperity?

IT is a fact of history that the famous nations of the past have made their greatest contributions to civilization only after the attainment of prosperity or economic health.

For what are the benefits of national prosperity but the betterment of public health, the improvement of all forms of education, and the growth of those cultural influences which make life richer for all?

The prosperity of the South is today an accomplished fact, and, in the light of history, its promise for the future of the South is great.

The prosperity of southern communities is definitely bound up with the prosperity of the southern railroads. The Southern Railway System regards its present good credit and earning power as an opportunity to assist in the preservation of the general welfare of the South in the years that lie ahead.

Only a prosperous railroad can render the transportation service needed by the people of a prosperous country.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year$ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matte. at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to "Editor Christian Sun," Elon College, N. C.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

OBITUARIES.

GUNTER.

On September 24th, his many friends were made sad to learn of the death of Mr. J. D. Gunter. Mr. Gunter was born January 5, 1852. He was educated in the local schools, Graham College and the State University. In 1881 he married Miss Jennie Leah Denny. To them were born ten children. The following survive: E. D. Gunter, Richmond; J. U. Gunter, Sanford; H. B. Gunter, Greensboro; C. W. Gunter, Gastonia; Misses Ruth and May Gunter, Sanford; Mrs. L. J. Bray, Tarboro.

Brother Gunter was a charter member of Shallow Well and of Sanford Christian Churches. He was a member of the building committee of Sanford Church, and to the close of his life served as deacon. His was a familiar face in the conventions, conferences, etc., of his Church, and he was loyal to her every cause and institution.

His friendly spirit and genuine courtesy attracted to him many friends, as was attested by the large attendance at the funeral of representative citizens, and one of the largest floral offerings ever seen in Sanford. The funeral was conducted from the home by the writer, assisted by Dr. W. S. Alexander, of Elon College. Interment was in Shallow Well Cemetery.

"To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die."

R. L. WILLIAMSON.

MARRIAGES

PUTNAM—LAY.

On the evening of October 16, 1926, Mr. Cecil E. Putnam and Miss Myrtle Lay were united in marriage at the home of the writer at Elon College, N. C.

These young people are prominent in the Shallow Ford community, Mrs. Putnam being a member of the Shallow Ford Christian Church. Mr. Putnam is a member of Muers Chapel M. E. Church, having recently moved to this community, and holds a responsible position with the N. C. Public Service Company.

May happiness, prosperity and longevity be theirs.

T. J. GREEN.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04408 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 1/4 x 4 1/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04408] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick..... $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0778x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India Paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0778x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick... $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

1536 East Broad
Richmond, Va.

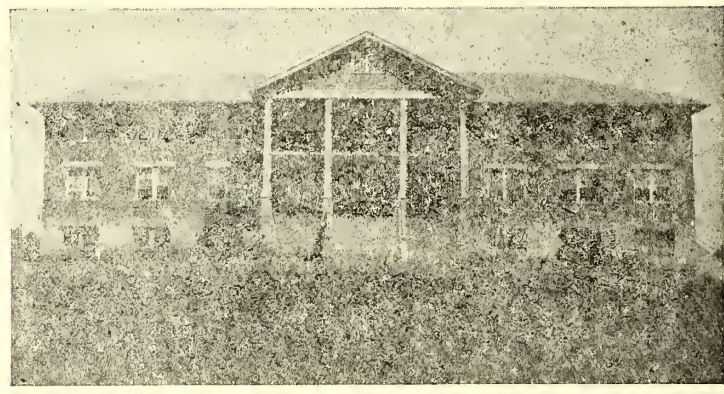

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.
Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address
THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.
Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Isaiah, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.
Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLaid PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearcut Print in Smallest Size
4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges..... .70

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1926.

NUMBER 46.

•• THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ••

By REV. S. M. LYNAM.

Letters.—

All the letters that come to our Editor's office may not be complimentary, but they are sure to be interesting.

D. V. B. S. Movement International.—

The Daily Vacation Bible School movement is becoming international, and now has an international association. During the past summer, seven of these schools were held in various towns in Syria, and one which was held at Ramallah, Palestine, was attended by Greek Orthodox, Latins, Jews and Moslems. The course consisted of Bible study and handwork. The Daily Vacation Bible School is becoming a most popular institution, and is constantly gaining ground.

Defends Purposelessness.—

Clarence Darrow is devoting much energy just now to proving that life is a crazy chaos without a purpose. He has held a number of debates on the subject. His last was with Dr. Clinton Wunder of the Baptist Temple, Rochester, N. Y. Mr. Darrow believes that life is meaningless, and he won the verdict of the jury, which, of course, proves nothing. His purpose, it would seem, was to disprove the purposefulness of life. It has a rather thankless task, and, if what he believes is true, then why should he worry as to whether he proves it or not? It will have no meaning when it is done!

Churchmen Discuss Sacraments.—

At a meeting of the Churchmen's Union, at Cambridge, Eng., Dr. Douglass White discussed the sacraments of the Church. He stated that there was no absolute proof that Jesus instituted water baptism at all. The difference between the baptism of John and of Christ was the difference between water and spirit, Dr. Douglass White pointed out. Jesus permitted baptism, but did not Himself baptize. Canon Cremer contended against the use of texts for infant baptism, which clearly applied only to adults, and he wished the history and facts of baptism acknowledged in the prayerbooks and confessions of faith.

The Power in Man.—

Toward the last of February, 1924, it was announced that Dr. C. A. Pierle, Canyon, Texas, had analyzed the body of a man weighing 150 pounds. He found in it enough water to wash a pair of blankets, enough iron to make a ten-penny nail, lime sufficient to whitewash a small chicken coop, and sulphur enough to kill the fleas of a good-sized dog. These things could be purchased for ninety-eight cents, using these facts, a scientist declared recently that it was the spirit within man which gave him the power to control material things. The materials in a man are worth only ninety-eight cents, but he is master of all material things, because in him dwells the spirit of God.

Armistice Day Peace Talk.—

The students of the Pittsburgh district will fittingly observe Armistice Day by holding a retreat for the discussion of peace and international relations. This retreat is sponsored by the World Alliance for International Friendship through the Churches. It will be held in connection with the International Goodwill Congress, to be held in Pittsburgh during the week. A similar retreat will be held at Ohio Wesleyan University December 3d to 5th, under the direction of the Evanston Continuation Committee. When youth begins to think peace and to advocate it, then the war lords may tremble because the next generation will ground the third generation in the ways of peace, and they will learn war no more.

Proposes Rabbinic Council.—

Dr. Chaim Tchernowitz, speaking before a group of Jewish intellectuals, proposed a rabbinic council to revise Jewish laws. He declared that none of the three tendencies now manifest in Judaism were correct. Orthodoxy held to the traditions and tolerated adaptations to present situations. The reformers would devote their attention to social and political matters, while the conservative element would properly attend the sources of the law and religion. He proposed a council similar to the council of faith and order for Judaism. It would be the business of this council of Judaism to harmonize the three tendencies and so revise the law as to meet present needs of the modern situation. It would appear that others than Christians are thinking about creed revisions.

Organizing for Peace.—

Dr. Henry A. Atkinson has just returned from Europe, where he has been interested in calling together a peace congress which should include all the great religions of the world. It is proposed that this congress shall be held in 1930, and its purpose will be to mobilize the forces of all the religions of the world for universal peace. A committee of one thousand is being formed, representation to be apportioned among the religious groups according to adherents. Eleven religions are to be represented—Jews, Mohammedans, Buddhists, Confucians, Shintoists, Taoists, Hindus, Parsees, Jains, Sikhs, and Christians. Dean Shailer Matthews, of the University of Chicago, is chairman of the organization committee. The place of meeting has not yet been determined upon, but many invitations have been received. Cairo, Geneva, and Calcutta have been favorably mentioned.

Mrs. A. T. Farmer in American Colleges.—

It has been through the vision and work of President Blaisdell, of Pomona College, Claremont, Calif., that something new is coming into American colleges. He is seeking to answer the question of what a small college must do when it is about to grow large. He is planning an association of colleges about Pomona—colleges which will have all the virtues of a small college and the advantages of a large institution through their aggregate strength. These colleges will be on the Oxford and Cambridge plan, which is followed in Toronto University, the largest university in the British empire. Scripps College for women will be ready for its first freshman class next fall. This is the second of the Claremont group.

To Hold Pioneer Conference.—

The Y. W. C. A. will hold a pioneer student conference at Milwaukee, Wis., on December 28th. About two thousand students are expected to attend the conference. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick and Miss Maude Royden are among the speakers. The preliminary announcements state that the subjects to be discussed are up-to-date or beyond. The Y. W. C. A. promises to maintain its reputation as a forward-looking Christian organization. Student conferences are becoming numerous nowadays, and students are being called upon to think of things outside their textbooks and college walls. They are being called upon to face the issues and realities of life all during their college life. It has its danger, and it has its benefits. It will be well, if the youthful mind of America is taught to think constructively about life problems, but merely to produce a generation of critics would be worse than useless, not to say a most dangerous thing to do.

A New Educational Effort.—

The problem which has been perplexing the thoughtful of late is how may an educated woman maintain her intellectual work and interests, both professional and otherwise, without interfering with her business as a mother and homemaker. To solve this problem, Smith College, Northampton, Mass., has established an institute to be financed for three years by the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Foundation, which will study the question. It will approach the matter from the angle of eliminating the unnecessary tasks in the home, reducing the homemaking duties to the essentials, and so leaving time for other things, and as to how professional courses may be so subdivided as to equip women for part-time work or for taking work into the home without disturbing its normal functions. This educational venture will be well worth watching, and its findings may prove helpful to the maintenance of the threatened position of the American home.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Dr. L. E. Smith, pastor of the Christian Temple, Norfolk, Va., was in the city the first of this week and made a pleasant call at THE SUN office. He was the guest of Dr. C. C. Ryan, of the First Church.

Rev. M. W. Sutcliffe, pastor of the Webster Christian Church, havre de Grace, Md., while in Richmond the past week, made a visit to THE SUN office. He was accompanied by his father, wife and daughter.

"This is from the Sunday School class," writes Brother W. E. McClenny, of the Suffolk Christian Church, "of which I have the honor of trying to be teacher. Sunday before last the class asked me to give them a talk on the promoter of the Christian Church in the South, Rev. James O'Kelly, and then the collection was taken and the above is the result of what that class of boys did." The amount is gratefully acknowledged elsewhere in THE SUN this week.

This also is to the point and worth noting: "I have been taking THE CHRISTIAN SUN for many years," writes Brother K. C. Rountree, of Bosley, N. C., "and would not have loved the Christian Church as I do had it not been for THE SUN. I miss it so very much when it does not arrive before Sunday each week." THE SUN is an asset to Church life in many ways, and we are sure it increases the love for the Church and for all that the Church tries to do.

If pastors, Sunday School superintendent or teachers have on hand funds for the O'Kelly and Old Lebanon memorials, will they please send in same, that they may be acknowledged through THE CHRISTIAN SUN? We are exceedingly anxious to see this fund increase more rapidly, and it will if those who have funds will send them in, and if those who have not funds will take immediate steps either to send in their own contribution or to solicit and send in from others.

Our dear Brother L. E. Newsome, of Lucama, N. C., renewing for THE CHRISTIAN SUN, writes: "I like THE SUN O. K., except what comes from the 'monkey' writers. I have no patience with that kind of stuff." We join Brother Newsome in this dislike. It is bad enough for monkeys to be monkeys, but when a person tries to descend to the level of a monkey he usually makes a worse mess of it than does the monkey himself. Isn't it a great pity that those who feel like they came from a monkey are not permitted to go back to where they came from? This would evidently be a better and happier world if they did.

"God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have eternal life." That is the best-known and most-quoted Scripture in all the Word of God, we presume, and yet we know that text so imperfectly and practice it so little. If we really and truly believe in His Son, will we not also really and truly believe in the Father's love, its depth and breadth, which extends to all the world, and in our hearts and with our hands practice that world-wide love? Yet there are Christians—they call themselves so—who believe in God's love and practice God's love for their own community, their own country, their own color only. God loved the whole world. We, too, will if we are His children, as we should be.

We are delighted to learn from Brother P. H. Ricketts, Danville, Va., a faithful man of our Sunday School, that the Danville school has decided to give one Sunday a month an offering to Missions, and that the class of which Brother Ricketts is teacher (a class numbering about seventy-five), at a recent class meeting decided to give all its offering on "Mission Sunday" to missions. A Sunday School can lose nothing in doing a work like that. It means ultimate growth, development and progress. For as long as a school or a Church thinks only of itself and keeps more for itself than it gives for others it is pursuing a selfish and short-sighted policy. "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall find it" (Luke 9:24). That was spoken of a group of individual, in a Church or a Sunday School, as much so as to any individual anywhere, and will stand true. If we lose ourselves in thought and give for others, we find ourselves in a larger and better life.

It is "funny" how little errors will creep into print and make large and egregious mistakes. Here is one. Last week THE SUN's Editor, in writing about the splendid Christian Church at Havre de Grace, Md., had this sentence in his editorial: "The Church building, ground and parsonage has cost $53,000, and you would not think it were you to see what they have." Now, what the Editor would like to know is, by what strange circumstance or cruel fate that little word "not" got itself printed in that place, where most veritably it "should not" and never was intended to be, and made the editorial say exactly what he most veritably did not think and did not intend to say. O well, there is no accounting for such mistakes. The Editor is afraid to blame it to the printer and proofreader for fear they will send him back his copy and prove he had the word "not" in there, which they should "not" do, since all three of them together should have carefully seen to it that the "not" should not have been where it was not wanted. (The linotyper inserted the "not," the proofreader overlooked the "not," the Editor is not guilty of using the "not," and the reader is veritably sure that the "not" is not correct. Is not this sufficient explanation?—Printer.)

A NOTE OF WARNING TO THE CHURCHES.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN! Shall it continue to come, or will it cease to be printed? This question lies entirely with you as a member of the Christian Church.

Your department of publication, of which Mr. L. L. Vaughan, Raleigh, N. C., is chairman, submitted a contract at the Durham Convention with the Central Publishing Company, of Richmond, Va., for the printing and posting of THE CHRISTIAN SUN. This contract, which was agreeable to and acceptable to both the Department of Publications and the Central Publishing Company, called for an annual payment of $4,000 to the Central Publishing Company by the Convention out of its general funds. The report was adopted by the Convention, thus binding both parties to the contract.

It was seen by the Convention officials that it would be impossible for the Convention to pay this amount out of the funds available for this purpose without sustaining an increasing deficit. Therefore, the President called a meeting of the Executive Committee, the Department of Publications and the Central Publishing Company. At this meeting it was agreed by all that the contract entered into at Durham should be canceled and that a new contract should be effected. This was done, and the contract has already appeared in these columns.

The contract is to the effect that the Convention take over the matter of securing subscribers, do all collecting of dues and pay the Central Publishing Company a flat rate for publishing and posting the paper.

We are under contract to pay the Central Publishing Company weekly, and this money must come.

Can We Do Without THE CHRISTIAN SUN?

What would be the effect on our Church if it should cease to be published?

Thirty-five hundred paid-up subscriptions will keep it coming nicely. There are at least nine thousand homes in our Convention. Can we get half of these homes to take THE SUN and pay for it? Every one should. Every home in the Christian Church should have the paper. Will you help to put it there?

The Convention is asking every Church to organize itself into a CHRISTIAN SUN Club, whose business it shall be to put the paper in every home possible, that we may not lose its weekly visit, great help and inspiration to our work.

This is what we want you to do:

1. Get all who are behind with their subscriptions to pay up.
2. Get every one who is not already taking the paper to subscribe for it.
3. Send all money to Dr. J. O. Atkinson, editor, Elon College, N. C.

This can best be done through a special committee appointed to do this one thing or it may be done through the Ladies' Aid, Missionary Society, or Christian Endeavor Society. It doesn't matter which, just so it is done. Won't you begin today? We are asking every Church to double its number of subscribers. It can be done and should be done. Who will be first.

Let's get together and pull together and save our paper to our homes, to our Church and to the kingdom.

L. E. SMITH,
Norfolk, Va. President.

RECEIPTS FOR MEMORIALS.

We are receiving some reports from those taking an interest in the memorials to Rev. James O'Kelly and the Old Lebanon site, Surry County, Va. The total cost of these two memorials is $2,075.00. This is one enterprise in which the entire Church should take interest and pride. Individuals, Churches, and congregations and Sunday Schools should all have a part in trying to make a contribution to our permanent history in this way.

We are glad to acknowledge the following:

Reported in The Sun last week.....	$251.43
Less 50 cents entered by error.....	.50
Total	$250.93
J. F. Brothers, Portsmouth, Va.....	10.00
T. W. Trogdon, High Point, N. C.....	5.00
Miss Nannie Haskins, Hurdle's Mills, N. C.	1.000
M. Orban, Jr., Whittier, Calif.....	25.00
Sanford S. S., Sanford, N. C.....	22.21
J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C.....	10.00
Suffolk S. S. Class, W. E. McClenny teacher	10.00
A. S. Dunn, Lynchburg, Va.....	2.00
F. D. Layne, Lynchburg, Va.....	1.00
True Blue Class, Tendersen, N. C.....	1.00
J. T. Bland, Marengo, Va.....	2.00
Dr. & Mrs. W. H. Denison, Dayton, Ohio...	2.00
Dr. D. A. Long, Florence, S. C.....	4.00
Greensboro, Palm St., Willing Workers....	10.00
Greensboro, Palm St., Junior C. E.....	5.00
Zion Church, Moneure, N. C.....	9.25
Total past week	$119.46
Total received to date (Nov. 13th).....	370.39

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
 Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
 W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
 J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

(1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.

(2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.

(3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

(4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.

(5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

OUR CHURCH PROBLEMS.

Problems arise and await the man. All problems are solved when the right person arrives. It is God's method. He raises up and sends the men to meet the need. We have difficulties and trials and hardships along the way in trying to do things for God. They are all met, however, and solved on the arrival of the right person.

When the great problem of hearing the Christ arose, and as to how His path might be made straight, that problem was solved on the arrival of John.

When the problem of world-wide evangelization arose and the time came that the Gentiles should have full opportunity with Jews, it was indeed a great problem. Peter had a vision, dreamed a dream, went out and preached a sermon. The man had met the hour. When that message to the Gentiles hesitated and the problem of reconciling that message with the law and the life of Moses and the Christ loomed up as insurmountable and impossible, Paul arrived. On his arrival, the problem was solved. Paul, Peter and John had their trials, their hardships, their difficulties to overcome, but they got their problems solved. God solved His problems through them. All problems await solution until the right individual arrives.

Is the local Church having problems, is the Conference having problems, is the Convention having problems? They should have and they will continue to have, while honest attempts are made toward progress and development. These problems may seem to hinder progress, but are all solved when the God-sent man arrives and gives himself to the task of solving them. One of the great reasons why unsolved problems hold up progress and prevent growth is because the right individual has not arrived and has not taken these problems to heart. God's method of solving human problems is that of sending individuals to face and to solve them. Through prayer, through perseverance, through consecration to Him, the world's great problems are faced and are solved. If we wish our Church problems to be met and solved we shall have to pray that God give us the man—the heaven-sent man, the God-sent men and women—to grapple with these problems until they are solved. Many a local Church is at a standstill—this hinders, that bothers, something is in the way, there is no growth, and all seems going to pieces. Then the God-sent man arrives, and all our obstructions vanish into thin air, the victory is won and we move on. The God-sent man solves our problems for us.

O'KELLY AND OLD LEBANON MEMORIALS.

While funds are coming in with which to erect these memorials, the great and constant surprise is that they come in so slowly. Evidently we who call ourselves Christians are indifferent to our history and on the whole seem to care very little for the man and the events through whom and by which the Church has come to be what it is. O'Kelly has been dead a hundred years. He started one of the mightiest movements of modern times. Through his agency and instrumentality, more than any man of his day or any other day, religious liberty and freedom to read and interpret the Word of God have been given to the world. But for his great mind and great heart and his passionate love for Jesus the Christ as the only Head of the Church and the Word of God as a sufficient rule of faith and practice, the world would not have the Christian Church with it; and but for the Conference at Old Lebanon, in Surry County, Va., in 1794, we would possibly not have the name Christian simply as a sufficient name for a Church, in which all saved souls may unite, employing Christian character only as the test of fellowship. And now when $2,075 is needed with which to honor and preserve the name of this man and the sacred spot of this epoch-making event, we Christians go at the matter indifferently and withhold the dollars necessary to these memorials. We evidently are unconcerned or indifferent to the man and the events and the principles that have made us what we are. This indeed is a strange spectacle.

If this were a spasmodic effort or the outburst of some individual enthusiasm, the matter would be different. On the other hand, the Southern Convention in 1924 created a committee and authorized the committee to proceed, and the committee did proceed to the best of its ability and as its finances would allow. The same Convention in 1926 adopted the plans and specifications for memorials as recommended by the committee. Cards for soliciting funds have been printed and sent on two different occasions to every pastor and every Sunday School superintendent in the Convention, asking that these cards be given to some children or suitable persons in the Church or school to solicit funds. So far, very few of these cards have been heard from, pastors and Sunday School superintendents remaining painfully silent on this great subject. It is a sad and strange spectacle.

Here is hoping that funds are being collected more rapidly than are at present known, and that at a very early date the same will be sent in to the editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, who is at the same time treasurer of committee, appointed to secure the funds. Will more friends, brethren, sisters and societies, young and old, in many directions send in their gifts, that we may honor the man and the movement that mean so much to us and to the world?

The world will esteem and honor us only as we esteem and honor the past and the history through which we have come.

OUR RELIGIOUS INHERITANCE.

(An address by Lieutenant-Governor J. E. West, of Virginia, before the Eastern Virginia Conference, at Havre de Grace, Md., and published by vote of that body. It should be carefully read by all Christian Sun readers.—Editor Sun.)

There is unusual restlessness everywhere and a cry for freedom from restraint by locality, home, Church and State. It manifests itself in part in general lawlessness, disobedience in home and school, frequent divorces and the shattering of old ideals. The pendulum has probably swung too far towards pleasure and money-making as the goals of life. There has been so much loose thinking in pulpit, pew and press that many Americans do not believe that God ever guided Israel or that He has guided this nation. We must think a proposition through. Let us revert to the history of Virginia and America and consider our religious inheritance.

During the present year there were many celebrations at the college of William and Mary and at the University of Virginia and vicinity, celebrating great events in the early history of the Virginia colony and very properly emphasizing our civil rights and liberties as inherited from our forefathers. I yield to none in my admiration for these celebrations or the early Virginia statesmen who made them possible. I unqualifiedly endorse the Virginia Bill of Rights, and especially section twenty, which reads as follows: "That religion or the duty which we owe to our Creator, and the manner of discharging it can be directed only by reason and conviction, not by force or violence; and, therefore, all men are equally entitled to the free exercise of religion, according to the dictates of conscience, and that no particular religious sect or society ought to be favored or established by law in preference to others."

This section alone simply confirms what any fair historian must know, namely: the settlement and colonization of America were by a religious people and largely as a result of religious persecution and not on account of civil liberty and its attendant blessings. I admit that the question of material gain and advantage did enter into the matter with many of the early immigrants, but when we judge the colonists as a whole, an impartial history will bear out the assertion that early America was an asylum for the purity of religion or the liberty of conscience. This applies both to Jamestown and Plymouth Rock. At the former, Rev. Robert Hunt administered the Holy Communion the day after the boat reached Jamestown.

Says Bruce's History of Virginia: "No other colony of the mother country, long as has been the list of her settlements all over the face of the globe, was ever blessed on the threshold of its foundation with so great a disciple of Christ or with so shining exemplar of all the virtues of the loftiest manhood." King James, in his instructions to the London Company, says: "That the said presidents, councils, and the ministers should provide that the true word and service of God be preached, planted and used, not only in the said colonies, but also as much as might be among the savages bordering upon them."

At Plymouth Rock, Sunday was kept sacred by the exploring party, notwithstanding time was precious and winter rapidly advancing.

Thus religious liberty preceded civil liberty, and Christian colonies were planted in the new world.

Out of Christian colonies came a Christian nation. Our forefathers, having freed themselves from religious and spiritual despotism, diligently inquired into the nature of civil government. Their ideal was government based on religious and civil liberty, a government of equal opportu-

ity to all, a government in which every man would be a sovereign and where justice would reign and right triumph. Here at Jamestown was the birth of popular constitutional liberty and of representative government. Both religious and civil liberty are an inheritance from our forefathers and should be cherished by us.

It seems appropriate to mention a few of the outstanding characteristics of the early colonists.

1. Faith in God as the Ruler of nations and as the Guider of this nation. They were not ashamed to emphasize it. I have read that after a Conference participated in by Jefferson, Madison, Adams and others, an eagle was placed on the silver dollar, the coinage of which began in 1795, to forever teach us that God guided them into America as He had led the children of Israel from Egypt through the wilderness to the promised land. This thought was based on Exodus 19th chapter, 4th verse. "Ye have seen what I did unto the Egyptians, and how I bore you on eagle's wings, and brought you unto myself."

Afterwards, fearing that future generations would overlook this fact as the present generation seems inclined to do, we stamped on our money as we coined it, "In God we Trust." We trust God for material blessings, for spiritual blessings, for health and happiness and for guidance. What kind of God? Not the heathen god; not the god of the radical modernist; not the god of Ingersoll, Payne and others, but the God of Jacob and Paul.

As songs and prayer always reflect the spirit of the age in which they are composed, I ask you to join with me in reverent spirit as I read a part of the prayer by an Episcopal clergyman, Jacob Duche, upon the opening session of the Continental Congress of 1774:

"O Lord, our Heavenly Father, high and mighty King of kings and Lord of lords, who dost, from Thy throne, behold all the dwellers of the earth, and who reignest with power supreme and uncontrollable over the kingdoms, empires and governments, look down in mercy, we beseech Thee, on these American States, who have fled to Thee from the rod of the oppressor and thrown themselves on Thy gracious protection. Desiring to be henceforth only dependent on Thee, to Thee have they appealed for the righteousness of their cause; to Thee do they now look up for that countenance and support which Thou alone canst give. Take them, therefore, Heavenly Father, under Thy nurturing care; give them wisdom in council and valor in the field. Defeat the malicious designs of our adversaries, convince them of the unrighteousness of their cause; and if they still persist in their sanguinary purpose, oh! let the voice of Thy unerring justice, sounding in their hearts, constrain them to drop the weapons of war in their unnerved hands in the day of battle. Be Thou present, O God of wisdom, and direct the councils of this honorable assembly; enable them to settle things on the best and surest foundations, that the scene of blood may be speedily closed; that order, harmony and peace may be restored, and truth and justice, religion and piety prevail and flourish among the people. Preserve the health of their bodies, and the vigor of their minds; shower down on them and the millions they represent such temporal blessings as Thou seest expedient for them in this world, and crown them with everlasting glory in the world to come—all this we ask in the name and through the merits of Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Saviour. Amen."

It is said that most eminent American statesman, philosopher and writer, Benjamin Franklin, was a strong advocate for stated prayer. He was convinced that God took an account of the rise and fall of nations and that no nation would prosper who forgot him.

It is said that the Constitution of the United States was built in prayer. The Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities and Colonial Dames have done much to preserve Jamestown Island and its history, but somehow we should better preserve our religious inheritance. I would like to see a great memorial cathedral at Jamestown or see May 13th become a great religious holiday or festival, where thousands of Christians of all faiths and orders would journey to Jamestown for service and Communion. It would quicken the spiritual wits of the rising generation and cause them "to look unto the rock from whence ye are hewn and to the hole of the pit whence ye are digged."

2. Faith in the Bible as the inspired Word of God and as a revelation of His truth. A wave of higher criticism is passing over our country. These higher critics say that Jesus was not divine, the parables are untrue, the miracles were not performed, and much of the Bible is not inspired. Let us stand against this erroneous teaching as firm as the rocks of Gibraltar. To meet this wave I commend to you the simple, child-like faith of your fathers in the Old Book, the faith that landed them at Jamestown and Plymouth Rock, the faith upon which this land of civil and religious liberty was built. I like to think of the faith of your fathers and mine; of your mothers and mine. I do not hesitate to say that the greatest enemy to society is the skeptic who would seek to shake such a faith.

3. They were opposed to divorces, believed that the home was the foundation of society and should be kept pure. They kept approximately well the commandment, "Thou shalt not commit adultery."

4. They were strict observers of the Sabbath and kept fairly well the commandment, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." These were some of the inheritances from our forefathers; these are some of the things that have made the nation great. It is no wonder that Virginia and New England produced so many early statesmen. They were, in part, a product of this religious inheritance.

Only in some crisis do we seem to appreciate our religious inheritance or attempt to preserve the spirit of our legacy. During the World War, no other organization contributed so much to the success of the financial campaigns and drives as the Church and its various societies. No other organization did more to keep the fires of patriotism burning on the altar of our country than the Church. It not only prayed for the success of the allies, but its sermons and songs inspired sacrifice and loyalty. Men, women and leaders who had criticized the Church and minimized its importance, appealed to the Church to stand behind the war and all war activities. The Church was 100 per cent loyal, although it had to suspend to a great extent some of its own activities.

The stamp on the coin indicates that our forefathers, to a certain extent, recognized the stewardship of wealth and that we hold same in trust. Men and women are slow to learn this great truth of the gospel. The World War taught some of us this truth and taught all Americans the spirit of sacrifice and giving as never before. I believe that out of this great catastrophe God called the Church in America to make as great offerings and sacrifices to uphold the banner of the cross on home and foreign fields as it did to uphold the American flag on foreign soil. In response to this noble sentiment, the Churches put on financial campaigns, which were only partially successful. There is apparently a lowering of ideals and a coolness in our religious ardor. So far as I know, every mission board in America either has a large deficit or is facing one. America is the richest nation on earth. We lead the world in banking, insurance, transportation and per capita wealth.

The financial center of the world has been transferred from London to New York City. There was a rapid increase of millionaires during the World War, and they have increased very rapidly since, Virginia having thirty-six and North Carolina sixty-three.

A piteous cry comes up all over America from the poor, the afflicted, the aged, the widow, the orphan, the blind, the deaf and the cripple for financial relief, and rich America fails to bring her tithe into the storehouse. She does not have as clear conception of bringing gifts to the Church as Israel had under Moses. Liberal giving has not kept step with her material prosperity. Under the stress of war times we made a two million dollar pledge to the United war work campaign—the largest amount ever raised in a benevolence campaign in the history of the world. This was to help America fight the battles of war and conquer German autocracy. Should we contribute less to support the army of the Lord in times of peace? John D. Rockefeller stands out pre-eminently among the rich men of America as one who seems to grasp the stewardship of wealth. While he gives to libraries, schools, colleges and Churches, he has spent millions on hospitals, laboratories, research work, and the eradication of disease. I believe that his son will surpass his father along this line.

Our Denominational Inheritance.

The thirteen original colonies had thrown off the British yoke, set up a government of civil and religious liberty, unequaled in the world's history, and a new incident occurred in the Christian world. Full of the civil liberty and democratic ideas which characterized that period in 1792, James O'Kelly and other distinguished ministers seceded from the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South, declared for the congregational form of government, the Bible as their only creed, the name Christian as the only name to wear and the right of private judgment. It is true that they were called "Republican Methodists" for a short while, but at the Conference held at old Lebanon Church, Surry County, Va., in 1794, they adopted the name Christian at the suggestion of Rev. Rice Haggard.

I have often wondered why it is we have not accomplished more as a denomination, and why today we do not number more communicants.

I am frank to say that those who preceded us did not avail themselves of their great denominational inheritance and spread the doctrines of the Christian Church as they should have done. Let us consider for a while some of the causes that have retarded the growth of our Church and let us avoid the mistakes and pitfalls of our forefathers and press on with new vigor and hope to a greater victory. Unless we are willing to carry forward the torch of Christianity as reflected by our principles, we should surrender our charter. The responsibilities are great and the opportunities are unlimited.

The following causes, if not others, have retarded our growth:

1. Persecution by other denominations.
2. The lack of organization.
3. Noneducated ministry and improper support of same.
4. Failure to enter the cities.

1. I repeat that our early fathers in the Christian Church suffered from persecution. They were persecuted from the smallness of numbers; they were persecuted for private judgment; they were persecuted for the teaching of the Bible as the only creed; they were persecuted for wearing only the name Christian; they were persecuted for declaring for the union of God's people, notwithstanding

(Continued on Page 9.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Money! money!! The poet who wrote, "Money makes the mare go," was not so far wrong. Home, Church, State—all rely upon money, or its equivalent, for their continued existence, and certainly their growth and usefulness. This is, more than any other, the money age. This is a necessity on account of the more complex conditions of society. Rural life, in its primitive stages, did not require much money. Almost everything was done by exchange of products; but as civilization advances with all its multiplied means of communication and transportation, more money is required, and this, of course, includes checks and notes. Children in these days handle more money than their grandparents did in adult ages. Children know more than George Washington did about what is going on in distant States and distant countries. Nothing can move forward and succeed in this age without money.

Christianity cannot move toward the conversion of the world without more money than is given at the present time. Christianity has produced the great prosperity of which this age, and especially this country, boasts, and, therefore, has rightful claim upon the business world, as well as members of the Church, for more money to continue and carry forward the work of Christianity among men. A business man who prospers in a Christian community and does not support Church and Church enterprises, is lacking in common honesty. Prosperous Church members are under even greater obligation to support the Church enterprises, because they have assumed such obligations. All the people owe a debt to the Church that has given them their safety, their social protection, their good homes, and their prosperity.

Much is said in these days by religious leaders about stewardship, and, in most cases, they say, or write, "Money is not the main thing"; and then follows all sorts of needs for money, all sorts of reasons for giving the money, and then all sorts of plans for raising money. In other words, the emphasis is laid on raising money, while it was stated that money was not the main thing. It is the main thing, and teachers just as well admit it! There was a time when people were taught from the pulpit to give their lives to the service of God, and little was said about money, for little was needed; but Church expenses and benevolences have increased with increase of money necessity in domestic, educational, and civic affairs, and the emphasis is now on money. When the Church gets the money of people, it gets them. The emphasis of this age is on money, and the Church should make that emphasis plain to the members of the Church and members of the congregation. The people receive willingly plain truth. There is too much tasteless medicine in these days, or medicine covered up with tasty ingredients. The real need of the Church should not be covered up with phrases that hide the real purpose. People should be taught that they owe the Lord such a portion of their money as the "Lord has prospered them." The government in county, State, and nation calls for money and gets it; and government would die without it. The Church is more important than government, because the Christian State is the product of the Church. Put the emphasis on money, where it naturally, in this age, and rightfully, belongs.

W. W. STALEY.

SELFISH AND UNSELFISH THOUGHT.

Thought is the most potent force in the world. It may likewise become the most selfish thing. This is true when one thinks only of self, and self-interests. When an individual becomes so self-centered that his or her thoughts are chiefly of self, the world appears narrow and morbid. Ideals that make men better, inspiring them to seek for the highest purposes of life, are never the product of a selfish brain. The selfish brain is the contrast, and produces, as a rule, a harvest of impurity.

Those who allow thoughts of passion to dominate their minds to gratify self, breed germs that lead to the destruction of virtue and prepare the way for vice and crime. The burglar begins with only thought of selfish gains and becomes willing to commit murder, disregarding the value of life in pursuit of his selfish and criminal deeds. Thoughts of wealth for self alone have repeatedly stained the pages of history of individuals as well as nations. Minds given entirely to thoughts of self-pleasure always result in a harvest of recklessness. Look into the prison cell and you will find behind the bars those who have committed crime prompted by the motive of selfishness in one form or another. Search the hearts of the multitudes of lives given to thoughts of self and, regardless of position, you will find the channels of charity and purity closed; but follow along the dusty highway of life and you will find the remnant whose thoughts are largely for others. It is from such noble minds that the highest ideals come, the choicest gems that give expression in lives of unselfish service, and while in the rendering of such service dreams are born of more noble achievement, providing an outlet through the brains of others who are willing to contribute their share to the sum of human joy.

It was that great unselfish Master mind of the Christ, painting as He did such rare and beautiful pictures of perfect thought, teaching the value of ministry to others. Those fallen by the way-side, regardless of how they fell, lifted up again. When minds steeped in sin He found, His admonition was "Go and sin no more." Health was restored to diseased bodies, and pain relieved by His divine touch, and when the voice of this unselfish physician was heard, even the dead awoke to a new life, a life unknown before. Summing up His teaching in few words, may we hear Him say: "Go and do thou likewise. I came not to be ministered unto, but to minister."

Our conception of life will be governed by whether we will take the examples of this great Master mind and inculcate them and give expression in active service, or be content to starve our souls by deceiving ourselves and dwell in the little world of self.

To one willing to think according to His (Christ's) teaching, many beauties otherwise obscured will be presented. To such a one, flowers instead of thorns will appear, and should the path lead through the desert, joy and sunshine will give a radiance that glows, even though the heart be filled with sorrow, peace and contentment will become a devoted companion, regardless of how destitute one may be of material things. And when the sunset of life is casting its shadows across the pathway the voice that said, "Peace be still" will be heard saying, "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

Often we live in the wilderness, surrounded by dismal swamps, catching an occasional glimpse of sunshine behind the barriers that prevent our feeling its warmth when we could climb to the highest pinnacle of human thought and inhale the atmosphere of purity. It is only in forgetting self that we launch out upon the great ocean of life assured that we will finally reach the port of that haven of rest. But oh, the beauty of the voyage! Scenes of grandeur will enrich the journey.

God gives us good thoughts, and guided by His unerring hand they will develop into perfect ideals, while thoughts of self to the exclusion of others are fostered by an evil influence which will mar the happiness of any life.

Let us, then, be careful to allow our minds to become receptive only to that great Master mind of the universe, thereby submitting our hearts and lives in forgetfulness of self and our minds will develop so thoroughly that our thoughts will become noble, pure and good. Life then will present a far different aspect, the world about us will prove a garden to be cultivated. Dormant thoughts in other minds will be awakened to see the ideals of our lives.

Continual thought of self makes the patient more susceptible to disease, to the one who must carry a burden it makes the load heavier, and to those who have some work to do it makes the task seem greater. Life, however, given to thoughts of others grows and enlarges, unfolding its beauty, sending forth its rich fragrance until all about will catch the spirit. In this way empires are built, great movements founded, and the most worthy graces of character becomes living examples.

Therefore, guard your thoughts as you would the virtue of your home and the lives of loved ones, and remember that Jesus said, "inasmuch as ye did it unto the least of these, ye did it unto me."

Thought is an investment which, if rightly used, will yield handsome dividends; invested wrongly, will prove a curse. Ideas of worth are conceived in the brain before they are expressed in words or deeds. The human mind is a region yet unexplored. If governed and properly trained, will reveal a mine of rich treasures. Gems may be gathered of sparkling beauty, and discoveries made that will add to the sum total of life's sacred task.

The mind is a power-house, and if proper discipline is employed becomes the devoted slave of the possessor. Left to wander at random, it soon masters the owner and makes a slave of the one who should direct its course. We must choose whether we will master our mind or become its slave.

R. A. WHITTEN.

PALM STREET CHURCH.

The Sunshine Class of Palm Street Church, Greensboro, N. C., held their regular class meeting Tuesday night, November 9th, with fifteen members present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Maud Apple. After singing and having a prayer, Miss Rosa Wyrick read a portion of the fourteenth chapter of St. John. Our secretary, Mrs. Beatrice Stevens, then read the minutes of the last meeting. Reports from the teacher and other committees were given, each one desiring to have a better report for the next meeting. Plans for a contest were made, having for our captains Mrs. J. T. Hinshaw and Mrs. Vallie Oakley. Having no other business, the meeting was dismissed and we all had a good social time together, serving sandwiches and coffee. This was prepared by Mrs. W. E. Hinshaw and Mrs. E. L. Hobbs.

The Junior C. E. Society is doing just fine. We had twenty-nine present last Sunday night. They gave a program the last Sunday night in October.

The children are very much interested in their work. May the Heavenly Father bless us in our work and the work of His kingdom everywhere is my prayer.

LETTIE SCOTT.

THE SUN stated last week that Rev. H. C. Caviness was installed as pastor of First Church, Portsmouth, on Sunday, November 7th. This service was postponed a week and the installation was held November 14th. It was an appropriate service and ceremony.

Claim this heredity, and work out your freedom. "We are the sons of God; it doth not yet appear what we shall be," but "we are the sons of God."—Maltbie D. Babcock.

PROGRAM OF THE FIFTY-FOURTH ANNUAL SESSION, WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Pleasant Grove Church, Randolph County, November 23-25, 1926.

First Day—Morning Session.

10:30 o'Clock.

1. Called to Order by President.
2. Devotional Services by Rev. T. J. Green.
3. Enrollment of Ministers and Delegates.
4. Election of Officers.
5. Report of Program Committee.
6. Appointment of Special Committees.
7. Annual Address by President, Rev. G. O. Lankford.
8. Adjournment.

First Day—Afternoon Session.

2:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. M. Allred.
2. Report of Executive Committee.
3. Ministerial and Church Reports.
4. Report on Religious Literature, Rev. G. R. Underwood, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.

10:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. J. U. Fogleman.
2. Minutes of Previous Day.
3. Report on Foreign Missions.
4. Address by Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D.
5. The Christian Orphanage, by Supt. Chas D. Johnston.
6. Sermon by Rev. J. C. Cummings.
7. Adjournment.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.

2:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. E. C. Brady.
2. Report on Home Missions, Rev. T. J. Green, Chairman.
3. Report of Woman's Board, Mrs. D. A. Cornelison, Chairman.
4. Report on Moral Reform, Rev. J. M. Allred, Chairman.
5. Miscellaneous Business.
6. Adjournment.

Third Day—Morning Session.

10:00 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services, Rev. W. C. Martin.
2. Report on Education, Rev. T. E. White, Chairman.

Address by Dr. W. A. Harper, President of Elon College.

3. Report on Sunday Schools, B. S. Moffitt, Chairman.
4. Report on Christian Endeavor, Mrs. Madge Moffitt Whitesell, Chairman.
5. Adjournment.

Third Day—Afternoon Session.

1:30 o'Clock.

1. Devotional Services by Rev. W. J. Edwards.
2. Miscellaneous Business. Reports. Appointment of Committees for next year.
3. Reading and Adoption of Minutes.
4. Farewell Service, conducted by Rev. T. E. White.
5. Final Adjournment.

G. O. LANKFORD,
T. E. WHITE,
Program Committee.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 47-8x 7 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
India Paper Edition, Size 47-8x7 Inches, 11-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
Bourgeois Type, Size 53-8x8 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 11-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 1 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 1 1/2 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools.....95¢

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Cloth.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold.....$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50¢ extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40¢ extra; extra wording, 40¢ per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brevier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 53-8x 81-2 Inches and 13-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

BY WARREN H. DENISON, Secretary.

DOWN TO BRASS TACKS.

Of course you and your Church are already in your stewardship program, which was to have been started November 1st. And of course you will not think of making it less than a six-weeks' course. It has been such a neglected subject that permanent and abiding interest cannot be established in less time than that. No Bible subject has been more neglected. What subject will bring greater spiritual power? No subject has more space given to it in chapters, paragraphs, verses, than has this. Have you considered what emphasis the gospels give to it?

DID JESUS TALK ABOUT MONEY?

Dr. Walter L. Lingle says, in the Presbyterian of the South, "Did Jesus talk about money?"

"If you will search the four gospels with this question in mind you will probably conclude that He had more to say about money, directly or indirectly, than about any other single topic. Think of all the parables in which He refers to money! We think at once of the parables of the talents, the pounds, the unjust steward, the man hiring workers for his vineyard, Dives and Lazarus, the rich fool, the lost coin, the treasure in a field, the pearl of great price, the good Samaritan, and the prodigal son. We think, too, of the stories of the rich young ruler, Zaccheus, the widow and her mite, and the woman with the precious ointment. In addition to these, we recall the words of Jesus about laying up treasure upon earth, about the peril of trusting in riches, and about the extreme difficulty the rich have in entering the kingdom of God, so that it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom. These are but samples of the sayings of Jesus about money that come crowding to the mind as we think on this subject. Even a casual reading of the gospels will reveal many more such references."

What we are anxious about is that your entire Church and congregation shall get the message.

TITHING FOR GOD.

Dear Friends:

Let me ask you a few straightout questions. Is your Church in any kind of debt? Are you in need of a new Church building? Is your Church in need of any new Sunday School rooms? Does your Church need to be repainted? Is your Church in need of a new piano? Is your Church adequately equipped so far as seats, heating outfits, etc., are concerned? Is your Sunday School in need of new song books? Is your Church paying its pastor enough to keep him in the necessities of life? Is your Church supporting a missionary in the foreign fields? Does your Church help pay the operating cost of the Orphanages of its own denomination? Does your Church donate to the great colleges where the true religion is taught to those who must carry on the work of Christ tomorrow? Is there anything that your Church needs that money could buy? Are there any tithers in your Church? Are you one? Read the above questions again. Check off those that do not "hit" you and see how many there are left. Then take those that are left and go over them carefully and see what you can do to clear them up. If you are not a tither, then let's think it over and decide to tithe for God. If you are already one, then let's go out and tell others what you have learned by tithing. If there has come into your life greater joy and more happiness, let's tell others that they, too, may have this greater joy and more happiness.

How often have you heard some one say, "If I had it I would give it all," or "If I were able I would do so and so," or "If I had the money I would give for this purpose and I would give for that purpose?" I have heard it over again and again. I suppose I have made a like remark myself. There are many times that these remarks are made by people who would not give a dollar if they had hundreds. It is far more easy to give a small amount when you have a small amount than it is to give a large amount when you have a large amount.

Some time ago I wrote to the editor of THE SUN and in my letter I stated that I thought one reason that the Church was so poorly financed today was "Because there are so many people who were taught when they were children to drop a few pennies in the collection plate that have never gotten farther away from the habit than nickles and dimes." He wrote me back that "You would be surprised to know that there are many who have never gotten away from the pennies." I suppose he is right at that. Now, what are you doing? And what am I doing? Do you believe in tithing? Did you know that tithing is taught all through the Bible? Did you know that God loveth a cheerful giver? Do you love your wife? Or do you love your sweetheart? Or do you love your children? Then, would you not do more for these that you love than you would for any one else in the whole wide world. Yes, you would. God will do much for those whom He loves and who doeth His will. Let's you and me be tithers for God.

C. J. STRICKLAND.

CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION, EASTERN VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

At its recent session with the Webster Community Church, the Eastern Virginia Conference designated the third Sunday of November, the 21st, as C. M. A. Sunday and called upon the pastors and Churches of the Conference to observe it as such. The Conference suggested that this observance consists of sermons by the pastors on some phase of Church extension and an effort on the part of both pastors and Churches to secure new memberships for the C. M. A. The Conference also voted that every Church in the Conference should be represented in the C. M. A. by at least one full membership.

The records of the last session of the C. M. A. reveal twenty-six of our Churches with representation in the C. M. A. by either individuals or organizations. This means there are seventeen or so Churches in the Conference which are not represented in the C. M. A. by either individuals or organizations. We naturally conclude these seventeen Churches present a challenge to their pastors, and we request the pastors to accept the challenge.

While the C. M. A. is chiefly concerned in interesting individuals in Church extension in the bounds of the Eastern Virginia Conference, it is felt this interest will be arrived at when Churches themselves are interested in the work of extension. This explains the position taken by the Conference that every Church should be represented in the C. M. A. by at least one membership, and that the Church if an individual cannot be secured.

The C. M. A. has not, nor is it now engaging in anything big. Its program has always been limited, but it has always been worthwhile. Since its ability to promote and sustain extension enterprises is dependent upon funds secured through individual and organization memberships on the basis of ten dollars for men and adult organizations and five dollars for women and children organizations annually, the C. M. A. program will hardly at any time assume Conference proportions. But it is felt, and certainly with justification, that there are now within the bounds of the Eastern Virginia Conference many scores, if not even hundreds, of constituents who could and should be members of the C. M. A. To these, we now address ourself.

If you think you should be a member of the C. M. A., make the same known to your pastor, and either go yourself to the next session of the C. M. A. or send your membership dues to the session by some one who is going. The C. M. A. needs your assistance, and this year needs it critically.

One of the outstanding needs in the Christian Church today is Church extension. This note rang clearly at the General Convention at Urbana, Ill., and it rang clearly again at our own Eastern Virginia Conference at Webster. The C. M. A., though not attempting extension work on Conference pretensions, has and is doing a creditable extension work and looks forward to a better and more challenging program in the years to come.

The Executive Committee of the C. M. A. has already entered into definite understanding with the Mission Board of the Southern Convention relative to assistance to the Washington Street Christian Church, Portsmouth, on a three-year program. It would be a splendid accomplishment if the terms of this agreement could be met this year with funds derived through new memberships. This would mean sixty new full memberships. Can we secure them? Let it be understood there is no by-law in the C. M. A. restricting individuals or organizations to single memberships; either can take out as many memberships as desired.

After such hopefulness it seems an anomaly to even suggest an effort to uphold last year's receipts. And, therefore, we will not suggest such a thing. It goes without saying that we will; therefore, there follows a list by Churches of the memberships of the C. M. A., the list being given as a reminder to members and as a guide to pastors and workers.

The C. M. A. meets this year with the South Norfolk Church, and in their new building. Let us catch some of the fire and fervor of these South Norfolk folks and make this session the best in spirit and financial results the C. M. A. has ever known. Remember the day and date—Tuesday, December 7th.

J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, President.

CONTRIBUTING MEMBERSHIP OF C. M. A.

Antioch—Church, $10.00; Baraca Class, $10.00—total, $20.00.

Berea (Norfolk County)—M. W. Hollowell, $10.00; Church, $10.00—total, $20.00.

Berea (Nansemond County)—R. B. Odom, $10.00; Church, $10.00; Ladies' Aid Society, $10.00; Bible Class (Miss Mary Brinkley), $10.00; Sunday School, $10.00; Men's Class No. 4, $10.00; estate of W. J. Lee, $10.00; Mrs. W. J. Lee, $10.00; Mrs. R. B. Odom, $5.00; Mrs. J. W. Brinkley, $5.00; Young People's Missionary Society, $10.00—total, $100.00.

Bethlehem—Young People's Missionary Society, $10.00; Ladies' Aid Society, $10.00; Mrs. J. E. Harris, $5.00—total, $25.00.

Centerville—Big Brother Bible Class, $10.00—total, $10.00.

Christian Temple—Church, $10.00; Missionary Treasury, $10.00; Sunday School, $10.00; S. S. Mission Fund, $10.00; Temple Men's Bible Class, $10.00; Twiddy Bible Class, $10.00; Dorcas Bible Class, $10; Missionary Society, $10.00; Ladies' Aid Society, $10.00; T. E. Brickhouse, $10.00; Dr. J. W. Manning, $10.00; A. M. Johnson, $10.00; Rev. Dr. L. E. Smith, $10.00; Mrs. T. E. Brickhouse, $5.00; Mrs. J. E. Harrell, $5.00; Mrs. W. H. Martin, $5.00; Mrs. L. W. Stagg, $5.00; Mrs. J. A. Eley, $5.00; Mrs. Hattie Savage, $5.00; Mrs. L. E. Smith, $5.00—total, $165.00.

First Church (Norfolk)—Missionary Society, $10; Mrs. S. W. Pierce, $5.00; Woman's Bible Class, $10; Auxiliary Society, $10.00; John G. Truitt, $10.00; T. L. Fulcher, $10.00; G. H. Fry, $10.00; Mrs. G. H. Fry (2 years), $10.00—total, $75.00.

Franklin—L. R. Jones, $10.00; Sunday School, $10.00; Ladies' Aid Society, $10.00; Mrs. J. B. Gay, $5.00; E. P. Jones, $10.00; Mrs. E. P. Jones, $5.00; J. A. Williams, $10.00; Mrs. J. A. Williams, $5.00; Miss Dorothy Williams, $5.00; Miss Mary Lee Williams, $5.00; P. C. Lester, $10.00; Norfolk Bible Class, $10.00; Mrs. J. B. Vaughan, $5.00; Bertie Roland Bible Class, $10.00—total, $110.00.

Holland—Dr. J. G. Holland, $10.00; I. A. Luke, $10.00; Sunday School, $10.00; Bible Class No. 1, $10.00; W. J. Holland, $10.00; Brotherhood Bible Class, $10.00; Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, $10.00; Ladies' Aid Society, $10.00; Mrs. I. A. Luke, $5.00; Mrs. Nannie Holland, $5.00; Mrs. R. H. Riedel, $5.00; Mrs. W. J. Holland, $5.00; Mrs. J. H. Lightbourne, $5.00; Woman's Missionary Society, $10.00; Mrs. W. V. Leathers, $5.00; Olive Branch S. S. Class, $10.00; Church, $10.00; Bertie Roland Missionary Society, $10.00; A. L. Jolley, $10.00; Mrs. A. L. Jolley, $5.00; Mrs. J. T. Jones, $5.00—total, $170.00.

Mt. Carmel—Sunday School, $10.00; Loyal Women's Class, $10.00—total, $20.00.

Tidewater Sunday School Association—Total, $30.

Holy Neck—Baraca Class, $10.00; Missionary Society, $10.00; Darden-Oberry Bible Class, $10.00; E. T. Holland, $10.00; First Bible Class, $10.00; R. C. Norfolk, $10.00; B. D. Jones, $10.00; Mrs. R. C. Norfolk, $5.00; Philathea Class, $10.00; Church, $10.00; Mrs. C. A. Piland, $5.00; Mrs. E. T. Holland, $5.00; Mrs. J. K. Jones, $5.00; Mrs. S. R. B. Howell, $5.00; Mrs. H. L. Worrell, $5.00; Sunday School, $10.00; Mrs. B. D. Jones, $5.00; Mrs. J. T. Rawls, $5.00; B. D. Jones, $10.00; Mrs. F. O. Forbes, $5.00; Mrs. J. J. Gummer, $5.00; J. T. Rawls, $10.00; Rev. N. G. Newman, $10.00—total, $180.

Liberty Spring—Church, $10.00; J. S. Peele, $10; Joel E. Howell, $10.00; Philathea Class, $10.00; Rev. Dr. I. W. Johnson, $10.00; Sunday School, $10.00; Mrs. J. E. Harrell, $5.00; Mrs. F. P. Brinkley, $5.00; I. T. Byrd, $10.00; Baraca Class, $10.00; Mrs. C. E. Byrd, $5.00; Mrs. E. B. Rawles, $5.00; Mrs. H. E. Savage, $5.00—total, $105.00.

Newport News—Christian Endeavor Society, $10; Ladies' Aid Society, $10.00; Woman's Missionary Society, $10.00; Sunday School, $10.00; C. D. West, $10.00; Men's Bible Class, $10.00; Ladies' Bible Class, $10.00; Mrs. R. L. Smith, $5.00; Mrs. W. B. Baker, $5.00; Mesdames Byrd and Earp joint Bible Classes, $10.00; Mrs. R. L. Baker, $5.00; W. B. Williams, $10.00; D. H. Lawson, $10.00; W. L. Rilee, $10.00; Church Choir, $10.00; Intermediate and Junior C. E. Societies, $10.00; Rev. B. J. Earp, $10.00; R. L. Baker, $10.00; Church, $10.00; D. R. Maupin, $10.00; J. T. Irby, $10.00; June Joy Hyatt, $5.00; Margaret Earp, $5.00—total, $205.00.

Oakland—Sunday School, $10.00; Forward Movement Bible Class, $10.00; Friendship Bible Class, $10.00—total, $30.00.

Ocean View—Sunday School, $10.00—total, $10.00.
Portsmouth (Washington Street)—Church, $10.00; Sunday School, $10.00; Men's Bible Class, $10.00; Rev. H. E. Rountree, $10.00—total, $40.00.

Isle of Wight—Ladies' Bible Class, $10.00; Missionary Society, $10.00—total, $20.00.

People's Church (Dover, Del.)—Church, $10.00; Rev. Dr. R. C. Helfenstein, $10.00—total, $20.00.

Portsmouth (Elm Street)—Mrs. M. S. Coles, $5.00; Missionary Society, $10.00; Ladies' Aid Society, $10; Mrs. May Kelly, $5.00; Sunday School, $10.00; Men's Bible Class, $10.00—total, $50.00.

Richmond—Church, $30.00; Sunday School, $10.00; Wellon's Bible Class, $10.00; Adult Class, $10.00; Girls' Class, $5.00; Miss Alys Brittle, $5.00; P. J. Carlton, $30.00; N. B. Barker, $10.00; W. C. Rawls, $10.00; Mrs. W. C. Rawls, $10.00; Master T. T. Rawls, $10.00—total, $140.00.

Rosemont—Mrs. B. W. Gibson, $5.00; Bible Class, $10.00; Church, $10.00—total, $25.00.

Suffolk—Sunday School, $20.00; Ladies' B. & S. Union, $20.00; Philathea Class, $20.00; Church, $10; W. H. & F. Missionary Society, $10.00; Twentieth Century Baraca Class, $10.00; Junior Philathea Class, $10.00; Girls' Missionary Society, $10.00; Aiming High Class, $10.00; C. E. Society, $10.00; J. E. West, $10.00; G. W. Truitt, $10.00; E. E. Holland, $10.00; C. A. Shoop, $10.00; O. S. Smith, $10.00; B. D. Crocker, $10.00; Dr. J. E. Rawles, $10.00; J. E. Vincent, $10.00; John L. Gay, $10.00; H. H. Rowland, $10.00; W. S. Beamon, $10.00; Lewis C. Brothers, $10.00; Rev. Dr. W. W. Staley, $10.00; Mrs. M. C. Riddick, $10.00; Mrs. W. R. Mitchell, $5.00; Mrs. B. D. Crocker, $5.00; Mrs. J. D. Luke, $5.00; Mrs. I. W. Johnson, $5.00; Mrs. Susie Holland, $5.00; Mrs. A. T. Holland, $5.00; Mrs. G. W. Nurney, $6.00; J. M. Darden, $10.00; Mrs. J. M. Darden, $5.00; Mrs. C. B. Luke, $5.00; Mrs. A. D. Brinkley, $5.00; Mrs. Bessie Creekmore, $5.00; Mrs. J. D. McClenney, $5.00; Miss Margaret West, $5.00; Miss Janie Felton, $5.00; Rev. H. S. Harcastle, $10.00; Mrs. J. M. Calhoun, $5.00; Mrs. W. H. Jones, $5.00; Mrs. J. T. Williams, $5.00—total, $375.00.

South Norfolk—O. D. Poythress, $10.00; Ladies' Aid Society, $10.00; Friendship Bible Class, $10.00; Y. P. Auxiliary, $10.00; Sunday School, $10.00; Ladies' Bible Class, $10.00—total, $60.00.

Windsor—Baraca Class, $10.00; Rev. Dr. W. D. Harward, $10.00; Mrs. J. M. Raby, $5.00; Mrs. J. W. Roberts, $5.00—total, $30.00.

Waverly—Judge J. P. West, $10.00; Victor Bible Class, $10.00; Sunday School, $10.00; Church, $10.00; Class No. 11, $10.00; Acorn Bible Class, $10.00; Rev. H. E. Truitt, $10.00; Mrs. J. D. Gray, $5.00—total, $75.00.

Webster—Sunday School, $10.00—total, $10.00.

OUR RELIGIOUS INHERITANCE.

(Continued from Page 5.)

that our Saviour prayed that His Church might be one.

Probably we failed, in part, to preserve our history, study the biography of our leaders and propagate our principles. Do we have enough denominational loyalty? What we have is being put to the test in a small way. We have raised so far $110.75 as a part of the $2,095 necessary to erect a suitable memorial on the site of old Lebanon Church in Surry County, Va., and a suitable memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly on the campus of Elon College.

2. The lack of organization. To my mind there is much similarity between the formation of the United States and the adoption of its Constitution and the establishment of the Christian Church. Before and after winning independence, the colonies feared a strong general government, although they desired all the benefits of same. They drifted along for a while, and seeing that the confederation was a failure, formed the union, giving the general government stronger powers than the confederation had. The powers of the government of the United States have increased and we have become the greatest nation on the face of the earth. So, our Churches being congregational and independent, feared a general organization meant too much surrender of power or creedism. They drifted along in a loose way until Conferences and Conventions were formed.

Don't believe that I am sectarian because I believe in standing by my Church and its work. In casting my lot with the Christians, to help save the world, every organization and enterprise of the Church becomes my organization and my enterprise. Organization should be one of our battle cries and ministers and laymen should cultivate a spirit of respect for submission to our Church authority. Those of us who have been at the center of our work in trying to give new life to certain enterprises, have felt keenly the course of some of our brethren in turning deaf ears to the appeals of our highest bodies and centering their offerings on what they believe best. We have too much individual freedom; like our forefathers, we are so jealous of our individual rights we sway backwards.

3. Non-educated ministry and improper support of same. The early fathers did not believe in an educated ministry. They were so impressed with the beauty of our principles and the grandeur of our platform that they thought even uneducated men could keep them before the people. We now know better, and practically all men who enter our ministry are college graduates. The founding of Elon College is the second biggest thing ever done by the Christians of the South. Nothing can compare with it in importance except the election of a full-time mission secretary and the creation of an active Mission Board by the Southern Convention. I cannot look into the future enough to tell the changes that may take place in our educational system, but of one thing I am certain. Elon must ever remain as a great college for education and training of ministers and religious leaders, and that we must add to it a great theological department.

4. Failure to enter the cities. If there is one thing above all else the Mission Board of the Southern Christian Convention has decided upon, it is to concentrate our resources at strategic points and build up several strong city Churches. This will be done without any detriment to the country Churches. Nothing has retarded the growth of the Christian Church more than the failure to enter the cities—the centers of commerce and population. Over 51 per cent of our people of the United States now live in the cities and towns, while about 5 per cent of the membership of our Church reside in cities of 25,000 population and over.

5. A non-missionary people. Our members justify this statement. This Conference is not only the strongest in the South, but in the nation, and its efforts along missionary lines previous to 1876 amounted to practically nothing.

At the Conference held in Suffolk in 1876, the Executive Committee, in its report, stated that it had taken into consideration some resolutions passed by the Church at Spring Hill, suggesting a centennial work for our Church, and had decided that the centennial work of our Church should be home missions.

This movement put new life into the denomination, and we have begun to appreciate our denominational inheritance. We still have many problems, chief of which is to get the men interested in missions. The women of most Churches are a long ways ahead of the men when we come to missions, which is the great work of the Church. The women study missions, pray and work for missions. They have missionary societies. As a rule, men give to missions because the Church says so, but they do not study missions and do not know the needs of the home and foreign fields. They are not interested in the subject like the women, and never will be until they are better informed on the subject. The organized class should study missions at least once a quarter, and the missionary applications of the lessons should always be driven home. These classes should lead in the missionary work of the local Church. Not only are the men falling behind the women in study of missions, but our boys in Virginia are behind the girls in education in the public schools; and if this deplorable condition continues, the women in Virginia will have to assume leadership in both Church and State. The Virginia high school enrollment for the last two years is: girls, 57.8 per cent, and boys, 42.2 per cent. In 1924-1925, graduates from high schools were: girls, 64 per cent, and boys, 36 per cent; in 1925-1926: girls, 62 per cent, and boys, 38 per cent.

This movement for home missions celebrated the 100th anniversary of American independence. This year we celebrate the sesquicentennial of national independence. So, this year, at Durham, N. C., the Christians, South, adopted a sesquicentennial for our Church—the Convention budget. It is the most forward step ever taken in our history, and if we are broad enough and loyal enough to give it a fair trial it will add new life and strength to our Church. It is flexible, providing for budget giving, spasmodic giving and specials. It provides for all the institutions, organizations and interests of the Church. All are necessary, and all must be provided for.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION FIELD NOTES.

A few days ago we received word from an interested pastor as to where to send the educational offering. We hope that in the next few months our departmental page in THE SUN will carry in the heading the names and addresses of the board's officers.

Mr. C. H. Stephenson is our treasurer, and Mr. Stephenson's address is 120 West Martin Street, Raleigh, N. C.

And, by the way, there will be no November offering for Christian education in the Southern Christian Convention. The offering in the Southern Convention was received in September, and no offering for Christian education should be received in November unless it was not received in September and there has been a change of heart. Under such circumstances, we presume the other departments of the Convention would not protest against such an offering being received.

But it does appear to the writer that the Christian education offering should be out of the way by this time, so that interest and promotion could be centered upon the Thanksgiving offering for the Orphanage.

The question is often asked, "What does the Board of Christian Education do?" We wish you to understand the board is always doing. Miss Pattie Coghill is engaged in a field work campaign now that will carry her well on to Christmas.

And here is a letter before me from a young lady who attended the Elon Summer School and received an inspiration. It informs us that three young women of her Church attended a training school and that later they were joined by a young man, and that together they earned five international credits. It tells of a class being organized, and out of twelve members eight were pledged as tithers.

This is just one instance out of many, but it throws light upon the work the board is accomplishing.

The writer regrets having to acknowledge that his own Church did not respond kindly to the proposition that the Church budget provide for the current expenses of the Sunday School and the Sunday School offerings all go for benevolence. But he feels his Church is wrong in its attitude, and that the day will come when it will be converted. What Churches of our Southern Convention can report such a program? Let us hear from you.

Rev. B. J. Earp has accepted an invitation to the Winchester Christian Church and has moved from Newport News, Va., to Winchester, Va. This transfer of pastorate relations and Conference membership made necessary Mr. Earp's resignation as corresponding secretary of the Convention of S. S. & C. E. of the Eastern Virginia Conference. Mr. Earp served as secretary of the Convention for five years, and in those five years he was faithful in every respect to the tasks and obligations of the office. He came to the office when frequent, though unavoidable, changes in the office had created a rather chaotic situation. He also came to the office when there was a rather drastic change in the policy and program of the Convention. His duties became arduous and exacting, but he applied to them a loyalty and perseverance which restored order and carried the work of his office forward to greater accomplish-

(Continued on Page 14.)

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson IX—November 28, 1926.

GIDEON AND THE THREE HUNDRED.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Be strong in the Lord, and in the strength of His might."—Eph. 6:10.

LESSON: Judges 7:1-25.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psa. 27:1-6.

Gideon was rather humble and fearful at the beginning of this story. When the angel of the Lord appears unto him as he threshed in secret, he promptly told the angel that he came from a poor family and that he was the least in that poor family. Furthermore, he was a little slow in undertaking the deliverance of Israel, for he asked for a double sign, the wet and the dry fleece, before he assumed the responsibility of the task. He seemed to be timid, halting, and wavering, hardly the one to do something that has become a permanent part of the world's sacred history. But it was this same Gideon who, with three hundred picked men, put to rout a large army of Midianites, who had exerted a reign of terror over Israel for several years. How account for this fact?

There are several factors that entered into Gideon's success as a leader. In the first place, he had a sense of mission, a consciousness of a call from God. He felt that there was a definite challenge to him and to what ability he had. This sense of mission entered largely into his life and work. It is thus in the case of most great men. They have a sense of mission. They feel that they have been called to do something really worth while, and they try to make the thing they are doing worth while. Heed ye, O Sunday School teachers!

Growing out of this sense of mission or call, there was the assurance that God was with him. He had God's own promise, very personal, that He would be with him, and in that fact he had the guarantee that he should prevail. "If only I could know that God was with me," says some timid soul. Well, one can be assured of that if he is undertaking the work and will of God. When Jesus said, "Go, ye," He said, "Lo! I am with you always." He who attempts to do God's work has God's power if he will ask for and claim it. This means you, Sunday School teachers, who read this.

Again, growing out of this consciousness of God's presence and help, there sprang an indomitable spirit of courage. When God commanded Gideon to break down the altars of Baal and to establish altars to God, Gideon did it. Let no one think that that was an easy matter. That took courage, and only a man who was assured of God's presence would have attempted it. Let us be as courageous. Let us tear down altars to Baal and build altars to God. Let us be strong to defy evil, and to do the right, no matter what the cost.

Another factor in Gideon's success was his natural ability. He had brains, and he used them for the Lord. God puts no discount on any ability a man may have. In fact, when God calls a man He usually—it is only in rare cases otherwise—calls that man to thorough preparation. Gideon used strategy and brains in his work, and God blessed him. Professed piety can never be a substitute for brain-work and careful planning and execution in the work of the kingdom.

(Continued on Page 14.)

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

November 28, 1926.

TOPIC: "Christian Endeavor Around the World."—Phil. 2:1-13.

SCRIPTURE REFERENCES: Eph. 6:18-24; Luke 10:25-37; Acts 2:41-47; Psa. 84:1-2; Isa. 65:17-25; Rom. 8:24-39.

Opening Devotional Service.

1. Call of Worship (repeat in unison).
"The earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof, the world, and they that dwell therein. Oh, that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and for His wonderful works to the children of men.
2. Song. "O Worship the King," or "Holy, Holy, Holy."
3. Twenty-third Psalm.
4. Prayer.
5. Song. "Faith of Our Fathers," "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations," or "O Zion, Haste!"

Plans for the Meeting.

1. Advertise the meeting with a poster upon which are pictures representing other countries and the following question: "If Christian Endeavor is good enough for us, can it help others? How?"

2. Ask several members before the meeting to briefly give a few of the needs of the different countries, assigning Japan to one, China to another, and so on.

Leader's Talk.

Christian Endeavor is able to render world-wide service, because its motto is "For Christ and the Church"; and such a motto has no national or racial limitations. There is no place in the present thinking of a Christian world for any organization which is too narrow to exclude any nation or race. It has been said that the world has been made a "neighborhood" in the past century, and it remains for the next century to make it a "brotherhood."

The part of the pledge "striving to do whatever Christ would have me do" makes it a world-wide organization rendering a world-wide service, because Christ thought in terms of all people of all races and nations. He commanded his followers to go into all the world and to make disciples of all men.

Topics for Discussion.

1. "In all the world Christian Endeavor has about 80,000 societies, in nearly one hundred denominations, and is found in practically every country on the globe."

Christian Endeavor gives thousands of dollars each year to the support of Christian work in foreign lands. Many Christian Endeavor Societies in the Christian Church are giving money to support our missionary work at home and abroad, and are studying missions and praying for our missionaries.

2. "Christian Endeavor for all Churches."

One of the best things about Christian Endeavor, and the thing which has kept it alive, is its flexibility. It may be adapted to fit any Church, and if a Christian Endeavor Society is not meeting the needs of the local Church it has no right to exist. Check up on your own work and find out wherein your society is meeting the needs of your society and wherein it is failing. No cut-and-dried program handed down can meet the needs of every society, but local conditions vary the needs. If your society is a growing organization, it will be enlarging its program from time to time and assuming new obligations and responsibilities.

(Continued on Page 14.)

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE MOFFITT WHITESELL, Editor.

Three cheers for the little girl who answered the questions! She will always be a smart girl, because she tries. That's fine, fine, Helen, dear. Your editor is so proud of what you did. We will just put your answers into the Korner, so that the other children can see what you did.

Here is Helen Atkinson's answers to our questions—catch questions; and she caught the answers, and here they are—a wee small girl, but oh, how very very smart she is!

YOUR EDITOR.

HELEN ANSWERS QUESTIONS.

Mullins, S. C., October 27, 1926.

Dear Editor:

1. Bats are useful because they catch harmful insects that fly about at night.
2. There is a kind of beetle called death hatch.
3. Fish control their breathing by means of a gas-filled bladder, which aids them in rising to the surface of the water and breathing out through their gills.
4. The sparrow hawk, mosquito hawk, etc., are good because they destroy injurious insects, while Cooper's, the goshawk, and the shark-skinned hawk all eat chickens and are bad.
5. Peanuts grow in the ground on the roots of the peanut plant.
7. The bull frog is the largest frog in the world.
8. God makes the rainbow in the sky by the sun's rays when they strike the raindrops in certain ways.
9. Animals have two sets of teeth.

HELEN ATKINSON.

Seven years old.

TO MAKE A TOY RAFT.

To make the toy raft like the pioneers used, cut ten little logs from tree branches. They should be about as large as a lead pencil. Now, get two cords for the ropes to tie the logs together.

Take one log and tie the middle of a cord around each end of it, leaving the two ends of each cord the same length. Lay another log against the first one and tie the cords around it. Then tie the cords around the other logs, one at a time, until the raft is large enough.

For a sail, fasten a piece of white paper to a little stick and stand the stick on the raft by poking it between the logs. If you tie a string to the raft, you can pull it along the water.

CLOUD SHIPS.

By H. O. Spelman.

- I love the rain on the window-pane,
When it stands in glistening beads.
I watch a drop run from the top
Down where another leads.
I love the snow when I see it blow
And drift on the walk and street;
I run and play every mudday day
With rubber boots on my feet.
- I love the hail when it comes in a gale
And covers the ground like a spread.
I scoop it up in my hands for a cup,
And pray marbles in the shed.
But most I love the clouds above,
Like ships with sails unfurled;
I'd like to see the sights they see
As they journey round the world.

DR. HARPER'S NEW BOOK REVIEWED.

Please allow me space in which to refer to a valuable, new book which is just from the Macmillan press. This is a North Carolina product, and it should have recognition in the State, as elsewhere, for it is a splendid contribution to religious education. Indeed, the book, "An Integrated Program of Religious Education," represents a "pioneer attempt to state the problem of religious education in a comprehensive way."

The work is from the pen of Dr. Wm. A. Harper, president of Elon College. Dr. Harper has written half a dozen books in the past few years, but none of them, it seems to me, is more constructive and timely than this one just off the press. Every one interested in the youth of our land and in the important subjects of religious training should read this book and put into practice its suggestions.

Dr. Harper thinks that every agency, school, college, university, home, Y. M. C. A., and Y. W.

C. A., Church school, Boy Scouts and Campfire Girls—both the informational and the expressional agencies of and for the proper Christian development of the community—should be integrated and mortised so that the best results may be obtained, without overlapping, and with the best possible economy of time and money. He says, "Instruction should pass over into the expressional, and expression should react on the instructional. This is fundamental. It should never be forgotten. It means that the sharp distinction between instruction and expression must be abandoned. Knowledge necessarily arises out of experience. It returns to experience after enrichment through the teaching process as purposive control."

Dr. Harper, who is coming to be recognized as a national leader in the field of religious education, is well equipped to handle this comprehensive and important theme.—Thos. F. Opie, in the Greensboro Daily News.

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.
Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35

(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.

(Weight 18 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25

Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jê-hôy'-â-kim gave th silver and the gold to Phâr'-aoh

No. 64521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50

(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.

(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

EARTH'S MOST PRECIOUS SYMBOL.

"God, forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord, Jesus Christ."—Gal. 6:14.

All religions have their symbols. Jesus Christ gave us three for Christianity. First: baptism, the symbol of soul cleansing; second: memorial supper, the symbol of His death and His coming again; and third: the cross, the symbol of sacrifice.

It was the cross that Paul gloried in, saying that love inspires self-forgetfulness and self-surrender, and these represent humanity at its best.

Besides, the cross is the symbol of life that springs from death. The grave of Jesus was more than a grave. It was the cradle of a new-born faith and a complete assurance of immortal life.

Prayer.—Oh Father, may our family keep the cross in sight and live by its life today and forever. Amen.

TUESDAY.

WHY AM I A CHRISTIAN?

"Sanctify the Lord God in your hearts and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you."—1 Peter 3:15.

It is most proper indeed that every one should be able to give in a few words an intelligent reason of the salvation he possesses and of the hope that is in him. How many of us could give a concise answer—so given that it would be convincing to an uninformed inquirer?

The late Sam Jones was once asked by a challenging inquirer, "Can you demonstrate salvation?" Jones replied, "No; try it and it will demonstrate itself. Some folks are like a herd of Texas steers when driven to the automatic watering place. If they get on the platform, the water floods the trough and they can drink and be satisfied; but some old wise steers run around on the offside and will not get on the platform. Consequently the trough remains dry and they get no water. Get on and see, my friend."

It is true that so spiritual is the relationship of God and man in his salvation that the intellect is incapable of putting it into words. On the other hand, it is so simple that it ought to be possible, to all who know it, to give a gratifying reason why.

John said: "By this shall men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." And he also said, "Hereby we know not we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren," and "every one that loveth is begotten of God."

"For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, these are the sons of God."—Paul.

"He that heareth my word and believeth Him that sent me, hath eternal life . . . hath passed from death unto life."—Jno. 5:24.

I am a Christian because I believe in goodness, and righteousness, and in that which makes mankind better and better, unto perfection; because I believe in God the Father of all and the Author of all good, and Jesus Christ the Saviour whose life saves me from sin and lifts me up to the increasing purpose of goodness and perfection. I am a Christian because He has saved me and endowed me with a consuming desire for good and the reign of Christ in the human heart; because He has given me to hate evil and love the good; because He has embued me with His Spirit to win humanity. Amen.

Prayer.—Our Father, help us to "study to show ourselves approved of God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed," and ready instant in and out of season to testify of the truth and the hope that is in us. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

ARE YOU READY TO SERVE?

"The Lord, saying (said), Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me."—Isa. 6:6-9.

Abraham, Moses, Joshua, Jonah, Ruth, Esther, John the Baptist, Philip, Paul, the great worthies of God, were all under direct commission from God to do something. God had said to each, "Go!" and each was given a special work to do. Read on, dear friend, and you will find your commission and what you are to do. Somewhere in the plan of God's kingdom there is a place for you.

Prayer.—O Lord, touch our lips with the fire of heaven this day and take our iniquity away. Lift us up to newness of life and give us a keen ear to Thy call and a willing and obedient heart to do Thy bidding. In Christ's name. Amen.

THURSDAY.

THE MAN WHO LEARNS GOD.

"The fear of the Lord is with them that fear Him, and He will show them His covenant."—Ps. 25:10-15.

"What man is he that feareth the Lord; him shall He teach in the way that he shall choose."

"Fear" does not mean that we are to be afraid of God, but that we shall trust Him and follow Him obediently, fearing lest sin may come in between us and Him and rob us of His friendship, love and victorious life.

Prayer.—O our God, in Thee do we put our trust. Show us Thy ways. Teach us and guide us in Thy truth, and may we have grace this day to overcome, the courage to do right, and at the end of the day nothing to regret. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY.

LAYING UP GOOD THINGS OF LIFE.

"So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God."—Luke 12:16-21.

This text is explained by the context and might read, "A fool is he that layeth up treasure for himself and is not rich toward God."

The best things of life are not our possessions, cannot be put in steel vaults, or tabulated in books, or passed down to posterity. The teaching is, do not make it a primary object to get gains to lay up for your own sake or that of your children, but seek first the true spirit and life of God in all thy doings "rich toward" Him.

Prayer.—Our Heavenly Father, we give Thee thanks this morning for all Thy goodness. Keep our hearts pure and clear, our intentions fixed in Thy glory, our spirit from anger and our lips from evil words. Let love and happiness fill our home, and to Thee is all the praise. Amen.

SATURDAY.

A MAN OF POWER.

"There he built an altar."—1 Sam. 7:15-17.

Samuel had great power with God. He was judge, priest, seer, prophet, author, statesman, high-minded patriot, and the discoverer of other great men—David.

His highest qualification was power with God in prayer (read 99th Psalm; also Jer. 15:1), and his hiding place was at the altar. He went from the altar to his work and then back to the altar. All such are men of power. Any one may have this power for paying the price.

Prayer.—Our Father, help us to start right with deep devotion, keep vision of Thy way, with right plans, and set determination to do Thy will. Then we shall have the joy of Thy "well done" when evening comes. Amen.

SUNDAY.

FAITH'S VICTORY.

"When Jesus saw their faith, He said . . . Son, thy sins be forgiven thee."—Mark 2:4-10.

This is the Sabbath. The Lord is looking for Thy faith. How can it be seen? James says that faith finds expression through works. Hebrews says that it witnesseth for the Lord, and comes to God seeking Him. Paul says faith heareth the word, and that by it we are justified before the Lord and have peace. John said that faith is the victory that overcomes the world. Make the most of today for good and God.

Prayer.—Our Father, give us faith to rise and go our ways in the world, never losing our hold on Thy hand nor our trust in Thy power to bring the world to Thyself. May we not fail to do our part. In Christ's name. Amen.

NOT A THEORY, BUT AN EXPERIENCE.

The Christianity of Christ is not a theory, nor is it a theology. It is an experience. If all would realize this it would save much bitterness, many heartaches and some acrimonious controversy.

One may talk about Christianity, do much theorizing and speculation as to what is and what is not Christianity, but unless one has experienced Christ and His redeeming grace in the heart, one does not really know what a Christian is. Unless one has had an experience, one is not qualified to speak on what it is to be a Christian. And one ought not to speak on a subject that one knows nothing about.

Our Lord's Christ, while here on earth, faced individuals and called for their personal decision as to Him and His way of life. The rich young ruler turned from Him with a heavy and sorrowful heart after a very pressing and personal interview. That young man failed to respond to the appeal of Christ, and so carried away a heavy heart—and is heard of no more.

When our Lord wanted to test and examine Peter as to his standing (in the Church) with his Saviour, there were no theoretical or theological questions propounded. "Peter, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these." Love is an experience, individual and personal.

What we must have, if we are to enter into the kingdom of our Lord and inhabit there and have safe refuge therein, is a blessed, abiding, saving experience.

General Chang Chih-kiang has sent the China agency of the American Bible Society his second big order for Bibles and testaments. This was for 4,500 Bibles and 6,000 New Testaments. This is, undoubtedly, the biggest single purchase of Scriptures on record in China. This order comes within six months of the same general's order for a smaller number of the Scriptures. They are distributed to the officers and men in his army.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

One of our leading ministers wrote me last week that his Church was going to set its goal for the Thanksgiving offering this year to equal the amount of the Thanksgiving and Easter offering combined. Won't that be fine! What if every Church and Sunday School would do that? Set goals and then work to reach them. Let every Church set for its goal this year the amount your Church raised for its Thanksgiving and Easter offering last year. You see, we will not ask for a special Easter offering next spring.

We received a letter this week from one of our girls who came to the Orphanage a little tot and was reared here and is now a trained nurse and graduated with high honors and got special mention on her examinations. She has this to say: "Thanksgiving is near, and as I am so thankful for all the things done and given me while at the Orphanage, I want to give you five dollars to help where needed. I would like to give five thousand, but we are not blessed in this section this fall on account of low price of cotton." We truly hope that she will be very successful in her chosen profession and make ten thousand dollars. We know if she does the Orphanage will get the five thousand.

Ten Thousand Dollars for Our Thanksgiving Offering.

Will your Church do its part? Set your goal equal to the amount of the Thanksgiving offering and the special Easter offering combined, and then ask your people to get behind the offering and push it up to it. It is an opportunity and a privilege you have to help the widow in distress and the fatherless children. Measure up to the opportunity. "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." Your Church will be the happier and the little children will be blessed. May God guide you and direct you in this offering.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR NOVEMBER 18, 1926.

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

Brought forward	$21,001.45
N. C. & Va. Conference:
Shallow Ford	$ 2.22
Long's Chapel	2.23
	4.45
Eastern N. C. Conference:
Plymouth	$ 8.02
Turner's Chapel	1.20
Pleasant Union	10.00
	19.22
Western N. C. Conference:
Pleasant Hill	$ 4.25
Ramseur	8.38
Parks Cross Roads	3.37
	16.00
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Oak Grove	$ 4.50
Union (Surry)	3.00
Ocean View	2.02
Rosemount	6.38
Suffolk	25.00
Cypress Chapel	6.00
	46.90
Valley Virginia Conference:
Dry Run	$5. 16
Bethlehem	1.11
	6.27
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Vanceville	1.36

Northern Sunday School:
Pleasant Hill Ohio	6.94
Thanksgiving Offering.
Nathan O'Beery	$10.00
W. M. Storey	5.00
	15.00
Special Offerings.
G. G. Clapp, support of children....	$40.00
Mrs. Braddy	2.00
Boston Tailoring Co., Burlington...	2.00
	44.00
New Building Fund.
J. C. Hedgpeth	$ 5.00
W. A. Roscoe	20.00
Georgie Bradley	10.00
	35.00
Grand total	$21,196.59

A FAREWELL SERVICE.

The members and friends of the First Christian Church, Albany, N. Y., held a farewell reception for Rev. Walter C. Hook and Mrs. Hook Thursday evening, October 28, 1926. The Church quartette and orchestra rendered a very enjoyable program. Mr. Wellington Gray, who has been president of the board of trustees during Mr. Hook's pastorate, spoke for the Church. He expressed the heartfelt appreciation of Mr. Hook's services and sorrow at his departure, and said that the East Cobleskill and Ravena Churches, in which Mr. Hook directed evangelistic campaigns, had also expressed their appreciation of his services. Mr. Gray then presented a purse of more than $100.

The following communication was received by Mr. Hook from the Albany Christian Endeavor Union: "It is with great regret that we write you this letter, at the request of the Albany Christian Endeavor Union in congress assembled, accepting your resignation as pastoral counselor of the union. We have been your debtor, in that you have given us the benefit of your advice and the example of your Christian character. Your understanding of young people and their problems has been of no little service to us. All we can say is that we pray that in your new field you may be of the same use in the Master's program that you have been in our city. Very truly yours, (signed) Margaret Irving, Corresponding secretary; William C. Vanderpoel, president."

In closing, the quartette sang "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," and all joined in the hymn, "God Will Take Care of You."

A social hour and informal reception followed. Among those present from other Churches were the Rev. A. M. van der Wart, chaplain of the Albany penitentiary, and Mr. Russell Greenman, former president of the New York State Sunday School Association.

Mr. Hook leaves Albany to become pastor of the Christian Church of Waverly, Va.

MAY BEST TAYLOR,
Church Clerk.

NOTICE.

To Delegates to the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference.

The Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference will be held at the Oak Level Christian Church, near Youngsville, N. C., beginning November 23, 1926, 10 o'clock a. m. All delegates are urged to attend, and to notify Brother J. W. Hudson, Secretary of Oak Level Church, Youngsville, N. C., at once of their intention and time of arrival.

H. C. CAVINESS,
President Eastern N. C. Christian Conference.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10..... 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim..... 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses
- (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim..... 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.
1536 E. Broad St., - - - Richmond Va.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS NOTES.

(Continued from Page 10.)

ments than it had ever before known. Mr. Earp is acutely conscientious, and this often brought him into misunderstandings with the secretaries of the schools and societies, and even the pastors of Churches. But a study of the records of the Convention during his term of office will reveal that, in practically every such instance, he was correct in his position and endeavoring to carry out the instructions of the Executive Committee of the Convention as it interpreted the program and Constitution of the Convention. In the departure of Mr. Earp, the Eastern Virginia Convention loses an officer who worked at his office and who accomplished results of a constructive and permanent character.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

(Continued from Page 10.)

Once more, Gideon surrounded himself with picked, dependable men. Better three hundred alert, courageous men than a whole army of fearful, dull-witted soldiers in name only. There is a lesson here for our day. In a day when numbers, numbers, numbers seems everything, we will do well to learn that quality is far more desirable than quantity in the things that concern the kingdom as a rule. It is not a matter of how many members a Church or Sunday School has, but of what kind of members they are, and how they are growing in the graces of the Christian life. These men of Gideon stood every man in his place 'round about the camp. When a pastor or a Sunday School superintendent, or any leader in Church work can find alert, courageous, trained or untrained men and women and young people who will stand every one in his place and do the thing that is expected of him—when this comes to pass, well there is no limit to the things we can do.

Gideon did not think more highly of himself than he ought to have thought. "The sword of the Lord," said he first. He knew the victory was first of all of God. But he thought soberly, and he added "and of Gideon." It was God and Gideon—God working through Gideon. "The Lord hath need of him," said Jesus, referring to the colt on which he later rode into Jerusalem in triumph. So would He say of us—pastors, teachers, parents, leaders. The Lord hath need of us. We are workers together with Him. Let us have the spirit of Gideon. Let us stand every one of us in our place in the work of the kingdom.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

(Continued from Page 10.)

Quotations from Daily Companion.

China has 2,500 C. E. Societies.

India has 2,000 societies, led by a native Indian field secretary.

In the recent World Christian Endeavor Convention, in London, representatives from practically every nation on the globe attended.

Close the meeting with an open discussion on ways your society may improve its work in the local Church so as to better meet the needs of the young people of the Church and community, and how its influence may be felt in the denomination's mission work. Such a discussion may mean renewed interest and enlarged vision.

A word of warning that Christian civilization is now beginning to crumble comes from Rabindranath Tagore, India's famous poet and philosopher. He is said to scoff at the idea of a "yellow peril." There is a peril, he says, only in the sense that Western civilization may commit suicide while the Oriental would survive. "You Westerners who possess all material wealth are starving yourselves intellectually. We who have nothing believe we have sensed the mysteries of the Infinite. You think you can struggle along with courts of arbitration, but you tolerate peace only because you realize war is bad business. There can be no lasting peace unless you strive to work for the good of all mankind."

E-L-O-N C-O-L-L-E-G-E

CO-EDUCATIONAL

A Photograph of a Section of the Elon College Campus showing the Central Group of Buildings.
(Photograph taken from the air.)

ELON COLLEGE announces the opening of its fall term Sept. 1st.

The accommodations are limited. Only 400 students can be accepted. Members of the Christian Church are given preference. The enrollment is nearing the maximum. Make reservation now and be assured of good accommodations.

ELON COLLEGE offers superior educational advantages.

The new buildings and equipment give Elon one of the most efficient college plants in the South. Elon College has standard A Grade Rating. Its work is accepted by all other institutions and all State departments of education.

ELON COLLEGE is owned and supported by the Christian Church.

It strives to return to the denomination in trained leaders, both ministers and laymen, value received. It promises all who may enter its doors a congenial and Christian atmosphere. The first purpose of the college is to produce Christian lives.

For Catalogue and further information, address—

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

PROGRAM OF EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA
CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE.

Following is the program of the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference, to be held at Oak Level Christian Church, Youngsville, N. C., November 23, 24, 25, 1926:

First Day—Morning Session.

- 10:00 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 10:20 Devotional Service, Rev. J. E. Franks.
- 10:30 Enrollment.
- 10:40 Election of Officers.
- 10:50 Welcome Address, Rev. J. Fuller Johnson.
- 11:00 Response, C. O. Eaves.
- 11:10 Appointment of Committees to Fill Vacancies.
- 11:20 Conference Sermon, Rev. H. C. Caviness.
- 12:00 Adjournment.

First Day—Afternoon Session.

- 1:30 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 1:40 Devotional Service, Rev. J. Lee Johnson.
- 1:50 Report of Executive Committee.
- 1:55 Treasurer's Report.
- 2:00 Ministerial Reports.
- 2:20 Report on Stewardship, Rev. J. Fuller Johnson. Address by the Chairman, and Discussion.
- 2:40 Report of Committee on Social Service, J. A. Kimball. Discussion.
- 3:00 Report on Religious Literature, Rev. R. L. Williamson. Discussion.
- 3:20 Appointment of Special Committees.
- 3:30 Miscellaneous Business.
- 3:40 Report of Committee on Entertainment. Assignment of Homes.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

Second Day—Morning Session.

- 9:30 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 9:40 Devotional Service, Rev. M. T. Sorrell.
- 9:50 Reading Minutes of Previous Day. Roll Call. Enrollment.
- 10:00 Report of Committee on Home Missions, Rev. J. E. Franks. Discussion.
- 10:20 Report of Committee on Apportionments, Prof. L. L. Vaughan.
- 10:30 Report of Committee on Evangelism, Rev. M. T. Sorrell. Discussion.
- 11:00 The Budget Plan of Southern Christian Convention. Discussion.
- 11:30 Report of Committee on Sunday Schools and Christian Endeavor, C. H. Stevenson.
- 11:40 Christian Education of Southern Christian Convention, Rev. J. H. Lightbourne, Holland, Va., and Miss Pattie Coghill.
- 12:00 Adjournment.

Second Day—Afternoon Session.

- 1:15 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 1:30 Devotional Service, Rev. B. J. Howard.
- 1:40 Report of Committee on Foreign Missions, Rev. J. Lee Johnson.
- 1:50 Address on Missions, Rev. J. O. Atkinson, D. D., Mission Secretary.
- 2:30 Address on Christian Orphanage, Chas. D. Johnston, Superintendent.
- 3:00 Report of Committee on Finance, K. B. Johnson.
- 3:10 Report of Committee on Place for Next Session, Rev. J. E. Franks.
- 3:20 Report of Committee on Superannuation, K. B. Johnson.
- 3:30 Miscellaneous Business.
- 4:00 Adjournment.

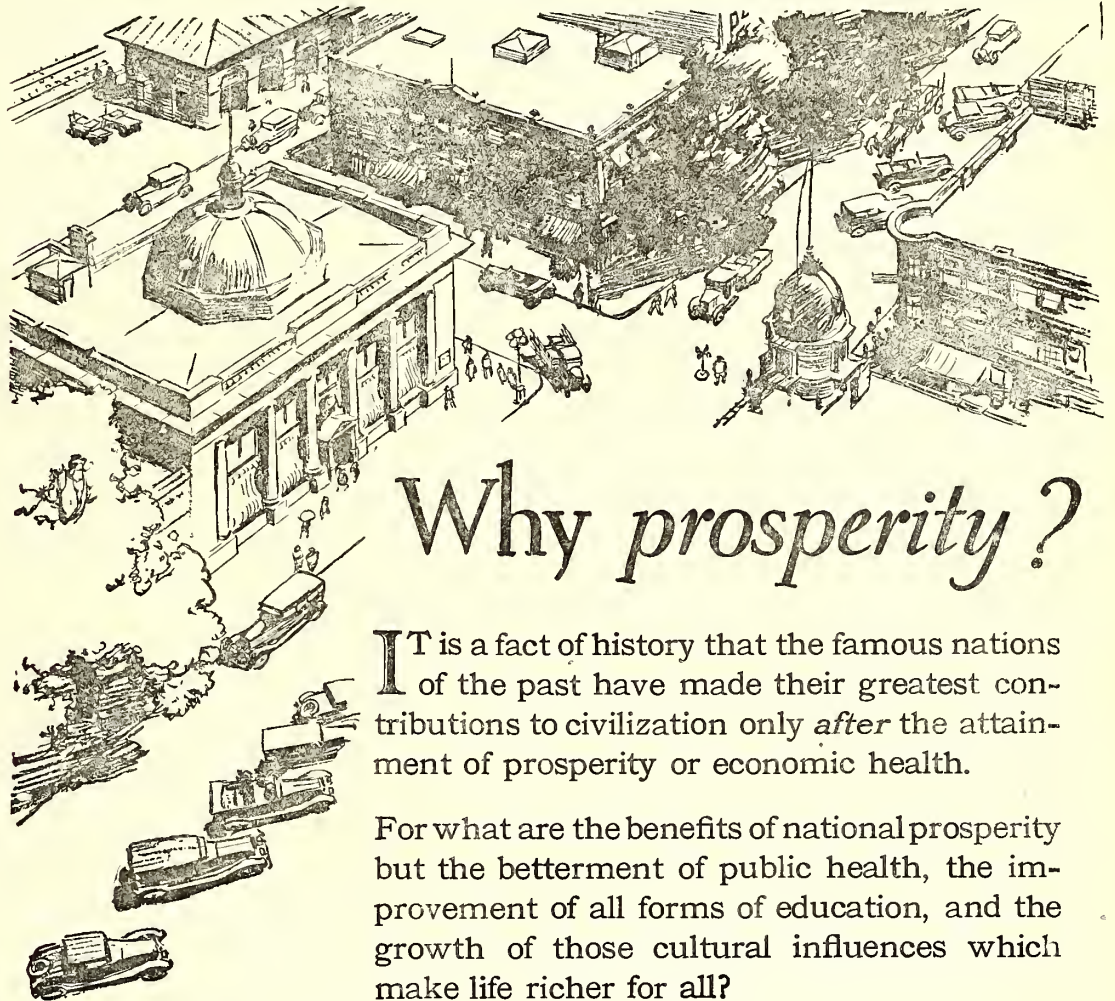

Third Day—Morning Session.

- 9:30 Song Service, Rev. J. A. Denton, Leader.
- 9:40 Devotional Service, Rev. J. C. Cummings.

- 9:50 Discussion of Church Auxiliaries, Mrs. L. L. Vaughan.
- 10:10 Report of Committee on Education, Rev. W. C. Wicker.
- 10:20 Address, Dr. W. A. Harper, President, Elon College.
- 11:00 Thanksgiving Service, led by President of Conference.
- 11:30 Report of Committee on Resolutions, Rev. R. L. Williamson.

- 11:40 Miscellaneous Business.
- 12:00 Adjournment.

Note: The regular Annual Meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference is on Tuesday before Thanksgiving each year. A full delegation from every Church is desired. Members of Conference should come on time for the opening session, attend every session, and remain until the close of the Conference.

Why prosperity?

IT is a fact of history that the famous nations of the past have made their greatest contributions to civilization only after the attainment of prosperity or economic health.

For what are the benefits of national prosperity but the betterment of public health, the improvement of all forms of education, and the growth of those cultural influences which make life richer for all?

The prosperity of the South is today an accomplished fact, and, in the light of history, its promise for the future of the South is great.

The prosperity of southern communities is definitely bound up with the prosperity of the southern railroads. The Southern Railway System regards its present good credit and earning power as an opportunity to assist in the preservation of the general welfare of the South in the years that lie ahead.

Only a prosperous railroad can render the transportation service needed by the people of a prosperous country.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves  the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year $ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to "Editor Christian Sun," Elou College, N. C.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

OBITUARIES.

PARKER.

Mr. John Willis Parker, of Holland, Va., died at Lakeview Hospital, at Suffolk, November 7, 1926, aged 61 years. The funeral services were conducted at Holland Christian Church by the writer, assisted by Dr. J. H. Lightbourne. The burial was in the Holland Cemetery.

Mr. Parker was the son of Thomas and Susan Howell Parker, of Gates County, N. C. He was married three times—first, to Miss Dora Byrd, of Nansemond County, from which union survive two children, C. T. Parker and Mrs. H. J. Darden, of Holland. His second marriage was to Miss Sarah Harrell, who left three children, now surviving—Mary Sue, J. Frank, and Addie Lee. His last marriage was to Mrs. Mary Babb Howell, who survives him. In addition to the above, the deceased leaves an aged mother, Mrs. Susan Duke, of Franklin; one sister, Mrs. Robert Byrd, of Franklin; and three stepchildren, Maude Lee, Robert, and Elizabeth Howell, and a number of grandchildren.

Mr. Parker was a member of Holland Christian Church until his last marriage, when he joined Holy Neck with his wife. He was a good man, devoted to his family and generous toward his neighbor. He belonged to the industrious and dependable class of citizens which is the saving element of our country. May our kind Father bless and comfort his loved ones.

N. G. NEWMAN.

PROPEs.

Mrs. Rebecca Propes, wife of Joseph Propes, was born March 28, 1865, and died November 3, 1926. Her age was 61 years, 7 months, and 5 days. She united with Newport Christian Church at the age of sixteen. In later years she transferred to Bethel Christian Church, near which they lived at the time. She was a good Christian woman, beloved by all who knew her. She is survived by her husband, two sons, and three daughters.

Funeral services were conducted from the home of a son in Shenandoah City, November 5, 1926.

A. W. ANDES.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 3/4 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
15
Richmond, Va.

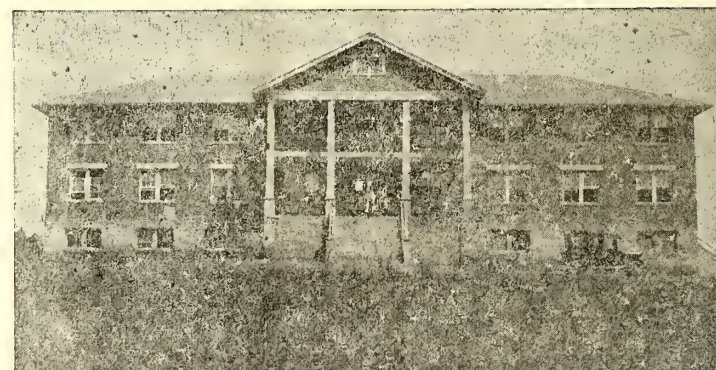

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address
THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN . PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc. Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAIN PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures. Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearst Print in Smallest Size 4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes 2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $8.50

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT With all the words of our Lord printed in red. 13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $8.50

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT Thin as a Wafer 2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 E. Broad Street RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1926.

NUMBER 47.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By Rev. S. M. LYNAM.

Important Prohibition Decision.—

The Supreme Court of the United States has handed down a most important prohibition decision. It declares that any one violating the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States may be tried both by the State and Federal courts for the same offense without violating the provision against double jeopardy, which has reference to a second prosecution for the same offense in the same court. Where both the national and State laws are violated, a crime against each has been committed, and the offender is liable to both authorities. The decision was handed down in a case appealed from the Supreme Court of Louisiana.

Zionist Leader Here.—

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, the leader of the World Zionist movement, is now in the United States on a visit, preparatory to the launching of an appeal for seven and a half million dollars for the development of Palestine. He has been received at the White House by President Coolidge, and will make his chief speech before the National Council on Palestine, which meets in Boston, Mass., November 21st. The thirtieth biennial gathering of the Hebrew Congregations in America will meet in Cleveland, Ohio, January 16-20, 1927. It will be confronted by many grave problems concerning liberal Judaism, particularly with the financial crisis which the Hebrew congregational work is now facing.

A Musician's Centenary.—

A hundred years have passed since Ludwig Van Beethoven sat up in bed and shook his fists at the hail and lightning which disturbed his dying. In that hundred years the peculiarities and mannerisms of this man have been forgotten in the memory of his magnificent genius. This year musicians are reverently planning their programs to do him honor. In Cincinnati, in Chicago, and in New York the opening programs have been Beethoven programs. They are remembering the genius, not the man who threw egg after egg at a servant who had displeased, but the master who built, tore down, built again more grandly than before. It is a good world that forgets the worst and remembers only the best things of men. It is a proof of the innate kindness of men's hearts.

A Great Editor Honored.—

Mr. C. P. Scott, editor of the Manchester Guardian, celebrated his eightieth birthday recently. Fifty-five of his eighty years have been spent in the editorial chair of the Guardian. He is considered one of the greatest, if not the greatest figure in journalism today. He was acclaimed by men of every party and every creed, demonstrating how much admired he is even by those who differ with him. Mr. Garvin, the present editor of the "Britannica Encyclopedia," and one of the most famous names in journalism, wrote of Mr. Scott: "The noblest, most entirely civilized creature by far in the world's journalism of his time." Mr. Garvin differs with Mr. Scott in matters of policy almost every week. The Manchester Guardian has ever stood for the freedom of the press, and for that reason Christian people should hail its editor, because they should be jealous of a free press. The time may come when it will be sorely needed in a not too distant time. The first act of any tyranny is to restrict the freedom of the press. A tyranny fears free speech and an informed public. Such a public is the life of democracy. An uninformed public may easily destroy the very things which democracy would preserve. The city of Manchester, Eng., has received a bust of Mr. Scott, by Epstein, given by his friends everywhere. It is a great thing to be so honored and so loved.

Wealth as of Old.—

The Bureau of Internal Revenue figures show seventy-five persons in the United States with income of more than a million dollars a year. These vast incomes are net incomes, and reveal something of the wealth of the nation. Three of these seventy-five persons have net incomes of five million dollars or more; three between four and five million, while fifteen come between two and three million. The bureau's report did not show who these seventy-five persons were, but it is easy to guess some of them. The three at the top are probably Henry and Edsel Ford and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., while the Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon is in the class slightly below the five million mark, thinks the New York Times. Seventy-five such huge incomes is the highest mark reached since the United States entered the war. In 1917 there were 141 persons with net incomes of a million or more. Then the number fell steadily until 1921, when there were but twenty-one such persons. In 1922 the number jumped to sixty-seven; in 1923, to seventy-four, and to seventy-five in 1924. The number making income tax returns in 1924 showed a decrease, but the amount on which tax was paid increased over 1923. It is estimated that 6.56 per cent of the population of the United States make income tax returns.

On the Causes and Cure of War.—

Delegates representing approximately five million women of voting age will meet in Washington December 5-10th under the chairmanship of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt. This conference is the second on the causes and cure of war. The bodies of women participating in the conference are the Council of Women for Home Missions, the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions of North America, the National W. C. T. U., the National League of Women Voters, the American Association of University Women, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the National Women's Trade Union League, the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., and the Council of Jewish Women. These delegates will study the problems of disarmament, arbitration and national security, and American foreign politics with reference to China, Mexico, Japan, Philippines, and Latin America, and the European debts.

Representatives of so vast a voting group as this conference will have, will entitle its findings to profoundest consideration. Women are counseling together for a better world. They bring to their discussion not merely information and brain, but the instincts which have made them care for their children as mothers through all the ages. They are taking advantage of the free voice which they now have, when of old they could make themselves heard through another only, and generally through one who could not appreciate her attitudes and positions.

Unity Without Tarrying.—

The Christian Church has stood for the unity of the believers in Christ to the end that the world might believe for a long time, but seemingly little has been accomplished. Speaking before a body of Universalists ministers, Dr. W. E. Gilroy, editor of the Congregationalist, said some pointed things which are worth quoting and thinking over by us Christians. Dr. Gilroy said: "The men who want fellowship can have it now. No ecclesiastical authority can tell him as a Congregationalist how far he might go in such matters. The first question was, did he want fellowship? and the second was, would he take pains to have it? The springs of unity lie deep in us as individuals. There are some barriers between Christians which it will take common action to remove. There are others which we can remove ourselves. A good way to start on the larger thing is to do the things which lie closest home. In our own communities, Churches of other denominations can be friendly and helpful to one another. Ministers can exchange, hold union services, help one another in times of trouble, and Christians, with the same general views, can pull in one team to bear town and city loads."

What Dr. Gilroy says is practical. In the whole matter of union there has been theory, but little actual practical application of the thing itself. If from the bottom a movement might start, we might have the union of believers, but it will be a long time before we can work it down from the top. It is impossible in most bodies of Christians so to do.

Mrs. N. T. Farmer

NOTES-PERSONALS

Rev. M. W. Sutcliffe, Havre de Grace, Md., preached last Sunday A. M. for our Franklin, Va., people, and at night preached in Suffolk.

Thanksgiving services were held Wednesday evening at First Church, Richmond. Dr. C. C. Ryan, the pastor, preached a Thanksgiving sermon, and the choir furnished special music.

Rev. Richie Edward Brittle, a junior in Elon College, who was licensed to preach by the Eastern Virginia Conference in recent session, preached at both services last Sunday at the United Christian Church, Lynchburg, Va.

Write Miss Pattie Coghill, Henderson, N. C., for suggestions about Christmas programs for your Christian Endeavor or Sunday School. She has several copies of "White Gifts for the King" service, which has been the favorite Christmas service for the past few years.

Here comes our good friend and associate of former and happy times of early Elon, Prof. S. A. Holleman, with a donation of $10.00 for the O'Kelly memorial on the campus at Elon. Thanks, good friend. Old loves and old friendships abide and cheer us along the way.

Our good friend, Kilby A. Page, 702 West Farris Avenue, High Point, N. C., has this good word of encouragement in renewing his subscription to THE SUN, for which we are grateful: "We enjoy THE SUN and trust that subscription list will continue to increase, so that an ever-growing number can enjoy and be benefitted by your paper."

Our dear friend and good brother, J. C. Felton, Suffolk, Va., puts in this good word for THE SUN: "Enclosed find check $2.00 to pay for THE SUN to be continued in my home, and I trust and hope I may never see the time when THE SUN is not in my home, and when I shall have passed away that my children and my children's children, generations to come, may do the same."

Our Lynchburg, Va., Church is yet without a pastor, and the two pastorates of Dendron and Wakefield, Va., held last year by Rev. W. B. Fuller and Rev. G. C. Crutchfield, respectively, are also without pastors. The Editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, who is also Mission Secretary, will be pleased to furnish the secretaries of these Churches with the names of available pastors as they are put in his hands.

The North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference last week, at New Lebanon Church, Rockingham County, N. C., was gloriously entertained, had fine weather the first two days, a very large attendance the second day, and a delightful session throughout. It was voted that the Secretary of the Conference furnish for THE SUN a write-up of the Conference, and we presume this will be ready for next issue, and we forbear.

If there are any Churches in the bounds of the Southern Christian Convention other than those named in another paragraph of this paper, without pastor for the coming year, will the secretary or some one at the Church write the Mission Secretary, J. O. Atkinson, Elon College, N. C., and he will supply the names and address of pastors available so far as he has them. If there are pastors, other than those listed with the Secretary, who are available and will send him their names, he will be gratified to furnish these names to the secretaries of pastorless Churches.

Dear, dear Uncle Wellons has been quite feeble of late, but is still hopeful and wants a part in every good work of his Church. He sends $5.00 from his scanty savings to help build the O'Kelly and Old Lebanon memorials. If enough of us at twenty-five and fifty had the same love and loyalty for our Church that Brother Wellons has at 100, we would soon have a Church vigorous and active enough to take this whole wide world for Christ.

Here is wishing that many other Sunday Schools and classes will do as those of Durham Church, Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, pastor, has done. They have sent $156.85. In THE SUN next week the individuals and classes making up this amount will be given proper acknowledgment. A few more schools like this would put us on the high road to success. We take courage and press forward in the good work. Let those who have funds send them in as quickly as possible.

So far, the largest contribution coming from any Church or Sunday School is that from Durham, $156.85. It is a matter of interest and having a concern for this good work. What Durham has done, many others would do if only some one in the Church or Sunday School or Christian Endeavor would start the movement and get it going. The young folks and the old folks, the little folks and the large folks would do the rest if some one would properly start the ball rolling in the class or society, or school or community. Come on, good friends, and let us have this good work over.

What we need to finish securing the funds for the O'Kelly and Old Lebanon Memorials is to give the children and the young people in the Sunday Schools and societies a chance. Here is now the happiest sort of letter from Miss Eula Myrick, of Palm Street Church, Greensboro, N. C.: "I am sending you $15.00 to help build a memorial in remembrance of Rev. James Kelly. The $10.00 card was gotten up by the Willing Workers' Sunday School Class, and the $5.00 was gotten up by the Junior C. E., and so by this short time of labor I gladly enclose to you the $15.00, hoping we have done our part at Palm Street Christian Church."

Now, just consider this, and then after being happy over it see if any teacher or class in your Sunday Schools can beat it. It is from a young woman teacher of a Sunday School class in our Richmond Church: "Mr. Kelly, the superintendent of our Sunday School, asked my class—the Mrs. John T. Kernodle Class—to help raise some money towards the erection of the O'Kelly and Lebanon memorials, and for the last ten days they have been busy. I am enclosing my check for $108.30 to cover the amount raised. I have nine girls, ranging in age from twelve to fifteen, in my class, and in many respects it has made quite a record. For eleven months last year I had 100 per cent attendance." That, to put it mildly and moderately, is "going some!"

"Aunt Tillie Learned to Tithe" is a playlet which will certainly entertain, edify and otherwise greatly help any Church or missionary society that will put it on. About one-half dozen women can easily get up the playlet and present it. It is certainly worth while. The society at Webster Community Church put it on the first night of the Eastern Virginia Conference, and it was so much enjoyed and appreciated that the demand was insistent that it be again presented, and this was done on the last night of the Conference. It certainly presents in a most delightful and convincing manner a lesson in stewardship that all of us need to learn. The playlet sells for ten cents the copy, and can be had at that price by ordering from the Woman's Department, Board of Missions, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Lambuth Building, Nashville, Tenn. Or, if any society prefers, we will be glad to order for them.

President Coolidge, in his otherwise splendid and praiseworthy Thanksgiving proclamation, used this optimistic sentence: "Our moral and spiritual life has kept measure with our material prosperity." We trust that the President has spoken truly and with a thorough understanding, for, if so, the American people in the past year have gone forward amazingly in their moral and spiritual development and progress. God opened the windows of heaven and broke up the fountains of production and plenty. Fields have yielded their increase, orchards have yielded their fruits in untold abundance, mines and factories have turned out their products to the country in unmeasured millions. The gates of plenty, so far as products are concerned, have swung wide open during the year of 1926. Has our moral life, has our spiritual life kept measure with this almost immeasurable material prosperity? Well, we trust that it has and that our good President spoke truly when he said it, but we are wondering, and wondering, and wondering! Are we increasing spiritually as rapidly as we are materially? Well, let us try to hope so.

RECEIPTS FOR MEMORIALS.

We are receiving some reports from those taking an interest in the memorials to Rev. James O'Kelly and the Old Lebanon site, Surry County, Va. The total cost of these two memorials is $2,075.00. This is one enterprise in which the entire Church should take interest and pride. Individuals, Churches and congregations and Sunday Schools should all have a part in trying to make a contribution to our permanent history in this way.

We are glad to acknowledge the following:

Previously acknowledged	$370.39
Springfield Church, Waverly, Va.....	5.04
Junior Philaetha, First Ch., Durham.....	50.00
Baraca Class, First Church, Durham.....	50.00
Philaetha, First Church, Durham.....	40.60
F. M. Carlton, Durham, N. C.....	5.00
Mr. and Mrs. C. A. High, Durham, N. C... ..	2.00
Coutributor, Durham, N. C.....	.25
Wellons' Bible Class, First Church, Durham	9.00
Mrs. Annie Staley Callow, Suffolk, Va....	10.00
Hermou Eldredge, Dayton, Ohio.....	5.00
Herman C. Taylor and family, Dover, Del.	15.00
Boys of "22," Bethlehem Church, Suffolk... ..	5.00
Richmond, First S. S., by Mrs. John T. Kernodle's Class	108.30
New Lebanon Sunday School, Reidsville....	5.85
Reidsville Church, N. C.	7.05
Rev. J. W. Wellons, Greensboro, N. C.....	5.00
H. W. Dunson, Roanoke, Ala.....	1.00
S. A. Holleman, High Point, N. C.....	10.00
Mrs. John R. Foster, Burlington, N. C.....	2.50
John R. Foster, Burlington, N. C.....	2.50
The Brickhouse family, Norfolk, Va.....	10.00
Victor Bible Class, Waverly, Va.....	5.00

Total received to Nov. 20th..... $724.48

Gratefully yours,
MEMORIAL COMMITTEE.

JUDGE J. F. WEST, Chairman,
Waverly, Va.
J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer,
Elon College, N. C.

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
 Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
 W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
 J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
R. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

SELF-DENIAL FOR OUR LORD.

We are living in a time when many of us are "hard up." One seldom meets and talks with a person who is not pressed to the limit financially. "These are hard times." One person cannot do much for his Church because he has had sickness in the family; another cannot make financial contributions or sacrifices because he has just borrowed some money; another cannot pay much because cotton is so low; another cannot contribute largely since the weekly income just about measures the Saturday out-go. We are living in a time when folks are "hard up."

Next year it will be more so. Year after still more, ten years from now still harder. Twenty years, harder yet. This prophecy is based on a knowledge of the nature of mankind. Our wants increase and multiply more vehemently and vigorously than our incomes. If our grandfathers and grandmothers, in the day of very few and simple wants, had received such returns for their labor, such wages and such incomes as we receive, the banks could not have held the surplus. The writer has learned that being "hard up" is a relative term. It has to do with the margin between things had and things desired; and we desire so many things and go in for getting them, that the margin between things had and things desired is so small that we look upon it and say "we are hard up." We are hard pressed. We are hard put to. We are driven hard. We plan furiously. We pursue desperately. Our wants multiply so rapidly and our needs, in the light of those wants, seem to increase so abundantly that there is no other way to be than hard up. If the American people could curb their wants and not increase their output for a decade, the surplus on hand would stagnate the markets and ruin the country. We have never seen a year yet during which people were not declaring that "times were hard." A few years afterwards, they looked back upon that same year as a great and good and easy one. It will never be so until human nature changes.

This is why our Lord said: "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow me." He knew that self-getting would mean self-dissatisfaction and self-indulgence. He knew that man would never get to the point where times would be so easy and conditions would be so favorable that he could just give and have to give without the necessity of sacrifice. He knew if we gave for others rather than spend all on self to satisfy ever-increasing desires it would have to be done through sacrifice. The more one has, the more numerous are one's desires and demands, and the more necessary is it that one make a sacrifice. It is related by the pastor of his Church that when the congregation was preparing to build a new house of worship the multimillionaire Russell Sage, a man of the Church, whose pastor was making the appeal, was asked for a contribution first of ten thousand, then of five thousand, and then of one thousand. The man of millions said he could not at the time give a dollar. "They had called on him at the wrong time; he had had over a million dollars lying idle for six months and had lost the interest on the same during that time, which if he had received it would have amounted to thirty thousand dollars, and he would be so glad if he had even half of that thirty thousand he had thus lost so he could give it." He could not afford to make the sacrifice of giving a penny while losing at the rate of thirty thousand in six months, which was only six per cent interest on the million that he had on hand and had not been able to put on interest conveniently.

Poor old Russell Sage! He was so "hard up." He was losing money, and money was what he wanted. He wanted a few more millions, and then some more millions. Poor, poor, pitiable Sage! Poor, poor, pitiable others than Sage who, while not having a million, do have and indulge themselves in the expenditure of hundreds, maybe thousands, during the year by so crowding the margin between their increasing wants and their out-put for the same that there is no margin left. If we are ever to deny ourselves we will have to do so not when we are "soft down," but when we are "hard up."

The Churches and the peoples thereof who are trying to help advance the kingdom of the Lord realize these facts of nature as they face deficits and hardships and feel the necessity of calling for larger income.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, whose revenue the past year was ninety-seven million dollars, has increased its askings not to a hundred million, but to three hundred million. If the income of its membership could be based upon and kept to the expenditure of the past year, it would be easy, no doubt, to secure the askings now multiplied by more than three. All the Churches are asking for increased incomes. This is a necessity. This is in keeping with the plea of our Lord, for it will mean no self-denial to give next year only what we gave this year when our expenditures to supply our increasing wants and self-indulgence are multiplied. In all ages there was never a time when it seemed more necessary than now to hold up the plea of our Lord, who, in the light of His cross said: "If any man will come after me let him deny himself." In a reckless, a furious, an extravagant and prodigal age, when times are "hard" and constantly growing harder, we need to emphasize and must emphasize if we are to save our civilization and our country from wreck and ruin and destruction. We must emphasize for our country's sake, for our sake, and for our Lord's sake His plea for self-denial and for taking up the cross daily. Checking and curbing our too rapidly increasing wants to prevent a dissipation and destructive indulgence are necessary, are vital, are essential. Today is the day to preach and to practice self-denial. Self-denial begets self-mastery; self-indulgence begets dissatisfaction, often dissipation, always unhappiness.

J. O. A.

A HAPPY INSTALLATION SERVICE.

Sunday, November 14th, marked a notable event in the history of First Church, Portsmouth. The occasion was that of installing the recently chosen pastor, Rev. H. C. Caviness, who began his work as pastor November 1st. The occasion was made delightful and happy by a glorious autumn day, a large and eager audience, the delightful fellowship of the occasion and the splendid addresses by visiting ministers. Dr. W. W. Staley, Suffolk, Va., presided with becoming grace and dignity. After a suitable hymn and Scripture reading, Rev. M. W. Sutcliffe, Havre de Grace, Md., offered the invocation. Mrs. W. F. Monell and Mr. J. C. Wright thrilled the audience with a strikingly beautiful and appropriate duet. Rev. John G. Truitt, in fitting words and eloquent delivery, charged the Church, that in all its attitude to its newly elected pastor, to "remember Jesus." In prayer for him, in social contact with him, in loyal support of him, "remember Jesus."

The Mission Secretary charged the newly elected pastor that he was a man sent of God and that grave problems awaited his coming. God always solves his problems through a person. The message of such a person must be that of witness-bearer, and his mission that of bringing all to believe in that light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world. Dr. Staley then formerly installed the pastor by appropriate question and response from pastor and people.

Dr. L. E. Smith, President of the Southern Convention, gave a strikingly appropriate welcome to the Church on behalf of the Convention, declaring that the efficiency and power of the Convention depend upon the loyalty and activity of the pastor and the local Church. Rev. H. S. Hardcastle gave a warm welcome to Brother Caviness on behalf of the Eastern Virginia Conference, declaring that that Conference was steadily doing a constructive work and all who would put forth constructive efforts in the name of the Lord were most heartily welcomed. Rev. H. M. B. Jones, now serving his tenth year as pastor of the First Baptist Church, gave a cordial welcome on behalf of the whole community, declaring that the community would receive Brother Caviness gladly and afford him the largest opportunity for activity and service in the Lord. Rev. C. E. Shelton, pastor of the First Congregational Church, gave a glad and cheering welcome on behalf of the ministers in the city, saying that the ministers had a tremendous job in Portsmouth and needed the help of strong men in bringing that city to God. Dr. H. W. Dowling delivered the welcome on behalf of the Church, and, as former pastor, assured Brother Caviness of a most loyal and faithful constituency to aid him in his great task.

A most fitting and appropriate response was made by the newly installed pastor, who was much moved by the cordial greeting and warm welcome received. Brother Caviness has already won the hearts of the people, and there was general rejoicing among the members that a glad, good day had dawned for First Church, Portsmouth. While an appropriate hymn was sung, the hand of fellowship on behalf of ministers and congregation was given and it was a love-feast in the presence and in the service of the Lord. The benediction was pronounced by the newly installed pastor, and there was rejoicing on every hand over the appropriate and wholesome and deeply spiritual services. Among the most happy hearts of the audience was the minister's mother, and next to her his wife, who together share the great burden of the task now falling on the shoulders of Rev. H. C. Caviness. J. O. A.

THE CHRISTIAN DENOMINATION AND CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE.

THE SUN'S Editor has just read with profit and delight a well-printed and substantially bound volume of fifty-one pages, bearing the above title, from the pen of Prof. S. A. Bennett, Elon College, N. C. This is a real contribution to the all-too-scanty history of the Christians. We as a people know so little about our own principles and polity as a denomination that a volume which undertakes a contribution along this line is welcomed with zest and zeal, for heaven knows it is needed. We have produced all too little history in past years of the men, the events and the doings that have made us what we are. We have much to be thankful for and take a pardonable pride in when it comes to the history, especially the early history, of our Church. We congratulate Prof. Bennett and the Christian Publishing Association, Dayton, Ohio, in presenting to the Church and the world this volume. The following is taken from chapter four, under a summary of what has been presented, and will give one an insight into what the book has to offer:

"In this conclusion, we undertake to summarize the contribution of the Christian Church to the history of doctrine and to the practice of Church life in America. We have seen how the Church arose out of the political and social situation following the American Revolution which gave us political liberty. The Church owes its origin to no one leader nor to a single locality, but to the expression of similar desires on the part of three widely separated groups of people. In the troubled times following the Revolution, when political liberty had been won, when the Churches were readjusting themselves to meet the needs of the time, when denominational rivalries were high, earnest souls sought the realities of the Christian life. In this great quest a group came out from the Methodist Church in the South, another group emerged from the Baptists in New England, a third from the Presbyterians in the West. These were earnest men, of deep conviction and true piety. Coming from different denominational parentage and inspired by the same spirit of liberty, engaged in the same great quest for truth and reality, they arrived at similar conclusions and gave to American Church life a new denomination known simply as the Christian Church.

"The attainment of freedom and liberty in the Churches has been a long process to which many agencies and individuals have made their contributions. Without the foundations of the past, the achievements of the present would not be possible. The Christian Church did not come by chance or as the result of a single leader—it developed out of the total situation of an epoch-making period. The Christian Church is the first distinct American Church. Born on American soil, breathing the full breath of freedom, the Christian Church offered the complete democracy of liberty in matters of the Christian religion. Baptists and Quakers had purchased much by their earnest efforts. Unitarianism was making a contribution. But to the Christians belongs the credit of heralding out the broad principle of union in a common faith and loyalty, and liberty in doctrinal and speculative matters."

A CHILD'S FAITH.

A little three-year-old girl, together with her sister and her two boy cousins, were pleading with their uncle to take them to the State Fair on "School Children's Day." Their uncle told them that it would be impossible to leave the farm, as the wind had not blown for two weeks, the water tanks were empty, and he would have to stay home to pump water for the stock if the wind did not blow to run the windmill before that time.

The night before the great day, the children were all excitement because the wind had not blown. The girl's mother insisted that they must go to bed, and that the wind might blow while they were sleeping.

The next morning, little Charlotte, age three years, jumped out of her bed as soon as her eyes opened to greet the early morning light. "Mamma," she called, "did the wind blow in the night?" "I am afraid not, darling," replied the mother. The little tot courageously walked to the window, from which she could look out at the windmill. She lifted her hand and pointed toward the windmill and said: "God, put your hand on that wheel and make it turn."

Strange to say, that within fifteen minutes a strong wind arose "and the wheel turned," the tanks were filled, and the children were taken to the fair.

The little girl's uncle, who was a scientific-minded man, having practiced dentistry for several years, asked me if I thought the little child's request or command of God had anything to do with the wind blowing. Being a minister and being the child's father, my answer was somewhat of a surprise to him. I replied, "I do not think so. It was just a coincidence that she made the petition shortly before the wind blew." To which he replied, "I believe her prayer had everything to do with the wind blowing; why not? She had the faith that commands everything. And if we were as pure as she is, and if we had the faith she has, God would do for us what we ask Him, too." Think of the simplicity of the prayer! the wonderful faith of a child—"God put your hand on that wheel and make it turn." R. C. H.

WHERE WERE THE BUSINESS MEN?

The General Convention of our Church meets once in four years. It elected fifty-four ministers, twenty-four laymen, and twelve laywomen to represent it in this body.

Twenty-six of our ministers, many of whom live upon small salaries, were so interested in their Church, its plans and programs, that they incurred the heavy expense of going to Urbana, Ill., and spending from October 20th to the 28th in the quadrennial session.

Of the twelve women elected, seven were there, but of the laymen, only one was present. There was one other layman present, but he was an ex-officio member of the General Convention and was not elected by the Southern Christian Convention.

The reason for the caption given this editorial is, therefore, apparent. The laymen of our Church are not entirely pleased with the lack of business methods, as they see it, in the conduct of our general Church work, but how can it be otherwise when they absent themselves from the general council of the Church? There were some matters passed at the General Convention this time which would not have met the approval of business men, but there was no way to prevent this because of the lack of business men of influence in the Convention.

This editorial is not meant to be pessimistic, but it appears that the Christian Church is coming to the point where its plans and programs will be outlined by ministers and the true-hearted women of the Church, with the laymen left out. It is doubtful if this is a wholesome situation, and it is certainly to be desired that it should change in the larger interest of our Church and of the kingdom. W. A. H.

THE HERALD OF GOSPEL LIBERTY AND THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

We are anxious that CHRISTIAN SUN readers shall also be readers of the Herald of Gospel Liberty, our general organ. To this end, an arrangement has been made with the publisher of the Herald that the two papers may be had a year for $3.00, provided both go to the same address and one at least have a new subscription. That is to say, if any CHRISTIAN SUN reader not now getting the Herald will send us $3.00, we will renew his subscription for a year to THE SUN and send him the Herald for a year; or if any reader of the Herald of Gospel Liberty does not get THE CHRISTIAN SUN and will send us $3.00 we will renew for the Herald for one year and send THE CHRISTIAN SUN a year; or one may become a subscriber for both papers who does not now take either and secure both for a year for $3.00. The above offer does not apply, however, in case of renewal for both papers, the concession being made at an initial loss of one dollar a year in order to introduce the Herald in SUN families not now securing it, or THE SUN in Herald families not now securing it. Under this arrangement it is hoped that many now taking only one of these two papers will decide to take both.

Respectfully,

J. O. ATKINSON.

WEBSTER COMMUNITY CHURCH.

It was my privilege on Sunday, November 14th, to worship with the good people of our denomination at Webster Community Church, near Havre de Grace, Md., it being my first visit to the Church. I filled the pulpit of Rev. M. W. Sutcliffe, the much-beloved pastor of that people, who was in the South in the interests of our Church work.

As aptly expressed in Dr. Atkinson's first statement in his article in THE SUN of last week relative to the recent session of the Conference held at Webster Church: "I went, I saw, and I was conquered"; or better still, was convinced that Webster Church is a fixture and a credit not only to that community where I believe, as the years go by, will be a power, but a credit and wonderful asset to the Christian denomination, of which we art a part.

The members, struggling for the great principle enunciated by our Church—that of religious freedom—are happy in their work, and notwithstanding their handicaps by persecution and otherwise, are living true to the Lord Jesus Christ as the only Head of the Church and to the Holy Bible as a sufficient rule of faith and practice.

I feel that it should be the duty of every member of the Christian Church within the bounds of the Eastern Virginia Conference to pray, and pray earnestly, that this loyal band of people should soon be relieved of their anxieties and persecutions, as well as their indebtedness, so that they may be able to worship God in the full realization that their cause has been a righteous one, and as such, they have won that well-deserved approbation of the Master when He said: "Well done, thou good and faithful servants; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things."

HERMAN C. TAYLOR.

Dover, Del.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

"Leader" and "leadership" are words that have been overworked and overemphasized in modern education. It has reached the stage in which higher education assumes the role of training students for leadership. The idea in this trend of education is that persons thus trained to be leaders are superior to those who have not been thus schooled. Leaders are important in every field of human service; but all students can no more be trained to lead than all students can be trained to sing, or paint. The capacity for leadership is innate. The world has many in this day trained for leaders who did not possess the inborn gift. It is not so much the function of schools to train leaders as it is to develop men and women who can find their own place in life and fill it. The great Teacher said, "Follow me"; but there are not many teachers in this generation that would be safe in saying, "follow me." Some of the greatest teachers would not succeed in the practical affairs of the world; but they can lead students into the finer realms of knowledge, inspire the studious habit, awaken aspirations for noble living, and awaken within them their inborn gifts. The best music teachers are not the best singers; but they develop the best singers. The world's greatest leaders were not trained for leadership; they grew into leaders through learning and hard work. Luther was not trained for leadership; it burned within his soul until he led the Reformation. Paul was not trained for leadership; his contact with Jesus and his change of heart made him the leader of the first century in the Christian Church. Wesley was not trained to be a leader; he broke away from the times to lead a spiritual host for God. James O'Kelly was not trained to be a leader; he withdrew from the visible opportunity for leadership to inaugurate a movement that required the mind and courage of a great leader. Moses was not trained for leadership; yet no greater leader has ever lived. He was a leader because God called him to that service and went with him all the way. There are so many forms and agencies of leadership training that the main lesson taught by Jesus seems to be forgotten or overlooked.

"Followers" is what the world needs today more than leaders; not followers of men, but followers of Jesus Christ. The world does not need a few leaders to teach, to pray, to sing, to pay; but a host who can teach, pray, sing, and pay. It is the multitude of humble Christians in the pew, the praying mothers in the home singing the babes to sleep, the honest men and women who pay liberally for the support of the Church that keeps the old ship of Zion from going on the rocks. The schools should endeavor to develop men and women who are willing to do the common work of the kingdom, rather than put into the minds of students that they ought to prepare for leaders. Greater than Congress is that host of plain citizens who toil and obey the law. The nation produces its leaders—the universities do not train them. Burbank was a leader. Edison is a leader. Wanamaker was a leader. But schools did not make them. What the Church needs is a new sense of the value of followers. Jesus said, "He that is greatest among you shall be your servant." Jesus is the real Leader, and the highest service in the Church is to point all to Him. There are too many leaders that lead men away from Jesus Christ.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

Queen Marie is shortly to leave America and return home. Fine! There is nothing that has been so disgusting to some people who believe in the Declaration of Independence and the preamble to our Constitution as the fawning attitude of our press toward this titular nonentity. The writer has always had high regard for Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railway. His refusal to place at the disposal of infantile royalty the use of the Southern Railway for a mere figment of compensation has placed him on a pedestal in our estimation. American citizens must pay to travel on the Southern. So must the queen. All American women are queens, and all her men are kings. We must not discriminate among princes, said in action the president of the Southern. Great!

It may be interesting to some to know that President Harrison never accepts a pass from his own or any other railroad. When he travels on official business, he uses the property of the Southern and rides free. But when he goes from his office in Washington to his home in Virginia, or vice versa, he pays his fare like any other traveler. You can't help admiring a man like that. Elon is honored in having conferred that LL.D. degree on such a captain not only of industry, but of the practice of democratic living.

The American people profess to believe in democracy, but they have always had an inferiority complex in the presence of hereditary princes. The whole thing is sickening to the heart of the true lover of the democratic principle. The size of the country from which Marie comes has nothing to do with the case. We have shown her obeisance because she was born to wear a crown, and in so doing we have belied our democratic creed and done violence to the memory of our forefathers, who made it unconstitutional for any citizen of the republic to wear a title of nobility. Thomas Jefferson resented being called by any other title than "mister."

Personally, I have more respect for the honest American toiler in his overalls and grease, heroically doing his best to make a living for himself and his loved ones, than for any crowned head born in luxury and ease. I write this on a fast-moving express train. Husky laborers have stepped from the tracks at our warning whistle to let us pass. They are overalled and grimed, but they are not parasites on society. They are rendering a service for their keep. They are the kings of a democratic social order. This writer loves every man or woman who endeavors to perform a service for the comforts he or she enjoys, and he finds it hard to love any other kind.

And so it will be a good day when Queen Marie takes to the sea and we can properly appraise character and service in truly democratic men and women here in America. At heart, we are sound, but we lose our heads over titles and forget "A man's a man for a' that and a' that," to quote Burns.

W. A. HARPER.

P. S.: This was written before announcement that Ferdinand's health required Marie's return. We are sorry for the king's failing health, but this does not change the situation set forth above.

The standards for Sunday School teachers for years have been "Peloubet's Select Notes" and Tarbell's "Teachers' Guide." These books can be purchased through THE CHRISTIAN SUN office, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

BETHLEHEM LETTER.

There is so much learning of all sorts in the world today that there is a constant temptation to try to know a little about everything. The effort to accomplish that usually results in not knowing very much about anything. The task of the educator is to find the means of grounding his pupil firmly in first principles, and then of inspiring him to spend not only his school years, but his whole life, in educating himself.

A democracy is effective only in proportion to the number of its citizens who have been trained to master themselves, both as individuals and groups. The chief aim of a liberal education is to gain the power to understand and interpret the minds of men.

The real difference amongst men is between those who are prepared to give more than they get and those who want to get more than they give. We need statesmen of industry instead of captains of industry. These men must be prepared to take a long view ahead. They cannot decide questions merely on the basis of immediate advantage, because their company is going to be in business long after they are dead.

Honesty is not now merely the best policy; it is the only policy. More and more we encounter men of the highest ability who regard business not as a means to acquire personal health, but as a fascinating profession and an opportunity for accomplishment. They do not seek more money from it than enough to give them comfortably only those things worth having that money can buy—freedom from financial worry, security for their families, books, art, and travel. But they do want an outlet for their energies, exercise for their brains, and, above all, they genuinely want to be useful.

The true secret of achievement in life lies in the achievement in scholarship. We talk much about education and know but little; what we need in this country is a wide diversity in educational experimentation. We should not seek to provide our students with ready-made solutions for current questions, but to make them resourceful in themselves by equipping them with the capacity to solve problems yet unknown whose nature cannot now be conjectured.

We are driven to the conviction that a great part of our education must rest on the cultivation of the imagination. That means the stimulation, the upbuilding, the training of the mind. The modern student demands far more variety and a greater wealth of interest than his predecessor, and is more imaginative. By dividing his interests, it is true, he does not reach that level of knowledge in any particular study attained by his predecessors, who concentrated on a narrower field of work. The present generation has a far greater interest, for example, in art, drama, and musical appreciation, which is reflected in the curricula of our public schools and the life of educational institutions throughout the country. These new interests were, no doubt, the latent possession of his predecessor in the nineties, but they were allowed to remain undeveloped, and no appeal was made to them.

This important movement shows itself in the fact that there are many more types of advanced education to be found now than was ever the case before. The general principle of any large institution today is that the student of average mental ability and development has a choice of between seven and eight different kinds of special study, all recognized, equipped and accredited, whereas forty years ago he would have been lucky to have had even two.

We speak too often about giving our boys and girls an education. It is a debt due them, and not a gift.

S. L. BEOUCHER.

INSTALLATION SERVICE.

Yesterday afternoon at the First Christian Church, Portsmouth, Va., Rev. H. C. Caviness was installed as pastor of that Church. The services were opened by an organ voluntary, followed by hymn number 68 in Christian Hymnary. Invocation was offered by Rev. M. W. Sutcliffe, pastor of the Webster Community Church, Havre de Grace, Md. Scriptural reading was given by Dr. W. W. Staley, who presided through the service. A duet was rendered by Mrs. W. F. Monnell and Mr. J. C. Wright. The charge to the Church was given by Rev. J. G. Truitt, pastor of the First Christian Church, Norfolk. His charge was that, in all their relationship with their pastor, in all their conversation with him and about him, in every thought, communion and co-operation, to "remember Jesus."

Dr. J. O. Atkinson, of Elon College, gave the charge to the minister. He began by saying spoke of the big task of great problems constantly confronting the ministers of the Eastern Virginia Conference, or any other Conference where one was loyal. Rev. H. M. B. Jones, of the South Street Baptist Church, Portsmouth, expressed himself on behalf of the community. He said the minister would always find some good people to keep good, and some bad people to get to be good, but assured the pastor he would find his people loyal, kind, respectful and full of sweet, Christian fellowship.

The welcome on behalf of the ministers was given by Rev. C. E. Shelton, and that on behalf of the Church by Dr. H. W. Dowding, the former pastor. These brethren spoke with much feeling. The response by the new pastor, Rev. H. C. Caviness, was full of feeling and pathos; so searching were his remarks that one's emotions were aroused.

The services were closed by singing hymn No.

Williams, Mrs. Ellen G. Gustin, and Mrs. Wheaton, who have passed on during the past quadrennium. Mrs. W. P. Fletcher spoke on "Missionary Mothers"; Miss Beryl McReynolds, on "Missionary Daughters," and Miss Lucy Eldredge on "Missionary Teachers."

The closing message was brought by Mrs. H. A. Smith, her subject being "Partnership with Jesus Christ." The evening session of the Convention, of which the women had charge, was of an exceptionally high order from start to finish. It was presided over by Mrs. W. H. Denison, of Dayton, Ohio, president of the Woman's Board for the past quadrennium.

The devotional service was led by Dr. Willie Chapman, eighty-one years young, a pioneer among women in the medical profession, a teacher in the Sunday School for more than sixty years, and most active today in mission work. She read from John 10. We were fortunate in having present at this meeting two of our missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. McKnight, of Japan, who gave a demonstration of a missionary's life and experiences. This was followed by a duet, "Watchman, Tell Us of the Night," sung by Misses Marion Morrill and Genoa Wheatly, of Dayton, Ohio. The address of the evening was given by Mrs. D. Everett Waid, of New York, a lecturer, writer and teacher of unusual ability, a woman of ready speech and most pleasing personality, who spoke on "Women and the American Conscience." At the close of this lecture, Dr. J. O. Atkinson led in the closing prayer, consecrating Mr. and Mrs. McKnight anew to their work in Japan, for which field they were to sail just a week later. Almost all the great congregation pressed to the front to say good-by and wish godspeed on their homeward journey to these two faithful soldiers of the cross.

Perhaps this account of our women would be incomplete did we not mention the season of worship and consecration that we were led into by Mrs. Alice V. Morrill at the close of Dr. J. O. Atkinson's stirring, gripping message on "The Challenge of a Great Task." It was a fitting seal to the great address.

MRS. C. H. ROWLAND.

Greensboro, N. C.

MORRISVILLE MEETING.

Our Morrisville meeting took place on the third Sunday in October and continued until the fourth Sunday, with two services a day. It was regarded by many as a good and glorious meeting. We preached five sermons strictly to the Church; then we turned to the unsaved, and at the first altar call, great, strong men, under the influence of the word and power of the Holy Ghost, with conviction in their hearts, came forward. These men were the victims of neglect and of strong drink, and many others came forward for prayer. We cannot define the results of this meeting. Most of the people who attended were members of some Church. A number professed to be reclaimed, and fifty or more gave testimony that they had been greatly blessed and resolved to lead a better life. The membership of this Church has gone down to a very small number—not over half a dozen residential members. The other members are very much scattered.

Pray for the little band and for us, as we continue with them. God bless them. During the meeting a young man (Brother Sears, of the Baptist Church) came from Durham and led the singing beautifully for us, and he impressed us as being a real Christian gentleman. We had the pleasure of having Rev. Sears to be with us for one service. We praise the Lord for all the good accomplished at this meeting.

P. T. KLAPP, Pastor.

REV. H. C. CAVINESS.

was John. The same came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all men through him might believe. He was not that Light, but was sent to bear witness of that Light" (John 1-6, 7, 8). He impressed the importance, the great need, the only hope for the pastor to lead his flock in the ways of life was to bear witness of that Light, the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world.

Following Dr. Atkinson's charge, Dr. Staley led in prayer; then he also gave a charge to Rev. Caviness.

Dr. L. E. Smith, of the Christian Temple, Norfolk, spoke on behalf of the Convention. He gave the new pastor a hearty welcome, but referred to the responsibilities he would incur by associating himself with the ministers of the Convention.

Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, of Suffolk Christian Church, talked on behalf of the Conference. He "There was a man sent from God, whose name 558, combined with a hand-fellowship, and then the benediction by Rev. Caviness.

This service was comforting, animating and inspiring. It was good to be there.

M. W. HOLLOWELL.

WOMEN AT THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

There were two sessions of the Convention on Friday evening—one for the men in the Baptist Church, the other for the women in the Christian Church. This latter was presided over by Mrs. W. H. Denison. The devotionals were led by the writer. Mrs. W. P. Winton, secretary, read messages from some of the life members. There were present three of our workers: Mrs. W. Q. McKnight, of Japan; Miss Marguerite Youmans, of Haverhill, Mass., and Miss Elizabeth Howsare, of Fort Apache, Ariz. Each of these brought a message concerning their work. A brief memorial followed this in memory of Miss Olive G.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

December the Month for Stewardship Enrollment.

The Convention has designated the second Sunday in December as a day suitable for the enrollment of tithers. While November and December are both stewardship months and are very essential to a full and normal stewardship program, yet in the most of cases the stewardship period will actually close by the second Sunday in December because of the Christmas programs.

It is exceedingly vital to enroll tithers at the close of your stewardship instruction. Practically all your stewardship teaching will be useless unless you actually enroll stewards. It will all dwindle away in a few weeks if there be no actual enrollment. It has a great tendency to breed hypocrites to accept principles and not apply them. Stewardship does not mean being "more liberal," or "giving more than I used to give." It means the dedication of one's all by the actual setting aside a definite portion first, as the first fruits for Him who gives us all we have. Stewardship is acknowledged by the actual turning back to Him first of all a definite portion; a rightful share as an act of worship. Stewardship is not the making of a contribution for God's work; it is dividing the profits rightfully between God and yourself.

Thousands of our Christian Church folks have definitely agreed to dedicate their "first fruits," at least the tenth, in acknowledgment of God's ownership of all they possess. Have you?

First, let the pastor and Church officers set the example.

Second, go to each organization in the Church and present the matter and sign up all possible.

Third, make a great day in the congregation. Those having signed up will be an inspiration to others. Send the names and addresses to us and we will forward neat membership cards. We have beautiful wall tithers' charts also for your Church free. Tithing brings a decided spiritual reaction. When the principle of tithing is accepted it makes a new era in one's spiritual enlargement. Tithing is much more than giving. It is dividing with God. He tells us in the Word that to withhold the "first fruits" is actual robbery, not merely a matter of oversight or neglect.

Plan now for a large enrollment on December 12th. It will bring new spiritual interest to each enrolled steward and to the local Church. It will bring real joy to pastor and people. The preaching and teaching of individual responsibility to God, measured by a standard like the tithe, is the only safe and sure way to promote the stewardship of possessions. Appeals for world needs will not answer. They help. But beneath all this a man must ask himself what he owes God. This is constant; the appeal is variable; the impression not lasting.

Forward Movement Subscriptions.

Thousands of our good people made subscriptions to the Forward Movement. Large numbers of these have paid out. It has meant real sacrifice to some of them. Some have not yet been able to pay out, but are expecting to do so. They count their pledges as sacred as any vows they ever took. We hope that every one who possibly can will complete his payments before January 1st. The funds are sorely needed, and these funds help all the work.

QUARTERLY REPORT.

For Quarter ending September 30, 1926.

Sunday School Missionary Offerings.

Valley Virginia Conference:
Antioch	$29.34
Bethlehem	9.87
Dry Run	8.27
Leaksville (Luray)	3.67
Linville	14.48
New Hope	3.15
Timber Ridge	6.82
Whistler's Chapel	5.95
Winchester	11.60
		$ 93.15
Alabama Conference:
Beulah	$ 1.11
New Hope	2.50
Wadley	2.80
		6.41
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
North Highlands	$ 4.85
Richland, Ga.	3.00
Rose Hill	2.43
Vanceville, Ga.	2.50
		13.03
Eastern Virginia Conference:
Berea, Norfolk	$13.00
Berea, Nansemond	18.75
Bethlehem, Suffolk	8.42
Dendrou, Va.	15.83
Elm Avenue	6.46
Franklin	16.00
First, Portsmouth	22.20
First, Norfolk	14.63
First, Richmond	3.08
Holland	30.00
Holy Neck	16.00
Isle of Wight	1.75
Ocean View	5.61
Oakland	12.00
People's Church, Dover, Del.	31.11
Rosemont	13.38
Suffolk	37.50
Wakefield	9.74
Webster	28.00
Rosemont Class, No. 3	10.00
Rosemont Woman's Bible Class	12.50
Newport News	37.03
		362.99
N. C. & Va. Conference:
Apple's Chapel	$ 4.11
Durham	38.80
Elon College	32.50
Greensboro, First	47.53
Greensboro, Palm Street	25.47
Haw River	7.02
Monticello	4.90
Mt. Bethel	4.48
Mt. Zion	3.20
New Lebanon	5.14
Pleasant Grove (Va.)	14.31
Salem Chapel	1.00
Shallow Ford	4.85
Lawrence Memorial Bible Class.	3.83
		197.14
Western N. C. Conference:
Burlington	$220.22
Graham-Providence Memorial	11.18
Ether	8.66
Graham	1.85
High Point	14.35
Liberty	6.23
Mt. Pleasant	3.10
Park's Cross Roads	6.92
Pleasant Hill (A)	6.65

Pleasant Ridge	4.91
Ramseur	19.21
Randleman	14.49
Shady Grove	1.37
Zion	3.95
Hank's Chapel	12.00

335.09

Eastern N. C. Conference:

Auburn	$ 5.00
Catawba Springs	22.77
Fuller's Chapel	4.16
Henderson	4.55
Liberty (Vance)	16.80
Morrisville	2.31
Mt. Auburn	8.27
New Elam	3.87
Oak Level	1.32
Piney Plains	2.25
Raleigh, First	2.00
Sanford	4.04
Turner's Chapel	4.81
Wake Chapel	11.90
Youngsville	1.00
Wentworth	9.35

104.40

Total $1,112.21

Respectfully and gratefully,
J. O. ATKINSON,
Mission Secretary.

REPORT OF THE WOMAN'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

It has been just fourteen years since organized mission work began among the women of the Southern Christian Convention. Since that year of beginnings, the work of the women of this Conference has gone steadily forward. The first annual report showed twelve organizations, and less than $500 contributed. This year we report the following: 84 organizations; members including Young People, Willing Workers and Cradle Roll, 2,287; contributions, $6,750.34—$150.34 over the goal.

Work among the Young People has shown a marked increase in interest, many of the societies have well-organized mission study classes, and several gave splendid pageants during the year.

This year the standards of excellence were tried for the second time and proved to be a great incentive to the work, which resulted in banners being awarded as follows: Woman's Societies, Windsor; Young People's, Holland; Willing Workers, Windsor and Rosemont; Cradle Roll, Suffolk and Holland. Many others met most of the requirements, and ten Churches have all four organizations.

The district spring rallies have proven a great success, and were held this year with better results than ever before.

Our Conference this fall was held at Bethlehem, with the largest attendance in its history. More than 500 were present, with 360 registered delegates and visitors and sixteen ministers, fifteen of whom were members of this Conference.

Our work continues along the same lines. The women divide their special between the Richmond work and Japan. The Young People support the mountain work and Santa Isabel.

Subject to your approval, the following officers were elected: Mrs. M. L. Bryant, president; Mrs. M. J. W. White, vice-president; Mrs. L. W. Stagg, secretary; Mrs. W. V. Leathers, treasurer; Mrs. R. T. Bradford, superintendent Young People; Mrs. J. E. Cartwright, superintendent literature; Mrs. W. H. Baker, superintendent Cradle Roll.

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. L. W. STAGG,
Secretary.
MRS. M. L. BRYANT,
President.

MISSION RALLY.

The mission rally held with the New Hope Church was well attended. Mrs. R. A. Larrick and Mrs. Lena Rothgeb led the two devotional services. Mrs. J. E. W. Bryant gave the visitors a hearty welcome, which was responded to by Chairman R. O. Rothgeb, the Conference superintendent of missions.

Dr. W. T. Walters gave an address on "Our Home Mission Work," and Rev. B. J. Earp on "Our Foreign Mission Work." Both of these addresses were splendid and made us better acquainted with our workers and the mission points. Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Richards and Miss Scott gave interesting reviews of the mission study books.

Miss Verdie Showalter, president of our Conference Woman's Mission Board, gave an earnest talk on the work we are trying to do in missions. The secretary read a letter from Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mission Secretary, showing his deep interest in today's program. Revs. Earp and Andes gave interesting sketches from the General Convention held at Urbana.

Rev. A. W. Andes made a splendid address on "Tithing." He said "When the time comes that we do our part in tithing, we will not have to make efforts to raise our mission funds. If we owe our neighbor, we pay him. We owe the Lord one-tenth; therefore, be as reasonable with our Lord as our neighbor." The New Hope young people gave a short musical program, which was much enjoyed.

An offering was taken for missions. This offering was taken in a very impressive manner by Rev. Earp, who placed the open Bible on the table and said, "Bring your offering to the Lord and place it on the Bible." While the organist played softly, the congregation filed to the front and laid down their offerings.

New Hope had the largest number present, and Linville, who won last year in attendance, announced they would send the Christian Missionary a year to the one having the largest attendance. The day was well and profitably spent. The mission spirit ran high.

MRS. B. F. FRANK,
Secretary.

WOMAN'S MISSION BOARD REPORT.

Following is the report of the treasurer of the Woman's Mission Board of the Virginia Valley Central Christian Conference for the quarter ending October 15, 1926:

Woman's Missionary Societies.
Winchester, dues	$ 6.02
Winchester, extras	2.20
Young People's Societies.
Winchester, dues	4.95
Total	$ 13.17

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. BOYD RICHARDS,
Treasurer.

HISTORY OF LIBERTY (VANCE) CHURCH.

In 1857, Mr. Chas. E. Ayscue attended a revival held at Fuller's Church, Granville County, conducted by Elder W. N. Bragg. There he heard the principles of the Christian Church explained, and fell in love with them. He became a member of Fuller's Church and came back to this community talking freely of his new Church. So many people became interested that he invited Elder W. N. Bragg here for the purpose of organizing a Church. On September 24, 1859, the Church was organized, and called Liberty Hill. While only a few in number, these faithful Christians pledged themselves to be governed by the following principles:

1. Christ is the only Head of the Church.
2. The name "Christian" is the only appellation by which we will be known, to the exclusion of all party or sectarian names.
3. The Holy Bible, or the Scriptures of the Old and New Testament is our only creed or confession of faith.
4. Christian character or vital piety is the true scriptural test of fellowship and Church membership.
5. The right of private judgment and liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to and exercised by all.

Since that time (sixty-seven years ago), the following pastors have served the Church: 1860, Elder P. W. Allen; 1861, Elder George W. Walker; 1862, Elder John W. Manning; 1863, Elder James W. Wellons, better known as "Uncle Wellons," who served the Church for ten years, and was assisted in 1869 by Rev. R. E. Tuck; 1874, Elder P. W. Allen, assisted by M. L. Winston; 1875-'76, Elder P. W. Allen served; 1877, Uncle Wellons served again; 1878-'79, Rev. J. W. Holt.

In 1879 a board of trustees, composed of C. E. Ayscue, J. W. Hamm, G. H. Adcock, B. F. Ayscue and W. A. Cunningham were elected for the purpose of locating a site and building a new Church. In November, 1880, under the pastoral charge of Rev. David Jones, the Church decided to drop the name Hill and use Liberty Christian Church. Conference was asked to do likewise. We will notice that up to 1880 the pastors were called elders, as Brother Jones was the first to have reverend applied to his name.

In 1881 Rev. David Jones served the Church and helped to cut and haul timber to build the first Church on the present site; 1882, he continued serving, with the assistance of P. W. Allen and M. L. Winston; 1883, M. L. Winston had full charge; 1884-'85, Rev. P. T. Clapp served; 1886, Rev. J. T. Ball accepted, but later resigned, and Uncle Wellons took charge, serving from '86-'93; 1894, Rev. J. D. Wicker accepted a call and served for four years; 1899-1900, Rev. W. D. Harward; 1901, Dr. W. T. Herndon took charge and served four years; 1905-'06, Rev. M. W. Butler; 1907, Rev. C. E. Newman was called and served for seven years; 1914-'15, Rev. J. C. Stuart served; 1916, Rev. G. J. Green took charge and served four years; 1920, Rev. B. F. Black was called and served two years; 1922, Rev. J. E. Franks accepted the Church and served for four years; 1926, Rev. H. E. Crutchfield, the present pastor, has charge.

From a small membership sixty-seven years ago, the Church has grown to a total membership at present of 369. All those charter members who, through faithful and sacrificial service, gave us our Church, have gone to receive their reward, except one, who will now be presented—Mrs. Elizabeth T. Ayscue.

On Sunday, October 31, 1926, we celebrated the sixty-seventh anniversary of Liberty (Vance) Christian Church by holding a home-coming day and missionary rally service. It was a great day for us in worship and meeting old friends and loved ones. We had hoped to have most of our former pastors back, as well as many other friends and ministers. Greetings were sent from ex-pastors Dr. W. D. Harward, Windsor, Va., and Uncle Wellons. How we wish they might have been here. Our friends in the ministry, Rev. J. W. Patton, Rev. J. Fuller Johnson, and Dr. Atkinson regretted their inability to be here. Since we failed to hear from many, we tried to believe the old saying, "Silence gives consent," and hoped others would come.

After song service, Rev. J. E. Franks read the lesson taken from 1 Peter 2nd chapter. Then our pastor, in a few well-chosen words, gave a hearty welcome to all present. After this he gave a brief history of the Church, and at the close of this presented the only charter member living—Mrs. Elizabeth T. Ayscue, wife of the late Deacon B. T. Ayscue. This was an impressive part of the program, to see this old saint of God stand there by her young boy pastor and receive the large basket of flowers given by the W. M. Society. The audience stood while Rev. C. E. Newman invoked God's blessings upon one and all. The first speaker for the day was Rev. John Mitchenes, of the Baptist Church. He calls himself the community pastor, having served among us for many years. He spoke in very endearing terms of the Church and the community as a whole, and the splendid co-operation that exists between the two Churches. Then our former pastor, Rev. J. E. Franks, gave an inspiring talk on the great home-coming day, when there would be no absent ones. He said there were many absent today that were present five years ago, but one day when God called, there would be no absent ones. At that great home-coming, when we are called together around His throne, there will be no one elsewhere. All the family at home—what a great reunion and rejoicing that will be!

Just at this time we were favored with a duet. "The Old Home" was softly sung by Mr. E. E. Hoyle and Miss Rosetta Journigan. This brought us to the treat in store—that of hearing Rev. C. E. Newman, of Virgilina, Va., preach for us. Mr. Newman served the Church longer than any pastor, save Uncle Wellons, and he has many true friends here. He used the theme "That Great Building of which Jesus Christ is the Chief Corner-stone," saying, as Solomon's temple was built without saw and hammer, just so one day that great temple of God would stand complete. Each of us is being shaped to fit in that structure somewhere. What kind of a stone are you polishing up for the great Master Builder to use in that building not made with hands eternal in the heavens? This was a deep message of truth and enjoyed by all. This brought us to the time for dinner, and the long table was overloaded with food for the body. A shower of rain at this time marred the pleasure of meeting with all the old friends.

At 2 P. M. we again were called together by song, after which our pastor poured out his heart in behalf of missions. For just a few minutes he held some spellbound to hear the great need of missionary work. In passing, we want to say we are very proud indeed of our pastor—a strong young man, grounded in the true faith of God's Word and Jesus Christ the world's Redeemer, preaching in the fear of God only. We thank God for every one that is of the type of Henry E. Crutchfield. We now had the pleasure of hearing another duet, by Mrs. W. J. Alston and Miss Ruth Lassiter. Then came a coveted joy in having Rev. Chas. B. Howard, of Flat Rock Baptist Church, speak for a few minutes on "Missions." Mr. Howard thrilled the audience in his brief message. He is one of the most marvelous spiritual characters we ever knew. He is standing a tribute to Christ. Then Mrs. W. D. Fuller, of Woods, N. C., sang, "They Were Nailed to the Cross." Then Rev. H. C. Caviness brought us a last message as member of the North Carolina Conference. He takes pastoral charge of First Church, Portsmouth, Va. He read 1 Cor. 13th chapter, and used the text, "Therefore, follow after Love." This message stirred the very heart of a Christian, causing one to wonder, "if I have that love that thinketh no evil, and beareth all things?"

Nothing can separate us from the love of God,
(Continued on Page 13.)

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

December 5, 1926.

TOPIC: "Character: How Form It? What Affects It?"—Prov. 22:1, 8:1-11; 1 Cor. 15:33. (Consecration meeting.)

Some Bible Hints.

Character should be our aim, for this is life's goal. We are here to form it (Prov. 22:1).

Wisdom cries, but we are often deaf. We hear rather the voice of pleasure. Let us listen to wisdom (Prov. 8:1).

Wisdom is far more than knowledge; it is the right use of knowledge in the moral conduct of life (Prov. 8:11).

Companionships affect character: the good make us better, the bad make us worse. We cannot escape (v. 33).

Suggestive Thoughts.

Life has no meaning unless we view it as a school of character. It is so arranged that character—good or bad—must come out of experience.

Our attitude toward the common tasks of every day mightily affects character. If we grumble we weaken ourselves; if we "bless" the tasks and do them cheerily, we grow strong.

Reading helps to form character, because it forms ideals. One woman kept a book in her mending basket and occasionally read and thought about a sentence.

Character is affected by play. The will to play hard and play fair builds up the will for bigger tasks later. It makes for right and just aims in life.

A Few Illustrations.

Character is not formed like roses in a greenhouse; it is formed in the struggle and experiences of life; hard knocks, opposition, hard tasks help to make us.

A thousand shipments daily are sent to the "no-mark bureau" of the American Railway Express, the tags torn off, no indication of their destiny. Character is the tag that shows destiny.

As the pressure of the potter's hand shapes the vessel on the wheel, so does the pressure of life—friction, at times—make us what we are.

As light is composed of many colors, so is character made up of many qualities—will, love, purity, and so on. All are ours, if we wish to use them.

To Think About.

What influence have teachers on character?

What social customs tend to degrade character?

What are some character-building agencies today?

A Cluster of Quotations.

When you stand before a camera your face is photographed; when you stand before Christ your character is photographed.—A. R. Henderson.

Be not dumb like driven cattle; be a hero in the strife.—Longfellow.

Every one is the son of his own works.—Cervantes.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING.

A meeting of the Christian Endeavor Union of the Eastern North Carolina Conference will be held in the Christian Church, Henderson, N. C., Saturday and Sunday, December 11th and 12th. Young people representing Christian Endeavor Societies, Young People's Missionary Societies, organized Sunday School classes, or Churches having none of these organizations are invited to attend. A large attendance is expected and a splendid program, which will appear in THE SUN next week, is being prepared. Galen Elliott, a student in the University of North Carolina, is president of the union. If you plan to attend, write Rev. F. D. Ballard, Rowland Street, Henderson, N. C. PATTIE L. COGHILL.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION FIELD NOTES.

There follow two financial statements. The first is the treasurer's report for the month of October, which shows a small balance with current bills met; the second is a list of the Churches and Sunday Schools contributing to the educational offering of September and reporting to Treasurer Stephenson before November 16th.

The first report indicates the board managed to finance its October obligations. A letter of more recent date from the treasurer indicates the same will be true for November. But what concerns the chairman of the board is how the board will meet its obligations from January on to the months of the educational conventions. Unless all the Conferences donate the 5 per cent of the apportionment funds to the board, as suggested by the Southern Convention, we cannot see our way through at all.

The second report, though not complete, reveals the very decided lack of interest on the part of the Churches and Sunday Schools in the work of Christian education as it is carried on by the Board of Christian Education. A few of the budget Churches may have informed Treasurer Stephenson of offerings to come from them at a later date, but we personally only know of one such Church. The report to date carries sixteen offerings—the largest $29.00, the smallest $1.00. The total amount of the offering is $173.42, or a sum scarcely sufficient to bear one month's expense of the board.

And one-third of this offering is pledged to the Department of Christian Education of the General Convention, which, by the way, spent considerably more than the total amount of the offering in the Southern Convention last year. And they were invited to do so. It is not fair, it is not honorable, it is not sporting, it is not Christian, and God will not bless a people who so deal.

The report of Treasurer C. H. Stephenson for October follows:

Balance in bank, Oct. 1st.....	$176.62
Union S. S., Luray	2.62
Georgia and Alabama Conference...	5.60
Isle of Wight Church.....	5.23
Alabama S. S. & C. E. Convention..	9.65
Zion Church, Lee County, N. C.....	3.00
Newport News S. S.....	16.00
Richmond S. S.	16.00
Damascus S. S., (N. C.).....	2.69
Lebanon S. S. (N. C.).....	3.45
Rosemont Church	20.00
First Church S. S., Greensboro.....	18.95
Hobson S. S.	2.00
Suffolk Church (Friends).....	29.00
Total receipts for October	$320.81
*August and September expense....	$101.42
October salary	125.00
Printing bill as per Budget Commission Southern Convention	36.00
Total disbursements, October	262.42
Balance as per November 1st.....	$ 58.39

*The August and September expense account includes the Bethlehem Summer School.

Contributions to the September offering for Christian education up to and including November 16th:

(Continued on Page 15.)

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson X—December 5, 1926.

RUTH AND NAOMI.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."—Ruth 1:16.

LESSON: Book of Ruth.

DEVOTIONAL READING: 1 Cor. 13:7.

This is a "mother-in-law" story, but it savors nothing of the crude and coarse stories which are so often told by would-be humorists on mothers-in-law. In fact, its spirit of warm-hearted devotion, of mutual affection and understanding, and of high idealism is a silent rebuke and a protest against much that we hear about the mother-in-law relationship today. In spite of the fact that there are "she-huzzies" who seem to take delight in blasting and blighting the romance and the glory of home life—the home life of their own flesh and blood—by meddling and other forms of down-right deviltry, there are legions of mothers-in-law who have received the wives or the husbands of their own sons or daughters in a genuine, warm-hearted spirit of affection and devotion that has enriched the lives of all concerned. There are multitudes who can rise up with Ruth and call their mothers-in-law blessed.

It is not necessary to go into the details of the story here. Those who read this article are already familiar with the story. It will be enough to point out a few of the most effective teaching points.

1. The advantage of having a warm friend in an older woman. One of the most vital, if not the most vital, secrets of Ruth's life and action was the fact that in Naomi she had a warm-hearted, sympathetic and godly older woman as an intimate companion and adviser. There are many young women today who need just such a woman as Naomi, and this is especially true of young women who are away from home. Happy is that girl who has found in her mother, her Sunday School teacher, or some other woman, a sympathetic and godly woman, and twice happy is that woman who can stand in that relationship to such a girl.

2. The nobility of loyalty. The most familiar portion of the book of Ruth is that pledge of loyalty which Ruth gives to Naomi (verses 16 and 17). In this simple-minded girl's determination to go with her mother-in-law, away from her own country and her own loved ones, and to share the uncertain fortunes of Naomi, there is a spirit and a measure of loyalty that has made a profound impression upon the men and women of succeeding generations. The teacher of this lesson, especially those who teach boys and girls of the junior and intermediate departments, can well spend the entire time in emphasizing loyalty.

3. The unsuspected capacity of people of other races. Ruth was a Moabitess, a race that was more or less despised by the Jews. To paraphrase the words of Nathaniel, the Jews would have said, "Can there anything good come out of the Moabites?" And yet this Ruth became the mother of Obed, and Obed begat Jesse, and Jesse begat David. The significance of this is to be seen in the fact that Jesus Christ Himself came from "the house of David." In other words, this Moabitish woman was an ancestress of Jesus Christ. It might be well to emphasize this fact in teaching

(Continued on Page 15.)

REPORT OF APPORTIONMENT COMMITTEE.

The committee desires, before reading the Church apportionments, to make the following statement:

1. The committee is simply putting into effect the action of the Southern Christian Convention, as affirmed by this Conference in its 1924 session.

2. The committee considered several methods of arriving at a just and fair basis of apportionments; consulted with fifteen of the ministers and a group of laymen; studied the financial situation of the fields as best it could with the information available; and endeavored to be God-led in its findings.

3. The committee recognizes it cannot present a report satisfactory to all concerned, and so in face of this reports as follows:

Apportionments for 1926-1927.

Antioch	$ 385.00
Barrett's	140.00
Berea, Nansemond	200.00
Berea, Norfolk	150.00
Bethlehem	310.00
Burton's Grove	75.00
Centerville	45.00
Christian Temple	1,200.00
Cypress Chapel	290.00
Damascus	155.00
Dendron	120.00
Eure	240.00
First, Norfolk	520.00
First, Richmond	200.00
First, Portsmouth	135.00
Franklin	350.00
Hobson	20.00
Holland	450.00
Holy Neck	400.00
Isle of Wight	85.00
Ivor	35.00
Johnson's Grove	105.00
Liberty Spring	295.00
Mt. Carmel	245.00
Mt. Zion	35.00
New Lebanon	65.00
Newport News	300.00
Ocean View	25.00
Old Zion	575.00
Oak Grove	50.00
Oakland	225.00
People's, Dover	615.00
Elm Avenue	50.00
Rosemont	250.00
Suffolk	2,250.00

Sarem	35.00
South Norfolk	500.00
Spring Hill	80.00
St. Luke's	10.00
St. Paul's	10.00
Union (Southampton)	120.00
Union (Surry)	50.00
Wakefield	85.00
Waverly	310.00
Windsor	120.00
Webster	180.00
Total	$12,090.00

Respectfully submitted,
 J. H. LIGHTBOURNE,
 J. T. RAWLES,
 I. T. BYRD,
 R. B. ODOM,
 W. W. STALEY,
Committee.

The above report was adopted at the recent session of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference.

 I. W. JOHNSON,
Secretary.

FOR THE INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSONS

TARBELL'S
Teachers' Guide for 1927

"Stands out infinitely superior to anything ever attempted. It recommends the International System."
 — G. Campbell Morgan, D.D.

$1.90
 (Postpaid, $2.00)

At all Booksellers, or
 F. H. REVELL CO., 158 Fifth Ave., N. Y.; 17 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver thee thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35

(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.

(Weight 18 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and hook-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25

Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jē-hōi'-ā-kīm gawē th silver and the gold to Phār'-ōōh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and hook-mark..... 5.50

(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.

(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

Select Notes
 By AMO. R. WELLS, LIT. D., LL. D.

The World's Greatest Sunday School Commentary for 1927
 We recommend it.

BECAUSE
 Millions use it weekly for help, guidance and inspiration.
 For fifty-two years, new friends have learned its value—old ones have considered it indispensable.

BECAUSE
 Its wealth of material gives a solid foundation for the spiritual and inspirational interpretation of special themes.
 It is complete with maps, bibliography, teaching method and abundant illustrations.
 384 pages $2.00 delivered
 At all booksellers.

W. A. WILDE COMPANY
 131 Clarendon Street, Boston, Mass.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

CRIME AND TRAINING OF CHILDREN.

"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."—Prov. 22:6.

America has the largest criminal population in the world. Some blame it on the foreign element; others say it is our sentimentality in not meeting out punishment to the criminal as we should. But when there were few foreigners and when lawlessness was punished, we still had crime.

Crime is "as old as the hills," and always it has been an expression of unyielding ego, self-will, personal liberty, an assertion that 'I can do as

I please and no one shall interfere,' unable to accept the rule of others, by thinking that by helping himself and doing as he pleases he can benefit himself more."

Therefore, "the cause of crime," says Mr. Platt, of The Century, "is in man's nature a potentiality" at birth; and when periods of disorder, crime waves, come on, it is an expression of a factor in life that has favored the ego.

The training of a child contributes that factor, and the process, from birth to maturity, is that of casting aside that which is not desired and learning and becoming what is desired. This is determined by environment. If those environments form the ego, look out for crime. Mr. Platt says that an environment of egoism, love of domination, sloth, acquisitiveness, love of luxury, love for gain without working for and earning it; let the spirit of the times encourage these, and, as we must reap before we sow, there must be inevitably a harvest of highwaymen and thugs.

With such a training, man is unprepared and unable to keep up with the rapid advancement of civilization, and when he finds that he cannot, he balks and falls back on lines of easiest resistance to get what he wishes by will and force—"a lone wolf" to fight out what he wants.

What we need is more homes and home building into a Christian family life, love of home duties, social training for the welfare of the community, schools that conserve the social and Christian life.

A child is primitive, and it has to be taught to be modern, and there are only a few years to do it in. Let him have his way or train him in the wrong way and his primitive impulses will develop its own.

The young need to be taught that gains, money or property do not embrace or represent the highest value or most coveted gifts. When everything is mercenary, men will obtain it at any cost. That is crime. We need homes that teach their young that pleasure is not the chief end in life and leisure is not to be sought, or if we have leisure we must know how to use it. Eight hours' work and often ten hours' leisure and pleasure is not fundamentally honest. The young need to be trained not to spend their leisure all in entertainment, amusement, physical stimulations, but in healthful play, in books, in choices that improve the soul life and better prepare the person for living well. The young need to be taught that their desires are not to be satisfied. It can't be done. An attempt to satisfy them grows to extravagance, goes beyond money earned, and then there is a turning to disparity and crime.

President Coolidge recently said that the crime wave is due to the loss of religion. Decadence of religion in the home and the Church at large is deplorable.

A belief in a heaven, a state of bliss, and God as a reward for righteousness, and hell as a punishment for wrongdoing is necessary. "This is the only check to bad behaviour," says Mr. Platt; "therefore, keep the hell fires burning." The heart needs religion and nothing of this earth can be substituted for it. Our goal is heaven and God, and nothing can be substituted for that. We need to live so that we can call upon our loving Father and know he answers our call. We need to tune and train our lines to the contract of the future. It is needed that the whole of society, all our young, shall feel, trust, live and hope in the glorious reward. Deprive them of these and you invite them to go wrong.

Prayer.—O God, we cry unto Thee as parents for Thy blessings to make us all we should be in bringing up our children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord for this life. Forgive us of our lack and save us and them. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

TUESDAY.

FROM WHOM WE EXPECT SUCCESS.

"For my expectation is from Him."—Psa. 62:1-12.

"Lead a life that is worthy of the gospel of Christ. . . stand firm in a common spirit, fighting side by side like one man for the faith of the gospel. Never be scared for a second by your opponents; your fearlessness is a clear omen for them . . . at the hands of God. . . So by all the stimulus of Christ, by every incentive of love, by all your participation in the spirit, by all your affectionate tenderness; . . . live in harmony with the same feeling of ease, with one heart and soul, never acting for private ends or from vanity, but humbly considering each other the better man and each with an eye of interest for the other as well as his own."—Phil. 1:27-2:11.

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, help us to live and do with an eye of singleness of the example of Jesus Christ, who, though divine, did not snatch at equality with God, but became a servant like men, and by His service was raised up to a name above all other names, that before it every knee should bend and every tongue confess Him Lord of all. We bow before Thee this day, imploring Thy forgiveness for our sins and Thy blessings upon us, that we may live to His glory now and forever. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

A CONDITION TO ANSWERED PRAYER.

"If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me."—Psa. 66:18.

What is iniquity?" Answer: wickedness, injustice, unkindness, unrighteousness, wrongdoing, evil, crime, worshiping something other than God, things that offend (Matt. 13:41), misuse of the mind and body (Rom. 6:19, 1 Cor. 3:17); it is even disregard or forgetfulness of the punishment that surely comes as the penalty for sin (Ex. 20:5; 1 Sam. 3:14).

What is "regard?" Answer: observe particularly, heed, esteem, consider, respect, value.

Conclusion: if we would pray and be heard we must study to know the way of life and the way of death, and heed nor consider anything evil. We must avoid the very appearance of evil.

Prayer.—O God, how straight is Thy way. By Thy greatness all evil should be subdued, and by Thy power of love Thou shalt rule forever. Hear our prayer. Remove iniquity afar from us. Blessed be Thy name who hath not turned us away. Amen.

THURSDAY.

THE FEAR OF GOD AND WISDOM.

Proverbs 1:1-7 (read).

This is a detailed introduction, applying to the whole book of Proverbs, plainly stating that it is the purpose for which the proverbs are written, and the general meaning of it is: The fear of God is the foundation of all wisdom. "Without it, there is in the world nothing but folly and immortality." "Mortality without God is inconceivable." Whoever loves God and desires to live by His word and still is weak and wavering in His service may be instructed and wonderfully helped by the proverbs.

Prayer.—Heavenly Father, teach us Thy wisdom. Make us willing to accept any correction that makes us better, and we pray Thee to reprove us as Thou wilt, that we may be prepared in body and soul to be lifted up to Thee. Forgive us of our sins and save us. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

FRIDAY.

THE MEANING OF THE SONGS OF SOLOMON.

"As the husband is head of the wife, even as Christ is Head of the Church; and He is Saviour of the body."—Eph. 5:23.

This is an exalted, stately, poetic love story, except that they do not get married "at last." But taking it with the rest of the scriptures as divinely inspired, it would never have been admitted in the canons of the Scripture if only a love story. It is not supposed that a real human love prompted its writing. The inspired writer chose the allegory to symbolize the great love of God and man, and that our human love represents the far higher union between God and mankind; under the Christian dispensation it is Christ and the Church. The New Testament, and especially Revelation, often represents this union as a marriage. Our Saviour speaks of Himself as the "bridegroom," and the Church as "the bride," and according to the text the same relation exists between God and every soul filled with His spirit and His love.

Prayer.—Dear Father, lover of our souls, giver of Thy spirit and every good gift, guider of our lives, bless us with a daily union with Thee through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

SATURDAY.

THE MEANING OF ECCLESIASTES.

Lesson: Entire book.

It is said that Solomon in this writing is "speaking wisdom" from a very melancholy point of view. He surveys all the various ways and pleasures of life, and says "all is vanity." He says that such good things as high rank, power, wisdom, knowledge, wealth, and pleasure can bestow is fleeting and cannot bestow happiness. Are we, therefore, to abandon ourselves to despair, or enjoy what we can and then die and make that the end of it? No. The author closes the discussion (Continued on Page 13.)

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

When you sit by your happy fireside Thanksgiving Day and realize that your turkey dinner will be smoking hot and all the nice things you have for that occasion will be pleasing to the taste, and you gather your happy family around you—perhaps not a single one missing, no vacant chair to call back sweet remembrances on the bright face that once occupied it—just for a moment let your mind visit the homes where the bread-winner has been called away, and perhaps the mother with her little brood without money and without the many blessings of life you enjoy, cannot have the good things you have because prosperity has not knocked at her door. Remember, too, the 110 little children in your own dear Christian Orphanage where those who have it in charge are giving their life, their energy, their thought, their all, that these little children may have an equal chance in life.

Remember the opportunity is given you to give a part of your income to help in this worthy work, and we appeal to you to respond liberally this year, as our need is great.

"Jesus took the little children in His arms and blessed them."

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR NOVEMBER 25, 1926.

Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

Brought forward $21,196.59

N. C. & Va. Conference:

Shallow Ford	$ 2.86
Third Avenue, Danville.....	5.69
Berea	7.70
Lawrence Memorial Class60
Durham Christian Sunday School...	13.47
Providence Memorial S. S.....	2.48
Pleasant Grove	6.29
Greensboro Palm Street Church....	6.14
Lebanon	13.83
United Christian Church, Lynehburg	23.06
New Lebanon Sunday School.....	2.00
Baracca Class	5.00
Howard's Chapel	2.00
Bethlehem	4.83
Elon Christian Church.....	5.00

Western N. C. Conference:

Shiloh	$ 1.50
Mark's Chapel	2.30
Seagrove	1.39

Eastern N. C. Conference:

Piney Plains	$ 7.75
Mebane	2.50
Chapel Hill	2.48
Mt. Auburn	9.00

Eastern Virginia Conference:

Berea, Norfolk	$ 6.95
South Norfolk	4.95
South Norfolk	6.35
South Norfolk	6.04
South Norfolk	6.25
Wakefield	2.38
Berea, Nansemond	10.00

Valley Virginia Conference:

Leaksville	3.70
------------------	------

Special Offerings.

Mrs. J. T. Stewart	$ 1.00
A. M. Allred	25.00
J. J. Douglas	5.00
Mrs. H. S. Richardson.....	10.00

Cash	2.40
Lawrence Holt Endowment Fund..	150.00
E. M. Davenport	32.50
Mrs. E. M. Green	4.00
High Point Decorative & Glass Co..	5.00
	234.90

Thanksgiving Offerings.

Mrs. E. J. Brickhouse.....	$30.00
T. Holt Haywood	100.00
Pleasant Hill Christian Church....	12.87
Mrs. Calbie Wood	5.00
Dr. J. M. Belk	5.00
W. S. Parker	10.00
Miss Mamie Lowe Kimball	15.00
H. W. Phillips	25.00
Mrs. H. W. Phillips	75.00
Holt R. Gerringer	5.00
P. T. Klapp	5.00
Mrs. Cameron Morrison	25.00
C. A. Penn	10.00
Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Knight.....	10.00
Suffolk Church, A. T. Holland.....	50.00
Mrs. Rebecca Watkins	5.00
Mrs. J. W. Page	5.00
	392.87

New Building Fund.

Live Wire Class, Mt. Auburn.....	$37.00
C. T. Holt	90.00
Class 7, Holland, Va.....	25.00
Christian Chapel	20.00
	172.00

Grand total $22,170.85

HISTORY OF LIBERTY, VANCE.

(Continued from Page 9.)

neither will anything pass us in the great fiery judgment, except love for Him. Do we really have that love Paul was writing about? O for more love for Christ!

Mr. Caviness asked for personal gifts unto God, and many joined the Missionary Association. We regret to lose this strong man of God from our Conference, but our loss is another's gain. May God bless both pastor and people in the new field.

MRS. R. J. NEWTON.

FAMILY ALTAR.

(Continued from Page 12.)

100.95 sion by saying that God will bring everything to reward or punishment, whether it be good or bad, and to fear God and keep His commandments is the whole duty of man, and only that satisfies and makes happy.

5.19 Prayer.—Heavenly Father, we live each moment amidst fleeting life. We repent of our waywardness and folly, and we pray for forgiveness, that we may live the true and noble life and do Thy will. In His name we ask it. Amen.

SUNDAY.

THE HIGHEST STANDARD.

"Be ye, therefore, perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."—Matt. 43:48.

This text does not require us to be perfect. It is just a task for us, and one which can never be completed, and well it is, for had it been half perfect we might finish it and develop no further. As it is, we can put in our whole time and grow better every day.

Prayer.—Our Father, we pray that we may be assured of Thy helpfulness and guidance in overcoming our difficulties, and make each day count for better until we shall reach Thee in heaven. In Christ's name. Amen.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses	$7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses	6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses	6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim.....	1.60
No. 2—Broad rim	1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses	$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85	11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85...	16.00
(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses
(this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling).	$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....	9.00
No. 4—Broad rim	9.00
Filler—Silver lined	6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

1536 E. Broad St. Richmond Va.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE MOFFITT WHITESELL, Editor.

Korner Kiddies:

Did you know when the first rainbow came in the sky? Do you want to know?

There was a great, great rain upon the earth. The rain fell so fast and so long that all the earth was covered with water. Now, before this great rain came, there was living upon the earth a man named Noah. God told Noah this great rain was coming and that he must make an ark—make a window in it, and a door in the side, and make it with three stories. Then he must take into the ark two animals of every kind, all his sons and their wives, and his own wife; and he must take a lot of food to keep all these people and animals from getting hungry. And, little folks, Noah did all this because God asked him to.

Well, dears, the rain came, and it rained forty days and forty nights. The bushes were covered with water, the trees and houses were covered with water, even the hills were covered with water—only Noah and his ark full of people and animals and creeping things and birds were left alive.

After a long, long while, the flood went down, and all the birds flew away, and the people walked out upon the earth. Then the first thing Noah did was to build an altar and thank God for all His goodness.

Then, just listen, God told Noah this: "While the earth remains, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease; neither shall there any more be a flood to destroy the earth. I set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be a sign of promise between me and the earth. When a cloud comes over the earth the bow shall be seen in the cloud."

And, dears, listen to this: As Noah looked, the cloud parted and the sun shone through, and in the cloud was a beautiful, gleaming, shining rainbow.

Who! Yes, who will paint me a picture again—a picture of Noah standing outside the wonderful ark and looking up to God's bright sky, where the first rainbow was? Who will try to paint this beautiful picture?

I am giving you two weeks to try this. Then send me your pictures and we shall see them in our "Kiddies' Korner" once more. Oh, oh! it isn't hard. Try it, dears.

Send the painting to me. Address: Mrs. John C. Whitesell, Ramseur, N. C.

YOUR EDITOR.

A GOLDEN HEART.

By Mary S. Hitchcock.

Melinda lived with her grandmother, who gathered herbs in the deep forest. All the playmates the girl had were squirrels and rabbits, but one day even they went away, and she was left alone. This is how it came about.

There was a small grassy open spot near their home with a little brook flowing through it. The whole year round it was gay with pretty flowers. The rabbits would come there and eat the tender plants and drink the clear, cool water. Melinda often brought them cabbage and lettuce from her grandmother's garden.

One day some careless boys left a bonfire, which burned the little glade over and scared the little wild creatures away. Melinda was very sad, for her grandmother told her that her little playmates would not come back until the ground was covered with flowers again.

So the girl went out and tried to find some, but they had all gone too far away. She sat down by the little brook and tears came to her eyes as she thought of her lost comrades. When the little brook found out what was troubling her it hurried away to ask the lovely flowers to come up and live.

When it invited the daisy to come, it said, "Oh, I couldn't do any good going up there and living all alone."

The clover also refused, saying that it had all it could do now, without going anywhere else. The dandelion replied that it was too far away from home.

The kind little brook tried to get them all, but they all refused. At last it asked the forget-me-not, a tiny plain blue flower. It answered the brook at once and said it would be glad to go. So the little plant traveled away with the brook until it came to the glade. There it grew faster and faster, by hundreds and thousands.

One day, when Melinda came sadly down to the glade, it was all covered with the tiniest blue flowers, looking like a bit of blue sky dropped down from above. There was the rabbit, hopping around with her little ones, and the squirrel was sitting up and holding its paws for corn.

Now, Mother Nature saw the kind thing the forget-me-nots had done. "You truly have a golden heart, for you have done what you could," she said.

The next morning, when the sun shone on the forget-me-nots, every one had a golden heart.

ELON COLLEGE

CO-EDUCATIONAL

MOONEY CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING, ELON COLLEGE
(Dedicated Sunday, October 3, 1926)

IN CHRISTIAN EDUCATION, the Christian Church and Elon College have taken the lead.

The above building, dedicated to leadership training, is one of the finest laboratories of Christian Education to be found anywhere. It is the only building of its kind on any college campus in America, but is destined to be the forerunner of a new field of education in many American colleges.

IN LEADERSHIP TRAINING, Elon College has been the first to strike out boldly in this field.

Elon gives courses in Religious Education and Leadership Training, along with laboratory experience that can be gotten in no other institution of higher learning. Those students who complete the four-year course in this work at Elon are given advanced standing at the graduate seminaries. In this way, a year can be gained in their preparation for those who expect to pursue their studies through to seminary courses.

For souvenir "Christian Education Bulletin," giving complete description of this Building and its work at Elon College, and for complete Catalogue of Courses, address

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

TITHING FOR GOD.

Read this little story and then think how good God has been to us. I called on an old lady who lives down in an alley. Last Tuesday was her seventy-ninth birthday, and in her room she had spread out some cards and letters that she had received from her friends. She said to me: "The Lord has been good to us. I am seventy-nine years old, and while somewhat of an invalid, I can still write to my friends. My husband and I have been married fifty-three years. We have had a lot of sickness. We have had many ups and downs. We have never had much money. But the Lord has been good to us." "The Lord has been good to us," I repeated as I looked out of the window. There she was, seventy-nine years old; her husband not able to work, living in an old shed down in an alley. Yet she says "The Lord has been good to us." Then I thought of myself. I have two good hands; I have two good eyes; I have two good feet; I have two good ears; I have never been real sick in my life. Yes, the Lord has been good to us.

As I go down the road a little farther I see the blind boys and the blind girls playing out on the lawn. Yes, they have to go through the game in a rather peculiar sort of a way. But still they say, "The Lord has been good to us."

And did you hear the story about the newsboy who was crippled for life and who was standing on the street corner during the Christmas shopping season selling his papers when a fellow stopped to get a paper, and while waiting for his change noticed that the poor boy had his crutches decorated with evergreen. And he asked, "Why all the decoration?" and the lad looked up and says, "Of course, it's tough to be lame and poor at Christmas time, but there is no use of looking so glum, so I thought I would decorate my crutches and make them look a bit Christmasy." Yes, he says "The Lord has been good to us." Let's you and me get that glum look off our face and wear a smile and say "The Lord has been good to us." And remember that old saying, "Every life goes on crutches, more or less"—mine and yours. No life goes free or unhindered.

"One ship drives east and one drives west,
By the self-same wind that blows.
It's the set of the sails and not the gales
That determines the way it goes."

Read the above borrowed verse and then let's you and I go about saying "The Lord has been good to us." We have never had much money. We do not have much now, but we will give the Lord back a tenth of what He has entrusted into our hands. Let's you and me from this day on be tithers for God.

C. J. STRICKLAND.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS NOTES.

(Continued from Page 10.)

First Christian S. S., Raleigh, N. C.....	$ 16.00
Liberty, Vance, Henderson, N. C.....	5.27
Leaksville S. S., Luray, Va.....	5.41
Pleasant Ridge S. S., by Hugh Nelson.....	1.00
Union S. S., Virgilina, Va.....	2.62
Zion Church, Lee County, N. C.....	3.00
First Christian S. S., Richmond, Va.....	16.00
Damascus S. S., Chapel Hill, N. C.....	2.69
Lebanon S. S., Semora, N. C.....	3.45
Rosemont Church, Berkley, Va.....	20.00
First Christian, Greensboro, N. C.....	18.95
Newport News S. S. (Va.).....	16.00
Hobson S. S. (Va.).....	2.00
Suffolk Church (group of friends).....	29.00
Dover Church (by Miss Coghill).....	25.00
First Christian S. S., Norfolk, Va.....	7.03

Total receipts through offering $173.42

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

(Continued from Page 10.)

the class. In this day of prejudice, of bigotry, of racial hatred, and especially of so-called "white supremacy," it might be well to teach our boys and girls, and to remind our men and women that there are even in the most backward races admirable qualities and fine characters, capacities and talents unsuspected, and in some cases, superior to those who would class these people as heathen. The one hundred per cent Americans will do well to read the book of Ruth and take its lesson to heart.

4. The providence of God. To go into a strange land and there to lose both husband and the only two sons, might seem a burden too grievous to be borne. But all things work together for good to those who love God, and Naomi was an instrument in God's hand in working out His purposes for the human race. "As we have opportunity, let us do good unto all men and all women."

Keeping up with the South

THE growth of the South in recent years is one of the outstanding developments of the nation. It is seen by the following facts:

In the 15-year period, 1910-1925, the coal mined in the states of the South served by the Southern Railway System has increased 65 per cent; the pig iron production increased 14 per cent; active cotton spindles increased 53 per cent; and the total value of mineral production increased 205 per cent.

In the two decades, 1900-1920, the value of farm property in these states increased from approximately $2,500,000,000 to more than $10,000,000,000.

And in the 20-year period, 1904-1923, the value of all manufactures produced in these states increased from about $1,200,000,000 to almost $5,000,000,000.

Such has been the growth of the South. The growth of the Southern Railway System in the same period also is impressive.

In the last twenty-five years the total investment in the Southern Railway System has increased about $375,000,000—from $400,000,000 in 1900 to $775,000,000 in 1925.

The total freight traffic handled by the Southern has increased about 250 per cent.

The ability of the Southern Railway System to supply adequate transportation to the growing South has been a vital factor in the healthy economic development of the states served by the Southern.

Every day on the Southern about 8,000 carloads of freight are handed over to it for movement.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
 W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
 W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
 REV. S. C. HARRELL Associate
 R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. . . . Associate
 REV. S. M. LYNAM News Editor
 P. J. KERNODLE Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

One Year $ 2.00
 Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to "Editor Christian Sun," Elon College, N. C.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

OBITUARIES.

DUKE.

Whereas, it has pleased God to take from Beulah Christian Church one of our members, our beloved brother, Rev. P. L. Duke; be it resolved:

1st. In his going, we feel a sense of loss, and shall miss his faithful counsels and helpful suggestions. We, as the Board of Deacons of the Church which he loved, wish to record our appreciation of his useful life and faithful service and bow in submission to the will of Him who is too wise to err, knowing that

His will should be done on earth as in heaven.

2nd. That expression of our appreciation of his service and our regret for his going be recorded in the minutes of our Church, and that a copy be sent to the family and a copy be sent to The Christian Sun for publication.

REV. T. J. DEAN, Pastor.

E. C. BANKSTON,
 O. D. CHADWICK,
 B. K. WARD,
 H. T. MARTIN,
 S. C. GRADY,
 J. F. POSEY, Deacons.

SPITZER.

Mrs. Ada Florence Spitzer, wife of John B. Spitzer, of Mt. Jackson, Va., was born January 18, 1863, and departed this life October 10, 1926, aged 63 years, 8 months, and 22 days. The family formerly lived near Whistler's Chapel, and during my ministry there I frequently stopped with them, always finding the best of hospitality extended me. She was held in high esteem by all who knew her.

Surviving are her husband, one son, and three daughters. Funeral services were held at the home in Mt. Jackson, October 12, 1926, and interment at Cedar Grove.

A. W. ANDES.

HARRISON.

Solon Harrison was born December 27, 1851, and died October 14, 1926, at the age of 74 years, 9 months, and 17 days. He was an upright man and good citizen, a good husband and father. He is survived by his widow and by two sons and three daughters. Funeral services were held at Newport, near his home, October 16, 1926.

A. W. ANDES.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 1/2 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches. $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/4 inches thick. $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
 At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
 Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.
Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address
THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
 PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew: and Esau was a cunning hunter.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.
Our Price—Post Paid 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 1000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.
Our Price—Post Paid 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.
Our Price—Post Paid 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearest Print in Smallest Size
 4 1/2 x 2 3/4 x 3 1/2 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles $6.00

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. $7.00

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
 With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges $8.50

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
 With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. $8.50

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT
Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
 1536 E. Broad Street
 RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

SOUTHERN CONVENTION OF THE SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN CHURCH
SOCIETY. 1958.

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1926.

NUMBER 48.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

The Youth's Companion a Centenarian.—

The recent announcement that the Youth's Companion was a hundred years old would remind many adults who, as children, were brought up on it, that even in their long ago youth it was old. The Youth's Companion was founded as a religious publication. It has since ceased to be such, but it has clung to the wholesome and helpful attitudes in all that it publishes, and is still reckoned as a powerful force for social righteousness among the youth. Through a hundred years it has served worthily, and we wish for it many another year of usefulness. About a year ago the Youth's Companion was taken over by the publishers of the Atlantic Monthly and House Beautiful, and it became a most worthy member of a most worthy family.

San Antonio Refuses.—

The Texas Baptist Convention meets in San Antonio, Texas, this year. J. Frank Norris, the man-killer preacher, is not a member of that convention, together with his Church, which were excluded several years ago. Dr. Norris attempted to secure the municipal auditorium of San Antonio, in which the Baptist convention would meet during the day, and preach in it every evening during the convention. The leaders of the Texas Baptists intimated to the San Antonio authorities that if they let the auditorium to Dr. Norris they would carry their convention elsewhere. The San Antonio authorities refused Dr. Norris the permission to use the auditorium. Dr. Norris goes on trial January 10th next for the murder of D. E. Chipps, a lumberman of Fort Worth, Texas. Since that event, Dr. Norris has preached regularly, and his Church has been packed with people curious to hear him.

Youth Protesting in Ontario.—

The awakening of youth everywhere has taken on a new aspect in the province of Ontario, Canada. There is going on in that province a campaign in which certain political forces are seeking to restore liquor to the public through what they please to call government control. The young people are holding a series of meetings throughout the entire province, protesting against such action, and are actively seeking to save the province for the temperance forces. The movement began with a group of University of Toronto students, and is controlled and directed solely by the youth of the province. They are not affiliated with any organization, and receive no aid from them. Throughout it is a youth movement. The first meeting was held in Toronto, at which seven thousand young people were in attendance. The spirit which they have manifested has been magnificent; the thing they are doing in a constructive way disproves the general charges of thoughtlessness and lowered morals on the part of young people.

Charges Against Big Business.—

General Lincoln C. Andrews, the dry enforcement agent of the United States, has just had a letter made public in which he charges that, to his certain knowledge, some great sales agencies have, at conventions of their customers and at other times, supplied them with plenty of alcoholic beverages. He declares that, as a rule, big business is dry, not so much from principle as from a conviction that booze and business make a dangerous and highly explosive combination, but they will stoop to use it to mellow their customers into a purchasing mood.

This is not only a contradiction, but a downright conspiracy against the United States government. General Andrews addressed his letter to Fred B. Smith, a member of the citizens' committee of one thousand, because he pointed out that he believed this committee best able to make an effective protest. Acting upon the suggestion, Mr. Smith has sent a letter to fourteen thousand business executives, enclosing copies of General Andrews' letter.

Uncle Joe Cannon Dies.—

Surrounded by walls laden with the trophies of public service, in the house he built sixty-five years ago for his bride and from which thirty-three years ago he went to Congress, the dimming spirit of Joseph Curney Cannon flickered and went out. Death came to him in the midst of a deep sleep. Weakening of the muscles of the heart was the direct cause of his death, but old age had so spoiled the strong body of the old congressman that for months his friends knew he had not long to live.

As news spread over Danville, Ill., of his death on November 12th a funeral air and pall of sorrow spread itself over the city. Four years ago, when he left his seat in the House, he told his friends there that he was going home to die. Since leaving Washington he had united with the St. James Methodist Episcopal Church, of which his wife had been a member. His last public act four months ago was to turn the first earth for a new house of worship for the congregation of which he was a member.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, as he came to be known, was born of Quaker parentage, in Guilford County, N. C. He moved to Illinois in his youth, and from that State has given his life to public service.

During the declining days of his life his town of Danville had paid him honor, filling his days with tribute due because of the service of other days. The whole city paid him honor on his ninetieth birthday last May, feeling sure that he would never celebrate another.

Mr. Green Comments on Mr. Ford.—

The president of the American Federation of Labor, William Green, in his report and his interpretation of the meeting of that body in Detroit, comments incisively on the methods of Henry Ford in his automobile factory. Mr. Green says: "Mr. Ford's conception of quantity production is restriction of the intellectual part to a limited group in the management office, minute subdivision of processes, and repetitive work for the great majority. Management gives major consideration to assembling and supplying material, so that the worker can fabricate without delays. He has offered a justification of the consequences of his methods to craftsmanship high wages, shorter hours, and the working man's automobile. There is so much that is interesting and profoundly significant in some of Henry Ford's methods that it is doubly regrettable he has not given equal consideration to human nature. Because he has taken it for granted men are satisfied if they have high wages and a short work day, he has taken away their right to participate in creative work. Because he fails to appreciate the spiritual meaning of craftsmanship, he finds no place for the trade-union movement. Mr. Ford has received such joy out of his own creative activities he ought to appreciate what it would mean to others to have the creative quality in each day's work. If he would turn his genius to the development of production methods that would salvage the intellectual power of his men now wasted in purely repetitive work, he would initiate an adventure in production far surpassing all he has thus far accomplished. The organized labor movement has long said to management, we have brains as well as brawn, give us a chance to mobilize the creative ability of workers and co-operate with management. Upon its power to help men to higher living, organized labor rests its case. Henry Ford has made his reputation as manager of the Ford plants. The challenge of organized labor invites him to become manager of men, co-operating with them in a quest for better methods and better results."

These words from Mr. Green reveal him as a great Christian statesman in the field of industry, and point the way to a happier day in the world of labor and capital. Showing clearly one thing at least which must be done before those two vital elements in society can dwell together in peace and harmony.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Our missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. McKnight, recently sailing after a year's furlough in the home land, cable that they have landed safely in Japan.

Rev. W. B. Fuller, who is now located in the Valley Central Christian Conference, paid a visit to THE SUN office the past week. He was a welcome visitor.

A loving Father has poured out His abundance in field, forest and factory upon us this year. It behooves us to express our gratitude generously at this season in our care and support of our Orphanage.

Have you, or have the children and young folks and grown ups of your Sunday School classes sent in a donation for the O'Kelly and Old Lebanon memorials? If not, why not get busy and help in this long-delayed contribution to our history as a Church.

We congratulate President W. A. Harper, of Elon College, on being elected president of the North Carolina Conference of Colleges, held at Durham, November 24th. Dr. Harper is successor to Dr. W. L. Poteat, of Wake Forest College, in this high office.

Miss Martha R. Stacey, our esteemed missionary supported on the foreign field by our Burlington, N. C., Sunday School, changes her address from Sendai to 55 Tackimachi, Ishinowaki, Japan, having recently transferred to this field. She would appreciate a Christmas card or a line of remembrance from any SUN reader.

Mrs. Elsie Bray writes that Rev. J. A. Ledbetter has begun his work well at Elk Spur and Rocky Ford, and has made a fine impression on the first Sunday of his work and preaching. The people are delighted to have a preacher. Brother Ledbetter is successor to Rev. M. T. Sorrell, the latter of whom has been in school at Elon College since September 1st.

Dr. Harper is an expert in integration. His Board of Education carries within its scope every phase of religious education. At Elon College he has an integrated program of religious education carried on in co-operation with the public schools in the only college building in the country devoted exclusively to religious education. The book treats of an integrated organization, curriculum, expressional program, community program, program of publication, budget, program of leadership training, and, last and greatest, an integrated home. It is most stimulating and suggestive.—Robert L. Kelly, in Christian Education.

THE SUN's editor was privileged to attend the Western North Carolina Conference on its opening day, November 23rd, and the Eastern North Carolina Conference on its closing day, November 24th. The sessions were well attended and a commendable interest was manifested. Both Conferences voted to undertake to increase the circulation of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, especially by the help of the pastors, by February 1st. Dr. G. O. Lankford, Burlington, was president of the Western, and Bro. J. H. Harden, of Graham, was elected secretary, with Bro. O. D. Lawrence, of Seagrove, as treasurer. Bro. Geo. T. Whitaker, of Franklinton, was elected president of the Eastern, with Dr. W. C. Wicker as secretary, and Bro. W. J. Ballentine, Fuquay Springs, as treasurer.

Our heartfelt sympathy goes out for Mrs. C. C. Peel and her sons because of the fatal accident to her youngest son, Marvin Peel, who, by accident while out hunting, shot himself on Monday, November 22nd. The Elon correspondent of the Greensboro Daily News gives this account of the funeral: "This afternoon (November 24th) at 2:30 o'clock, in the Whitley Memorial Building, a large number of relatives and friends met to attend the funeral services held for Marvin Peele, young son of Mrs. C. C. Peele, who accidentally shot himself while out hunting Tuesday morning about 11 o'clock. Dr. J. U. Newman, a neighbor and life-long friend of the family, who had known the deceased all his life, conducted the services, assisted by Dr. W. S. Alexander, pastor of the Elon College Community Church, of which the deceased was a member. Each minister paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of "Happy Jack" Peele, as he was so familiarly known by all his acquaintances and friends. The services were beautiful and impressive, the music was in charge of Prof. Velie, of the music department of the college. Flower girls were the members of the Elon High School, of which the deceased was a student. The pallbearers were his school-mates and friends, as follows: Joe Leonard, Edward Hockedy, Robert Witherspoon, Dan Long Newman, Wilkes Lowe, Phalti Lawrence, Fred and Paul Caddell. Charles, Samuel and Clifton Peele, of Washington, and Henry, of Sarasota, Fla., were here to attend the funeral; one brother, J. C. Peele, superintendent of Sarasota schools, could not be present owing to the serious illness of his wife."

FROM ALABAMA.

CHRISTIAN SUN readers may be surprised to know that we are planning to open our new Church at Roanoke, Ala., the first Sunday night in December. We especially invite all of our preachers and people to meet with us in the opening service. We are planning for a great service, and trust you will be present to help us enjoy the occasion. We are going to have a beautiful little house of worship, and it is a monument to the heroic efforts of our little band of Roanoke members.

I hope every one who may read this announcement will bring or send that dollar you have been thinking about, to be applied on the building fund at that time. Now, everybody pray for our success at Roanoke, Ala. Send us a letter so stating the fact and enclose your contribution for the building fund and thereby help to answer your prayers.

I know if you could see how the little band has struggled and how they have sacrificed to carry the load, surely you would help us a little just now. We are very thankful to all our friends for their kindness shown us during the construction of our house of worship. Everybody has been so kind to us. We hail with joy the opening of our new building, and hope to see you there.

Please come and bring or send the amount that you have decided to give.

Sincerely yours,

G. D. HUNT, Pastor.

NOTICE.

The C. M. A. of Eastern Virginia Conference will meet in annual session with Rev. O. D. Poythress at the South Norfolk Christian Church Tuesday after the first Sunday in December. All members are requested to be present at 10 o'clock December 7, 1926.

JOHN G. TRUITT,
Secretary.

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

Owing to no invitation having been extended to hold the annual session of this Conference, the Executive Committee will hold a session at the Burlington Christian Church Wednesday, December 7, 1926, at 10 o'clock, to approve the reports from the three Conferences in North Carolina working under the charter of the North Carolina Christian Conference.

The Christian Missionary Association.

The Christian Missionary Association will hold a full session at the same time and place for organization and business. The entire membership of the association will be expected to attend this session. The pastor of the Burlington Church will make announcement as to details of the meeting.

Members of the Christian Church anywhere within the State who may be interested in enlarging the home mission work are urged to attend this meeting and become members of the Christian Missionary Association. Sunday School classes, Churches, societies, auxiliary organizations, or any department of Churches may become members of the associations by paying the membership fee of $10.00. Women and children are admitted to membership for $5.00. Each member should attend the annual meeting and vote for the good of the organization and for the promotion of missionary work.

Respectfully,

W. C. WICKER,
G. O. LANKFORD,
L. L. VAUGHAN,

Executive Committee N. C. C. Conference.

ATTENDS CHURCH.

The record of the Philathea Class of the Suffolk Christian Church Sunday School shows that the organized class does not prevent Church attendance as is generally claimed by critics of organized Sunday School class. The percentage of Church attendance for the month of July was 57 6-10 per cent, for October 67 2-10 per cent, and for July and October 63 7-10 per cent.

I believe that the attendance for the year would be at least 65 per cent.

J. E. WEST.

RECEIPTS FOR MEMORIALS.

The Committee on Memorials feels much encouraged. We have a long way to go yet, but we have the faith to believe that our loyal and faithful ones and those who honor the name of O'Kelly and Old Lebanon will send in their contribution. Surely, all members of the Christian Church can take a lively interest and a pardonable pride in this enterprise. We are glad to acknowledge the following received since our last report:

Total received to November 20th.....	$724.48
Ladies' Aid Society, Dendron Church.....	10.00
Ambrose, Ga., Church	15.00
Mrs. Jane Huffines, Elon College, N. C....	1.00
Wake Chapel, Fuquay Springs, N. C.....	10.00
Mrs. M. J. Lee, Suffolk, Va. Rt. 5.....	10.00
Mrs. B. S. Ross, Sanford, N. C., Rt. 5....	7.70
E. B. Bailey, Wakefield, Va.....	1.00
W. S. Briggs, Henderson, N. C.....	3.00
Mrs. J. T. Williams, Suffolk, Va.....	1.00
Mt. Auburn, Manson, N. C.....	9.00
J. D. Wicker, Sanford, N. C.....	1.00

Total received to November 27th..... $793.18

Gratefully yours,

MEMORIAL COMMITTEE.

JUDGE J. F. WEST, Chairman,
Waverly, Va.

J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer,
Elon College, N. C.

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
 Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
 W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
 J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

GETTING THE HEART RIGHT.

The writer of this editorial has not infrequently heard individuals—some of which individuals were, in some instances, preachers—say, "Get a man's heart, and you get his money." Maybe other SUN readers have heard that same half-baked truth dished out. A recent writer of a good book speaks of this platitude as follows: "This is one of those half-truths in common circulation and honestly believed by many people. It is the same as saying of a patient in the hospital that when he is well we can get a foot-race out of him, or of saying that when we have reached the inner vault in the bank we then have the combination to the vault. With the sick man, it is a problem of treatment to get him out. With entrance to the vault, it is a problem of knowing the combination. And the combination to the average man's heart is spelled 'p-r-o-p-e-r-t-y.' Cause and effect are terribly mixed up in that half-truth so often quoted." Dr. M. E. Melvin, general secretary of stewardship of the Presbyterian Church, who wrote that clause, might have also added that about nine times out of ten the people who use that platitude are either spasmodic contributors to their Lord's work or contribute very meagerly and miserly, if at all. By what process of logic one arrives at the platitude, it is difficult to trace. It is very much in keeping with that kindred logic which we sometimes hear, namely: "I am not a tither, for all I have belongs to the Lord. I consider Him the owner of myself and property and I give as and when I find it in keeping with my convenience and feelings."

The individual making this statement, maybe unconsciously, makes a law unto himself which he feels is superior to the law of God laid down in the Bible. Having adopted this law, the said individual, feeling that he and all of his property belongs to God, proceeds to withhold from God, save when it is quite convenient and in keeping with one's own will in the matter. Does not such a person forget that the Lord Himself said: "To obey is better than sacrifice, and to harken than the fat of rams?" God established the law of the tithe, not man, and we have no record in sacred or secular history that God has ever abolished that law in behalf of any man, even though that man surrendered (by declaration or intent or purpose) all his belongings to God. If those who use such phrases would first and foremost of all practice tithing, their statements and declarations might carry somewhere, and help some one. But unless one tithes according to the law of God, one has no right, Biblical or other, to talk about getting a man's heart right and "you get his money." Jesus Christ so considered it, at any rate. He said, "Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." He, at any rate, put the matter of placing the treasure first, and after that the heart. Jesus taught that it was necessary to get one's treasure in order to get one's heart.

Take the cause of the rich young ruler. Here, the man himself made out like his heart was all right, and wanted to make Christ think so. In fact, he told Jesus that he had kept the commandments all the way up. Then our Saviour, who knew the heart of man and how far below its hollow profession lay the real secret of salvation, said to him: "One thing thou lackest." Our Saviour had the penetration to go beneath this man's profession about his heart and touch him at the weak spot. Then he went away full of sorrow.

We can never get around the law of the tithe except by making a law unto ourselves and discrediting and discarding the plain teachings of the Bible, both Old and New Testaments. We wish to refer again to a declaration by Dr. Melvin and to quote another phrase from a volume of his entitled "Royal Partnership," which, by the way, this editor wishes, with all his heart, all who are seeking to know the truth as related to money, would read. Dr. Melvin makes a mighty plea for spirituality in a money-getting age. He is seeking, with the power of a mighty man, to show how we of this day may be more spiritually minded and thus stay the tide of an ever-increasing materialism, and to prevent this crass materialism from crushing the heart and soul of ministers and laymen who are accusing the Church and people in the Church of talking "money! money! money!" There may have been a time in the world's history when such a plea was sincere and meant what it said, but in our day when the sin of covetousness (which is idolatry) has come to grips with spiritual activity, and when the world outside the Church and in the Church, as for that matter, is thinking in terms of money and trying to grasp more money—for the Church in such a time not to talk money and strive with its heart to teach the right attitude to money, is painful and pitiable indeed. But to quote Dr. Melvin:

"It would be most profitable here, if space permitted, to study the whole book of Malachi, and especially the third chapter. Israel had forgotten God and turned away to other gods; by unbelief they had lost faith in and touch with Deity. Their difficulty was fundamentally spiritual. God calls them to return, and, in doing so, offers to get down on a level of the material, that they may 'prove' Him. He could condescend no further. Would they know whether there be a God; whether He hears prayer and takes an interest in common life? God here put first things first. He directed that they return by way, first, of property, their use of things, their strict payment of the tithe. And the promise was that the windows of heaven would be opened in response, with a blessing such as they would have no room to receive.

"Human nature has not changed since the days of Malachi. Does the Church today really want a revival? Bushnell was right. God has indicated the way, and the only way. Things, instead of being segregated from life, must be articulated with life. We must bring men to see that, if God is shut out in the lower levels of life, He will humanly speaking, be automatically shut out in the upper levels."

What Dr. Melvin calls the "upper levels" is in the spiritual realm. And very many have little part in the spiritual realm (the upper levels of life), because they shut God out of the "lower levels"—the carnal and worldly realms. God wants to go with us, and He wants us to go with Him, unto all the levels, all the heights and depths, breadths and lengths of life. J. O. A.

ARE WE SPIRITUAL?

The good and faithful apostle Paul said, "To be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." In this Scripture (Romans 8:6), Paul was making a contrast between the carnal and the spiritual. He was seeking to establish in the mind of his readers a sharp and discriminating distinction between the things of the flesh and the things of the spirit. He declares that "They that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but that they that are after the spirit, the things of the spirit." So there are things of the Spirit and there are things of the flesh. Have we kept clearly in mind Paul's fine distinction? Have we not eliminated things entirely from the realm of the Spirit and substituted a mental attitude, or expression, a sentimental emotionalism? Paul said there were things of the Spirit, not just subjective emotionalism. He was speaking of that which we can turn in the world of things to the use and expression and employment of the Spirit.

Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, before the recent session of North Carolina and Virginia Conference, was coming to the point of discrimination when he arose in Conference and enquired if the brethren were discussing a certain subject according to their own (carnal) view or were they discussing with the spiritual in view. Speakers were saying what they could or could not do, what they were willing to do, or not do. What Brother Harrell wished to know was, had the brethren enquired what the will of the Spirit was for them and what would Jesus have them do as touching these things. It was a timely thought and went home to the hearts of his hearers.

A speaker two weeks later, before another Conference, said that the brethren were not in position to do much for the Lord's cause, because of the low price of cotton. At first blush, that seems feasible; but was it spiritual? Had the brother thought his utterance through? God had opened up the fountains of fertility and caused the fields to yield such an abundance of cotton as had not been seen for many, many years, if ever. And yet because God had been good enough to give an oversupply, this brother, with very best intentions, no doubt, would have his brethren believed that they must withhold any increase for the cause of God because God had not withheld, but had poured out in abundance. God had at least dealt with His children in a spiritual way. He had answered their prayers. He had given them the cravings of their heart. He had given them the fruits of their labors. Now, when the time comes to offer back to God some of that which He has given us, that we, too, may be spiritual; that we, too, may not act after the flesh, but after the things of the Spirit—we talk about withholding (for the sake of the flesh), that all the affairs of the body may be cared for, but that the spiritual work of God's kingdom must suffer because God has poured out on us His abundance.

It is often so. This writer is frequently amazed at the thinking of many along this line. One of the first causes to suffer, in God's dispensation and good providence, is always some cause that pertains to God and His kingdom. Oftentimes, there has been a sick one in the family, there has been a doctor's bill to pay, there has been distress or disappointment; and these light afflictions, which are but for a day and which work out for us a far more, exceeding and abundant weight of glory, are given first of all as cause why we must not deal with things of the Spirit as liberally and as largely as we did before.

To be spiritually minded is something besides emotionalism, or tears, or even rejoicing. They that are spiritual do mind the things of the Spirit, says Paul. Bear in mind, shall we not, that we can so deal with things as to make them spiritual and to make them contribute to our spiritual growth and development. Paul makes a wonderful and searching distinction between the Spirit and the carnal in the eighth chapter of Romans. In this distinction he is showing that the Spirit will bear witness with our spirit when we are doing the spiritual thing and seeking as children to carry out the will of God and do the work of God. "And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together. For I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed to us" (Romans 8:7-8). We should not allow our temporary sufferings, from the short-sightedness of man and the evils and weakness of the flesh, to interfere with the development of the Spirit. How often, indeed, do we cut off our gifts or our activities or our liberality for the Church and the things of God, when some misfortune or so-called hard times have come, even before we are willing to curtail our output for the things of the flesh?

J. O. A.

THE ORPHANAGE'S NEW BUILDING.

What a pity all SUN readers cannot have the privilege and the joy the SUN's editor had on Thanksgiving Day! Though living near the Orphanage, he had not found the opportunity since its completion of going through the new building till Thanksgiving. Then the universally loved and ever gracious superintendent took the editor through from cellar to garret.

Our new Orphanage building is a comfort, a joy, and a source of pride to behold. It is inviting without and simply glorious to behold within. It is a two-story brick building, and the very last and latest word in architectural design and finish for Orphanage occupancy and living. If this building does not inspire our larger boys and girls at the Orphanage, who are to occupy it to higher ideals and clean, good living, then no sort of brick and mortar can accomplish that holy purpose.

The floors are all of polished, hard-wood finish, the walls are immaculate in their plastered whiteness, the living-rooms are large, airy, restful; the wide-spreading sleeping-porches are wholesome, ample, airy; the bath-rooms are adequate and furnished with most substantial porcelain equipment; the reading-room and library is spacious and inviting, and the great hall at the entrance makes one's heart rejoice with the breath and bidding of "home."

And the furnishings of the rooms, sleeping-quarters and living-apartments are neat, handsome, substantial and beautiful. There are forty beds (each single) and room for fifteen or twenty more, should growth and needs require.

And think of it—this magnificent building is erected and furnished for the sum of $19,500, and furnished with heating, plumbing and furniture for about $10,000 additional! When one goes through the building and sees all these, one wonders how in the world such values were had at such figures. But Superintendent Johnston is tasteful and wise in selection, and economic in dealings. Bro. Johnston and the management have done a work in erecting and completing this building that is a signal honor, a source of pride, and a genuine credit to the Southern Christian Convention, and the entire Church as for that matter. And best of all, it is practically paid for.

If the Thanksgiving offering comes in as it is hoped and as it should, January 1, 1927, will see us with three splendid Orphanage buildings, capable of housing and keeping 150 children, a large farm, a splendid dairy, ample barns and out-houses—all the gifts of loving hearts and hands, and all paid for.

All honor and heartiest congratulations to Bro. W. K. Holt, chairman, his fellow-members of the board, and C. D. Johnston, the capable, efficient and great leader in Orphanage work and management.

J. O. A.

INCREASED CHRISTIAN SUN CIRCULATION.

If pastors and interested laymen would consider somewhat, they would make an effort now to increase the subscription list to THE CHRISTIAN SUN. Every subscription secured now saves the Convention and the Church at large that much, and goes to paying for the printing of the paper. THE SUN is now printed for a fixed price every week, and this is the only expense that the paper has to bear. It will be a source of deep regret, not to say humiliating, if pastors and laymen do not now bestir themselves to increase the income to the paper.

The Eastern Virginia Conference decided that its pastors make an effort to increase the list threefold in their field by January 1st. The North Carolina and Virginia Conference voted to increase the circulation twofold in their field by January 1st. Lists of subscribers have been furnished all the pastors in these two Conferences. Each pastor will know who subscribes in his field, so that he may see the ones not subscribing and get them to subscribe. It is an easy task when one will make an effort. When a year passes without a pastor sending in a list of subscribers to his Church paper, it simply means that the pastor has not made an effort in that direction.

This, however, is only one side. The Church paper is the pastor's right arm. It makes his work more successful and helps to do that which he himself is trying to do, namely: increase interest in the Church by furnishing information about the Church and the kingdom. If every home represented in the Churches composing the Conferences of the Southern Christian Convention received and read THE CHRISTIAN SUN each week our Church would go forward in all of its interests and enterprises. The Church paper is not only a necessity, but it increases interest and loyalty to the Church in every phase and department of its activity.

Let us try, dear brethren and good friends, to increase the subscription list of THE CHRISTIAN SUN. It will mean so much in every way to the entire Church.

THE GOSPEL OF LUKE.

This, in the estimation of many learned men and women, is the most beautiful book in the world. After a careful rereading, very few would fail to see that Luke wrote the gospel of womanhood. "He alone records those tender incidents in lives of Elizabeth, Mary and Anna which are associated with the infancy of Jesus; he alone tells us of the widow of Nain whose son Jesus restored to life; of the woman bowed down by Satan, but relieved by Jesus; of the penitent sinner who anointed His feet; of the domestic scene in the house of Mary and Martha; of the woman who congratulated the mother of Jesus; and of the woman who consoled with Him on His way to the cross." According to Erdmon, "the most significant of all is the statement of Luke that, as Jesus and His apostles moved about Gillilee preaching the gospel, they were accompanied by women" "who ministered unto them of their substance."

Among those women, Luke mentions "Mary that was called Magdalene," probably so designated from the town of Magdala, where formerly she had lived." By this title "she was distinguished from "Mary the mother of Jesus," from "Mary of Bethany," and from other women of the same name.

Luke also mentions Joanna, whose husband, Chuzas, had charge of the household of King Herod. "And what was it that caused these women to minister to the Master?" Gratitude. They had been healed. "How did Jesus and His followers secure financial support during the three years of His ministry?" This question is often propounded. Erdmon wisely gives this answer: "Evidently, those who had received from Him spiritual help gladly supplied His temporal wants and rendered to Him all needful service." Thus this passage indicates not only what Jesus did for women, but what women did for Jesus."

So far as we know, no woman, good or bad, lifted her hand or voice against Jesus. And with the exception of the damsel who accused Peter, no one against the apostles. Woman was the medium of the divine incarnation. Reread the gospel of Luke, and then try to "estimate how far the gifts and sacrifices of grateful women have been making possible through the passing ages the preaching of the gospel in all the world.

Your last conference, presbytery, associations, synod, council, convention, would have been a cold-blooded failure without the Christian, loving and serving women.

And do not forget that Luke the Greek and "beloved physician" wrote the gospel of womanhood.

D. A. LONG.

CHURCH STATISTICS.

The Journal of Christian Education for November gives statistics as to twenty-five leading denominations for 1925 gifts for all purposes. The Christians were twenty-third, and averaged $13.49. This again demonstrates that one of the outstanding needs of the Christian Church is a good statistician. While I have not the 1925 figures for the Southern Convention, in 1924, exclusive of all current expenses, it averaged $16.49 per member. For all purposes, the Eastern Virginia Conference averaged $47.26 in 1923 and $42.60 in 1924. It is not probable that the Southern Convention averages over twice as much, and the Eastern Virginia Conference over three times as much as the entire Christian denomination.

I hope that some Elon Student will be enough interested in research work to furnish correct statistics for 1926.

J. E. WEST.

There may be compensation in the loud applause of fame,

But when all is said and done, he life's best reward has won

Whose character is witnessed by an undishonored name.—Edgar A. Guest.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

Satisfaction is a great word in human experience, and it enters into the experience of body, mind, and heart. Satisfaction for the body is purely receptive in its operation. The hungry or thirsty body receives food or water till hunger and thirst are satisfied. That experience is universal as to race and station. The body is selfish in all its relations and in all its experiences. In this respect man is not much above the brute creation. All animal life can be satisfied through food and water. To live on this plane is the lowest state of human experience. Bodily wants are all selfish, and this will explain the low character of the selfish man. He lives on the lowest level of human experience. A man can get no lower than to be selfish.

The mental man may live on a higher level. Here, satisfaction does not come by getting, but, in part, by giving. The mind finds its satisfaction along two lines. What the mind gets by reading, study, association with other minds, brings satisfaction; but what the mind gives to others is another source of satisfaction. Mental satisfaction is dual. It gets and gives. Selfishness may enter into mental experience, but it is not satisfactory. The mind is more than being. It is a life all its own. It dwells in the body, uses the body, and appreciates the body; but it is more. Acquisition does not satisfy the mind. It must give. Human speech and literature are the output of this quality of mind; and the giving brings greater satisfaction than the getting. Every human being is more than body, and lives and acts in a realm far above physical conditions.

All of the great enterprises of the world are conceived and developed through the mind as the intelligent agent. The discoverers, inventors and legislators, and all who have aided the world in forward movements have been mind-workers co-operating with physical helpers. Mind has led the way and found more satisfaction in what it has done than in what it has received. In fact, the world's great leaders have often received no reward, but their contribution to the needs and progress of mankind. Their satisfaction has been in what they have done for others. "It is more blessed to give than to receive." People who do nothing for others and give nothing to others, do not know what real satisfaction is.

The other satisfaction is heart-satisfaction. The heart is almost entirely the outgoing stream of help for mankind. "God so loved that He gave."

The only thing that satisfies the heart is giving. It is purely a fountain from which flows affection, sympathy, help. "He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied." No matter how hard the service, no matter how poor that service may be, real service, out of a consecrated heart, brings satisfaction. Going from the body up to the mind, and then higher into the heart-life, is like going up in a tower—the view of the world grows larger all the way. Not only "out of the heart are the issues of life," but in that realm are found the purest and the best there is in man. Satisfaction comes more by loving and doing under the impulse of the heart than from any other source. "They that are after the flesh mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit, the things of the Spirit." The body is the lowest, the mind is higher, but the heart is the highest in mankind.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

The wise man who is a successful man in the book of Ecclesiastes has this to say:

"Yea, I hated all my labor which I had taken under the sun: because I should leave it unto the man that shall be after me. And who knoweth whether he shall be a wise man or a fool? Yet shall he have rule over all my labor wherein I have labored, and wherein I have showed myself wise under the sun. This is also vanity. . . . There is nothing better for a man than that he should eat and drink, and that he should make his soul enjoy good in his labor. This also I saw, that it was from the hand of God. For who can eat or who else can hasten hereunto more than I?"

If we did not know that this pessimistic note was in our Scriptures it would be hard for us to believe it possible for any wise and successful business man to take such a gloomy view of life and its outcome, and yet, taken as a rule, the pessimist who gives utterance to these sentences is not far wrong in describing the actual conditions of our life.

Here is a man endowed with fine mental ability, wise, to use the language of the Book, and who has achieved a splendid success with his business, amassing a large fortune as the result of his labors under the sun. In a great many cases, such a man is troubled to know the consequence of this success of his on his children. I have had more than one of them to tell me that they feared to leave a large sum of money for their children, because so often this very practice has done injury to children of friends of theirs and they were troubled in soul to know what course to pursue.

It did not occur to the writer in Ecclesiastes, because there was no such opportunity in his day to find a way out of such a situation by suggesting to himself that he might perpetuate his good will to future generations by bequeathing a considerable portion of his wealth, if not all of it, to institutions that would continue to exist because they have corporate being, rather than sentient being. The living person, in a few years at most, passes from the stage of human living into the spirit world, but corporations such as mission boards, ministerial relief boards, Christian colleges, orphanages, and other like institutions continue from year to year unabated in their service to humanity and to the kingdom of God.

Here is an opportunity by which men who find themselves in the position of the wise and successful business man described in the second chapter of Ecclesiastes can safeguard the future not only of his family, but also of his wealth.

A great many of these men are not willing to wait until the end of life to invest their means in such enterprises. They begin to make large gifts in their lifetime, so as to see the fruits of their labor in Christian giving while they are yet living among men, and then they add to their living gifts when they are through with this world's goods.

W. A. HARPER.

NOTES FROM PARRIS ISLAND.

Saturday night, September 19th, we arrived at Beaufort, S. C., an old historic town on the mainland, just across the river from Parris Island, which is the east coast marine training station. The last boat trip had been made to the island, so we parked at the only hotel of the place and spent the night there.

Sunday was a day of wind and rain, but with the assistance of Captain B. F. Foggy, a friend with whom we got in touch, we reached the island and took immediate possession of our quarters, where we began living again.

Parris Island is a very pretty place, the entire island being the property of the government for the specific purpose of a marine training station. Thousands of marines were trained here for overseas during the World War. At that time, operations covered the whole island, but now it covers only about one-third of it, and the rest is occupied by colored people, who originally owned the territory, and are now in the employ of the government or earning a mere existence by gardening, fishing, etc.

The marine personnel at the present time is about 1,700. These consist of the regular organization and the recruits in training. Recruits are sent here from all over the entire eastern part of the United States, and, having been accepted, are fitted out with equipment and training for service. Having completed that training, they are assigned to the various duties with Uncle Sam all over the world.

The only undesirable feature to the location is the inaccessibility of it. We are almost marooned, only boat transportation between us and the main land. Cars are transported by barge. If a trip is planned in the car, it has to be arranged for and taken over the day before, and then maybe brought back the day after. Thus it takes three days to go anywhere. A causeway and bridge are being constructed, and in time this will furnish an open road to and from the island. We anxiously await the innovation. Regular boat transportation is available every day and twice a week a special shopping boat is run to Beaufort for the benefit of the ladies and any others who wish to avail themselves of it.

I have here the finest work I have ever had in the service. It is a real parish, and from 150 to 200 attend service every Sunday, largely officers and their families. The interest in Church and religious work is unsurpassed in the service. The Sunday School has 102 members, and the membership increases every Sunday. Nothing is lacking in teacher force and co-operation. My situation is elegant both in home and environment, and we are very happy indeed.

This news letter should have been sent a long time ago, but my health has been so wretched I have had to forego all extra efforts. I am improved at this writing, however, and I hope for a steady improvement until I am fully recovered.

Very truly,

H. E. ROUNTREE.

WINCHESTER, VA.

After five years of joy, some sorrow, and the best service we knew how to render, it has been our experience to say good-by to the members and friends of the Newport News Christian Church and begin our pastorate at Winchester, Va. It was not easy to say this good-by. Many of the members of the Newport News Church had proven so kind and loyal, and have stood by the cause of Christ so faithfully, that the emotions of our heart were much stirred as we took our departure.

In all the years, we have never found men and women more faithful than some of our Newport News membership. The leadership of these worthy members is now in charge of Rev. M. F. Allen, who we fully believe will prove to be just the right man in the hands of God to lead the members of the Christian Church on to greater achievements, and do so to the glory of God.

Many kindnesses were shown us; gifts, tokens of love and esteem were given us, and all of which we are truly thankful for, and are trusting that the Heavenly Father will reward even the cup of water given in His name. God's blessings upon the Christian Church at Newport News. Their greatest need is a new Church of worship, and I trust that somehow in the providence of God the way will open that this need may be realized in the not far distant future.

We began our work at the Winchester, Va., Church with the first of the month. God has blessed us with three encouraging Sundays. The field is in good shape when you consider the long period that this Church has been standing without a pastor. The Aid Society, two missionary societies, and Senior Endeavor Society and the Sunday School are doing nice work. A Junior Christian Endeavor Society, with twelve charter members, was organized on November 21st, and indications are that some real nice work will be done by this society. In the providence of God it is our lot and privilege to be placed here in this little city of northern Virginia, and it is our intention to do our very best and render the best service we know how, and all to the glory of the Christ who said: "Go, ye, into all the world . . . Lo! I am with you always."

B. J. EARP.

PEOPLE'S CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Fourteen delegates from People's Church attended the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference held last week with Webster Community Christian Church. The Conference session was a real success, many evidences of progress being brought out in the various Church reports. The program also was both informational and inspirational.

Sunday, the pastor and congregation appreciated the privilege of having Dr. W. W. Staley, of Suffolk, Va., as a guest, being entertained in the pastor's home over the week-end. Dr. Staley preached at both services. At the morning service he spoke on the subject, "The Wise Men and Jesus." At the evening service he spoke on the subject, "Christian Experience." Both messages were great deliverances from a great man. Dr. Staley was pastor of the First Christian Church of Suffolk, Va., for forty-one years, gathering a large and influential congregation and erecting a splendid Church edifice during his pastorate. Dr. Staley preached the dedication sermon when the original building of People's Church of Dover was dedicated. His many friends of other days were delighted with the privilege of greeting him again.

The schedule of social and recreational activities in the Community Hall is rapidly being completed for the remainder of the fall quarter. A full program of activities is carried on each week.

Plans are being laid for the Christmas pageant which is to be given the Sunday evening before Christmas. At the official board meeting on Monday night, plans were adopted for holding a two weeks' evangelistic meeting in January or February. Dr. L. E. Smith, pastor of Christian Temple, Norfolk, Va., will assist the pastor in conducting the meetings. Dr. Smith is one of the outstanding leaders of the day as a pastor of a great Church, and as a pastor evangelist.

People's Church Sunday School is enthusiastically promoting the interests of the Community Standard Training School, which is to be held at Wesley Church by the different evangelical denominations for six weeks, beginning November 16th. This important work merits the co-operation of all lovers of Christ who are interested in a trained Christian leadership for our day and generation.

Next Sunday the pastor, Dr. R. C. Helfenstein, is to speak on the subject, "A Wrong Kind of Religion." At the evening service he will speak on the subject, "The Right King of Religion."—Delaware News.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE CONFERENCE.

Instead of a two-day session of the North Carolina Christian Conference, as planned at Greensboro last year, the Executive Committee has decided to hold an executive session at Burlington on Wednesday, December 7, at 10 A. M., for the purpose of passing upon the reports from the three Conferences of the State and to attend to any other matters that may be presented.

In connection with the above meeting, the Christian Missionary Association will hold a one-day session at the same place and date, the Burlington Church having been tendered for this purpose. All members of the association, therefore, are urged to be present. A suitable and helpful program will be given during the day.

By order of

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, North Carolina Christian Conference.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x 7 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. . . . $3.75 India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 11-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. . . . $6.00 Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 11-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. . . . $8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 5 1/2 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 5 1/2 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps $2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools $3.25

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold $1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold. $3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. . $1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold $2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. . . . $3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, brier, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Brier Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 1 3-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold $4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold $3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address

THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

How it Is Being Done.

Some of our Conference stewardship secretaries are doing splendid work in their Conferences encouraging and assisting Churches and pastors in conducting real stewardship programs. Some regional Convention stewardship secretaries are speaking on stewardship at several Conferences. One Conference stewardship secretary wrote to all the Churches of the Conference and enclosed copies of the resolutions on stewardship, apportioned the number of tithers sought by the Conference to the Churches, sent them samples of literature and requested their co-operation. Another is notifying each pastor of the Conference of the Conference action that each pastor in the Conference be urged to preach on tithing in all his Churches this year and enclosed suggestive literature. Such work is counting. Sample literature has been sent from this office to all active pastors and to all Conference stewardship secretaries. We can furnish it in quantities to Churches at a minimum cost. This is stewardship time in the Christian Church. We hope that every Church and pastor will bring this great spiritual message to all departments and ages in the Church. A number of pastors are putting on the "ten weeks of tithing education" program. We have sent information about it to all our pastors. We hope your Church will enroll a fine list of tithers on or about December 12th. We have membership certificates and wall charts free.

Is this Your Time?

A goodly number of our Churches begin their Church year January 1st. It is always advisable to begin the new Church year with a calendar quarter, no matter when your Conference meets, or your Conference year begins, or your pastoral service begins. We recommend either January 1st, April 1st, July 1st, or October 1st as the best time to begin the Church year in all Churches. These Churches, beginning their Church year January 1st, are now making their annual every-member canvass. We hope they will thoroughly prepare for it. It needs six weeks to prepare in practically every case if the work is to be the most successful and lasting. There is nothing like the every-member canvass for every Church, no matter what size or where located. When your canvass is fully completed, please check up and find what percentage of the names on your Church roll actually make a subscription. Do not stop until you have ninety per cent as subscribers. Keep right at it for their sakes.

Some Helps.

You surely will want a stewardship diary and budget account book for yourself, for your sons and daughters and for the young people's classes, 25 cents from the Christian Publishing Association.

The C. P. A. is closing out some broken lists of books. Among them is "American Tithers," at the remarkable price of ten cents and postage. We hope you will get yours before all are gone.

We would recommend to all pastors and Sunday School teachers to secure Crawford's "The Call to Christian Stewardship" for sixty cents if you want to have a clear understanding on tithing preparatory to tithers' enrollment day this month.

AN EFFECTIVE MISSION ORGANIZATION.

BY MRS. L. L. VAUGHAN,

President N. C. Woman's Missionary Conference.

(Published by vote of the Woman's Missionary Conference, before which it was delivered.)

In my message to the members of this Conference, I wish to discuss briefly a question that should be of vital interest to each of us. It is this, Why have we not been able to interest and enlist in the cause of missions a greater number of our Churches? Fifty or more in our North Carolina Conference do not have a missionary organization. This fact has troubled me, has been constantly on my mind. I have asked myself over and over, why is it that we have not reached them? I have considered this thought: Can the trouble be with those of us who are interested in this work? Have we failed to do all that we could to create interest in this work? On the other hand, it may be that our organization is not as effective in the work as it should be.

The recent reading of several books has caused me to think along this line: what constitutes an effective organization? In my opinion, it should be:

First. A praying organization. I think of prayer as being in touch with God—are we? What does your prayer life mean to you? Is it a privilege or an obligation? It has been said the man or woman who misses the deep meaning of prayer has robbed herself or himself of life's supreme privilege—friendship with God. The right kind of prayer life opens our lives to God so that His will can be done in and through us, because in true prayer we habitually put ourselves into the attitude of willingness to do whatever God directs. How many of us pray in that attitude? We pray in a perfunctory manner that God will send a missionary from our Church, but if that prayer should be answered by the call coming to some one from our household I am afraid many of us would not be willing and some of us would, I fear, be almost rebellious. If we could but develop our prayer life as illustrated in the following selection, I am sure greater service to God and man would be rendered.

"At first I prayed for Light.

Could I but see the way,

How gladly, swiftly would I walk
To everlasting day.

"And next I prayed for Strength,

That I might tread the road
With firm, unfaltering feet and win
The heaven's serene abode.

"And then I asked for Faith.

Could I but trust my God,
I'd live enfolded in His peace,
Though foes were all abroad.

"But now I pray for Love:

Deep love to God and man,
A living love that will not fail,
However dark His plan.

"And Light and Strength and Faith

Are opening everywhere;
God only waited for me, till
I prayed the larger prayer."

—Mrs. E. D. Cheney, in The Congregationalist.

Second. An organization that rightly conceives of prayer must be dominated by faith. What is faith? One definition of faith is, "in harmony with God." In Hebrews 11:1 we have another:

"Now faith is assurance of things hoped for, a conviction of things not seen." A missionary organization cannot live without faith because it deals not only with a past which it may know and with a present it can see, but with a future in whose possibilities it must believe. Isn't that true? We must have faith in the ultimate success of our efforts or there would be no incentive to push forward. We must have faith that we are going to have missionary organizations in all of our Churches, if we ever reach them.

Third. An organization that rightly conceives of prayer and that is dominated by faith will be serviceable. We cannot be of service in the world and be selfish—a truth we learn from studying the life of Christ. He desired to share with His disciples every blessing, so we must have that desire to be of real service. We should be willing to share our love of Christ and all that it means to us with those who do not have a knowledge of His love. Right here I think we reach the real mission of the missionary society, which is sharing with some one else the blessing Christ has been to us. Some one has said, "All who joy would win, must share it. Happiness was born a twin." To share this Christ with some one who does not know Him, we should be like the Christ we ask them to accept. Are we? An Oriental says: "You wonder why Christianity makes such slow progress among us. I will tell you why. It is because you are not like your Christ." A severe indictment, yet how true. Our lack of Christ, like living one with another, in our business relations often speaks louder than any words our missionaries can say.

What is the foundation or corner-stone of a life of service? It is giving, first of ourselves, then of our substance. There is no real service to me without giving. I have an idea just what some of you are thinking. How often do we hear, "I wish the missionary society would stop talking about giving; all they want is money." Any of you here ever hear that before? To me, that is just like the child who said to its mother, "I wish you would one day get a meal without using any flour; I am so tired of seeing you get out that old sifter I do not know what to do." What sort of a meal could you get without using flour? We need it for bread, the staff of life; we need it for enriching and adding body to so many things we cook. It is the same with giving. It is the crux of the whole life of service. It will be only when our people get the right conception of this phase of our work, become true stewards of our time, our talents and our means that our Church problems are going to be solved.

We all realize that prayer, faith and service are the very foundation of every effective mission organization. Let us, then, each question our own hearts in this manner: Are we truly praying for the mission work? Have we the conquering faith that will achieve success? Are we giving of our time, our talents and our means in a way that will assure the coming of the kingdom? How many of us can truthfully say:

"Take my life, and let it be consecrated, Lord, to Thee;

Take my feet, and let them be swift and beautiful for Thee;

Take my silver and my gold, not a mite would I withhold;

Take my will, and make it Thine—it shall be no longer mine."

MINUTES OF WOMAN'S MISSION BOARD.

On Thursday, November 11, 1926, in the Suffolk Christian Church, the Woman's Mission Board of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference met in annual session and was called to order at 10:30 A. M. by the president, Mrs. M. L. Bryant. The following members were present: Mesdames M. L. Bryant, M. J. W. White, J. A. Williams, B. E. White, R. T. Bradford, W. V. Leathers, H. S. Hardcastle, L. W. Stagg. Dr. W. W. Staley was present for the morning session and conducted devotionals. Minutes of 1925 meeting adopted as read.

Letters were read from Dr. J. O. Atkinson, Mrs. W. H. Carroll and Mrs. C. H. Rowland. Dr. Atkinson stated it was impossible for him to attend the meeting, as he had planned. Mrs. Carroll, superintendent of spiritual life of the S. C. C. Woman's Mission Board, asked for co-operation in this department. Mrs. W. H. Andrews, of the Suffolk Church, was elected superintendent of this work for the Eastern Virginia Conference Woman's Board. Mrs. C. H. Rowland sent a report of the woman's session of the recent quadrennial Conference at Urbana, Ill., and especially requested the women of this Conference to contribute 10 cents per member to the Ellen Gustin fund that all Conferences are asked for; same to be used to pay Conference president's way to biennial meetings. It was voted to send Ellen Gustin leaflets to each woman's society with the request for this contribution.

It was found that through an error on the part of the one making out the questionnaire for the Young People's Society of Suffolk, that this society was entitled to share the banner with the Holland young people, who made the same number of points. The banner will go to Suffolk the last six months of the Conference year.

It was voted to ask Dr. W. P. Minton for a page in the Christian Missionary for such contributions of our work as might be of general interest. Mrs. J. H. Lightbourne, of Holland, Va., was elected editor of same.

At the request of the treasurer, motion was made and carried that she be bonded for a sum not to exceed $5,000. The board approved of the treasurer's suggestion to have the books closed and audited by the annual Woman's Conference. The treasurer was requested to not accept any money for other than regular session work of the Church.

On motion, it was decided to have the superintendent of literature, assisted by the treasurer, procure the study books and necessary helps for next year, and have them at Conference, that they might be purchased and study classes organized in the early fall. The board voted to send two of its members to the Blue Ridge Summer School of Missions, paying one-half expenses of each.

It was voted to have the November thankoffering divided equally between the mountain work and the O'Kelly Memorial Fund. March 4th was appointed as the general day of prayer.

The district superintendents were requested to visit Churches in their groups having no organized mission work, and wherever possible get them organized during the year. It was voted to leave the grading of Young People's Societies with individual Churches that local conditions may be suited.

The spring rallies will be held the first of April, as follows (dates will be announced later): Franklin—Mrs. J. A. Williams, superintendent, Franklin; Waverly—Mrs. B. E. White, superintendent, Wakefield; Nansemond—Mrs. H. S. Hardcastle, superintendent, Holland; Norfolk—Mrs. J. E. Cartwright, superintendent, South Norfolk.

The chair appointed committees as follows: Apportionments—Mrs. W. V. Leathers, Mrs. R. T. Bradford.

Spring Rally Program—Mrs. J. E. Cartwright, Mrs. W. H. Baker, Mrs. L. W. Stagg.

Conference Program—Mrs. I. W. Johnson, Mrs. R. T. Bradford, Mrs. M. J. W. White.

Revision of Report Blanks—Mrs. J. A. Williams, Mrs. L. W. Stagg.

Awarding of Banners—Mrs. R. T. Bradford, Mrs. W. V. Leathers, Mrs. H. S. Hardcastle.

Adjourned to meet in November, 1927.

Mrs. L. W. Stagg, Sec'y.

QUARTERLY REPORT.

The following is the fourth quarterly report of the treasurer of the Woman's Board of the North Carolina Christian Conference:

Woman's Societies.
Burlington	$318.03
Chapel Hill	12.40
Durham	83.63
Elon College	58.08
Ether	6.80
Graham	10.00
Greensboro	69.10
Haw River	20.00
Henderson	40.30
High Point	9.00
Hines Chapel	15.00
Howard's Chapel	10.00
Ingram, Va.	3.40
Lebanon	2.45
Liberty (Vance)	15.00
Liberty, Va.	20.00
Lynchburg	10.00
Monticello	3.15
Mt. Gilead	5.92
Mt. Auburn	25.00
Piney Plain	14.40
Pleasant Hill	3.75
Pleasant Ridge	10.00
Pleasant Grove	37.00
Ramseur	32.25
Raleigh	113.20
Reidsville	60.00
Providence Memorial	20.00
Sanford	25.00
Shallow Well	37.50
Shallow Ford	12.00
Shiloh	3.00
Turner's Chapel	50.00
Virgilina, Va.	54.07
Wake Chapel	19.95
Union Ridge	13.55
Oak Level	2.10
	<hr/>
	$1,245.03

Young People's Societies.
Burlington	$111.40
Elon College	14.02
Greensboro	20.00
Mt. Zion	8.55
Raleigh	20.00
Sanford	7.50
Ramseur	15.00
Virgilina	6.80
	<hr/>
	203.27

Junior Young People's Societies.
Burlington	$ 8.30
Elon	8.50
Greensboro	5.00
	<hr/>
	21.80

Willing Workers' Societies.
Durham	$ 10.20
Elon College	15.37
Greensboro	6.25
Liberty (Vance)	2.35
Reidsville	10.00
Shallow Ford	1.00
Wake Chapel	10.15
	<hr/>
	55.32

Cradle Roll Societies.
Burlington	$ 28.03
Durham	25.00

Elon College	20.00
Graham	5.09
Greensboro	15.00
Raleigh	10.00
Ramseur	1.60
Reidsville	15.00
Lynchburg	2.15
	<hr/>
	121.87
Conference offering	40.23
	<hr/>
Total	$1,687.52

Mrs. W. R. Sellars,
Burlington, N. C. Treasurer.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The following is the annual report of the treasurer of the North Carolina Christian Conference Woman's Mission Board:

Woman's Societies.
Burlington	$741.57
Bethlehem Church	5.00
Chapel Hill	90.00
Durham	200.00
Elon College	300.00
Ether	25.95
Graham	25.00
Greensboro	256.60
Haw River	20.00
Henderson	90.30
Hines Chapel	35.00
High Point	9.00
Howard's Chapel	20.00
Ingram	11.40
Liberty, Va.	26.50
Liberty, Vance	60.00
Lynchburg, Va.	25.50
Lebanon	2.45
Monticello	7.65
Mt. Auburn	89.60
Mt. Gilead	12.50
Oak Level	10.70
Piney Plain	24.55
Pleasant Grove, Va.	54.50
Pleasant Hill	22.15
Pleasant Ridge	45.05
Providence, Memorial	30.00
Raleigh	225.00
Ramseur	41.00
Randleman	2.50
Sanford	100.00
Shallow Ford	21.75
Shallow Well	50.00
Shiloh	3.00
Reidsville	60.00
Seagrove	10.00
Turner's Chapel	50.00
Union Ridge	40.00
Virgilina, Va.	100.00
Wake Chapel	50.00
	<hr/>
	2,994.22

Young People's Societies.
Burlington	$198.90
Elon College	70.27
Greensboro	85.00
Liberty, Vance	7.50
Mt. Zion	26.26
Raleigh	25.00
Ramseur	20.00
Sanford	15.00
Virgilina, Va.	10.90
	<hr/>
	458.83

Junior Young People's Societies.
Burlington	$ 64.05
Elon College	12.45
Greensboro	15.00
	<hr/>
	91.50

(Continued on page 13.)

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NOTES.

There is to be a meeting Saturday and Sunday, December 11th and 12th, of the young people of the Eastern North Carolina Conference at the Henderson Christian Church, Henderson, N. C. The young people are to assemble at 2 o'clock Saturday and adjournment will follow the 11 o'clock address or sermon of Sunday. Rev. Floyd D. Ballard is pastor of the Henderson Church.

The Eastern North Carolina Conference voted at its recent session with the Oak Level Church, Youngsville, N. C., to grant the board the 5 per cent of the apportionment funds as suggested by the Southern Convention. We have word from the North Carolina and Virginia Conference to the effect $150.00 was voted the board at its recent session.

Complaint was made on the floor of the Eastern North Carolina Conference that the board does not render sufficient service in the bounds of that Conference. This is the kind of criticism we court if it is founded on and supported by fact. As to the facts in this case, we are not in a position to determine, but we can write this: We are, as a board, ready always to co-operate with a Conference or educational convention in field work. We simply request that we, too, receive co-operation. Let us know about the kind and character of field work you wish, make the necessary arrangements for the work to be carried on, and I am sure you will find the board ready to work with you.

The Board of Christian Education of the General Convention is meeting this week at Dayton, Ohio. It might be interesting to know that the members of this board, as elected at the recent session of the General Convention at Urbana, Ill., are: Dr. W. A. Harper, N. C., executive secretary; Dr. W. G. Sargent, R. I.; Dr. Hugh A. Smith, Ohio; Mr. M. M. Orban, Cal.; Dr. A. B. Kendall, Ill.; Dr. R. C. Helfenstein, Del.; Dr. H. Shelton Smith, Ill.; Rev. H. G. Clark, Ind.; Rev. E. B. Flory, Ohio; President A. G. Caris, Defiance College, Ohio; President F. G. Coffin, Palmer College, Mo.; President S. L. Beougher, Bethlehem College, Ala.

The representative of this board of the Southern Convention is Miss Pattie Coghill, of Henderson, N. C., the field secretary of the Southern Convention Board. Her title or official designation is Regional Director of Christian Education, and to this office Miss Coghill was elected by the Southern Christian Convention at its session with the Durham Christian Church.

The balance in bank, as per October 1st, should have read in last week's report $186.62, and not $176.62. The totals were correct, but this figure in error.

It is the conviction of the writer, our Southern Convention constituency will only function along all lines of Christian endeavor and enterprise when that constituency is taught as children and youth in our Sunday Schools and young people's organizations the great principles and motives of Christian character and Christian service. Inspirational services and appeals will secure immediate results, but lasting results have to be secured through the establishment of convictions and ideals. It is all very well and important to teach the history and the biography of the Bible, but something else is needed, too, and that is the teaching of the great principles and motives that

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

By REV. H. S. HARDCASTLE.

Lesson XI—December 12, 1926.

THE BOY SAMUEL.

LESSON: 1 Sam. chaps. 1 to 3.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psa. 119:9-16.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Speak, Jehovah, for Thy servant heareth."—1 Sam. 3:9.

The story of Samuel begins before he was born. If we are to understand today's lesson we must take into account three factors which entered into his life before today's lesson. In the first place, he was born of godly parents. His father was a God-fearing man, one who observed the religious practices of his day regularly and in the right spirit. His mother was a pious, prayerful woman, one who loved Jehovah and lived humbly before Him. It does not mean everything to be born of godly parents, but it does mean much. It counts tremendously. Parents ought to live in such a way that their children will have born within them an increased capacity for and tendencies toward goodness. Parents cannot give their children religion, but they can bequeath to them that inner quality of life which will make it easier for them to be religious.

In the second place, Samuel was consecrated to the Lord's service before he was born. Hannah had promised the Lord that if He would give her a boy, she would "lend him to the Lord all the days of his life." What a strange note that sounds in the ears of that distressingly large group of professing Christians today, who not only do not pray that their children might give themselves to the Lord's work and urge them to do it, but actually dissuade them from doing it! One might think that Samuel's case was unique if he did not hear so many Christian workers bear witness to the fact that the secret of their Christian full-time service was the fact that their mothers or fathers had set them apart for the Lord even before they were born. Not only are we not our own; our children are not our own. God help parents to render a good account of their stewardship.

In the third place, Samuel was put in such an atmosphere and inducted into such service as would make him most susceptible to the voice of Jehovah. He was in constant attendance at the temple, the place above all others that was associated with Jehovah's presence, and he ministered unto the Lord before Eli, engaged always in those things that suggested religion. Thrice fortunate is that boy who attends regularly the services of worship in the Sunday School, the Young People's Society, and the Church, and who has an opportunity to render service in holy things. It is in such environment and through such service that the way is prepared for God to speak to growing young life. Godly parents, pre-natal vows of consecration, and wholesome environment and training in service—what wonder is it that we have a Samuel?

In addition to these vital truths out of the should actuate the Christian of this day as he gives expression to his Christian experience and his desire to render service in and through the Church. These great fundamentals should be taught in our Sunday Schools and the other organizations of an educational character.
(Continued on Page 11.)

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

December 12, 1926.

TOPIC: "The Children of Our Community."—John 21:15-17; Matt. 25:40.

SCRIPTURE REFERENCES: Zech. 8:1-8; Acts 22:1-3; Isa. 1:17; Luke 18:15-16; 1 Sam. 3:1-10; Matt. 2:13-23.

Plans for the Meeting.

1. Spend twenty minutes at the beginning of the meeting in practicing Christmas carols. Definite plans should be made by this time for any special Christmas service in the Church; also for helping the needy of the community. Last year the Christian Endeavor Society had entire charge of the Christmas service in several of our Churches.

Worship Service.

(After practicing Christmas carols.)

1. Song—"There's a Song in the Air" (repeat the first verse in unison if music cannot be secured:

There's a song in the air!
There's a star in the sky!
There's a mother's deep prayer
And a baby's low cry.
And the star rains its fire
While the beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem
Cradles a King."

2. Scripture—John 21:15-17; Matt. 25:40.

3. Song—"Tell Me the Stories of Jesus," or "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

4. Prayer—For the children of the community, and children everywhere.

Leader's Talk.

It is a splendid time of the year to study the place of children in the community and the world at large, because the Christ-child was born nearly two thousand years ago. He was born in a manger and rose to be King of kings and Lord of lords. We cannot disassociate the Baby Christ from the Christmas season, and it gives us a larger love for humanity.

After Christ grew to be a man He always had a high regard for childhood and love of little children. He put the child "in the midst," and again He said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me." He gave us the supreme example. The child is in our midst today—in our homes, our Churches and our communities—and our part is to make it a better home, Church, or community for the children around us.

Topics for Discussion.

1. Home and Children.—Few homes are real homes where there are no children. Children gladden the hearts and hearths of our homes. Because the home influence is the first influence on a child's life, it is especially important. Children can feel the Christian atmosphere of a home long before they are able to reason it out. There are exceptions to "Train up a child in the way he should go and he will not depart from it," but the exceptions are few. Those of us who have been blessed with Christian homes should never cease thanking God for them.

2. Children and the Sunday School.—This is a place where every endeavor can help, first, by getting children whose parents are not interested to come to Sunday School; secondly, by helping to give the school a vision of its duty to its children. It has been through the tireless efforts of many young people that some of our schools have furnished more and better equipment for its children, provided a separate place for them to meet on Sunday, graded the Sunday School so as to better give them the kind of lessons they need and are capable of understanding. Children are the first to realize that the Sunday School is falling short of the public school in caring for its needs. Wherever this is true, we should strive to provide a better religious training in our Sunday Schools for the children, even though it may take years to realize our goals.

Questions for the Meeting.

1. What are the child labor laws in your State? Are they good or bad? Is there need for improvement?
2. What may our society do for the boys and girls in our community?
3. What is the Christian Church doing for children in Japan? (Angie Crew working in kindergarten; the mountains? the Indians (Elizabeth Howsare at Fort Apache); new Americans (Marguerite Youmons at Haverhill, Mass.).)
4. Can we help to provide better recreation for the children of the community? How?
5. How may be examples set to boys and girls around us?

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

(Continued from Page 10.)

background of the lesson, there are several just as vital truths in the lesson itself.

"And the child Samuel ministered unto the Lord before Eli." There is many a child that is ministering unto the Lord, even though neither the child nor the parents themselves know it. Through the purity and innocence of that child, through its love for the Sunday School or Church, through some chance remark which it makes, through a childish prayer, through a hundred and one ways and acts of childhood, God is speaking to parents and leading them into the way of holier living and larger service. It is also significant that Samuel ministered unto the Lord before Eli. The parent and teacher is often God's representative to the child. Children, obey your parents in the Lord.

"And the Lord called Samuel." Samuel was perhaps twelve years old. Who shall say when a child is too young to join the Church, or to give himself to God in consecration for work yet to be revealed unto Him?

"And the Lord called Samuel the third time." The Almighty makes due allowance, both for moral deafness due to hardness of heart, and for moral deafness due to immaturity. He is rather persistent when he wants a man, as Jonah could testify. It is difficult to crowd out His voice, for He speaks again and again. Woe unto that man who has refused so often that he does not hear the voice as in other days.

"Now Samuel did not yet know the Lord, neither was the word of the Lord revealed unto him."

How many boys and girls there are in our midst of whom this is true! How much they need the sympathetic help of parent, teacher, older friend to interpret to them the impulses they feel, the aspirations which are born within them. Thrice fortunate is that boy or young man who has an Eli to interpret for him in the new experiences which come to him, the voice of the Lord.

"And it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, 'Speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth.'" Prayer is not a monologue; it is a conversation. "Be still and know that I am God"—thus the Spirit spake to the psalmist. The air is full of music and of words, but only those who "tune in" or "listen in" can hear. God has many messages for us, but it is only as we are still and "listen in" that He can speak them to us.

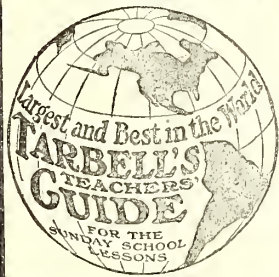

"And Samuel told him every whit, and hid nothing from him." Think of it! A mere lad telling an old man of God the things that Samuel told Eli! It was a most unpleasant task, but Samuel had the courage to speak the truth in love. God, give us the courage to speak the truth and help us to speak it in love.

FOR THE INTE... U. S. S. LESSONS

TARBELL'S

Teachers' Guide for 1927

"Stands out infinitely superior to anything ever attempted. It receives the International System."
—G. Campbell Morgan, D.D.

$1.90
(Postpaid, $2.00)

At all Booksellers, or
F. H. REVELL CO., 158 Fifth Ave., N. Y.; 17 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION
Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.
— Specimen of type —

15 And I call upon me in th
of trouble: I will deliver thee
thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35
(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)

Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.
(Weight 13 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and hook-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

— Specimen of type —

35 And Jê-hôh'-â-kim gave th
silver and the gold to Phâr'-aoh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50
(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and hookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style
at 50 cents extra.

Select Notes

By AMOS R. WELLS, Litt. D., LL. D.

The World's Greatest Sunday School Commentary for 1927
We recommend it

BECAUSE

Millions use it weekly for help, guidance and inspiration. For fifty-two years new friends have learned its value—old ones have considered it indispensable.

BECAUSE

Its wealth of material gives a solid foundation for the spiritual and inspirational interpretation of special themes. It is complete with maps, bibliography, teaching methods and abundant illustrations.

10 pages, $2.00 deft.
at all book sellers

W. A. WILDE COMPANY
131 Clarendon Street, Boston, Mas.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

BLESSEDNESS IN THE DEAD.

"These are they which came out of great tribulation and have washed their robes."

"And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, dost Thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?"—Rev. 7:13-17.

Thinking of our loved ones and acquaintances who have entered the glory, let us rejoice before God and give thanks for the good examples of those in whom God has not only begun the good work, but has perfected it. Can we believe that even they in glory are now helping us in our earthly conflict by their prayers. Their memory is a great triumphant power of grace to us. To honor them, we honor God's work. To devote our labors to His kingdom, honors them as well as God. This intensifies our devotional life, inspires co-operation with and among members of His body—his children; clarifies our vision in a keen sense of duty which each has to perform.

*"Let saints on earth in concert sing
With those whose work is done;
For all the servants of our King
In heaven and earth are one."*

Prayer.—Our Father, we give Thee thanks for all good, and for the lives of those passed on to their reward, for our lives, and all mercy and blessing toward us. May we contemplate and arise to the happy consummation of fullness and perfection in Him when we shall be called to Him. Help us to strive day by day for that perfection. Amen.

TUESDAY.

GREATNESS IN LITTLE THINGS.

"Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many."—Luke 19:17.

"He that is faithful with a trifle is also faithful with a large trust."—Luke 17:10.

"Better is a little with the fear of the Lord than great treasures and trouble therewith."—Prov. 15:16.

Great things, great occasions, great possessions and a great life—how greatly desired! Perhaps they may rarely be presented to us; but little things are offered to us every day. If we do not prove our greatness in them and our love to God in them, how shall we ever do it? Perhaps great things may never come to us at all—more than this, great things require great thought, great courage and a great stand. How can we make sure of our strength if we have not proved it in smaller things?

Great things also require great grace from God. How shall we have this unless we have attained it in our faithfulness in smaller things? Humility teaches us to give our hearts faithfulness to the things within our reach. Be great in them and in this He hath promised us a more excellent way.

Prayer.—Our Father, we pray for the vision, the humility, and the gift to perform our little every-day actions with fidelity to our ordinary graces, and let us be quite sure that, when Thou dost require greater things of us we can depend on Thee to give us the required grace and strength. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

NEARING THE SHORE.

"The Lord on high is mightier than the noise of many waters; yea, than the mighty waves of the sea."—Psa. 93:1-5.

Five bell-ringers with sweet-toned bells were giving a concert. Deftly they manipulated almost a hundred bells. The unusual musical expression charmed the audience, which applauded for more and still more. Finally came the closing number. Singularly beautiful it was to listen to them as they played and sang:

"Jesus, Saviour, pilot me Over life's tempestuous sea."

Bells and voices revealed in a new way the beauty of the old hymn.

Earlier in the day I had called to inquire for a member of my congregation whose death was expected within a short time. Beyond the three-score years and ten her life had extended. Her days had been devoted to good works. Early she began to walk in the way of the Lord. As a young woman, she became the bride of a minister, and for almost thirty years was a true helpmeet both in the home and in public service. She loved to sing, and she made music unto the Lord with her voice. Now she was nearing the "peaceful rest." She was in my thought as I listened to the music. I felt sure she was being safely conducted by the great Pilot.

Prayer.—By one of the parents.

THURSDAY.

THE UNGUARDED GATE.

"Watch ye and pray, lest ye enter into temptation."—Mark 14:32-42.

Some gates are guarded carefully. We feel sure that if temptation comes, it will attack us at the place where we have set the watch. Jesus knew that this was not always so. "Watch and pray," He said. Guards need to be set at all the gates.

Here, the young person feels the lure of popularity, and in the full swing of the crowd the tempter says: "Lower your ideals, forget your old standards," and youth yields. Here, a man gets into business, and he must make it succeed. He works and success comes; prosperity is here, and under cover of that prosperity the tempter says: "You must do now what is done in your new set—don't be straight-laced and old-fashioned." And almost before he knows it, his old idealism has fallen.

Or it may be that the forces of temptation wait till we are tired. Like David of old, his enemy "came upon him when weary and weak-handed."

The enemy of souls will not come with sound of trumpets, telling us that he is about to attack us. If we leave life's gates unguarded, if we grow careless and unfaithful, ere we know it we will be in his power.

Prayer.—Asking that we and our household, and all whom we can influence, may learn the value and protective power of a closer walk with God as a shield and defense.

FRIDAY.

RULING PEACE.

"Let the peace of God rule in your hearts."

The peace of our Lord is that which characterized Him in His humiliation, which He possesses in His exaltation, and which He gives to all His faithful followers. His peace comes to us not from without, but through newness of heart, from within. The Christian life is Christ in us. If we live it in full measure, we enjoy that which passeth all understanding, and which guards our hearts against all attacks from without.

We are to adjust ourselves to this wonderful peace of Christ by letting it rule, or arbitrate, or act as umpire in all situations that arise to trouble us. The great and continual quest of my life is to find Christ's personal will and to obey it. We are, therefore, to take our problem and talk it over with the Lord. Out of the great quietness, His voice will tell us explicitly what to do. If we disobey, choosing rather worldly wisdom or personal ease, His peace leaves us. The distress we suffer is God's warning call to turn back and accept the knowledge of his will. If we obey, at whatever cost, our soul is filled with the comfort of His blessedness, and we are led to that whereunto we have been called, and where we are to experience and to accomplish what He has purposed for us.

Prayer.—Our Father, we ask that this great blessing may be ours, and that we may be led to complete surrender, obedience and full acceptance. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

SATURDAY.

"SHOWERS OF BLESSING."

"There shall be showers of blessing."—Ezek. 34:25-31.

What God does, He does beautifully and abundantly. He maketh the rivers to run into the seas! He floods the world with light! In this promise we must not forget who it is that speaks.

With God in the heavens, black clouds give way to showers of divine blessing. The promise is still true: "If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat the good of the land. For the parched land shall be made a pool. There shall be showers of blessing."

Prayer.—By one of the parents, asking that God may quicken the consciences of multitudes in our land today. Ask that the Easter spirit may pervade our homes, our Churches and our religious gatherings.

SUNDAY.

THE GLORY OF THE HUMBLE WAY.

"Let Israel hope in the Lord."—Psa. 130:5-8.

Between worldly power upheld by selfish pride, and the humble way marked by the lowliness of self-sacrifice, there is for many no choice except in favor of the former. Let those making such a choice reflect upon it for a while. The hand that holds the scepter will some day be too weak to grasp it. The body that delights now to be clothed in soft raiment will eventually be compelled to put on another garb—the somber clothes befitting the grave. Wealth which comes with power must likewise pass away. Then is it not a thousand-fold better that a man should choose the humble way—that way which brings with it the things which never disappear?

*"Who drives the horses of the sun
Shall lord it but a day;
Better the lowly deed were done
And kept the humble way."*

*"The rust will find the sword of fame;
And dust will hide the crown;
Ay, none shall nail so high his name
Time will not tear it down."*

Prayer.—Dear Father in Heaven, we pray that our faith in Thy mercy may be daily increased and our lives dedicated to the winning of souls and the glory of Thy kingdom. Amen.

ANNUAL REPORT.

(Continued from page 9.)

Willing Workers' Societies.

Burlington	$ 56.30
Durham	25.00
Elon College	25.00
Greensboro	25.00
Liberty, Vance	3.35
Mt. Zion	16.10
Mt. Auburn	1.00
Shallow Ford	1.00
Virgilina, Va.	15.10
Wake Chapel	10.15
Reidsville	10.00
	<hr/>
	188.00

Cradle Roll Societies.

Burlington	$ 28.03
Durham	25.00
Elon College	20.00
Graham	5.09
Greensboro	15.00
Lynchburg	5.15
Raleigh	10.00
Ramseur	1.60
Reidsville	15.00
	<hr/>
	124.87

District meetings	73.90
Conference offering	40.23
	<hr/>
	114.13

Total $3,971.55

Disbursements.

Feb. 1—Paid Mrs. W. T. Walters, Treas..	$ 739.71
Apr. 20—Paid Mrs. W. T. Walters, Treas.	935.45
July 19—Mrs. H. S. Hardecastle, Treas...	608.87
Nov. 16—Mrs. H. S. Hardecastle, Treas...	1,687.52
	<hr/>
	3,971.55

Total disbursements $3,971.55

MRS. W. R. SELLARS,
Burlington, N. C. Treasurer.

Damascus	30.00
Dendron	65.30
Dover	101.25
First, Norfolk	56.05
Franklin	57.20
Holy Neck	52.90
Holland	150.76
Liberty Spring	76.35
New Lebanon	20.40
Newport News	6.95
Portsmouth	37.00
Suffolk	492.35
Spring Hill	17.30
Union, Surry	26.50
Waverly	51.36
Windsor	42.50
	<hr/>
	1,680.60

Willing Workers' Societies.

Berea, Nausemond	$ 51.20
Bethlehem	32.60
Christian Temple	51.73
Cypress Chapel	2.70
First, Norfolk	57.50
Franklin	57.70
Holy Neck	57.20
Holland	90.00
Liberty Spring	1.00
Mt. Carmel	15.60
Newport News	4.90
Rosemont	32.00
Suffolk	60.16
Spring Hill	3.20
Waverly	17.67
Windsor	37.50
	<hr/>
	572.66

Cradle Roll Societies.

Antioch	$ 3.21
Berea, Nausemond	9.28
Bethlehem	2.91
Christian Temple	9.66
Cypress Chapel	4.00
Damascus	7.80
First, Norfolk	4.50
Franklin	10.00
Holy Neck	7.50
Holland	8.13
Liberty Spring	8.00
Newport News	13.50
Richmond	3.15
Rosemont	14.25
Suffolk	14.15
Oak Grove	7.71
Wakefield	.80
Windsor	2.15
	<hr/>
	130.70

C. E. Society, Suffolk	100.00
Rally offerings	65.16
Offering, October 15th	52.08
	<hr/>
	217.24

Grand Total $6,823.19

DISBURSEMENTS.

Disbursements of the Woman's Home and Foreign Mission Board of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference to Mrs. Hardecastle, treasurer of the S. C. C. Board, for quarter ending September 30, 1926.

Women's Societies.

General fund (dues)	$200.00
Home special (Richmond)	821.45
Foreign special (Japan)	552.27
Matsuno's salary (Dover women)	50.00
Kitano's salary (Suffolk women)	440.00
Kitano's salary (C. E., Suffolk)	100.00
S. School, Japan (Suffolk women)	12.50
Mary Gilbert, Elon Or. (Suffolk)	15.00
Irene Boone, Elon Or. (Holland)	15.00
	<hr/>
	$2,206.22

Young People's Societies.

Antioch	$ 23.88
Berea, Nausemond	111.80
Bethlehem	96.99
Burton's Grove	20.00
Christian Temple	102.26
Cypress Chapel	41.50
	<hr/>
	4,221.99

Young People's Societies.
Mountain work in Va.	$287.33
Santa Isabel pastor's salary	287.31
Orphan at Elon Or. (Suffolk)	75.00
Matsuno's salary, Dover Y. P.)	37.50
	<hr/>
	687.14

Willing Workers' Societies.

Mountain work in Va.	$163.90
Santa Isabel pastor's salary	163.90
	<hr/>
	327.80

Cradle Roll Societies.

Elon Baby Home	$ 38.56
Kindergarten in Japan	38.56
	<hr/>
	77.12
O'Kelly Memorial	52.08
	<hr/>
	129.20

Total check enclosed $3,350.36

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. W. V. LEATHERS,
Treasurer.

COMMUNION WARE.

Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

- Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses $7.00
- Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses 6.75
- Tray No. 10—Interlocking, with 30 plain glasses 6.50
- Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10. 2.25
- Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10. 2.25
- Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim 1.60
- No. 2—Broad rim 1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

- Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses $22.00
- Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85 11.00
- Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85... 16.00
- (For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

- Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling). $22.00
- Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 16.00
- Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90.. 14.00

- Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim 9.00
- No. 4—Broad rim 9.00
- Filler—Silver lined 6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.
1536 E. Broad St. Richmond Va.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE MOFFITT WHITESELL, Editor.

"The Rainbow"

Now, who will be the first girl and boy to paint this new picture of "The First Rainbow" for us? An ark; Noah, the good old man; the beautiful rainbow in the sky—and send it to me for our Korner at once!

Oh, dear me! that little girl across the street—she, maybe, doesn't take our good SUN—run across to her house, Kiddie, dear, and let her join our Korner and paint this beautiful picture, too. Want to? Surely! We wish we had more members in our Korner. Maybe you can get some other kiddies to take the Korner.

Here's a bright, bright poem that we all love:

All things bright and beautiful,
All things, great and small,
All things wise and wonderful—
The Lord God made them all.

Each little flower that opens,
Each little bird that sings,
He made their glowing colors,
He made their tiny wings.

He gave us eyes to see them,
And lips that we might tell
How great is God Almighty,
Who has made all things well.

That's all this time, dears. With love for each of you.
YOUR EDITOR.

EASTERN VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

Apportionments for 1926-1927.

Antioch	$ 385.00
Barrett's	140.00
Berea, Nansemond	200.00
Berea, Norfolk	150.00
Bethlehem	310.00
Barton's Grove	75.00
Centerville	45.00
Christian Temple	1,200.00
Cypress Chapel	290.00
Damascus	155.00
Dendron	120.00
Eure	240.00
First, Norfolk	520.00
First, Richmond	200.00
First, Portsmouth	135.00
Franklin	350.00
Hobson	20.00
Holland	450.00
Holy Neck	400.00
Isle of Wight	85.00
Ivor	35.00
Johnson's Grove	105.00
Liberty Spring	295.00
Mt. Carmel	245.00
Mt. Zion	35.00
New Lebanon	65.00
Newport News	300.00
Ocean View	25.00
Old Zion	575.00
Oak Grove	50.00
Oakland	225.00
People's, Dover	615.00
Elm Avenue	50.00
Rosemont	250.00
Suffolk	2,250.00
Sarem	35.00
South Norfolk	500.00
Spring Hill	80.00
St. Luke's	10.00
St. Paul's	10.00
Union (Southampton)	120.00
Union (Surry)	50.00
Wakefield	85.00
Waverly	310.00
Windsor	120.00
Webster	180.00
Total	$12,090.00

ELON COLLEGE

CO-EDUCATIONAL

MOONEY CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING, ELON COLLEGE
(Dedicated Sunday, October 3, 1926)

IN CHRISTIAN EDUCATION, the Christian Church and Elon College have taken the lead.

The above building, dedicated to leadership training, is one of the finest laboratories of Christian Education to be found anywhere. It is the only building of its kind on any college campus in America, but is destined to be the forerunner of a new field of education in many American colleges.

IN LEADERSHIP TRAINING, Elon College has been the first to strike out boldly in this field.

Elon gives courses in Religious Education and Leadership Training, along with laboratory experience that can be gotten in no other institution of higher learning. Those students who complete the four-year course in this work at Elon are given advanced standing at the graduate seminaries. In this way, a year can be gained in their preparation for those who expect to pursue their studies through to seminary courses.

For souvenir "Christian Education Bulletin," giving complete description of this Building and its work at Elon College, and for complete Catalogue of Courses, address

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

President W. A. Harper, in his new book, "An Integrated Program of Religious Education," has made a valuable contribution to the thought of the time. He holds wisely that we have too much overlapping and consequent waste in our educational curriculum, and points the method for its correction. In his own college he has been a pioneer in this line and has erected a special building for religious education in which the young people from the primary grade to those in college are instructed in religion both in its theory and in its expression; a building which, in completeness, is the first of its kind in the country. And the careful plans which he suggests have been tested by practical experience. It is a great book, the fruit of well-directed thought of a great leader, checked up by plans carried through in actual practice.—Martyn Summerbell, president Starkey Seminary, Lakemont, N. Y.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

The Thanksgiving offerings are beginning to come in, and I truly hope that our people will rally to our aid this Thanksgiving season, as we need your love, your sympathy, your prayers, and your help. So in your Thanksgiving offering remember the 110 little fatherless children in your Orphanage.

Our children enjoyed their Thanksgiving dinner. Our good friends of the Burlington Church sent us dressed hens for the dinner. The Southern Dairies, of Burlington, sent us ice cream, and one other friend, Burlington, N. C., sent us a barrel of apples, and with the other things they had a good dinner and enjoyed it as all little children with a good appetite do.

Our friends have been good to us during this Thanksgiving season, and the following things have been sent to us: Miss Sarah E. Boyd, Richmond, Va., 17 dresses, 1 coat, 1 parasol, and underwear; Mrs. Eunie Edwards, Asheboro, N. C., 1 box clothing; Mrs. W. H. Speight, Sunbury, N. C., 1 shirt, 1 overcoat, 1 full suit, 4 pr. pants, 3 pr. stockings; W. J. Ballentine, 12 pr. shoes; J. P. Montgomery's Sunday School class, Burlington, N. C., 1 pr. shoes, 1 sweater, 1 hat, for little girls; Edgar Long, Graham, N. C., 1 barrel apples; Ladies' Aid Society, Newport News, Va., 3 quilts; Woman's Missionary Society, Beulah Church, Ala., 2 suits, 3 pr. pillow cases, 4 towels, 2 pr. men's socks, 1 quilt; Ladies' Aid Society, Burlington Christian Church, Circle No. 1, 5 pr. pants, 2 coats, 8 shirts, 1 sweater, and a number of other articles; the good women of our Lynchburg Church sent to us 13 dresses, 6 pr. pillow cases, 1 apron; the Woman's Missionary Society, 1 quilt; Woman's Bible Class, Linville, Va., Christian Church, 38 half-gallon cans of fruit and preserves, 10 qt. cans fruit; Ladies' Aid Society, Antioch Christian Church, Windsor, Va., 2 quilts; Mrs. Louise Godwin, 3 dresses; Ladies' Aid Society, Mt. Olivet Church, Valley, Va., 1 barrel apples; E. W. Cather, Winchester, Va., 5 barrels apples; A. B. Richards, Winchester, Va., 5 barrels apples.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR DECEMBER 2, 1926.
Sunday School Monthly Offerings.

Brought forward	$22,170.85
N. C. & Va. Conference:
Reidsville	$ 6.50
Mt. Zion	2.06
	8.56
Western N. C. Conference:
Mt. Pleasant (Oct. & Nov.)	$ 2.00
Liberty	2.77
	4.77
Eastern N. C. Conference:
Wake Chapel	$ 5.03
Christian Light	5.00
Sanford	3.40
Shallow Well	1.86
	15.29
Alabama Conference:
Pisgah	1.70
New Building Fund.
J. M. Coble, Jr.	5.00
Thanksgiving Offerings.
J. A. Trolinger	$10.00
Bowman Gray	25.00
Mrs. J. E. Vincent	10.00
J. L. Graham	5.00
W. L. Cushion, Moncure, N. C.	5.00
Primary Class, Norfolk, Va.	5.00

W. V. Nicks, Mt. Auburn Church...	2.00	A Friend, Durham, N. C.	10.00
Miss Stella Sharpe	5.00	"Uncle Wellons"	1.00
Mrs. Chas. N. Johnson	5.00	H. C. Holt	10.00
Eure Christian Church	5.25	S. G. Hinsdale	5.00
Mrs. Ida R. Gualtney	2.00	Carvers Grove Sunday School	3.45
Mrs. Willie Staley Holden	10.00	Berea Sunday School	20.25
Mt. Pleasant Sunday School	8.00	E. B. Huffines	1.00
Mrs. H. C. King	1.00	Mrs. E. B. Huffines	1.00
Miss Ruby Rowland	17.00		175.70
Victor Bible Class, Waverly, Va.	5.00
Kellam Grove Sunday School	3.75	Grand total	$22,381.87

Keeping up with the South

THE growth of the South in recent years is one of the outstanding developments of the nation. It is seen by the following facts:

In the 15-year period, 1910-1925, the coal mined in the states of the South served by the Southern Railway System has increased 65 per cent; the pig iron production increased 14 per cent; active cotton spindles increased 53 per cent; and the total value of mineral production increased 205 per cent.

In the two decades, 1900-1920, the value of farm property in these states increased from approximately $2,500,000,000 to more than $10,000,000,000.

And in the 20-year period, 1904-1923, the value of all manufactures produced in these states increased from about $1,200,000,000 to almost $5,000,000,000.

Such has been the growth of the South. The growth of the Southern Railway System in the same period also is impressive.

In the last twenty-five years the total investment in the Southern Railway System has increased about $375,000,000—from $400,000,000 in 1900 to $775,000,000 in 1925.

The total freight traffic handled by the Southern has increased about 250 per cent.

The ability of the Southern Railway System to supply adequate transportation to the growing South has been a vital factor in the healthy economic development of the states served by the Southern.

Every day on the Southern about 8,000 carloads of freight are handed over to it for movement.

S O U T H E R N

RAILWAY SYSTEM

THE SOUTHERN

SERVES THE SOUTH

The Southern serves

the South

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1926.

NUMBER 49.

THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY

By Rev. S. M. LYNAM.

Roumania's New Minister.—

President Coolidge received the new minister of Roumania to the United States recently. He is George Gretziano. The new Roumanian minister speaks French, Italian and Spanish, and understands, but does not speak, English.

Another World Record.—

A white leghorn hen at the University of British Columbia has set a new world record for laying eggs. She has produced 348 eggs in a few days less than a year. The previous record was 347 and was held by an Australian hen. A person would have a fortune in a few hens like that if eggs would stay at a dollar a dozen, as they now are in Toronto.

Oldest Circus Clown.—

Robert E. Sherwood, age seventy and the oldest living circus clown, interested President Coolidge the other day when he explained that he was the first to turn a handspring over seven horses and two elephants. In a hope to get even, the President told how, when he was a boy, he got up at two in the morning to go to the circus. The oldest clown responded by presenting the President with a copy of his book, "Here We are Again." President Coolidge still loves the circus.

Prepared for War.—

The United States is perhaps better prepared for war than most people suppose. It was revealed at the meeting of the War Industries Association, meeting in Chicago recently, that since 1918 about 20,000 industries have been so fitted as to be turned into war-time production units at short notice. This means that the United States has not forgotten that war is still a very possible thing in this world, where, in spite of our boasted civilization, we have not come very far from the age of tooth and claw.

Sign Twelfth Pact.—

The twelfth treaty with foreign powers to prevent the smuggling of liquor into the United States and so to bolster up the Volstead act, was signed between the United States and Spain recently. The newly arrived Spanish minister, Don Alejandro Padilla y Bell, and Secretary Frank B. Kellogg exchanged the solemn pact. The United States has made similar treaties with Cuba, Canada, Denmark, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Mexico, The Netherlands, Panama, Norway, Sweden, and treaties of a similar nature are pending with France and Belgium.

Joseph McKenna Dies.—

The black robes of the justices of the Supreme Court took on an even darker hue the other day when they met to be honorary pallbearers for Joseph McKenna. Joseph McKenna was an Irishman, and during his many years on the bench his temper often vexed the justices, all of whom, with the exception of Harlan Fiske Stone, had sat with him on the bench, but though his temper vexed them, his lovable Irish manner made them love him.

Joseph McKenna was born in Philadelphia eighty-three years ago. His parents took him to California at an early age. He found there a wife and a love for law. He was sent to Congress in 1885 and began his friendship with William McKinley, who later became President and appointed Joseph McKenna his Attorney General. The Supreme Court was the next step. He sat on the supreme bench until his wife died, two years ago. His grief for her was so deep that he did not feel he could continue his work. They had lived together for fifty-five years, and above all else he loved his wife. His greatest legal decision was written in the case which decided whether the United States Steel Corporation violated the Sherman anti-trust law. His decision declared that the steel corporation was not a trust, and did not violate any law.

May Manufacture Gasoline.—

It is reported that in Germany a process by which coal-pit screenings can be made into gasoline and other products. Coal-pit screenings is a very poor coal, and therefore worth very little. The report states that from a dollar and a half's worth of this poor coal can be obtained 330 pounds of gasoline, 440 pounds of lubricating oil, 132 pounds of grease, and 176 pounds of kerosene. The production cost of this much material will, according to the report, approximate twenty-six dollars, while at present prices it will bring at the factory forty-five dollars. The process which was invented by Dr. Bergius fourteen years ago and used only on a small scale, consists of putting a mixture of powdered coal and tar into a large drum into which is passed impure hydrogen gas. Upon application of tremendous pressure for a certain length of time, the mass becomes a viscous fluid, resembling petroleum in a crude form. The process regularly employed for refining petroleum is then used, with the above results. Should the report be true and the process capable of practical working out in an economic manner, it may prove of great value, since it provides a method for increasing our rapidly diminishing gasoline supply from coal now all but worthless.

Collective Madness.—

Jean Verne, a French scientist, who, as a member of the International Congress for the Advancement of Science, had an opportunity to hear Signor Mussolini address that body and to study Italy under Fascist government, gives some pointed comments on the situation there. M. Verne says: "Bologna was like a city of madmen. The walls were covered with mystic posters proclaiming 'God gave him to us; curses upon whoever touches him.' Every window held Mussolini's portrait. Fascist bands marched deliriously all night. . . . Mussolini arrived in a brilliant uniform with an aigrette a foot high on his head. The regular army in Fascist battalions goose-stepped before him, shouting the Fascist war cry. Mussolini was ushered in by the same war cry when he addressed the scientific congress. He spoke mainly about the role that science plays in war time. He said that he expected chemists to discover even more poisonous gases, and so be able to overcome more easily the nations of their enemies. . . . I bring from Italy an impression of unprecedented madness." This is a commentary of a man thirty-six years old, who wears the Croix de Guerre. It does not speak well for the Italy of Mussolini. The day of the tyrant is not passed, boast however much we may of modern freedom.

Ontario Votes Wet.—

On December 1st, by an overwhelming majority, Ontario retreated from her temperance act and admitted liquor again to the province. Premier G. Howard Ferguson led the wet fight, or the fight for government control. Eighty wets will sit in the Parliament, while drys will occupy only thirty-two seats. Mr. Ferguson claims that his policy of government control will be more effective than the temperance act which Ontario has had for a number of years. The Premier feels sure that the policy which he advocates will destroy the bootlegger, but that remains to be seen.

Ontario is naturally Conservative in politics, and taking advantage of this fact, Mr. Ferguson was able to put over the present election. In many ridings, the dry forces were split on party lines, and to that split is due the victory of the Ferguson party. It is to be hoped that the Premier will be able to make good his promises. Government control is an experiment in temperance legislation, and many feel that in adopting it Ontario has retreated from its advanced position. The campaign was a hard-fought one, and the lines were sharply drawn. Just what the first step of the government will be regarding the new policy is uncertain. The province is awaiting the results with interest—a part with confidence, and a part with fear.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Dr. W. W. Staley, of Suffolk, is this week in attendance at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches in Minneapolis, Minn.

Rev. Elisha Bradshaw has second and fourth Sundays to fill in. Any Church that needs preaching on those days he will be glad to serve. Write him at Walters, Va.

Rev. W. D. Harward, D. D., Windsor, Va., gives SUN readers something to read with profit and to think about this week on the subject "Having to Give." Read it and see.

The Sunday School orchestra of First Church, Richmond, Va., will broadcast from radio station WRVA on Friday, December 17th. There will also be several selections by the Church choir, and Dr. C. C. Ryan will make a short talk. Mr. Ernest Carr deserves credit for his work as musical director in the Church and for the enthusiasm he has engendered among the young folks in the orchestra.

For some reason, satisfactory to themselves, our Danville Sunday School, a few months ago, ceased to send in a monthly offering for missions. But this did not satisfy the faithful ones of the school, and now two or three letters come, telling how glad they are that the school has resumed, and the treasurer seals the fact as follows: "Third Avenue Christian Sunday School has resumed giving one Sunday's collection in the month to missions. I am enclosing the offering for November—$10.36. Yours, A. W. Haraway, Treasurer." For which the Mission Secretary is grateful.

Editor Kerr, in the Herald of Gospel Liberty, last week notes: "The December issue of the Journal of Christian Education is a special musical number which deserves a very wide reading and study on the part of any one who has to do with the music of the Church. Some of the contributions are from prominent musical leaders of the country, who speak out of much practical experience. Mrs. W. A. Harper, president of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs; Miss Flossie Emeline Whitney, dean of music at Defiance College, and Prof. C. James Velie, director of the department of music at Elon College, are among the contributors. Altogether, it makes a very valuable number and one to which your choir leader and musicians should have their attention called. The Journal is steadily becoming more and more of value to Christian leaders and workers."

Friends of Elon will rejoice to learn that the college was admitted to membership in the Southern Association of Colleges at the meeting of this association in Jackson, Miss., last week. The following from the News and Observer, December 3rd, tells the gratifying news: "Elon College was elected to full membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at the present meeting of the association in Jackson, Miss., according to word received at the college this morning. Dr. T. C. Amick, business manager of the college, attended the meeting as the representative of Elon, making the report to the faculty and students here. The election to membership in this standardizing agency brings national recognition to Elon and places it among the

A-1 colleges. Elon hoped some four years ago to enter this association, but the fire which destroyed the college plant in 1923 caused the college to withdraw its application for membership which was pending with the association at that time, and the application was only renewed this year after the college had been entirely rebuilt and re-equipped. For the past several years the faculty of the institution has been steadily strengthened, the endowment raised to meet the standards of the Southern Association of Colleges and the physical plant built up to one of the best for any small college in the South. The examiner for the Southern Association stated that the physical plant and laboratory equipment was far superior at Elon to the average small college."

Rev. J. F. Morgan writes: "Berea Christian Church, Great Bridge, Norfolk County, is moving along nicely, and much interest is being manifested by most of the members of this lovely country Church. The Church now has preaching every Sunday afternoon, and the attendance has been good, except in bad weather, since the change from two Sunday morning services a month to the service each Sunday afternoon. The Sunday School is doing fine work under the direction of one of the community's most splendid young men—Superintendent Percy Nichols. Miss Eva McKinney, president, is leading the Young People's Missionary Society in a most wonderful way, and both the above-mentioned young persons are being backed by the young and also the older people in the Church and community. Christmas services are to be held in this Church on the 23rd of this month. Watch Berea grow."

Burlington and Alamance County lost one of their most popular and beloved citizens in the death of Editor O. F. Crowson, of the Burlington News, on November 30th. Mr. Crowson was well known throughout the State, and contributed in many ways to the upbuilding of the State and uplift of his fellowman. He was well known to, and held in highest esteem by, the editor of THE SUN, and the two spent many happy social hours together. He was a man of vivid and strong faith in God, and believed with all his mind and soul in the power of the cross of Christ to redeem and save as many as would believe. His was a vital, vigorous, sustaining faith in God, and he preached that gospel, as a layman, whenever and wherever opportunity afforded. Burlington never paid higher tribute to any citizen than that to O. F. Crowson on the day of the funeral, and his noble and unselfish spirit richly deserved it all. This writer has lost a good friend and mourns his going.

Rev. Stanley C. Harrell, Durham; Dr. W. A. Harper, Elon College; Dr. W. W. Staley, Suffolk; Dr. Roy C. Helfenstein, Dover, Del., and the Mission Secretary of the Southern Convention were representatives of the Southern Convention who attended the annual meeting of the boards of the General Convention at Dayton, Ohio, last week. Dr. L. E. Smith, of Norfolk, was elected to membership on the finance committee of the Convention. Those were busy days and nights in Dayton, and faithful work was done in behalf of the kingdom as represented by our Christian Church. It was voted to send out within a year three new missionaries—one (Miss Victoria Adams) to Porto Rico, and two (Rev. and Mrs. Llewellyn Fletcher) to Japan. A great and far-reaching program along all lines of Church work, education, evangelism, home and foreign missions, was adopted, and the details thereof worked out as specified in general by the General Convention at Urbana, Ill., in October.

POUNDED.

On Tuesday, November 23, 1926, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ellington, of Reidsville, N. C., R. R. 3, paid us a surprise visit, and a very pleasant one. They had kept it concealed from us until they came. It was more than a social call. They brought a carload of good things to eat, such as it takes to replenish a pantry that is about empty. The following items were found: apples, canned fruits, pickles, preserves, sugar, meat, beans, potatoes, cakes, candy, butter, flour, chickens, dried fruit, etc. In addition to things mentioned, there was a nice purse handed us.

This is a very appreciative Church—Happy Home. We wish to acknowledge, further, that there were some who gave that were not members of the Church. We thank all who had a part, and above all the good Lord, who makes these pleasant experiences possible.

We wish, further, to express our deep gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ellington, who were the leaders in this pounding. May the Lord richly bless all and help us to be more humble servants in His vineyard.

MR. AND MRS. L. L. WYRICK.
Elon College, N. C.

AN ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

In consideration of the work of their former pastor, the Spring Hill Sunday School and Church, in joint session of recent date, adopted the following resolution:

Be it resolved: First, That we do hereby express to Rev. H. E. Truitt our sincere regret at his resignation and departure from our midst, and our hearty appreciation for the work done among us by him, which has been performed in a most faithful, efficient, sincere, and consecrated manner.

Second—To his faithful and devoted wife, who has been a helpmeet and an inspiration in all of his activities in this pastorate, the sincere appreciation of the membership is expressed.

Third—In their new field of work, may the richest blessings of the Almighty One, whom they are seeking to serve, ever be their daily reward in both material and spiritual realms.

G. C. WHITE,
MISS ADELLE MATTHEWS,
MRS. A. F. MATTHEWS,

Waverly, Va. Committee.

RECEIPTS FOR MEMORIALS.

The Committee on Memorials feels much encouraged. We have a long way to go yet, but we have the faith to believe that our loyal and faithful ones and those who honor the name of O'Kelly and Old Lebanon will send in their contribution. Surely all members of the Christian Church can take a lively interest and a pardonable pride in this enterprise. We are glad to acknowledge the following received since our last report:

Total received to Nov. 27th	$793.18
L. E. Holland, Franklin, Va.	1.00
Mrs. Sallie E. Holland, Franklin, Va.	1.00
Leaksville Church, Luray, Va.	8.15
Mrs. O. S. Mills' Class, So. Norfolk.	5.00
Woman's Bible Class, So. Norfolk.	10.00
Union, Franklin, Va.	2.95
Philathea Class, Elon College, N. C.	2.00
Cyrus Shoffner, Liberty, N. C.	2.00

Total received to December 4th $826.28

Gratefully yours,
MEMORIAL COMMITTEE.

JUDGE J. F. WEST, Chairman,
Waverly, Va.

J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer,
Elon College, N. C.

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
 Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
 W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
 J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY

W. A. HARPER

R. C. HELFENSTEIN

S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

LIFTING THE LEVELS OF LIFE.

Life has various levels. The difficulty with many of us is that so much of life is lived out on a low level. There is the level of sordidness, sloth and slovenliness. Some of us live not a little of life even on that low level. Then there is the level of things, materials, mammon. Many live much on that low level, even to the extent of becoming servants and slaves of things, of mammon. Jesus was thinking of this level of life and those who live on it when He said, "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." Mammon was on a level beneath the true servants of God. Paul was thinking of that also when he wrote, "The carnal mind is enmity against God and is not subject to the laws of God." The carnal is on a level too low for the spiritual.

Then there is the level of the purely mental, the intellectual, the cultural. This is the level of the wisdom of this world, which the Word tells us is not as high as, or even equal to, the "foolishness of God."

Now, it is the object of all spiritual achievement and development to lift the levels of life, to so live that the sordid, the sensual, the material, the mental shall all be reclaimed, renovated, redeemed and lifted.

Booker T. Washington used to say that where two races lived together, either the higher would pull the lower up or the lower would drag the higher down. The same is true with the desires, the dealings, the attitudes and the activities of man. He must in his living, with his mixed and mingled motives, either lift his lower desires, wants, passions, inclinations to the high level of the wholesome and the holy, or these low desires will pull down his higher and holier impulses. In the phrase of the 113th Psalm, "Who is like unto the Lord our God . . . that raiseth up the poor out of the dust, and lifteth up the needy from the dust, that he may set him with princes?" Jesus, "with a touch or two, turned that old description into the imperishable picture of the prodigal son—one day in rags out in the pig-stys; the next clothed with robe and shoes and ring from out of the father's overflowing plenty, and in his right mind." The level of that young man's life had been wonderfully lifted.

In such a spirit, and with such a thought in mind, Dr. M. E. Melvin, of the Presbyterian Church, South, has written a real book on "Royal Partnership." Dr. Melvin has put the hot blood of throbbing life into a usually cold and chilling theme. Here is his thesis: "First, property is a subjective test of character, and, second, it is pre-eminently the tool of the kingdom of God." The contention of the whole volume is that one's attitude to things, property, money is the acid test of character and spiritually; that to be carnally minded means to pull the spiritual down into the low level of the material, the sensual, the devilish; to be spiritually minded is to so deal with property, things, money as to have Christ as partner, as companion, as friend.

The author asserts that in the New Testament the same word is translated in some instances as fellowship, in others as partnership; and to have and enjoy partnership with Christ in our property relations is the same as fellowship with Him at the Communion table. He declares that we should and, if real Christians, we do have the same companionship and fellowship with Christ in the handling, earning and spending our money that we do in observing any ordinance of the Church.

No one can read this book without a new sense of the sacredness of things and the sanctity of money when properly handled. "Royal partnership" is indeed a new light on an old subject, and a fresh, fragrant, yet powerful and penetrating word on a great theme. Fleming H. Revell Co., N. Y., is the publisher, and $1.00 is the price. It is an invaluable help to pastors, Sunday School teachers and to all who really care for the Bible teaching on property and one's rightful attitude to property.

J. O. A.

GIVING THE KINGDOM A CHANCE.

In our attitude to the Church, are we giving the kingdom of God a fair chance? Are we giving our souls a fair chance? These are searching questions if personally applied. Unless we separate, set aside, a definite portion of our income, Iva C. Brown, in her little book on "Jesus' Teaching on the Use of Money," claims that we do not give our souls and the kingdom of God a fair chance. This separated portion, the tithe if you will, "gives the kingdom of God a chance. Without it, the claims are completely shut out of a man's life. The cry of the world; its sob and distress; the plea of want and poverty; the hopelessness of heathenism—all these we never hear, shut in as we are in our comfortable homes. It gives, second, the soul a chance. With all the howling appeals that are constantly made to a man to gratify his senses there is no chance for his soul to develop unless he treats with a sacred sense of honor the separated portion belonging to his silent Partner."

Great and wonderful things indeed would take place in the kingdom of God on earth if even the Church members would obey the law of the tithe and give God the portion He rightfully claims.

Roger Babson, the economist and business statistician, gives us these figures to think on. "Let us think for a moment what would happen if every Church member in the United States should actually do as the Bible suggests and set aside one-tenth of his income for God. There are 40,- 000,000 members in our Christian Churches, with about $40,000,000,000 total annual income. Calculate the tremendous summed up in one-tenth of that amount, $4,000,000,000 annually. Spent honestly and wisely, such a sum would furnish sufficient money in a few years to teach every living soul the principles of righteousness."

But we Church members—very, very, very many of us—will not give God the portion that lawfully and righteously belongs to Him, and thus our own souls are impoverished and the kingdom of God has to lag and to beg. J. O. A.

THESE TWAIN.

The writer is the honored possessor of a volume entitled "These Twain." Dr. J. O. Atkinson conceived the idea of the book and secured the co-operation in its production of three eminent men of our Church—Col. E. E. Holland, former congressman and banker; Dr. W. W. Staley, minister, and Mr. W. E. MacClenny, historian of the Church.

These four each wrote a chapter of "These Twain," portraying the life and deeds of two of the finest personalities of our Christian Church—Deacon Willis J. Lee, deceased, and Mrs. Lee, now happily among us in the sunset period of a gracious and devout life. The book is not for sale, but for the intimate friends and admirers of these two consecrated leaders of our day.

The first public offering for Elon College was received at the Berea (Nansemond) Christian Church, of which "these twain" were members, and to it they gave $250, nearly half the entire offering. Brother Lee was a trustee of the college till his decease, and never turned a deaf ear to any of its appeals, whether of time, influence, or means. Without children of their own, these two friends educated several families at their college, but modesty permitted no announcement of their good works. Just a few weeks before his translation, Brother Lee subscribed $5,000 to the standardization fund, then in the raising, and Mrs. Lee paid it even before it was due, an instance which but suggests how "these twain" conjointly and unitedly conducted their kingdom service.

Dr. Atkinson and his co-contributors to the volume have honored themselves in doing honor to these good friends. A host would gladly have joined them in this service of appreciation and love, and a host will now join in a united chorus of approval for what they have done.

Only eternity can rightly and adequately evaluate the contribution to humanity and to the kingdom of two such consecrated lives as are portrayed for us in "These Twain." Life is richer by their service, and heaven will be sweeter by their presence there.

W. A. H.

A LAND OF HOMES AND FLOWERS.

THE SUN'S Editor does not know as much about Australia as he should. Maybe it was on this account that following from the pen of John L. Brandt, Melbourne, Australia, appearing in The Christian Evangelist (Disciples) interested him so much and induced him to pass it on to SUN readers, believing they, too, would greatly enjoy it.

"Australia, in area as large as the United States, has only about six million people, and the majority of these live in six cities. The two largest cities are Sydney with 1,200,000 inhabitants and Melbourne with fully 1,000,000.

"Melbourne is the most up-to-date city and in many respects second to none in the world. Her streets are as broad as those of Salt Lake City and as wide as Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C. The city is more American than English. The streets are well made and mostly of American pattern; the houses are quite modern and mostly of American architecture; her electric plants and devices are mostly of the American type; her automobiles are from all the makes of the world but more from America than from all the rest of the world; sorry to say the cost is fully twice as much as in the United States.

"I have been pretty much all over Melbourne which is a city of homes. I have seen no slum or poverty district. Every home has beautiful lawn with flowers of many varieties arranged in most artistic designs and beds. Flowers everywhere: on the lawn, in the garden, suspended from the windows, on the tables, and then for sale on the streets and in the shops, and at the markets. Surely people so fond of flowers must have great good in their hearts. Wages are regulated by law and are on a living scale. Most people own their own homes. Many of these are built by banks that grant a long period of time for payment and at a low rate of interest; workmen have taken advantage of this privilege, and it is helping not only to build homes but character and to give stability to the citizenship. They still have some saloons, called "bars," many of them served by bar maids. Occasionally a drunken man may be seen on the streets. A most strenuous fight is being waged for prohibition. Already they close the saloons on Sunday and at six o'clock every day. American influence is being cited as an example in favor of prohibition that is sure to come sooner or later in Australia. Our calls to address temperance meetings are more than we can answer.

"No trams run Sunday forenoons. The tram is the American street car. This makes the business district as silent as a graveyard. It is hard on the down town churches. It is helpful in the residential districts, and as a result the Christian Church has 65 organizations in Melbourne and suburbs, with about 40 preachers, thus making it the banner city of the world for churches of Christ. The churches are well attended, especially at night when the trams are running. The people are courteous, respectful and most hospitable. On the streets they keep to the left. In order to be right you must keep to the left, or in other words go wrong to be right. There is much wealth here, and after all "Uncle Bim" is not so much of an artificial character as you might imagine.

"Melbourne is located at the head of the Port Phillip Bay. The largest ocean vessels and heaviest draft war ships come right up to the city. Where the bay is entered from the ocean it is only three miles across. The drive around the bay is more than 100 miles and is one of the finest in the world, surpassing any drive of the kind in America or Europe. Along with the saloon is another stain on the garments of Australia and that is the race course with betting and consequent loss of much hard earned money by the laboring people. There is a race somewhere everyday. The people are fond of sports and outdoor life and the afternoon tea. The city is remarkably free from the flapper sort. No painted faces or lips are seen here for none are needed, as the outdoor life and the climate make rosy cheeks and a healthy people; the most healthy in the world.

"I attended the annual fair at Melbourne. In machinery it was not quite up to America, in apples behind America, but in oranges both sweeter and cheaper than in America; in cattle the equal of America; in sheep far ahead of America, for Australia leads the world both in number and quality of sheep and the amount and quality of wool; vegetables more abundant and cheaper than in America. This may be on account of the much sunshine and quality of the soil.

"Everywhere the people are interested in getting on in the world and in a most substantial way. They excel the Japanese in desire to learn how to do things and it is amazing to see the number who travel abroad to find new ideas and bring them back to introduce to the folks at home. They have copied the American "cash and carry" grocery, the cafeteria style of restaurant, the electric vacuum sweepers and the like. I think the churches could take on more of the American ways to some profit, and on the other hand the American churches could be helped if they could acquire the reverence in the house of God and spiritual character of the Christian in Australia.

"We shall never forget the kindness and hospitality with which we were greeted at Sidney and Melbourne. We did not feel like strangers in a strange land; they are our brethren, speak our language, sing our hymns, preach the same gospel, love the same Lord and were redeemed by the same Saviour. It was one reception and welcome after another both at Sidney and Melbourne, with requests to respond and preach and bring messages from over the sea.

"Surely the Lord has a great people here. They are fully awake to the necessity of joining heart and soul with the Anglo-Saxon peoples in preaching of the unsearchable riches of Christ to the unsaved world. They are indebted to the many American preachers of former years who came here to introduce the doctrines of Christ and lay broad and deep a sure foundation on which to build for the future faith of the people of the great commonwealth. I recently met with some 40 preachers on a picnic and I am constrained to say that they impressed me as being men of God with high ideals and intelligence, conversation, and conduct worthy of their high calling in Christ Jesus. All of them are worthy of mention but space forbids.

"More later on. Brethren pray for us."

HAVING TO GIVE.

That was a very plain-spoken message which Paul gave to the Ephesians when he said, "Let him that stole, steal no more; but let him rather labor, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to give to him that needeth."

Misappropriation among pagans is bad enough, but when we face a situation in the Church today which proclaims the fact that funds which should be regarded as a trust are misappropriated and used for selfish ends, it makes us to feel that pagan ideas in regard to property are still in operation, even among the people of God, and this is even worse.

Having to give is the Christian way. Having to hold or to hoard or to use for self is the pagan way. Something must take place among the people of God to get these trust funds to be regarded as such and to get them released under the Lord's direction, as to manner and measure.

Here is the real problem before the Church of God today. Its solution will mean a revival with Pentecostal proportions, bringing into exercise the great and vital principle of Christian stewardship. This would put the Christians of today with those in the Pentecostal days, of whom it is written, "None of them said that ought of the things which he possessed was his own, but had all things common, and sold their possessions and goods and parted them to all men as every man had need."

It is evident that these early Christians were tithers before Pentecost, for at this time the tithing system was fully established. At any rate, as has been said, "The divine method of developing a race of stewards has been to start with the separated portion and work toward the consecrated whole, to begin with law and to work toward love." When once we have attained to the minimum standard of scriptural giving, no matter by what route we have come, we should be impelled to hold the ground we have gained and advance as we are able by the higher motives of grace, strengthened by the considerations involved in a complete gospel and the special stewardship teaching of Pentecost. And some wavering souls, not yet fully persuaded in their own minds, may be induced to quicken their pace to the first goal by these latter considerations.

It is one thing to have something to give; it is another thing to have the grace of giving. Paul, who exhorts the Ephesians to labor, that they might have something to give, commends to the Corinthians the example of the Macedonian Churches, in the riches of their liberality because of the grace of God bestowed upon them. And this was made possible because they first gave themselves unto the Lord.

Experience leads to expression. These are the two sides of the Christian life, and when we try to get expression when experience and vision are lacking, we face an embarrassing situation. Our people are too largely failing to meet the tests of the Christian life. To be a real Christian is to be Christ-like.

That was a timely rebuke coming from Ghandi, the spokesman for India, although not professing to be a Christian, when asked for a suggestion as to how to get Christianity naturalized in India, said: "I would suggest, first of all, that all of you Christians, missionaries and all, begin to live more like Jesus Christ." What a challenge to the Christian Church! In the second place, he says: "You must practice your religion without adulterating it or toning it down." Think of this statement from a non-Christian that the gospel be given to his people in a rugged simplicity and not in a toned-down form

But what are we doing? As E. Stanley Jones, in "Christ of the Indian Road," says, "Vast areas of the Christian world are inoculated with a mild form of Christianity, and the real thing seems impossible." As some one puts it, "Our Churches are made up with people who would be equally shocked to see Christianity doubted or put into practice." But Christianity must be practiced in a larger way if the Church is to fulfill her mission in the world.

To continue to live self-centered is to bring defeat to the cause we profess to love, and the moment we cease to share with others, for His sake, where there is seemingly no return or recompense to ourselves we cease to be Christian. This test must be met in the abounding Christian life. We should give our people an opportunity of meeting this test, with a growing probability of meeting it because of their deepened sense of the claims of Christ and of their devotion and loyalty to Him. Let them be led to see God's way with them and what they have in their possession.

Something must be done to stem the tide of worldliness, materialism and lack of concern for the cause of Christ. And as a help to this and as a means of promoting spirituality I think the time has come when we, as a Conference and as a Church, should openly and unitedly espouse the financial system which has been owned and blessed of God through the ages, emphasizing not its legal, but its devotional aspect, not so much as a matter of law, but of love and to prove the sin-

(Continued on Page 9.)

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The gravitation of this age is pulling education from the head to the feet. Schools are becoming obsessed with games instead of study. Athletics occupy the public thought more than theses and orations. The bulletins from colleges and universities have more to say about sports than degrees. Millions of money is spent and millions of people attend the football games. If you travel on trains you will hear ten men talking and see them reading about the latest football game to one reading or talking about education in the higher sense. The feet get more attention than the head. Greece lost her intellectual supremacy through the stadium and the Isthmian games, and her intellectual supremacy once lost was gone forever. The gladiators of Rome did not maintain the power of Rome. The giant of Gath went down under the stone cast from a sling by a country boy whose training was gained in the field by attending his father's sheep. Too much money is spent and too much time is wasted in athletics under the guise of training for health. Athletes are among the shortest lived men. There will come a reaction in the field of education in regard to games. It has gone so far as to lead many to speak of the game of life, and even of religion.

There are three departments of education—one for the body, one for the mind, and one for the spirit. The best education for the body, which is the best development of the body, is honest work. No exercise is so wholesome and so much enjoyed as tasks well performed. The best school for the body is the field. There is education as well as physical culture in real work. It makes little difference whether work is among flowers, grainfields, logwoods, or attending to cattle and sheep. This schoolhouse is as large as the world, and character-building as well. Ruth found her place gleaning in the field of Boaz, became the mother of Obed, the grandmother of Jesse, and the great-grandmother of David. That wheatfield was no basket-ball court.

The schoolroom is the place for mental development, refinement, and culture. Study of good books and great subjects is all the mental gymnastics needed to make men who can fill the places of high service among men. No sane man would object to tennis, ball games, and other innocent exercises for recreation and even pleasure; but it is equally true that sane people recognize excess in sports equal to intemperance in eating, drinking, or in other good things. In fact, sin is the abuse of that which is good. The mind cannot be trained for the best when the body indulges in the worst.

The spirit of man needs development as well as the body and the mind. Religion is study for the soul. It cannot be developed by intellectual processes alone. It must be developed by spiritual existence in doing the will of God. Worship is the exercise and the Church is the schoolhouse of the soul. The great teacher is Jesus Christ. "Learn of me" was the lesson He gave to mankind. All arithmetic is involved in the ability to count; and all religious development is involved in the capacity to really worship God in spirit and in truth. Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve. A properly developed man is a trained body, a trained mind, and a trained soul. They talk about a balanced ration! a balanced life is the best of all; and the process is work for the body, study for the mind, and worship for the soul.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

One of the most important committees of our Board of Christian Education is that having to do with the curriculum. This committee reported to the General Board in its recent session the following, all of which were unanimously approved:

"We appreciate the fine spirit of co-operation exemplified by the Christian Publishing Association in giving us group graded lessons for the primary and junior departments. We recommend the extension upward of these group graded lessons into the intermediate and senior departments as our next objective for improving our literature.

"For years to come in most of our Churches, we recognize that there will be a need for the uniform lessons for young people and adults, but increasingly there will be demand for elective courses in leadership training, missions, stewardship, evangelism and social service in our schools. We recommend that our secretaries promote these wherever this is a felt need, ordering the books through the Christian Publishing Association.

"We have for four years consistently recommended the promotion of the syndicated closely graded lessons by the Christian Publishing Association. These lessons are carried in stock by the United Brethren Publishing House. They propose to give us a commission of 16 2-3 per cent on orders they can fill from stock, and of 10 per cent on other orders for this literature. We, therefore, recommend that the Christian Publishing Association advertise this closely graded literature and furnish it to those schools not specifying another kind in their orders.

"We note with hearty approval the steady improvement of our literature and rejoice in it. We frankly admit that it has not as yet attained the ideal we entertain for it. We know that experience is the best curriculum as well as the best schoolmaster. The old theologians were close to the base of things when they insisted on a vital spiritual experience. Our literature is showing signs of the proper appreciation of this need, and life-situations are being introduced in our treatment of the lesson materials. Ere long we shall determine the materials we embody in the curriculum by the pupil-experience of those to be taught, and not vice versa as now.

"We are particularly glad that the integration of our Church year with the lesson materials continues to go forward. A completely integrated curriculum is many years ahead, but we are traveling in the right direction and should never lose sight of our ultimate goal—a unified group instructed in the ways of the Lord and in methods of promoting His kingdom through an integrated program of instruction based on the group experiences.

"For the quarterly review lessons, uniform series, for the calendar year 1927-1928, we recommend the following:

"1927—Second quarter, 'Christian Character and Church Membership'; third quarter, 'The Liberty of Conscience and the Use of God's Word'; fourth quarter, 'Vital Piety in the Christian Program.'

"1928—First quarter, 'Recruiting for the Kingdom'; second quarter, 'Education for Christian Life and Service'; third quarter, 'The Christian and His Money'; fourth quarter, 'The Stewardship of Life.'

"We also recommend that Dr. S. Q. Helfenstein be requested to select the Scripture passages and golden texts for these themes."

W. A. HARPER.

FANCY GAP.

I have been in Carroll County on the mountain missions for two weeks. The work seems to be moving fairly well, considering that they had not had a pastor since midsummer. Our school has been going on for two weeks, with twenty-four enrolled and others yet to come.

I have found all the people very friendly. They want the work to prosper, and I am sure that any of them will be willing helpers. We are beginning to think about Christmas. Many of the children are wondering if old Santa Claus will come along this year. So, dear folks, send your gifts along early and avoid the rush.

We need books, school books, such as are used in the Virginia State schools. Second-handed ones will do. So, if you have any not in use, please send them along up to and including the seventh grade.

We need a reading-room. It is impossible for me to visit the people because of my school work, so I want the people to visit me. Please send me subscriptions for the various leading papers, so that I may have the papers for the people to read or that I may read to them.

Pray for the work and the workers. Bro. and Sister Bray are doing a good work at the Rocky Ford Church and school. We all need your prayers as well as other aid.

Yours in Jesus' name,
J. A. LEDBETTER, Pastor.

WEBSTER COMMUNITY CHURCH.

The congregation of the Webster Church were glad to have their minister, Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe in his regular place on Sunday last after having spent such a pleasant time in Virginia the week before, and all hope he will still continue to love Maryland better than Virginia; but he certainly was delighted with the Southern hospitality that he and his family received.

They all appreciated having Mr. Taylor from Dover with us the Sunday Mr. Sutcliffe was absent. We are always glad to have our Dover Friends to be with us, as we look upon them as our parent Church.

The ladies held their usual bazaar and supper on Thursday and Friday evenings, November 18th and 19th, and it proved a great success. The regular Thanksgiving service was held at 10 A. M., with special music by the choir and a splendid sermon by the pastor; the fruits and things that were received were sent to our associate pastor, Rev. Richard Sutcliffe.

We held our regular Church social on Thanksgiving evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Corley, it being their wedding anniversary, and it was given as a surprise to them. We are now planning for our Christmas program.

HARRIET E. CORLEY.

WESTERN N. C. CONFERENCE.

These are some impressions of the fifty-sixth annual meeting of the Western North Carolina Christian Conference.

It was good to be there. It was seen and felt that it is a deeply spiritual body, and in earnest about the Lord's work. But one could not escape the impression that it is not widely enough awake, after hearing the speech of Dr. Atkinson, and this prayer from the heart is prompted: "O Lord, for the sake of the multitudes of unregenerate people in this and other lands, we implore Thee to awaken and to arouse this body of Thy believing servants to a full realization of their individual and collective duty and responsibility to Thee, to the Church, and to the unregenerated; and may they be filled with the Holy Spirit and be guided and directed by Him in all their praying, and their study of Thy Word, and in all their preaching, and in all the work that Thou wouldst have them to do. And, O Lord, give them a passion for souls, and cause them to feel heavily the burden of souls. We ask it all in the name of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen."

We were impressed that we should be thankful to our Heavenly Father for the gift of such an unselfish and faithful teacher and leader as Dr. J. O. Atkinson. God bless him! The love of God is in his heart. The burden of souls rests so heavily on his heart that but for the grace of God his loving heart would break. Brethren, we cannot longer afford to neglect the cause of missions, with such an example as Dr. Atkinson, whom God has set before us. And, above all, we cannot longer afford to neglect the command and the great commission of our Lord and Master to go into all the world and preach the gospel.

With such an example as Dr. Atkinson, and with the command of Jesus Christ who shed His own precious blood for us and has given us everlasting life, how can we neglect to make every Sunday that we have preaching a missionary day? It can be done without any interference with any of the other Church services. This suggestion is made for your prayerful consideration: Let every Christian Church select a faithful member for "missionary secretary," and then let every Church member who will go to this missionary secretary on every preaching day and hand in a missionary offering; and then let this missionary secretary forward, monthly or quarterly, to Dr. Atkinson the amounts so received. Would we be doing the will of God to do this? Why doubts that we would? Let us not forget this.

We were impressed by the cheerful patience with which Dr. G. O. Lankford presided over the Conference and performed every duty. It was easily seen from whence he got his strength and patience. His heart is filled with love for God and His cause, and filled with love for his brethren. God grant that Dr. Lankford, with his wise leadership and loving counsel, may be spared to us, if our Lord delay His coming, many years to preside over our Conferences. And we were also impressed by the faithfulness and efficiency of our secretary, Bro. J. H. Harden, and all the other officers and committees of the Conference.

Being at this Conference is one of the great events in the life of this writer. The Christian fellowship was not demonstrative, but it was so genuinely Christian that it was so much felt and so highly appreciated that the writer never before in all his life fell so much in love with a body of men whom he had never before met. Brethren, I love you all. And we would not forget to mention how greatly we were impressed by the royal and princely hospitality of Pleasant Grove Church in entertaining the Conference.

Yours in Christ, awaiting His return, or awaiting His call,

M. EUGENE STREET.

ROSEMONT CHURCH.

A series of evangelistic meetings were held in the Rosemont Christian Church November 7th to 21st. The services were conducted by the Rev. J. G. Truitt, assisted by the pastor. Bro. Truitt did the preaching in a most fascinating and helpful manner, that won the hearts of the people of the community, all of whom will be glad to have him visit this village at any time.

There were twenty-seven additions to the Church, most all of whom were on profession of faith, and our Thanksgiving was even more glorious because of this good season of grace among us.

The work in this Church is progressing nicely.

There were 207 in Sunday School last Sunday morning. Forty were in the men's Bible class. The junior department of the Sunday School is doing a wonderful work under the direction of Superintendent Mrs. J. F. Morgan, while the whole school is going forward under the faithful direction of General Superintendent H. R. Morrison.

These are a lovely people to serve, and one of the unique features is that no money-making affairs are held; the Church is supported only by the straightout giving of money into the Lord's treasury. The Church now has full-time preaching, and has had since the first of the Conference year. Union Thanksgiving services were held in the Church on November 25th, and preparation is now being made for appropriate celebration of the birth of Christ at Christmas time.

J. F. MORGAN.

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.

Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The Illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4-7-8x 7 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

India Paper Edition, Size 4-7-8x7 Inches, 11-10 Inches Thick.

2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00

Bourgeois Type, Size 5-3-8x8 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.

2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50

India Paper Edition, Only 1-1-8 Inches Thick.

2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$9.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3/8 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3/8 Inches, and

1 Inch Thick.

red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools.....$36

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold.....$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75

Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, briefer, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Briefer Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5-3-8x 8 1-2 Inches and 13-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address THE CHRISTIAN SUN 1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

TITHERS' ENROLLMENT DAY.

Rev. L. E. Lovejoy, D. D., is president of the United Stewardship Council of the Churches of Christ in America. He is the author of "Stewardship for all of Life," and is the stewardship secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He gives his reasons for believing in and practicing tithing. As December 12th, or some Sunday near that date, is our day set apart by the General Convention for the enrollment of tithers in the Christian Church, it would be well for our pastors and stewardship secretaries to make known such clear, weighty reasons for becoming tithers. He says:

"I believe in Christian stewardship, because I regard it as a foundation principle of the Christian faith. Only as I embrace it with my whole heart can I adequately fulfill the 'royal law,' which demands that I love God with all my powers and my neighbor as myself. I believe that I ought systematically to offer to God's service one-tenth of my income, not from any superstitious fear, nor because it was a Jewish law, nor from any hope of material reward, nor because I am persuaded that this is the last work in methods of beneficence. Should providence seem at any time to indicate a better method or a different proportion, I should, without hesitancy, abandon this for that. I offer the tenth for these reasons:

Twelve Reasons.

"1. It has been deliberately recommended as the standard of Christian giving in the Church of which I am a member. I cannot believe that this would have been done without adequate and convincing reasons.

"2. It is a mode in constant use in Scripture history, is honored from beginning to end of the Old Testament, receives the unqualified even if incidental commendation of Christ, and brings upon itself no word or intimation of disapproval.

"3. It has been commended and urged by the prophetic voices of the Church throughout the Christian centuries.

"4. It seems to be rapidly gaining in favor with devout, enlightened, and educated disciples.

"5. It is systematic, business-like, and modern in its application, and has been repeatedly proved productive of material benefit through wiser methods of personal and domestic economy and a better ordering of finance.

"6. It is, on the whole, more equitable in the distribution of the burdens of kingdom support than any plan I have ever known, presenting far fewer inequalities than any conceivable plan of haphazard, voluntary, or apportioned giving.

"7. It is not more burdensome than I can well endure, in this age and land of opportunity and plenty, if I give due regard to a reasonable balance in my personal expenditures.

"8. It is urgently needed to meet the present and prospective demands of kingdom promotion and support, as nothing less than this proportion from each disciple will suffice for the providential program of the present age.

"9. It is apparently adequate, if offered in like proportion by all Christ's followers, to meet every demand for kingdom enterprise as at present expressed or contemplated.

"10. It is a practice which yields me constant satisfaction, contentment, and spiritual joy, and relieves me of the embarrassment, discomforts, and inconveniences of occasional or spasmodic giving.

"11. It is a method which seems everywhere to have brought new courage, moral prosperity, and spiritual life to such individuals and Churches as have adopted it, and to give promise of a more perfect unity, wider fraternity, and more intelligent piety among Christians of every denomination.

"12. It is altogether the best method of Church finance which I have been able to discover, and is, therefore, accepted, without question, as God's present plan for me."

We sincerely hope that the enrollment day for tithers in your Church may be one of the days of mountain-top experiences.

PREPARING LEADERS FOR THE FUTURE.

By HERMON ELDREDGE.

The greatest single problem which confronts any undertaking is the question of leadership. It is a fatal mistake to believe that we live in a world of unwilling folks or that the ideals of people are intentionally low. We are rather living in a world in which a vast majority believe, at least, that they are in the right and that their ideals are right, and they are willing, when it comes to the limit, to fight for these ideals even to the sacrificing of their lives.

These ideals came from great leaders, and the shadow of these outstanding men of thought and action has shaped the day and the way for millions. Millions think and believe as Confucius thought over two thousand years ago, and they are as consistent in their belief as you or I are in ours. You may insist that they are wrong, but they believe. Then, your thought and mine of liberty and freedom are largely echoing thoughts of great leaders from Washington down to us. Some leader arises and the mass follows as it believes. We still quote Washington, Jefferson and Hamilton for our authority.

It is the business of the church to create leaders who will know and follow the truth. And in so doing they will carry others with them on this quest for righteousness and into the conquest of the evils of spiritual illiteracy and moral, or immoral, complacency.

Christian Education.

Christian Education does not major on books or school houses, but on life. It uses books and schools and social relations and a hundred other means to the end in view which is vital Christian character.

Leaders are needed, even demanded, in this field, if we are to go forward. The finest program and the greatest vision will fail and fall to earth like a spent sky-rocket, if there is not more than program and vision to it. Leaders there must be who will first live the life before their followers and inspire them with the worth-while-ness of such a life. If we would preach a better sermon or teach a better lesson, the first step is to be a better man, for that which we are is a more powerful preacher and teacher and leader than that which we say.

The Way of Life.

But if we would live and teach others to live, we must know the way of life. This has been brought to us supremely by Him who was the Way and the Truth and the Life. We need first and foremost and finally a knowledge of his life and a spiritual fellowship of sacrificial service which comes from a working companionship with Christ. We need to know God when we meet Him in His world.

"In the rustling grass I see him pass,
This is my Father's world."

We need to know Him in His word and in the "Word made flesh" who came and lived and died and lived again that we might live the eternal life with Him here and always.

The Laws of Life.

But God has put into His world the laws of life, and we are poor and undone if we do not seek them. We find them in God's word. We find them in the study of the mind which God made and maintains according to law. We find them in the Master Teacher and in the laws which are for all teachers. If we will not apply ourselves to the study of these laws of God, we will be poor leaders indeed, knowing not the way to take and being what Christ calls "blind leaders of the blind."

Real Christian Education.

Real Christian Education is the foundation and background of all our efforts to win the childhood and youth of the world to God and to establish His Kingdom on earth. We must burn into the minds and hearts of our youth the fires of evangelism and a missionary passion which will begin where they are and not end until the "utmost parts of the earth" is a very part of their living and giving of self, service and substance. The very life of the church of tomorrow is wrapped up in this. The Kingdom of God waits on the day when the church will awake to the truth that one generation of children and youth won for Christ and trained in his service will bring in the promised day of God.

The Method.

The young people are singing a catchy song which is full of truth, in which there is a couplet which sings:

"When the churches get together
What a great day 'twill be";

and we are really beginning to catch and to enter upon that day of vision, when thirty-six denominations in the International Council of Religious Education are planning and studying and working and moving together to win and to train the childhood of our generation for citizenship in the Kingdom of God on earth.

Our beloved Christian Church is one of those thirty-six churches and we are working hand in hand and heart to heart to make our dreams come true in the lives of those who are to lead and those who are to follow and then lead in this great crusade of the Kingdom.

We Begin at Home.

That program of training our leaders which we have planned in conference with thirty-five other Churches we take first to our home Churches, to our parents and teachers and prospective leaders in our work, and in little groups with the best leadership we can secure we enter upon the International Course, which is become a standard in the United States and Canada, and shaped by the best-trained and devout leaders of Christian education which can be gathered together.

These lessons and courses are within the reach of the average person whom the Church may select for leadership. Information regarding them can be secured from our Department of Christian Education, C. P. A. Building, Dayton, Ohio. The services of this department to your school or group is free, including outline of courses, examinations, credits and diplomas on the International grade. These credits and grades are interchangeable among the leading denominations of the United States and Canada, and can be continued anywhere in America.

The Community.

In many places it has been seen to be wise to establish a community class among the Churches of the community instead of each individual Church having its own class. Such a class has the enthusiasm which comes from a larger group, and also a wider choice in leadership among the Churches. The same courses are given as in the local schools.

The Leadership Institute.

In some Churches a leader of a class is brought in for intensive work in which the group meets every night for a week or ten days and completes a unit of ten lessons with credit. This is a fine plan and should be extended.

The Summer Schools.

In our summer schools these courses are now offered, and beginning next year every one of our nine summer schools will offer these International Credit courses through our Church. A large number took these courses this year in Palmer, Defiance, Oshawa, Craigville and Elon, and more will take them next year. These credits are added on those taken locally and accredited on the work toward final diploma, which consists of twelve credit courses.

In Our Colleges.

Both Elon and Defiance Colleges have introduced these credit courses into their regular work in religious education, and one hundred and fifty-five credits have been issued to students in these colleges by our Department of Christian Education. We confidently expect that our other colleges will take up this work next year and thus tie up our training work from our home Church to all our Christian colleges. This will be a long step forward, and will mean much to our people. Courses may begin in the local Church, community, summer schools or colleges, and credits be given which will accumulate until the diploma is earned.

Standard Training Course.

At present, only the standard training course is offered, but there will be issued (and the Churches affiliated are now working on it) a course for young people of high school grade, and later a course of graduate grade.

The standard course includes twelve units of study, of ten lessons each. Six of these units are required and six are elective. Four must be along the line of specialization work, such as primary or junior or young people's work, or whatever you may elect or are working in. The books which go with these courses are paper-covered ones for the general units at 25 cents each, and cloth-covered ones for the specialization courses at 70 cents each. There is no expense for the service outside the cost of the books.

For a better understanding of the course, the following is a list of the books:

Required (six units):

1. A Study of the Pupil.
2. The Principles of Teaching.
3. The Old Testament.
4. The New Testament.
5. The Message and Program of the Christian Religion.
6. The Teaching Work of the Church.

Elective (two extra courses to be taken from an approved list of twenty or more. List sent on application).

Specialization (to be taken in the line in which your interest and work centers, such as children's or young people's, or adult work, etc.). Four units on the study of plans and principles and materials and methods and administration in these departments of work. List sent on application to Department of Christian Education, C. P. A. Building, Dayton, Ohio.

If you are willing to plan for this in your local Church or community, or in any department of the Church, we are willing and ready and anxious to help you in any way possible by enrolling your class, giving them information, examinations, credits, recognition seals and final diplomas. All we need to know is your interest and your cooperation.

HAVING TO GIVE.
(Continued from Page 5.)

cerity thereof. But with emphasis on this teaching that the tithe out of all the first fruits of the increase of his people is to be set aside for the support of His cause, and that this as the minimum amount which He has anywhere sanctioned for His people to give.

This matter should be presented with as much definiteness and emphasis as repentance and consecration, for it has its vital place in the Christian system and is essential to the maintaining of the deepest devotion and allegiance to Christ.

When more of our Church leaders come to feel as one of our Conference presidents expressed himself not long ago, we may look for greater fruitfulness along this line. He says, "I have no hope—absolutely no hope—for our Church unless we, like the Moravian brethren, become a tithing Church. And again, when we endorse a recent statement, made by our good editor of THE CHRISTIAN SUN, and come to feel this way about it, then we may look for our Church to take a forward step not only in giving, but in spirituality. Said he, speaking of tithing: "It is God's will and the Bible teaches it as sure as there is a Bible and as sure as the will of God is revealed therein, and we will never properly finance the kingdom of God on earth until we do according to God's will, and His will is that the tithing of the first fruits of all the increase shall be consecrated to the support and the enlargement of his kingdom in the world."

Now, if our editor has become a heretic, and is not teaching sound doctrine, then I think we should deal with him and ask him to desist, but if he has said the truth and we believe he has, then, according to the Word of God, we can never do the will of God until we become tithers. We may become tithers without being stewards, in the highest sense, but we will not likely reach the highest until we are willing to do the lowest.

I feel that, in great part, the responsibility for this happy state and the creating of this spiritual atmosphere which prompts to this biblical and larger giving, rests with the ministry, for the promise is in the gospel of Jesus Christ, preached by the power of the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven.

Men and women need to experience the saving power of Jesus Christ, leading to fellowship with Him, and a desire to share with Him in the winning of souls from death and the promoting the cause of His kingdom in the world.

It is out of this experience and desire that we are to look for the motive for the enlarged, continued and joyous giving which His cause and claims demand. And this motive and an open mind will be prophetic of a happy acquiescence in the plan of God for our lives and service.

W. D. HARWARD.

WADLEY, ALA.

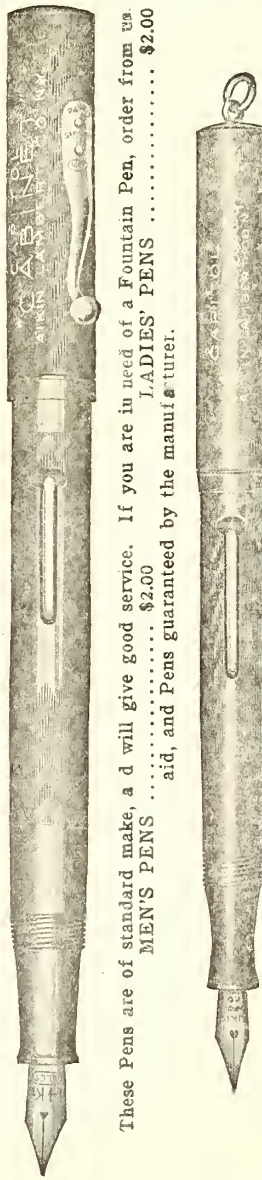

Dear Readers of THE SUN:

We are now in a new Conference year, and we are hoping that a great year's work will be done. The two Conferences here were good, and greater work was planned for the future. Both Conferences adopted the Convention's plan on finance. We hope it will work well. The Georgia and Alabama Conference was moved up two weeks on account of conflicting with the General Board of the General Convention. It will meet at Enigma, Ga., on Tuesday evening after the first Sunday in October, 1927.

The slump in cotton prices has affected every thing in this section. It has hindered us in our work on the college and collections are hard to make. We are still working and doing the best we can. We had a trustees' meeting on November 28th, and we are starting out in search of twenty men to give us $500 each to meet some debts that are due and to aid in the new building. Is there not some who read this that would like to be one of the twenty to help to put this over? Several have already pledged $500, and we are looking out for the others. If we can do this, and we can, we can go ahead with our building program and ease everything. If any who read this cannot give $500, we will thankfully receive any amount you can give. The school is doing fine, and no one can tell the good it is doing. Come over and help us. Don't let us fail.

H. W. ELDER.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us
MEN'S PENS $2.00
LADIES' PENS $2.00
 aid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
 1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Lesson XII—December 19, 1926.

SAMUEL THE JUST JUDGE.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Direct your hearts unto Jehovah, and serve Him only."—1 Sam. 7:3.

LESSON: 1 Sam. chs. 7 & 12.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psa. 46:1-7.

The way of the transgressor is hard. Israel had not followed after Jehovah. Instead, she had given herself over to the worship of Baalim and Ashtaroth, gods and goddesses of the Canaanites, and she was beginning to reap what she had sown. The Philistines had defeated her on several occasions, the ark of God had been taken as spoils of war, and as the daughter of Phineas had said, "the glory is departed from Israel." It is always thus. When men and women forsake the way of the Lord and worship false gods—and we have false gods today as Israel had them in her day—they fall upon evil times. The way of the transgressor is hard.

But the way of the transgressor is not hopeless. That is, if the transgressor turn from his evil ways unto Jehovah. If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all iniquities. Samuel knew this. Hence he called the people to a national repentance. "If ye do return unto Jehovah with all your heart—it was not to be simply a hand-shake, but a heart-shake—then, put away the foreign gods from among you, and direct your hearts unto Jehovah and serve Him only." If you will do this, then "He will deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines." Let the wicked forsake his way and let him return unto God, and God will have mercy. "The children of Israel did put away the Baalim and the Ashataroth and served Jehovah only." Choose ye this day whom ye will serve, and be careful how ye choose.

The Philistines came up to Mizpah against the Israelites, expecting some more "easy picking." It would seem, too, that they were going to get it, for the children of Israel were afraid of the Philistines. They turned in desperation to Samuel and asked him to pray for them. How human they were! Like many people today, they prayed as a rule only when they were in trouble. They and we need to learn the lesson that prayer is something more than casualty insurance; it is a means of communion with God.

"And Samuel cried unto the Lord for Israel." Happy is that man or nation who has a godly man praying in his or its behalf. The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. It is significant, however, to observe that the Israelites fought at the same time that Samuel was praying. "Fear or trust God, and keep your powder dry," as a leader of the early Revolutionary troops said, is good advice.

"But Jehovah thundered with a great thunder on that day upon the Philistines, and discomfited them; and they were smitten down before Israel." Even the elements are on the side of those who fight the Lord's battles. If prayer means anything, it means that the natural forces are ultimately subject to spiritual control for spiritual ends. In spite of modern scientific theories, so-called, prayer does accomplish things.

"Then Samuel took a stone and set it between Mizpah and Shen, and called the name of it Ebenezer, saying, Hitherto hath Jehovah helped us." Ebenezer, why that was the very spot where the Philistines had defeated the Israelites on a former occasion. It is a parable of life. The man who takes God into his life wins some of his greatest victories in the very place which used to mark his defeats. Thanks be unto God who giveth us the victory. I admire the man who goes back to the place where he was defeated and wins his victory there.

"Hitherto hath Jehovah helped us." They are the words of a man long ago, but they express our own sentiments. And they express them for us as they expressed them for Samuel and his people in spite of the fact that in each case there have been defeats as well as victories. He works in wondrous ways His purposes to perform.

"And Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life." He went about from place to place, seeing that justice was done. By integrity of life and by pronouncement of lips, he made a contribution to the progress of the nation toward those high ideals which found fullest expression in the life and teachings of the Master Himself.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

December 19, 1926.

TOPIC: "How Can We Express the Christmas Spirit?"—Luke 2:1-20; Gal. 6:9, 10; 2 Cor. 8:9, 9:6-15.

SCRIPTURE REFERENCES: Isa. 61:1-7; Zech. 7:8-10; Psa. 43:1-5; Acts 11:27-30; Luke 6:27-36; Rom. 14:16-19.

Plans for the Meeting.

1. Decide on time and place for meeting to sing carols in the neighborhood. There is no sweeter service at Christmas time than singing Christmas carols at the homes of the community, especially where there are shut-ins.

2. Make this a real Christmas service when college students home for the vacation will be present, and others because they have been invited. Make the service as worshipful as possible, with a spirit of joy and gladness pervading.

3. What are you, as a society, doing for others for Christmas?

Opening Devotional Service.

Call to worship (by leader): For unto us a Son is born, unto us a Son is given; and the government shall be upon His shoulders: And His name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace.

Song: "Watchman, Tell Us of the Night."

Scripture: Luke 2:9-15, The Christmas Story.

Song: "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Prayer of thanksgiving and praise and adoration for the Christ who came to earth to live.

Story: "Why the Chimes Rang."

Song: "Silent Night, Holy Night."

Leader's Talk.

The spirit of Christmas is that of love for others. God's gift of His Son to the world stands unparalleled as an act of love and the spirit of giving. To many people, Christmas has lost its sacredness and has become a time of careless exchange of gifts and selfish indulgence.

Let us test ourselves by seeing how much kindness we can do to others this Christmas and how many hearts we may cheer. Let us not forget the people of other lands who do not celebrate Christmas or worship a loving Heavenly Father. Many people in America are co-operating in the Japanese doll friendship festival which is being promoted by the various missionary enterprises of the denominations. These dolls are dressed as real American babies and will be sent to Japan the first of December as messengers of friendship from this country.

1. White gifts for the King. Many Churches are getting away from the old Christmas tree service, where gifts were exchanged, and are making the Christmas spirit mean more by bringing gifts for others instead. These services are very beautiful, and the entire service is built up around the theme of love for others as service to the Master.

2. Joy and the Christmas season. Christmas should be a time of joy and gladness when we really feel the spirit of the song "Joy to the World," "As with Gladness, Men of Old," "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing." This joy should express itself in doing something for others—helping those in need, bringing comfort and joy to those whose lives are not so rich. We should give ourselves as well as our money. One must first feel the Christ-like spirit in order to express it to others. Christmas should be a time of reconsecration.

Now, He that once in a manger lay, still lives in the hearts of men;

The world is keeping His Christmas Day as the wise men kept it then.

Forever the heavens shall ring with song,

And ever the bells shall chime,

And this glorious day that has lived so long

Will live to the end of time.

—Edgar A. Guest.

Questions for the Meeting.

1. Why should God have given his only Son to the world?

2. Since God gave us His Son, what should Christians do to show their gratitude?

3. How should the individual express the Christmas spirit?

4. How may the Christmas be carried into all the year in the home? Church? Community?

5. What makes us happiest at Christmas?

Select Notes

By AMOS R. WELLS, Litt. D., L.L.D.

The World's Greatest Sunday School Commentary for 1927
We recommend it.

BECALUSE
Millions use it weekly for help, guidance and inspiration.
For fifty-two years, new friends have learned its value—old ones have considered it indispensable.

BECALUSE
Its wealth of material gives a solid foundation for the spiritual and inspirational interpretation of special themes.
It is complete with maps, bibliography, teaching methods and abundant illustrations.
$2.00 delivered.
At all bookstores.

W. A. WILDE COMPANY
131 Clarendon Street, Boston, Mas.

Peloubet's Select Notes, $2.00; Tarbell's Teachers' Guide, $2.00, and Snowdon's Outlines, $1.25, are the best helps for Sunday School lesson study. Order through THE CHRISTIAN SUN, 1536 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

STEPHEN, FIRST CHRISTIAN REFORMER.

(Acts 5:13-14.)

A Christian reformation of the Church is a return to the fountain-head—to the gospel of Christ, to God. It is safe to say that no reform was ever accomplished without opposition. Every step forward of Christianity has been attended with violent opposition. Here, in these pages of the New Testament, we find the name, the teaching, the trial, and death of the first Christian reformer and martyr. As you read and reread the Acts of the Apostles you say "Jesus Christ is the same forever." Then, why was it that a reform in the Christian Church became necessary so shortly after Christ gave the great commission? And, if necessary, why was it not done by the apostles? Why a Greek, foreign to the Hebrew language and race, utterly unknown to any of the four gospels? Why was a new ministry already wanted in the new-born Church? Because Christianity possessed such a degree of life and power of expansion the field had to be enlarged. Among the Church members of "those days," there were two very different populations. The first was the "Palestinian Jews," crowding around their temple, the fervent votaries of the law. To that class belonged the "twelve apostles" and "the first Christians." They all had become Christians without ceasing to be Jews. Their "views, tastes, habits, and education were strictly Hebrew."

But there were also other Jews born and bred out of Palestine much less accustomed to speak or write Hebrew than Greek. Their minds were more emancipated, their knowledge more extensive, their thought took a wider range; these were less foreign to the outward world than the genuine Jews who used to boast of their exclusiveness. By these, the so-called Grecian, or rather Hellenistic Jews were despised; and it was a common curse pronounced at that time and found in the teaching of the old rabbi: "Woe be to the father who teaches Greek to his child." There were "murmurs" among the members of that first Church. The Grecians accused the Hebrews of "neglecting their poor widows in the daily ministrations." Among seven deacons elected was Stephen, "a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost."

The seven did not limit their ministry to tables. They preached. Stephen soon became a leader. But, you ask, why do you call Stephen a "reformer?" Did he preach a new gospel? No, indeed; he preached no new gospel. He was a reformer, because he was the first to preach the gospel free from the trammels of Mosaic bondage. Many Jewish priests were converted by this bold emancipator.

The wrath of the Sanhedrim was fierce. Contradictors were sent to refute Stephen. They were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit of which he spake. Stephen was brought before the Sanhedrim. He thunders against them the direct charge: "Ye stiff-necked and uncircumcised in heart and ears, you do always resist the Holy Ghost. As your father did, so do ye. Which of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted? And they have slain them which showed before of the coming of the just One, of whom ye have been now the betrayer and murderers." Their wrath knew no bounds. He insulted the same tribunal before whom the Master appeared. Stephen is rushed out of the city, to be killed. He will die like his Master. To Him he cries: "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." Then stoned, wounded, bleeding, dying, he fell on his bruised knees and cried with a loud voice: "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge." And when he had said this he fell asleep and went to receive the martyr's crown.

Results of Stephen's Death.

First persecution. The members of the only organized Church congregation were killed or scattered. Stephen was buried by a few proselytes.

Second. The Grecian Jews, who had been his disciples, carried the gospel to Samaria and as far north as Antioch. At Antioch was organized the first Church with converted Jews and Gentiles as members, and where the disciples were first called Christians. The death of Stephen paved the way to the spiritual conquest of mankind. The spot where Stephen fell was the starting point for the conquest of the world.

Third. His death had other results. A young Pharisee kept the cloaks of Stephen's murderers. His conscience goaded him. Finally, he obeyed the heavenly vision. The ordinances of the Mosaic law, the holiness of the temple, fell before his word. All his might is in Christ. "I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me." He kept the faith. He wore the martyr's crown. His work goes on. His writings taught Luther, Calvin, and millions of others that "the just shall live by faith."

Where does Providence lead us? No man can answer. We strive to be ready for the great changes, struggles, trials, and improvements of our day and generation. And what is it to be a real Christian? to be a continuator of Jesus Christ, like Stephen the reformer and martyr?

D. A. LONG.

Florence, S. C.

The Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches met this week in Minneapolis, Min. Dr. W. W. Staley, who is a member of this committee, is in attendance, representing the Christian Church.

How about a Christmas gift to the fund of the James O'Kelly and Old Lebanon site memorials?

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION
Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.

Specimen of type
15 And I call upon me in th
of trouble: I will deliver thee
thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35

(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)
Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick.

(Weight 13 oz.)
No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and hook-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION
No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25
Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type
.35 And Jē-hōy'-ā-kīm gave th
silver and the gold to Phār'-aōh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50
(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition
Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick.
(Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

TUESDAY.

A FIGHT FOR HOME.

"Let us make, I pray thee, a little chamber on the wall."—2 Kings 4:10.

One had built himself a handsome home and was showing his pastor over it. When finished, the pastor asked, "Where is your altar? This is all lovely and luxurious. I congratulate you; but no home is complete without an altar."

Today the glamor of questionable amusements, the claim of social obligations, the pressure of business, the lure of the streets and the crowds, the orgy of shop-talk, chatter of gossip, the slimy talk of slander, the courtesies of feasts and dinners, celebrations and assemblies—all create a problem in our homes and beat upon our doors unceasingly until there is no place for quiet and prayer.

One woman solved the problem. "Let us make a chamber in the wall" for the Man of God. That Man became the symbol of a family's choice. If we can say, "We will lay hold on opportunities to entertain, in our lives, the best that we will cultivate, friendship of the most inspiring personalities in our family circle, that we will try to bring our lives into contact with great ones—this home will become a different place."

The boys of our homes are acquainted with Buck Harris, Walter Johnson, Jack Dempsey, and they have all the names of the athletes on their finger tips. They are the topic of animated conversation. The girls know Gloria Swanson, Barbara La Marr, and all the screen stars so intimately that they cannot go to their mirror without the feel of them peering over their shoulders. But do they know Benjamin Franklin, Abraham Lincoln, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and other great personalities? Do they know Jesus Christ?

Prayer.—Our Father in heaven, sanctify our hearts today with a decided desire for best gifts, highest achievements, devotion and loyalty to our Lord, and reveal to us the more excellent way. Amen.

TUESDAY.

NOT CROWDED OUT.

In the fight for a home and the best influences in that home, we are helped in recalling that the woman of Shunem was already crowded, but she said let's build on the wall—that is, make a room on to what we have. It was of such supreme importance to her to have the influence of God within her household that space for it must be provided. It was worth all the toil and sacrifice.

So, just a few minutes from our crowded days; just a thought now and then to take us away from the stir and noise until we can touch the eternal source of light and power. Just a word that makes the great Guest a member of the family and of the conversation will go a long way to solve the problems of our lives and homes.

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

WEDNESDAY.

THE WORD FOR THE WORLD.

In Luke 11:11 Jesus, speaking of a son asking his father for a fish, inquires of His disciples whether the father would, instead of a fish, give his son a serpent. But the Bulu in Africa eat snakes, which they regard as quite a delicacy. A Bulu boy would be more pleased at receiving a snake from his father than at receiving a fish; for thus he would not be bothered by bones and scales, would get more meat from a snake than from a fish of the same size, and would enjoy the meat and skin fully as well as those of a fish. The point and force of the illustration obviously require that the earthly father shall be represented as giving his son something good—not only good, but better than some other thing which he avoids giving, else God's willingness to give the Holy Spirit to those who ask would not be set forth. A fish, as we have seen, is not better than a snake, to the Bulu; but it is better than a centipede. Accordingly, nsanelete, "centipede," instead of nyo, "serpent," is used in the translated text, and the Bulu at once understands, reading or hearing thus, that as a father gives his loved son a fish, not a centipede, so, and much more than so, God is willing to give His Holy Spirit to those who ask.

Prayer.—Our Father, if we have duty to send the gospel to all nations, help us to earnestly pray every day that we may know what it is and may be given the grace to do that duty. Bless the translators in the field and those who minister. Amen.

THURSDAY.

A PAYING INVESTMENT.

"Godliness is profitable for all things, having the promise of the life which now is and of that which is to come."—1 Tim. 4:8.

The building of a room to her house for godliness was a paying investment to the Shunamite woman. Parents: when your sons and daughters are on the dangerous edges; when impulses and flaming youth threatens all the promise of the future; when they stand at the cross-roads and may choose the wrong way—you will thank God as this woman did, if during their earlier days you have sheltered religion, as it were, in a chamber of thy house and given it emphasis in the family life. It does not mean to be over-religious—that has dangers in itself—but just keep the matter open in the presence of the family, so that you and they can talk naturally of the deep spiritual things when the testing times come.

To know where to go when in danger of going wrong; to be able to take a familiar way in the presence of strange ones—what an accomplishment! Who would count the cost to gain such certainty?

Prayer.—Our Father, we are weak, unwise and unworthy. Without Thee and Thy guidance we go wrong all the time. O make us stay at the throne of grace and the fountain of the Spirit until we shall have Thee all the way. Amen.

FRIDAY.

WOMAN LEADERSHIP.

"There appeared a woman clothed with the sun."—Rev. 2:12.

The prophet Isaiah says, "As for my people, women rule over them. It has ever been so, and not necessarily over weak and effeminate men, either. We would not minimize the religious leadership of men in home or Church. The fact remains, however, that above and beyond that, the final responsibility for the atmosphere of the home rests upon the woman and mother. Revelation uses woman to symbolize the Church. History proclaims the fact that no people or nation were ever able to rise above the level of its womankind. Jerry McCaulay said, "I have never known a man to be saved who did not have a good mother."

It is the searching fact of life that the women of our homes have to build the chambers of religion in our homes. The precious things of the kingdom in thy children, in thy community, in thy homes, wives, mothers and women, are in thy keeping. In these tempting days, if thou dost abandon the high standards, they come down, descend one step from the pedestal of honor, our reverence falls.

Prayer.—Dear Father, endow us men with all the grace of goodness to lead and do all we can. Strengthen the women of home and Church to fulfill their great mission. Train our children in the way they should go. Amen.

SATURDAY.

LIFE UPON LIFE.

"And he went up, and lay upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands; and he stretched himself upon the child, and the flesh of the child waxed warm."—2 Kings 4:34.

The final and last stand to be taken for the home is the impress of life upon life.

In the saddened house of shunem, a loved child was dead and lay on the prophet's bed. The mother rides anxiously in quest of the man of God, and when she finds him she falls at his feet and unburdens her broken heart. Elisha sends his servant to lay his staff on the child. But this failed, so he goes himself, enters the chamber, presses the lad to him, warms him with the beat of his own heart, and the lad is restored alive to his mother.

Don't puzzle about the miracle of this. Give heed to the larger miracle, viz: life can quicken life. It succeeds when all else fails. How often one hears "What can I do? They won't listen to me. My advice falls on deaf ears. I have pleaded and argued and thundered; I can't influence them." It took more than a mere person and a staff to stir the heart of the lad. It takes more than an acquaintance, just somebody; more than mere words of platitude or moral suasion to inspire youth to right thought and action.

It is what we live, and not what we say that is the vital influence that effects others. It is the religion we live that is going to determine what the youth growing up is to become. They will not grow up into our precepts. They will grow up into our likeness. It is the impress of life upon life; the only irresistible appeal.

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

SUNDAY.

SHOWING UP FOR CHRIST.

"That therein I may speak boldly, so I ought to speak."—Eph. 6:16-12.

Sunday is our opportunity for getting together and showing our colors for Christ. In an age of the automobile and a thousand other comforts and pleasures, we are greatly tempted to neglect the sanctuary and to think of Christianity in terms of comfort rather than cross-bearing. A redeeming Christianity must be a crusading one. Let us not forget God or we may find that we have lost Him entirely.

Prayer.—Lord's Prayer, all the circle joining.

HOW TO STUDY THE BIBLE AND WHERE.

BY MRS. R. E. BULLOCK.

How shall we study the Bible? It all depends upon what we think of the Bible itself. If it is only a book, we shall read it and cast it aside as any other book, or we shall examine it and study it just as we would study any other book, applying to it the same tests, and no others, and base our conclusions regarding it upon such a study.

If, however, we come to it, thinking of it as the revealed Word of God we shall be guided by that belief in our study. We shall read it not with less care, but with more; we shall examine it, not less, but more, and with more thoroughness, for we shall be quite sure that "the word of our God abideth forever," and no amount of study or examination will dim its lustre. How, then, shall we study the Bible?

Study it reverently.

It is a book like every other book, but it is infinitely more. It declares itself over and over to be the word of Jehovah. "Thus saith the Lord" is repeated again and again. If "Jehovah our God is one God"; if the God who made the universe and holds the stars in the hollow of His hand is really my Heavenly Father; if this book is His word to me—then surely I will read it with reverence.

Study it constantly.

If you are going to enjoy the works of any great author, you must read them steadily to get yourself in the "spirit" of his books. If you are to be, like John, "in the Spirit" of the Bible, you must read the Bible regularly and constantly. "Pray without ceasing," said Paul. It is the "ceasing"—the hit-or-miss style of reading and studying and working and praying—that makes so many of us such poor Christians.

Study it prayerfully.

"Open thou mine eyes that I may behold wondrous things out of Thy law" was the psalmist's prayer, and must be mine, if I am to find in God's book what He has put there for me.

Study it critically.

Do not be afraid to know all you can know about the Bible. Criticism may "upset" the Bible, but the Bible is a cube. It is the same, no matter which way it lies. Do not hide your head in the sand of old interpretations; go back to the Book itself and see what it really says.

Study it exegetically.

Do not be content with reading meanings into the Bible, but find out exactly what the author meant; what he was trying to say, and how he said it. God would not have used human means to give us His Word if He did not intend us to receive it and interpret it through the medium of humanity.

Study it with all possible helps.

Do not disdain commentaries, but do not bind yourself to them. Use them last, not first. And where shall we study God's Word?

Study it at home.

It is to be taught to children in the home; it is to be understood in the closet; it is to be coned in the "night-watches," in the morning hours; written upon the doorposts, worn upon the hands. It is so close, so intimate, so "homey" a book (is it not my Father's Word?) that the home is the natural and ideal place in which to study it.

Study it in the Church school.

And by this we are thinking of all the educational agencies of the Church—the Sunday School, the missionary society, the vacation Bible school, the week-day school of religion: all of these places. Next to the home there are no other places so good a place to study God's Word as the agencies arising from and having their source in God's house.

Study it in public.

In the college class-room, in the school of religious education, in the Sunday School class, in the missionary society—study it wherever two or three are gathered together. You will get precious lessons from the book by studying together, by sharing discovered truths, by discovering truths in company. By all means, study it in public. But also—

Study it in private.

Nothing will take the place of private, concentrated meditation, thought and prayer. No amount of public discussion will ever take the place of the closet study—the time when all distraction is shut out and God speaks to your heart.

Study it in the city.

So many messages to city dwellers—you cannot afford to miss them. Paul well knew the lure of the city. All of his epistles were written amid the noise and bustle of great cities. You will never feel the urge of the gospel if you do not sometimes study it in a city.

Study it in the country.

From the day when the Lord God planted a garden, the country has been dear to Him. How many illustrations are drawn from country life? How our Lord loved the country in which He grew up! If you have not studied God's Word where the grass withers and the flowers fade, you still do not know by one infallible test that "the word of our God abideth forever." If you have not studied it on a mountain-top or with one in view, cloud-swathed, how can you fully under-

ELON COLLEGE

CO-EDUCATIONAL

MOONEY CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING, ELON COLLEGE
(Dedicated Sunday, October 3, 1926)

IN CHRISTIAN EDUCATION, the Christian Church and Elon College have taken the lead.

The above building, dedicated to leadership training, is one of the finest laboratories of Christian Education to be found anywhere. It is the only building of its kind on any college campus in America, but is destined to be the forerunner of a new field of education in many American colleges.

IN LEADERSHIP TRAINING, Elon College has been the first to strike out boldly in this field.

Elon gives courses in Religious Education and Leadership Training, along with laboratory experience that can be gotten in no other institution of higher learning. Those students who complete the four-year course in this work at Elon are given advanced standing at the graduate seminaries. In this way, a year can be gained in their preparation for those who expect to pursue their studies through to seminary courses.

For souvenir "Christian Education Bulletin," giving complete description of this Building and its work at Elon College, and for complete Catalogue of Courses, address

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

stand that allusion to "the hills from whence cometh my help"—over the mountain or out of the cloud, it matters not, for in either case it "cometh from God."

How and where shall you study the Bible? As God directs you, and in the place where you are. And then God will speak to you through His word, and you will know beyond any shadow of doubt "Thus saith the Lord."

QUEEN MARIE—A REPLY.

Dear Editor:

I would disclaim any desire for publicity or controversy, but pray your good offices for a word in reply to the censorship (dated November 25th, THE CHRISTIAN SUN) by my good friend, Dr. Harper, on the recent departure of Queen Marie as a guest of American democracy. Certainly her visit met all the diplomatic requirements, hence her legalized privilege; and certainly her deportment during her sojourn was respectful in every way to the highest standard of womanhood, hence I believe we sacrifice neither religion nor democracy in showing her the courtesies her distinction merited and to which she graciously responded.

Associate news information leads me to believe that queen Marie's visit was not for publicity of her royal title or her gorgeous wardrobe, but to get first-hand information of the best standards of American democracy at work among our people, both men and women, to be carried home to her people and applied to their betterment. My personal construction, as a country doctor of the old school, of the brain-storm explosion (viz: "Good-by, Queen Marie; glad you are gone!") of my good friend, Dr. Harper, was the result of some acute physical irritation—possibly "spleenic" or high-blood tension—from the speed of his express train; certainly, some abnormalcy, suggesting rest and reduced calories, to the restoration of his normal equilibrium (no charge for diagnosis or prescription), prompting him thereby to regret impressions made as a result, and presto, feel as I would proclaim, "Come again, queen Marie, and learn of us to the betterment of her people."

Now, should the censorship of the editorial staff of THE CHRISTIAN SUN think well enough to publish this note, it will increase my estimate of the good service of the paper. On the contrary, if this comment is adjudged worthless and to no good purpose and be assigned to the waste-basket, I shall think none the less of the editors or of Dr. Harper.

Very truly,

J. E. LINCOLN.

QUARTERLY REPORT.

Disbursements of the Woman's Home and Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Christian Convention to W. C. Wicker, Treasurer, S. C. C., for quarter ending September 30, 1926.

Foreign Missions.

Japan:
Dues	$357.52
Specials	693.46
Mr. Kitano's salary	540.00
Mr. Matsuni's salary	87.50
Kindergarten	116.25
Mrs. Fry's school	100.00
Sunday School	12.50
Porto Rico:
Santa Isabel	612.55
Bible woman	100.00
	$2,619.78

Home Missions.

Richmond:
Dues	$357.53
Specials	1,110.54
	1,468.07

Mountain Work in Va.:
General fund	$712.57
Paint for Rocky Ford Church.....	40.23
	752.80
Elon Orphanage:
Baby Home	$116.23
Mary Gilbert	15.00
Irene Boone	15.00
Orphan	75.00
	221.23

O'Kelly Memorial	52.08
Total	$5,113.96
Amounts submitted by respective Conferences:
Alabama	$ 52.54
Valley of Va. (3rd quarter)	261.62
Valley of Va. (4th quarter)	13.17
North Carolina	1,687.52
Eastern Va.	3,350.36
	MRS. H. S. HARDCASTLE, Treas. , Woman's Board of Missions, S. C. C.

Keeping up with the South

THE growth of the South in recent years is one of the outstanding developments of the nation. It is seen by the following facts:

In the 15-year period, 1910-1925, the coal mined in the states of the South served by the Southern Railway System has increased 65 per cent; the pig iron production increased 14 per cent; active cotton spindles increased 53 per cent; and the total value of mineral production increased 205 per cent.

In the two decades, 1900-1920, the value of farm property in these states increased from approximately $2,500,000,000 to more than $10,000,000,000.

And in the 20-year period, 1904-1923, the value of all manufactures produced in these states increased from about $1,200,000,000 to almost $5,000,000,000.

Such has been the growth of the South. The growth of the Southern Railway System in the same period also is impressive.

In the last twenty-five years the total investment in the Southern Railway System has increased about $375,000,000—from $400,000,000 in 1900 to $775,000,000 in 1925.

The total freight traffic handled by the Southern has increased about 250 per cent.

The ability of the Southern Railway System to supply adequate transportation to the growing South has been a vital factor in the healthy economic development of the states served by the Southern.

Every day on the Southern about 8,000 carloads of freight are handed over to it for movement.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D.....Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D.....Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D.....Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL.....Associate
- R. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D...Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM.....News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE.....Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year$ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to "Editor Christian Sun," Elon College, N. C.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

SCOTT.

The death angel entered the home of Brother and Sister Walter Scott, near Semora, N. C., at 5 o'clock in the afternoon of Monday, the 3rd, and took to the bosom of the Saviour their youngest son, Staley, a bright, interesting and promising child of two years of age.

These noble and devoted parents, together with the older brothers and sister, are sad at heart because of the absence of baby brother from the home; but sorrow is so often heaven's agency to bless and the better prepare for all the higher duties of life.

My sympathy and prayer, with that of the entire community, are with this home. May the presence of the Christ be with and bless for all time the sorrowing ones.

C. E. NEWMAN.

ELLINGTON.

Deacon George Washington Ellington, of Mt. Auburn Christian Church, Warren County, was called from labor to reward November 27, 1926, after a protracted sickness through which he passed with patience and Christian fortitude.

Deacon Ellington was born April 23, 1848, and was in his seventy-ninth year when he died. In early life, he professed faith in Christ, united with Mt. Auburn Church, was faithful in Christian service, earnest in performing his duty as deacon, dependable in business, gentle and considerate in his home, trustworthily in social and civil life, and neighborly in all his bearings and dealings with his fellowmen. He bore his afflictions with patience, ever looking to the Author and Finisher of his faith.

In 1878 he was married to Miss Eliza Rebecca Tunstall. To this union were born five children, three of whom died in infancy. James, Thomas and Joseph Byrd still live to mourn the loss of a loving father, and the faithful companion who nursed him through all his afflictions survives him and await the reunion provided for those who are faithful to the end. May the memory of a faithful, loving, patient Christian companion and of an earnest, sympathetic, spiritual-minded father inspire and enoble the life of the widow and sons, and urge them to press forward and persevere in the Christian life, looking to the family reunion in heaven, is the earnest prayer of their pastor.

Funeral services were conducted by the pastor, assisted by Rev. J. L. Foster, a former pastor, and Rev. Mr. Hunter, of the Methodist Protestant Church.

W. C. WICKER, Pastor.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 7/8 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick.....$6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

04523 [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/2 inches thick... $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"
Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.
Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address
THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter.
5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION

Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearer Print in Smallest Size 4 1/8 x 2 1/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type
AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles..... .60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges..... .70

2115P. French Morocco, Divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included..... $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges..... .85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges..... .85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included..... $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

213XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included..... $2.25

Send Your Orders to
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

THE CHRISTIAN SUN

Official Organ of the Southern Christian Convention.

IN ESSENTIALS, UNITY.

IN NON-ESSENTIALS, LIBERTY.

IN ALL THINGS, CHARITY.

VOLUME LXXVIII.

RICHMOND, VA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1926.

NUMBER 50.

•• THE SUN'S OBSERVATORY ••

BY REV. S. M. LYNAM.

More Cars than Telephones.—

It is surprising to learn that automobiles in the United States exceed the number of telephones in use by more than a million and a half. This means that a greater number of cars are on the road while people aren't so interested in talking at a distance. The cars making the difference are probably in the rural districts where telephone service is poor or impossible.

Cleansing the Leper.—

In the Christmas call for aid from the American Mission to Lepers, the startling fact is pointed out that one person in every 850 is a leper. One hundred hospitals in twenty countries look to this mission for aid each year. It has taken as its task the relieving of suffering among lepers, the safeguarding of the health of communities, and the ultimate wiping out of the disease. Our Lord cleansed many lepers. "The work that I do," He told His disciples, "shall ye do, and greater work than this shall ye do." He cleansed the leper; so may we. The address of the mission's head office is 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City, if we should feel that we could aid in this work.

We Did Something.—

Recently released government figures show that a total of 5,051,606 persons served in the United States forces during the World War. Of this number, 36,931 were killed in action and 13,673 died of wounds, making a total of 50,604 persons who lost their lives during the war from direct contact with the enemy. This does not count the vast numbers who died from exposure and other causes connected with army life. At least the United States did something, in spite of Mr. Kipling's opinion. Neither do the above figures reckon the wounded who live on incapacitated for the fullest usefulness in life, nor does it mention the vast expenditure of money and the loans made to the allied powers to tide them over a crisis. Yes, we did something. hope that it is a good thing, and certainly it seems to be.

Christmas Savings.—

Sixteen years ago a few banks began to carry Christmas savings accounts. The idea has grown amazingly until this year 760 banks report such savings accounts, with an amount of more than four hundred million dollars in deposits. Seven million eight hundred thousand persons have deposited, and there is an average of $54.00 per person. Massachusetts leads in the amount deposited and the number depositing, New York comes second, and Pennsylvania third. These accounts lessen the strain of Christmas giving, but they also mean an increase in spending at the Christmas season. The habit of making regular deposits, which is formed during the savings period, is good, but whether or not it is offset by the orgy of spending at Christmas or not is another question which is open for discussion. Let us

More Cotton Expected.—

The government estimates now place the next year's cotton crop at 16,627,000 bales. The price of cotton has already fallen to about twelve cents, while living costs remain the same. The cotton farmers are contending that cotton cannot be produced at that price, and are insisting that something be done for them. With the crop promising to be the largest ever produced, there seems to be little hope for the farmer. If the world were not in such desperate financial straights, other countries would buy more cotton and keep the prices up, but the high exchange between the United States and other countries, and the inability of other countries to meet their obligations, have worked a hardship on the cotton farmers. It would appear that a curtailment of acreage on their part and the introduction of more diversified farming is the only hope for them. With an ever-increasing cotton crop, a loan would be rather unavailing in relieving the situation.

Revival of Bible Reading.—

A nation-wide simultaneous movement for Bible reading will be carried on during January and February. It is suggested that you read a chapter a day from the gospel of Luke during the first twenty-four days of January. Then to rest, if you must, until February 1st, when Acts is begun and read a chapter a day until finished. It is suggested, however, that an epistle be read each day during the last week in January. The American Bible Society is prepared to furnish copies of the separate books for only one cent each. This suggests that in all our Christmas giving, let us remember that Christmas is a religious, a Christian time, and, if we look closely enough we shall find hundreds of individuals without Bibles among our own acquaintances; let us give them Bibles. There is no more appropriate gift, no more helpful gifts, and no gift which will serve better or longer or bless the life of him who receives so profoundly.

Some Self-Criticism.—

The Rev. Ray Allen, in the Christian Advocate, New York, does some very pointed self-criticism for the Methodist Church. It is true of other Churches, as much as it is true of the Methodist Church, and for what it may be worth we pass a portion of it on. "It is commonly assumed that Mammon was an ancient god in Syria or somewhere, long since defunct, whom nobody could possibly worship now. But there never was a god called Mammon anywhere on earth. Mammon is nothing more nor less than a word in Aramaic, the mother tongue of Jesus, which means riches or money. Methodism cannot serve God and money. In these days of high finance there is urgent need to recall that warning of the gospel. When the progress of Methodism is to be portrayed, little is said about her increasing modesty, her gentleness of spirit, her love for her neighbors, or her campaign against war; not very much about her baptisms, her conversions, or her increase of members in America. But much is said about the dollars she puts into new enterprises, the dollars she puts into endowments, the dollars she puts into ministerial support, and the dollars she puts into, or does not put into, the hands of benevolent boards. Even the pastor's success is measured by the dollars he secures for new projects, for benevolences, or for his salary—never mind how."

Impressions of Roumania.—

Queen Marie of Roumania has been with us. She is gone now. She syndicated her impression of America at a good many cents a word. They were written for that part of the American population who were staggered by the glitter of royalty, however small it might be. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, one of the foremost Baptist preachers of the world and president of the World's Baptist Alliance, has been traveling in Roumania, inspecting the Baptist work there. His experience has been unpleasant and bitter, and what he says about Queen Marie's kingdom is certainly not complimentary. Dr. Mullins writes: "Conditions are better in Soviet Russia than in Roumania. Baptists there are in a worse position than Unitarians or Jews." He dwells on the cruel sufferings of Protestants and Jews in Roumania, and declares that Marie's kingdom is a thousand years behind the times. Her throne is built on blood and suffering, and though supposedly democratic, the democracy of Roumania's government is a farce. From such a land as this came Marie of Roumania to talk to America. How much the need for her to clean house at home! She came, according to one of her party speaking in Paris after her trip here was over, to make an impression that she might float a loan of half a billion where-with to carry on her oppressive rule. Supposedly she went home because of Ferdinand's health. He had an operation, how serious nobody seems to know, but from the rumors rife in Roumania and all the world she went home because the throne on which she sat was in a perilous condition. The varying parties in her kingdom are plotting and counterplotting some to place Carol on the throne with a Fascist government like Mussolini's, some to change the dynasty entirely. If the impressions of Roumania by Dr. Mullins mean anything, and they ought to mean a good deal, something drastic must occur in Roumania. It can scarcely be worse than now, and let us pray that it may be better. Now, that Queen Marie has seen America, may it have impressed her so that she will copy from us some of our good things.

NOTES-PERSONALS

Dr. W. A. Harper, of Elon College, was in Richmond the first of the week on business.

Dr. Frank G. Coffin, President General Convention, Albany, Mo., remembers the O'Kelly memorial with a check—and we are grateful.

The maximum achievement of any man's life, after it is all over, is to have done the will of God—and a dairymaid can do this as well as Luther.—Anon.

Mr. Walter C. Rawles, of Richmond, was taken suddenly ill in Suffolk on last Friday. He is confined to his bed in the Lakeview Hospital, where he is reported as doing well.

It is announced that deaths by automobile accidents in the United States this year will exceed 22,000, and that more people have been killed by automobiles the past two years than were killed in all of the World War. Verily, the automobile is mightier than the sword.

Wakefield and Dendron pastorates, also Lynchburg, in Virginia, and Cary, in North Carolina, a newly organized Church, are yet without pastors, these being the only charges not yet supplied in the Christian Conference of the two States as far as the Mission Secretary is advised.

We are pleased to receive from People's Christian Church, Dover, Del., a contribution of $17.00 for the O'Kelly memorial. While this is one of the more recent Churches to list under the banner of the Christians, it shows its appreciation of our history and traditions. Its devotion to every enterprise of the Christians is worthy of emulation.

Our workers in Carroll County, Va., are pleased to acknowledge receipt recently of a substantial box of underwear sent by Mrs. W. R. Sellars, Burlington, N. C.; box of handkerchiefs sent by Mrs. Watt, Lafayette, Ohio; Sunday School papers and pictures by Mrs. Knapp and a package of picture booklets from Mrs. R. B. Woods, Norfolk, Va.

Bro. J. H. Harden, teacher of the Bible class and much interested in the Providence-Graham Memorial Church, is displaying with hope and enthusiasm a drawing of the new Church building soon to be erected on or near the site of the present New Providence building. A house is much needed, even to adequately care for Bro. Harden's large Bible class, and here is hoping that the dreams of such a house will soon be realized in fact.

THE SUN's editor has an interesting word from a faithful friend and reader of our Church paper: "I have been reading it (THE SUN) all my life. My father and mother subscribed for it when it was first published, and when I was married my husband subscribed and I have always subscribed since he passed away. Never a week has passed without it coming to my home. I am now eighty-one years old and still read and enjoy THE SUN and wish for it all success and happiness."—Mrs. N. P. Clements, Macon, Ga.

Rev. Prof. A. R. Flowers, who is taking some review work in studies in Elon College, N. C., has been asked by the young people of Harmony Free-will Baptist Church, Baxley, Ga., to spend a part of the Christmas holidays, from December 26th to January 2nd, lecturing in the interest of Christian education. Bro. Flowers went to this Church about ten months ago and delivered four lectures, which proved to these young people that he is especially interested in them, and which made for him a group of staunch young friends at this place.

Prof. A. R. Flowers, of Elon College, will deliver the last address of the year 1926 at the Barnville Church, Rocky Mount, N. C., under the auspices of the Young People's League, on Sunday, December 26th. It is being looked forward to with much interest, since it is a sort of home-coming for those who are away at college and other places. Many of the people who were born and reared in the community, but have married and gone out to other localities, find their greatest pleasure in coming back to meet their old friends.

If any of our good friends of the missionary societies wish to make a Christmas offering, which is needed and will be greatly appreciated, for our mountain work, the following will be exceedingly acceptable, we are advised: bed linen, and covers for the beds in our parsonage and teacherage at Fancy Gap, also any supplies, knives, forks and spoons for the dining-room and table. Any furnishings for comfort and supplies for the parsonage will be gratefully received and appreciated. They should be sent by parcel post to Rev. J. A. Ledbetter, Fancy Gap, Va., and same will be acknowledged.

That the daily vacation Bible school movement is spreading rapidly around the world is to most people a matter of real surprise. A report issued by the International Association of Daily Vacation Bible Schools, from their headquarters at 381 Fourth Avenue, New York City, announces that there were thirty-eight vacation schools in Hawaii, 150 in the Philippines, 300 in Korea, about 20 in Burma, 16 in Bulgaria, 50 in Cuba, and 7 in Syria and Palestine, including one in Jerusalem itself. Reports are not yet in from Japan, but four training schools for vacation school teachers were held throughout the island under the auspices of the Japanese National Sunday School Union. In Australia, South America and South Africa the season is just beginning, and it is anticipated that the movement will be well under way in each of these countries by spring. In Mexico the promotion of vacation schools is to be cared for as a regular department of the national religious education work.

How easily and quickly our memorial fund would be raised in full if Sunday School teachers and interested friends would take one of the cards which we have prepared and use it as this good friend has done. "I took one of the James O'Kelly memorial cards. I have this card filled and am enclosing check to you, amount $10.00. At this time, I am not teacher, but I want the Woman's Bible Class of the Holland Christian Church to have credit for this ten dollars. How gladly I did this work; but I could not take the credit unless I had given the full amount myself. The Christian people seem to be a little slow in contributing to this great cause. I do feel that every member of our Christian denomination should think it an honor to have a part in this monument."—Miss Hontas Rawles. If any SUN reader, old or young, wishes a card by which to solicit, for either $5.00 or $10.00, please request same of the pastor or Sunday School superintendent, or write the editor of THE SUN.

Here is an item of interest to SUN readers from the report of our Foreign Mission Secretary: "Our total Church membership in Japan four years ago was 1,562, and at present it is 1,762. Our total Sunday School enrollment in Japan four years ago was 2,057, and now it is 2,390. The Churches of Japan during the quadrennium 1918-1922, raised for all purposes $7,424.84, of which $1,962 was on their pastors' salaries. During the quadrennium just closed these same Churches raised a total of $13,766.58, of which 4,124.25 was on pastors' salaries. We had exactly the same number of baptisms in Japan for each of the last two quadrenniums, namely 416. Our total Church membership in Porto Rico four years ago was 286, and at present it is 445. The Sunday School enrollment was 821, and now it is 1,129. The Christian Endeavor enrollment was 130, and is now 233. During the quadrennium 1918-1922, the Porto Rican Churches raised for all Church purposes $1,778.66, of which $174 was on their pastors' salaries. For the four years just closed, they raised a total of $4,753.59, of which $1,921.11 was on their pastors' salaries. The total number of baptisms last quadrennium was 95, and for the one just closed it was 262. We now have in Japan, four mission homes, six separate Church buildings, five combination Church and parsonage or Church and kindergarten buildings, seven separate parsonages, one separate kindergarten building, and three houses occupied by Japanese helpers. Four years ago the valuation of Japan property was given for taxation at $95,000, and now it is well over $170,000. In Porto Rico we have two mission homes, two national pastors' homes, five Church buildings, and several other smaller buildings and lots. Four years ago this property was valued at about $30,000, and now it is well over $60,000."

RECEIPTS FOR MEMORIALS.

The Committee on Memorials feels much encouraged. We have a long way to go yet, but we have the faith to believe that our loyal and faithful ones and those who honor the name of O'Kelly and Old Lebanon will send in their contribution. Surely, all members of the Christian Church can take a lively interest and a pardonable pride in this enterprise. We are glad to acknowledge the following received since our last report:

Total received to December 4th.....	$826.28
Rev. W. P. Fletcher, Toronto, Canada.....	1.00
Citizen's S. S., Elon College, N. C.....	9.00
Fuller's Chapel S. S., Henderson, N. C.....	5.00
Miss Sadie Fonville, Burlington, N. C.....	1.00
Mrs. L. J. Fonville, Burlington, N. C.....	1.00
Lebanon S. S., Semora, N. C.....	7.60
Womau's Bible Class, Holland, Va.....	10.00
Ladies' Aid Society, Manry, Va.....	5.00
Mr. & Mrs. C. A. Brittle, Manry, Va.....	5.00
Mrs. H. E. Sullivan, Durham, N. C.....	1.00
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.....	5.00
Wakefield, Va., Church.....	15.00
J. H. McNeil, Neederland, Texas.....	5.00
J. M. Fix, Burlington, N. C.....	2.00
Miss Edith Walker, Burlington, N. C.....	5.00
J. F. Marshall, Walnut Cove, N. C.....	2.00
People's Church, Dover, Del.....	17.00
Dr. F. G. Coffin, Albany, Mo.....	5.00

Total received to December 11th $927.88

Gratefully yours,

MEMORIAL COMMITTEE.

JUDGE J. F. WEST, Chairman,
Waverly, Va.

J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer,
Elon College, N. C.

Shall We Preserve Our History and Pay Tribute to Whom Tribute is Due?

We have delayed for more than a hundred years. It was in 1794, under the leadership of REV. JAMES O'KELLY, the prophet and apostle of religious liberty, that the name "Christian" was adopted as a sufficient name for the Church, discarding all party and sectarian names, and it was declared that for the Church, and Christian character is the test of fellowship and Church membership, and the right of private judgment in the interpreting of the Scriptures was granted to all, and Christ was declared to be the only head of the Church.

The Bible is a Sufficient Rule of Faith and Practice

REV. JAMES O'KELLY died on OCTOBER 16, 1826, and we have let him sleep for a hundred years without permanently and prominently honoring his memory.

It was in OLD LEBANON MEETING HOUSE, Surry County, Virginia, on August 4, 1794, that Rev. Rice Haggard made the motion and the meeting, under the leadership of Rev. James O'Kelly, unanimously adopted the same, declaring that

The Name "Christian" is Sufficient for the Church

and the Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice."

The Southern Christian Convention in regular biennial session at Durham, N. C., April 30, 1926, adopted plans and specifications for an appropriate memorial on the site of Old Lebanon Church, which is on the Virginia State Highway, in Surry County, Virginia, and also the plans and specifications for a suitable to be established on the campus of Elon College. The combined cost of the two memorials is to be $2,095.00. This call is for all individuals everywhere, who have a care and concern for these important events, to send such cash donations as they can to the Treasurer of the Committee during the month of October, when it is proposed if possible to raise the entire amount. All money sent in will be acknowledged, with names of donors, through THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

Memorial to Rev. James O'Kelly

Brethren, sisters, and friends, we have too long delayed this important matter, let us now move together and do this worthy deed. There has been raised to date $110.75. Let SUN readers speak to their friends, let pastors, Sunday School superintendents and people pull together during October, and this great work which should have been decades ago will be accomplished.

Respectfully and gratefully,

Judge J. F. WEST, Chairman, Waverly, Va.,
 Rev. S. C. HARRELL, Secretary, Durham, N. C.,
 W. C. McCLENNY, Historian, Suffolk, Va.,
 J. O. ATKINSON, Treasurer, Elon College, N. C.
Committee on Memorials.

E-D-I-T-O-R-I-A-L

EDITOR:

J. O. ATKINSON, Elon College, N. C.

Contributing Editors:

W. W. STALEY W. A. HARPER
E. C. HELFENSTEIN S. C. HARRELL

PRINCIPLES OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

- (1) The Lord Jesus Christ is the only Head of the Church.
- (2) Christian is a sufficient name for the Church.
- (3) The Holy Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice.
- (4) Christian character is a sufficient test of fellowship, and of Church membership.
- (5) The right of private judgment and the liberty of conscience is a right and a privilege that should be accorded to, and exercised by, all.

THE PURPOSE OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The purpose of this Church is to cultivate a spirit of union among the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ of every persuasion, and to secure, if possible, the associate efforts of all true religious teachers in pointing the wicked to "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

The peculiar doctrines and tenets which have confused and distracted the Christian world are remanded to private judgment, and hence cease to be matters for debate, only in so far as may be necessary to prevent a sectarian influence from entering the Church.

This Church requires no compromise of faith on the part of any child of God in order to communion or fellowship; here, denominational distinctions cease to exist, and Christian love binds the brotherhood together.

The purpose of this Church will be consummated in the conversion of the world and the union of all Christians.

HE KNOCKS AT THE DOOR.

It should be borne in mind that it was not at the door of the human heart, but at the door of the Church, the Christ is represented as standing and knocking (in the familiar Scripture of Rev. 3:20). It is often quoted, this text is, as if it applied to the heart of man. Jesus may stand and knock for entrance into the heart of man, but we have no Scripture that teaches it. On the contrary, we are clearly taught that He is Himself the door through which individuals must enter if they are to be within the fold.

In the text quoted from Revelation, our Saviour represents Himself as knocking for entrance into the door of the Church. Verily, there are Churches in our day that need to hear and to heed His knocking. He is on the outside. Another word. This particular Church door at which He was knocking had two very outstanding features. First, it was a very indifferent Church. It was not deeply concerned about anything. It did not become aroused or awakened, or excited or revived. So because it was lukewarm, neither cold nor hot, superbly and supremely contented and indifferent. "I will spew thee out of my mouth." A cold, an unconcerned, an idle and an indifferent Church evidently makes Christ sick. It is enough to make Him sick. It has opportunity, but will not avail itself. It has privilege, but will not use it. It has power within its grasp, but will not lay hold on it. Such a Church is enough to make even the Son of God sick to the very heart. He purchased it with the price of His own blood and now wishes and needs to use it to help establish His kingdom on earth, but is powerless to do because of its lukewarmness, its chilling, its killing indifference.

There was another feature about this Church on the outside of which stood the Christ and knocked. It was a very rich Church. Its members had abundance for their own needs, but nothing for the needs and demands of our pleading Lord. Such a Church was indeed enough to make Him sick and to make all Christians sick who want to see the kingdom of God built up on earth.

J. O. A.

THE POWER OF INDIVIDUAL APPEAL.

The Nashville Christian Advocate points out the difference and the difficulty in sundry appeals. It is very easy and usually successful to appeal for individuals, for "specials," for specific persons or things, but far different when a great cause is presented. Dr. Roland Cotton Smith is quoted, "If I make an appeal in my Church for a little crippled child, describe the child, and make a real picture, I will get perhaps $1,200. If I ask for two, I may get $600. If I ask for a dozen crippled children, I may get one or two hundred dollars. But if I ask for the cause, I will be lucky to get $50.00." The writer, when a pastor of a certain rural Church, had an experience that verifies Dr. Smith's position. A foreign mission program was on, and several missionary talks and a sermon had been delivered. The offering was taken for "the cause" of foreign missions and amounted to $1.54. Just before the congregation was dismissed (the house was packed to capacity) it was announced that a poor child in the community was on the verge of going blind, and must have an immediate operation; that a surgeon in the nearby city would operate without charge, but there would be a necessary hospital bill of $10.00. Plates were immediately passed, and before the offering was counted two or three individuals arose and said if the offering was not sufficient they would gladly give the balance. Of course, the individuals in that audience did not visualize the fact that when the offering for foreign missions was taken the finest opportunity on earth was being given to relieve children, poor, needy, helpless children of the worst blindness known to man, namely: spiritual blindness, relief from the darkness of death and doom by giving them that "Light which came to lighten every man that cometh into the world."

How easy it is to get an individual to give a dollar to buy bread to feed a hungry boy, and how difficult to get the same individual to give a dime to send the bread of life to boys and girls who are perishing, soul and body, without it!

J. O. A.

PLAYING AND PAYING.

When it comes to financing the kingdom of God through the Churches in the United States we hear much about "hard times," low prices and general inability to pay. Possibly times are hard, since those called upon to contribute for the Lord's cause say so. However, we people of the United States are learning to play if we have not already learned, and we are ever more paying for the playing. Statistics just issued reveal the fact that baseball this year had its third successive million-dollar series, surpassing all others in actual figures. Our national boxing sport had its first two-million-dollar event, with one hundred and thirty-two thousand people paying nearly that amount to witness a man named Tunney beastly and brutally maul a fellow by the name of Dempsey. Football this year had its first million-dollar spectacle when one hundred and ten thousand paid fancy prices to see some of our army boys go up against our navy players in Chicago.

Our folks took to the fields when football was announced the past fall. Ohio State and Michigan, battling at Columbus, attracted a throng of ninety thousand four hundred. Out on the Pacific coast, Stanford and California State attracted eighty-two thousand. When Cornell and Penn State fought out their battle in the classic game eighty thousand watched the battle. The gate receipts of the Cornell and Penn and those of Harvard and Yale amounted to four hundred thousand dollars each. It is estimated that the national attendance at the football games the past season numbered about fifteen million, and the finance returns set down as thirty million dollars. These figures do not indicate how much we are paying nor how much we are playing, but they do give some idea of how seriously we are going at the business. An English critic not long since said, in one of the magazines, that the United States was no longer a country; it was a picnic. He had doubtless read some statistics of how we play and how we pay. Could some wise man tell us how the people of the United States could be induced to go at the business of spreading the kingdom of God as seriously as they go at the business of amusements and play and frolic? Such information would certainly be worth something and is awaited with great anxiety. J. O. A.

FINANCING THE SUN.

It will possibly be of interest to SUN readers, and we trust will assist others in sending their subscriptions, to know how collections for THE SUN are coming along. The Board of Publications of the Southern Convention turned over to the editor of THE SUN on October 1st the mailing list, with instruction to receive renewals and secure new subscribers, and to send all funds to Dr. L. E. Smith, President of the Convention, to be used in paying for printing and mailing the paper. Our records are as follows:

Collected on subscriptions during the month of October.....	$433.42
Collected on subscriptions during the month of November.....	878.17

This was promptly sent to Dr. Smith and used as directed by the Convention. It is desired that every CHRISTIAN SUN subscriber and reader know that every dollar collected goes to pay for printing and mailing the paper and every dollar now owing the paper is needed, that we may, as far as possible, not draw on other funds of the Convention for this purpose. Under the present arrangement THE CHRISTIAN SUN should pay its way, and will do so if all who subscribe will renew promptly, and if the pastors, as their Conferences have voted, will make a vigorous campaign to double the number of subscribers in their respective Churches. Pastors can easily and happily afford to do this, because the paper greatly assists them in their work, and they in turn, by securing subscriptions, save the Convention funds to the full amount of that they secure. Let every friend of THE CHRISTIAN SUN make an effort now to increase the subscription list, and all who are in arrears make an effort to renew as early as possible.
J. O. A.

CHRISTMAS GREETING.

Again the joys of Christmas surround us. The very atmosphere seems charged with the Christmas spirit—the spirit of joy, love and good will. The spirit of brotherhood leaps from heart to heart in our personal contacts as we approach the day of all days—the day that celebrates the birth of the world's Saviour and Lord. Every one seems to walk with a little lighter step; voices seem to have lost their note of harshness; hearts seem lighter; the skies seem brighter, and all life seems radiant with cheer, as the birthday of our Lord draws near.

Why the difference? Why do people seem happier? Why does life seem richer? Why does God somehow seem nearer at Christmas time?

It is because at this time of the year people are thinking more about their friends and relatives. Thoughts are turned from self to others. Not our own happiness, but the happiness we can bring to others is our chief concern at Christmas time. Our hearts want to express their love and good wishes for our friends and dear ones in Christmas greetings, in presents and in reaffirmed loyalties. The faces of friends cross and recross our vision as we sit alone with our thoughts during the Christmas season. We wish them Christmas joy, and express our wish with Christmas cards bearing noble sentiments of the soul or with presents that convey a message of our love.

That is why Christmas changes things—because we are changed. That is why the the Christmas season seems different from other seasons of the year—because we are different.

What a pity that we cannot learn the secret of happiness for all the year, and have Christmas joy and cheer the whole year round! That joy could and would be ours always if each day we would make the happiness of others our chief concern.

My sincere wish is that every reader of these lines may have the most joyous Christmas this year of any year in their entire life, and that the year of 1927 will be prosperous to each in proportion to your love for and loyalty to God.

The wise men of old rejoiced because they found Christ. Would that every reader of these lines might experience that joy which can only come to the heart that finds Christ and accepts Him as Saviour and Lord.

The Christ whose birth we celebrate on Christmas wants our love and our devotion. Christmas not only marks the anniversary of Christ's birth; it should also bring to our mind and heart the memory of His love for us and the fact that He cannot be satisfied until we give Him our love and our devotion.

"Joy to the world, the Lord has come!
Let earth receive her King;
Let every heart prepare Him room,
And heaven and nature sing."

R. C. HELFENSTEIN.

CHRISTIAN UNION IN CHURCH PROGRAM.

BY DR. L. E. SMITH,

President Southern Christian Convention.

The program of a Church should embody its ideals and ambitions; should place before itself and the world accomplishments to be obtained and goals to be reached.

Christian union is a goal in the Christian Church program. A goal is that toward which one strives and the purpose for which he exists. This is true of individuals; it is also true of organizations.

Christ came to seek and to save that which is lost. He organized His Church and sent it out on a mission of salvation. It was His purpose and prayer that His followers might be one; one in experience, one in purpose, one in hope, and one in destiny.

In her course of development, the Church began to split up into factions and form denominations. There came to the front, in the religious life of this country in the closing years of the eighteenth century, an evident determination of the part of certain Church leaders to build up strong denominations, a determination that smacked of sectarianism rather than of Christianity.

It was against this spirit and tendency that James O'Kelly, Barton W. Stone, Rice Haggard and others set themselves. They purposed to bring together those who loved God and who were willing to follow Christ. It was not their purpose to build another denomination, but to bring together Christ-like characters in a band of Christian unity. They sought to give to the world an example of Christ-likeness that would bring the Christian world into an unbroken and an undisturbed fellowship, and as an initial step toward the accomplishment of this great task they gave to the world these immortal principles:

1. Christ the Head of the Church.
2. Christian the name for the Church.
3. The Bible the Book for the Church.
4. Christian character for the membership of the Church.
5. Christian liberty for the individuals in the Church.
6. Christian union for the whole Church.

These are marvelous principles. They are wonderful. They have been given to the world, but have never been made known to the world. We must make them known to the world. We may have preached about them, but we have not preached them as we should.

Christian union was the goal of the Christian Church at its inception. Christian union is its goal and passion today. She is willing to take her very life and lay it on the altar of sacrifice that her Lord's prayer for the oneness of His own in the earth may be answered.

In the planning of her program, she has been careful to make it Christ-like enough to satisfy all and broad enough to exclude none who are Christians.

Those things that have divided the Church, such as dogmatic declarations in theology and Church polity, have been carefully avoided in her program of Christian activity. In the Christian Church, no one need ever be embarrassed so long as he is Christian. No Methodist is required ever to be immersed. No Disciple is compelled to be sprinkled, and no Baptist is asked to bring his children for Christening. The one thing that is required and which is the only thing that was required by the apostolic Church is loyalty to Jesus Christ. With loyalty to Him, any and all men may be saved, and without it none can be saved.

Why allow such little, insignificant things to break up the Church and keep us apart? Official positions in the Church, water baptism and historic statements have all been, and are to this day, used as barriers to a great united Church. It is not a question of many bishops or a few, of much water or of little, of apostolic succession or of human origin, but it is a question of loyalty to Jesus Christ. It is a source of regret to the whole Christian world that the great Methodist Church, with all of her God-given resources, was not able to unite all of her forces in one solid phalanx against the sins of this day. It does seem like that the two branches of one great Church, two branches of the same Church, with the same founder, the same name, the same government, the same theology, the same hymns, the same gospel, the same Lord, the same Christ, the same hopes, and the same expectation might be known to the world as one in action, as well as one in purpose. Why should there be any north and south any longer in this great nation of ours? The lines are already beginning to fade out in industry, in society and in politics, and why should they not disappear in religion? The Church should lead in this great movement toward union. She shall ever be in disgrace if she trails in the rear in the molding of this great nation of ours into one connected band, commercially, politically and religiously.

The Christian Church has ever had Christian union in her program, and she has put it in her practice. Hardly had the guns of the Civil War been completely silenced until the religious forces of our great Church had been reunited in the prosecution of our God-given task. The union may not be as complete as it should be, but her passion is to make it complete, and not only to unite her own household, but the whole Church of God.

Beginning with her own, she must then take others nearest akin to her. There are five denominations, all represented in this great State of North Carolina, who ought to constitute one great body throughout the nation—the Methodist Protestants, the Disciples of Christ, the Congregationalists, the Free Will Baptists, and the Christians. There is but little practical difference between all of us. We ought to be one. If we can unite ourselves, we can unite ourselves with others. This is our program, this is our passion, and this is our creed.

ONE IN CHRIST.

In Christ there is no East nor West,
In Him no South nor North;
But one great fellowship of love
Throughout the whole wide earth.

In Him shall true hearts everywhere
Their high communion find;
His service is the golden cord
Close-binding all mankind.

In Christ now meet both East and West,
In Him meet South and North;
All Christly souls are one in Him
Throughout the whole wide earth.

Think of the tremendous possibilities of a united Church! Think of what 35,000,000 people could do by the grace of God and under the leadership of His Spirit! Think of the saving of time, in money, and in talent! Take, for instance, the four Churches in Greensboro, N. C., nearest this one and unite them. Let them build a plant that would take care of 6,000 people. Let them employ one man to do the preaching, one man to do all the visiting, one man to head up the music of the Church, one man to head up the educational interests of the Church, and let them all unite to draw the net under such an arrangement; how long do you suppose it would take to put down the evil in Greensboro, and so in the State? What can be done in this city can be done in all and throughout the world?

If the Christian people of this day and generation would unite their resources, their efforts, their hearts, their prayers, their souls, the kingdom of God would come in its fullness and the kingdom of this world would be His.

A united Church against the united forces of evil is the program and the passion of the Christian Church, and loyalty to Jesus Christ is the genius of our communion. But if Christian union is ever realized, if it ever becomes a fact, we have got to have a part in it. The responsibility is upon us, and God is calling us to take the lead. Our Lord is praying that His people may be one. The task is difficult, the obstacles are many. We may be weak, but the demand is His.

"Is this a time, O Church of Christ, to sound retreat?

To arms with weapons cheap and blunt,
The men and women who have borne the brunt
Of truth's fierce strife, and nobly held their ground?

Is this the time to halt, when all around
Horizons lift, new destinies confront?
No, rather strengthen stakes and lengthen cords,
Enlarge thy plans and gifts, O thou elect;
And to thy kingdom come for such a time.
The earth with all its fullness is the Lord's.
Great things attempt for Him, great things expect,
Whose love imperial is, whose power sublime!"
Norfolk, Va.

CONTRIBUTIONS

SUFFOLK LETTER.

The atmosphere is full of the idea, and it is often expressed, that the young people of this age are worse than they were in other days. In addition to this, the home is blamed for this condition. All sorts of remedies are offered to correct this alarming condition; and, among them, processes of education are suggested to save the young people, and thus to save future social conditions. The automobile is to blame, cigarettes are to blame, dances and cards come in for their part, while parental neglect of children has its full share. Leaders in religious life and education are foremost in sounding the alarm. If all this is true, the future of American society is doomed; if it is not true, it ought to stop saying so. It would be difficult to prove by real facts that young people are worse than they were fifty years ago; but if it is true that they are worse, it would be still more difficult to prove that parents are to blame for this decline in good behaviour on the part of the young.

Child-life and young people's conduct are more in the open than they used to be. People see more of other people's young folks than they used to see. Newspapers, electric lights, good roads and automobiles have all helped to make life in the open. "Oh! well," they say, "young girls smoke cigarettes in these days." Grant this, and it would be easy to prove that a larger per cent of women and girls used to "dip snuff" than now smoke. As to the old women, they used to smoke the pipe. It would be safe to let anybody answer the question as to which is more decent, smoking cigarettes or dipping snuff. The answer need not approve either habit. A decent answer would prohibit both. If conditions are worse, and young people are worse, education is to blame, and not the home. There has been a marked increase in outside educational forces proposing to teach and improve childhood and youth. Schools profess to know more than parents; writers open up new fields to young minds, that they may be protected against natural temptations. In their view, ignorance is the bane of human society.

Sunday Schools offer moral and spiritual training; public schools offer intellectual enlightenment to save society from the rocks on which ignorance goes wrong. Sex-books open up a large field for young people to prevent social risk. Magazines and papers increase the helps. If the young people are getting worse, then these agencies have failed, and the children better be sent back home. But it would brand a writer as insane to advocate the closing of all these agencies for improving human society. If the discouraged would look back to their own life in their young days, and the life of their associates, instead of at the visible life of the young people of this day, it might make them more hopeful of the young. The abolition of the saloon and the red-light districts has uncovered some thing that used to be carried on in the dark. Life is more open to human eyes now and may seem worse than it is. If it is worse, then all these agencies outside of the home mean nothing but means to make the young worse. This pencil's eyes see things improving all the time. There are evils yet, to be sure, and some of them are produced by new conditions; and these will, in time, be discovered and driven out by a public sentiment that cannot be held back. More homes have Bibles that are read, more blessings are asked at meals, more evening prayers are offered in the homes than ever before; mothers and fathers love their children and try to train them in right living, and the home-life will continue to improve as people know more of Jesus Christ and strive harder to follow Him.

W. W. STALEY.

ELON LETTER.

On December 2, 1926, Elon College was elected a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. This association is the accredited standardizing agency for the Southern States, and its recognition and admission to membership of an institution guarantees it recognition throughout the United States and also in foreign countries.

When the standardization fund was begun in February of 1919, it was with the distinct goal in view of Elon's admission to this association that funds were solicited. Before the funds were paid in, however, the standards of admission were raised, and a further complication was the fire of January 18, 1923. Not until the Southern Christian Convention, in session in Durham last May, voted $100,000 of 6 per cent twenty-year bonds as an addition to the endowment fund and provided for current income for the college to the amount of $36,750, which includes interest on all the bonds given several years ago, and the Convention's note, was Elon able to meet the requirements for entrance to this standardizing agency.

The association has other requirements than finances. They include the following items:

A library of at least 8,000 volumes, and with adequate appropriation for maintaining the library and purchasing additional books each year; admission of students only from accredited high schools or by entrance examinations, with a minimum of fifteen units; a physical plant adequate for college work, with laboratory facilities and equipment esteemed to be necessary for high-grade work; a clean athletic record without any taint of professionalism; success of the alumni of the college in graduate work and in life callings; a faculty who hold the Ph. D. degree or are esteemed to have its equivalent in preparation and teaching ability; the income of the institution from endowment or from denominational sources or from dependable gifts must be at least $50,000 in addition to tuition and fees paid by students.

There are other requirements, too, of a minor character, but the above are the major ones, and when an institution has met these requirements in the estimation of the leading institutions of the country, it is then eligible for membership. It is no small honor, therefore, that has come to Elon in this recognition.

The advantages of belonging to this standardizing agency are readily apparent. The State Department of Public Instruction in every State in the Union issue teachers' certificates without hesitation to graduates of institutions that are members of this association. The graduate school of any university in the world will admit to graduate standing the graduates of such an institution. All local collegiate organizations admit to membership without question graduates of colleges that are members of this association.

The Christian Church is to be congratulated on the success it has achieved at Elon.

W. A. HARPER.

STANDARD BANNER.

Two years ago a committee of women from our Mission Board was appointed to make for our societies a standard of excellence that could be used throughout our Eastern Virginia Conference. That committee gathered from different sources a number of such standards as already were in use, and after much thinking and planning adopted a set for our work. We knew then that they would be the subject of much criticism, and for that reason tried to include only such aims as might be applicable to any society. We realized that weak points would develop, but our general idea was to follow some such standard until our societies met them, and then set harder and more difficult tasks.

The result has been remarkable. It has really become easy for any society to get a high grade, and quite a few are reaching the top. We were to present a banner to each society getting the highest grade in their department, and in case of a tie this should be determined by the question concerning finance, which dealt with the highest amount sent treasurer per member.

We are conscious of the fact that we have been warned not to let the raising of funds be our chief aim, but since we are unable to function effectively without funds we have used this item for settlement only in cases of ties. It seems fair that an average membership contribution should have consideration. It enables the small society to have as much recognition financially as the large one. Our standards of excellence follow:

Woman's Missionary Societies.

1. At least eleven monthly meetings held during year.
2. A net increase of 10 per cent in membership.
3. All Conference apportionments paid.
4. List of subscribers to Christian Missionary equal to one-half of membership of the society.
5. At least one mission study class held during year.
6. Reports sent quarterly to Conference Treasurer, including literature and contingent funds.
7. Day of prayer observed.
8. Representatives sent to district rally and annual Conference.
9. Yearly average attendance of 50 per cent present at meetings.
10. Average amount per member sent to Conference Treasurer.

Young People and Willing Workers' Societies.

1. At least ten monthly meetings held.
2. Increase of 10 per cent in membership.
3. One missionary pageant or program given during year.
4. Average amount per member sent to Conference Treasurer.
5. One mission study class during year.
6. Representatives at district rally.
7. Fifty per cent of members present at each meeting.
8. All reports sent to Conference Treasurer quarterly.
9. All Conference apportionments paid in full. This will include both literature and contingent fund.
10. For Willing Workers: At least one subscription to Everyland.
10. For Young People: Every member shall read at least one book on missions other than the study book.

Cradle Roll Societies.

1. A cradle roll rally day held during year.
2. Average amount contributed per member during year.

Now, as we have said before, these standards may be faulty, but we are just reaching them, and they have encouraged wonderful activity on the part of some societies. This past Conference we invited Mr. Hardcastle to make our presentation speech to the winners of the banners, and the following societies were declared the winners:

- Woman's Society—Windsor, Va., 100 per cent.
- Young People—Suffolk, Va., 100 per cent; Holland, Va., 100 per cent—tie.
- Willing Workers—Rosemont, Va., 100 per cent; Windsor, Va., 100 per cent—tie.
- Cradle Roll—Suffolk, 100 per cent; Holland, 100 per cent—tie.
- Honorable mention:
- Woman's Society—Christian Temple, Holland and Holy Neck, all 90 per cent.
- Young People—Holy Neck, 95 per cent; Berea (Nansemond) and Franklin, 90 per cent.
- Willing Workers—Christian Temple, Holland and Holy Neck, all 90 per cent.
- Cradle Roll—Berea (Nansemond).

Convinced that our work has been wonderfully stimulated and strengthened by using these standards, we are to use them again this year. Friends and members alike are invited to suggest any changes they would wish to see made.

MRS. M. L. BRYANT.

Rev. Edwin B. Flory, formerly of Berkley, Va., now pastor of Riverdale Church, Dayton, Ohio, has planned "a month of Christmas" in his Church program. Well, why not? The commercial and business world does. Go into the shops and trade centers now, and Christmas is on. So Bro. Flory thinks that if we are to give that meaning to Christmas the Church, as well as the stores, should have a month of real preparation for the great event. "Lest we forget and allow Christmas to become a feast day and leave Christ out entirely, our Church has planned the whole month of December, so that the birth of Christ may be enriched in our lives. Little will it really matter to us that He was born in Bethlehem unless He is born anew in our city, even in our hearts." So Bro. Flory makes his Church program, beautifully arranged and printed, with these for his sermon topics during the month: December 5th, "The Adoration of the Shepherds"; December 12th, "The Adoration of the Magi"; December 19th, "The Adoration of Simeon"; December 26th, "The Adoration of Anna." For the evening worship during the month: December 5th, 7:30, "Christmas Pictures from the Great Masters"; December 12th, 4 P. M., "Christmas Memories" (an entertainment by the children's division of the Church school); December 19th, 7:30, "The Chimes of the Holy Night" (a cantata by the choir); December 26th, 4 P. M., "The Eternal Quest" (a pageant by the young people's division of the Church school). Miss Ruth Johnson, of our Wake Chapel Church, now the esteemed director of young people's work and Church music in the Riverdale Church, is responsible for preparing and executing the evening program, and is measuring up to the highest demands and expectations of her great field of usefulness and service.

SELECT NOTES

BY W. A. WILDE, D. D.

The World's Greatest Series of Sunday School Commentaries for 1927

Its wealth of material gives a solid foundation for the spiritual and inspirational interpretation of special themes. It is complete with maps, bibliography, teaching methods, and abundant illustrations.

Price $1.90 per 1200 Lessons.
At all bookstores.

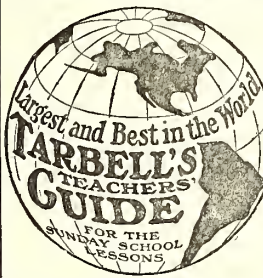

W. A. WILDE COMPANY

131 CLARENDON STREET, BOSTON, MASS.

FOR THE INTELLIGENT SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS

TARBELL'S

Teachers' Guide for 1927

"Stands out infinitely superior to anything ever attempted. It renews the International System."
—G. Campbell Morgan, D.D.

$1.90

(Postpaid, $2.00)

At all Bookstores, or
F. H. REVELL CO., 158 Fifth Ave., N. Y.; 17 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLES.
Authorized and Edited by American Revision Committee, and Published by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

These Bibles contain the Concise Bible Dictionary which forms the helps to these Teachers' Bibles. It supplies, in the most condensed and convenient form, all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ, with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc. The illustrations are reproduced from recent photographs, and truly illustrate the articles. The Combined Concordance is entirely new, and has been made expressly for the American Standard Version. It combines with the Concordance, Subject-Index, Scripture Proper Names, etc. The 12 Maps have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored. In making orders, give the Number and prices.

TEACHERS' BIBLES.

- Minion Bold-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.
- 2152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
- India Paper Edition, Size 4 7/8 x 7 Inches, 11-10 Inches Thick.
- 2152X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$6.00
- Bourgeois Type, Size 5 3/8 x 8 Inches, and 13-8 Inches Thick.
- 2167—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.00
- 2172—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.50
- India Paper Edition, Only 11-8 Inches Thick.
- 2172X—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$8.50

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' BIBLE.

Especially made up for gift or reward Bibles for Sunday School scholars, containing a special series of very practical and useful helps and Bible Questions and Answers, etc. Printed on fine white Bible paper; ruby type; pocket size, 3 3/4 x 3/4 inches, and 1 inch thick; with 31 full-page illustrations in sepia. All bindings are black.

Ruby Type, Size 3 3/4 x 3/4 Inches, and 1 Inch Thick.
red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold; 6 colored maps.....$2.50

60—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, Sunday School Scholars' Bible, stamped in pure gold on cover, no illustrations. Special book for Sunday Schools.....95c

Minion Type, Pocket Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 inches Thick.

With 32 full-colored illustrations; also 25 outline maps through the text and 12 colored maps.

133—Bound in cloth, round corners, red edges, title stamped on side in pure gold.....$1.60

135—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$3.00

India Paper Edition, Only 15-16 of an Inch Thick.

135X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.$4.00

Minion Black-Face Type, Self-Pronouncing, Size 4 3/4 x 7 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick.

Printed from clear, large, black-face type, 32 full-page illustrations in Sepia and colors, 4,000 Questions and Answers, Harmony of the Gospels, How to Study the Sunday School Lesson, 25 outline Maps, 12 full-page colored Maps.

4152—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

TEXT BIBLES—AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION.

Printed from Easy-Reading Type, on Good Bible Paper, for Sunday School and Church Use.

Minion Type, Size 4x6 Inches, 1 1/2 Inches Thick, 25 Outline Maps, Bound in Black.

101—Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, square corners, red edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. $1.10

112—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title on back in pure gold.....$2.75

India Paper Edition, Only 7/8-Inch Thick.

112X—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$3.75
Reference and Text Bibles also in minion, briefer, bourgeois, long primer, pica and English type.

Thumb index cut on edge, 50c extra; name printed on any Bible in gold, 40c extra; extra wording, 40c per line.

AUTHORIZED VERSION.

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES.

Briefer Type (8 vo.), Self-Pronouncing, Size 5 3/8 x 8 1-2 Inches and 13-8 Inches Thick.

Containing the Bible, with full references. The words of Christ in the New Testament are printed in red; other parts of the book are printed in black. With concise Bible dictionary, combined concordance, and 12 indexed maps.

7852—Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold.....$4.75

RED LETTER EDITION

With all the Words of Christ in the New Testament Printed in Red.

1282—Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, register and headbands, title stamped on side and back in pure gold.....$3.25

Any of the above Bibles sent post paid. Address
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 East Broad Street, - - - Richmond, Va.

MISSIONS

REV. J. O. ATKINSON, D. D., Field Secretary.

STEWARDSHIP AND PROMOTION.

WARREN H. DENISON, D. D., Secretary.

Christmas Greetings.

The secretary of this bureau wishes he could take the hand of every one of our pastors, and each Convention, Conference, and local Church stewardship secretary and personally extend kindest Christmas greetings and holiday good wishes. That he cannot do, but he does in this next best way, from his heart, wish for each one of you rich Christmas joys. He knows no greater wish than that you may be faithful stewards of the manifold grace of God and induce others to become stewards of life and property.

United Stewardship Council Defines a Stewardship Church.

Urgent requests have come for such definition, and at the annual meeting last month the following was unanimously adopted:

A stewardship Church is one which—

1. Includes in its annual program the teaching of the scriptural principles of stewardship; and
2. Enrolls as proportionate givers those of its members who devote a definite proportion of their income, ordinarily at least a tenth, to extend the kingdom of God.

Going Forward.

While this is being written, all the boards that make up the General Board are in session here at headquarters. If all our people could see the great problems that face these boards which administer our work; if all could realize something of the mighty opportunities that now confront our Church; if you could sit with these boards day and night for some four days and share their heartache for the work, you would pray earnestly for the work, give more for it, co-operate more heartily than ever before.

We have entered upon a new quadrennium; the new year of 1927 is at our threshold. May we have your heartiest co-operation? Your brethren, your executives, your boards, are doing their very best to plan, direct, and carry forward worthy plans for the kingdom. They are doing their part heroically and well. We bespeak just as fine a spirit, as earnest loyalty, as generous giving of self and money as they are giving.

This is the annual stewardship period in the Christian Church. It is most reassuring to see how many pastors are really making it a worthwhile matter in their Churches to the delight and uplift of their people. More than one hundred pastors and workers bought books and helps at the Urbana Convention. At some of the Conferences, goodly numbers have been purchased.

Letters tell of sermons, study classes, pageants. Inquiry for literature indicates an increasing interest. Some got started late and have not had their enrollment day yet for tithers. This is important, as are the study classes. We are anxious to hear how many tithers you have enrolled in your Church? Please write us, and tell how you conducted your enrollment. Hundreds of our folks are learning that stewardship is not making a contribution to the work of the kingdom, even a larger offering than formerly, but that it is dividing rightly the profits with the Lord. We hope these November and December stewardship days are rich with blessing to you and your people.

In the Field.

Since the close of the Convention, your Secretary has assisted the Franklin, Va., Church inaugurate the every-member canvass; presented stewardship at the Eastern Virginia Conference in Maryland; conducted the financial campaign and dedication services of the Hagerstown, Indiana, Church, raising over $15,000; attended the annual United Stewardship Council meeting at Wheeling, W. Va., and attended the General Board meeting of the Christian Church.

Stewardship Book for Christmas.

We would call to your attention the importance of using a good stewardship book for a Christmas present. There are splendid ones for all ages and we would like to tell you about them. We desire to have a good stewardship book in every home.

OUR ROCKY FORD WORK.

I have been quite busy since I last wrote anything for THE SUN. In fact, I have written only once, I think, since I was married, July 30th. Our Sunday School and prayer meeting at Rocky Ford have kept up very well since that time. My husband and I went to Elk Spur to take care of the parsonage the last of August after Mr. and Mrs. Sorrell left for Elon College. We stayed up there until we came back to Rocky Ford to open school on October 4th.

There are thirty pupils enrolled in school, but attendance partly on account of heavy rains has been a little irregular. The children are very much pleased with a flag sent to us by Miss Florence Case, of Ohio, which I understand was made by a group of school pupils. We have placed this flag in the auditorium of the Church. The playhouse which Dr. Atkinson sent from Elon, being a gift from the children there, we have placed in one of our Sunday School rooms and is much appreciated and enjoyed by our children. The booklets, papers and pictures which have been sent in are likewise very much appreciated.

These are busy days for us—school teaching, prayer meeting every Thursday night and Sunday School every Sunday. We were very sorry that we could not attend our Conference, but as I did not want to suspend school, we decided we had better just send our report. Then, too, the car which belongs to the work is worn out and unsafe to make a trip of that distance.

We are glad indeed that Brother J. A. Ledbetter has come to preach for us, and we enjoyed his sermon very much today. Now, I know it is too far for one to walk from Elk Spur to Rocky Ford and back, and I am afraid if some arrangement is not made, Brother Ledbetter will leave us. I wish that he could be supplied with some way of conveyance. I have walked from the two Churches and it is an undertaking and a tiresome trip. We are trying to do our best for the people here as servants of God and ask your interest and prayers in the mountain work.

Yours sincerely,
MRS. ELSIE BRAY.

Cana, Va.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY OFFERINGS FOR NOVEMBER.

Henderson, N. C.	$ 4.57
First Church, Winchester, Va.	4.54
High Point, N. C.	5.75
Bethlehem, Braodway, Va.	2.47
Liberty, N. C.	1.81
Bethlehem (Nansemond), Suffolk, Va.	3.55
First Church, Richmond, Va.	5.00

Oakland, Chuckatuck, Va.	5.00
Mt. Auburn, Manson, N. C.	2.00
Ocean View, Va.	2.02
Sanford, N. C.	6.65
Shallow Ford, Elon College, N. C.	2.04
Webster Community Church, Havre de Grace Linville, Harrisonburg, Va.	7.18
First Church, Suffolk, Va.	12.00
Park's Cross Roads, Ramseur, N. C.	1.57
Wadley, Ala.	1.57
Hobson, Va.	1.00
Vanceville, Ga.	1.36
Union (Surry), Dendron, Va.	3.00
Graham, N. C.	2.03
Zion, Moncure, N. C.	1.75
South Norfolk, Va.	4.95
South Norfolk, Va.	6.03
South Norfolk, Va.	6.25
South Norfolk, Va.	6.34
Pleasant Grove, News Ferry, Va.	6.86
First Church, Greensboro, N. C.	14.77
United Church, Lynchburg, Va.	17.69
Leaksville, Luray, Va.	2.76
Ether, N. C.	3.63
Pleasant Ridge, Ramseur, N. C.	2.05
Oakland, Chuckatuck, Va.	5.00
Newport News, Va.	12.60
Park's Cross Roads, Ramseur, N. C.	1.00
Wake Chapel, Fuquay Springs, N. C.	5.53
Berea (Nansemond), Driver, Va.	6.00
Rose Hill, Columbus, Ga.	1.60
Pleasant Hill, Liberty, N. C.	2.25
Berea (Norfolk), Hickory, Va.	13.25
Liberty (Vance), Henderson, N. C.	7.42
Providence Memorial, Graham, N. C.	3.71
Mt. Zion, Mebane, N. C.	1.74
Happy Home, Ruffin, N. C.	1.00
First Church, Winchester, Va.	8.00
Bethlehem, Suffolk, Va.	2.05
Philathea Class, Elon College, N. C.	1.00
Rosemont, So. Norfolk, Va.	12.90
Wentworth, McCullers, N. C.	4.00
Dry Run, Seven Fountains, Va.	2.73
Turner's Chapel, Sanford, N. C.	1.25
Elm Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.	3.11
Randleman, N. C.	3.37
Durham, N. C.	14.20
Total amount	$271.17

We are very grateful to the Sunday Schools named above for their liberal offering in November, and we are happy to include some schools not heretofore reported in the list of those making the once-a-month offering to missions. There are quite a few schools in the Convention who do not yet make a once-a-month offering to missions, but it is devoutly hoped and believed that all our schools will come to rejoice one day to take it regularly and send it in promptly. The co-operation and liberality thus far manifested in behalf of our mission work on the part of our Sunday Schools are constant sources of inspiration and encouragement.

We are also grateful for the other sums which have been sent in to forward the work of missions for the Master.

S. S. regular	$ 271.17
Individuals	19.00
Specials	75.98
N. C. & Va. Conference	405.00
Woman's Board, home missions	2,494.18
Woman's Board, foreign missions	2,619.78
Total collection	$5,885.11
Amount check to R. W. Malone	5,885.11

Respectfully submitted,
Dec. 4, 1926. J. O. ATKINSON,
Elon College, N. C. Mission Secretary.

CONFERENCE MEET.

The North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference held its annual session with New Lebanon Christian Church, Rockingham County, N. C., November 16, 17, 18, 1926. There are thirty-seven Churches included in the Conference, thirty-six of these made report to Conference. New Hope Christian Church failed to make report. Twenty-eight Churches were represented by one or more delegates. Several Churches had their full quota of delegates. There were thirty ordained ministers on the Conference roll, twenty of whom are present. Two were kept away by sickness, and five were in the seminaries, or holding positions taking them too far away to make attendance possible.

Last year the Churches reported 6,069 members on their rolls. This year the total membership reported was shown as 6,185, giving a net gain of 116. Four of the Churches reported their membership as exactly the same as last year. Twenty-one Churches reported a net gain in membership, while eleven showed actual losses in numerical strength. The actual additions on profession of faith were 254. Only three Churches reporting had no conversions within their ranks during the past year. Death claimed 44. The significant fact in connection with the figures on membership is that within the bounds of this Conference we averaged only one convert to Jesus Christ for every twenty-four members enlisted in our ranks. There can be no more eloquent plea for the need of more evangelistic efforts within our border than the above figures.

The Churches raised on Conference apportionments $3,824.49 as against $3,544.09 raised last year. Seventeen Churches sent to Conference the entire amount apportioned to them. Fifteen Churches sent a part of their apportionments, and five sent nothing at all. Special mission offerings were reported as amounting to $3,611.85, with $2,035.80 reported as being raised for the Orphanage.

The Churches paid $17,414.42 in pastors' salaries, averaging $483.73 paid for pastoral services. The total amount reported as raised by the Churches for all purposes was $48,828.70. This gives a per capita average of $7.92. From a careful study of the Church letters, one is quite sure that these figures do not represent the actual giving through the regularly organized channels of the Church. A few Churches submit reports that contain accurate figures for the Church and all its auxiliary organizations. Others report only the amounts actually handled by the Church treasurer. While other reports are apparently made from memory, and contain only those items concerning which the Conference is expected to have a direct interest. There is an urgent need for a more accurate system of accounting for Church finances; and the exercise of greater care on the part of Church secretaries to see that their reports actually do justice to the liberality of the members of their Churches.

The Conference approved the increased budget adopted by the Southern Christian Convention setting the amount to be raised through Conference apportionments at $8,250. This amount was distributed among the Churches and the Churches urged to make every effort possible to attain their amount which was set as a goal. The Conference also approved the general benevolence budget of the Southern Christian Convention, which allots $30,000 to this Conference and distributed this amount to the Churches. This amount seems large, but when account is taken of the gifts by individuals for the enterprises that share in this budget, and for which the local Church has not received credit, it will be found that many Churches have been doing almost as much as they are now called upon to do. The only difference being that the gifts being made direct by individuals, the Churches had no idea of how much was being given by their membership. The trouble with most Churches of the Christian denomination is that they under-rate their ability, and cripple their usefulness by failing to adopt a program that is a challenge to every member to consecrate his best service.

A fine spirit of Christian fellowship pervaded every session of the Conference. Those who appeared on the program showed that they had taken their assignments with due seriousness and had made thoughtful preparation to discharge their full duty. The entire session was pleasant, inspiring, and spiritual. The good people of New Lebanon Church provided hospitably, bountifully, and graciously for the entertainment of the Conference; and actually extended the Conference a rising vote of thanks for the privilege. To share in such delightful fellowship makes one "Thank God and take courage."

STANLEY C. HARRELL, Sec'y.

HAVRE DE GRACE CONFERENCE.

The one hundred and sixth session of the Eastern Virginia Conference, which was held at the Webster Christian Church, convened with an address of welcome by Rev. Richard W. Sutcliffe, who was at that time formally received into the Conference. During the evening a pageant was given by the ladies entitled "Aunt Tilly Learns to Tithe." Miss Sara Macklem was a great success as Aunt Tilly. It was such a success that they had the ladies repeat it. The ministers insisted that this pageant be shown in their respective Churches.

The response of welcome was given by Rev. J. G. Truitt, of Norfolk, Va., a very fluent speaker, his subject being "The Genius of the Christian Church." He divided his subject into three parts, why the Christian Church was started and how it is working today. They were: legislation, segregation and association. The finest and most impressive address given during the whole Conference was by Dr. L. E. Smith, President of the Southern Convention. His subject was "The Christian Road to the Cross."

Dr. Roy C. Helfenstein, of People's Church, Dover, Del., gave an address on "Christian Leadership of our Day." It was a most powerful address on encouraging our young men and women to go out in the world to work for our Lord and Saviour.

There were 112 ministers and delegates attending the Conference, coming from Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland and Delaware. They were entertained at many of the homes of the parishoners, and also at many homes in the neighborhood, which was much appreciated by the Webster Church, showing their spirit of brotherly love for their neighbors. Lunch and dinner were served each day by the ladies of the Church. At the last session, the report of the committee on resolutions was adopted, as follows:

Resolved, That, as delegates of the one hundred and sixth session of the Eastern Virginia Conference, we express by a rising vote of thanks our sincere appreciation of the perfectly splendid manner in which the pastor and friends of the Webster Christian Church have entertained this Conference.

2. That the pastor, Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe, and his congregation are to be heartily commended for the great work they have accomplished in building one of the best rural Churches in the Conference because of their interest and response to the various denominational enterprises.

3. That we heartily thank the ladies who so efficiently served the meals in the Church dining-room, and we likewise thank all those who assisted in the music during the Conference session.

The Conference adjourned on Thursday afternoon, the visitors returned home, leaving with us a hearty welcome to attend the next session of this Conference, which will meet next year at Norfolk, Va. They were delighted with the hospitality and beautiful scenery of Harford County surrounding Webster, and many of them attended the Sesqui-Centennial before returning to their homes. The members of Webster Church feel that this Conference was a great help to them in many ways, and that it has better fitted them to carry on the work of this particular Church. They also feel that their minister, Rev. Milton W. Sutcliffe, deserves great credit to be able to succeed in having the Conference meet in this Church, as it is very unusual for them to meet in a rural Church. —Democratic Ledger, Havre de Grace, Md.

Never once since the world began
Has the sun ever once stopped shining.
His face very often we could not see,
And we grumbled at his inconstancy;
But the clouds were really to blame, not he,
For behind them he was shining.

And so behind life's darkest clouds
God's love is always shining.
We veil it at times with our faithless fears,
And darken our sight with our foolish tears;
But in time the atmosphere always clears—
For His love is always shining.

—Oxenham.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

These Pens are of standard make, and will give good service. If you are in need of a Fountain Pen, order from us.
 MEN'S PENS $2.00
 LADIES' PENS $2.00
 aid, and Pens guaranteed by the manufacturer.

—To a new subscriber, or for renewal (if not in arrears), $3.25, either Gentleman's or Lady's Pen, with guarantee of manufacturer. Address
 THE CHRISTIAN SUN,
 1536 EAST BROAD STREET,
 RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

REV. J. H. LIGHTBOURNE, D. D., Chairman Board Christian Education.

MISS PATTIE COGHILL, Field Secretary.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NOTES.

The statistical tables that follow are an analytical study of the report of the treasurer of the Board of Religious Education for the last biennium. They are given, that we might make an intelligent study of the problem of financing the board. The tables so group the revenue of the board as to reveal the sources of income for the two-year period. This grouping is done to direct attention to the situation, that we might also propose a solution.

TABLE No. 1.

Miscellaneous Sources of Income.

Total receipts of the board for 2-yr. period	$3,639.56
Elon advertising	$ 100.00
Men and Millions.....	513.00
Children's Day	163.10
Christian Education offerings....	331.97
Note	100.00
	<hr/>
	$1,573.41

TABLE No. 2.

From Eastern Virginia.

S. S. & C. E. Convention.....	$1,000.00
Conference	250.00
*Dover Church	25.00
*Bethlehem Church	8.28
*Rosemont Church	12.50
*Richmond Church	19.26
	<hr/>
	1,315.04

TABLE No. 3.

From Other Conferences.

Valley S. S. & C. E. Convention..	$ 100.00
Geo. & Ala. S. S. & C. E. Con....	99.59
N. C. S. S. & C. E. Convention..	198.14
E. N. C. S. S. & C. E. Convention	96.78
W. N. C. Conference	100.00
N. C. & Va. Conference.....	150.00
*Noon Day Church	4.15
*Lowell Church	2.45
	<hr/>
	751.11
	<hr/>
	$3,639.56

*Offerings from Churches to expense of field secretary.

Of the funds received, as reported in table 1, $697.31 were received through special offerings for the Department of Christian Education of the General Convention. It is also discovered $513 were received from Men and Millions, a source now closed. Tables 2 and 3 disclose that the Eastern Virginia Churches gave through the Educational Convention, the Conference, and expense offerings by Churches $1,315.04; while all of the other Churches of the Southern Convention gave through the Educational Conventions, the Conference, and special expense offerings $751.11. It is to be observed that no distribution to Conferences is made of Men and Millions or educational offering funds.

Being in a position to know rather intimately the feeling in the Eastern Virginia Churches* regarding this matter, the writer can state it is one of challenge to the Churches of the other Conferences of the Southern Convention. It is a challenge to co-operation in the support of the board and to the end that the work of Christian education might be promoted in the Convention and through the efforts largely of a field worker giving full time to the task.

To this end, we offer table 4. Table 4 will re-

(Continued on Page 15.)

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORM SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Sunday, December 26, 1926.

(Used instead of the regular review lesson of the International Uniform System)

CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP.

LESSON: Matt. 7:21-27; Luke 12:42-48.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Moreover, it is required in stewards that a man be found faithful."—1 Cor. 4:2.

"Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father who is in heaven." Membership in the kingdom of heaven is not a matter of mere words, or profession, be the words ever so emphatic or the profession ever so loud. Membership in the kingdom of heaven is a matter of doing God's will. A man cannot enter therein unless he have a certain attitude of mind, a certain quality of life, a certain spirit of obedience. Some one has said that one of the surprising things in heaven will be to see some folk there whom we did not expect there, and not to see some folk there whom we thought would be there. Let every man take heed unto himself as to both his secret life and his outward acts. Jesus intimates that a man may even be a prophet and a worker of mighty works, and still not be in the kingdom. This truth needs to become a stirring conviction in the lives of professing Christians, so that their religious life may become more than meaningless words of praise and sentimental professions.

"Every one that heareth these words of mine and doeth them." Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only. One of the most radical and far-reaching principles of modern education is that we learn to do by doing. We accept this principle in the other realms of life and apply it in a hundred ways, but we all too often overlook it or defy it in our religious life. The way to learn to pray is to pray. The way to have faith in God is to use what faith we have. The way to develop our religious life is to do the things we know we ought to do. Information is good. Impression is necessary. But information should lead to participation, and impression is deepened by expression. The Sunday School is more than a Bible School. It ought to be a place where the members not only learn about the Bible and God, but it ought to furnish opportunity for putting into practice the things we learn. It is not enough to go to Church worship—one must give himself in Church service. Church worship ends on Sunday—Church service begins on Monday. The man who is a doer as well as a hearer of the word is a wise man; he is building on a solid foundation. His information will become a part of himself. His religious life will have reality.

"Who, then, is that faithful and wise steward?" He is that man who has such a deep sense of personal responsibility of all that he has and is, his material possessions, his influence, his ability in every line, his power, his time, his energy, his mind, his affections, his life, that he holds them all in stewardship for Jesus Christ. The Church of God needs at least one great revival—a revival of stewardship. Let every man accept the principle of stewardship in its comprehensive meaning, and the kingdom of God will come with power. We are not our own; we are bought with a price. The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof. It is the Lord God that giveth us power to get wealth. In Him we live and move and have our being. Render an account of our stewardship.

"Unto whomsoever much is given of him will much be required." Some men have more than others. Some men are greater than others. But these things are not to brag over. Let every man who enjoys superior advantages or opportunities remember Jesus' words that to whom much is given, of him will much be required, every man according to his ability.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

January 26, 1926.

TOPIC: "The Past Year—Its Lessons. The New Year—Its Possibilities."—Deut. 8:1-6; Phil. 3:13-14.

Some Bible Hints.

No life is all clear sailing. God "suffers us to hunger" for things we cannot attain, that we may look to Him for them (v. 3).

The trials of life are disciplinary. They have a meaning which we may learn, if we have patience (v. 5).

We ponder on the past to learn its lessons, not to be cowed by it. It should be forgotten when the lesson is learned (v. 13).

The best things are always ahead of us; should be, because our capacity grows with the years (v. 14).

Suggestive Thoughts.

Life should teach us how not to do things as well as how to do them. Hence, failure is valuable; it is the road to success.

Have we learned more self-control? Blazing anger consumes and hurts both ourselves and others. Have we the secret of subduing our spirits?

We should grow in the coming year, intellectually, through our reading and thinking, spiritually, through our meditation and worship. What can we do to assure these results?

Let us begin the year by asking God not to bless "our work," but "His work." True advancement is possible only as we do God's work, and see it as His, not ours.

A Few Illustrations.

The Bourbons are said never to have learned from experience. They made the same mistakes over and over again—the mark of a fool.

No matter what mistakes we have made, we can come back. If one season is barren, the next may be a rich year. Never lose hope.

Our life is like a great field. It is springtime. What is going to grow in that field this year? What we plant. We must make the decision and do the work.

For the Christian, the greatest possibility of any year is to become more like Christ in it. We are sculptors of our character, Christ being the Model.

To Think About.

What lesson has the past year taught us?

What goal have we set for the new year?

How may we learn from the mistakes of others?

A Cluster of Quotations.

Everybody must learn. We know nothing when we come into the world. But do we learn because we must or because we want to learn?—D. R. Letts.

The Beatitudes are sign-posts on the road of life. Their directions are to be followed. Jesus lived according to them, and so should we.—Dr. John W. Day.

We bear sealed orders o'er life's weltered sea,

Our haven dim and far;

We can but man the helm right cheerily,

Steer by the Brightest Star.

—Richard Burton.

Y. P. MISSIONARY SOCIETIES.

Just a line or two about our Young People's Missionary Societies in the Valley of Virginia. We have nine Societies—Antocih, Bethlehem, Concord, New Hope, Mt. Olivet (R), Winchester, Timber Ridge, Mt. Olivet (G), and Linville. The second last named was organized by Mrs. W. T. Walters, who recently moved with her husband to take work in the Valley Conference.

Linville was just recently organized by Miss Showalter, our president. We found here seventy girls, most of them high school girls; also two fine young men who recently graduated from high school. I am looking forward with pleasure and deep interest, that great and lasting good may come from these bright girls and boys. Let the Church people be much in prayer for these dear young people.

New Hope was just organized a few months back, with only five young, bright girls. They have twelve members now. When I organized these young people, not one of them could pray in public. Now all five of them pray, and they want every member to be a praying member. I firmly believe that these young people are consecrated, and this society will do much good toward the mission cause in the future.

A few weeks back, they held their monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Spitzer. After a short program they held their social hour. I was present and enjoyed every minute of my stay. About thirty-five were present. Many thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Spitzer for helping to encourage those fine young people.

In every one of these societies we find some fine material for the Lord's work. Our young people live, some of them, quite a distance from Church, especially the Timber Ridge folks, but they go over rough roads and hold their meetings monthly.

Let every society try and have a mission study class. If you cannot, please get the mission study books and read them. Pray, work and give, and the mission cause will move on. Send all funds by the first of the month, if possible—October, January, April and July.

Winchester was the only society that sent funds in October. Now, let us all do better next time. Mrs. Boyd Richards, Winchester, Va., is the new treasurer.

MRS. A. W. ANDES, Supt.

Harrisonburg, Va.

DOLL "MESSENGERS."

American "Doll Messengers of Friendship" will be received in Japan with all honors, according to a message received by Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, secretary of the Commission on International Justice and Good Will of the Federal Council of Churches. The word comes through Ambassador Matsudaira from the Japanese government.

Some months ago the Committee on World Friendship among Children conceived the plan for American young people to send thousands of doll messengers of friendship to take part in the Japanese Festival of Dolls on March 3rd. At that time the families bring out treasured dolls, and for three days the little girls celebrate the festival in honor of home training and household work.

The plan of sending the doll messengers was enthusiastically received by educational leaders of this country, according to Dr. Gulick, and thousands of groups have secured passports, made reservations and are now dressing dolls. In order to make sure that a courteous welcome awaited the dolls, the matter was taken up with the Japanese foreign office through Ambassador Matsudaira. Word has come that not only will the dolls be welcome, but they will be admitted free of import duties, which amount to one hundred per cent on dolls.

In addition, the Japanese department of education, through a special committee, will welcome the dolls and distribute them through the public schools. The advance guard of these doll messengers of friendship will sail shortly. The date for the last shipment has just been extended to January 20, 1927. The dolls will be packed in stout cases for the ocean travel. Every case will bear the name "Doll Messengers of Friendship." They will go in care of the Tokyo representative of the Committee on World Friendship among Children.

Each doll will carry its tiny passport, giving her name and the name of the child or the group that has dressed her and prepared her for her journey, and also the message of good will written by the children themselves. Most of the dolls will be given to the care of individual families and children in Japan.

For the dolls chosen to represent this country in the various States and cities, even higher honors are reserved. Within a few weeks, committees in various States will decide which dolls are to represent their States, as "Miss New York" or "Miss California." From these State dolls will be chosen "Miss America" and "Miss America, Jr." "Miss America" will be selected from dolls prepared by various high school girls throughout the country. "Miss America, Jr.," will come from the dolls prepared by elementary school children.

These world friendship dolls are already beginning to arrive in considerable numbers at the headquarters of the Committee on Friendship among Children, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York City, and all the dolls must answer to certain standards because some types of American dolls are not suited to the climate of Japan.

The Famous Oxford Teacher's Bible

A Treasure House of Biblical Information

Have you not often longed to know more about the Bible? There is an edition of the Bible that will afford you ready access to the inexhaustible riches of the peerless volume. It is the OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE. This famous edition contains scholarly, extensive, reliable and practical information that is essential to a fuller understanding of the Bible. These helps are in addition to the complete text of the authorized version of the Old and New Testaments.

Alphabetically Arranged Helps

Each has 300 double-column pages of Bible study helps of invaluable aid in understanding the Scriptures. Any subject can be found instantly because these Helps are arranged alphabetically.

Written by International Scholars

You can absolutely rely on the information given, as these helps were prepared by eminent scholars in England and America.

Beautiful Illustrations and Colored Maps

The text of the helps is embellished with 32 graphic illustrations. You will find frequent use in your studies for the Indexed Atlas of the Bible and the fifteen beautifully colored maps.

Over 50,000 References

The greatest pleasure and profit in Bible study is derived from comparing different passages with a similar meaning. Endless facilities for this are provided by the 50,000 centre column references in these OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLES.

The helps will illuminate every page of the Sacred Text and impart vivid interest and joy to your study of the Scriptures.

BLACK-FACED TYPE EDITION

Size 7¼x5x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

15 And I call upon me in th of trouble: I will deliver the thou shalt glorify me.

No. 04451—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$3.50

No. 04453—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges..... 4.35

(Weight 1 lb. 14 oz.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on Oxford India paper and only one inch thick. (Weight 13 oz.)

No. 0773x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark.....$7.75

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 05453—As No. 04453 with words of Jesus Christ in red.....6.25

Oxford India Paper Edition

No. 05453x—Same as No. 0773, with words of Jesus Christ in red..... 8.75

Bible Study with Profit

With one of these Oxford editions containing the complete text of the Old and New Testaments and the 300 double-column pages of scholarly helps you will find a new joy in Bible study. Many passages you never understood clearly will be made plain. Your Bible will become a new book to you.

These are Genuine Oxford Bibles

Remember that these Bibles bear the imprint of the famous Oxford University Press of Oxford, England, makers of Bibles since 1675. These editions are rich with additional information which reveals Bible truths to the people of today. To secure these invaluable helps, which are copyrighted and published in no other edition, be sure you obtain an OXFORD TEACHER'S BIBLE.

Secure your OXFORD BIBLE now so you can immediately enjoy the advantages and benefits to be derived by using its many valuable and intensely interesting study features found in no other edition. Your study of the scriptures with the aid of these carefully prepared helps will give you new insight, new inspiration, new understanding and a more vivid concept of the great Christian truths.

SELF PRONOUNCING EDITION

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Sizes 8½x5½x1½ inches.

Specimen of type

35 And Jê-hôu'-â-kim gave th silver and the gold to Phâr'-aôh

No. 04521—Morocco Grained Keratol, overlapping covers, round corners and red under gold edges$4.50

No. 04523—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and book-mark..... 5.50

(Weight 3 lbs.)

Oxford India Paper Edition

Same as above, but printed on the famous Oxford India paper and only 1½ inches thick. (Weight 1 lb. 10 oz.)

No. 0923x—French Morocco Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, headbands and bookmark.....$9.75

Improved Thumb Index on any style at 50 cents extra.

FAMILY ALTAR

CONDUCTED BY REV. H. E. ROUNTREE,
One of Our Chaplains in the U. S. Navy.

"Call upon me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."—Jeremiah 33: 3.

MONDAY.

GOOD TIDINGS OF GREAT JOY.

"And the angel said unto them, Be not afraid, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people; for there is born to you this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."—Luke 2:10-11.

The coming of Jesus into the world is the greatest event in history. All time is divided by it.

The whole of Christian thought hinges upon it, and the salvation of humanity dates back to it.

Luke's story of it is the most beautiful of all, and touches the hearts of men most tenderly, touching the highest inspirations of their genius. It is the celebration of this birth that this week brings us. Let every one pause at the beginning or close of each day and let his soul feel that inspiration of guidance and blessing of the season. Let him pray that the starry hosts of Christmas light may read to him the message of tomorrow's skies, which may be to rise to the noble enthusiasm and luminous hopes of the eternal verities that hold the heart-strings true to the invisible life of God.

Prayer.—Dear Father, we come to Thee this Christmas time, seeking to be filled with the true joys of the Christmas observance and Thy inspiration for the noblest life. Amen.

TUESDAY.

GOOD TIDINGS OF GREAT JOY.

It has been a long time since the message of the week was first proclaimed, but its glory increases. Each one of us is called upon to catch the true tones and message of the season and become God-sent messengers ourselves to herald the good news to the world. Let each of us ask ourselves, honestly, how much can we swell the volume of it? How much can we add to His power in the world? Can we do a part of belting the globe with the grand charming angelic chorus, "Joy to the world, the Lord has come."

Prayer.—Our Father, and our Saviour, this is the second day of our thoughts of Christ's birth and what He means to us and the world. Make it the second day of our dedication to Thee and make us heralds of the good tidings to the world, that the message of the season may cheer the cheerless, and bless all in a way that they may acknowledge Thee in all their ways. Amen.

WEDNESDAY.

GOOD TIDINGS OF GREAT JOY.

It was not to the learned, the great, nor the wealthy that the message first came, but to a group of humble shepherds. Do you ask why? Is it not true that the former in all ages have had their minds taken up with personal cares, business interest, social obligations, the din of the great world, etc., while few sounds from the mighty world ever disturbed the shepherds? They had no other cares to vex them. They had no ambitions to lure and absorb them. They passed their days in the silence of nature, and this was the veil of God.

In all ages and in nearly all instances God has chosen His special messengers out of such an environment because they were the ones who were able to hear. He has looked for men of the quiet, men of the devout and reverent spirit, touched with a sense of the mystery of things. And it is in just such manner and under the influence of just such a spirit that He calls each of us. Will we hear?

Prayer.—Our Father, as we progress in our week's devotion we see more clearly the need of quiet devotion and prayer. Center our affections on Thee. Deepen our soul life for Thee. Whatever our joys this week, may we ever remember that these days and the doings thereof represent the Good Shepherd giving His life for the sheep. Amen.

THURSDAY.

GOOD TIDINGS.

How simply the appearance of the angel is told. The evangelist tells it as if it were the most natural thing ever happened. The birth of Christ was to him the expected symbol of divine presence and the manifestation of Deity in man. The message now blazes not only the hillside of Bethlehem, but of every country and every hillside of the universe. And, to all, it is the highest revelation of God; it is the presence of the sanctuary; it is the companion of common lives and the sacredness of life itself; it is the glory of the Lord shining where Christ is; and thus, where it shines, there is the temple.

Prayer.—Dear Father, closer and closer we come to Thee as we contemplate the meaning of Christmas. As the day draws nigh when Christ was born, we see more and more how, like unto Thee, man is made. O draw nigh unto us in the tenderness and sweetness of Christmas time. Amen.

FRIDAY.

THE MESSAGE.

Behold, the glory of God is about to be born. There is awe in the silence of the night. For it brings us near to God and we realize that He is coming near to us. It is like goodness and greatness at their highest touching our souls. This is a day symbolizing His meeting us now, and at every turn of life's road, that He may help us when we are troubled, lift us up when we are cast down and encourage us when we are afraid. "Fear not," is the password. It is heaven's word for us. It is like His last message on earth, "Let not your heart be troubled." Christ has been spreading that word ever since, as though to say, "Art thou afraid of thy sins? Fear not, I am able to save to the uttermost; afraid of the world, the flesh and the devil? Fear not, I am Prince of this world and have overcome it. Afraid of life's uncertainties? Fear not, I have abolished death. Afraid of the perils of life? Fear not, I am the first and the last, a rock against which the gates of hell shall not prevail."

Prayer.—Dear Father, as the day of Christ's birth approaches, may we realize our relations to one another, to the Christ and to Thee. O Thou, Blessor of souls, come and dwell in our lives and develop divineness in us and make us one with Thee and humanity. In Christ's name we ask it. Amen.

SATURDAY.

"GLORY TO GOD."

"Glory to God in the highest." What illimitable regions of thought! A soul exulting in praise and also proclaiming that joy to the world. What a glorious reflection! Glory given to God is a manifestation of His own glory reflected in us and reflects back adoration. It is a glory of repairing spiritual ruin, finding spiritual loss, giving wisdom to solve the problems of sin and righteousness, endowing with judgment to convict and condemn the powers of evil, inspiring faithfulness to fulfill promises, bestowing grace to live sweetly, even-tempered, and to conduct salvation to those in need, and radiating love, as sunshine, for the ages to come. This is the message of today.

Prayer.—Our Father, we are trying to see Thy glory in Christ our Saviour, and we desire to recognize Him and His message to us in our celebrations. Inspire our souls to know the truth of His coming. Inspire our vision to see the angels. May this enable us to look at everything with a view to His glory. It is possible, make us to feel like the angels and to make His glory first in our living. May we do Thy will, that this may be possible. Thy way is the wisest and best. Teach us the truth in Thee. Forgive us of all sins and so bless us. Amen.

SUNDAY.

GLORIFYING JESUS CHRIST.

"And I am glorified in them."—John 17:1-26.

This chapter contains the wonderful prayer of Jesus for His disciples, and not for His disciples alone, but for all His children. Therefore, we should remember that Jesus here prays for us. And lifting up His eyes He said: "Father, the hour is come." The hour which was foretold by the prophets; the hour He Himself had anticipated; that hour—of sorrow and of sacrifice—was at hand.

Previously Jesus had said: "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me." Christ is not only to be preached; He is to be both preached and lived. There are many Philips today who are saying: "Show us the Father and it sufficeth us."

What is it to glorify Christ? It is to interpret Him to the world. We may glorify Christ in our conversation. Let it not be said that Christian conversation is a lost art; but, rather, let it be known that they that feared the Lord spake often one to another. There is a beautiful friendship among the children of God.

We may glorify Christ in the little things we do for one another every day. Neither a kind word, nor a cup of cold water is passed unnoticed by our Lord, if given in the right spirit. Glorify Christ in the spirit of your work!

Prayer.—By one of the parents, asking that we may be wholly consecrated, and that our lives may be "hid in Jesus," leading us to do His will and follow faithfully in His footsteps.

AT THE LORD'S SUPPER.

(Just after a visit of General Aguinaldo, Governor Samonte, while officiating at the Lord's Table, made use of this incident.)

A few days ago I was visiting with Gen. Aguinaldo in a certain home in the city of Batac. He saw an old picture on the wall. It was one of a soldier in the War of 1898. As the general gazed upon the portrait, tears came in his eyes. He was greatly moved. It was only a picture, a memory, but the emotion it stirred within him as he thought of those early patriots who risked their lives in a lost cause, was intense. Today we have a memorial of one greater soldier; we remember a Saviour; not one who fought in a lost cause, but one who fought and conquered that we may have eternal life.

Christian Orphanage

Dear Friends:

We did some good climbing this week. We had good people to push, and it made it easy. It is always easy to do a hard job if every one will do his part. We reached and passed two rungs in the ladder, and are now making our way toward the next one.

We have passed the twenty-five thousand mark for this year, and thirty thousand is our goal. We still lack $4,908.81. Let every Church put forth a little extra effort to get us up to the goal. Everybody push, and when the end of the year comes you will see us sitting up on the top rung in the ladder wiping the perspiration from our forehead. We will be happy and delighted and have a heart full of thankfulness, and you will be happy because you helped us get to the top rung in the ladder. Let everybody join hands with us in accomplishing this thing. We do not want to fail and I know you do not want to see us fail to reach it after a hard year's climbing to accomplish the undertaking. All Christmas offerings will be added to the Thanksgiving offerings. Let every Church and Sunday School take the offering and mail it in right away, so we will be sure to reach the goal. If at near the close we are still short of the goal, mail us personal checks to help us reach it.

You have always been good to us. We have always had the utmost confidence in our Church people, and we feel sure you will not fail us now. Work and pray for the success of the Thanksgiving offering, and don't forget to give.

CHAS. D. JOHNSTON,
Superintendent.

REPORT FOR DECEMBER 16, 1926.

Amount brought forward	$23,291.05
Sunday School Monthly Offerings.
N. C. & Va. Conference:
Elon College Church	5.00
Eastern Va. Conference:
Youngsville, N. C.	$ 1.00
Ocean View, Va.	6.26
Cypress Chapel	2.15
Mt. Carmel	4.39
Mt. Carmel S. S. Class 6.....	1.06
	14.86
Valley Va. Central Conference:
New Hope	$ 6.00
Dry Run	2.72
Antioch	6.00
	14.72
Georgia and Alabama Conference:
Rose Hill	1.82
Eastern N. C. Conference:
Mt. Carmel	$ 1.75
Chapel Hill	2.69
Pleasant Hill (J)	4.25
First Church, Raleigh	2.50
	11.19
Western N. C. Conference:
Turner's Chapel	$ 1.06
Providence Christian Memorial	6.59
	7.65
Special Offerings.
Woman's Board, S. C. C.	$221.23
Boon Bible Class, Sanford Church..	15.00
A Friend, Durham, N. C.	15.00
R. B. Wicker, support of child....	15.00
	266.23
New Building Fund.
J. A. Parton	$ 2.00

Miss Violet Holt	5.00
Dr. W. A. Harper	25.00
	32.00
Miscellaneous.
Cash item	6.00

Thanksgiving Offerings.

B. N. Duke, N. Y.	$500.00
Howard's Chapel Church, N. C....	3.45
Howard's Chapel S. S.	2.55
W. B. Madison and wife	10.00
Oak Grove Church, N. C.	4.00
Liberty Church, E. Va.	14.00
Plymouth Church, N. C.	15.00
Wakefield Church, E. Va.	13.88
Chapel Hill Church, N. C.	22.92
I. W. Pritchard, Chapel Hill....	5.00
Reidsville, N. C.	53.00
Dora Fox, Moffitt, N. C.	3.50
Hillside Church, La Grange, Ga...	6.00
Randleman S. S., N. C.	10.16
Belews Creek, N. C.	6.00
Belews Creek S. S. Class 2.....	5.00
Providence Memorial, Graham....	19.73
Franklin, Va.	75.00
Hope Dale Church, N. C.	7.26
Men's Bible Class, Raleigh.....	10.00
Zion Church, N. C.	28.00
Carl Berg, Burlington	5.00
Haye's Chapel Church	8.75
Timber Ridge, Val. Va. Con....	12.70
New Hope S. S., Val. Va.	7.30
First S. S., Richmond, Va.	21.19
First S. S., Richmond, Va.	100.70
North Grove Church, Ill.	6.00
Ether S. S.	26.05
Pleasant Ridge (R), N. C.	17.05
Rev. John M. Allred and wife....	10.00
Holland S. S., E. Va.	161.50
Ivor S. S., E. Va.	5.00
Union, Southampton, E. Va.	11.00
R. H. Loudermilk, Ramseur, N. C...	1.00
New Harmony, Ala.	3.00
Graces Chapel, N. C.	10.00
Ambrose, Ga.	4.06
Fuller's Chapel, N. C.	25.00
Sauford, N. C.	48.81
Union Ridge, N. C.	37.00
First Church, Raleigh	23.00
Youngsville S. S., N. C.	4.00
Youngsville Church	5.00
Pope's Chapel (additional)	2.00
Elon College Church & S. S.	44.51
W. W. Low	10.00
Dr. J. O. Atkinson and family....	15.00
Mrs. L. I. Cox	1.00
	1,440.67
Grand total	$25,091.19

PEACE.

Were half the power that fills the world with terror,
Were half the wealth bestowed on camps and courts,
Given to redeem the human mind from error,
There were no need for arsenals or forts.

The warrior's name would be a name abhorred!
And every nation that would lift again
Its hand against a brother on its forehead
Would wear forevermore the curse of Cain!

Down the dark future, through long generations,
The echoing sounds grow fainter and then cease.
And like a bell, with solemn, sweet vibrations,
I hear once more the voice of Christ say,
"Peace"!

Peace! and no longer from the brazen mortals
The blast of war's great organ shakes the skies!
But beautiful as the songs of the immortals,
The holy melodies of love arise.
—Longfellow.

COMMUNION WARE. Individual Service.

Made in best Silver Plate or Aluminum. Prices low; first-class workmanship and finish.

ALUMINUM.

Aluminum is light in weight, durable, and does not tarnish.

Style No. 50-A.

Tray No. 2—Interlocking, with 40 plain glasses	$7.00
Tray No. 6—Interlocking, with 35 plain glasses	6.75
Tray No. 10—Interlockink, with 30 plain glasses	6.50
Base No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Cover No. 50-A—Fits Trays 2, 6, or 10.....	2.25
Bread Plate No. 1—Narrow rim.....	1.60
No. 2—Broad rim	1.60

SILVER-PLATE.

The Silver-plated ware is of the very lightest grade and best finish; heavily plated on nickel base.

Style No. 85.

Tray No. 85—Interlocking only, with 36 glasses	$22.00
Base No. 1—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray No. 85	11.00
Cover No. 5—Silver-plate; fits Tray No. 85...	16.00

(For Silver Bread Plates, see under No. 90.)

Style No. 90.

Tray No. 90—Interlocking, with 36 plain glasses (this style has broad rim, which is sometimes preferred, due to increased ease of handling).	$22.00
Base No. 2—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	16.00
Cover No. 4—Silver-plate; fits Silver Tray 90..	14.00

Bread Plate No. 3—Narrow rim.....	9.00
No. 4—Broad rim	9.00
Filler—Silver lined	6.00

Send Order to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.
1536 E. Broad St., - - - Richmond Va.

Kiddies' Korner

MADGE MOFFITT WHITESELL, Editor.

Dear Christmas Fairies:

Just a few more days till Christmas! We must all get ready for a new Christmas Day. Oh! oh! how wonderful is Christmas! Every one is always so happy—and, just think, we each one are the cause of this, too, for we try and try and try to get just what we think our mothers and fathers, and sisters and brothers would like best. Then we wrap it in lovely red and green paper—that tells them we are happy to send such a lovely package—and oh! oh! what shiney faces! and what a lot o' love is turned loose when we open all these beautiful pink-ribbony Christmas packages.

And, best of all, it's all to honor Jesus. Every tiny dolly; every round, round drum; every white package we send our Orphanage Kiddies—it's all to honor Jesus that we send them.

Watch out next week: a story of the "First Christmas" is coming, and you will like it a lot, too.

Long, long ago a little Child
Came to our world to be
A holy gift, with God's true love,

To every child like me.
This little Child of God came down
To show the world a way
To give some joy to every one
On Merry Christmas Day.

Help me to be a child who makes a Merry Christmas for all I know. Will each Kiddie try to make this a real wish—and then try, and your wish will come true.

Good-by, and love to all our "Good-Wish" Kiddies.

MADGE MOFFITT WHITESELL.

THE GIFTS.

By Jeannie Pendleton Hall.

The little Jesus dropped the glistening things
(The place smelled sweet of frankincense and myrrh),

And Mary pressed her darling close to her.

It seemed so very strange!

Like any other baby's were the rings
Of soft damp hair upon his tiny head,
And yet—those Three, the stately camel-tread,
The Star that did not change!

She hid the Magi-gifts half tenderly,
Half jealously, for Joseph in distress
Groaned of their splendor and their uselessness
And would have proffered them
Back to their givers, could such rudeness be.
But they were gone; the rested camels sped
Busily eastward now, and rumor said
Not by Jerusalem.

The warning came, "To Egypt!" and within
Her simple bundle Mary stowed the gifts
(They scented it like apple-blossom drifts
In May), but Joseph frowned.

"I fear it is a menace, half a sin,
To lode the beast," saith he, "with things so rare.
When shall our Sonling need that incense there?"
Saith she, "When He is crowned."

Where were the gifts those three sharp, crowded years
'Twixt wilderness and Calvary? Mayhap
His mother kept them; sometimes would unwrap

The covering and behold
The well-saved treasures through her lonesome tears:
The little censer, deftly wrought and filed,
Worthy a prince, delightful to a child,
The myrrh, the yellow gold.

Where now? Were they caught heavenward, glowing, hung
As was the Holy Grail that none might see
Except the knight of stainless purity?
No matter! Far away
The winds of centuries the shards have flung
Of larger trophies, but these centuries keep
The Magi-thought, and while the Cæsars sleep
Our hearts give gifts today.

WHY BIRDS DON'T FALL OFF THEIR PERCH.

You may have wondered sometimes how a bird can go to sleep and still stay perched on a limb. The claws of the bird are so made that when the legs are bent just right, the tendon or ligament of the claw tightens as the bird's weight is thrown on it. The heavier the weight, the tighter gets the claw. So, when the bird goes to sleep and its full weight is thrown on the legs, the claws tighten around the twig, and the bird is held tight as if clamped there.

Subscribe to THE CHRISTIAN SUN.

ELON COLLEGE

CO-EDUCATIONAL

MOONEY CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BUILDING, ELON COLLEGE
(Dedicated Sunday, October 3, 1926)

IN CHRISTIAN EDUCATION, the Christian Church and Elon College have taken the lead.

The above building, dedicated to leadership training, is one of the finest laboratories of Christian Education to be found anywhere. It is the only building of its kind on any college campus in America, but is destined to be the forerunner of a new field of education in many American colleges.

IN LEADERSHIP TRAINING, Elon College has been the first to strike out boldly in this field.

Elon gives courses in Religious Education and Leadership Training, along with laboratory experience that can be gotten in no other institution of higher learning. Those students who complete the four-year course in this work at Elon are given advanced standing at the graduate seminaries. In this way, a year can be gained in their preparation for those who expect to pursue their studies through to seminary courses.

For souvenir "Christian Education Bulletin," giving complete description of this Building and its work at Elon College, and for complete Catalogue of Courses, address

C. M. CANNON, Registrar, Elon College, N. C.

"Christian Character First and Always at Elon College."

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NOTES.

(Continued from Page 10.)

veal the income the board would realize from the Educational Conventions alone if all the Educational Conventions would adopt the financial program of the Convention of the Eastern Virginia Conference. This financial program would call for the payment into the treasury of the Educational Conventions the sum of fifteen cents (15c) per Sunday School scholar and Christian Endeavor member by the constituent Churches.

became a part of it. I cannot get along without them. I have long wanted more of my brethren of the Southern Convention to have both in their homes, so that they may be fully acquainted with the work of our whole Church. We have great people in every section of our brotherhood who are doing splendid things for Christ and our Church. We should know about them, pray for them, co-operate with them. Our brethren in Alabama and Nebraska should know our people in

New Hampshire. Our brethren in North Carolina and Massachusetts should know our work in Illinois. Our members in Virginia and Canada should know the plans of Indiana and New York. I urge my brethren of the Southern Convention territory to avail themselves of this opportunity at any sacrifice to have both of these beloved papers of our Church in their homes from this time on. We need the matter they both contain.

WARREN H. DENTSON.

TABLE No. 4.

Convention.	Enroll-ment.	Dues.	Receipts.	75 P. C. of Receipts.
Val. Va. . . .	+2,150	.15	$ 322.50	$ §241.00
Alabama . . .	+2,006	.15	300.90	225.00
Geo. & Ala. . .	+1,356	.15	203.40	152.00
N. C. & Va. . .	+4,000	.15	600.00	450.00
W. N. Car. . .	+2,935	.15	440.25	330.00
E. N. Car. . .	+3,485	.15	522.75	392.00
Ea. Va. . . .	+7,446	.15	1,116.90	837.00
Totals	23,378	.15	$3,506.70	$2,627.00

*For five years executive secretary of Educational Convention.

†“Annual” of 1925.

‡“Handbook” of 1925.

§Discrepancy due to even dollars.

It is apparent such a program would provide the board with a larger income annually than it has previously received from all sources. And it does not appear to the writer an impracticable program. If the Educational Conventions would adopt it, the Conferences continue to make annual grants, and the annual offering realize a just and fair proportion, then the Board of Christian Education would be in a position to render the cause of Christian education in the Churches of the Southern Christian Convention a real service.

J. H. LIGHTBOURNE,
Chairman of Board.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I am a member of the Southern Convention and deeply interested in it and all its work and membership. I rejoice that arrangements have been entered into whereby my friends in that Convention may have both THE CHRISTIAN SUN and the Herald of Gospel Liberty at a special rate. I take both, and have for many years—a long time before I worked in the Southern Convention or

On the Southern there is in effect a bonus-payment system through which the employees engaged in train operations may share the benefits of economies due to their efforts.

Ask a SOUTHERN RAILWAY man

THE 60,000 men and women workers on the Southern Railway System know that their welfare is bound up with that of the Southern—and that whatever benefits the Southern and the South benefits them.

Southern Railway men and women are business getters for the Southern. Talk to a Southern Railway man about your transportation requirements. He has behind him the support of his fellow-employees and of the management. If he does not have the information you desire, he will get it for you.

Southern Railway employees are bred and trained in the traditions of the South and of the Southern. They have the desire and ability to maintain those traditions.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The Southern serves the South

Select Notes

By AMOS R. WELLS, Litt. D., LL. D.

The World's Greatest Sunday School Commentary for 1927

We recommend it

BECAUSE Millions use it weekly for help, guidance and inspiration. For fifty-two years new friends have learned its value—old ones have considered it indispensable.

BECAUSE Its wealth of material gives a solid foundation for the spiritual and inspirational interpretation of special themes. It is complete with maps, bibliography, teaching methods and abundant illustrations.

84 pages, $2.00 delivered at all booksellers

W. A. WIEDE COMPANY
131 Clarendon Street, Boston, Mass.

The Christian Sun

Established 1844 by Rev. Daniel W. Kerr

A Religious Weekly for the Home, devoted to the interests of the Kingdom, as represented by the Christian Church.

BORAD OF EDITORS:

- J. O. ATKINSON, D. D. Editor
- W. W. STALEY, D. D. Associate
- W. A. HARPER, LL. D. Associate
- REV. S. C. HARRELL. Associate
- REV. C. HELFENSTEIN, D. D. Associate
- REV. S. M. LYNAM. News Editor
- P. J. KERNODLE. Managing Editor

Subscription Rates:

- One Year $ 2.00
- Six Months 1.00

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-Office at Richmond, Va., July 25, 1922, under Act of March 3, 1879.

Receipts: The change of label is your receipt for money paid. The label shows the date of expiration. Change in the label will appear on wrapper the first week of month following renewal, provided it is received before the 25th.

Change of Address: Give both old and new address when asking that your address be changed.

When subscriptions are made for friends, state whether paper is to be stopped at end of the year.

Remittances: Make all remittances for subscriptions and renewals to "Editor Christian Sun," Elon College, N. C.

Remittances for advertising and other business matters will be addressed to the "Managing Editor," 1536 E. Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

Notices: Obituary and Marriage notices, limited to 100 words, are published free of charge. All over 100 words, at 1 cent a word. Remittance should accompany copy. Write names distinctly.

Advertising Rates: "Want Ads," 2 cents a word an insertion. Display rates quoted upon request.

PEELE.

The village of Elon College was saddened last Monday when the news came that Marvin Peele, one of the popular and loved young men in our community, was accidentally shot while hunting, preparing to send a Thanksgiving surprise to his brothers. This was characteristic of him, full of cheer and sunshine, finding his highest pleasure in doing kindly and to make others happy. He was rushed to the hospital, but died before reaching it. His funeral was in the college auditorium, in the presence of a large audience, conducted by his pastor, Dr. W. S. Alexander, and Dr. J. U. Newman, a life-long friend of the family, and interment in Magnolia Cemetery, at Elon, beside his father, who died nearly eleven years ago.

He was a member of the Elon Christian Church, the Elon graded school, and the Boy Scouts. Many and beautiful floral tributes came from personal friends, benevolent and religious organizations, college students, and from the graded school. His special friends in the village acted as pallbearers, and young lady members of his grade as flower girls. Born March 1, 1909, he died November 22, 1926, leaving a mother, Mrs. C. C. Peele, and five brothers, of Sarasota, Fla.; Prof. Claudius Peele, superintendent of city schools, and Henry and Samuel, Charles and Clifton, of Washington.

LILLY.

On the 5th of November, 1926, the Gardner of heaven plucked a beautiful flower from the earthly garden to be transplanted in the garden of God. It was a Lilly that He plucked (Mary Lilly) and that from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnson, near Lillington, N. C., members of Pleasant Union Christian Church.

Mary Lilly was a sweet young girl of 9 years of age, full of life and promise. She had many friends among the girls, and even the older people loved her much because of her bright, beautiful and sunny nature. She was sick only about a week, and her seeming untimely death brought sorrow to many hearts and spread a gloom over the home of her parents that they have not heretofore felt, and their hearts are deeply grieved.

The little body was laid to rest in the Pleasant Union Cemetery beneath a mound of beautiful flowers. The services were conducted by Dr. J. A. Campbell, of Bouies Creek, assisted by Rev. Mr. Menius, of the Presbyterian Church at Lillington. May the grace of God rest upon and comfort the saddened hearts.

J. LEE JOHNSON.

OXFORD TEACHERS' BIBLES

An Oxford Teachers' Bible has references and 300 pages of helps that are a mine of information to Bible students. The helps are arranged in alphabetical order, like a dictionary. They are accurate, comprehensive and up-to-date. A few styles are listed here. Many others are described in our Bible catalogue, mailed upon request.

04403 [This size print] Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 6 3/4 x 4 3/4 inches $4.00

0623x [Same Bible as 04403] Printed on Oxford India paper. Only 1 inch thick. $6.00

04453 [This size print] French Morocco leather binding, overlapping covers, 7 1/4 x 5 in. $4.35

0773x [Same Bible as 04453] Printed on Oxford India paper. A remarkably thin and light Bible. (Only 1 inch thick) $7.75

05453 [Same Bible as 04453] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $6.25

05453x [Same Bible as 0773x] With the words of Jesus Christ printed in red $8.75

0552x [This size print] A self-pronouncing Oxford Bible. Bound in French Morocco leather, overlapping covers, size 8 1/4 x 5 1/2 inches... $5.50

0923x [Same Bible as 04523] Printed on Oxford India paper, only 1 1/4 inches thick... $9.75

ORDER FROM
"THE CHRISTIAN SUN"

Richmond, Va.

VIRGINIA HOME COOKING
At Mrs. Cook's Cafeteria
Grace Street—Opposite Richmond Hotel

BETHLEHEM COLLEGE

WADLEY, ALABAMA

A JUNIOR COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

Where Opportunity Awaits the Student of Very Limited Means.

GIRL'S DORMITORY.

$68.00 pays all College expenses except books, board and room. $25.00 pays all expenses for High School work, for the entire school term of nine months.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Dollar will be in charge of the modern Girl's Dormitory this school year. Cost of board will be $15.00 per month and room rent $25 to $30 per school year. Men and boys can obtain board at the same rates in the town.

School opens August 30, 1926. Wanted a sufficient number of girls to fill the dormitory. Send in $2.00 at once to reserve room.

For further information, address
THE PRESIDENT, Wadley, Alabama.

HOLMAN BIBLES

FOR CHILDREN
PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pronouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the difficult Scripture proper names.

Specimen of Type

27 And the boys grew: and Esau was a cunning hunter.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands distributed throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 9111. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles.

Our Price—Post Paid. 2.30

COLORED PICTURE EDITION
Portraying in natural colors, scenes and places taken from nature and life in the Holy Land.

No. 9211. Same as No. 9111, but with Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid. 2.40

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.

22 And the prophet Isaiah said unto himself, and mark, and for at the return of t

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid. 3.10

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLAID PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid. 3.45

Holman Self-Pronouncing VEST POCKET TESTAMENTS

Clearer Print in Smallest Size
4 3/8 x 2 3/4 x 3/8 inches

Specimen of Type.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was 2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semple Leather, flexible limp, gilt titles .60

2112. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges. .70

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included $1.10

ILLUSTRATED VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title round corners, red under gold edges .85

RED LETTER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

13RL. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold edges. .85

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of Psalms included $1.25

INDIA PAPER VEST POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with Psalms included $2.25

Send Your Orders to
THE CHRISTIAN SUN
1536 E. Broad Street
RICHMOND, - - VIRGINIA

