INTO DISCIPLESHIP

DUKE MEMORIAL UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

MINISTER'S MESSAGE

Recently my family and I had a wonderful week away at Lake Junaluska in the mountains. One day as we were riding around the grounds of Junaluska, the weather beautiful and cool, our 4½ year old Mary Beth rolled down her window as far as it would go, stuck her head out the window and said, "Wow, I can see the whole world of Junaluska!"

Her statement has stayed with me because it was not her usual pointing out of small, concrete things that she could pick up and show me. It's exciting to observe her learning how to see her world in new ways.

Her statement has stayed with me also, because it has made me realize again how thankful we can be for the ways God is always helping us see our world in new ways. We have the gift of those near to us that we can touch and who touch us with the love of God day to day. We see God in these gifts of each other, in our special places where we encounter God, and as we worship with one another.

It is in these experiences that God gives us the wonderful gift of beginning to see the whole world with new eyes. As we worship and encounter God in one another, our vision moves beyond what is around us to seeing God and the hope of God's Kingdom for the world. With this vision, we are drawn into the world in exciting and challenging ways.

Thanks be to God for the many ways we can all be learning how to see our world in new ways, especially when we look through the eyes of a child.

A Child of God,
Lisa
