

This Costly Gift of Life Half-spent

This costly gift of life is now half spent.
Thou hast entrusted me with breath and flesh.
Enable me, if time still shall remain
To plunge my muscle, bone, and heart and brain
To honor thee by serving neighbors near at hand
Whose suffering only thou canst understand.

(35th Birthday, 1966)

